Women's Continuing Education

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis---"Guidelines---A Program for Women of Tomorrow", a series of thirteen weekly lectures by Vera M. Schletzer, assistant professor and coordinator of the University of Minnesota's Women's Continuing Education program, will be broadcast Friday evenings this fall on the University Television Hour over KTCA, Channel 2.

The opening lecture in the series will be televised at 9:30 p.m. Friday (Sept. 25). Professor Schletzer will speak on "The Changing Scene".

This series of programs, Professor Schletzer explained, is based on the course, "The Educated Woman in the United States", presented in the Family Studies department of the University. Objectives are to make available basic facts and information regarding women's contributions to home, community and the world of work, and to provide able women with the opportunity to use this informational background in decision making.

Questions of role conflict, occupational aspirations, parental responsibility and community involvement also will be discussed, she said.

Program lecture titles include:

Sept. 25-----"The Changing Scene"
Oct. 2-----"Change Brings Choice"
Oct. 9-----"The Social Climate"
Oct. 16-----"The Impact of Marriage"
Oct. 23-----"Family Roles" (Husband and Wife Relations)
