Student board looks ahead

by Gail Fraser

Jerry Iverson and Leona Humphrey, two Extension students, were elected chairperson and vice chairperson of the 1975-76 Extension Classes Student Board at the annual Student Board dinner, held June 6 at the University's Campus Club.

The dinner was attended by newly-elected Extension senators and alternates, 1974-75 Board members and some Continuing Education and Extension (CEE) administrative staff members.

Harold A. Miller, Dean of CEE, spoke briefly, telling the Board that he was grateful to them for providing valuable assistance to CEE during the past year. He noted the meetings which the Board held with President Magrath and Vice President Wilderson as being especially useful and interesting experiences.

Donald Z. Woods, Associate Dean of CEE, spoke of the "aura of enthusiasm" surrounding some institutions which are discovering or acknowledging the existence of adult students for the first time. He urged the Board to participate in all plans drawn up to "help the adult students" and to remember that Extension students are not "just like the day students." They have different needs, problems, job responsibilities, work schedules, and family responsibilities.

Ted Campbell, Director of Extension Classes, pledged the staff's support to the Board in helping it fulfill its priorities. He said that the staff is aware Extension students have problems, and values the efforts of the Board toward solving them.

The new Board consists of those students who were elected during the spring election to serve as Extension Classes senators and alternates in the University Senate. Janet Donlin, Jerry Iverson, Leona Humphrey, J. Eugene May, Beverly Anderson, John M. Dignan, Robert Zohlmann, and Jose Padilla were elected senators; the alternates are Wendy Lewis, Mary Bray, John Miller, James Cotton, Richard Straumann, Terry Nordenstrom, David Jansen and Tim Niles.

In addition to the senators and alternates, any interested Extension student is eligible for appointment to the Board. The following people were appointed at the June 6 meeting: Mary Ann Froome, John Schleck, Robin Lindquist, Otto Wilczek, Randy Penrod, Roger Stern, Bob Jones, Carroll Chapin, and John Nygaard.

Professor William Rudelius, Department of Marketing and Business Law, College of Business Administration, is the

New law brings free classes to senior citizens

On June 2, Governor Anderson signed into law a bill which makes it easier than ever for senior citizens to continue their higher education.

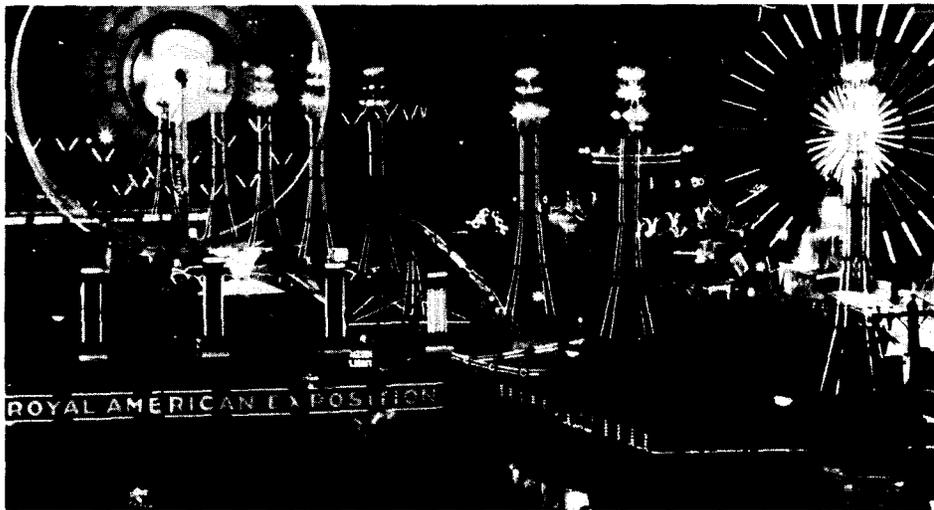

Under the new law, residents 62 or older may take, free of charge and for no credit, any class offered by a public institution of higher education. The department of Extension Classes, however, has made the minimum age 60. Anyone 60 years of age or older will be able to enroll in any Extension course for no credit without charge. For persons 62 or older, classes taken for credit will cost only $2 per credit.

The 1975-76 Bulletin designates that only certain classes are available to older people at reduced rates. The new provision, which became law after the new Extension Bulletin was printed, applies to all courses in the Bulletin but with one restriction:

The law states that senior citizens may take courses "when space is available after all tuition-paying students have been accommodated." This means that in classes where enrollment is limited, senior citizens will not immediately be guaranteed a place, but must wait until the first week of the term to register.

Those under 62 who wish to take a class for credit must pay the regular price for each course.

Persons interested in taking a limited class may wish to call 373-3933 the first week of the term to learn whether space is available in that class.

IT'S AUGUST! State Fair time and a very fair time to plan your Extension Classes program for the fall. While you're at the fairgrounds, stop by the Education Building to see the University's "Build a New You" booth which describes the options available at the University for lifelong learning in adult education. Telephone 373-3195 to request a copy of the 1975-76 Extension Classes Bulletin.

Extension Classes Student Board in session

... comments

by Theodore Campbell, Director of Extension Classes

By this time, you should have received your 1975-76 Extension Classes Bulletin. If you haven't, call 373-3195 for your copy. I'd like to draw your attention to three special programs: courses offered at neighborhood centers, informal courses, and Sampler lectures.

This fall it will be possible to take University courses at 19 different metropolitan area locations, in addition to the Minneapolis and St. Paul campuses. Courses will be offered at a number of high schools and churches, and in such centers as the WCCO Radio Building in downtown Minneapolis, St. Paul-Ramsey Hospital, and the Minnesota Landscape Arboretum. Over 35 subject areas will be represented, including such courses as "Democracy's Nightmare: Visions of Authoritarianism," "Application of Psychology to Living," and "The Meaning of Humanity: Society and Technology."

Books for classes in neighborhood centers will be available both at campus bookstores and at B. Dalton bookstores at Rosedale and Southdale shopping centers. Check the Bulletin, pages 193-205, for a complete listing of courses and locations.

Informal courses provide a new opportunity to learn more about topics of personal interest in noncompetitive settings. There are no examinations, no transcripts, no grades and no credits. Courses are varied and interesting and meet for approximately five weeks.

Among the courses offered are "Psychic Mysteries," "Woman's Role, Women's Lives," "The Dilemma of Nuclear Power," and "Family Communications: What are Your Rules?" Registration procedures, dates and locations are the same as for quarter class registrations. See pages 282-288 in the Bulletin for course listings and further details.

The University Sampler program will be expanded this fall. These special lectures are part of regular University courses which instructors open to the public for $1 each. A Sampler lecture is a chance to get a taste of University classes. Topics are chosen from many departments and have included such subjects as "Madness Across Cultures," "Understanding the Weather Map," and "The Composer's Process." Telephone 373-3039 for a current list of Sampler lectures and to register. Registration must be made in advance.

In addition to these programs, you'll find in your Bulletin several new majors and certificates, a new degree, and more than one hundred University courses not offered in Extension before.

We would be interested in your opinions and feedback on Extension Class programs. Write or call us.

If you have any questions about the ins and outs of life at the University, there's a special service to refer you to people with the answers. Just phone 373-1857 for the Dial Information Access Line. DIAL has taped information pertaining specially to adults on such matters as registration, counseling and program advising, Continuing Education for Women and Independent Study. See page 180 of the Bulletin for a complete listing of Extension topics.

Call DIAL anytime from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m., Monday through Friday, and from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. For a DIAL brochure listing all available taped information about the University, stop in at 107 Temporary North of Mines on the Minneapolis campus, or call 373-1234 and request that a brochure be mailed to you.

Don't put it off; buy your books now

With the first night of classes just a few weeks away, it's wise to shop early for textbooks — bookstores sometimes run out of required texts before all students have obtained copies.

Textbooks for every Extension class are available in campus bookstores: Nicholson and Lind Hall (formerly Main Engineering) bookstores on the East Bank, the Smith Bookstore on the West Bank and Coffey Hall bookstore on the St. Paul campus.

Beginning this fall, on a one-year trial basis as a special service to Extension students, B. Dalton Booksellers in the Rosedale and Southdale shopping centers will stock books for classes held at certain off-campus neighborhood locations.

CAMPUS BOOKSTORES

Many texts for fall quarter and semester are already available at campus bookstores. Most should be in stock by mid-September. Each bookstore has lists of course offerings and required books.

Books may be purchased before the first night of class; campus bookstores, however, have special evening hours during the first days of fall quarter and semester. The telephone numbers and hours for each campus bookstore are:

Nicholson Bookstore (373-3688; books for most departments in CLA, Education and General College — see Bulletin, page 30):

Neighborhood centers make it easy

Take a class near home

If it's inconvenient for you to drive to the Minneapolis or St. Paul campuses to take an Extension class, attend a course near your home or work at one of more than 20 neighborhood centers.

Classes are taught during the evening, afternoon, morning, and on weekends, in several churches, schools, libraries, and community centers throughout the Metropolitan area.

Persons living in St. Paul might consider classes at St. Paul-Ramsey Hospital, such as "The Law in Society," "Weather and Climate," or "General Psychology." For those who work in downtown Minneapolis, classes at the WCCO Radio Building or at the Northern States Power Building might be convenient, such as "Human Relations and Applied Organization Theory."

At Brooklyn Center High School this fall, Extension students can take "Democracy's Nightmare: Visions of Authoritarianism," or courses in accounting, anthropology, and other subject areas.

"Vocabulary Building: How to Expand Your Word Power" is one of three courses to be offered this fall at St. Stephens Church in West St. Paul. At the Minnesota Landscape Arboretum in Chaska, the fall course will be "Fundamentals of Horticulture."

Other neighborhood centers are at the following locations:

- Cambridge High School, Cambridge
- Elim Church, Robbinsdale
- Hillside Junior High, Maplewood
- Irondale High School, New Brighton
- Jewish Community Center, St. Louis Park
- Jonathan Community Center, Chaska
- Kellogg High School, Little Canada

Been out of school for a long time? Have any questions about Extension classes?

Don't forget Extension Classes' fall orientation on Thursday, September 11, at the Nolte Center Lounge on the Minneapolis campus, from 5 to 8 p.m.

During the informal coffee-talk session, professional counselors will be on hand to talk to individual students about various program areas, and a variety of University bulletins and literature will be available. A multi-media presentation about University life and tours of the campus and Wilson Library are planned.

Park free in University lot #35, 17th Ave. at 4th St. S.E. We'll babysit while you talk to an adviser. For a campus map and University parking map, telephone 376-7500.

You don't have to be an Extension student to attend. Come one, come all!

- Nicollet Junior High, Burnsville
- Ramsey High School, Roseville
- Richfield High School, Richfield
- Sandburg Junior High, Golden Valley
- Sunray Library, St. Paul
- Talmud Torah of St. Paul

See pages 193-205 in the Bulletin for a list of courses at each center and other details.

This year, on a trial basis, books for off-campus classes will be available both at campus bookstores and at the B. Dalton bookstores in the Rosedale and Southdale shopping centers. (See Bookstore article this page.) Check the "Bookstores" section of the Bulletin, page 31, for the B. Dalton store which serves the location of your class.

Also on a trial basis, there is no late registration fee for classes held at neighborhood centers until Monday of the second week of classes, with the exception of classes scheduled at Richfield Senior High, Kellogg High School, St. Paul-Ramsey Hospital, and Minnetonka High School, where normal late fees apply (see Bulletin, page 25). For registration locations and dates, see "How and When to Register" in the Bulletin, page 11.

Free course: "How to Use the Library"

Extension Classes, in cooperation with MINITEX (Minnesota Interlibrary Telecommunications Exchange), is offering a free, two-night course on how to use the library. Entitled "Everyman's Guide to the Whole Library," it's for the Extension student who needs a review of library organization, or for someone who wants a practical look at libraries.

Part I may be taken either October 15 or 16, and Part II either November 19 or 20. Both class sessions are scheduled for 7 to 9:30 p.m. For further details on the course, and information on locations and registration, call 373-4815.

Planning a schedule? See a counselor in your major area

Special meetings with counselors from various program areas will be offered during registration. All students should bring their records to meetings with counselors. Hours, dates, and locations are:

Use the DIAL system for answers to your questions

For the convenience of Extension students, a new campus-only phone has been installed in Wesbrook Hall, in the lobby outside room 138. If you need information, don't trek all around campus to have your questions answered. Just use the new campus phone to request a tape from DIAL, the Digital Access Information Line.

On campus, dial 3-1857 (off campus, 373-1857) between 8 a.m. and 11 p.m. Monday-Friday, or Saturday and Sunday between 10 a.m. and 8 p.m. Some of the tapes available have information on:

- 1400 Locations, hours of on-campus bookstores
- 2101 Program advising
- 2102 Counseling
- 2104 Extension evening classes general information
- 2106 Reduced tuition classes and $1 Sampler Lectures
- 2107 Certificate programs
- 2112 Extension fall orientation
- 2113 Extension classes in neighborhood centers
- 2114 Financial aid for Extension students

For a brochure listing all DIAL tapes drop in at 107 Temporary North of Mines on the Minneapolis campus, or call 373-1234.

All about honors

For the Extension student who is both academically skilled and highly motivated to learn beyond the scope of traditional classes, the College of Liberal Arts (CLA) Honors Program provides many special learning opportunities.

Some Honors activities, including Honors courses and colloquia, are open to all students, while other offerings, such as College Honors Seminars for Juniors and Seniors, are restricted to students in the program.

Many of the program's activities are available during late afternoons and evenings, and can include independent research and tutorial projects. A special honors curriculum can be developed for each Extension student, depending on his or her availability to participate.

Interested Extension students should call the Honors Division Office (373-5116) to talk with a staff member and to request a list of courses and opportunities for fall quarter 1975.

Now is the time to buy books for fall quarter and fall semester courses before classes begin. Be sure to read the article on this page (which begins on page 1) for information. Complete details may be found in your Extension Classes Bulletin, pages 29-31.

in short . . .

This fall, join the Extension Classes Car Pool, and get more miles to the gallon! Enough students must participate in order to make it work.

To join a pool, call 373-3195 and request a car pool application for each evening you are planning to take an Extension class. Mail the application(s) to 101 Westbrook Hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 55455 no later than September 19.

By the second week of the term you will receive a computer print-out which lists the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of students working or living near you who are interested in car-pooling. You must make your own contacts for specific arrangements.

For more information, call the University of Minnesota Transit Services Office, 373-0374. Be sure to mention that you're an Extension student.

This year, consider Extension Classes Mini-College, where students have the opportunity to become better-acquainted with their fellow students than is possible in traditional classes.

Participants in the program take four courses together during the year, two each semester. The two classes during one semester are taught on the same day of the week, and students in the Mini-College must register for both.

This year, in addition to repeating the sequence "American Values in Transition," Extension Classes will offer "Business and Economics" and "Economics and Accounting."

Any Extension Classes student can register for courses in the Mini-College. Registration materials may be obtained by calling 373-3195. For a complete description, see the Bulletin, page 166.

The former departments of Counseling and Student Personnel Psychology (CSPP) and Special Education in the College of Education are now program areas in the new department of Psychoeducational Studies. This new department is not included in the 1975-76 Bulletin. Requests for information about programs in the Department of Psychoeducational Studies may be addressed to Professor Maynard Reynolds, Chairman, 249 Burton Hall.

The name of the Department of Intramurals-Extramurals has been changed to the Recreational Sports Office.

The following course descriptions are in addition to descriptions which appear on page 245 of the Bulletin:

To acquaint students with common legal problems, course includes definition and sources of law, formation and discharge of contracts, torts (personal injury and property damage suits), criminal law, bailments, nature and classification of real and personal property, and joint ownership and tenancy.

There's more to a new course in Speech-Communication than is indicated by its description in the Bulletin, or by its title, "Fundamentals of Speech-Communication: the Creative Process and the Mass Media" (Speech 1104).

The class will entail not only an analysis of mass media structure, but will discuss the history and structure of radio, film, and television from the perspective of the creative process.

Featured as examples of the media will be presentations of commercial radio and television program material, including "Chico and the Man," "Star Trek," "Best Radio and TV Commercials," and several short- and medium-length films. The course is taught by Leonard Bart, and meets Wednesday evenings during fall quarter.

This fall a new Saturday course in Accounting (not described in the Bulletin), "Controls and Auditing in Computer-Based Information Systems" (Accounting 5310), will instruct the student in the concepts and approaches to control and audit in computer-based data processing.

Prerequisites for the course are MIS 3098, Elementary COBOL; MIS 5100, Computers and Systems Design; and Accounting 5125, Auditing.

Call 376-4815 to learn about free, October library course

Effective use of the library is frequently a mystery to the experienced as well as the new student.

Many persons are unfamiliar with the resources and reference tools available in the library. Fewer students know how to make them work. But those who are familiar with the library's workings find more useful material, and spend less time looking for it than those who are not.

Extension Classes, in cooperation with the Minnesota Interlibrary Telecommunications Exchange (MINITEX) is offering a free, two-night course, in October and November, 7-9:30 p.m., on how to use the library. Part I, "Everyman's Guide to the Whole Library," is for the Extension student who needs a review of library organization, or for someone who wants a practical look at libraries. Students will be introduced to the basic components of every library, with an emphasis on the University Library and other major libraries in the Twin Cities.

The various means of access to library resources will be reviewed. These will include how to find out what is in journal literature, government publications, and reference tools. This knowledge will help students complete class assignments and use libraries to their advantage in undertaking personal research.

Part II, "The Whole Library is More than the Sum of its Parts," is scheduled the second night. The focus will be on how resources are organized within various subject areas. This knowledge will help students get right to the information needed, even if they don't know the subject very well.

Once they have become aware of the many ways to search for information, students won't feel so lost when a certain book is not on the shelf. This session can be a helpful "how to" if students have to write short papers or a term paper, or if they need to find out more about a topic for an upcoming exam.

Part I may be taken on either Wednesday or Thursday night, October 15 or 16, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. The class meets in 110 Blegen Hall Wednesday, and 435 Blegen Thursday, on the West Bank campus. The second session will be Wednesday or Thursday, November 19 or 20, 7 to 9:30 p.m., 110 Blegen Wednesday, and 435 Blegen Thursday.

For further information, telephone 376-4815.

Life Planning Workshops are free to all adults

"I'm 50 years old, and I still don't know what to do with my life."

Many adults, whether they're in their early twenties or mid-sixties, are confused about how to spend their time and energy. People may be uncertain about their careers, their leisure time, or their personal lives.

Extension Counseling's Life Planning Workshops are designed to help increase confidence and clarify future goals. If you're thinking about changing your job or career, furthering your education, finding a suitable college program, or improving aspects of your lifestyle, a workshop may be for you.

The workshops consist of groups of five to seven persons. Each group participates in structured exercises under the supervision of an Extension counselor. This fall, groups will meet on four consecutive weekday evenings, for about three hours each session, in Nolte Center.

The sessions are designed as meetings of "support groups" where people with similar problems share experiences and suggestions.

According to counselor Bonnie Gray, the groups aren't "technical" in nature where specific occupational information is provided, nor are they "encounter" groups where persons are forced to empty their "inner selves" to others.

"People ask questions, of others and of themselves, about things that may have crossed their minds at one time, but which they've never been forced to confront," says Gray. "People who attend have few definite ideas about what they will do with their futures, but the groups help unravel the confusion."

"Most people enjoy meeting group members, and they have a good feeling about sharing with others and helping those whose situations are similar to their own."

Group activities help participants to look at their lives now - what their strengths and weaknesses are, and what they like and want to do. They are given an opportunity to look at their futures constructively and realistically in a positive, friendly atmosphere.

The free sessions are open to any adult. No dates have been set yet for this fall's sessions, but interested persons can call to be placed on a mailing list. For more information on Life Planning Workshops, or to see if you need individual counseling, telephone 373-3905.

University College offers new degree option

University College has introduced a new baccalaureate degree program that allows a student to design his own unique learning experiences. It's called the University Scholars Program, and it's open to any U of M student who has completed two years of college, including Extension students.

The program is directed toward students whose needs aren't met by current degree offerings. A person could, for instance, under the supervision of a faculty member, include in his individually-tailored program an internship, travel, or independent reading and research, as well as traditional classroom instruction.

To become part of the program, a stu-

There has been some confusion regarding the meaning of "choice" on the request postcards in the back of the Extension Classes Bulletin. If you want all the classes you list, either put the number "1" by each class you list or no numbers at all. By listing numbers 1, 2, 3, you indicate to the registration office a first, second or third choice in classes in case a class is closed. If you need more than one card to list your choices, please staple the cards together before sending them to Extension Classes. Cards which are stapled together must be sent in an envelope.

November 17-December 29 - Registration accepted by mail for nonlimited enrollment classes. Mail registrations post-marked after midnight December 29 must include late fee.

In-person registration for winter quarter is December 3 to 12. Winter quarter classes are January 5 to March 20.

Beyond the graduation requirements which the students and faculty member may plan for both the field of specialization and distribution, the only general requirement is a minimum of one year's residency.

The University College emphasizes that the program is experimental, but welcomes requests for application forms. For further information check page 76 of the Extension Bulletin, or call the Program Coordinator, Susan Matarese, 376-5378, or the University College office (105 Walter Library), 376-4368.

Physically handicapped overcome most barriers

by Pat Hirigoyen

Physically-handicapped students who want to attend Extension classes have several services and facilities available on campus to help them attend class as easily as possible.

These services were recently described by Gayla Kaibel of the University's Student Counseling Bureau. Kaibel is attentive to the concerns of all handicapped students and is in Counseling's Rehabilitation Services Office.

"Last year I talked with 180 disabled students, and ten of them were Extension students," Kaibel said. "But, from listening to them, I had the distinct impression that there were several other handicapped persons in Extension, or who wanted to take Extension courses."

The Counseling Bureau is open to any disabled student before the student begins classes. Kaibel can elaborate on the services available, and tell how a handicapped student can more easily get around campus and register.

Besides Kaibel, counselors for Continuing Education and Extension in Nolte Center can help handicapped students.

Kaibel explained that a student whose classroom is inaccessible can arrange to have the classroom rescheduled, or can make individual arrangements. Professors can also make special arrangements for students who cannot write or read as quickly as others due to a disability. In addition, textbooks can be taped or brailled for blind, or "legally blind," students.

All of these services are available to Extension students as well as to day students. Kaibel remarked that an Extension student usually attends a class in only one building a day, and this can be a good arrangement for a handicapped student. Also, she said, many disabled Extension students, after being away from school for an extended period of time, aren't always anxious to return immediately to full-time schooling.

The Committee on Accessibility, part of the Office of Physical Planning, has worked to improve the University's environs, providing such features as ramps to supplement stairways, and "curb cuts" for wheelchairs. Maps detailing buildings that are most accessible to persons in wheelchairs are available through the Student Counseling Bureau.

University Parking Services sells special permits to handicapped students that enable them to park close to their classrooms or drive from class to class.

The Committee on Accessibility, part of the Office of Physical Planning, has worked to improve the University's environs, providing such features as ramps to supplement stairways, and "curb cuts" for wheelchairs. Maps detailing buildings that are most accessible to persons in wheelchairs are available through the Student Counseling Bureau.

KAIBEL

Kaibel also described another group on campus that could be helpful to the handicapped. They're the "University Unicorns," a group of disabled students interested in helping other disabled persons at the University.

The group's purposes are threefold. First, they act as support for each other, sharing ideas on how to make the University a more livable place for the handicapped. They also work as a force for action, with members on the Accessibility Committee and on the President's Committee on the Handicapped. Finally, they are involved in educating others, talking to various groups about the disabled student's situation.

To find out more about "University Unicorns," call Tom Oftedahl at 341-3601. Other telephone numbers of interest to handicapped Extension students are these:

Extension Counselors: 373-3905.

Student Counseling Bureau (Gayla Kaibel): 376-3143.

University Parking: 373-4190.

CLA Veterans Office: 376-4808.

Financial Aid for Handicapped Extension Students: 373-4662.

Kaibel said that her office and other counselors can also help with problems that aren't visible, such as a heart condition or asthma. She emphasized that handicapped students are students first, and that her office tries to set them apart as little as possible.

Yet counselors, Kaibel stressed, want to know the specific needs of disabled students so that they can make those problems known to the appropriate committees and offices.

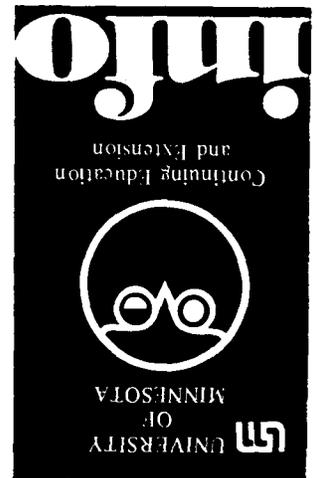

"We want to know what handicapped students need at night, as well as in the day," Kaibel said. "If you're handicapped and doing all right at the University, fine—but tell us how you've overcome any difficulties, so that we can pass that information on to others who need help."

Handicapped-student groups act as support units, work as a force for action, and involve themselves in educating others by talking about the disabled student's situation.

Park early and eat on campus

If you are looking for a place to eat before class, various food and vending facilities are open at night.

The cafeteria at Coffman Union (consisting of "The Colonnade," "The Atrium," and "The Keep" rooms) is open until 6 p.m., but the West Bank cafeteria (in the Auditorium Classroom Building) closes at 4:30.

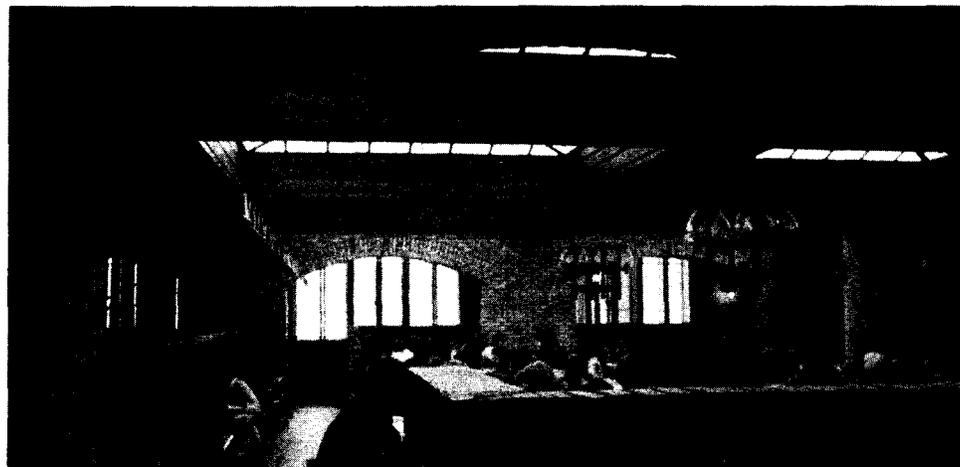

"The Barrel" at Coffman, for fast-food service, is open until 8:30 p.m. on the lower level. "The Metropal" in Blegen Hall on the West Bank serves until 6:30 p.m.

The "Snack Bar" in the Student Center on the St. Paul campus is open until 9 p.m., and the center is open until 11.

Vending machines at Coffman are open until the building closes (11 weeknights, 1 a.m. Fridays); those on the West Bank are open until 12:30 a.m.

A variety of restaurants is also open at night near the University campuses - on the West Bank, in Dinkytown, at Stadium Village, and in the St. Anthony Park area (three blocks west of the St. Paul campus).

Do you have more than one Extension Classes Bulletin sitting around your house? If so, please return extras to 101 Wesbrook Hall. We could really use them; demand for Bulletins is at an all-time high, and we want to reprint as few as possible. If you can't bring your extra copies back to campus, please share them with friends who might enjoy letting themselves grow through University of Minnesota Extension Classes. Thank you!

One of the eating areas of the cafeteria on the ground floor of Coffman Memorial Union on the East Bank campus. It is open until 6 in the evening.

You still have time to form your fall car pool

If you didn't get your computerized car-pool form submitted in time for fall quarter or semester processing, you may come to room 101 Wesbrook Hall to check the computer print-out of names, addresses and telephone numbers of people who live near you and who are taking Extension classes at the same time you are.

Then you may call those people who have similar schedules to form car pools or arrange for rides. About 800 persons submitted car-pool forms this year as compared with about 250 last year at this time.

The computerized car-pooling effort will be scheduled again winter quarter. Be sure to turn in your form when you register for winter classes. Forms are available at registration offices, or will be mailed to you if you register by mail.

Student editorial column...

(This space is available for comments from students)

by Jerry Iverson

Chairperson, Extension Classes Student Board

This fall, some 18,000 people are taking Extension classes. The Extension Classes Student Board, on behalf of this large student body, wants to be heard—not only by other students, but by legislators, University department heads, and administrators.

We are trying very hard, but we need the energies of more Extension students to help the University be more sensitive to our needs as part-time adult students, to develop fuller degree opportunities, especially at the graduate level, and to provide improved service (for example, in parking).

The way to initiate change in the University system is for a large group to communicate ideas and feelings to the people in charge. To help them do this, members of the Student Board invite every student who has a problem to attend our meetings which are held the first Friday of each month at 5:30 p.m., usually in the Nolte Center library. (Telephone 376-7500 to confirm each meeting time and place. If you wish, you may also order a box lunch to be paid for at the meeting.)

Space has been made available in this monthly Extension newsletter, Info, for articles from Student Board members and letters to the Student Board or to Extension Classes offices. Letters may be addressed to:

University of Minnesota
Extension Student Board
180 Wesbrook Hall
Minneapolis, MN 55455

In the past, it has been difficult to obtain a great degree of involvement from Extension students, mainly because of their large work load; but if Extension programs are to grow and expand, the Extension students must be united, vocal, and energetic.

ISTC offers Extension students travel opportunities

Low-cost travel and study abroad opportunities are available to Extension students through the International Study and Travel Center (ISTC) located in its new office at 40 Coffman Union.

Substantial travel savings may be realized by taking a University of Minnesota charter flight organized by ISTC. During winter break, flights to Miami, Europe, Tahiti, and Cancun, Mexico will be offered.

Spring break, 1976 flights include trips to Spain, Hawaii, Miami, Curacao, and the Bahamas. Next summer, the center will expand its program of successful low-cost flights to Europe.

Free travel and study abroad counseling is available by appointment. International student I.D.'s, Eurail and Britrail passes, and youth hostel cards are issued. A sizable library is maintained to aid in travel planning.

Additional programs may be added during the year. Stop by 40 CMU or call 373-0180 for more information.

Attention architects!

A late afternoon architecture class, Law for Architects (Arch 5127), has been added to the winter quarter schedule.

It will be held in room 50 of the Architecture Building on Thursdays from 5:15 to 7 p.m. Arch 3093 (or permission of the School of Architecture) is a course prerequisite.

This four-credit class will be a systematic study of legal subject matter relevant to the work of architects and design professionals. It will provide a generalized outline of legal doctrine and a basic understanding of the methods of legal problem solving.

No attempt is made to equip students to act as their own attorneys. However, an understanding of law and legal institutions should facilitate the architect's dealings and relationships with clients, contractors, loan officers, and fellow design professionals.

It is possible that Arch 5128 may be added spring quarter.

Interested persons should call Dick Weeks at 373-7561, to request registration forms.

Graduate credit at the University of Minnesota is available to qualified students.

Change in TV Classes

The winter quarter television class, "Recreational Sports Programming," offered through the Department of Independent Study, has been canceled. Instead, "People Power: The World of Practical Politics," will be offered Mondays, 9:30 to 10 p.m. Students may register for 3 credits as College of Education course 5351; or for 3 or 5 credits as General College 1222. More information is available by calling 376-4925.

"Oh to be in England now that April's there..."

Try spring quarter in London!

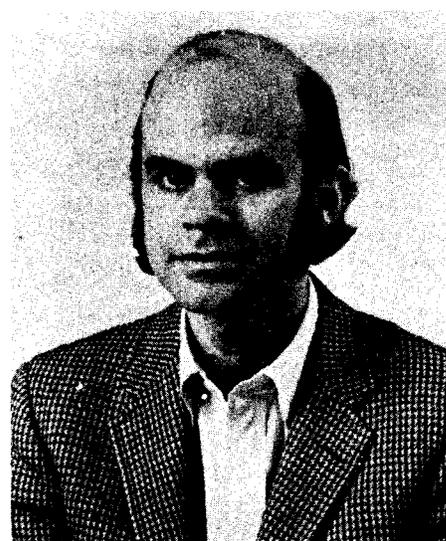

During spring quarter, Continuing Education and Extension will offer three courses taught in London by instructor and drama critic Peter Altman. There are no entrance or residence requirements to enroll, and students may earn 12 or more credits.

Classes in the spring program will be "Shakespeare," which will view productions of plays presented on the current London stage; "Modern British Theater," a look at plays from 1890 to the present, particularly those now produced in London theaters; and a class on the major plays and literary works of George Bernard Shaw.

Registration for extra credit projects is also possible.

Altman, lecturer in English at the University of Minnesota and drama critic for the Minneapolis Star from 1966-1975, will lead the group visiting London. As drama critic, Altman regularly traveled to London to report on the theater there.

Classes will be held at the Beaver Hotel in the Earls Court district of London, where the students and Mr. Altman will reside. Approximate cost of tuition, overseas credit fee, room and breakfast will be $950. Students must arrange their own transportation.

Peter Altman

For further information write or visit Extension Classes, 170 Wesbrook Hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, 55455, or call Gail Fraser at 373-3926 on the Minneapolis campus.

Winter's here:
spring semester
not far behind

As you put finishing touches on your winter quarter class schedule, don't forget to leave room for spring semester classes.

Spring semester begins February 9 and ends June 12; winter quarter classes run from January 5 to March 20, so the two academic periods overlap.

Spring semester registration opens Jan. 5. At that time the registration office begins accepting mailed postcard requests for spaces in limited classes.

Here are some other key spring semester registration dates:

Jan. 12 - Mail registration for non-limited classes begins.

Jan. 26 - In-person registration begins at all offices.

Feb. 4 - Last day for registration and tuition payment without late fee.

Meanwhile, you still have time to register for winter quarter classes. In-person registration began Dec. 3 and continues to Dec. 12 at 101 Wesbrook Hall. Late registrations will be accepted by mail or in person with no late fee Dec. 15-29 at Wesbrook or at the MacPhail office in downtown Minneapolis.

Students may register by mail as late as December 29 without paying a late fee.

Check your Bulletin, page 16, for detailed winter quarter registration dates and office hours.

If you have any questions on winter quarter or spring semester registrations, visit 101 Wesbrook Hall or call 373-3195.

Day care workers now may earn
Early Childhood certificates

Extension's certificate programs in Early Childhood Studies are positive responses to the increasing demand for trained workers in day care, according to Mary Lou Gilstad, program director in Continuing Education in Social Work and Project Manager of the Head Start Supplementary Training Program.

The 45- and 90-credit certificates are designed for individuals who wish to prepare for either employment or volunteer work in such areas as nursery schools, child care, family day care, and Sunday schools.

"The program is unique in that it addresses itself to paraprofessionals, while four-year degree programs, as in the University's Institute of Child Development, are designed more for professional people," says Gilstad.

The Early Childhood Studies program is an outgrowth of the Head Start Supplementary Training Program, which began in Extension in 1968 under a federal grant to train paraprofessional personnel in Head Start to work with children and to give them career development opportunities. As the Supplementary Training Program expanded to include over 100 trainees in 13 Minnesota counties, requests for training came from child care workers in the general community as well.

Engineering courses added for winter

A new two-quarter sequence in Engineering Project Management will be offered during winter and spring quarters by the Mechanical Engineering Department.

The Industrial Engineering and Operations Research division (IEOR) of the department has developed the new courses to meet the needs of engineers who are active as managers of research and development projects.

Courses in the sequence will present modern concepts and mathematical techniques of problem analysis and decision making applied to engineering project management.

Courses will consist of lectures, individual and group project assignments, text and supplementary readings, and examinations.

The class will meet Mondays, 3:45 to 5:45 p.m., in MechE 102. Cost per quarter is $62.

Veterans welcome in extension

Some Minnesota veterans may not realize that veterans' benefits can be applied to Extension as well as day classes. Evening and weekend classes often provide a good alternative for veterans who are unable to attend day school.

A recent article in the Minnesota Daily stated that, to qualify for veterans' benefits for day school, vets must register for at least 12 credits. According to Linda Vellema, who certifies registration for veterans in Extension, veterans can enroll for less than 12 credits and receive less than full-time benefits. They are required, however, to complete the credits for which they register.

Approximately 2800 veterans now apply benefits to Extension classes. Some have encountered difficulties in the past when registering, but, Vellema points out, registration and fee payments should go a little more smoothly if vets keep certain things in mind:

- VA checks are mailed out to veterans. A vet usually receives an award letter from the VA before the check is issued, and receives the check approxi-

No Smoking

In accordance with the Minnesota Clean Indoor Air Act, no-smoking and smoking areas are being designated in all public and educational buildings of the University.

All University buildings used by the public will have decals with the international no-smoking symbol posted at all entrances. Each building will also have at least one smoking area.

The new provisions are an expansion of the existing policy which for many years has prohibited smoking in classrooms.

mately six to eight weeks into the term. If a veteran is having any problems receiving his checks, he should contact the University Veterans' representative, Window 18 in Morrill Hall, 373-5609.

- A veteran can register for non-limited-enrollment classes at the same time he registers for limited sections.

- Each term, a veteran should fill out one, and not more than one, information sheet. The information sheet, which is obtained through the registration office, 101 Wesbrook Hall, or Vellema's office, 138 Wesbrook Hall, indicates the classes a vet is enrolled in each quarter or semester.

University VA counselors are available in room 6, Morrill Hall; call 373-9861. Extension Counseling also offers assistance to veterans; the Extension Veterans Counselor is Becky Johnson, and the Extension Veterans Program Adviser is Jackie Henning. To contact either, call 373-3905.

Information about veterans' benefits begins on page 37 of the Extension Classes Bulletin.

Linda Vellema, who certifies registration for veterans in Extension, has her office in 138 Wesbrook Hall. She lists tips for veterans in the article above.

which entails general education and career-related courses, and a supervised practicum or field work in the center or school where the trainee will be working.

"The program is a combination of theory plus skills and competencies," Gilstad says.

"The 45-credit certificate is a short-range goal, especially advantageous for persons who work and attend class part time. Should the student later decide to finish an undergraduate degree with nursery school certification, the certificate program provides the initial basic courses for the four-year degree."

Several courses in the program help towards requirements for Regular State Nursery School Certification. Other courses offer a flexible curriculum designed for child-care employees interested in career development in preschool settings; the curriculum provides a broad sense of general knowledge with an opportunity for specialization.

For further information, call Gilstad at 373-0206.

Library Course

"Everyman's Guide to the Whole Library" is a free, two-night course that introduces the student to the basic components of a library. Because of the unexpectedly large turnout at the first sessions in October and November, additional meetings of the class have been scheduled for January.

The course is in two parts. Part I, on January 13, will instruct the student on how to find reference materials. Part II, January 20, will discuss the organization of resources.

Both sessions are from 6:30-9 p.m. in 250 Anderson Hall on the University's West Bank campus.

To find out how to join the class, and to obtain campus and parking maps, call 376-7500, or write Department of Extension Classes, 202 Westbrook Hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, 55455. Or, just register when you come to the class.

by Bob Zohlmann

In my opinion, we, the members of the Extension Student Board, find ourselves in what people in most other representative bodies would consider an enviable position.

We belong to a political unit which has an effective line of communication to and through our Continuing Education and Extension (CEE) administration. Those few student problems which are brought to us generally receive, where possible, fast administrative action.

This is due, for the most part, to the concern on the part of CEE staff for the special problems encountered by the evening student.

In addition to the positive orientation of the Extension administration, our meeting agendas are flexible, we have ample membership to handle more work than we presently have, and unlike certain national representative bodies, we have never been forced to subpoena the president (or any other official) to testify at one of our meetings.

Given these factors, the Student Board is adequately prepared to provide assistance to the Extension student.

The major problem which confronts the Student Board, however, is that we are rarely approached by our fellow students with problems, complaints or suggestions.

The situation suggests the following questions: Is there a lack of a feeling of efficaciousness on the part of non-traditional students which makes our job so easy? Or could it be that we have failed to provide an effective line of communication between ourselves and the rest of the student body?

Try a Saturday weekend class during winter or spring terms

Courses on weekends include many of those required for degree and certificate programs, as well as classes for personal enrichment (or just for fun!)

Most classes offered during winter quarter are held on the Minneapolis campus:

Principles of Marketing (Marketing 3000).

Individual and Family Budget Planning (Informal Course 0001).

Statistics (General College 1454).

Basic Drawing (Art, Studio 1101).

Watercolor (Art, Studio 3160).

Introductory Composition (Composition 1002).

Advanced Acting (Theater Arts 3321).

Alexander Technique for the Performing Arts (Theater Arts 5329).

Paddleball-Handball (Physical Education 1036).

Check your Extension Classes Bulletin for complete course descriptions. If interest in weekend classes is high this year, next year the number of offerings will be increased and new formats and times will be tried.

How to buy texts at B. Dalton bookstores

During fall registration, textbooks for Extension classes in certain neighborhood centers were available for the first time at B. Dalton's bookstores at Rosedale and Southdale. As often happens when a new program is tried, some problems arose.

The most common difficulty students met was an insufficient number of books. There was also some confusion as to whether or not a particular store was carrying texts for specific courses.

During registration for winter quarter this service should run more smoothly. In the fall, B. Dalton's stocked about 70% of the books needed for neighborhood centers; for winter quarter the stores will have 90% of the necessary texts. (For those students who find it convenient to come to campus for their books, campus bookstores will stock the remaining 10%.)

The purchase of texts at B. Dalton will be easier if students keep a few things in mind:

(1) Books are sold at only two B. Dalton's outlets: Rosedale (West Highway 36 and Fairview Ave. N., St. Paul); and Southdale (66th St. and France Ave. So.; the store is at the sound end of the lower level, next to Donaldson's.)

(2) In purchasing books at B. Dalton's students should be sure that the books they are buying are required for the class sections offered at the neighborhood centers which they will attend, and not for a section somewhere else.

(3) B. Dalton's will carry only required books, not supplementary readings.

(4) Books will not be sent from the two designated stores to other branches of B. Dalton's.

(5) Call ahead of time to reserve your books: Southdale, 920-2677; Rosedale, 636-1341.

(6) Before disposing of your receipts or writing in the books, check with your instructor to be sure you have the right book and to be sure you will need the book for the course. Sales slips are required for refunds.

(7) All returns should be made during the period during which B. Dalton carries Extension textbooks (about one month a term).

(8) Please do not make any inquiries until December 26 concerning winter quarter texts.

Call us at 376-7500 if problems arise.

Bicentennial Lecture Series

Look at Minnesota's past

What kind of a place was Minnesota at the time of the American Revolution? And what has been Minnesota's history, from the Mississippi River towns of the frontier to the lively politics of the twentieth century?

Beginning January 29, a series of four lectures presented during the Bicentennial year by Extension Classes will look back at Minnesota's heritage. The four illustrated talks by University faculty will be given in the Alumni Club on the 50th floor of the IDS Center.

Professor Norman Moen will offer "The Land and People of the Minnesota Country 200 Years Ago" on January 29. On February 12, the lecture will be "Mili-and has given service to the Counsel on Abandoned Military Posts.

The lectures, on Thursday evenings, will begin at 7:30. The admission ticket for the entire series is $10. The Alumni Club seats only 60 people, so tickets for the series must be purchased in advance before the first lecture.

Persons 60 years and older may attend the lectures free on a space-available basis.

Tickets may be purchased by mail, or in person, at 180 Westbrook Hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 55455. For more information call 376-7500.

Parking at the IDS Center will cost $1 after 5 p.m.; enter on Marquette Avenue tary Posts and River Towns in the Minnesota Region" by Professor Thomas C. Buckley.

Professor Charles E. Sigmund will speak on "The Social and Cultural Life in Frontier Minnesota" on February 26, and Professor Moen will again speak on March 11, on "Patterns, Personalities, and Episodes in Minnesota Politics."

Professor Moen, of the University's General College, developed a new series of courses on Minnesota Studies in which 4000 students are presently enrolled; some of these courses are available evenings through Extension. Professor Sigmund, an assistant professor in the Humanities Division of General College, specializes in folk and ethnic music.

Professor Buckley heads the division of Social and Behavioral Studies in General College, and is a student of American military and local history. He is a member of the board of directors of the Ramsey County and St. Paul Historical Society, between 7th and 8th Streets. To check bus schedules, call 827-7733. Dining facilities in the Alumni Club will be open to non-members who purchase the series ticket.

The All-University Bicentennial Committee has made available a special register of speakers, exhibits, courses, and resources to aid in the enjoyment and appreciation of the Bicentennial.

Included in the list are the names or titles of presentations, demonstrations, or performances offered by faculty, staff, and students of the University.

For further information, visit or write the Bicentennial Office, 313 Morrill Hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 55455, or call (what else?) 376-1776.

Prepare now for spring

To make registration as easy as possible, Extension students should become acquainted with procedures for mail registration for limited-enrollment classes.

Postcard requests for spring semester limited classes will be accepted between January 5 and 9.

Students should remember that:

Requests for limited-enrollment classes received in 101 Westbrook Hall will be processed first: the office will begin mailing class cards and registration forms to students on January 12. No cards will be given out in person from January 5 to 9.

Cards are due at 101 Westbrook Hall (postmarked or dropped off) on or before January 20. Those who indicate that their tuition and fees are to be billed to a firm or company will have until January 28 to have that taken care of (January 28 is the third day of in-person registration).

During the in-person registration period (January 26-February 4) students may obtain limited cards in person only. No cards will be reserved by phone or mailed out to anyone during this time.

After the second class meeting, a student can register only with the written permission of the instructor; limited cards will not facilitate registrations at that time.

Registration is easy when you do it early—for information call 373-3195.

A letter about London

Dear Student,

London is the hub of the English-speaking theater, and as such the best possible place in which to study its character and achievements. The University of Minnesota London program for spring, 1976 is envisioned as offering a balanced group of courses in English dramatic production. The program will also, I hope, provide special opportunities to become familiar with London and England themselves, especially as places which have engendered writings students may previously have found somewhat remote.

My plan is to conduct all courses in the most personal manner possible. Classes will stress discussion, there will be constant chances for private consultation, and independent projects will be encouraged. In my teaching, I intend to emphasize the relationship of play texts to performances students may experience or that I have seen. Also, I plan to escort groups to as many relevant special resources as possible—not only to obvious destinations such as Stratford-upon-Avon, but additionally to relatively unfrequented places such as Shaw's home in Hertfordshire, and to a couple of typical regional theaters. Work schedules will be arranged so that students will have freedom to go on their own to other centers of interest, about which I will be glad to share advice.

Arrangements will be made for access to the library nearest the course hotel, and counsel will be given upon request about approaches to other likely institutions. Most books required will be obtainable in paperback editions, and students need not bring any texts with them.

Among special events that will occur in London during the course period, perhaps the one most worth noting here is the long-awaited opening of the National Theater of Great Britain. Spring attractions there will include a new interpretation of Hamlet with Albert Finney and Angela Lansbury. Britten's adaptation of A Midsummer Night's Dream will be on at the Royal Opera, and Royal Shakespeare Company presentations will include both parts of Henry IV. A rare staging of Shaw's Too True to be Good, now playing, should still be continuing. More contemporary plays than anyone can see are of course always running in and around London.

Peter Altman

(Peter Altman, lecturer in English at the University, and a former drama critic with the Minneapolis Star, will teach three English and theatre courses in London spring quarter for Extension Classes. For complete information, telephone 373-3926.)

Phi Kappa Phi membership open to Extension

The University of Minnesota chapter of PHI KAPPA PHI, a national scholastic honor society, is accepting membership applications from juniors, seniors and graduate students. Extension students are eligible to apply.

The primary purpose of PHI KAPPA PHI is to promote the pursuit of excellence in all fields of higher education; it is open to students in any college of the University of Minnesota.

In general, membership is restricted to the top five percent of their class seniors in the top 10 percent of graduate student applicants should have a notable record of graduate study.

Interested Extension students should contact Fred Jacobs, secretary-treasurer, 617 Business Administration Tower, 373-3672, to see if they qualify.

Jewelry Workshop

In response to many requests by elementary school teachers, a two-day Saturday workshop in simple Jewelry technique is being offered during spring quarter by the department of Art Education.

Newly remodeled Coffman Union almost ready

Despite a delay caused by a construction strike last summer, the remodeling of Coffman Union is nearing its February, 1976, completion date. Extensive changes in the structure are included.

The ground floor and basement areas are virtually complete, and many services are now available for student use.

A new fast-food service, "The Barrel," is now open in the basement from 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Also in the basement is a new "Artcraft Studio," with tools, equipment, and materials for many projects available free or at low cost.

Featured in the studio on a first-come, first-served basis are such facilities as a power saw and drill press, pottery wheels, and a photo lab. The studio is open until 10 p.m. Monday through Friday, until 5 p.m. Saturdays, and is closed Sundays.

On the ground floor of the Union, the new Gopher Court features vending machines which are available during the evening hours. Near the Gopher Court, in a temporary location during the remodeling, is the Info desk with campus and Union information. Information hours are 7:45 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and 1 p.m. to 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Other services encircling Gopher Court, but open only during the day, are the International Study and Travel Center, the Minnesota Student Association (MSA) Student Store, a newsstand, post office, and barber and beauty shops.

The basement area also includes a renovated gaming center and billiards room, a bowling alley, and the popular Whole Coffeehouse, all open in the evening.

Extensive renovations are now underway on the first floor: the main lounge is being divided into several smaller lounges that will be open during the evening hours; a Music Lounge (open until 9 p.m.), with a listening area offering 48 channels of stereo via headsets; the Fireplace Lounge (with a hearth), and the North Star Lounge (both open until 11 p.m.).

Billiards and table tennis rooms on the first floor are being removed for a 325-seat theater that will accommodate films, multi-media presentations, videotape, theater-in-the-round, and lectures.

The hours for the Coffman Union building are 7 a.m. to 11 p.m., Monday through Thursday; 7 a.m. to 1 a.m. Friday and Saturday, and 1 p.m. to 11 p.m. Sunday. For more information on services, activities, and presentations, call 373-2403.

by Theodore Campbell
Director, Extension Classes

This is a good time of year to explain how we in Extension decide whether to hold or cancel classes because of severe weather. While you ventured to class or decided to stay home during a winter snow storm, you may have wondered if our decision-making mechanism was working.

On days when the weather looks questionable, we receive weather updates regularly beginning in the morning. We use the best weather reports, forecasts and highway information available. They're provided by the University's Office of Emergency Preparedness, which has direct lines to the Minnesota Highway Department and the United States Weather Service.

At about 3:30 p.m. on a weekday we attempt to estimate whether the weather and driving conditions will be dangerous and/or virtually impossible, or merely difficult.

If, at that time of day, conditions seem no worse than difficult, we will decide to hold classes as scheduled and will usually put such an announcement on TV and radio at about 4 p.m.

When conditions are no worse than difficult, most instructors will be in their classes awaiting students. In such weather, we do not feel that we ought to decide for students whether they should attempt to go to their classes.

In Extension, a student who misses one night of class usually misses a full week's work; and unless conditions are worse than difficult, he has a right to attempt the trip, if he chooses to, and to carry on his studies according to schedule.

If, however, conditions are worse than difficult—dangerous and/or virtually impossible—then we have an obligation to discourage instructors and students from risking the trip. In those rare cases, we will cancel all classes, and the announcement will be made on radio and television.

The problem, of course, is in stipulating exactly what "dangerous" means as compared to "difficult". That's where the decision becomes a matter of judgment.

In the storm on the 20th of November, conditions at 3:30 were threatening and difficult, but not worse. By 4:30, however, the weather had changed considerably. It still was not dangerous or virtually impossible weather, though traffic was indeed slow.

Keep in mind: we rarely cancel classes. This is another way of saying that, in our view, winter weather in the metropolitan area, fierce as it sometimes is, is seldom bad enough for us to make people's decisions for them (we've canceled classes only once in the last eight years).

Because we base our judgments on the most recent information possible, we typically do not make a decision until shortly before 4 p.m. If you call us before that time we won't have much to tell you. Listen to your radio at about 4 (for Saturday classes, at about 7:30 a.m.). KUOM, the University radio station, 770 kilocycles, will carry a special announcement about Extension classes exactly at 4 on severe weather days.

You'll usually have to decide for yourself whether you wish to venture to class on a stormy night.

The telephone number for the University's Veterans counselor in room 6, Morrill Hall is 373-2891. The number was incorrectly reported in the December issue.

President Magrath resting at home

University President C. Peter Magrath returned home for a convalescent period after having been hospitalized at University Hospitals since December. He has been ill with a mild case of Guillain-Barre syndrome.

Magrath's doctor said the president will make a complete recovery from the illness, which is confined to the nerves in his limbs and has not affected the central nervous system.

He participated in a January Regents' meeting though a telephone hookup between his home and the campus.

Board president seeks visibility for Extension

Jerry Iverson, chairperson of the Extension Student Board, became interested in the Board just a couple of years ago through a friend who had served on it.

"I started taking Extension classes in 1962, mainly for the fun of it," says Iverson. "But halfway through I became more career-oriented in my classes. When I joined the Board, I thought that Extension should offer more degrees in engineering science."

Iverson, a mechanical designer in the printing products division at 3M Corporation, lives in Crystal with his wife and four children. He has worked at 3M for eight years, and will finish his mechanical engineering degree this year.

Being an Extension student and raising a family leaves little time for recreation or other interests. Nevertheless, Iverson has spent time with his son at the Northwest YMCA, and has done "a little" hunting and fishing.

Iverson is seeking to obtain more visibility for Board members among Extension students, and says that the membership of the Board is so varied that each member probably has a unique reason for being on it.

"The Board feels that it has an obligation to meet with department heads to get more graduate degree programs," says Iverson.

"There's room for a lot more participation by students on the Board. If more people took part, the administration could then get a better idea that more and more people are interested in getting educated."

A junior from Windom majoring in English

I spent ten weeks in London this fall, in a program offered through Extension Classes and the World Affairs Center, and it was the most completely educational experience I've ever had.

It was also the most exciting ten weeks I've ever spent. I can't think of anything more valuable to add to a liberal arts or career-oriented education than a chance to combine intense study of a discipline with exposure to another culture.

And there are probably few countries on earth with more that's fun to see and do and a heritage so basic to ours than England.

Three organized English literature courses were offered this fall, taught by Raymond McClure of the University's English department. Most of us also were involved in directed studies either with Professor McClure or another instructor.

Classes met Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday mornings in the dining room of the hotel in which we lived, so afternoons and four-day weekends were ours.

London not only offers lots to see on its own, but it's a perfect jumping-off point for short jaunts to other places in Britain or longer trips to spots on the Continent.

It's difficult for an American to realize how really small all of Europe is. I was delighted to find that I could take off Thursday afternoon and be three countries away by Friday morning with three full days to sightsee and time to get back to London for class Tuesday.

Of course I didn't take off for the Continent every weekend. I wanted to take advantage of the fact that I had ten weeks in which to gain a more-than-surface understanding of English culture.

Thanks to some educated planning on the part of Professor McClure, the literature we were reading tied in beautifully with places we could visit not far from London.

Some of the trips we made as a class, with the cost included in our tuition. Naturally we made pilgrimages to Stratford-on-Avon and Canterbury, to absorb any inspiration which might have been left in the atmosphere by Shakespeare and Chaucer.

We also went to Windsor Castle as a class, and many of us took trips to towns like Bath, where Europeans have "taken the waters" of hot mineral springs since Roman times, and Salisbury, which is only a short bus trip from Stonehenge.

The train system in Europe is so efficient and inexpensive, and England is so small, that these famous spots all over the country were very accessible to us.

London itself offers historic landmarks such as the Tower and Parliament plus a wealth of famous churches, art and history museums and traditional British ceremony.

It also boasts of, and comes through with, some of the finest theatre in the world. There are concerts almost nightly by one of the five resident symphonies plus guest appearances by world-famous artists.

Concerts and plays were terrifically accessible, too, because the groups were either supported or subsidized by the government, making ticket prices very low.

But even with all of the entertainment and sightseeing, the classroom experience was by no means overshadowed. For one thing, there were only 18 of us in each class, and we lived together and knew each other—a unique experience for this University student.

As a result, discussion seemed freer and more involved. Classes were necessarily less formal but they lapped over into daily life so much that they were at the same time more intense.

And it was such a pleasure for once to actually get to know my instructor as a person! I even had a chance to pursue an aspect of English literature which specifically interested me on a one-to-one level with him, which is something I probably wouldn't have done at home.

I'm even finding that my attitude toward and understanding of my own culture has been permanently altered by my experience abroad—particularly since I lived in England.

It seemed appropriate to me that I spent the last few months of my own country's 199th year in the country to which we can most directly trace our early history.

Call: May 24-June 10 — 376-1371
June 11 - July 15 — 373-3933

Limited-enrollment class cards will not be mailed out after July 9 because of time delays in mailing. Extension Classes will continue to give out information on limited-enrollment class space.

III. In person, during registration periods only, at 101 Wesbrook Hall on the Minneapolis campus or at the MacPhail Office, downtown Minneapolis.

The following are in-person registration dates for Summer Evening Extension Classes:

First 5-week term and 10-week term: June 1-10

Second 5-week term:
June 1-July 15

Limited-enrollment cards may be obtained during in-person registration periods for classes which have not been filled during the earlier mail or telephone registration period at Wesbrook or MacPhail.

Complete the official registration forms, and present them to the tally clerk. Then pay the cashier in the registration office for the full amount of tuition and fees, payable to the University of Minnesota.

Closed classes — Limited-enrollment classes for which there is heavy demand will often reach the maximum limit and close. The reasons for establishing limits on enrollment vary. Normally class limits cannot be exceeded. If a student has an unusual and compelling reason to be admitted to a closed class he may state his case to the instructor of the class. Written permission of the instructor is required for admission to any closed class (no late fee through the first week of the term). Starting the second week of the term late registrations will be assessed the appropriate late fee.

Registration is limited in those courses with a star (★) preceding the course number and title.

bookstores

The evening schedule has been established by University bookstores. Note that bookstores are not open every night.

admission

Admission to Extension Classes is open; anyone may register for Extension Classes. There are no entrance requirements; registrants need not possess a high school diploma. One need only have a desire to learn. Registration in specific programs or classes may require prerequisite courses or experience.

Day school students who wish to register in Extension Classes are urged to consult first with their day school adviser or college office. Day school students must pay Extension Classes tuition to attend Extension Classes.

A student who has been dropped from any unit of the University or who has been placed on probation should clear with his college before registering for Extension Classes; otherwise, there is no assurance that the credits will be accepted by the college from which he wishes to earn a degree.

tuition and fees

The 1976 summer tuition for Extension Classes is:

$14.50 a credit:

For 1XXX and 3XXX level courses.

Certificate courses.

Entrance credit courses.

Noncredit courses (does not necessarily apply to reduced-tuition courses).

$15.50 a credit:

For 5XXX level courses.

$16.50 a credit:

For 8XXX level courses.

A student who concurrently takes day courses and Extension courses must register on separate forms and pay both day and Extension fees.

The full amount of tuition and other fees is payable at the time of registration. Additional fees may be assessed for use of a laboratory, extra materials, or audio-visual equipment. Tuition charges and fees do not cover books. Checks or money orders must be drawn for the exact amount due, and made payable to the University of Minnesota. A $2 handling fee is charged for all checks returned by a bank. Students should contact the cashier at 138 Wesbrook (376-7243) if they have received notification from their banks that a check has been returned to Extension Classes. No arrangements for partial payment can be made. Students in need of financial assistance should see financial aids and loans, below. Students who are not residents of the state of Minnesota pay the same fees in Extension Classes as do residents of the state.

Students are not registered until their tuition and fees are paid. After fees are paid, retain the pink copy of the registration form. It serves as official identification as an Extension student and must be presented in order to obtain books from University libraries or purchase student athletic and orchestra tickets. (Present the white copy to the course instructor at the first class meeting.)

financial aids and loans

All students who plan to register under the authority or with the assistance of any federal, state, or foreign agency — military service, institution, company or scholarship, may register by mail or in person in 138 Wesbrook Hall, telephone 373-4662; on the Minneapolis campus. If registering by mail, authorizations must include:

1. Proper address: Department of Extension Classes, 138 Wesbrook Hall, University of Minnesota
2. Student's name
3. Correct amount of tuition and fees for specific classes
4. Term or dates of eligibility
5. Authorizing signature or stamp required
6. Authorizations reproduced by a copy machine are not acceptable.
7. Complete address of agency to be billed for tuition.

To register, follow the procedures outlined under "when and how to register." Include your authorization (in place of your check) with your registration forms.

Registration forms and authorizations must accompany each other. If your authorization is already on file, you must include a note with your registration indicating the source of your authorization, or your registration will be returned.

All materials should be sent to 138 Wesbrook Hall.

Registration forms must be properly filled out.

A separate authorization is needed for books or for classes taken in another division or unit of the University.

Late fees will not be billed unless specifically authorized. Students must pay these.

Extension Loan Fund — Extension students who require financial assistance to pay tuition may be eligible for a loan not to exceed $75 in any semester, quarter or special term. Such loans are payable within 2 months from date of receipt. The interest charge is approximately 6%. Applications should be made in 138 Wesbrook Hall during any official in-person registration period for Extension Classes. Because only limited funds are available, students who need assistance should inquire as soon as possible during the in-person registration periods. No loan applications will be accepted after the second week of the term. Applications taken after the close of official registration periods will be subject to late fees. Contact Extension Classes, 138 Wesbrook Hall (373-4871). Students who have an overdue, unpaid balance on a previous loan at the University may apply for another loan only with permission from the assistant bursar who is located at the West Bank Bursar's Office (373-7915). Limited class cards must be obtained by telephone or in person as outlined. Registration must be completed in person. See the registration section.

Handicapped students financial aid— Blind students may call the Extension office (373-4662) concerning tuition exemption for Extension Classes. Counseling regarding other financial assistance is available through the Minnesota State Services for the Blind and the Visually Handicapped, 1745 University Avenue, St. Paul, Minnesota 55104. Veterans with service-connected disabilities may be eligible for vocational rehabilitation services through the Veterans Administration. Write or call the Veterans Assistance Center, Federal Building, Fort Snelling, St. Paul, Minnesota 55111 (725-4100). Financial aid for other handicapped students may be available through the Minnesota Division of Vocational Rehabilitation. Information concerning that program may be obtained from the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation Liaison Office (N592 Elliott Hall, University of Minnesota 376-7026), or from the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation office in your area.

Bank loans — Students should be aware that most banks in the Twin Cities area offer a "line of credit" service to handle small, intermittent loan needs. Plans vary among banks, but in all cases the borrower must have a checking account with the bank, and a line of credit for a fixed dollar amount. The borrower can then write checks which would normally overdraw his account. The loan is repaid through automatic deductions from the checking account, with finance charges typically running slightly over 12 percent of an annual percentage rate. Students should contact a bank for further information.

Regents' Scholarships — University staff members working at least 75% time are eligible to apply for Regents' Scholarships through the Training Division. Regents' Scholarships cover only tuition for approved classes. All course fees, special fees and late fees must be paid by the student. Further information about eligibility and application procedures can be obtained from the Training Division, 404 Johnston Hall, 373-4366.

Students registering with Regents' Scholarships for non-limited courses offered through the Department of Extension Classes may register by mail or in person. The approved authorization must accompany your registration forms. Late fees go into effect at the end of the in-person registration period. Students wishing to register for limited classes with Regents' Scholarships must wait until the first week of the term. If space is still available in the class, students may register in person without a late fee during the first week of the term. Students who have obtained instructor's written permission to register for limited classes may register with Regents' Scholarships during the in-person registration period for that term. No refunds will be given to students wishing to apply Regents' Scholarships toward limited classes for which they have already registered and paid fees.

See the Extension Classes Bulletin, 1975-1976 edition, for more information, pages 35 and 36.

military information personnel

All military personnel are urged to familiarize themselves with the Registration Procedures and Information sections of this Info. University regulations and procedures apply to all students unless stated to the contrary.

All branches of the Armed Services now provide Off-Duty Academic Instruction or Tuition Assistance Programs for military personnel on active duty. There are no application forms necessary for admission to the Department of Extension Classes. Under these programs, eligible military personnel may be entitled to tuition assistance of 75% a quarter credit hour for approved classes (All classes are quarter credit classes). The remaining tuition and all fees must be paid by military personnel. Interested members of the Armed Services are urged to contact the educational officer or commanding officer of their command for proper authorization to participate in these programs. Written authorization designating classes and amount of tuition to be paid by Army, Navy, Air Force, or Marine Corps should be presented at time of registration, at which time payment of remainder of tuition must be made. Military personnel who do not have the necessary authorization at the time of registration will be required to pay in full for their registration. When the government authorization is received, a refund for the authorized amount will be made. Registration may be made by mail or in person at 101 Wesbrook Hall, Minneapolis campus.

After reading the information below, questions can be directed to the Extension Veterans Office, 138 Wesbrook Hall (373-5777); Veterans Assistance Office, 6 Morrill Hall (373-9891); or Veterans Counselor, 314 Nolte Center (373-3905).

Cold War Veterans (Chapter 34, Title 38, U.S. Code) — A G.I. bill providing educational benefits for eligible veterans became effective June 1, 1966. Eligibility is based on active military service on or after February 1, 1955. Maximum period of training is 45 months, but this period is reduced by training under other Veterans Administration programs.

Application for training under this bill may be made by requesting VA Form 22-1990. The application form must be completed and submitted to 138 Wesbrook with a photostatic copy of DD 214 (discharge papers) and Cold War Veterans information sheet when registering for Extension Classes. Do not submit original documents. In-person registration is encouraged for those veterans registering for the first time under the G.I. Bill.

Registration — Each term a veteran registers for Extension Classes and wishes certification to the Veterans Administration, the G.I. Bill Information Sheet must be completed. This sheet will be mailed when requested. If you call for registration forms, be sure to ask for the G.I. Bill Information Sheet. Failure to do so will delay benefit payments. Please fill out only one G.I. Bill Information Sheet for each term (only one form is needed when registering for all summer evening terms). If you choose to register for the second five-week summer evening at a later date, you will need to fill out an additional G.I. Bill Information Sheet. The veteran changing from day to Extension Classes (or vice versa) must obtain Form A19a from the unit he is leaving.

Cancellation and transfer — When a veteran cancels or transfers classes, he must notify the Extension Veterans Office. This is especially important when it affects the total credit load.

Payments — The following table shows how monthly payments are determined by the Veterans Administration:

SUMMER 5-WEEK TERM

	Minimum Credits	Dependents			Each Dependent Over Two
		None	One	Two
Full Time	5	$270	$321	$366	$22
3/4	4	203	240	275	17
1/2 Time	3	135	160	182	11

SUMMER 10-WEEK TERM

	Minimum Credits	Dependents			Each Dependent Over Two
		None	One	Two
Full Time	12	$270	$321	$366	$22
3/4	9	203	240	275	17
1/2 Time	6	135	160	182	11

Less than 1/2 time any term — Reimbursement of tuition and fees only.

To compute status for a combination of the 10-week term plus a 5-week term, add the total credits from both terms, divide by two, and check your total against the 5-week term chart above to see if you are full time, 3/4 time or 1/2 time.

Credits — Over one-half of the credits earned must be through classroom instruction.

Tuition and fees — Veteran must pay at the time of registration. He will be reimbursed later or paid a monthly allowance.

No advance payments will be issued for summer classes because of the short length of the terms.

For information about tutorial assistance, vocational rehabilitation, the State of Minnesota Department of Veterans Affairs, and the Discharge Review Service, see the 1975-76 Extension Classes Bulletin, page 38.

Satisfactory academic progress — In each state, a State Approving Agency (SAA) is appointed by the governor to be responsible for establishing minimum criteria of satisfactory academic progress and for approving procedures of each institution. In Minnesota, the responsibility has been delegated to the Division of Vocational-Technical Education in the State Department of Education.

The SAA has established a new set of guidelines to define satisfactory academic progress. Those regulations, in brief, require a veteran each quarter to pass and receive credit for a minimum of 12 credits if registered for full-time benefits, 9 credits if registered for 3/4 time, and 6 credits if registered for 1/2 time. If the veteran fails to meet that standard for two terms in a row, the University is required to send notification to the Veterans Administration.

For Veterans Administration purposes the following grades are considered satisfactory: A, B, C, D, S, X, and I. The I is considered a satisfactory grade until the end of the next term. If by that time the incomplete has not been made up, the credits will not count in the credits-passed total.

The University is also required to report to the Veterans Administration any student, veteran who fails to pass half of his credits registered for each term. For example, a veteran who is registered for six credits must complete three. Such a report will be sent to the V.A. at the end of the first such term.

A prerequisite indicates competence needed to enter a course. It may be a preliminary course, experience, or approval required before a course may be taken. Students will find a course prerequisite (if any) listed at the end of the course description. Usually there is no prerequisite for beginning courses. However, courses with two or more parts must be taken in sequence unless otherwise specified. Most advanced courses do have prerequisites and cannot usually be carried satisfactorily unless the student has had the stated previous course or its equivalent. In some instances, students who have had a reasonable equivalent of study, training, or experience related to the course desired may be exempted from the prerequisite by the instructor. Students who are in doubt as to their qualifications for a course, but believe they are qualified, should register for the course and consult the instructor at the first class session. If the instructor decides that a student is not qualified, he should write a note to this effect, and send it to the Extension Classes office. This action will permit the student to transfer to another course without penalty or to cancel with a full refund, provided this action is taken before the end of the second week of classes. A prerequisite course may not usually be taken for credit after the advanced course has been satisfactorily completed.

grades — a-n and s-n

A-N Grading System — Four permanent grades, A (highest), B, C, and D (lowest), indicate acceptable completion of a course. The permanent grade of N (no credit) is assigned when the student does not earn a D or higher and is not assigned an incomplete. A student who cancels officially or drops out of class after the midpoint of any summer term and is not doing passing work at the time, will receive an N.

A symbol of I (incomplete) will be assigned when, in the opinion of the instructor, there is a reasonable expectation that the student can complete successfully the work of the course. Student and instructor should arrive at a clear understanding in advance as to whether the student may receive an I and what the conditions will be. An I that is not made up by the end of one year becomes an N. When an I is changed to a permanent grade (within the one-year period), the I is removed from the student's record.

The symbol X (not to be confused with registration for extra credit) may be reported in continuation courses in which a grade cannot be determined until the sequence is completed. Upon completion, a separate grade is substituted for each X.

The symbol W indicates official cancellation without grade. It is assigned in all cases of official cancellation through the midpoint of any summer term, regardless of the student's standing. After that time, the symbol W is assigned only if the student is doing passing work at the time of cancellation. If he is not doing passing work, the instructor will assign the grade of N (no credit). It is advisable, therefore, that any student considering cancellation of a class after the midpoint of any summer term, discuss the matter with his instructor.

The symbol V (visitor) indicates registration as an auditor or visitor.

S-N Grading System — The S-N system represents an alternative to the A-N system. S represents achievement that is satisfactory to the instructor for the class in which the student is registered. (The standards for S may vary from one class to another.) The symbol N, which stands for no credit, is assigned when the student does not earn an S and is not assigned an I.

A student wishing to take courses under the S-N grading system should be aware of the limitations placed on the system by the college in which he intends to take his degree. Each college determines to what extent and under what conditions each system may be available to its students. Any college may specify what course or what proportion of courses taken by its students or by prospective students must be on which grading system. The A-N and S-N grading systems cannot be combined in a single course by a student. Students may receive grades only from the grading system under which they are registered.

Choice of A-N or S-N grading system must be indicated for each course listed on the registration form at the time of registration, and may not be changed after the second week of the summer term (there is no fee for changing). Changes can be made in person or by writing or calling the Department of Extension Classes, 101 Westbrook Hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55455 (373-3195). IF THE STUDENT DOES NOT INDICATE THE GRADING SYSTEM DESIRED ON THE REGISTRATION FORM, THE A-N SYSTEM WILL APPLY.

credit and no credit registrations

credits

All credits listed in the class descriptions are QUARTER credits. Each credit usually requires, on the average, a total of three hours a week of a student's time, counting both in-class and out-of-class time.

1. "Degree credit" means that a course so designated may be used on a degree program. A student who seeks a degree should be aware that all degree credits attempted in Extension Classes must be submitted at time of admission to the college from which the degree is sought.

A few Extension courses carry a number of credits different from the number of credits carried by the same course offered in day classes. If a course carries the same course number as a day course, it will satisfy the same prerequisite, distribution, minor and major requirements met by the day course.

Residence — Credits earned in undergraduate Extension Classes are residence credits; however, until a student has been formally admitted to the college from which he expects to obtain a degree, these credits are not considered to meet the residence requirements of individual colleges of the University.

2. "Certificate credit" means that the course so marked may be used in appropriate Extension certificate programs. Certificate credit courses are University-level courses but do not carry degree credit.

3. "Entrance credit" designates a course which may be used to meet University admission requirements.

4. "No credit" means that no credit is given for the course, although grades may be assigned (except for students registered on any reduced no-credit tuition plan).

Recording Extension Credits — Credits earned in Extension are entered initially on an Extension record. A College of Liberal Arts, College of Business Administration, College of Education, Institute of Technology or General College student wishing to have degree credits earned in Extension Classes put on his degree transcript, should ask the record clerk (in Morrill Hall) of the college in which he is registered, to transfer the credits. A student wishing to have credits earned in Extension transferred to another institution should ask the Office of Admissions and Records (373-2149), to forward a transcript to that institution.

Use at Other Institutions — The applicability of credits earned in Extension, as in day classes, toward a degree at another institution is determined by that institution.

graduate credit

Only courses numbered with first digits of "5" or "8" may be taken for graduate credit. In addition, courses so numbered must carry in the course description a statement indicating the availability of graduate credit to qualified students, in order to be usable on a graduate program.

Students intending to pursue graduate work through Continuing Education and Extension (CEE) should be familiar with the instructions in the Extension Classes Bulletin and in the Graduate School Bulletin. Graduate School, 322 Johnston Hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 55455 (373-5871).

Planning a University of Minnesota Graduate Program — The student intending to use courses taken through CEE toward a graduate degree is responsible for planning a coherent and relevant program. He is expected to review his plans with the Director of Graduate Studies or with a qualified faculty adviser in the field of his choice.

Procedures — At the time of registration the student wishing graduate credit must indicate this on the registration form. The instructor is thereby notified and, on the student's completion of the course, the instructor indicates on the grade report whether or not the work was done at the graduate level. The entry is then made on the student's CEE transcript. When and if the student applies for and is admitted to the Graduate School and submits his graduate program, he also submits his CEE transcript, which constitutes petition to use the courses he selects from that transcript. The inclusion on a CEE transcript of courses taken at the graduate level does not guarantee either admission to the Graduate School or acceptance of courses on a graduate program.

Except with respect to the Master of Arts in English, the Graduate School will accept only up to 12 applicable credits of courses taken through CEE on any advanced degree program once the student is admitted to the Graduate School. (A department or an adviser may set a maximum below this level for its majors). The student may take more than 12 credits through CEE, but he will be able to apply no more than 12 credits to his program.

All requirements for the master's degree must be completed in seven years. The seven-year program begins with the oldest work included on the official degree program, once it is accepted by the Graduate School.

Use of Graduate Level Work Elsewhere

A student intending to use CEE course work at the graduate level for other than a University of Minnesota graduate degree must indicate on his registration form that he is taking a course for graduate credit. His CEE transcript will show whether or not he took a course for graduate credit. The use of a course so marked is the prerogative of the student and the institution to which he then submits his transcript and is not the responsibility of either CEE or the Graduate School of the University of Minnesota.

Fee — A student who concurrently takes day courses and CEE courses must register on separate forms and pay both day and CEE fees.

credits obtainable without class attendance

If through personal experience or occupation, a student has gained knowledge which he believes should qualify him for University credit, or if a person wishes to work on his own to earn credit for a project several alternatives are available. Students may obtain information on these alternatives by calling the Continuing Education and Extension Counseling Department (373-3905) or the Extension Individual Learning Opportunities (ILOE) Office (373-3973). A handbook which describes the alternatives is available from the ILOE office, 314 Nolte Center. Following is a summary of the various options available.

independent study “y” registration

Many degree credit courses have been identified by academic departments as courses in which students may study independently (designated as a “Y” registration) without attending class sessions. In some instances, written instructions are available; in others, direct consultation with the instructor is necessary for planning the student’s work. Regular fees are charged for independent study “Y” registrations.

Independent study can be arranged for any course so identified by an academic department, whether it is offered in day or evening hours. Department and Instructor approval is necessary and a special form for that purpose, with the appropriate signatures, must be presented at time of registration. Registration is then completed in the usual manner but with a capital “Y” added after the course number. For the Special Permission Form and for further assistance in making “Y” registration, consult the Counseling Department, 314 Nolte Center (373-3905) or Extension Individual Learning Opportunities Office (373-3973).

extra credit “x” registration

Students may register in a degree credit course for 1, 2, or 3 extra credits (Beyond those a course carries) provided the course instructor approves. Fees are charged on the basis of number of credits for which a student is registered. The student works independently, meeting requirements set by the instructor. Extra credit study allows for more intensive study of a course topic or study in a related topic in which no regular course is offered. Department and instructor approval is necessary and a special form for that purpose with the appropriate signatures must be presented at time of registration. Registration is then completed in the usual manner but with a capital “X” after the course number. For the special permission form and for further assistance in making an “X” registration, consult the Counseling Department, 314 Nolte Center (373-3905) or Extension Individual Learning Opportunities Office (373-3973).

directed studies, directed research registration

A wide range of opportunities is available to Extension students for earning college credit for individually designed study or research projects. These projects may be organized around their job activities, their involvement in the community or around special interests that students have in a particular topic. A student wishing credit in Directed Studies or Directed Research should contact a faculty member in the particular area in which he or she is interested, determine if the department lists specific course numbers and titles for such registration and obtain faculty and department approval. A special form for that purpose, with the appropriate signatures, must be presented at time of registration. Registration is then completed in the usual manner with the correct Directed Studies or Directed Research number of the department. For the special permission form and assistance in making Directed Studies or Directed Research registration, consult the Counseling Department, 314 Nolte Center (373-3905) or Extension Individual Learning Opportunities Office (373-3973).

A student who, through independent study, experience, or study at a non-collegiate institution, has gained knowledge which is equivalent to that covered by a particular University course, may earn credit for it by passing a special examination on the subject matter covered by the course. He or she must be a University Extension student at the time of the examination and must obtain approval from the department offering the course. There is a $20 fee. Contact the Counseling Department, 314 Nolte Center (373-3905).

college-level examination program (clep)

The College-Level Examination Program has been established by the College Entrance Examination Board to enable individuals who have acquired their education in nontraditional ways to demonstrate their academic achievement. CLEP examinations in five areas — English, mathematics, natural sciences, social science-history, and humanities — are available for a small fee to Extension Classes students who may be considering entering certain degree programs. A student will receive credit upon passing one or more tests, provided he has a satisfactory score and has not yet completed requirements in the appropriate area. Since the various colleges use different criteria in accepting CLEP results, for detailed information and referral, contact the Counseling Department, 314 Nolte Center (373-3905) or Extension Individual Learning Opportunities Office (373-3973).

independent study through correspondence

The Department of Extension Independent Study offers a wide variety of courses. Courses marked in this Info with (IS) following course titles are also taught through Extension Independent Study. Independent Study courses can be used toward fulfilling distribution requirements in most university undergraduate degree programs; and all Extension certificate programs accept such credits. Credits earned through the Department of Extension Independent Study may be used to satisfy residence requirements. Interested degree students should check with their college offices for confirmation. The Extension Independent Study Bulletin is available from the Department of Extension Independent Study, 45 Westbrook Hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55455 (373-3256).

A student who wants to attend classes, but does not wish to do all the required work, may register as an auditor by placing an “X” in the appropriate box on the registration form except for those courses which indicate in the course description that auditing is not permitted. An auditor is expected to attend class. Auditor status carries no credit. One may not later take for credit a course which has been audited; exceptions to this rule may be allowed upon consultation with an adviser in the college or school concerned. Auditors pay the same tuition and fees as other students.

Requests for change from credit registration to audit registration are made in person, or by writing or calling the Department of Extension Classes, 101 Westbrook Hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55455 (373-3195). After the sixth week of the 10-week term or the third week of a 5-week term, requests for change must be approved by the instructor; approval is granted only if the student is doing passing work at the time of the request. No changes can be made during the last two weeks of any term. No student whose tuition and fees are paid in whole or in part by military, Veterans Administration, company or scholarship funds may register as an auditor. Changes from audit to credit will not be allowed after the second week of any summer term.

Courses audited are officially recorded on the student’s University record and transcript. (See also tuition-reduced plans below.)

tuition-reduced plans (no credit)

Regular Extension credit courses marked with a ♦ symbol after the number and course title in course offerings are open for no-credit registration at reduced tuition.

Registration dates and procedures for ♦ courses are no different than for any nonlimited credit class.

No-credit participants keep up with readings and participate in class discussions, but may not submit work for evaluation or take examinations (no transcript or registration record is maintained).

♦ Half-price plan — Any class marked with a ♦ may be taken for no credit at one-half the regular tuition. (A $10 transfer fee will be charged for transfer from half-price to credit registration). Changes from half-price to credit may not be made after the second week of the term. No transfer fee will be charged for transfer from credit to half-price, nor will any refund be made.

♦ Youth plan — A young adult, age 12 to 16, may register for $3 (not refundable) if accompanied by an adult registered for credit or no credit in the same class. The adult must present a current registration receipt at the time the youth registers, and must assume the responsibility for judging the appropriateness of the class sessions for his young guest. Only unusually mature and genuinely interested young persons who can benefit from college-level lectures and discussions designed for adults should be invited to attend.

off-campus and special courses

An existing credit course may be scheduled anywhere off campus (in a school, church, business, or other neighborhood meeting place) for a sufficiently large group. Also, special noncredit classes can be developed upon request. (Courses of both kinds must be self supporting). Information available in 202 Wesbrook Hall (373-5166).

persons 62 years and older

The University of Minnesota Department of Extension Classes allows persons 62 years and older to register free for any nonlimited-enrollment Extension class for no credit. They may register free for no credit for limited-enrollment classes on a space-available basis after full-tuition students have registered and paid fees.

rules, regulations and policies

fee statements

After registration forms are receipted (cashier), the fifth copy (pink) is a student's fee statement. The fourth copy (white) is to be presented to the instructor the first class session.

Students are urged to save and carry their fee statements which are required as identification for a number of University activities and services.

Students must be sure all copies of their registration forms are legible. If the fee statement is not legible, it cannot be returned to students who register by mail.

A duplicate fee statement may be obtained for fifty cents at 101 Wesbrook Hall in the event the first one is lost or illegible.

changes in course information

All changes occurring after the publication of this Info are posted in the desk copy bulletin at each of the registration locations. Students registered in the previous two years receive current, updated summer information in the April and May issues of Info.

Minnesota state law allows persons 62 and over to register in courses for University credit for $2 a degree, certificate or entrance credit hour (any nonlimited-enrollment class; limited-enrollment classes on a space-available basis).

Limited-enrollment classes are preceded by a ★ (star) in the course description selection of this Info. Registration in limited-enrollment classes may be made beginning with the first week of the term.

informal courses (IC)

Non-credit Informal Courses (see the alphabetically arranged course descriptions section of this Info) are personal, flexible, and noncompetitive courses designed for persons interested in learning for their personal satisfaction. There are no examinations, no transcripts, and no grades.

Youth age 12 to 16 may register for certain IC classes (see course descriptions for details) for $3 when accompanied by an adult registered in the same class.

Registration procedures, dates and locations, unless otherwise noted in the course description, are the same as for other summer evening Extension classes.

transferring classes

Students who wish to transfer classes, or between class sections, after being officially registered can do so in person at 101 Wesbrook Hall.

Students who wish to transfer after an initial registration will be subject to the transfer fees and conditions listed below:

Prior to and during the first week of classes: None. During the second week of classes: $5 (if accepted). During or after the third week of classes: $10 (if accepted).

Students who wish to transfer after the first week of classes must meet the following conditions:

Transfer During the Second Week of the Term — No transfer will be accepted unless the transfer will permit the student to attend class (es) the second week.

Transfer During the Third Week of the Term or After — No transfer will be approved unless the student has attended the second week of the class into which he wishes to transfer, and has obtained written permission from the instructor of the class he wishes to enter.

There will be no transfer fee if: (1) University requests transfer be made; (2) transfer is required by an N grade in prerequisite course; or (3) transfer is required because of University cancellation of course in which previously registered, provided such transfer is made within one week from date of cancellation of class.

Transfers may be made within the same term or between the first 5-week term and the 10-week term during the first three weeks only.

Note: Those wishing to take a University Extension Class for no credit, but who need a transcript and a record of their registration, must register as auditors and pay full tuition.

Students unable to pay full tuition for credit courses may be eligible for tuition assistance (see financial aids and loans).

The student is requested to present his fee statement at the time of transfer.

Veterans — Any veteran registered under the G.I. Bill must notify the Extension Veterans Office, 138 Wesbrook (373-5777) when transferring classes. This is especially important when it changes the credit load.

grade reports and transcripts

Extension students can secure transcripts showing all credits earned in Extension Classes by calling or writing the Office of Admissions and Records, Window 17, Morrill Hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55455 (373-2149). (Extension grades are not automatically recorded on (college) day school transcripts. Students must request this transfer. See recording Extension credits page 40 of the 1975-76 Extension Classes Bulletin.) Reports of students' grades are sent by the University's Office of Admissions and Records and cannot be furnished by the Extension offices. Students are asked to allow a month's time from the close of a term for Admissions and Records to get grades to them. A student who needs a grade sooner may leave a self-addressed postcard with the instructor, who will mail a grade to the student when it is determined.

Students have the right to inspect their University records under provisions of the federal Educational Rights and Privacy Act, as amended in late December, 1974. Educational records, such as contained in the Office of Admissions and Records and other campus and college offices, are available. Some information and files are not available. These include confidential materials received prior to January 1, 1975, and health, counseling and police records.

In addition, under Minnesota law, individuals will be informed upon their request of the content and meaning of information contained in their University student records (except medical, psychiatric, police and records confidential by statute).

Most student records are kept in the Office of Admissions and Records and in other campus and college offices. Students may request to see files in any office they believe has a file or record in their name.

If students who have been informed about the contents of their file wish to contest the accuracy of completeness of information in it, they may do so. A written request for corrective action should be submitted to the office where that information is maintained.

cancellations

cancellations (how to drop a course)

Any student who wishes to cancel a class or classes must do so officially, either in person or by writing to the Department of Extension Classes, 101 Wesbrook Hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55455.

By so doing, he will, if eligible, receive a refund, and will likewise insure entry of the appropriate symbol in his grade report. If a student officially cancels from a class before the mid-point of the term, he will automatically receive a "W" (withdrawal) on his grade report. This symbol means "official cancellation without grade." If a student cancels after the above-stated period, the instructor may give him a "W" if the student is doing passing work. It is advisable that the student inform his instructor of the reason for cancelling.

Do not stop payment on a check. If a stop payment is issued on a check submitted as payment of tuition:

- 1) It is considered to be a cancellation of the classes registered for.
- 2) A hold will be placed on the student's record until:
 - a) a $2 check handling fee is paid, and
 - b) the tuition normally held in accordance with the refund policy is paid.

No student is permitted to cancel during the last two weeks of the term (this includes final examination week). Cancellations must be made in person or by letter (telephone calls not acceptable).

NO INSTRUCTOR IS AUTHORIZED TO ACCEPT CANCELLATIONS OF ANY REGISTRATION.

The effective date of cancellation will be the day on which the cancellation is received in an Extension Classes office, regardless of the date of the student's last attendance. (Cancellations by mail are effective the date of postmark). It is important, therefore, that whenever a student stops attending a class, he should officially cancel by filling out the appropriate forms at any Extension Classes office.

Veterans — Any veteran registered under the G.I. Bill must notify the Extension Veterans Office, 138 Wesbrook (373-5777) when canceling a class. This is especially important when it changes the credit load.

cancellation of, or change in, schedule (made by department of extension classes)

While the Department sincerely regrets to do so, it is forced to cancel classes with insufficient enrollment. The department reserves the right to cancel, postpone, limit enrollment, split, or combine classes, and to change instructors and/or locations of classes.

refunds

Refunds for classes from which students withdraw will be made in accordance with the following schedule:

1. Full refund of all tuition and special fees will be made:

- a. When a class is cancelled by Extension Classes; when the hour or day of the class is changed by Extension Classes after a student has registered in it; or when, in the opinion of the instructor, the student does not have the necessary prerequisites, or the student has already had the equivalent material in another class. In the last two cases, the student must do the following before the end of the second week of classes:

1. Ask the instructor for a note stating the above circumstances.
2. Present this note, together with the fee statement, in person at 101 Westbrook Hall, or by mail. After the second week of classes the regular refund regulations will apply. It is the student's responsibility to obtain and present this note as above.

- b. To any student who has been recalled, or who has enlisted, upon presentation of military orders, provided the student would not be entitled to an appropriate grade at such time.
- c. To students who have been ill or hospitalized and wish consideration for a full refund. They should obtain a doctor's statement (on the doctor's letterhead) indicating that in the opinion of the doctor the student was unable to continue for medical reasons.

2. Late fees and/or transfer fees are not refundable.
3. Refunds for cancellation of classes after the opening date of each term (except as indicated in item 2 above) will be made according to the chart below.

Cancellations by mail are effective the date of postmark.

For convenience, this information is also printed on the student's copy of the registration form (pink fee statement).

Refunds for special term courses are based on percentages below in relation to the length of the term.

Refunds are paid by check only and are mailed to the student. A minimum of four weeks is required for processing a refund.

	5-week term	10-week term
a. Refund before 1st class*	100%	100%
b. Refund before 2nd class	75%	75%
c. Refund before 3rd class	50%	50%
d. Refund before 4th class	25%	25%
e. Refund before 5th class	none	none

* A $3 cancellation fee will be charged for cancellation of classes before the first class meeting in any term. The balance of the tuition and special fees will be refunded.

informal courses

Informal Courses are an exciting way to learn. They are personal. Students and instructor share experiences and learn from one another in a relaxed atmosphere. They are non-competitive. There are no examinations, no transcripts, no grades and no credits. They are flexible. You take them to stretch your mind, gain some skills, or to have some fun. There are no previous educational requirements. A high school diploma isn't a necessity, but one or two college degrees won't hold you back. A willingness to participate and an eagerness to learn are the only requirements.

IC 0001 INDIVIDUAL AND FAMILY BUDGET PLANNING. No credit, $16 (second member of household $8; youth $3). Learn to develop and manage your personal or family budget. You will acquire - on a basic level - the specific skills and abilities to use credit wisely, discriminate between your needs and wants in spending, set financial goals and develop contingency savings funds. Emphasis is on experiential learning. The budgeting experiences in which you participate in and out of the classroom are designed to become part of your lifestyle immediately. Confidentiality will be maintained throughout the course. Materials will be provided at the first class meeting; no other textbook purchase is necessary. Class sessions vary in length from 1 to 2-½ hours. The first session will be one hour in length.

campus activities, services and facilities

athletic facilities

A Continuing Education and Extension student may use the athletic facilities of the University during scheduled recreation hours by paying a fee equivalent to that paid by day school students. The fee can be paid at the time of registration. The fee for summer 1975 was $4.76 for the ten-week term and $2.38 for each five-week term. Fees are subject to change without notice.

The athletic facilities include pools, gymnasiums, skating rink, tennis courts, fields, diamonds, track, and golf courses. However, there is a separate user charge for the ice rink, tennis courts and golf courses. Separate locker and towel rental is also available.

Payment of the fee entitles the student to use the facilities during the term for which he or she is registered, except that students registered for Spring Quarter or Spring Semester may use the facilities during the summer until the opening date of Welcome Week Sept. 22, 1976. Since facilities are heavily used, often to capacity, their use may be restricted occasionally.

The fee is paid in the Extension Classes office and will be entered on a receipt separate from the fee statement. Students must present this receipt when they wish to use the facilities. If the student cancels classes, he must surrender his facility fee receipt at the time of cancellation. The athletic facilities fee will not be refunded after the second week of classes. No refund will be made without surrender of the athletic facilities fee statement.

health services

Extension Classes students registered for Extension credits (or Extension and day credits) may enroll for University Health Service benefits. The cost of the service (six credits and $29 for the ten-week term; three credits and $14.50 for each five-week term) entitles students to use the University Health Service. Fees are subject to change without notice.

(Health Service hours: 8 a.m. - 7 p.m., Monday - Friday; Saturday, 8 a.m. - 6 p.m. Closed Sunday and holidays.)

Medical care and health counseling are provided to students who pay the above fee. No charge is made for general care or for consultations with a specialist on physical or mental health problems. Intensive investigation and/or treatment of pre-existing, chronic conditions are not covered by the Health Service; however, such services may be arranged for, but at the student's expense.

Fee-paying students also receive diagnostic laboratory and x-ray services up to $100 a quarter; needed diagnostic procedures costing more than this amount which are not collectable from the student's private insurance are the student's obligation. Physical therapy and x-ray therapy are provided up to a limit of $250 a quarter. Charges are made on a cost basis for prescription drugs, glasses, and dentistry.

The Health Service Fee does not include hospitalization benefits nor coverage for services related to hospitalization including surgery. Students who have this type of coverage will be expected to provide the name of the insurance carrier along with their group and contract numbers at the time of registration. Students who do not have private hospitalization and surgical coverage, including benefits for inpatient medical care, must complete an application form for this coverage at the time of registration; the premium for this coverage will be paid in Extension Classes and will be entered on a receipt separate from the fee statement. This receipt (available in 101 Wesbrook Hall) must be presented when using the Health Service. The ten-week single rate is $13.50; the family rate is $38. The five-week single rate is $6.75; the family rate is $19.

Students who cancel their registration before the first week of classes will receive a 100% refund of the health service fee upon surrender of the health service receipt. Students wishing a refund of the health service fee during the first two weeks of classes must present a statement from the health service stating they have not used any of the facilities, in addition to the health service receipt. The health service fee is not refundable after the second week of classes.

Students interested in enrolling in the Health Service Plan should do so at the time of registration and may not enroll in the plan after the second week of the term.

For additional information on these and other benefits, call 373-3195 and request the booklet, "Your Health Service," or pick it up at 101 Wesbrook Hall.

Music in Minnesota

The many voices of the land

In southwest Minnesota, Norwegian hymns can be heard in the churches of small towns, while Mexican music pervades homes and churches in West St. Paul. As Blacks sing their unique spirituals in a basement church in St. Paul, Ukrainian children in Minneapolis learn to play a stringed instrument of their heritage, the bandura.

Professor Riedel

The great diversity of music in Minnesota will be discussed in a spring quarter Extension course, Music in Minnesota II, (Music 5950), to be taught by Professor Johannes Riedel. This Thursday-evening course is new this year, and may be taken at half price for no credit, or full price for credit. Telephone 373-3195 for registration information.

"Minnesota's high standards of musical culture are well known," says Riedel, "and this is due to the musical talents of a great variety of ethnic groups. Germans, Blacks, Scandinavians, Czechs, Dutch, Chicanos, and many others have been musically active over the years."

Riedel explains that churches have played an influential role in the music of various groups, cultivating musical activities in denominations. For example, some Lutheran churches have "choir school days," which includes instruction in music, drawing, and theater, in addition to religion.

Much of Riedel's expertise in the subject of Minnesota music arises out of a series of trips he made in 1974 to towns in southwest Minnesota, where he observed and listened to the music of the communities. Later he returned to the various towns with programs of slides and local performers.

Riedel has found that persons of all ages in Minnesota are interested in their musical heritage. While older people are concerned with the preservation of ethnic traditions, they and younger people also participate in distinct regional musical events. Many young adults, for example, join neighborhood choruses and square dance clubs.

In studying each community's music, Riedel gained a broad understanding of Minnesota's regional diversity. "By applying this pattern all over the state, one could become very aware of the multiplicity of ethnic life styles," he says.

This understanding will also be evident in his series of television programs on Channel 2 during spring quarter, "American Popular Music," (Music 5711), offered through Continuing Education and Extension's Department of Independent Study.

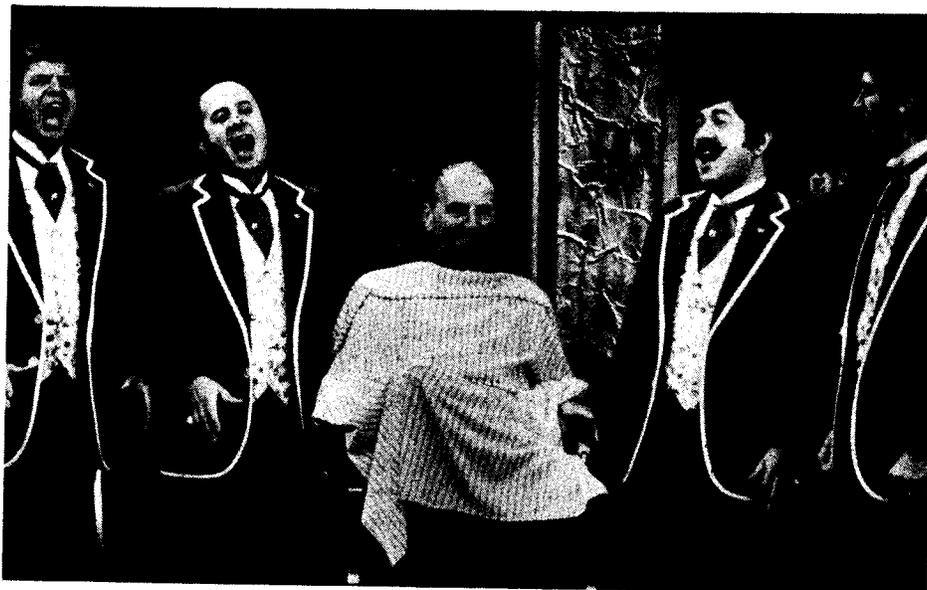

"In this program, during the bicentennial," says Riedel, "I will illustrate the pluralism of the sophisticated cultural life in Minnesota."

The course will look at popular music in the United States during the nineteenth century, considering the most important influences in the history of American music. Primary among these, according to Riedel, are band music and Black music, especially Ragtime.

"Ragtime exhibits a great sophistication of form and structure," he says. "The short piano rags of Joplin can be compared to the short piano pieces of Chopin and Mozart in their form and structure."

Other programs in the series will deal with the music of Chicanos and Native Americans, with the music heard in what Riedel calls the "average community churches," with Scandinavian music, and several other types. Performers Riedel met in his travels around the state will appear on some of the programs.

For further information on taking the television Independent Study course, call 376-4925.

Time to file for University Senate

Want to have a say in your University government? Think about running for the University Senate.

This spring you have 16 chances to land a spot on the University's academic governing body. From May 3 through 9, Extension students will vote in the classroom or by mail for eight senators and eight alternates.

Candidates must file their papers between March 8 and April 7, 1976.

Elected senators (or alternates) will join faculty and day school student senators in the University Senate to consider both the University's internal affairs and its role in the community.

You'll also sit on the Extension Classes Student Board with other appointed student members and faculty representatives. The Board meets the first Friday evening of each month to deal with current issues of importance to Extension students.

If you are thinking about filing as an Extension candidate, check to see if you meet these eligibility requirements:

1. You must be planning to register for fall Extension Classes.
2. You must carry three Extension credits at time of election.
3. You must have earned a minimum of 12 University of Minnesota credits within the past five years.

Filing forms for the Senate election, other election information and details on Student Board appointments may be obtained at 180 Westbrook Hall, Minneapolis campus, telephone 376-7500. Forms will also be mailed to each Extension class instructor for distribution to students.

Ballots will be distributed in class and at 180 Westbrook during the election. Voters will need to show a paid fee statement.

To be an appointee to the Student Board, you need only be a student currently registered in an Extension class.

Study art this summer on Long Island

The departments of Extension Classes and Studio Arts will offer three studio arts courses this summer on the south shore of Long Island, New York.

Offered in conjunction with the summer program of Southampton College,* the courses will be held July 7 to August 3. They will be taught by University of Minnesota assistant professor of studio arts Victor Caglioti, who regularly serves on the staff of the Southampton College summer program.

Courses offered at regular University tuition rates are:

Painting (Studio Arts 1105/3120/5120) 4 credits, $25 studio fee

Drawing (Studio Arts 1101/1102/3110/5110) 4 credits, $25 studio fee

(Consult the current Extension Classes Bulletin for course descriptions of the courses listed above.)

Twentieth Century Art Theories (Studio Arts Seminar 5400, prerequisite: consent of instructor) 2 credits, taught in conjunction with professional artists.

Directed and Independent Study registrations are also possible.

Southampton is minutes from miles of sandy beach on the Atlantic Ocean and the bay is in the midst of the renowned Hamptons area art colony. Many eminent artists live and work nearby, and exhibit at the many local galleries and museums.

Throughout the summer program, lectures, concerts, films and theatrical productions are presented in the evenings at 8 p.m. All the attractions of a summer resort are available, from surfing and tennis to golf and a dip in the campus outdoor pool.

Registrants may live at the college for the four-week term. Weekly rates are $65 for a double room, $70 for a single, and $80 for a double used as a single. All rates include 19 meals a week. The board plan is mandatory for persons residing in the college dormitory.

Registrants must provide their own transportation to Southampton.

June 1 is the deadline for registration. If you have questions, telephone Gail Fraser in Extension Classes at 373-3926. Register in room 101 Westbrook Hall.

* Southampton College was established as a center of Long Island University in 1963. It is a private coeducational, liberal arts college.

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA

Summer study opportunities abound

The world can be your campus

Imagine yourself bargaining for merchandise at a Turkish bazaar, digging for artifacts in Israel, or learning photography with the cathedrals of Germany and Italy as your subjects.

This summer, you can take that trip to Europe you've been dreaming of. In the process, you'll be given many unique opportunities to learn. "Study abroad" programs for summer 1976 are offered through various offices of the University; programs are open to Extension as well as day students, as long as specific program prerequisites are met.

The International Study and Travel Center is offering three notable tours. Turkish Crafts will study weaving, jewelry-making, coppersmithing, rug-making, and other crafts as students travel through the regions of Turkey. Cost for the June 14-July 15 trip will be approximately $950.

Western Europe for the Beginning Photographer will combine the discovery of other cultures with the opportunity to learn basic photographic skills. The instruction will run from June 14 to July 4, and will cost about $900.

Thailand, Singapore, Malaysia and Indonesia will be the subjects of Cultures of Southeast Asia. After a pre-departure orientation, students will spend six to eight weeks touring these countries, participating in seminars and local events, for about $1,500.

For more information on these three tours contact the International Study and Travel Center, 40 Coffman Union, 373-1080.

The German Language Program will offer instruction in Conversational German, Composition, Modern German Literature, and Contemporary German Civilization and Culture, in Bochum, Germany, from June 15 - July 16. The cost for room, board, and tuition will be approximately $550. For more information contact the Department of German, 222 Folwell Hall, 373-2624.

The Department of Classics will sponsor a trip to Tel Beersheva, Israel, where students will participate in an archaeological excavation, as well as in a program including fieldwork and field trips. Students will be able to earn University credit for the "dig." For further details call Steve Derfler at 373-0186.

Various programs for teachers and prospective teachers of foreign languages will be held this summer in France, Germany, and Spain. Participants in the July 1 to August 12 programs will be allowed to work toward completion of an individual contract which combines study, travel, and preparation of teaching materials. Call Language Work-In Programs, 224 Peik Hall, at 373-5104, for more details.

The crafts and family life of Finland will be the focus of a nine-week program that will relate Finnish culture to aesthetics, family value systems, and life styles. Credit for the program will be offered through both the departments of Family Social Science and Design. Approximate cost will be $2,400. For further information contact Richard Hey, 204 North Hall, 373-1578, or David Ordos, 202 Westbrook Hall, 373-5167.

For a more unusual trip, travel to Yugoslavia and study the cultural achievements of the south Slavs. Dates for the tour are June 14 - July 15; for more information call Marilyn Sjoberg, 253 Elliott Hall, 373-5079.

Field Study in International Agriculture: this course will provide field and classroom instruction in agricultural production and marketing and in natural resource production in various Mediterranean countries. The $1,850 cost will include tuition, transportation, main meals, and lodging. Dates: June 14 - July 26. For more details call Malcolm Purvis, Department of Agricultural and Applied Economics, 373-0951.

The Office of Special Learning Opportunities can assist a student in constructing an independent program where he or she can earn University credit while abroad. The OSLO advisor also has information regarding credit by exam for learning experiences abroad. Call Jim Fremming, OSLO, 201 Westbrook Hall, 373-7550.

The University's Summer Arts Study Center will offer 39 one- and two-week workshops in all areas of the arts June 14 through August 6 at Quadna Mountain Resort in northern Minnesota. Sponsored by Continuing Education and Extension in cooperation with the Grand Rapids Performing Arts Council, the summer workshops are planned for people with a general background as well as those seeking advanced degree work with an expert. All recreational facilities at Quadna (pool, tennis courts, lake and golf course) are available to participants. For a descriptive brochure, write Summer Arts Study Center, University of Minnesota, 1128 LaSalle Ave., Minneapolis MN 55403; or telephone 373-1925.

Special program set in June for elementary teachers

Elementary school teachers and students preparing for teaching careers may be interested in a special summer course in England offered through Extension Classes.

"Workshop: Curriculum Laboratory Practice" (Elementary Education 5347) will be offered from June 17 to July 2 at the University of Sussex, Brighton, England. The course will analyze British curricula using the "thematic" approach, with special interest in the "integrated day" concept.

The workshop will entail some direct involvement in British classrooms, and British educators will contribute their expertise.

The course carries six undergraduate or graduate credits. Cost for the class, accommodations, and food will be about $650.

The course is scheduled so that students may use University charter flights, offered through the International Study and Travel Center (373-0180). Flights are also offered through other agencies; transportation costs will be approximately $300-$380.

If you'd like to register for the course, send a deposit check for $50, payable to the University of Minnesota, to the Department of Extension Classes, 202 Westbrook Hall, Minneapolis MN 55455, no later than April 16, 1976.

Questions about registration and costs should be directed to David Ordos, 373-5167; questions about course content can be directed to Professor Roger T. Johnson, 373-5793.

The Walter Library reserve reading room is open until 1 a.m., Sunday through Thursday, on a trial basis spring quarter and summer. Reserved books may be obtained until 10 p.m. and books may be kept until the reading room closes. The mall front entrance will be the only open door during late hours. This extended service has been made available for Extension students at the request of the Extension Student Board.

Closest parking to Walter Library is the lot east of Northrop Auditorium which charges 50¢ an hour until 10:45 p.m. (then it is free). Free parking is also available after 9 p.m. in lot C6 on the south side of Washington Ave., adjacent to the bridge (entrance on River Road). Both lots are open free on Sunday. The Northrop lot is not free when a concert is scheduled.

A second five-week Extension summer evening class has been added since the publication of summer information in the March Info. It is Management 3001, Sec. 24, TTh, 6-8:30, taught by Frank Seidel in 440 Blegen Hall.

Student editorial column...

(This space is available for comments from students)

by Bev Anderson
Extension Senator

For the Extension student, there are three steps in the University political ladder: the Extension Student Board, which represents Extension and Continuing Education students; the Twin Cities Student Assembly (TCSA)—which represents all students at the University; and the University Senate—which is about 2/3 faculty representatives and 1/3 students.

Recently there has been a lot of controversy about TCSA. Many people feel we shouldn't bother to attend its meetings. Most of the time is spent discussing student fees (which Extension students don't pay), and how they should be used.

TCSA meetings are held on Thursday afternoons making it hard for working Extension senators to attend.

Others say we should try to be represented there because things sometimes come up which affect Extension students, and our representatives gain valuable political ties from being involved in TCSA.

Recently the Extension senators succeeded in getting themselves exempted from TCSA's quorum rules. This means that missing more than two meetings doesn't disqualify senators. So even if only a few senators attend, Extension is still represented.

Yet the question is still posed: do Extension students gain anything from being represented in TCSA? There is a lot of controversy about TCSA's effectiveness lately. Two committee chairmen and the speaker are resigning. Should we spend our time here? Or stick to Extension board affairs?

If you have a comment or an opinion, please contact one of your Extension senators. Write Extension Classes, Room 180, Westbrook Hall, for a list of names of Extension Student Board members and telephone numbers.

Library Course

"Everyman's Guide to the Whole Library" is a free, two-night course that introduces students to the basic components of a library. Because of unexpectedly large turnouts at the first two courses, additional meetings of the course are scheduled for April.

The course is in two parts. Part I, on April 8, will instruct students on how to find reference materials. Part II, April 15, will discuss the organization of resources.

Both sessions are from 6:30 - 9 pm in 230 Anderson Hall on the University's West Bank campus.

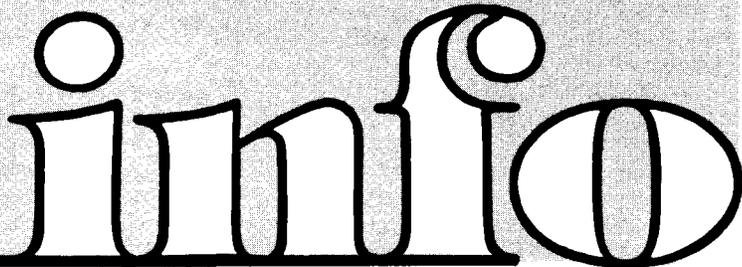

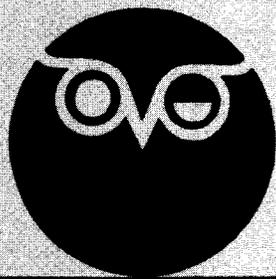

To find out how to join the class and to obtain campus and parking maps, please call 376-4815, or write Department of Extension Classes, 202 Westbrook Hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 55455. Or, just register when you come to the class.

Students praise Informal Courses

People with limited time are finding that Extension's no-credit Informal Courses offer a unique chance to explore special topics of personal interest, without the time needed for credit classes.

The results of a survey of students in last fall's Informal Courses showed that, on the whole, people were very enthusiastic about the program. One of the most enthusiastic, a 36 year-old retailer who took a course in An Overview of Modern Geology, said, "This Informal series is an excellent method of bringing higher levels of knowledge to the average person without the extensive involvement of the full-time student—a program even the taxpayers can appreciate and join!"

On the average, persons taking Informal Courses last fall had received more education and were somewhat older than Extension credit registrants. Of the 489 fall quarter Informal Courses registrants, 85% had finished some college education, and 31% of those had gone beyond the bachelor's degree. While the average age of students in the program was 31, about 12% were 60 or older. Almost half the students were new to Extension Classes.

One reflection of the great variety of students attending the courses was shown in the enrollment for the non-fiction writing workshop. Students in the class included a woman writing on a cooking contest she'd conducted, an unpublished author, a medical researcher, a student who wrote reports for government agencies, a Ph.D. candidate in economics, and a woman who wanted to write a combination family history and song book.

Most people took Informal Courses because they were personally interested in specific topics, or desired intellectual enrichment in general. Various other reasons for taking Informal Courses were cited, such as the need for new knowledge, the reduced price of Informal Courses, and the desire to get away from the daily routine.

The short-term nature of Informal Courses was perhaps the most attractive feature of the program. As a 35 year-old woman enrolled in last fall's Chess: the books I can read at a later time. It was easier to find people who would commit themselves to babysit one night a week for six weeks rather than 10. Great idea!!

Students made suggestions for the program which have helped in planning for future classes. Next year, look for Informal Courses in such topics as American ethnics, contemporary women poets, animals of the north woods, and many more.

Royal Game course said:

This idea of a six-week program was ideal. Since I work on art projects and have a family, my time is very precious. I appreciated being able to take a course that I didn't have to prepare for, yet could if I had time. Certainly my interest was generated and I now have a list of

Counseling department grows with increased Extension student needs

Over the past ten years, more and more Extension students have taken advantage of the many services offered by Continuing Education and Extension's Department of Counseling.

In its annual report, issued in February on the Counseling Department's tenth anniversary, statistics showed that the number of contacts interviewed by Extension counselors between July, 1974 and June, 1975 totaled 14,996, an increase of 567% over Counseling's first complete year.

Women continue to comprise an increasingly larger percentage of the total group of students. When the department first opened in 1966, only 20% of the students interviewed by counselors were women, but the 1975 figure was 50%.

Extension counselors offer a battery of tests as part of the counseling process. In 1975, 386 students requested and took these tests—a 15% increase over 1974.

Counseling Director Vera Schletzer noted in the report that "one of the most startling changes in the goals and aspirations of Extension students" was the increase in the number of students accepted into degree programs. The 1975 report indicates 1635 students had been accepted into degree-granting colleges. This reflected a 70% rise over the previous year.

The average ages of students using the Counseling Department have remained consistent over the past ten years. In 1975 67% of the students (5460) were 30 or younger.

The increasing number of students enrolled in Extension certificate programs is another sign of the vocational orientation of Extension students. Almost 350 students received certificates last year in the 32 certificate programs Extension offers.

In addition to advising and counseling individual students, the Counseling department also offers such services as advising in industrial locations, a special counseling series for mature women, group counseling, life planning sessions, and planning sessions in various colleges.

Man finishes degree in only 2½ years through Extension

The plan, says Bob Zohlmann, was to do it the quick way.

He's a 26-year-old customer service representative with 3M Business Products who services copy machines on the University campus. He's a senator on the Extension Student Board. And in his spare time he's completing his Bachelor's degree in Political Science—earned entirely in only two-and-one-half years!

"I'll finish in June," Zohlmann says. "I'm not done yet, but by the grace of God I'll finish it in June."

Zohlmann enrolled in Extension classes with a clear objective. He wanted to go to law school. It was a decision he and his wife made together—"an absurd decision," he smiles. With that goal, Zohlmann sat down and mapped out a class schedule for the next couple of years.

When he graduates in June, Zohlmann will have exactly 180 credits. "I took only the classes I needed to graduate," he says.

Then Zohlmann will be off to Hamline Law School. He hopes to become involved in some form of trial work, preferably within the framework of housing rehabilitation. Zohlmann is familiar with that area, having served on an advisory committee to the St. Paul mayor's office. "It's interesting to me," says Zohlmann, "and I hope to continue in that field."

He pauses for a moment, reflecting on the past two-and-one-half years. "It's not that hard. That's just the way I do things."

Foreign degree program combines study, travel

A new degree program, offered by the University College and available to Extension students, combines University degree coursework with study overseas.

The Foreign Studies Degree Program is a pilot program, started during the past academic year. It allows a student to obtain a bachelor's degree in foreign studies, or to integrate the program with a major in any discipline. This includes majors offered through Extension, provided the student can spend an academic quarter overseas.

The program begins with a series of inter-cultural workshops that provide a general orientation to overseas study. During the second year of the program, the student prepares for study in a specific foreign country, focusing on its history and culture.

The student must also demonstrate competency in that country's language. A three-quarter interdisciplinary seminar prior to departure to a foreign country entails cultural awareness study, study of cross-cultural communications, and development of research skills.

Preparation will also include contact with foreign nationals studying on the University campus. To help facilitate personal interaction, a peer advising system is being developed that will consist of University students who have completed the overseas study and foreign students who attend the University of Minnesota.

The actual study and travel portion of the program involves about three months overseas. Upon returning to the University, the student participates in an integrative seminar with others who have studied in foreign countries.

Financial aids for the required overseas study will not be offered directly by the program. Students will, however, be directed to other aid sources.

Special advising will be available to students in the program. For further information, contact Margarita Gangotena or Jeanne Andre at 321 Walter Library; phone 376-5378.

in short . . .

Students registering with Regents' Scholarships for nonlimited Extension classes may register either by mail or in person, after the first week of mail registration. If you register by mail enclose the approved Regents' Scholarship form, completed registration forms, and a check payable to the University of Minnesota for the course fees and any special fees.

Space in limited-enrollment courses may also be reserved by telephone or in person. No refunds will be given to students who wish to apply Regents' Scholarships toward limited enrollment classes for which they have already paid fees.

University staff members working at least 75% time are eligible to apply for Regents' Scholarships through the Training Division. Scholarships cover tuition only for approved classes. All course fees, special fees, and late fees must be paid by the student.

See the section in the Summer Bulletin on "How to Register" for the dates and hours of each term. For further information about eligibility and application procedures, call the Training Division, 404 Johnston Hall, 373-4366.

The Counseling Department will be closed July 5-9 for staff training meetings.

Dennis Hower is the new division coordinator for the science, business, and mathematics bachelors programs. Hower replaced Pat Kroll at the end of March. He may be reached at 373-5241 or a message may be left at 373-4816.

A Composition Proficiency Test that would exempt advanced standing students from all or part of the freshmen English requirement will be administered every Thursday and Friday afternoon during Spring quarter, from 2:15 to 4 p.m. in 325 Lind Hall.

Only students with 38 or more credits at the University may take the test. A student who has completed Comp 1001 and received a grade of A or B in any English 1-level course, or completed any writing course offered by the English department, may qualify for the exemption.

The test consists of writing an impromptu theme on a designated topic. All students who plan to graduate in 1976 and who have an overall GPA of at least 3.2 are invited to apply for exemption.

For further information, call Julie Carson at 373-2595.

A special Design course in rendering (Dsgn 3451) will be offered this summer from June 14 to July 13, Monday and Tuesday evenings from 6 to 9 p.m., at 305 McNeal on the St. Paul Campus. Tuition for the three-credit course is $43.50.

The class will include both lectures and lab work to learn the approach to visual presentation: floor plans, elevations and perspective rendering. Also covered will be the use of values and colors as applied to rendering.

Instructor for the course is Alice Goacher. The class is limited to 25 students; to insure a place in the class, call 373-5166 for registration, before May 17.

Veterans whose benefits end May 31, 1976 should notify the Extension Veterans Office, 373-5777. This will assist in keeping the filing system up to date.
