Driven to Discover

We are all born with a passion to search, with a fundamental need to discover. At the University of Minnesota, this curiosity is part of our collective DNA. We provide a thriving community for those with an overwhelming drive to teach and to learn, to research, and to serve. We also celebrate those whose searches have led to the discoveries that have changed the world. At the U of M, we continually inspire the next generation of innovators and empower each other during our search for knowledge. We are Driven to Discover.

Congratulations, CLA Graduate!

We come together today—family and friends, students and faculty—to celebrate a major milestone in your life. You have studied hard to achieve the goal for which we honor you—a degree from the College of Liberal Arts at the University of Minnesota. Congratulations on your achievement!

Whatever your major—economics or art, English or Chinese, psychology or American Indian Studies—you have been privileged to learn from some of the finest professors in the country. We, in turn, have been honored by your presence and by the diverse range of ideas and experiences that you have brought to our college. We are grateful to you for entrusting your education to us, and we hope that, as you draw on the knowledge that you have acquired in CLA, you will find yourself well prepared for the challenges ahead.

Your education in the liberal arts has provided you with the requisite skills to pursue any career that you chose. Wherever your path may lead, your CLA education will manifest itself through your skill in logical and persuasive communication, the critical assessment of information, quantitative analysis, and your knowledge of local and global cultures. In CLA, you have learned not to be intimidated by complexity or ambiguity, not to accept convenient and superficial solutions, not to confuse information with knowledge, but to think clearly and logically and to act on your ideas with conviction, wisdom, and courage.

Our mission as a leading public research and educational institution has been to ensure that you have the knowledge to realize your highest ambitions. We have prepared you for your responsibilities to yourself, your communities, and our world. As you commence the next phase of your life, please remember that your future is also our future. In the years ahead, you will gradually assume the roles that we currently have, and you will be called upon to lead and to serve. Please remember, too, to create opportunities for the generations of students who will follow you so that they will also one day have the chance to realize their dreams as you have had today.

I hope that you will remain proud of what you have achieved at the University of Minnesota and that you will stay connected to us as alumnae and alumni of our great university. It has been our pleasure and privilege to have you in our college, and we look forward to the many accomplishments that you will have as members of CLA's Class of 2008.

Please accept my warmest congratulations and my heartfelt wishes for your continued success.

Sincerely yours,

James A. Parente, Jr.

THE UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA

Driven to Discover

The University of Minnesota, ranked among the nation's top public universities, reflects the state of Minnesota's strong and enduring commitment to education. It is nearly unique among universities in the United States in its three defining characteristics:

- It is an international research university.
- It is a public land-grant institution with a strong tradition of education and public service.
- Its largest campus—the Twin Cities campus—is located in a vibrant metropolitan area with not one, but two great cities at its center: Minneapolis and St. Paul.

The University is the primary center in Minnesota (and much of the Upper Midwest) for education and research in the liberal arts and sciences, health sciences, law, education, engineering, agriculture, and natural resources. The Twin Cities campus comprises 19 colleges and offers a full range of academic and professional degrees. A comprehensive campus in Duluth offers undergraduate and graduate programs. The Morris campus offers a four-year liberal arts program. Crookston offers associate and baccalaureate degrees in technical, career-oriented programs. Through the Minnesota Extension Service, the University is present in each of Minnesota's 87 counties.

When the University was founded as a preparatory school in 1851, Minnesota had been a territory for just two years, and statehood was still seven years away. The school was built on little more than the pioneers' faith in education. In its early years, the University struggled financially; during the Civil War, it was forced to close. It reopened in 1867, thanks to the energetic leadership of Governor John S. Pillsbury, who came to be known as the "Father of the University." Mathematics

Professor William Warts Folwell became the University's first president in 1869. Robert Bruininks is the University's fifteenth president.

Two students received bachelor of arts degrees at the first commencement in June 1873. Since then, the University has granted nearly 600,000 degrees.

University alumni include six Nobel Prize winners, a former chief justice of the United States Supreme Court, two former U.S. vice presidents, the heads of Fortune 500 companies, pioneers in medicine, civil rights leaders, top journalists, distinguished teachers and scholars, performing artists, and countless other men and women who have achieved distinction in every field.

Alumni and their families and friends are always welcome at the University. We invite you to visit campus regularly to enjoy the many educational, cultural, and entertainment opportunities that are open to the public—including performances by students in CLA's vibrant arts programs. We also invite you to continue your relationship with the University through the Minnesota Alumni Association and the CLA Alumni Society.

THE COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS
Creating the Future, Transforming Lives

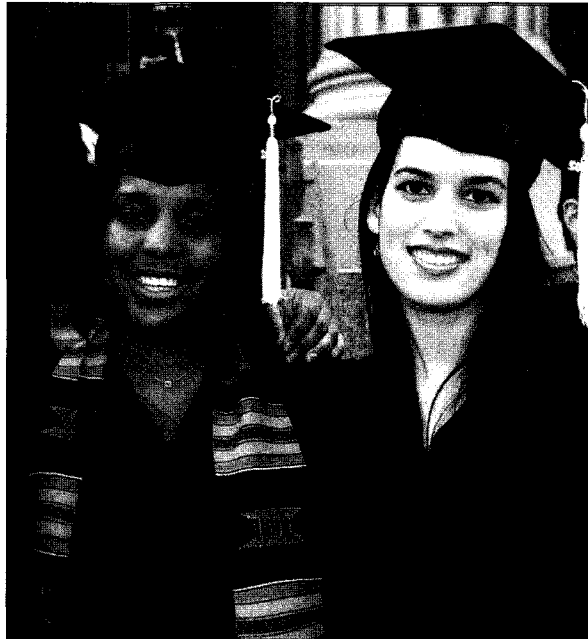

In 1869, 18 years after the founding of the University, the College of Liberal Arts (CLA)—then the College of Science, Literature and Arts (SLA)—offered its first classes at the University of Minnesota. Since then, it has become an international center for education in the arts and sciences, humanities, and social sciences.

The liberal arts span all areas of human knowledge, enterprise, and aspirations.

The college offers more than 60 majors, with study and research opportunities in fields ranging from anthropology to women's studies. Students whose interests cross disciplines may also choose to design individualized major programs.

The majority of students who enter CLA as first-year students complete their undergraduate education in CLA. Others complete their basic liberal arts coursework in the college and then transfer to other units of the University. The college offers strong preprofessional programs with close ties to the health sciences and other professional schools at the University.

There are about 17,000 undergraduate and graduate students enrolled in CLA programs. Approximately 580 permanent faculty members—teachers and scholars of international stature—share with students their vast knowledge, their provocative insights, and the most current research in their fields.

CLA students acquire both breadth of knowledge and particular depth and proficiency in a specialized field of knowledge. Whatever their majors, students complete an education based broadly in the liberal arts. Courses necessary to meet general education requirements introduce students to modes of inquiry and subject matter across the major branches of knowledge.

This education is the very best preparation for lives and careers in a rapidly changing world—a solid grounding in ideas and knowledge across disciplines, across centuries, across cultures, and across geographic boundaries, as well as in critical analysis, communication, and research methodologies.

Equipped with this education, graduates of the College of Liberal Arts bring into the world the communication skills, critical and innovative thinking, creativity, and intellectual versatility needed for a lifetime of learning and leadership. If you want to learn more about the College of Liberal Arts, we invite you to explore our Web site: www.cla.umn.edu.

REBECCA M. BLANK
ECONOMIST, POLICY LEADER, AND AUTHOR
Keynote Speaker

University of Minnesota alumna Rebecca M. Blank has been called a “powerhouse in the field of social policy.” Her scholarly work on the interactions between the macro economy, labor markets, the economic prospects of low-income families, and government anti-poverty programs has made her a national policy leader.

Currently the Robert S. Kerr Senior Fellow at the Brookings Institution, she previously was dean of the Gerald R. Ford School of Public Policy at the University of Michigan and co-director of the National Poverty Center. She directed the Northwestern University/University of Chicago Joint Center for Poverty Research and taught economics at Northwestern, as well as Princeton and Michigan.

Dr. Blank is a prolific writer. Among her books is It Takes A Nation: A New Agenda for Fighting Poverty, which won the Richard A. Lester Prize for the Outstanding Book in Labor Economics and Industrial Relations, and was considered required reading for anyone with a serious interest in welfare reform.

Dr. Blank’s influence transcends academia. She served as a member of the President’s Council of Economic Advisers from 1997-1999. In the last year she testified before Congress on extending unemployment insurance benefits. In April she took part in a Federal Reserve Board meeting, recommending ways to reduce the predatory practice of pay-day lending. In July she testified before Congress, recommending that the official definition of poverty be modernized—that is, based on statistics, rather than on a policy directive from the United States Office of Management and Budget, which is supervised by the White House. She has forwarded a proposal to improve the safety net for the 2.2 million women who head families but cannot find or keep jobs—and their 4 million children.

At Brookings, she plans to launch an initiative focusing on education, labor markets and changing demography, with the goal of expanding research to help design more effective policies in these areas and influence public discourse.

The experiences and opportunities for women within the field of economics is also a strong interest of Dr. Blank’s. She served for three years as chair of the Committee on the Status of Women in the Economics Profession, a committee of the American Economics Association.

Dr. Blank graduated summa cum laude from the University of Minnesota in 1976 with a B.S. in economics. In 1983 she received her Ph.D., also in economics, from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. She is a faculty affiliate of the National Bureau of Economic Research and a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

RAY WAKEFIELD

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR, GERMAN, SCANDINAVIAN AND DUTCH

2008 Motley Outstanding Teacher Award

It comes as no surprise that Professor Wakefield, a teacher of language, history, and culture, is the latest recipient of the Arthur “Red” Motley Exemplary Teaching Award, the College of Liberal Arts’ highest teaching honor.

Comments like the following are commonplace when students are asked to evaluate their time with Ray Wakefield, associate professor in the Department of German, Scandinavian and Dutch.

“As a freshman, I was unsure of what to expect from my classes and professors, but upon entering the classroom and meeting Professor Wakefield, any trace of apprehension disappeared. He made the classroom a welcoming and inviting place.”

Professor Wakefield’s initiatives on the teaching of languages exist side-by-side with his innovative classroom techniques and relentless commitment to his students.

He has been a force behind significant developments in language instruction. After one year at Minnesota, he founded the Dutch program, which was then and still is one of just a handful in the country. Ten years later he headed a task force that overhauled foreign language instruction at the University by implementing standards for better assessment of students’ proficiency in foreign languages. Proficiency tests, he explains, put everyone—University faculty members, high school teachers, prospective employers—on the same page when it came to evaluating a student.

He credits his own tendency to be easily bored as his motivation to keep things fresh in the classroom. His students are driven to question and explore thanks to role-playing, small group discussions, guest lecturers, and other innovative activities. Professor Wakefield even goes so far as to put video cameras in the hands of his students so they can create their own interpretations of the King Arthur legend.

Professor Wakefield’s level of contact with his students is legendary. He calls it “the heart of my teaching philosophy.” In addition to regular meetings in classes and office hours, he encourages his students to keep in contact via e-mail. In their end-of-semester evaluations, students consistently cite Wakefield’s approachability and availability, sometimes expressing surprise at how quickly and thoroughly he answers e-mails.

“Professor Wakefield is a model of how a professor should be, particularly when working with students: approachable, enthusiastic, creative, reflective, and interested in furthering the knowledge of the student, being a contributor to their academic success.”

For Wakefield himself, nothing quite compares to the thrill of teaching students about medieval culture. More than a few of his students have made medieval studies the focus of their education after taking one of his classes. As one succinctly said, “His knowledge of the subject matter is extensive and his passion for it is contagious.”

LIBERAL ARTS DEGREES

The College of Liberal Arts offers five bachelor's degrees—bachelor of arts (B.A.), bachelor of individualized studies (B.I.S.), bachelor of fine arts (B.F.A.), bachelor of music (B.M.), and bachelor of science (B.S.). The bachelor's degrees have many requirements in common.

DEGREE CANDIDATES

Subject to successful completion, degrees will be conferred on those students listed below and on others meeting all curriculum requirements for graduation. Honor citations are provisional and do not become final until all requirements are met for the level indicated. Degrees and degree candidates are listed alphabetically in this program.

HONORS DESIGNATIONS—Honors graduates complete college and departmental honors requirements, including completing honors projects in their majors, with a minimum G.P.A. of 3.5 for the last 60 credits of their undergraduate career. Students meeting these minimum requirements may graduate cum laude. Students graduating magna cum laude have a minimum G.P.A. of 3.66. Students graduating summa cum laude have a minimum G.P.A. of 3.75 and have completed a summa thesis that has been approved by three readers, one of whom is outside the discipline of the major.

DEGREES WITH DISTINCTION—Students graduating “with distinction” must have a cumulative grade point average of 3.75 or higher in University of Minnesota coursework at the time of graduation; students graduating “with high distinction” must have a cumulative grade point average of 3.90 or higher. At least 60 of the total number of semester credits must have been completed at the University of Minnesota. * indicates “with distinction”;  indicates “with high distinction.”

Students graduating with the Community Engagement Scholars distinction have completed at least 9 credits of service-learning course work, at least 400 hours of community service, and a series of reflective pieces. They also have completed an integrative community project that results in the creation of a sustainable project for a community organization. ♦ indicates Community Engagement Scholar.

THE DEGREE OF BACHELOR OF ARTS

This degree can be earned through majors in most CLA departments and programs. Its breadth and diversity in general education make it valuable as a base for many kinds of careers or for advanced study. CLA offers several professional majors and specializations as well as interdepartmental programs for the B.A. degree.

ACADEMIC COSTUME

Academic gowns date back to the 14th century, when they served two functions of nearly equal importance: to indicate the academic rank of the wearer and to keep the scholar warm in the drafty stone halls of academia.

The markings, cut, and color of modern-day academic-costume—cap, gown, and sometimes hood—indicate the academic degree, the field of study, and the institution that granted the degree.

Bachelor's degree gowns are black and untrimmed. A tassel hanging from the mortar board worn on the head is color-coded by college at the University of Minnesota. The College of Liberal Arts tassel is white. Honors graduates wear a medallion adorned with a maroon and gold ribbon.

Master's degree gowns, black and untrimmed, have pointed sleeves. Doctoral gowns in the United States traditionally have been black with velvet front facings and crossbars on the sleeves, but in recent years a number of universities have adopted gowns of distinctive school colors.

A new University of Minnesota Ph.D. gown and matching tam made their appearance in 1988 to celebrate the centenary of the first Minnesota doctor of philosophy degree. The new Minnesota gown is maroon-trimmed with black velvet chevrons and gold metallic braid. The traditional gown may still be worn.

The Minnesota hood, which may be worn by anyone with a doctoral degree from the University of Minnesota, is black with maroon chevron on gold. Each institution has its own pattern of colors on the hood, worn around the neck and down the back of the gown. The length and shape of the hood identify the most advanced degree the wearer has earned, and the velvet edging shows the field: blue for doctor of philosophy, light blue for doctor of education, and pink for doctor of musical arts.

At commencement ceremonies those who already have the doctoral degree wear hoods. Degree candidates wear the gowns appropriate for the degrees they are about to receive, and new doctorates are hooded on stage.

THE MACE

The University of Minnesota mace was carried for the first time in 1961 by Regents' Professor of Physics Alfred O.C. Nier at the inauguration of President O. Meredith Wilson. Art professor Philip Morton designed the mace: a crystal sphere four inches in diameter surmounted by the North Star, symbol of the state of Minnesota, on a solid aluminum handle set with the University regents' seal.

THE NORTHROP ORGAN

Comprising 108 ranks of pipes, the Northrop Memorial Auditorium organ is not only one of the largest organs in the Upper Midwest but also one of the finest examples in the United States of a late-Romantic concert-hall organ. Built in 1932, the organ is located in the ceiling of the auditorium, above the stage and behind the proscenium, and is played from a console on an elevator platform in the orchestra pit. Unlike many large organs from its era, the Northrop organ is completely unaltered and entirely in its original condition. Persons interested in events that feature the Northrop organ may contact The Friends of the Northrop Organ, c/o the School of Music, University of Minnesota, 2106 Fourth Street South, Minneapolis, MN 55455.

The University of Minnesota is committed to the policy that all persons shall have equal access to its programs, facilities, and employment without regard to race, color, creed, religion, national origin, sex, age, marital status, disability, public assistance status, veteran status, or sexual orientation.

Smoking is not permitted in any University building. We appreciate your cooperation with this policy.
