UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA
COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS
COMMENCEMENT
FALL 1997

Congratulations, CLA Graduate!

As you receive your University diploma, you'll probably have very mixed feelings—excitement and relief, exhilaration and fear, hope and dread. If you're like most graduates, you don't know just what lies ahead. Commencement is a beginning ... but of what?

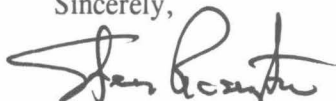

Commencements are traditionally held in the spring, when we are surrounded by symbols of new beginnings—flowers in bloom, trees in bud, fledglings trying their wings. You are graduating from the University of Minnesota in the coldest part of the year, when the days are short, the branches are bare, and many of us wake up and go home in the dark.

Yet I like to think that your days will be lit by the knowledge, ideas, and creativity that you carry with you from here, and be warmed by memories of your days on campus. Whatever your major and whatever the particulars of your experiences here, you have had the opportunity to engage with great and provocative ideas under the guidance of stellar faculty at one of the world's finest universities. You have, I trust, taken full advantage of the opportunities to stretch your imagination, be creative and expansive in your thinking, travel across disciplines and cultures, dream impossible dreams, and find your place in the world.

Whatever your next step, I hope that your education has touched you deeply and transformatively. I hope that what you carry with you from here will become the foundation for a lifetime of learning and enrichment. And I hope that you will continue your involvement with CLA, perhaps as a mentor, volunteer, or supporter, following the path of thousands of alums who have helped CLA maintain its tradition of excellence.

I extend my warmest wishes for continued success throughout your life.

Sincerely,

Steven J. Rosenstone
Dean

THE UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA

The University of Minnesota, ranked among the nation's top public universities, reflects the commitment to education of a state that is only 20th in population. It is almost alone among universities in the United States in its combination of three characteristics; an international research university, a land-grant institution with a strong tradition of education and public service, and a metropolitan academic community.

The Twin Cities campus, the University's largest campus, is made up of 19 colleges and offers the full range of academic and professional degrees. A comprehensive campus in Duluth offers undergraduate and graduate programs. The Morris campus offers a four-year liberal arts program. Crookston offers associate and baccalaureate degrees in technical, career-oriented programs. Through the Minnesota Extension Service, the University is present in each of Minnesota's 87 counties.

The University is the primary center in Minnesota (and parts of the surrounding region) for instruction and research in the health sciences, law, engineering, agriculture, and forestry; it offers all of the graduate-level programs in these fields.

When the University was founded as a preparatory school in 1851, Minnesota had been a territory for just two years, and statehood was still seven years away. The school was built on not much more than the pioneers' faith in education. The University struggled financially in its early years and was forced to close during the Civil War. It reopened in 1867.

Two students received bachelor of arts degrees at the first commencement in June 1873. Since then, the University has granted a total of 515,676 degrees. Students earn undergraduate and graduate degrees in more than 250 fields of study. During the 1996-1997 academic year, the University of Minnesota conferred a total of 10,312 degrees on all its campuses.

The Duluth campus joined the University in 1947, the Morris campus opened in 1960, and the Crookston campus in 1966. Enrollment in fall 1997 was 49,184 on all four campuses. Enrollment was 37,615 on the Twin Cities campus, 7,442 at Duluth, 1,908 at Morris, and 2,219 at Crookston.

University alumni include four Nobel Prize winners, a former chief justice of the United States, two former vice presidents, the heads of Fortune 500 companies, pioneers in medicine, civil rights leaders, top journalists, and men and women who have achieved distinction in every field.

Alumni and their families and friends are always welcome at the University. Alumni are invited to continue their relationship with the University through the Minnesota Alumni Association and its college groups.

THE COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

At the heart of every great university is a college encompassing the basic disciplines of knowledge. That college at the University of Minnesota is the College of Liberal Arts (CLA). The college was formally established in 1868, 17 years after the founding of the University.

The traditional branches of knowledge are housed here—the social sciences, the humanities and fine arts, and the natural sciences. In addition, the college offers professional programs with close ties to these fields. Study and research opportunities are available in more than 60 major areas, from the usual, such as English, economics, history, to the less usual, such as women's studies, theoretical statistics, and speech and hearing science. They include disciplines as old as philosophy and as new as computer science. A student may also choose to design an individualized major program.

There were 13,491 undergraduate students and about 1,636 graduate students enrolled in CLA programs in fall 1997. The college is staffed by nearly 485 permanent faculty members who can share the most current research in their fields.

Many students complete their education in CLA. Others take their basic liberal arts coursework in the college and then transfer to another unit of the University such as the Carlson School of Management or one of the health science schools.

The degree requirements established by the college are designed to provide an education solidly based in the liberal arts. Courses necessary to meet general education requirements introduce students to modes of inquiry and subject matter characteristics of the major branches of knowledge.

A liberal education means not only a breadth of knowledge, but depth and proficiency in a single field of knowledge. Students are required to select a major project, usually a written paper.

The College of Liberal Arts' faculty believes a liberal arts education gives students the analytical skills, creativity, and flexibility needed for lifetime learning.

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Libby Larsen

The noted American composer Libby Larsen (prolific, imaginative and a passionate crusader for musical causes) has always been an independent artist, yet one who works closely within the arts community. She has never depended on an academic position or other structured employment as the superstructure of her productive career, and her musical voice has emerged as a vibrant, independent, rhythmically active force. She has served as composer-in-residence with the Minnesota Orchestra and the Colorado Symphony. International interpreters of Larsen's music include Sir Neville Marriner, Leonard Slatkin, Zubin Mehta, JoAnne Falletta, Marin Alsop, David Zinman, Eugenia Zukerman, Jehan Sadat, Gregg Smith, Dale Warland, The King's Singers, Benita Valente and Arleen Auger.

Larsen is a vigorous, articulate advocate for the music and musicians of our time. In 1973, with Stephen Paulus, she founded the Minnesota Composers Forum, now the American Composers Forum, which has been an invaluable aid for composers in a difficult, transitional time for American arts. She has served on the National Endowment for the Arts Music Panel, and on several boards of directors, including the American Symphony Orchestra League.

In addition to operas, Larsen's diverse catalogue lists works of intriguing titles for music that increasingly speaks the American vernacular. They encompass orchestra, dance, choral, theatre, chamber and solo repertory. Her commissions, honors and awards are numerous, including a 1994 Grammy as producer for the CD The Arts of Arleen Auger, and acclaimed recording that features Larsen's Sonnets from the Portuguese. Her opera, Frankenstein, The Modern Prometheus was selected as one of the eight best classical music events of 1990 by USA Today.

Larsen's works are recorded by Angel/EMI, Koch International, Nonesuch and Decca, among others. She is featured in the MacMillan textbook MUSIC! and in Pandora's Guide to Women Composers by Sophie Fuller, published by Harper Collins.

Larsen is an alumna of the College of Liberal Arts, with three degrees from the School of Music: BA ('72), MFA ('75) and a PhD ('78).

Music is a language, influenced by the spoken language, and both represent the soul.

-Libby Larsen

LIBERAL ARTS DEGREES

The College of Liberal Arts offers five bachelor's degrees--bachelor of arts (B.A.), bachelor of fine arts (B.F.A.), bachelor of science (B.S.), bachelor of individualized studies (B.I.S.), and bachelor of music (B.M.). The bachelor's degrees have many requirements in common.

DEGREE CANDIDATES

Subject to successful completion, degrees will be conferred on those students listed below and on others meeting all curriculum requirements for graduation. Honor citations are provisional and do not become final until all requirements are met for the level indicated. Degrees are listed alphabetically with this program.

BACHELOR OF ARTS

This degree can be earned through majors in most CLA departments and programs. Its breadth and diversity in general education make it valuable as a base for many kinds of careers or for advanced study. CLA offers several professional majors and specializations as well as interdepartmental programs for the B.A. degree.

ACADEMIC COSTUME

Academic gowns date back to the 14th century, when they served two functions of nearly equal importance: to indicate the academic rank of the wearer and to keep the scholar warm in the drafty stone halls of academia.

The markings, cut, and color of modern-day academic-costume--cap, gown, and sometimes hood--indicate the academic degree, the field of study, and the institution that granted the degree.

Master's gowns, black and untrimmed, have pointed sleeves. Doctor's gowns in the United States traditionally have been black with velvet front facings and crossbars on the sleeves, but in recent years a number of universities have adopted gowns of distinctive school colors.

A new University of Minnesota Ph.D. gown and matching tam made their appearance in 1988 to celebrate the centenary of the first Minnesota doctor of philosophy degree. The new Minnesota gown is maroon-trimmed with black velvet chevrons and gold metallic braid. The traditional gown may still be worn.

The Minnesota hood, which may be worn by anyone with a doctoral degree from the University of Minnesota, is black with maroon chevron on gold. Each institution has its own pattern of colors on the hood, worn around the neck and down the back of the gown. The length and shape of the hood identify the most advanced degree the wearer has earned, and the velvet edging shows the field: blue for doctor of philosophy, light blue for doctor of education, and pink for doctor of musical arts.

At commencement ceremonies those who already have the doctoral degree wear hoods. Degree candidates wear the gowns appropriate for the degrees they are about to receive, and new doctorates are hooded on stage.

THE MACE

The University of Minnesota mace was carried for the first time in 1961 by Regent's Professor of Physics Alfred O.C. Nier at the inauguration of President O. Meredith Wilson. Art professor Philip Morton designed the mace: a crystal sphere four inches in diameter surmounted by the North Star, symbol of the state of Minnesota, on a solid aluminum handle set with the University regent's seal.
