The Chairman, on behalf of the Board of Regents, and in recognition of long and devoted service to the University, presented to Regent James Ford Bell, the Regents Award. As an expression of the award, the Chairman read the following citation:

"Born in Philadelphia to a heritage of skill and industry in the milling trade, he came while still a child to the heart of the Great Plains, to the seas of waving grain that were to feed a nation in peace and in war; he came to a state that was still a frontier, and became a graduate of its young university; he came to this rich new homeland, and he started to build, with a dedication and a purpose that even then added strength to every plan, to every idea with which he concerned himself; he adopted as his slogan the precept that excellence is attainable—now.

A builder, a doer, an originator, he has manifested excellence, not only in creating and guiding a great commercial enterprise, but also in the Daedalian profusion of his interests and his skills: bibliophile, chemist, philanthropist, naturalist, sportsman, conservationist, machinist, collector—into each of his roles he has plunged deeply, moving with a sure hand and with an inherent perception of beauty; but it is in yet one more of his roles that we laud him here today.

Because he has been a loyal son of the University of Minnesota for fifty-nine years, because he has served his alma mater faithfully for twenty-one years as a Regent, because he has brought an incomparable natural history museum to her campus, because he has given to his University a magnificent collection of rare books on early trade and exploration, and has housed these treasures in the James Ford Bell Room, and because in countless other ways he has shown his love for this institution, the Regents of the University of Minnesota confer upon James Ford Bell the Regents Award, in special recognition of the qualities of Benefaction, Fidelity, and Leadership."
