

2000 CRB
2/22/74

2. 1.
AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE - UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA

(612) 373-0710

consumer radio briefs

February 22, 1974

Consumer TV Programs

(0:20)

A series of television programs on nutrition will be shown on Minnesota educational television stations on Thursdays at 9:30 p.m. starting this coming Thursday (February 28).

The "Food Sense" programs will be hosted by Janet Macy of the University of Minnesota Agricultural Extension Service.

* * * *

Weather-strip

(0:15)

Weather-strip the joints and caulk the frames of all doors and windows in your home unless you have problems with high relative humidity. Air can leak in and out through the door frame even when it is closed if it is not properly weather-stripped.

* * * *

Storm Windows

(0:15)

Install storm windows or double-pane glass if you don't already have them. University extension specialists say these cut heat loss significantly and help reduce drafts. Also, you can maintain higher relative humidities without serious water condensation on the windows when you install storm windows.

* * * *

Doors

(0:08)

Keep doors to the outside, the garage and attic firmly closed. Open and close them as quickly as possible when you enter and leave.

* * * *