

SENATE MEETING

THURSDAY, MARCH 4, 1965

3:30 P. M.

MURPHY HALL AUDITORIUM

The voting membership of the Senate totals 159 including the President and 158 elected members. For a quorum, a majority of the voting membership (80) must be present. Constitution changes require advance publication and 106 affirmative votes. By-Law changes require 80 affirmative votes. Other actions require only a simple majority of members present and voting. The members of the Administrative Committee are ex officio nonvoting members of the Senate.

All members of the faculty who hold regular appointment as defined in the Regulations Concerning Academic Tenure may be present at Senate meetings and are entitled to speak and to offer motions for Senate action, but may not vote.

Members of standing committees who are not faculty, including student members, may be present at a meeting of the Senate during such time as a report of their committee is under discussion and may participate in such discussion, but shall not have the privilege of making motions or of voting.

A special section will be provided for the seating of such faculty and such members of standing committees.

Provision has been made for the University News Service to send the Senate Docket to the news media in advance of each meeting and to arrange a news conference at the close of each meeting with the vice chairman and others he may designate.

ATTENDANCE RECORD

A roll of elected and ex officio members will be circulated during the meeting. Members will please check their names to indicate their presence. If the list misses you, please stop afterward to check your name. The roll, after adjournment, will be on the rostrum.

An attendance record for nonmembers will also be circulated and will be on the rostrum after the meeting.

As voted by the Senate, a summary of the attendance of members elected for the current academic year will be included in the June minutes.

NOT FOR RELEASE PRIOR TO THE SENATE MEETING

Year 1964-65

No. 4

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA THE SENATE DOCKET

March 4, 1965

Your Committee on Business and Rules respectfully presents the following matters for consideration:

I. MINUTES OF FEBRUARY 4, 1965

Reported for Action

II. REPORT OF THE ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE

Reported for Information

1. Statement on Conflict of Interest in Government-Sponsored Research. There was a joint statement from the Council of the American Association of University Professors and the American Council on Education, dated December 1964, dealing with the prevention of conflicts of interest in government-sponsored research at universities. Copies were distributed for study prior to consideration of the statement at the next meeting of the Administrative Committee.

2. Job Recruitment Procedures Involving Contact with University Students. Frequently announcements are sent to the faculty asking that classes be advised of the presence on campus of recruiters for various organizations. Representatives of certain organizations are reported to have visited classrooms during class time to interest students in job placement. Such activities may become quite inappropriate and intrude excessively on class time, it was noted, unless controlled at the college and departmental levels. Faculty members can and do control, while at the same time opportunity for contact with students is provided through the usual placement offices and officials. The best and most appropriate service can be given when organizations send prior notice of visits by their representatives; the University is enabled to provide the times and places for student interviews.

3. Selection of Administrative Interns, 1966-1967. Candidates for 1965-1966 in the recently announced American Council on Education Internship Program in Academic Administration, supported by a grant from the Ford Foundation, were dealt with through a small special committee set up by the President's Office. Elmer Learn served as chairman and the committee considered our nominations in terms of the established criteria and the probable benefits to the University. In planning for nominees in the next academic year, anticipating the 1966-1967 program, the President desired suggestions. It was indicated that the committee procedure heretofore employed seemed to be satisfactory, subject to the possible addition of ad hoc representation of the unit from which each nominee comes. It was also indicated that it should be made clearer to the University community that there could be a more liberal selection of candidates from the junior teaching ranks, inasmuch as fellowships are not intended to be confined to persons already active in administrative work.

4. Report of the Committee on University Honors. The Advisory Architect, Professor W. A. Close, had asked the Committee on University Honors to consider names for the proposed faculty housing units in the block formerly occupied by the Pillsbury mansion, until recently the residence of the University President. Since the development is expected to consist of four clusters of twelve houses each, each cluster entered by a narrow pedestrian mew enclosed by a metal gateway, there are various possibilities for naming the units. For example, the entire project might carry one name and each of the four mews could have separate or additional names. Various name combinations were discussed in reference to early major benefactors of the University, former Presidents, and the like. Since a number of interesting and complex problems were associated with possible names, it was decided to postpone action to allow for further exploration of possibilities and receipt of additional suggestions. Dean Morse particularly indicated that the honors committee would welcome suggestions from the staff.

5. Changes in the President's Staff. The President introduced James H. Hammill who, by assisting in the administrative office, will release some of the time of Elmer L. Learn for planning activities.

R. E. SUMMERS, Secretary

(There will be a pause in the proceedings to permit the seating of the non-Senate members of the Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics for the discussion of their report.)

IV. NEW BUSINESS

V. NECROLOGY

EDWIN HOPKINS FORD

1891-1964

Edwin H. Ford, associate professor emeritus of journalism and University of Minnesota faculty member for 27 years, died September 5, 1964, in Minneapolis of cancer. He was 73.

Known especially for his courses in literary journalism and history of journalism, Professor Ford taught in the School of Journalism from 1929 until his retirement in 1956.

Born in Mazeppa, Minnesota, June 7, 1891, he received his B.A. from Stanford University in 1915, an M.A. in English from Harvard University in 1927, and an M.S. in journalism from Columbia University in 1928. He was a reporter and copy reader for the Minneapolis Journal in 1916-17 and a reporter, editorial writer, and columnist for the Seattle Post-Intelligencer during 1919-23. He enlisted in the Navy during World War I and was associate editor of Navy Life magazine. Before joining the Minnesota faculty he taught at University of Washington, Harvard University, and University of Oregon.

Insisting that there is a strong bond between literature and journalism, Professor Ford pioneered at Minnesota a lecture and writing course in Literary Aspects of Journalism which became nationally known. Both it and his course in Critical Writing were favorites of journalism and English students.

He compiled two extensive bibliographies in American literary journalism and history of journalism. His Highlights in the History of the American Press, a Book of Readings, was published by the University of Minnesota Press in 1954. He also published articles on colonial and Minnesota journalism history. Minnesota editors gave him a distinguished service award in 1950 in recognition of his long teaching career and his interest in Minnesota journalism history.

When news of his serious illness became known last spring, a group of colleagues and former students arranged for book publication of a series of "Christmas Poems" which Professor Ford had written annually since 1958. More than 100 letters of reminiscence and tribute from former students and colleagues poured into his hospital room from all parts of the country in response to the thin volume.

An Edwin H. Ford Lecture Series in the Literary Aspects of Journalism has been established at the University to bring distinguished speakers in that field to the campus annually. Memorial gifts have financed the series.

Professor Ford is survived by his wife, Marie, who is chief of the public health education section of the Minnesota Department of Health.

HARVEY H. HOYT

1915-1964

Harvey H. Hoyt, professor, head of the Department of Veterinary Medicine and Clinics and associate dean, College of Veterinary Medicine, died December 17, 1964, at the age of 49 of Hodgkin's disease.

Dr. Hoyt was born in Deer Creek, Minnesota, June 7, 1915. He received his elementary and secondary education in the Deer Creek Public School. From 1937 to 1938, he attended the University of Minnesota. In 1938, he transferred to Iowa State College where he received his doctor of veterinary medicine degree in 1942. As an undergraduate he was elected to Phi Kappa Phi and won the George Judison award for highest scholastic achievement in his graduating class.

Immediately following graduation, he accepted a position as a veterinarian in the Wisconsin Animal Disease Control Laboratory at Madison. He was in charge of this diagnostic laboratory from 1942 to 1948 when he returned to the University of Minnesota to become an instructor in veterinary medicine. In 1950 he received his Ph.D. degree. From 1950 to 1951 he was an assistant professor of veterinary medicine. In 1951 he became associate professor and was advanced to professor in 1954, when he became head of the Department of Veterinary Medicine and Clinics. He accepted additional responsibilities and became associate dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine in 1964.

Dr. Hoyt was an excellent teacher of infectious diseases of animals and this was one of his many outstanding contributions in which he dedicated his life to the clinical training of students in veterinary medicine.

He was also active in research and published many papers on animal diseases. His research interests were primarily mastitis, bovine porphyria and respiratory diseases of cattle, but he published papers on many other diseases as well.

Dr. Hoyt was a member of many professional organizations and was very active in these associations. He was a member of the American Veterinary Medical Association, Minnesota Veterinary Medical Association, Twin City Veterinary Medical Association, United States Livestock Sanitary Association, Conference of Research Workers in Animal Diseases of North America, American Association of Academic Veterinary Clinicians, New York Academy of Sciences, National Mastitis Council, Technical Committee on Shipping Fever of Cattle, and the Technical Committee on Mucosal Diseases of Cattle. Dr. Hoyt served on the local arrangements committee for the American Veterinary Medical Association annual meeting in 1955. He is a past president of the Twin City Veterinary Medical Association and Phi Zeta. He has served on and been chairman of several committees of the Minnesota Veterinary Medical Association. He was president of the Minnesota Mastitis Council and had been instrumental in the formation of the Minnesota Mastitis Council. Dr. Hoyt had been actively engaged in mastitis research for many years and this interest motivated him to provide the leadership for the Council's development and formation.

Recognition of Dr. Hoyt's ability and service came in several ways. He was elected to several honor societies. These included Society of the Sigma Xi, Phi Zeta, and Gamma Sigma Delta. In 1960 and 1961 he served as a consultant for the International Cooperation Administration of the United States State Department to the Republic of Yugoslavia on respiratory diseases of cattle and swine. Dr. Hoyt was also listed in American Men of Science.

Dr. Hoyt had an enthusiasm for life, work and was also active in civic and community affairs. He was president and incorporating director of Arden Hill No. 3 Association and president of the Lake Johanna Senior High P.T.A. He served as a trustee for the Village of Arden Hills. He also was a director of the Chateau Club Corporation.

Dr. Hoyt contributed significantly to the undergraduate and graduate teaching programs in clinical veterinary medicine. He was a very active leader in the veterinary profession and has left an indelible mark on the veterinary profession and the livestock industry of the state of Minnesota through his untiring efforts as an educator in clinical veterinary medicine. His teachings went beyond the usual dissemination of knowledge concerning animal diseases and he attempted to inspire in the students basic principles of ethics and professionalism so that the veterinary profession could better serve the livestock industry and society.
