FRENCH MOVIE
FIRST ON SPRING
SCHEDULE AT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

"La Ronde", a French film, will open the University of Minnesota Film society's spring program with a three-day run April 15-17. Showings in Northrop Memorial auditorium are scheduled at 3:30 and 8 p.m. April 15 with additional performances at 8 p.m. April 16 and 17.

Based on the Arthur Schnitzler play, "Reigen", the movie takes its name from Oscar Straus' "La Ronde" waltz. It presents a string of romantic episodes which take place in Vienna at the turn of the century. Anton Walkbrook, Simone Simon, Danielle Darrieux, Jean-Louis Barrault and Gerard Philipe are among the stars.

"La Ronde" was named "best picture of the year" by the British Film Academy and won the grand prize at 1951 film festivals in Venice, Cannes, Brussels and Cuba.

Other films on the spring calendar are "The Man in the White Suit" (British) April 22; "Open City" (Italian) April 29; "The River" (British) May 6; "Under the Paris Sky" (French) May 13; and "Fantasia" (American) May 22. With the exception of "Fantasia" -- which will be shown at 4 and 7:30 p.m. on a Friday -- all these movies will be presented at 3:30 and 8 p.m. Wednesdays in Northrop auditorium. Admission is 74 cents for adults, 35 cents for juniors.

In addition, the society has planned a program of film classics -- a group of Charlie Chaplin comedies for April 9, "Grapes of Wrath" April 24 and "Midsummer Night's Dream" with Olivia de Haviland, James Cagney, Joe E. Brown, Dick Powell and Mickey Rooney May 1. These will be shown at 3:30 and 7:30 p.m. in Nicholson hall auditorium, admission 40 cents.

MAC NEICE, BRITISH POET, WILL GIVE
PUBLIC READING AT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

British poet Louis MacNeice will give a special reading of his poems Monday (April 6) at the University of Minnesota. The program, scheduled at 3:30 p.m. in the Minnesota Museum of Natural History auditorium, is open to the public without charge.

MacNeice is among a group of distinguished poets -- including W. H. Auden, Stephen Spender and Cecil Day-Lewis -- who first achieved recognition in the 1930's and who have been rated, since then, as the leading English poets. His more recent works are "Ten Burnt Offerings", "Collected Poems" and "Holes in the Sky".

Born in Belfast, MacNeice studied at Marlborough school and at Merton college, Oxford. He lectured in classics at the University of Birmingham and in Greek at Bedford College for Women before becoming a feature writer and producer for the British Broadcasting corporation in 1941. Currently, he is a program director for BBC's Third Program.

The program of readings will be broadcast over University radio station KUOM at 11:15 a.m. April 10. In connection with MacNeice's visit here, KUOM will also broadcast "The Golden Ass", an ancient classic adapted and produced by the poet for BBC, at 3:30 p.m. April 8.

While in Minneapolis, MacNeice will also appear at the Walker Art Center. He will read some of his poetry and part of his translation of Goethe's "Faust" at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday (April 7) in the Center's lecture gallery.

COMMUNICATIONS IN INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS
'U' CONFERENCE TOPIC

Minneapolis ---Industrial relations experts will gather at the University of Minnesota April 14 - 15, for the Eleventh Annual Industrial Relations conference. Theme of the national meeting will be "Communications in Employment Relations".

The annual two-day event is sponsored by the University Industrial Relations Center and the Twin City chapter of Society for Advancement of Management. This year's conference is expected to attract over 200 professional industrial relations personnel from all over the nation.

Featured speaker of the conference will be Alexander R. Heron, vice president of industrial relations for Crown Zellerbach corporation. Heron will address the annual banquet Tuesday evening, April 14. Well-known for his work in industrial relations and employee communications, Heron will talk on "Principles and Effects of Communications".

The organization and administration of an employee communications program will be discussed by Robert R. Ross, manager of employee communications, P. R. Mallory company, Indianapolis. Ross will open the two-day conference. Robert A. Willson, director of industrial relations for Studebaker Corporation of Canada, and Charles E. Redfield, professor of public administration at New York university, will discuss written communications. Oral communications will be discussed by Louis Duenweg, training coordinator, Detroit Edison company, and William Machaver, training director for Johnson and Johnson.

Raymond B. Nixon, professor of journalism, and Robert L. Jones, associate professor of journalism, University of Minnesota, will present recent developments in communications research. James J. Jenkins, assistant professor of psychology at the University, will discuss horizontal or cross communications. Jenkins has performed a great deal of research on this subject.

Wade E. Shurtleff, director of industrial relations, The Standard Products company, will close the conference with a discussion of the evaluation of a company communications program. As usual, emphasis will be given to points of a communications program which can be instituted in a small business.

The conference is open to all interested persons and to anyone in the fields of industrial relations and communications. Registration for the conference is limited and those planning to attend are urged to apply immediately. The fee for the conference is $15 which includes a ticket to the annual banquet. Anyone desiring registration materials is urged to contact the Director, Center for Continuation Study, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 14.

'NEW CHINA' AND
'THE HOAXTERS' TO SHOW
AT 'U' APRIL 15

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

"The New China", a Red propaganda film, and "The Hoaxters", an American-produced expose' of dictatorships, will be shown at 11:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. April 15 in Northrop Memorial auditorium at the University of Minnesota.

The films were originally scheduled for presentation Wednesday (April 8) but that showing has been cancelled since both movies could not be booked for that date. No admission charge will be made at the April 15 showings.

"The New China" was co-produced by a Russian documentary unit and similar organizations in Red China. It presents a violent denunciation of the West in the traditional pattern of Soviet propaganda and a glorification of the Soviet-Chinese alliance.

M-G-M studios produced the 30-minute-long "The Hoaxters" from newsreel shots of events during the last 35 years. The movie is composed of incidents which point up the similarities and weaknesses of fascism, nazism and Russian communism.

NEW BOOK OFFERS TIPS ON HELPING
OLDSTERS RETAIN ZEST FOR LIVING

(FOR RELEASE FRIDAY, APRIL 10, 1953)

Minneapolis ---Some answers to the problem of how to help elderly citizens retain their interest in living are offered in the book, "A Social Program for Older People" by Jerome Kaplan, published today (April 10) by the University of Minnesota Press. Kaplan is group work consultant for the Hennepin county welfare board in the Minneapolis area, and much of the material in the book is based on the creative group activity program for the aged that he has directed through this agency.

Kaplan points out in his book that there has been a recent and growing recognition of the responsibility of communities and the groups within communities to help individuals live socially useful lives in their later years.

The Hennepin county welfare board program began, Kaplan relates, in 1950, when the board created the position of group work consultant to help stimulate a community-wide recreation program for senior citizens. In so doing, Hennepin county became one of the very few communities in the nation to employ a full-time social worker to work exclusively with the older age group.

Through its consultant, the Hennepin county board offers advice and practical assistance to other organizations in establishing or extending senior group activity, but does not itself sponsor such activities. The program, supported by many different social agencies and senior citizen club sponsor groups, now includes summer camping; recreation and hobby work in homes for the aged, boarding homes, and nursing homes; senior citizen clubs; mass activities such as county-wide holiday festivals and "after 60 hobby shows"; nursing home visits and individual home visits to shut-ins. In addition to describing in detail the work of the Hennepin county board, the book traces the recent development of community social and service clubs in other parts of the country. Specific suggestions are given for the organization of creative activity groups and for the planning of suitable programs for such groups. Separate chapters are devoted to senior age camping experiences and to the role of homes for the aged.

Minneapolis --- Mrs. Margaret S. Harding, who will retire as director of the University of Minnesota Press at the close of the academic year on June 30, will be honored at a conference and dinner being planned by the Press for Monday, May 11.

Morris L. Ernst, New York lawyer and writer who has played a leading role in the defense of a free press and civil liberties in this country, will give the principal address at the dinner. His topic will be "The Climate of Fear in the World of books". The dinner is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. in the main ballroom of Coffman Memorial Union.

Malcolm M. Willey, vice president for academic administration of the University and chairman of the faculty committee on the press, will preside at the dinner. President J. L. Morrill will speak on behalf of the University. Thomas J. Wilson, director of the Harvard University Press, will speak for the Association of American University Presses, an organization in which Mrs. Harding has long been active.

A conference on the general subject, "Problems of Publication for the Scholar-Writer", will be held from 2 to 4:30 p.m. in the women's lounge of Coffman Memorial Union. Four leading representatives of scholarly writing and publishing activities in the United States will participate in a round table discussion. The speakers will be Wilson; Chester Kerr, secretary, Yale University Press; Charles E. Odegaard, dean of the college of liberal arts, University of Michigan, and former director of the American Council of Learned Societies; and Hiram Haydn, editor of "The American Scholar", the magazine of Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic society.

Theodore C. Blegen, dean of the graduate school, University of Minnesota, will preside as moderator at the conference. The talks will be followed by open discussion of the problems and opportunities in scholarly writing and publication.

Both the dinner and the conference will be open to the public. Tickets for the dinner may be obtained at the University of Minnesota Press office in Nicholson Hall. No reservations are necessary for the afternoon conference.

Minneapolis --- Minnesota librarians and teachers of language arts will meet at the University of Minnesota April 17-18 for a two-day program on "Vitalizing the Teaching of the Language Arts".

Ellen Frogner, associate professor of English at the University's Duluth branch, will open this year's conference -- a similar one is held every spring -- at a luncheon in Coffman Memorial Union April 17. She will speak on the main conference theme.

In the afternoon, problems of teaching the language arts will be covered in a series of round table discussions for librarians and language arts teachers in Minnesota elementary schools, high schools and colleges.

John T. Frederick, who for seven years directed the CBS radio program "Of Men and Books", will be the chief speaker at a dinner April 17 in Coffman Union. He will talk on "Reading and Living". Now on the faculty of Notre Dame university, Frederick was formerly an English professor at Moorhead State Teachers college and at Northwestern university.

A panel discussion on "What Teachers and Librarians Should Know About Censorship" will be featured the morning of April 18 in Murphy hall auditorium. Leo Sonderegger, reporter for the Minneapolis Star; Edward B. Stanford, director of University libraries; George H. McCune, social studies professor; and Barry Marks, instructor in general studies, will participate as speakers.

The conference will end with a luncheon in Coffman Union. Mary Turpie, assistant professor of English, will report on her year-long Ford Foundation study on integrating literature with art and music in English classes.

Conference reservations should be sent to Dora V. Smith, 201 Burton Hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 14, by April 15. There is no registration charge for the meetings.

PHYSICS TEACHERS'
INSTITUTES SLATED
AT MINNESOTA 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---- Two special institutes for teachers of college and high school physics will be conducted at the University of Minnesota during the first summer session June 15-July 17.

Supported by the Ford Foundation's Fund for the Advancement of Education, approximately 30 scholarships -- covering all costs of the institute plus transportation and living expenses -- will be awarded to high school physics teachers.

The other institute, made possible by a grant from the National Science Foundation, will provide similar scholarships for approximately 20 college physics teachers. They will receive stipends for all tuition and laboratory fees, board, room, books and travel in connection with the institute.

Different programs are scheduled for each institute, although they will meet in some joint sessions.

The high school teachers' institute will be divided into four phases: demonstration-lectures in classical physics -- the basic concepts and principles, an introduction to present-day physics research through lectures and visits to University laboratories and also industrial laboratories in the Twin Cities, discussions on the relation of physics to other sciences such as botany and zoology and joint meetings with the college teachers to talk over coordination with college physics.

The institute for college physics teachers has been designed to bring participants in close touch with current physics research at the University and elsewhere. During the week of June 15, John H. Williams, professor of physics, will lecture on experiments with the Van de Graaff generator.

(MORE)

Edward P. Ney and John R. Winckler, associate physics professors, will talk on cosmic rays the following week. Beginning June 29, institute members will hear Otto H. Schmitt, professor of zoology and physics, discuss studies in biophysics.

'U' PARENTS' DAY
SET THURSDAY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---Parents will go to school with their sons and daughters at the University of Minnesota Thursday (April 16) as the University's annual Parents' Day is observed on the campus.

Beginning with first hour classes at 8:30 a.m., mothers and fathers have been invited to attend classes and visit buildings.

Later in the morning, at 11:30 a.m. in Northrop Memorial auditorium, the 250-voice University chorus and the 50-member University symphony orchestra will present a Parents' Day convocation. They will perform Haydn's Mass No. 2 in C Major under the leadership of Caro M. Carapetyan, acting choral director.

A luncheon for students and their parents in Coffman Memorial Union will follow. Malcolm M. Willey, vice president in charge of academic administration, will speak as well as Merrill K. Cragun, Jr., president of the All-University Congress, student governing body.

Parents' Day luncheons will also be held in campus dormitories, fraternities, sororities and cooperative residences.

Between 2 and 4 p.m., open houses have been planned in many University buildings -- among them, the Minnesota Museum of Natural History, the Library, Coffman Memorial Union, the art gallery in Northrop auditorium, the Student Health Service and Wulling Hall.

University President J. L. Morrill will broadcast his traditional Parents' Day message over University radio station KUOM at 2 p.m. His 15-minute talk will be to parents who are unable to visit the campus.

The Parents' Day convocation will be carried over KUOM at 11:15 a.m. Friday (April 17).

MIDWEST CONFERENCE ON GENERAL EDUCATION
WILL BE HELD MAY 8 AT MINNESOTA 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Representatives of Midwest colleges will gather at the University of Minnesota May 8 for a one-day conference on evaluation in general education.

A study on that topic -- nearly completed now after three years of work by some 19 colleges and universities in the country -- has been sponsored by the American Council on Education. The University, which has participated in the project, is presenting this meeting to acquaint colleges in the Midwest area with the results.

Director of the national study, Paul L. Dressel, director of counseling and chairman of the board of examiners, Michigan State college, will open the conference with a review and appraisal of the evaluation study. In another session, Robert J. Keller, University education professor who heads the bureau of institutional research, will report on implications of the study for college general education programs.

Other speakers during the day will include Horace T. Morse, dean of the general college, and Russell M. Cooper, assistant dean of the college of science, literature and the arts.

BOOKS RECEIVE
HONOR RATINGS

Two books published by the University of Minnesota Press have been selected as "Top Honor" books in the fourth annual Chicago Book clinic exhibition. The Minnesota volumes, both of which were designed by Jane McCarthy, production manager of the Press, are "Flour for Man's Bread: A History of Milling" by John Storck and Walter Dorwin Teague, and "A Catalogue of the Chinese Bronzes in the Alfred F. Pillsbury Collection" by Bernhard Karlgren.

The books chosen for the exhibit were selected as outstanding examples of good bookmaking and were selected from entries which had been published or produced in the Chicago-Midwestern area between April 1, 1952, and March 1, 1953. An exhibit of the "Top Honor" books will be on display in the Chicago public library during the month of May.

Selection of the exhibit books was made on a basis of the design, readability and attractiveness of type page, illustrations, and various aspects of production, printing, and binding. Both the winning Minnesota books were printed by the North Central Publishing company of St. Paul, and the bindery work was done by A. J. Dahl company of Minneapolis.

HELEN CLAPESATTLE
TO HEAD MINNESOTA

(FCR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Promotion of Helen Clapesattle, senior editor of the University of Minnesota Press, to the directorship of the Press effective July 1, 1953, was announced today by University President J. L. Morrill. She will succeed Mrs. Margaret S. Harding who will retire June 30 after heading the publishing organization since its founding in 1927.

Miss Clapesattle is the author of "The Doctors Mayo" which was published by the Press in 1941 and which since then has been issued in four foreign language editions. The biography of the famed Rochester surgeons has been the all-time best seller among books published by the University and was serialized in The Atlantic Monthly.

The newly designated director joined the staff of the University of Minnesota Press in 1937 as an assistant editor and has been chief editor since 1942. In addition to her editing work, she has contributed numerous articles to magazines on various aspects of publishing, research and writing.

During the past year Miss Clapesattle has served as a member of the executive board of the Association of American University Presses, an organization of 40 American and Canadian university presses and five affiliated scholarly publishers.

For several years Miss Clapesattle served as executive secretary of the University of Minnesota Regional Writing committee, which has administered grants for the encouragement of creative work dealing with life in the Midwest region. Many of the books resulting from this program have been published by the University of Minnesota Press.

A native of Fort Wayne, Ind., and a graduate of Oberlin college, Miss Clapesattle received a master's degree in history at the University of Minnesota. She is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic society, and of the Authors' League of America, the American Historical association, the Women's National Book association, and Zonta International.

NEW APPROACH IN TREATING MENTAL ILLS
INDICATED IN BOOK PUBLISHED AT MINNESOTA 'U'

(FOR RELEASE FRIDAY, APRIL 17, 1953)

Minneapolis ---Results of laboratory experiments that may indicate a new approach in the treatment of certain mental diseases are reported by Dr. Ernst Gellhorn, professor of neurophysiology at the University of Minnesota, in his book, "Physiological Foundations of Neurology and Psychiatry", published April 17 by the University of Minnesota Press.

In his book Dr. Gellhorn presents the findings of extensive research on the physiology of the central nervous system and relates many of these findings to applicability in clinical and other fields.

An important aspect of Dr. Gellhorn's work concerns certain recent tests which show an altered reactivity or physiological change in the autonomic nerve centers of patients who are psychotic. His interpretation of the significance of these tests for a physiological basis of treatment for functional psychoses is published for the first time in this volume. The physiological effects actually produced in the central nervous system by the "shock" treatment and carbon dioxide therapy are analyzed.

Dr. Gellhorn was educated at the Universities of Berlin, Muenster, and Heidelberg. Before coming to the University of Minnesota in 1943, he was a professor of physiology at the University of Illinois, and he had previously taught at the University of Oregon. In Germany he served as a professor at the University of Halle. He holds both the doctor of philosophy and doctor of medicine degrees.

Honors bestowed on Dr. Gellhorn include the Royal Prize of the University of Berlin, the A. Cressy Morrison Prize of the New York Academy of Sciences, and the Alverenga Prize of the College of Physicians, Philadelphia.

Dr. Gellhorn's books have been published in Germany, France, and the United States, and he has contributed 276 papers to scientific journals.

RED PROPAGANDA
FILM, 'NEW CHINA',
AT 'U' WEDNESDAY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Two special showings -- at 11:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. -- of "The New China", a Russian propaganda film, and "The Hoaxters", an American-made expose' of dictatorships, will be presented Wednesday (April 15) in Northrop Memorial auditorium at the University of Minnesota.

Originally, these films were to be shown April 8, but they were re-scheduled to Wednesday because both could not be booked for the earlier date. There will be no admission charge at the showings.

"The Hoaxters" was produced by M.G.M. studios from newsreels taken during the last 35 years. It is a string of incidents which outline the similarities and weaknesses of fascism, nazism and Russian communism.

"The New China" is a denunciation of the West in the standard Soviet propaganda line and a glorification of the Soviet-Chinese alliance. It was produced by documentary units of Russia and Red China.

The same day, the University Film society will stage two showings -- at 3:30 and 8 p.m. in Northrop auditorium -- of the French film "La Ronde". It tells the story of 10 love affairs which take place in Vienna around 1900. The movie is based on Arthur Schnitzler's play, "Reigen".

Anton Walbrook, Danielle Darrieux, Jean-Louis Barrault and Simone Simon are among the stars who appear in the movie. "La Ronde" has been rated as an outstanding film, having won the grand prize at 1950 film festivals in Venice, Cannes, Brussels and Cuba.

Additional showings of "La Ronde" are scheduled at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday (April 16 and 17). General admission is 74 cents for adults, 35 cents for juniors.

Mrs. J. Ward Greenwood, director of adult education for KUOM, the University of Minnesota radio station, was today named as one of the eight recipients of a Better Understanding Award. The award, made by the English Speaking Union of the United States, was for her contributions to international cooperation and understanding in the field of radio broadcasting.

Mrs. Greenwood was honored for her work in planning and programming a number of radio series broadcast by KUOM last year which were designed to promote better understanding by Americans of British Commonwealth problems, both at home and abroad.

Better Understanding Awards were established by the English-Speaking Union in 1949 for writing and broadcasting which has shown a consistent endeavor to strengthen understanding and cooperation between the people of the United States and of the British Commonwealth. The awards are offered in the belief that such efforts are contributions to the security of all the free nations of the world.

The English-Speaking Union is a non-political organization supported by membership of individuals and firms in the United States. It has worked for the past thirty-two years toward greater friendship and cooperation among English-Speaking countries based on better public understanding. Branches in fifty-five major cities carry on educational exchanges and other activities.

DEMONSTRATIONS AT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Clifford N. Wall, University of Minnesota physics professor, will demonstrate "Action and Reaction" in duplicate lectures Tuesday and Wednesday (April 21-22). The lectures, to be given in Room 150 of the Physics building at 7:30 p.m., are designed for science students in Twin City high schools.

Wall will show how forces always occur in pairs. He will outline how the twin forces -- action and reaction -- are one of the fundamentals of mechanics and the basis for Newton's third law of motion.

This program is the last in an annual series of spring science lectures sponsored by the University's physics department. Students may obtain tickets for the demonstration from their science teachers.

INDIAN ENVOY
TO U.S. TO TALK
AT 'U' FRIDAY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

India's ambassador to the United States and Mexico, Gaganvihari L. Mehta, will deliver a special lecture on "Indian-American Relations" at the University of Minnesota Friday (April 24). He will speak at 3:30 p.m. in the Minnesota Museum of Natural History auditorium.

The program, sponsored by the World Affairs Center and the University's concerts and lectures department, is open to the public free of charge.

Ambassador Mehta, until recently, served as a member of the Planning Commission of India and as chairman of the Tariff Commission. After being educated at the University of Bombay and the London School of Economics, he was an assistant editor of the Bombay Chronicle and then manager of the Calcutta office for the Scindia Steam Navigation Co. Ltd., a major Indian shipping company. He is also a former president of the Indian Chamber of Commerce and past member of the Constituent Assembly of India.

Mehta has written several books, among them two collections of humorous writings, "From Wrong Angles" and "Perversities", and an explanation of the philosophy of Gandhism, "The Conscience of a Nation".

"MINNESOTA'S PAST THROUGH CONTEMPORARY EYES"

Abstract of speech, Tuesday, April 21, 7:00 P.M., before the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers, Radisson Hotel

*****

By Theodore C. Blegen, Dean of the Graduate School,
University of Minnesota

Dean Blegen gave a panorama of Minnesota from the days of Hennepin, Radisson, and LeSueur to modern times, building each scene from a contemporary diary or letter, emphasizing the courage and faith in the future that have been the foundation of Minnesota greatness.

The pioneer Minnesota faith, he said, reached its climax in the creation of schools, colleges, and the University of Minnesota. Dean Blegen pictured the scene of 1869, when Dr. Folwell challenged the state with a vision of the University that puts to shame those who today say that this state cannot sustain a first-class university.

Dr. Folwell, he said, looked across the years and called for a university that would need millions of dollars to support. He did this when the faculty numbered nine and the student body fourteen.

Dr. Folwell asked for a federation of schools and a university imbued with the scientific spirit. Put a "solid basis," he urged, under the professions and technical arts, under commerce, government, and human relations. Help our people to grapple with the problems of war and peace. Let the university teacher be both teacher and scholar. Build a university great in every part. Set up foundations that may endure to the end of the world. Count the cost and take the million as a unit.

"This," said Dean Blegen, "is part of the heritage of the North Star State." He paid tribute to the miners of our mineral wealth, the people who have fed a nation with butter and wheat and flour, the empire builders, the men of medicine, main street, and farmers and workers. But, he said, the glory of Minnesota is that it, like all the rest of America, has cherished untrammelled education. Our university, he said, was built by people who had faith in Minnesota and the future and would not settle for anything less than a great university. It has been a tremendous force in building a great state.

ABSTRACT OF HONORS DAY ADDRESS AT MACALESTER COLLEGE, ST. PAUL,
April 21, 11:00 A.M.

We are in an age of fear, and every age of fear is afraid of the freedom of thinking and teaching which is vital and indispensable to colleges and universities.

But college and university education is tougher than some people think. It survived the iron hand of Hitler. It will outlive the police bureau of Stalin and Malenkov. And it will survive the American Apostles of fear who, hiding behind brave slogans, would have our education stop at the borders of their ignorance and fear.

In time of need, the good sense of the people comes to the support of education because unshackled education is faith in ourselves and our future.

Scholarship is fit only for the ashcan if it surrenders or is denied its free and responsible search for truth.

The faith of the American college is living, democratic, American. The objective is liberal education to prepare people for good, enlightened citizenship in our democracy and for service and leadership.

But America needs better understanding between the public and scholarship. It needs an open two-way traffic of relevant and friendly understanding -- scholarship to people, people to scholarship.

The products of scholarship must be made available to millions of people in language they can understand. We need more bridges from scholarship to the public. Scholarship needs folk traditions and wisdom -- the people need understanding of research.

(MCRE)

Pseudo-scholarship and evil propaganda make full use of bridges to the public. Nose-led forces are today twisting history, science, and philosophy to fit tortured dogmas and unproved assertions. The world is afflicted with hawkers of cheap nostrums, people of filthy propaganda, McCarthys who fill the air with ceaseless and prodigious charges, writers who pin evil labels on patriotic and courageous men and women who dare to take stands for decency and humanity and understanding in a distracted world. It is time for our country to take sober second thought. The truth distorters have forgotten the words of the founder of the Christian religion, who said that truth makes men free. Untruth is chains and bondage. Shackling freedom of thought is the certain road to the evil of communism or its grinning twin fascism.

Research is vital to our future and offers boundless opportunity to gifted youth. But research is not enough. Our problem is to carry across bridges of public understanding the wealth of knowledge and insight that scholarship today can muster, while scholarship itself gathers in the folk wisdom whose values are rooted in man's experience.

I challenge the defeatism of today. Defeatism offers nothing but despair. The time has come for America to recover its poise, nerve, buoyancy, and courage. The genius of America is not defeatist. It is hope and freedom and bravery. Today is a time for courage and ambition. But education must meet the challenge of translating into the understood aims of our generation the precious heritage and values that undergird our democratic civilization.

SPRING QUARTER
'U' ENROLLMENT
TOPS YEAR AGO

Minneapolis --- Spring quarter attendance at the University of Minnesota totals 16,706, True E. Pettengill, University recorder, reported Monday (April 20). This is an increase of 224 over spring-time enrollment a year ago.

Pettengill explained that the drop from last fall's figure of 18,806 represents a normal decline. Part of the decrease is accounted for by the 1,040 students who graduated from the University at the end of fall and winter quarters.

Included in the student body this spring are 11,971 men -- 1,498 of these are veterans -- and 4,735 women.

Enrollment by colleges and divisions of the University was reported by Pettengill as follows: science, literature and the arts, 4,600; graduate school including Mayo Foundation fellows, 2,240; institute of technology, 1,866; college of education, 1,492; agriculture, forestry and home economics, 1,065; general college, 1,004; medical school, 588;

Business administration, 512; dentistry, 335; law school, 318; pharmacy, 238; nursing, 227; veterinary medicine, 194; public health, 174; dental hygiene, 67; medical and X-ray technology, 62; physical and occupational therapy, 58; University college, 49.

Duluth branch enrollment is 1,090. Of that number, 744 are men, including 67 veterans, and 346 are women.

STUDENTS RATE PROFESSORS HIGH
IN UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA SURVEY

Minneapolis --- Arts college professors at the University of Minnesota rate pretty high with their students.

In a recent survey, they were graded as good, very good or outstanding in all-around teaching ability by 88 per cent of the students. They also received relatively high ratings for their friendliness and willingness to give personal help.

Lower ratings were given to value of the text in relation to the course, fairness of grading policies and use of class time.

The survey was made during winter quarter under the direction of Kenneth E. Clark, associate professor of psychology who heads a faculty committee on improvement of instruction. Students in 450 classes of the college of science, literature and the arts participated. Results are based on the 14,050 student reports which were turned in.

On the remainder of the all-around teaching ability question, 10.7 per cent of the students ranked their professors as adequate instructors and only 1.4 per cent marked them poor.

Thirty-six per cent of the students said their instructors were extremely friendly in and out of class, 43.2 per cent indicated they were quite friendly and 15.9 per cent rated them as rather friendly.

Responding to the item on personal help, only 1 per cent of the students reported that they could get none at all from the instructor or his assistants. Of the rest, 35.1 per cent stated they could receive a great deal of help, 35.3 said they could get quite a bit.

A majority of arts college students -- 87.4 per cent -- think their courses are about as interesting, somewhat more or much more interesting than they expected.

In the survey, students also put down their opinions on how clearly subject matter is presented in lectures, how well teachers adjust to the class level of comprehension, how well professors know their subject, how clearly students' responsibilities toward the course are defined, how much actual outside work is assigned for the course and whether or not they would recommend it -- in terms of content -- to a friend.

Two pages of each student report included a check-list of specific suggestions for the instructor or the course and room for more detailed comment.

This survey, more comprehensive than earlier studies, was carried out under sponsorship of the arts college committee on improvement of instruction and the arts intermediary board, a representative student group.

FAMILY DOCTOR TO HAVE HIS DAY
AT MINNESOTA 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- The family doctor will have his day Wednesday, April 29, at the University of Minnesota when the first of a series of Family Doctors' Days will be staged by the medical school faculty.

Purpose of Family Doctors' Days is to bring about a closer relationship between the medical faculty and physicians in active practice in the state, according to Dr. Robert B. Howard, director of continuation medical education.

"Members of the medical school faculty," Dr. Howard explained, "have for some time believed that their relationship with physicians in active practice in the state has not been as close as they would like it to be. They know that they could profit by a closer association with practicing physicians, and they believe, too, that many physicians in the state would find it of interest to visit the medical school."

The first Family Doctors' Day will open with a luncheon in the recreation lounge of Powell hall. Sessions during the afternoon will start at 2 p.m. and will be held in the theater of the Variety Club Heart hospital. Dr. Wesley W. Spink, professor of medicine, will speak on "Antibiotics in Medical Practice", and Dr. C. J. Watson, head of the department of medicine, will discuss "Case Presentation". The program will close with a clinical-pathological conference staged by Dr. Watson and his staff.

Additional Family Doctors' Days are being planned at intervals throughout the year.

Arthur J. Altmeyer, retiring United States commissioner for social security, will report on "The Future of Social Security in America" when he delivers the annual Hodson lecture at the University of Minnesota May 12.

He will speak at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of the Minnesota Museum of Natural History. The lecture, sponsored each year by the University's school of social work, is open to the public free of charge.

Altmeyer has served as commissioner since 1946. Before that, he was a member of the Social Security board and then chairman from 1937 until 1946, when the board was abolished.

He has held other national and international posts, such as assistant secretary of labor, executive director of the War Manpower commission, chairman of the Inter-American Committee on Social Security, executive secretary of the preparatory commission for the International Refugee organization and United States member of the social commission of the United Nations.

The annual Hodson lectures are presented as a memorial to the late William Hodson, a University graduate and first chief of the Minnesota Children's bureau. Hodson, who founded the Legal Aid society of Minneapolis, became New York city commissioner of welfare and later deputy director of UNRRA. He was lost in an airplane crash in the South American jungles while flying to Africa for UNRRA.

Address before:
Central Association of University and College Business Officers
at the University of Minnesota
May 4, 1953 - 12:15 p.m.

"JANUS, GOD OF GATES AND DOORS"

By
William T. Middlebrook
Vice-President, Business Administration
University of Minnesota

It was a source of real pleasure to me to know a year ago that this Association had decided to come again to Minnesota after a lapse of nearly a quarter of a century. Those of us who live and work here recognize that we are a bit off the beaten path. If our welcome, therefore, appears too effusive that could be the reason. You have been welcomed. I wish to welcome you all again. Just one thought in this connection. Don't wait so long for the next visit. If you do, I'll be something more than "emeritus" for even though my sixty-second birthday was last month and "I don't feel no different" I probably am.

When your president, Bruce Pollock, and your past president and secretary, my very valued associate, Larry Lunden, asked me to speak at this luncheon, I thought that I detected a farewell address idea. It isn't going to be that for I don't like them; I haven't made one since I left high school, and I fully intend to hang on for a few years yet. Larry Lunden's constant inquiries concerning the state of my health, I hope will continue to provide the needed tonic.

At about the same time as this invitation, another one came from George Green of California Tech to talk to the Western Association at Victoria, British Columbia. The invitation carried these very modest topic ideas: changes in business practice during the past twenty-five years; suggestions for improvements in business practices; how to attract capable people to college business offices (this must be on the assumption that we don't have any now); the future role of our National Federation; and the needs and ways of improving more exchange of information (my interpretation - more and better questionnaires). I was pleased and thrilled with the assignment until I came to the sentence "we should like you to prepare a paper of about thirty minutes in length." I tried to keep up the spirit of the thing and wrote to him as follows:

(MCRE)

"I met the gang in Reno and I welcome the opportunity to do so again in 1953. I had never been to Reno nor have I ever been to Vancouver. It will be a thrill and I accept with enthusiasm. Today I do not have to go to the State Capitol (our legislature is in session) and so I have a little time to reflect on picking a subject. I have chosen 'Janus God of Gates and Doors.' This will reveal to you a secret which I have guarded very carefully, namely that I was a long time student of Latin and Greek and if the subject isn't clear to you, look up Janus in your big dictionary." George replied that he had looked up "Janus" in the dictionary and that the subject had possibilities. He didn't give me any interpretation. Perhaps he didn't get beyond the fact that this particular god was two faced and missed the thought that being so he was able to see and talk in two directions at one time.

From now on in what I say here and what I shall say in Vancouver will be something more than merely coincidental. The reading of the proceedings of one association will suffice "id ist" (just a further flaunting of my classical background) if you ever do read the proceedings.

The business officer has become a very important person in higher education - even more so than he can with becoming modesty admit and even more so than he can with safety and impunity admit in faculty circles. The presidents know this well, but generally being wise convey no hint of it except possibly man to man or in administration circles only.

"The "ivory towers" are crumbling under the demands of social and economic need. The business officer was not the cause. He was merely one instrument of the change. My own belief is that the role of the business officer is and should be undergoing a fundamental change right now. Higher education may be a business but it's a different kind of a business and the college and university business officer must cast himself in a new role. With his knowledge of business he is equipped to recognize and defend this difference. This is the theme of what I have to say.

This development from a clerical status to one with high professional standing has largely occurred in the last forty or fifty years. It's recent acceleration is really amazing. While I'm anxious to pay the utmost credit to the pioneers of our profession, it wasn't along their abilities and energies which were responsible. It was even more. The great expansion of higher education with an accompanying demand and need for better business practices for their management. It's a source of real pride to me that I have been privileged to share this remarkable opportunity along with the many Moreys, Steebs and Smiths who have so ably responded to the challenge.

As I view it we are in the third phase of our development. Expressed in terms of the development of a nation we have completed the settlement and pioneer phases. The settlement phase was the "move in" period. The door was unlocked but there were many feet pressed against it. We were admitted with much resistance and given an opportunity to show our very limited wares. These wares were new and unappealing to those inside. No one knows better than the intruders how primitive and inadequate these early business devices really were.

Once inside the opportunity and the urge for improvement was overwhelming. This is clearly evidenced by the early records of this association - incidentally the first of its kind. To me this marks the beginning of the pioneering phase. This second phase is marked by the development and adaptation to higher education of a series of business techniques in organization and procedures. This list is long and impressive. Let's just name a few of them - budgets, centralized purchasing and storehouses, centralized physical plant maintenance and operation, adequate, new improved and machine accounting, inventories, a host of new and needed auxiliary enterprises such as dormitories, eating places, bookstores and laundries, real estate and trust management, insurance and retirement plans, patent policies, non academic personnel recruitment classification and pay plans and many others equally significant, all requiring organization and procedures planning of a high order. The pioneering is in the main completed and our professional "tools" - not all alike - are forged.

This brings us to this third and present phase of our development. Today we are testing these tools and trying to agree on which are best adapted to our work. I term it the consolidation phase. More than fifteen years ago under the stimulus of Lloyd Morey we appraised and published our judgment on one of our earliest tools - accounting. Today we are trying to consolidate our judgments on the others which sooner or later - I hope sooner - will appear in print as volume two of the Manual on College and University Business Administration. The continuance and strengthening of our membership in the National Federation should do much to provide the common vehicle needed to insure our progress toward this goal of consolidating our progress.

Very often it's so satisfying to look backwards that we are tempted not to make the effort involved in trying to look ahead. In this matter our old Roman Deity Janus had a distinct advantage for with two faces he was compelled to look ahead as well as backward.

If we could gaze into the crystal ball and see what is ahead after this consolidation my belief is that we would find ourselves cast in a somewhat different and expanded role. Whether this is so or not that is the way I would wish it. Of course we shall continue to improve the organization and procedures in our fields of responsibility. We should do more. We should solicit a closer partnership in academic matters and on our own initiative promote, interpret and defend those things so essential to the success of higher education. Now this is a rather general statement. Any one of you could say "Specifically what have you in mind?" I need to answer that question. These are the things to be done which occur to me. Many more will occur to you if you accept the thought and ponder on it.

1. Increasingly we should interest ourselves in the personal welfare of the academic staff -- the core of our enterprise. This means improved salaries, improved sabbatical and vacation leaves for study, improved protection in terms of insurance, retirement, hospitalization and sick leave and improved home and living conditions. Our interest should be particularly directed to the young teaching and research assistants and instructors from whom must come tomorrow's leaders in higher education.

2. In every possible way we should insist in providing better physical facilities for this staff. This includes not alone buildings as such, but the classrooms, the laboratories, and the equipment and aids in them. Much can be accomplished here.
3. We should - and, ordinarily, it's our administrative responsibility - place at the command of this staff an able and alert non academic group of assistants. Here also much can still be done in recruiting training and holding people of the required competence.
4. We must not forget that we have both an opportunity and a responsibility in the "raw material" of high<sup>er</sup> education - students. Ours is not the task of teaching them but we can aid in attracting them through loans, scholarships and work opportunities and we can help to keep them stimulated and contented with pleasant and reasonable living, eating and social conditions. Good business management can contribute significantly in this area.
5. We must do our bit to keep the functions of instruction, research and service in balance and on a basis of soundness and integrity. We are struggling with a phase of this problem now in connection with government research contracts. Our positions and our objections have been misunderstood and misinterpreted on and off the campus but recent pronouncements have lent weight to their soundness.
6. Finally we have a most unique opportunity which stems from our business training, business experience, and daily business contacts. Perhaps we, as business officers, can, if we will, do much to forward understanding that the "business of higher education" is different business. Isn't it possible that our views might be accepted in important business circles where those of our associates might be viewed with skepticism. If this be even remotely so, we should grasp the opportunity to insist that the application to our institutions without modification of those successful business techniques of standard units of production, standard unit costs, fixed work hours, time clocks, and production lines will stifle if not ruin our kind of business. Of course our faculty colleagues must have some reasonable work loads, but freedom of time and method of accomplishment is a prime essential in our kind of business.

That is my answer. None of these points is startling or novel. It's much more a change in point of view, motivated by a conviction that the business officer can contribute more as a member of the team. His acceptance will be determined in large measure by the attitude which he takes on these and other problems. Looking backward "Janus" can see the war training problem, the veteran bulge problem and the research problem favorably solved or well on the way to a satisfactory solution. Looking ahead "Janus" could well see rough weather. At least there are today signs of it. If I'm right that all or most of us are trying to serve education because we believe in it with missionary conviction then lets do our best to join the team and support and defend it to the best of our ability.

SCHOOL MUSICIANS
COMPETING AT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Six-thousand school musicians from east central Minnesota are competing in regional music contests at the University of Minnesota Friday and Saturday (May 1-2).

Students from schools in Regions IV, V, VI and VII of the Minnesota Public School Music League will make Northrop Memorial auditorium their headquarters during the competitions. Friday has been set aside for all instrumental contests, also band and orchestra sessions. Vocal solos and ensembles, glee clubs and choruses are scheduled for Saturday.

At the same time, the League is sponsoring similar contests at Gustavus Adolphus college, St. Peter, for Region II on Saturday; at Thief River Falls high school for Region VIII, Friday and Saturday; for Region III students at Worthington high school, Friday, and at Tracy high school, Saturday. Musicians in Region I will hold their contest May 9, at Austin high school.

Students participating in these state-wide regional contests are all musicians who were awarded "1" ratings at 32 district competitions held earlier. Solo and ensemble participants who maintain their "1" rating in the regional events will receive keys, while bands, choruses and glee clubs will be awarded trophies.

The regional contest managers are Eugene Dunlap, Austin high school music instructor, Region I; Paul Allwardt, director of music, Gustavus Adolphus college, Region II; Gerald Niemeyer, music director, Worthington high school, and George Borneman, Tracy school superintendent, Region III; Dana Peitersen, assistant director, University of Minnesota bands, Region IV, V, VI, VII; and Kalmar Ostby, Thief River Falls high school principal, Region VII.

CONFERENCE AT 'U'
TO HONOR VETERAN
PRESS DIRECTOR

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Mrs. Margaret S. Harding, who will retire June 30 after 26 years as director of the University of Minnesota Press, will be honored May 11 at a conference and dinner which will bring a number of noted scholars, writers and publishing experts to the University campus.

Four leaders in the field of scholarly publishing will speak at a round table conference on "Problems of Publication for the Scholar-Writer", to be held from 2 to 4:30 p.m. in the women's lounge of Coffman Memorial Union.

Thomas J. Wilson, director of the Harvard University Press, will speak on "The Functions of the Scholar's Publisher". Chester Kerr, secretary of the Yale University Press, will have as his topic, "The Price Tags of Scholarly Publishing". Charles E. Odegaard, dean of the college of literature, science and the arts at the University of Michigan, will describe "A Venture in Aid of Publishing Opportunities". Hiram Haydn, editor of "The American Scholar", the quarterly magazine of Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic society, will speak on "The Scholar's Audience in America". Theodore C. Blegen, dean of the graduate school, University of Minnesota, will serve as moderator.

Wilson has had long experience both in commercial and scholarly publishing. He has worked in various capacities with Henry Holt and company and Reynal and Hitchcock, and is a former director of the University of North Carolina Press. Kerr was formerly director of the Atlantic Monthly Press and vice president of Reynal and Hitchcock. He directed an extensive survey of university presses, published in a book entitled "A Report on American University Presses."

(MCRE)

Dean Odegaard served for four years as executive secretary of the American Council of Learned Societies, an organization which has devoted much study and research to the problems of scholarly publishing. Haydn, in addition to editing "The American Scholar", is the New York editor of the Bobbs Merrill Publishing company. He is the editor of the Twentieth Century Library published by Scribner's, is the author of several published novels, and is the editor or author of a number of books in the fields of literature and history.

Following the conference, a dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m. in the main ballroom of Coffman Memorial Union with Morris L. Ernst of New York as principal speaker. His topic will be "The Climate of Fear in the World of Books".

Ernst, lawyer, author and champion of civil liberties and a free press, has participated in many governmental affairs, both state and federal. He was appointed by President Truman to the President's committee on civil rights and to the President's advisory committee to the post office. During World War II he served as special counsel to the War Production board and went to England as a personal representative of President Roosevelt on various missions.

By appointment of Franklin D. Roosevelt when he was governor and also by appointment of Governor Lehman from 1933 to 1945, Ernst served as a member of the New York State Banking board. He also has been a long-time member of the Pennsylvania Coal commission.

For many years Ernst has been counsel for the Authors' League of America and the Dramatists Guild. He was, for a time, special counsel for the American Newspaper Guild. For a quarter of a century he has been a member of the board of directors and counsel for the American Civil Liberties Union.

Malcolm M. Willey, vice president, academic administration, University of Minnesota, and chairman of the University's committee on the press, will preside at the dinner. President J. L. Morrill will speak on behalf of the University. Thomas J. Wilson, president for 1952-53 of the Association of American University Presses, will speak for the association.

Both the afternoon conference and the dinner are open to the public. Reservations for the dinner may be made at the University of Minnesota Press office in Nicholson hall at the University.

CANTOR TO TALK
ON KUOM WEDNESDAY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Eddie Cantor, motion picture, radio and TV comedian, will make a guest appearance, Wednesday (May 6) to thousands of Minnesota school children when he talks to them on brotherhood and tolerance. Cantor will be heard on "Penny and Paul", a program produced for in-school listening and broadcast by KUOM, the University of Minnesota radio station at 11 a.m., Wednesday.

"Penny and Paul" is one of a series of programs produced at KUOM for in-school listening for the various grades, and which are correlated with teaching programs at schools throughout Minnesota. The "Penny and Paul" program deals with social studies.

Cantor, after sending his greetings to the school children of Minnesota, will answer questions put to him by two fictional Minnesota school pupils on brotherhood and what it means to him.

Cantor's portion of the program was produced at his home in Palm Springs, Calif., and sent, via tape transcription, to the KUOM studios where it was incorporated into the final program.

The program was written by Betty Girling, KUOM radio program supervisor, and Allen Opegard, University senior. It was produced by Constance Muelbach.

'U' ELEMENTARY
SCHOOL STUDENTS TO TOUR NORTHSTATE

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Twenty-five fifth graders from the University of Minnesota elementary school will go on a four-day trip through northern Minnesota May 26-29.

Accompanied by three faculty members and two student teachers, the 10 and 11-year-old students will see lumber and mining operations, the resort area, famous state landmarks and several Indian communities. This is the second year the fifth grade has gone on tour to get a first-hand look at what "makes Minnesota".

The first day the group will visit Indians on the west shore of Lake Mille Lacs, an Indian school at Vineland, an Indian burial ground at Leech lake and the headwaters of the Mississippi river in Itasca State park.

After an overnight stop in the park, the young students will travel to Bemidji. The second day's schedule will take them to the Red Lake Indian reservation to watch lumbering and fishing operations, to Grand Rapids paper mills and the University's North Central Experiment station there. They will spend the night in Hibbing.

On the third day, the "gradesters" will go sightseeing at one of Hibbing's open pit mines, along the Iron Range to Virginia, then to Ely where they will visit nearby resorts. They will drive to Beaver Bay on Lake Superior to look over the developing taconite site, turn back and stop at Split Rock lighthouse, the Baptism river, Gooseberry falls and ore docks at Two Harbors before ending the day in Duluth.

The fourth day's itinerary will cover the Duluth waterfront, the sky line drive, the University's Duluth branch, Jay Cooke state park, the oil refinery at Wrenshall, the state reforestation nursery and state youth conservation forestry camp at Willow River and Hinckley.

PARADE TO OPEN
ENGINEERS DAY
AT U. OF M. FRIDAY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

University of Minnesota engineering students will open their annual "E" Day celebration Friday (May 8) with a parade through the Minneapolis loop and the main campus.

Some 40 floats and cars, led by a marching band, will make up the parade. The procession will begin at Tenth and Nicollet at 9:30 a.m., move down to Fourth St. and then to Third Ave. S. before going to the campus.

Traditional crowning of the Queen Colleen and the knighting of Martin Kellogg, 2052 Summit Ave., St. Paul, as St. Pat will follow the end of the parade. The ceremony will take place at 10:30 a.m. on the front steps of the main engineering building.

Engineers will meet for a noon luncheon in the main ballroom of Coffman Memorial Union before participating in a round of athletic tournaments -- tennis, softball and golf -- during the afternoon.

"Guys and Guys", this year's "E" Day revue, will be presented at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. in Northrop Memorial auditorium. The show will feature take-offs on "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" and "High Noon".

"E" Day activities will continue Saturday (May 9) with a picnic and field events at Como Park in the afternoon and the annual "E" Day Brawl -- a semi-formal dance -- at the St. Paul hotel in the evening.

During the two days, 30 local and national companies will have displays in the engineering buildings. Student projects will be exhibited and most of the laboratories will be open to the public. Hours for the open house are 7 p.m. to midnight on Friday, from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

POET, TO VISIT 'U'

(FOR RELEASE SUNDAY, MAY 10)

Stephen Spender, leading British poet, will visit the University of Minnesota Thursday (May 14) to lecture on "Culture as a Guarantee of Freedom". He will speak at 11:30 a.m. in Northrop Memorial auditorium. The convocation is open to the public free of charge.

Spender's first volume, "Poems", was published in 1933. He wrote "Forward from Liberalism" in 1937 following a visit to Madrid. His other works include a poetic drama titled "Trial of a Judge", "The Still Center", "Poems for Spain", "Ruins and Visions" and most recently, "Poems of Dedication" and "The Edge of Being".

In 1946, the poet travelled to the British zone of Germany to study the impact of Nazism on German intellectuals for the British Foreign Office. His "European Witness" came out as a result of the trip.

Spender founded the literary review, "Horizon", in 1939 with Cyril Connolly and Peter Watson.

COLLEGE STUDENTS TO HOLD NATIONAL
AIR MEET AT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Students from 14 college flying clubs will come to Minneapolis for the 16th annual air meet of the National Intercollegiate Flying association Friday and Saturday (May 8-9). The University of Minnesota Flying club will serve as host to the 300 flyers who will be on hand for the event.

Competitions are scheduled in power-off and power-on spot landings, bomb dropping and navigation. All of the flying will be from the new University airport facilities at Anoka county airport north of Minneapolis one mile west of Highway 8 on County Road "J". Spectators are invited to watch the contests.

During the noon hour, Friday and Saturday, helicopter performances will take place. Air force and navy aircraft will be on display.

Trophies and medals for winners of the competitive events, for the top man and woman pilot, for those who have come the greatest distance to the meet, for the best safety record, for teams with the most points in the meet and for the outstanding flying clubs will be awarded at a banquet Saturday evening in the main ballroom of Coffman Memorial Union.

The editor of Flying magazine, Gill Robb Wilson, will be the chief speaker at the dinner. Tommy Bartlett of the "Welcome Travelers" radio show will act as master-of-ceremonies.

Honored guests at the banquet will include Lawrence Steiner, donor of the University airport; George Hadaway, editor of Southern Flight magazine; Bob Chatley of Cessna; Carl Guell of the University Aviation association; Ray Mertes of United airlines; Brigadier General Thomas C. Darcy, United States air force; L. L. HARVARD GEOLOGIST
TO OPEN 4-DAY
'U' ROCK PROGRAM

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Marland P. Billings, Harvard university geology professor, will open a four-day program on metamorphism -- the study of structural changes in rock -- Thursday, May 14, at the University of Minnesota.

He will speak on "Metamorphic Zones or Facies in Central New England" at 3:30 p.m. that day in Room 2 of Pillsbury hall. His talk, the annual William Harvey Emmons Fund lecture, will be open to the public.

For many years, Billings has been studying and mapping the metamorphic rocks of New England. The Emmons lecture will summarize his work.

The four-day program, planned and sponsored by the University's geology department, also will feature a seminar on metamorphism at 10:30 a.m. Friday, May 15 in Room 210 of Pillsbury hall. Billings will discuss zonal and facies classification of metamorphic rocks, their origin and new theories of development.

Annual banquet of the Geology club is scheduled at 5:30 p.m. that evening in the junior ballroom of Coffman Memorial Union.

Geology professors George M. Schwartz and Samuel S. Goldich will conduct a field trip out of Duluth during the last two days of the special program, Saturday and Sunday, May 16-17. The first day will be spent studying Duluth gabbro and its contact metamorphic effects on intruded rocks; the second day at Jay Cooke State park with a trip to Denham to see progressive regional metamorphism.

'U' TO RECOGNIZE
HONOR STUDENTS
CAP, GOWN DAY

(FOR RELEASE THURSDAY, MAY 14)

Minneapolis --- Some 2,500 students graduating from the University of Minnesota this June will put on their academic costume for the first time Thursday (May 21) to participate in traditional Cap and Gown Day ceremonies.

Main feature of the day is the annual honors convocation at 11:30 a.m. in Northrop Memorial auditorium at which University President J. L. Morrill recognizes honor students. The program will start shortly after 11 a.m. when senior students will join the faculty in an academic procession up the mall from Coffman Memorial Union to the auditorium.

From special seats, about 65 members of the class of 1903 will "review" the seniors as they march by.

Elvin C. Stakman, professor and chief of plant pathology and botany, will deliver the main address at the convocation. His talk is titled "Minnesota, Hail to Thee". Stakman will retire in June after 44 years on the faculty.

Afterwards, assisted by Professor E. W. Ziebarth, chairman of the speech department, President Morrill will recognize the University's top-ranking students. The senior class will be introduced by Darlene N. Ludtke of Blue Earth, class president.

Edmund G. Williamson, dean of students, will preside at the Cap and Gown Day program. The ceremonies begin a series of special events which precede commencement June 13.

As in the past, Cap and Gown Day coincides with the annual University alumni reunion May 21-22. This year the alumni association is celebrating its golden anniversary.

MINNESOTA 'U' DROPS
REQUIRED INTERNSHIP
FOR M. D. DEGREE

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- University of Minnesota medical students will no longer be required to complete a year's internship for the doctor of medicine degree. The new ruling was approved Friday (May 8) by the Board of Regents.

The move is in keeping with a general trend to abolish the requirement. Following the start of World War II, medical schools throughout the country dropped the practice. Only four still retain the "extra year".

Almost 40 years ago, the University of Minnesota was the first school to establish the requirement of an internship. This action was taken to give internship recognition as an essential part of a physician's training and to discourage graduates of the medical school from entering practice without it.

Although the requirement is no longer necessary at Minnesota, Dr. Harold S. Diehl, head of the medical school, stated, "It is unthinkable that a graduate of our medical school today would enter practice without having an internship. The internship is now universally recognized as an essential part of medical education. In fact, most states require an internship for licensure and all special fields of medical practice require an internship as preliminary to specialty training."

SOCIAL SECURITY
EXPERT TO SPEAK
AT U. OF M. TUESDAY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

"The Future of Social Security in America" will be outlined by Arthur J. Altmeyer, retiring (effective May 8) United States social security commissioner, in a lecture at the University of Minnesota Tuesday (May 12).

His talk, scheduled at 8 p.m. in the Minnesota Museum of Natural History, is being given as the annual Hodson memorial lecture. It is open to the public without charge.

Altmeyer has been active in the federal social security program since 1935, serving as commissioner since 1946. He was chairman of the former Social Security board from 1937-46.

Other posts which Altmeyer has held include assistant secretary of labor, executive director of the War Manpower commission, chairman of the Inter-American Committee on Social Security and United States member of the social commission of the United Nations.

The Hodson lecture is presented each year by the University's school of social work in memory of the late William Hodson. Hodson, a University alumnus, was first head of the Minnesota Children's bureau, later founded the Legal Aid society of Minneapolis, became New York city commissioner of welfare and also deputy director of UNRRA.

Walt Disney's "Fantasia", full-length animated film in technicolor, will be presented at 4 and 7:30 p.m. Friday, May 22, in Northrop Memorial auditorium by the University of Minnesota Film society.

Made in 1941, "Fantasia" is an artistic interpretation of eight musical works: Bach's "Tocatta and Fugue in D Minor", "The Nutcracker Suite" by Tchaikovsky, Dukas' "Sorcerer's Apprentice", "Rite of Spring" by Stravinsky, Beethoven's "Pastoral Symphony", "Dance of the Hours" by Ponchielli, "Night on Bald Mountain" by Moussorgsky and the Schubert "Ave Maria".

Deems Taylor, who made the selections, introduces each section. The music is by the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra under the direction of Leopold Stokowski.

Mickey Mouse stars in the "Sorcerer's Apprentice" sequence. "Rite of Spring" has been interpreted as a pageant of the first two billion years on earth, the "Tocatta and Fugue" number is a series of abstract patterns and the "Pastoral Symphony" features fauns, centaurs and cupids in a mythological setting on Mount Olympus. Dewdrop dancers and Chinese mushroom fairies appear in "The Nutcracker Suite".

General admission to the showings is 74 cents for adults, 35 cents for juniors (children through high school age). Tickets are on sale at Field-Schlick, St. Paul, and the Downtown Ticket office, Minneapolis.

GREATER 'U' FUND
LAUNCHES CAMPAIGN;
$130,000 GOAL SET

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- The Greater University Fund of the University of Minnesota launched its 1953 campaign this week with a goal of $130,000. The drive got underway with an initial mailing of 60,000 copies of the Fund's annual report to alumni and friends of the University.

All 1952 contributors are listed in the report, which also includes information on the fund program and graphs of Fund growth and gift size. Altogether, more than 3,800 donors gave $168,650 to the Fund during the past year. The money was distributed among 92 different projects.

National campaign chairman Dr. William F. Braasch of Rochester, retired staff member of the Mayo Foundation and Mayo Clinic, pointed out that the 1953 campaign will again stress gifts for freshmen scholarships, graduate fellowships for advanced study and research equipment. This year's drive will emphasize number of contributors rather than the size of individual donations.

"The Greater University Fund," Dr. Braasch said, "offers the best media through which former students can evidence appreciation for the benefits which the University gave them."

Fund donors can contribute money to 21 special projects this year. Among these are the Theater Building fund, the Duluth Branch Development fund, the Minnesota Medical Foundation project, the Mining Industries Scholarship fund, the Grasslands Research project and the Henry L. Williams Memorial scholarship fund.

The Greater University Fund is sponsored by the Minnesota Alumni association. It is directed by Robert P. Provost.

HINTS OFFERED FOR CHEERING
SICK CHILDREN

Minneapolis ---Goldfish, pet birds and toys are all things which children love, but they have a special appeal for youngsters sick in bed.

Boys and girls who are "down and out" with measles, mumps, colds, whooping cough or other childhood diseases can have a good time in bed -- without running mother ragged, according to Elizabeth M. Fuller, principal of the University of Minnesota's nursery school and associate professor of child welfare.

Under the direction of her staff, student teachers in the University's institute of child welfare have studied ways of amusing bedridden youngsters. Tops on their list of suggestions are ideas for brightening up the sick room.

Gay paper covers for bedside tables are recommended; a variation in decorations if the child has a long-term illness; good lighting; a shoe bag or an oil cloth cover for the bed with built-in pockets for storing crayons, scissors and so on; plants which the child can watch as they grow. Sick children will especially enjoy a pet bird or goldfish, a phonograph or music box or a bird feeding station outside their window.

Mealtimes can be fun for sick-a-bed youngsters with different favors on their tray, colorful napkins, perhaps a "surprise" package, bread cut in fancy shapes, hard or soft boiled eggs decorated on the shell, peach or pear halves made into faces with cloves, raisins, bits of cherry and coconut hair.

Toys of all kinds -- clothespin dolls, hand puppets, balloons, finger painting and water painting sets, soap bubble pipes, peg boards, rhythm instruments, little cars and trucks -- and such things as good picture books, puzzles, bead stringing and the making of handkerchief animals or scrapbooks will help keep sick children happy.

Mrs. Fuller points out that if they are given things with which they can entertain themselves for some time, they are not likely to demand that they be waited upon. But, she warns, play materials should be on an age level about a year younger so the child will not become fatigued or overstimulated. For the same reason, not too many toys should be given at once.

CAP, GOWN DAY

(FOR RELEASE SUNDAY, MAY 17)

University of Minnesota seniors will don their academic robes for the first time for the University's annual Cap and Gown Day convocation Thursday (May 21). The program -- a traditional event honoring top-ranking students -- will begin with an academic procession up the mall at 11 a.m.

Some 2,500 students who will graduate this June will join faculty members in the parade from Coffman Memorial Union to Northrop Memorial auditorium. About 65 alumni -- all from the class of 1903 -- will be on hand to "review" the procession.

"Minnesota, Hail to Thee", this year's Cap and Gown Day address, will be delivered in the auditorium by Elvin C. Stakman, world-renowned plant pathologist, who will retire in June after serving the University 44 years. He has been chief of the plant pathology and botany department in the institute of agriculture since 1940.

Following Stakman's talk, University President J. L. Morrill will recognize the University's honor students -- those with a "B" average or above, scholarship winners, recipients of various awards and members of honor societies. He will be assisted by E. W. Ziebarth, chairman of the speech department.

Master-of-ceremonies at the Cap and Gown Day convocation will be Edmund G. Williamson, dean of students. The senior class will be presented by Darlene N. Ludtke of Blue Earth, class president.

Cap and Gown Day coincides with the Minnesota Alumni association's 50th annual reunion on the campus Thursday and Friday (May 21-22).

'U' STUDENT LEADERS
TO GET AWARDS
TUESDAY EVENING

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

One-hundred outstanding student leaders at the University of Minnesota will receive awards at the annual All-University Congress recognition dinner Tuesday (May 19).

Edmund G. Williamson, dean of students, will present the Order of the North Star -- the highest award -- to nine students. The Order of the Gopher will be given to 27 students, the Order of Ski-U-Mah to 64.

All-U Congress president for 1952-53, Merrill K. Cragun, Jr., 75 Orlin Ave., S.E., Minneapolis, will preside at the ceremonies in the main ballroom of Coffman Memorial Union. University President J. L. Morrill and Errett W. McDiarmid, dean of the college of science, literature and the arts, will be among the speakers.

Some 14 staff members will also be honored with awards for their outstanding contributions to the student body. The staff presentations will be made by Muriel Davis, Willmar, member of the All-U Congress.

G. Ray Higgins, executive secretary of the Minnesota Heart association, will present a plaque to the Interfraternity Council and Panhellenic Council for their $5,000 contribution to the association. The money -- largest single donation received by the association this year -- was earned by campus fraternities and sororities at their Greek Week Variety show in early February.

The All-U Congress is the student governing body on the campus.

PLANS CITIZENSHIP
CLEARING HOUSE

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- A Citizenship Clearing House -- to introduce outstanding students to an understanding of political party operation -- will be set up at the University of Minnesota during the 1953-54 academic year.

The new program -- which will be open to students at all Minnesota colleges -- is made possible by a grant from Citizenship Clearing House, affiliated with the Law Center of New York university and directed by Justice Arthur T. Vanderbilt, dean of the center and chief justice of the New Jersey supreme court. In Minnesota, the program will be integrated with political science courses.

Under the plan, college students throughout the state will have opportunities for periodic meetings with political leaders of their party choice. There will be supervised attendance of students at political gatherings and special work-room materials will be made available.

The Citizenship Clearing House will be directed from its headquarters at the University of Minnesota by Asher N. Christensen, professor of political science, and Arthur E. Naftalin, associate professor of political science.

HOW TO HELP
ALCOHOLICS 'U'
COURSE SUBJECT

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- How people become alcoholics and how they can be helped will be major discussion topics during a two-day institute at the University of Minnesota Thursday and Friday (May 21-22).

Ralph Henderson, from the Yale university section of alcohol studies, will open the conference at the University's Center for Continuation Study with a "Profile of the Alcoholic" Thursday morning. Robert F. Spencer, associate professor of anthropology, will review environmental factors which may tend to make a person an alcoholic.

In the afternoon, Dan Anderson, psychologist at the Willmar State hospital, will speak on "Personality Trends in Alcoholism".

Friday, lecturers will cover ways of intervening in the process of alcoholic deterioration. The speakers will include Dr. Philip K. Artz, psychiatric consultant, Wilder Alcoholic Service Center, St. Paul; Dr. Werner Simon, chief of neuro-psychiatric service at Veterans' hospital, Ft. Snelling; Douglas Hunt, judge of probate, Montevideo; Nelson J. Bradley, superintendent of the Willmar State hospital; and Dr. Robert G. Hinckley, associate professor of psychiatry and mental hygienist in the University's student health service.

The course is open to all who counsel alcoholics -- social workers, lawyers, judges, educators, clergymen and others. It is designed to give them a broader knowledge of the problems of alcoholism.

HONOR UNIVERSITY
SUMMER INSTRUCTOR

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Roscoe V. Cramer of Kansas City, Mo., who has taught in the University of Minnesota's college of education during summer sessions since 1946, was honored recently by the residents of Kansas City's West Side where he is principal of an elementary school and a junior high school.

Paying tribute to Cramer in a surprise program at his junior high school were students and former students, parents and teachers, municipal and civic officials.

"The children of the West Side," a Kansas City school official stated during the program, "know Dr. Cramer as a man who gave them food when they were hungry and clothes when they were cold. Teachers and administrators know him as a man who excels in his profession and who has a wide influence in teaching circles all over the country."

Speaking for the parents, the father of three students said: "All of us can give examples when Dr. Cramer has kept a boy or girl out of trouble or made a child happy with a kind word or act. He is a man of monumental patience and great kindness."

Hundreds of summer sessions students at the University have taken courses in "Organization of the Elementary School" and "Pupil Personnel Administration" taught by Cramer. He will return to the University again next month as a member of the summer session staff.

University of Minnesota educators have just completed three new books.

"Curriculum in the Modern Elementary School", published this month by Prentice-Hall, was written by Walter W. Cook, dean of the college of education, and Robert H. Beck, education professor, in collaboration with Nolan C. Kearney, assistant St. Paul school superintendent in charge of curriculum.

Two companion books -- "The Student Teacher in the Elementary School" and "The Student Teacher in the Secondary School" -- are now being published by Prentice-Hall. They were co-authored by Paul R. Grim, education professor, and John U. Michaelis, professor of education at the University of California, Berkeley.

UNIVERSITY GROUP TO EXPLORE ANCIENT INDIAN BURIAL, DWELLING SITES

(FOR RELEASE THURSDAY, JUNE 4)

Minneapolis --- More of Minnesota's ancient Indian history will come to light this summer when University of Minnesota anthropologist Lloyd A. Wilford goes on his annual digging trip.

Starting June 15, Dr. Wilford plans to investigate five different spots in the state -- all are either old Indian burial grounds or village sites. The skeleton remains, pieces of pottery and other objects he finds will tell him what tribe of Indians once lived in the area, whether they were hunters or farmers and what were some of their customs.

The scientist will be accompanied by five students: Richard R. Busch, 915 Manomin ave., West St. Paul; Donald Johnson, 1753 Hillcrest ave., St. Paul; David Lewit, 2205 Minneapolis ave. S., Minneapolis; Marshall McKusick, 4924 First ave. S., Minneapolis; and Jerome Miller, 1749 Bayard ave., St. Paul.

First stopping place will be the Howard Volkart farm at Minnesota City, just north of Winona. The University team will work on some burial mounds on the grounds. "I don't know what we'll discover there," says Dr. Wilford, "I've never dug a valley mound in that part of the state before. Most of the other mounds nearby are up on the river bluffs."

A cave found this winter by two Winona Boy Scouts -- Melvyn Awes and Robert Thaldorf -- just outside Whitewater State park is second on the list. The Scouts picked up some old-type Indian pottery there which Dr. Wilford estimates is more than 500 years old. Trees blown down by the May 10 tornado litter the passageway to the cave which lies in a cliff above an old stone quarry on the Snyder farm bordering the park.

After digging in the cave, the group will travel to Yucatan -- located between Houston and Spring Grove -- where they will explore burial grounds located on the "Hogback" south of town. Then they will move to Browns Valley to check old Indian village sites around Lake Traverse and on Jensen's island.

The field trip will end in late August at Swan lake between New Ulm and St. Peter. There Dr. Wilford and his crew plan to open some mounds located on the Louis Pohler farm.

'U' TO GRADUATE
2500 JUNE 13

(FOR RELEASE THURSDAY, JUNE 4)

Minneapolis --- Approximately 2,500 students will receive degrees at the University of Minnesota's spring quarter commencement Saturday, June 13, in Memorial stadium. Ceremonies will begin at 8 p.m.

University President J. L. Morrill will deliver his traditional "Charge to the Class" -- the major speech during the program. Malcolm M. Willey, vice president in charge of academic administration, will preside at the exercises.

An invocation by the Rev. Gordon W. Hagberg, director of the Disciples of Christ student fellowship at the University, will open the ceremonies.

After President Morrill's address, Vice President Willey will introduce the heads of the Army, Navy and Air Force ROTC units on the campus. They will present their candidates for commissions. The group will take the oath of office from Colonel Robert T. Connor, professor of military science and tactics.

Deans of the University's various colleges will be introduced next so they can present their candidates for degrees to President Morrill. He will confer all of the degrees. Graduating students will be given their diplomas as they march across the stage.

Students who will receive the doctor of philosophy degree will be announced individually by Theodore C. Blegen, dean of the graduate school.

Visitors for commencement will hear the University's Flemish bells atop Northrop Memorial auditorium being played by carillonneur J. Frederic Goossen as they reach the campus between 7-7:30 p.m. The University concert band, directed by bandmaster Gerald R. Prescott, will perform in a prelude concert in the stadium from 7:30-8 p.m.

The program is open to the public; no tickets are required for entrance to Memorial stadium.

RABBI SILVER
'U' BACCALUREATE
SPEAKER JUNE 7

(FOR RELEASE SUNDAY, MAY 31)

Minneapolis -- Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver, noted Jewish leader, will be the main speaker at annual baccalaureate services at the University of Minnesota Sunday, June 7. The program -- a traditional event for graduating seniors -- will be held at 3 p.m. in Northrop Memorial auditorium.

"The Faith Which Will Serve Us Best" will be the topic of Rabbi Silver's baccalaureate address. As head of The Temple in Cleveland, O., he is the leader of the largest liberal Jewish congregation in the United States. Dr. Silver, who also has been active as president of the Zionist Organization of America, is regarded as the foremost spokesman of Zionism in this country. He has represented the movement before the United Nations assembly.

"Religion in a Changing World" and "World Crisis and Jewish Survival" are among the several historical and religious books which Dr. Silver has written.

An academic procession, in which graduating students will join faculty members in a march up the mall into the auditorium, will precede the program.

The service will begin with an invocation by the Rev. James Boren, director of the Westminster foundation and pastor to Presbyterian students on the campus. Music will be by the University a cappella choir under the direction of Caro M. Carapetyan, acting choral director.

University President J. L. Morrill will speak briefly to the senior class before Dr. Silver's address.

Following the service, graduating students have been invited by President and Mrs. Morrill to attend the annual Senior Reception. It will be held on the lawn bordered by the Center for Continuation Study and the Minnesota Museum of Natural History. If the weather is bad, it will be moved into the main ballroom of Coffman Memorial Union. The University concert band, led by bandmaster Gerald R. Prescott, will play during the reception.

SUMMER SESSION

Minneapolis --- Minnesota high school students who wish to supplement courses taken in their own schools, make up credits or earn extra credits to lighten their programs for next year may attend the summer session at the University of Minnesota high school here starting June 15.

Courses to be offered during the session, which will end July 17, include: reading improvement, better writing, journalism, theater workshop, remedial instruction in mathematics, elementary algebra and geometry, foreign languages--- French, German, Spanish, Russian---music, typewriting, biological science, art and social studies.

Special University facilities are available to all University high school summer students, Sterling B. Mitchell, principal of the school, pointed out today. Programs featuring outstanding authors, musicians and scientists are open to students, he stated. Classes are held Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 12 noon.

Students from out-of-town schools must make their own arrangements for room and board, the principal advised, because the University cannot offer dormitory accommodations to high school students. Nominal tuition rates are charged for the courses.

Anyone desiring further information regarding the University high school summer session may write to the principal or telephone him at MAin 8158, Extension 6248.

FOREIGN POLICY
PROGRAMS PLANNED
IN 3 STATE CITIES

Minneapolis --- Minnesota citizens and State Department officials will have a chance to exchange views on American foreign policy at three special World Affairs Institutes to be staged this month in Bemidji, St. Cloud and Mankato.

The Bemidji institute is scheduled June 22-23, the St. Cloud meeting will be June 24-25 and a similar conference will be held in Mankato June 26. The programs are being sponsored by the Minnesota World Affairs Center and the State Teachers colleges in the three cities.

David H. Popper, deputy director of the Office of UN Political and Security Affairs, and two other State Department specialists will join world affairs authorities from the three colleges and community representatives in panel discussions at each institute. They will cover three main topics: World trade, the situation in Europe and the United Nations.

All of the institute programs will be open to the public free of charge as well as to summer school students at the colleges. The meeting places in the north, central and southern parts of the state were chosen so that as many people as possible could attend, according to William C. Rogers, World Affairs Center director. The programs will begin at 9:30 a.m. in each city.

Rogers also pointed out that everyone who comes to the sessions will be given an opportunity to express his own views and ask questions.

The institutes also have the support of various clubs and associations in each locality. The programs are presented with the cooperation of the United States Department of State.

Chairman of the three conferences will be professors A. C. Clark, Bemidji; H. P. Lohrman, St. Cloud; and T. L. Nydahl, Mankato -- all heads of the social science department in their respective State Teachers college.

ENGINEERS NEEDED - IRON MINING INDUSTRY BACKS 'U' SCHOLARSHIPS

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- New scholarships designed to prepare much-needed mining engineers for jobs in Minnesota's expanding taconite industry were announced Wednesday (June 3) by the University of Minnesota. Grants ranging up to $300 will be awarded to undergraduate students in the institute of technology's school of mines and metallurgy.

Eleven independent operators and two producers from the iron mining industry of Minnesota have established the scholarship fund through the Greater University Fund. Minnesota high school graduates, students currently enrolled at the University and transfer students from other colleges in the state are eligible to compete for the awards.

According to Thomas L. Joseph, dean of the University's mines and metallurgy school, the scholarship program was set up because "an acute shortage of mining engineers occurs at a most unfortunate time in Minnesota because of projected taconite developments approaching a billion dollars in the next decade".

A special committee will select recipients on the basis of their academic aptitude, financial need, leadership potential and character. Amounts of grants will vary, depending upon individual circumstances. The maximum award will be $300 for an academic year.

Applications and detailed information may be obtained from the Bureau of Student Loans and Scholarships, 201 Eddy hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 14.

The companies which contributed to the fund are Zontelli Brothers, Inc.; E. W. Coons company, Inc.; W. S. Moore company; Skubic Brothers; Charleson Iron Mining company; R. Maturi corporation; Rhude and Fryberger; Pioneer Mining company; Pacific Isle Mining company; Haley-Young Mining company; Lerch Brothers, Inc.; Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company; and Reserve Mining company.

NEWS SERVICE
JUNE 3, 1953

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- A new chapter in Minnesota law enforcement was opened recently when the University of Minnesota and the Federal Bureau of Investigation joined forces to establish a cooperative police training program with the purpose of raising the professional status and competence of the state's peace officers.

Under the new program, police schools sponsored by the FBI in cities throughout the state will have University recognition. A committee of University staff members has revised the course material offered in these schools to conform to University standards. Six special agents of the FBI who teach in the police school program will be appointed instructors on the University faculty. They are: W. G. Banister, special agent in charge of the Minneapolis office; C. B. Howard, Banister's assistant; Samuel W. Hardy, Roy O. Stuart, Walt M. Sirene and Karl Zeimes.

Police officers enrolled in the program will now be able to earn University certificates in any one of seven different fields of criminology after completing 45 hours of prescribed course work. Credit received for these courses, however, will not count toward a University degree.

To supplement the schools held throughout the state, the University, from time to time, will conduct on the campus special short courses in particular subjects related to criminology. These short courses, a week or less in length, will be held in the Center for Continuation Study, and University faculty members will serve as instructors.

Banister describes the program as another step toward elevating police work to the status of a profession.

(MCRE)

"The police officer in modern society has so many duties and responsibilities that the nature of his work has raised him to the status of a professional man with dedicated purpose," Banister said.

He said the "trained police officer should be the best educated man in his community".

Under the new setup, courses will be taught in 12 general subjects covering basic, advanced and specialized training in criminal investigation, criminal procedure, criminal evidence and police administration.

The regular faculty of FBI special agents will be augmented by other teachers who are specialists in the various fields of crime and criminology.

Basic courses will cover Minnesota criminal law, evidence in criminal cases, law of arrest, testimony in court proceedings, interrogation of witnesses, traffic investigations, handling of juveniles, identification sciences, laboratory aids, operations of firearms, legal jurisdictions and photography.

Some of the advanced courses will instruct in bank robbery investigations, arrest techniques, sabotage and espionage, internal security, vice, circumstantial evidence, shop-lifting, larceny and automobile thefts.

A special course will cover every phase of homicide.

Supplemental fields of study which will be recommended by the FBI to be undertaken at the University will include such subjects as public speaking, criminal and abnormal psychology, chemistry, economics, law, toxicology and pathology.

Instructors will include agents of the Minnesota bureau of criminal apprehension and the Minnesota highway patrol.

Hardy, former special agent in charge of the St. Paul office of the FBI and a veteran of nearly 30 years in the FBI has been conducting FBI police schools in Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota since 1938.

U OF M SCIENTIST
WILL HEAD NATURE
PROGRAM AT ITASCA

A B X Z -

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Trail walks, auto caravans, film lectures and special museum displays -- all designed to teach vacationing visitors more about nature -- will be featured again this summer at Itasca State park.

Naturalist Donald K. Lewis, staff member of the Minnesota Museum of Natural History at the University of Minnesota, will direct the program for the seventh consecutive season. Last year, more than 92,000 people joined him on trail walks through the park and on auto caravans, saw his film lectures, took the Thomas S. Roberts self-guiding nature trail or looked at displays in the Mississippi Headwaters museum, Forest inn or Douglas lodge.

Lewis' one-man guiding service is sponsored by the Minnesota Museum of Natural History and the Minnesota department of conservation's division of state parks. Similar plans of acquainting visitors with the outdoors are used in our national parks.

Starting June 15 and continuing through September 15, the program will run like this: conducted trail walks 9:45-11:45 a.m. Tuesday and Friday from the camp ground office, Thursday and Saturday from Forest inn; conducted auto caravans through the park 9:30 a.m. Monday and Wednesday from Forest inn; and film lectures 8:15 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday at Forest inn.

In his nature walks, Lewis tries to give visitors an appreciative understanding of the northwoods rather than a "quicky bird's-eye view". He arranges his walks so that they are different each day throughout the week -- none take longer than two hours or cover more than one mile.

The Thomas S. Roberts trail is a two-mile path which starts at Douglas lodge, follows Lake Itasca and then swings back through the woods. Markers and a guide book help hikers identify more than 80 plants along the way.

'U' SUMMER SCHOOL
TO START JUNE 15

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- June 15 will be the opening date of the first of two summer sessions at the University of Minnesota. The session will run through July 18 with another five-week program of courses scheduled July 20-August 22.

Thomas A. H. Teeter, summer session dean, predicts that about 10,500 persons will enroll at the University during the summer. Students will be able to pick and choose their courses from some 1,200 subjects.

Among the courses which will be offered are such special ones as a workshop in high school dramatics for both teachers and students, a survey of current economic problems for instructors who want to be brought up-to-date on social studies, a class in psychiatric nursing for graduate nurses and an industrial education workshop to bring teachers in step with current requirements.

Leo W. Simmons, Yale university sociology professor, will present a short two-week course at the start of the first session on human relations in the health field for graduate nurses, social workers and hospital service personnel. Another special nursing course, supervision in public health nursing, will be conducted by Margaret G. Arnstein of the United States Public Health Service.

A family life workshop for teachers, administrators, counselors, social workers and researchers will be conducted July 6-24. The college of education will supplement its language arts program with an institute at the Center for Continuation Study July 29-July 2 with national leaders as speakers. Staff members of state departments of education from all over the country will visit the University July 20-August 6 for a session on state school administration problems.

This summer, the annual Scandinavian area studies program will be held at the University of Wisconsin.

Other things planned include a modern language institute -- featuring a Casa Hispanica, Deutsches Haus and a Maison Francaise -- during the first session and also a course in New Testament Greek.

THREE INSTITUTES
ON WORLD AFFAIRS
SCHEDULED IN STATE

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Three State Department officials will visit Minnesota communities this month to discuss world trade, the European situation and the United Nations. They will participate in identical world affairs institutes at Bemidji June 22-23, St. Cloud June 24-25 and Mankato June 26.

The programs -- planned to give Minnesota citizens a chance to talk over American foreign policy with people who help formulate it -- are being presented by the Minnesota World Affairs Institute at the University of Minnesota and by State Teachers colleges in the towns where the institutes will be held.

Herman A. Berger, international trade specialist, bureau of economic affairs; Richard Friedman, acting chief, group relations branch of the division of public liaison; and David Popper, deputy director, office of United Nations political and security affairs, are the three State Department officials who will be here as speakers.

According to William C. Rogers, director of the Minnesota World Affairs Center, nearly two dozen state organizations with memberships totaling well over 500,000 will help sponsor the institutes. They are Children's Plea for Peace, International House association, International Trade Association of St. Paul, League of Women Voters of Minnesota, Minneapolis Foreign Policy association,

Minnesota Atlantic Union committee, Midland Cooperative Wholesale, Minnesota Council for Social Studies, Minnesota Education association, Minnesota Farmers' Union, Minnesota Jewish council, Minnesota United Nations association, Northwest World Trade club and United World Federalists, Minnesota branch.

Sponsoring organizations not affiliated with the Center are the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, Minnesota Radio council, Minnesota State Federation of Labor, Program of Information on World Affairs of the Minneapolis Star, State Grange of Minnesota, Minnesota Congress of Parents and Teachers, Inc. and United Labor Committee of Minnesota for Human Rights.

VICE PRESIDENT OF INDIA, UNESCO
CHIEF, TO VISIT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan -- vice president of India, president of UNESCO and philosopher -- will visit the University of Minnesota Thursday (June 18) to deliver a convocation address on "Europe and Asia -- Some Reflections". He will speak at 8:30 p.m. in Northrop Memorial auditorium.

Radhakrishnan has also served his country as former ambassador to the Soviet Union. Primarily a philosopher and educator, he has had a long career as professor of Eastern religions and ethics at Oxford university, as special lecturer in comparative religions at Oxford and also the University of Chicago in the years before World War II.

In 1944, Radhakrishnan delivered a series of lectures in Chungking upon invitation of the Chinese government, and two years later he toured the United States, appearing at 14 universities.

More recently, he was a member of India's constituent assembly and helped draft his country's constitution.

Of his writings, the best known are the two-volume "Indian Philosophy", "East and West in Religion", "Eastern Religions and Western Thought", "Religion and Society" and "The Hindu Way of Life". "The Philosophy of Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan" -- a collection of his critical essays -- was published in 1952 by the Tudor Publishing company, New York, as part of the Library of Living Philosophers series.

The convocation, first on the University's summer session program, is open to the public without charge. It will be broadcast at 11 a.m. Friday (June 19) over University radio station KUOM.

NEW ENGINEERING,
SCIENCE SCHOLARSHIPS
OFFERED AT U OF M

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---A new scholarship program for outstanding engineering and science students interested in Minnesota's taconite industry will begin this fall at the University of Minnesota.

Sponsored by Reserve Mining company, now engaged in a huge taconite processing project at Babbitt and East Beaver Bay, it will offer two $500 scholarships each year for the next five years.

Under the plan, students selected will receive $500 for each of their academic years. Two new students will be chosen each year. This means that in three year's time six $500 scholarships will be in effect. After five years, the program will be reviewed and its continuance considered.

According to George B. Risty, director of the University's bureau of student loans and scholarships, the awards will be made to students who have finished two years of engineering or pre-engineering courses at one of six junior colleges in the Iron Range -- the University's Duluth branch, Virginia, Eveleth, Ely, Hibbing or Grand Rapids -- and who are eligible to continue advanced training at the University.

Applications should be sent to the Bureau of Student Loans and Scholarships, Eddy Hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 14. The recipients will be chosen by a special University administrative committee on the basis of academic aptitude, vocational promise, character and financial need.

The gift was made by the company through the Greater University fund.

Known as the Reserve Mining Company Taconite scholarships, the project was established to promote the training of engineering and scientific persons, particularly those whose interests are directed towards the development of the fast growing taconite industry.

Four puppet shows -- all open to the public without charge -- will be presented at the University of Minnesota this week as part of a four-day festival of puppets on the campus.

Professional puppeteers, teachers, social workers and puppet enthusiasts will gather at the University Tuesday through Friday (June 23-26). In the daytime, they will attend meetings in the Minnesota Museum of Natural History. In the afternoons and evenings, they will stage programs for the public. The festival was planned by the Center for Continuation Study in cooperation with the Twin City chapter of the Puppeteers of America.

First of the public performances is scheduled at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday (June 23) in Northrop Memorial auditorium. The Folk Tale Puppet Studio of Norwich, Conn., will do "Sinbad the Sailor" with Basil Milovsoreff as the narrator. The program will also include a puppet ballet.

Wednesday afternoon (June 24) at 2:30 p.m. in Scott hall auditorium, Junior League groups from Hartford, Conn.; Evanston, Ill.; and Raleigh and Durham, N.C., will put on a program of "The Persistent Clock", "The Hunt", "The Fiddle", "The Frog Ballet", "What Makes Toys Happy" and "The Square Dance".

The Proctor Marionettes of Springfield, Conn., produced by Romaine and Ellen Proctor, will give a performance of "Rumpelstiltskin" at 8:30 p.m. Thursday (June 25) in Northrop Memorial auditorium. Some variety numbers will also be done.

"Finocchio" -- to be staged by the Colman Puppet show of Maywood, Ill. -- will be presented at 8:30 p.m. Friday (June 26) in Scott hall auditorium.

The Tuesday and Thursday shows are sponsored by the University summer session, the other two are being given under the joint sponsorship of the general extension division and the summer session.

CITIZENS, STATE DEPARTMENT
OFFICIALS TO DISCUSS U.S. POLICY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --World trade, the European situation and the United Nations will be the main topics at three world affairs institutes to be held in the state next week.

State department officials, faculty members of Minnesota teachers colleges and community representatives will meet in Bemidji Monday and Tuesday (June 22-23), in St. Cloud Wednesday and Thursday (June 24-25) and in Mankato Friday (June 26) to discuss these problems.

The institutes -- open to the public without charge -- will begin at 9:30 a.m. in each city. These special programs have been planned to give Minnesota citizens a chance to discuss American foreign policy firsthand with specialists. People attending sessions will have the opportunity to express their views and ask questions.

The three State Department officials who will be featured speakers at the panel discussions are Herman A. Barger, international trade specialist, bureau of economic affairs; Richard Friedman, acting chief, group relations branch of the division of public liaison; and David Popper, deputy director, office of the United Nations political and security affairs.

Presented through cooperation of the Minnesota World Affairs Center at the University of Minnesota and State Teachers colleges in the three towns, the institutes are being sponsored by some 24 state organizations. These include such groups as the League of Women Voters of Minnesota, the Minnesota Council for Social Studies, the Minnesota Education association, the Minnesota United Nations association, the Northwest World Trade club and the State Grange of Minnesota.

The meeting places in the north, central and southern parts of the state were chosen so that as many people as possible could attend the institutes, according to William C. Rogers, director of the World Affairs Center.

'U' RECEIVES $100,000
MARCH OF DIMES GRANT
FOR POLIO RESEARCH

(FOR RELEASE 11 a.m. FRIDAY, JUNE 19)

Minneapolis ---More than $100,000 in March of Dimes grants were awarded to the University of Minnesota today (June 19) to finance work on three polio research projects.

Announcement of the grants was made jointly by J. L. Morrill, president of the University, and Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Checks were presented by Willis E. Dugan, state March of Dimes chairman.

Grants will be administered by Drs. Jerome T. Syverton, professor of bacteriology and immunology; A. B. Baker, professor of neurology; and Gaylord W. Anderson, Mayo professor of public health at the University.

Funds awarded today boosts to well over a million dollars the total March of Dimes grants to the University of Minnesota for polio research.

A grant of $83,646 will be directed by Dr. Syverton toward development of a rapid laboratory test for polio diagnosis. Work will be based on recently reported success of Dr. Syverton and Dr. William F. Scherer, assistant professor of bacteriology and immunology, in growing polio virus in cultures of a pure strain of human cells which had been maintained in tissue culture for nearly two years.

Dr. Baker, with $24,511 in March of Dimes funds, will direct microscopic studies of brains and spinal cords from more than 100 fatal cases of bulbar polio. The majority of these fatalities occurred during Minnesota's 1946 epidemic.

From previous similar studies the Minnesota scientists have classified bulbar polio into four types. In connection with this the group has advocated improved techniques for care of such cases.

Under a grant of $5,671, Dr. Anderson will continue a careful analysis of data collected on several thousand polio patients during the Minnesota epidemic of 1946. Within the past several years these investigators have made significant reports on the relationship of tonsillectomies and pregnancies to susceptibility to paralytic and bulbar polio.

Under the terms of the new grant, Dr. Anderson's group will search through their data for information which may provide clues concerning provoking factors and the natural mode of spread of the disease.

'U' HOSPITALS
OPEN MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS CLINIC

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- A new clinic for diagnosis of a "mystery" disease which affects from six to eight thousand Minnesota citizens will open Wednesday (July 1) at University of Minnesota hospitals.

The disease -- multiple sclerosis -- is a puzzle. It usually strikes suddenly at any part of the nervous system. Symptoms vary, making it extremely hard to diagnose. In one person, it may cause double vision, in another, weakness of the arm or leg. Nobody knows what the cause is.

Most often multiple sclerosis hits young adults between 18 and 35. Attacks of the disease are generally temporary, but they recur from time to time. Dr. Abe B. Baker, head of the neurology division in University hospitals and the man who will direct the new clinic, points out that multiple sclerosis is not usually a fatal disease and in most cases causes only passing disabilities rather than complete invalidism of the patient.

"Our hope," Dr. Baker says, "in establishing this clinic is to make an accurate and early diagnosis of the disease. Multiple sclerosis is the hardest diagnosis in neurology. Because it's such an imposter, often resembling other diseases of the nervous system, it's even difficult for a specialist to detect".

The clinic -- set up as a service rather than as a research center -- will be in charge of Dr. Charles Van Buskirk, assistant professor of neurology. In addition to diagnosis, prescription of treatment and periodical check-ups, the center will also try out new treatments and diagnosis methods. It will use all facilities available at University hospitals.

The 1953 Minnesota legislature appropriated $10,000 a year for this year and next to the Minnesota chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis society for establishment of the clinic. Mrs. Gordon Butler, Duluth, is chairman of the state group.

FAMILY LIFE
PROBLEMS TOPIC OF 'U' WORKSHOP

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Family life will be analyzed by teachers, marriage counselors, social workers and public health workers at a three-week summer session workshop on the University of Minnesota campus July 6-24.

Four visiting specialists will lead meetings in Pioneer hall. They are Henry Bowman, chairman of the division of home and family at Stephens college, Columbia, Mo.; Ralph Bridgman, chief marriage counselor and supervisor of marriage counseling, court of domestic relations, Lucas county, Toledo, O.; Reuben Hill, professor of sociology and research professor, Institute for Research in Social Science, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, N.C.; and Lester Kirkendall, associate professor of family life education, school of home economics, Oregon State college, Corvallis, Ore.

Family trends on the basis of new census data, contemporary marriage and family research, problems in community organization for family life education and marital and family failure are among topics which will be covered by the workshop. The value of teamwork among professional workers in the family life field will be emphasized.

The workshop has been planned by an interdepartmental committee of the University under the direction of Dorothy T. Dyer, assistant professor of general studies.

'U' SUMMER
SESSION ENROLLMENT
STANDS AT 6,904

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Enrollment for the first summer session at the University of Minnesota is 6,904. The official figure, announced Monday (June 29) by True E. Pettengill, University recorder, includes 1,388 veterans.

The total is 520 below the registration figure of 7,424 during the first summer session a year ago. Pettengill pointed out that this seven per cent decrease is largely due to a drop of 523 in the number of veterans who signed up for classes this session. In 1952, the veteran enrollment was 1,911.

Men outnumber women 4,417 to 2,487 at the first summer session, while last year, the ratio of men to women students was 4,936 to 2,488.

Pettengill reported increases in the college of agriculture, forestry and home economics, general college, nursing, medical technology, occupational thereapy and pharmacy and lower enrollments in the other colleges.

Number of students at the Duluth branch, included in the total figures, is 488 -- 225 men and 263 women. Out of that figure, 72 are veterans. A year ago, enrollment at the branch stood at 505 -- 235 men (of whom 117 were veterans) and 270 women.

Official registration figures at the University are recorded as of the close of the second week of the term.

The first summer session started June 16 and will end with a commencement July 16. Second session classes begin July 21 and run through August 22.

An all-Norwegian program, featuring pianist Eva Knardahl as soloist with the summer session orchestra, will be presented at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday (July 7) in Northrop Memorial auditorium. The concert is open to the public without charge.

Robert Andersen, Miss Knardahl's husband, will act as guest conductor of the orchestra which is largely made up of Minneapolis Symphony players. Einar Ingvald Haugen, <sup>chairman</sup> of Scandinavian languages at the University of Wisconsin, will serve as commentator.

The program will open with the Triumphant March from Edvard Grieg's "Sigurd Jorsalfar". This will be followed by Johan Svendsen's Norwegian Rhapsody No. 3 Op. 21; incidental music from Harald Saeverud's adaptation of Ibsen's drama, "Peer Gynt" — Bridal Dance, Sleep my precious darling boy, Anitra, Grave Hyman and Mixed Company; and selections from Robert Wright's arrangement of Grieg's "Song of Norway".

Miss Knardahl will appear with the orchestra in the final number, Grieg's Concerto in A Minor, Op. 16, for piano and orchestra.

Both Miss Knardahl and Andersen are native Norwegians. In her homeland, Miss Knardahl was a young star making her concert debut when she was five years old. After becoming soloist with the Oslo Philharmonic symphony at the age of nine, she regularly played in Bergen, Copenhagen and Stockholm. Her husband, now first violinist with the Minneapolis Symphony, was a member of the Oslo Philharmonic orchestra, Bergen Symphony orchestra and as conductor of the Bergen Municipal orchestra. He also taught on the staff of the Oslo Music Conservatory. The Andersens came to Minneapolis in 1947. She is now official pianist for the Minneapolis Symphony.

ALICE MARBLE TO LECTURE
AT 'U' THURSDAY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Former world tennis champion Alice Marble will visit Minneapolis Thursday (July 9) to give a convocation talk at the University of Minnesota. She will speak at 8:30 p.m. in Northrop Memorial auditorium on "The Will to Win".

Earlier in the day -- from 2 to 4 p.m. -- she will conduct a tennis clinic at the University courts.

When she was 20, Miss Marble had tuberculosis and faced a life of semi-invalidism. Six years later she was the tennis champion of the world, winning six major championships in one year. Her feat has never been duplicated.

Miss Marble has written an autobiography, "The Road to Wimbledon"; appeared in several movies, most recently with Katherine Hepburn and Spencer Tracy in "Pat and Mike"; been a featured singer in New York and Hollywood; and has been a designer of women's sport clothes. She holds honorary journalistic degrees from three universities.

The convocation program, which is open to the public without charge, will be broadcast over University radio station KUOM at 11 a.m. Friday (July 10).

Violinist Stephan Hero will appear as guest artist with the University of Minnesota summer session orchestra at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday (July 14) in Northrop Memorial auditorium. Henry Denecke, conductor of the Minneapolis Civic orchestra and the Cedar Rapids, Ia., symphony, will direct the program which is open to the public free of charge.

The summer session orchestra, made up largely of Minneapolis Symphony players, will play Smetana's overture to "The Bartered Bride", selections from Rodgers' and Hammerstein's "Oklahoma!" and Ibert's "Divertissement".

Julia Denecke, wife of the conductor, will be the guest soloist in George Hue's "Fantasia" for flute and orchestra. She is a former Minneapolis Symphony flutist.

Hero will perform Lalo's "Symphonie Espagnole" for violin and orchestra, opus 21. A native New Yorker, Hero became famous at an early age. When he was eight, he won the gold medal of the Music League of New York in a competition with 10,000 other musicians. The following year, he was a soloist with the New York symphony and star of his own weekly radio show.

The violinist made 800 appearances for the Armed Forces both here and in the Pacific theater during World War II. A former student of the French violinist Jaquest Thibaud and the American Louis Persinger, he has given guest performances with the New York Philharmonic; Philadelphia, Chicago and Cleveland orchestras; Rochester and Kansas City Philharmonics; and at many universities.

PREDICTION OF JUVENILE DELINQUENCY
REPORTED POSSIBLE THROUGH TESTS

(FOR RELEASE JULY 12, 1953)

Minneapolis --- Certain patterns of adult personality abnormality are represented to a marked degree among juvenile delinquents, and it is possible to predict, within a given group of adolescents, some categories of youngsters who are likely or unlikely to become delinquent later on. These are among the conclusions reached through a series of studies collected in one volume under the title, "Analyzing and Predicting Juvenile Delinquency with the MMPI".

Editors of the book, to be published by the University of Minnesota Press July 15, are Starke R. Hathaway, director of the division of clinical psychology in the department of psychiatry and neurology at the University, and Elio D. Monachesi, chairman of the University's department of sociology.

The volume presents the results of seven different studies relating to the use of the Minnesota multiphasic personality inventory in determining, among adolescents, the likelihood of delinquency and providing basic data toward increasing the effectiveness of delinquency prevention and treatment programs.

A major advantage to be derived from such testing, the editors point out, is that therapeutic programs aimed at preventing or treating delinquency can be applied specifically to some youngsters found to be susceptible to delinquency development rather than to whole populations. In this way, the resources available for such programs can be more effectively utilized.

As the editors explain: "If we use a preventive program on an unselected population and if 20 per cent is the regular delinquency rate, then our program must handle 80 persons out of each 100 who would not be delinquent anyway in order to work with the 20 who would be. One could afford much better programs per individual if the group to be treated was made up of children with higher relative probabilities of delinquency."

Also, the methods provide, for the first time, a practicable approach to the objectives of treatment and prevention programs. So far, these have had to be justified by unproven assumptions.

The major studies reported in the volume were conducted by Hathaway and Monachesi. They involved the MMPI testing of 4048 ninth-grade pupils in 16 Minneapolis public schools, the University of Minnesota high school, and a St. Cloud, Minn., high school. The initial study, which began with children at the age where the sharp rise in delinquency rate occurs, was followed up with a later investigation to determine which youngsters actually became delinquent. Most previous studies in the field of delinquency have been based on data obtained only after the individual became delinquent.

Other authors represented in the volume are Dora F. Capwell, director, Psychological service, Pittsburgh, Pa.; James H. Ashbaugh, juvenile probation officer, Benton county, Ore.; Margaret Lauber, psychologist, Iowa department of public instruction; W. Grant Dahlstrom, visiting assistant professor, State University of Iowa; Donald W. Hastings, head, department of psychiatry and neurology, University of Minnesota; and Dorothy M. Bell, junior scientist, University of Minnesota.

Hathaway is the co-author with the late J. C. McKinley of the Minnesota multiphasic personality inventory, a psychometric test designed to provide scores on all the clinically important phases of personality. The test itself consists of 550 statements covering a wide range of subject matter, on which the individual is asked to respond "true", "false", or "cannot say". The MMPI, now widely used by psychologists, psychiatrists, and other professional workers, is published by the University of Minnesota Press and distributed by the Psychological corporation, New York City.

UNIVERSITY TO GIVE
DEGREES TO 450
STUDENTS THURSDAY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Malcolm M. Willey, University of Minnesota vice president in charge of academic administration, will confer degrees on some 450 students at University commencement exercises Thursday (July 16). The program will mark the end of the first summer session.

Wilhelmus B. Bryan, director of the Minneapolis School of Art, will deliver the commencement address. He will speak to the graduating class on "The Creative Attitude".

The ceremonies, scheduled to begin at 8 p.m., will be held in front of Northrop Memorial auditorium at the head of the mall. The Rev. Leonard P. Cowley, director of the Newman Foundation and adviser to Catholic students on the campus, will give the invocation.

Vice President Willey will speak for the University before he confers the degrees. Following the commencement address, Dean Thomas A. H. Teeter, head of the summer session, will introduce deans of the various University colleges. They will present their candidates for degrees to Willey.

Students receiving the doctor of philosophy degree will be announced individually by John G. Darley, associate dean of the graduate school.

Candidates for commissions in the United States army and air force will take their oath of office from Major Norman L. Widen, assistant professor of air science and tactics.

As they arrive on the campus, commencement guests will hear the University's Flemish bells atop Northrop auditorium being played by carillonneur J. Frederic Goossen from 7-7:30 p.m. An organ recital by Paul O. Manz, organist-choirmaster of Mount Olive Lutheran church, Minneapolis, will precede the commencement exercises from 7:30-8 p.m.

SONG DUO TO OPEN
SECOND SUMMER
SERIES AT U. OF M.

(FOR RELEASE SUNDAY, JULY 19)

Doraine and Ellis, song duo, will present their "Romance in Song" show -- selections from "La Traviata", "The Chocolate Soldier", "Rio Rita", "Showboat", "Student Prince", "Oklahoma!", "Annie Get Your Gun" and "State Fair" -- at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday (July 21) in the main ballroom of Coffman Memorial Union.

The program, which opens the concert and convocation schedule for the second summer session at the University of Minnesota, is open to the public free of charge. The show is presented by the summer session in cooperation with the University's concerts and lectures department.

Doraine Renard and Ellis Lucas have traveled through 23 countries with their presentation. Doraine, who makes the musical arrangements, finished a five-year music course at Ohio State university by the time she was 17. Ellis, who studied at the Cleveland Institute of Music and was a tenor soloist on NBC and CBS radio networks, does research into the backgrounds and settings of the original works to make their show authentic.

Costumes for their program are by Marge Riley of Hollywood and Madame Elsa of New York.

Other concerts planned for the second summer session are: Lucine Amara, Metropolitan opera soprano, accompanied by Laura Giere, July 28; tenor Eric Giere and harpist Lois Bannerman with the summer session orchestra under Gerard Samuel, August 4; a one-act opera, "Sunday Excursion" with music by the summer session orchestra conducted by Samuel, August 11. All will begin at 8:30 p.m. in the main ballroom of Coffman Union.

Convocation programs will feature Emil Liers and his others in a motion picture-lecture-demonstration show, July 23; Mary Latimer in "Character Stylings in Monologues", July 30; pianist Eva Knardahl, August 6; and Teresita and Emilio Osta in a Latin-American and Spanish music and dancing performance, August 13. The convocations are also held at 8:30 p.m. in the main ballroom of Coffman Union free of charge.

The University theater will stage two plays during the second summer session. Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" July 22-23-24 and Christopher Fry's adaptation of Jean Anouilh's "Ring Round the Moon" August 12-13-14. Performances begin at 8:30 p.m. in Scott hall auditorium.

'U' SHORT COURSES
FOR STATE'S DOCTORS
WELL ATTENDED

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- More than 1,000 Minnesota physicians participated in medical short courses at the University of Minnesota's Center for Continuation Study during the 1952-53 academic year. The statistics were released in an annual report by Dr. Robert B. Howard, director of continuation medical education at the University.

Attendance at the courses was up 19 per cent over a year ago. In addition, Dr. Howard's office arranged a special symposium on metabolism of potassium, revived Homecoming clinics and initiated a series of doctors' days. These activities brought 566 more doctors to the campus.

The Homecoming clinics, staged jointly by the University and the Minnesota Medical Alumni association, were popular events preceding World War II. They are put on as part of the Homecoming Week program.

The doctors' days, designed to bring about a closer association between medical school faculty members and practicing physicians around the state, are scheduled at intervals throughout the year. Different departments of the medical school are "hosts" for the day.

Regional seminars and conferences -- planned each year -- were held in Worthington, Fergus Falls, Mankato, St. Cloud, Willmar, Albert Lea, Hibbing, Minneapolis, New Ulm, Blue Earth, Fairmont, Marshall, Morris, Wabasha, Alexandria, Redwood Falls, Waseca, Stillwater, Cokato, Howard Lake and Glenwood for 359 doctors. Altogether, 2,014 Minnesota physicians took part in on-campus and off-campus programs arranged by the department of continuation medical education.

Nurses, X-ray technicians, medical technologists, social workers, hospital administrators, hospital librarians and lay persons attended another series of short courses on medical and allied subjects at the Center for Continuation Study and in cities throughout the state. These conferences attracted 1,124 more persons.

ZIEBARTH NAMED
DEAN AT MINNESOTA

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---E. W. Ziebarth, head of the department of speech and theater arts at the University of Minnesota, will become dean of the University's summer session upon the retirement of present Dean T. A. H. Teeter June 30, 1954. The appointment was approved by the University's Regents at their July meeting.

Ziebarth, who has a bachelor's and master's degree from the University of Wisconsin and a doctor of philosophy degree from Minnesota, has served as chairman of the speech department since 1948. He has been a member of the faculty since 1936. In 1938, he became program director of radio broadcasting at the University and then in 1944 was named acting manager of the campus radio station, KUOM.

Professor Ziebarth is former production manager and education director of WCCO, educational director of the central division of the Columbia Broadcasting System, joint winner of the "Oscar" of American radio (the Peabody award) for his contribution to the field of inter-cultural relations, holds the 1951 Radio Council award for distinguished news analysis and the first award for news interpretation (1952) of the National Institute for Education by Radio and TV. In 1952, he was also awarded the Radio Council's prize for significant contributions to international understanding.

In addition to his news analysis programs over WCCO, Ziebarth has gained national recognition for his coast-to-coast broadcasts of such shows as "Opinion Please", "People's Platform", "Of Men and Books" and "Cross Section U.S.A."

Professor Teeter, retiring dean, will leave after almost a quarter century as head of the summer school. Since his direction (which began in 1930), enrollment has increased from 5,000 to more than 10,000 students with 18,000 during post-war summers. The number of courses offered has almost tripled during that period.

OTTERS TO PERFORM
AT 'U' THURSDAY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Live otters will be the main attraction Thursday (July 23) at the opening convocation of the second summer session at the University of Minnesota. Emil Liers, owner of the animals, will give a lecture, show motion pictures and stage a demonstration with otters at 8:30 p.m. in the main ballroom of Coffman Memorial Union.

Liers, who lives at Homer, Minn., identifies himself as the first man to breed and raise otters in captivity. He has served as technical adviser for Walt Disney's picture, "Beaver Valley" and for Paramount releases "Sporting Pals" and "Playmates from the Wilds".

The former Mississippi river trader and mink farmer has also made two movies with Grantland Rice. His work has been written up in the Saturday Evening Post, American, Life, Look, Coronet, Nature, the New Yorker, Time, Newsweek and Outdoor Life. He has shown his otters at sports shows in Minneapolis, Boston, New York, Detroit, Columbus and Indianapolis.

Liers, who graduated from LaCrosse State Teachers' college in 1921, tried teaching but found that he liked a "river life" better. For several years he bought pearls, furs and pearl shell, then turned to mink farming in 1927. It was a year later when he acquired his first otter.

After 12 years of experimenting, he bred and raised his own otters. He quit mink farming in 1941 and since then has devoted all his time to the otters.

Liers has written several articles about his "pets" and also a book, "An Otter's Story".

NEW 'U' STUDENTS
TO GET INTRODUCTION TO CAMPUS LIFE

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---Some 4,000 new students will be welcomed to the University of Minnesota in the annual campus orientation-registration program which gets underway August 3. A series of two-day visits, running from August 3-28 and September 14-18, has been scheduled.

Planned by the dean of students' office in cooperation with all University faculties and departments, the program is set up to acquaint the student with the University, campus activities and also to guide him through registration procedures. Each new student who is enrolling for the fall quarter has been invited to participate in the program.

The first day's schedule includes general orientation meetings, various testing, group discussions of ROTC programs and guided tours of the campus. The second day new students will get registration materials, attend college meetings and meet with an adviser to arrange their fall classes.

Upperclassmen will act as guides for the new students as they go through the program. For their visit, students will be split up into New Student clubs with about 20 in each group.

September 18-20 many of these new students will meet again at freshman outings to be held simultaneously at five camps near Minneapolis and St. Paul. The informal week-end program will include discussions about class assignments, student activities and, on the lighter side, square dancing and campfire sings.

New Student clubs will get together later at the University's traditional Welcome Week which will be held September 20-27 this year. On the first day, parents of freshmen will have an opportunity to meet faculty and staff members at an open house in the Coffman Memorial Union main ballroom.

'U' WILL OFFER
NEW COURSE
FOR LABORATORY AIDES

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- A 12-month course for laboratory aides -- a pioneer venture by the general extension division and the college of medical sciences -- will begin Sept. 28 at the University of Minnesota.

Geared to prepare young men and women for work as laboratory assistants to medical technologists and physicians, the course will include six months of classes on the University campus and six months of practical training in Twin City hospital laboratories.

The course will be run in conformity with the requirements for certification of laboratory aide under the Registry of Medical Technologists of the American Society of Clinical Pathologists. After successfully completing this course and after a year's work under a qualified physician, students will be eligible to take the certification examination.

Those enrolled in the program will attend classes during the University's regular fall and winter quarters. Starting March 29, 1954, they will begin their clinical training. Comprehensive examinations, scheduled Sept. 13-27, 1954, will round-out the course.

Students will take a curriculum consisting of courses in physiological chemistry, human anatomy, basic laboratory techniques, electrocardiography and basal metabolism, blood bank techniques, unanalysis and elementary hematology, bacteriology and physiology.

The course is open to high school graduates with college aptitude ratings of 40 percentile or higher, who are in the top half of their high school class and who fulfill the necessary personal qualifications such as an ability to work with people, a liking for science and integrity. Since enrollment will be limited, students will be selected on a basis of scholastic aptitude and vocational promise.

Applications for the course can be obtained from the Medical Technology Office, W225, University Hospitals, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 14. The forms must be returned by August 21.

NATO JOURNALISTS
TO STOP IN TWIN CITIES
ON NATION-WIDE TOUR

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Fifteen journalists from NATO (North Atlantic Treaty Organization) countries will visit the Twin Cities August 3-5. Under auspices of the Mutual Security Agency and the Departments of State and Defense, the group is making a 20-day tour of the United States.

The newspapermen's itinerary has been planned to give them a first-hand look at recent industrial, military and agricultural developments in this country and also to familiarize them with American cultural and social activities. The Minnesota World Affairs Center will serve as local host to the group.

August 3 the journalists will tour the University of Minnesota campus in the morning and the Minneapolis Star and Tribune in the afternoon. An educational television demonstration by KUOM, University radio station, is scheduled in the evening. August 4 they will meet with Minneapolis city officials, state administrators, visit the Twin Cities Arsenal and end the day at a summer session symphony concert on the campus.

The final day, August 5, the group will spend the morning visiting nearby farms. A dinner will be held in their honor by the Minnesota Editorial association in the evening.

Newsmen from Belgium, Denmark, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Turkey and England will participate in the tour. John F. Goulden, editor of the Manchester Evening Chronicle, Manchester, England; Albert F. Mickiels, managing editor of La Meuse, Liege, Belgium; Maurice Mascomere, editor-in-chief and political director of Populaire du Centre, Limoges, France; and Herman Besselink, editor of Haagsch Dagblad, The Hague, Netherlands, will be among journalists in the group.

Compositions by three young American composers will be featured by Eva Knardahl in her piano concert at the University of Minnesota Thursday (August 6). The program, scheduled as a summer convocation, is open to the public free of charge. It will begin at 8:30 p.m. in the main ballroom of Coffman Memorial Union.

Following numbers by Bach-Liszt, Mozart and Debussy, Miss Knardahl will play Alfred Frenkel's "Introduca - Intermezzo - Capriccio", "Impromptu" by Paul Fetyler and Earl George's "Three Rounds". A group of Chopin Studies will complete the program.

Frenkel heads the music department at Bethany college, Menasha, and also directs the college choir. In addition, he is studying at the University, majoring in composition.

Both Fetyler and George are on the University's music faculty. Fetyler, who will spend the next year studying in Europe on a Guggenheim Fellowship, wrote "Impromptu" at the request of Marian Perkins who has played it in some 16 concerts. He was recently awarded the 1953-54 annual publications prize by the Society for the Publication of American Music. His "Gothic Variations" will be performed next season by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra.

George's compositions have been included on programs of the New York Philharmonic, New York City Symphony, the Minneapolis Symphony, the Vancouver Symphony and the Yalco chamber group. He is the winner of a George Gerstlein memorial prize, National Federation of Music Clubs award and the Boosey and Tameson-University of Illinois award.

Miss Knardahl moved to Minneapolis in 1947 after an outstanding career as pianist in her native Norway and surrounding countries. She has given many concerts in the Twin Cities since then.

MUSIC, ART
INSTITUTE SLATED
AT 'U' AUG. 3-7

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Recreational singing and rhythm activities, art of foreign lands and art for the home will be among subjects covered in two institutes at the University of Minnesota next week (August 3).

Meeting at the University's Center for Continuation Study, teachers from schools in small Minnesota communities will attend sessions on music instruction Monday and Tuesday (August 3-4) and on art workshop techniques Thursday and Friday (August 6-7). The two groups will get together for a joint program Wednesday (August 5).

Margaret Newton, music supervisor of Moorhead public schools, and Harriet Nordholm from Michigan State college department of music education, East Lansing, Mich., will deliver the music lectures. They will speak on children and music, group dynamics, the child at home with music, rhythm activities and recreational singing.

Wednesday sessions will be devoted to the integration of music and art curriculums. Part of the time, teachers will discuss puppetry, pageantry, operettas, songs and instruments as means of creative expression.

Topics for the art course will range from relating art with other school subjects to its use in improving the school environment, art for special occasions such as birthdays and holidays, art as a hobby, art for personal appearance and art of foreign countries.

The art course will be conducted by Clifton Gayne, chairman of the art education department; William R. Hastie, assistant professor of art education; and Floretta Murray, head of the art department at Winona State Teachers' college.

The institutes are being presented by the Center in cooperation with the Minnesota state department of education and the Minnesota Music Educators' association. Sessions are open to teachers in small ungraded elementary schools, teachers in graded elementary schools that have no art or music specialists and country school superintendents.

The University of Minnesota summer session orchestra with three soloists -- harpist Lois Bannerman, flutist John Solum and tenor Eric Giere -- will present a Handel-Mozart concert at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday (August 4) in the main ballroom of Coffman Memorial Union.

Led by Gerard Samuel, the summer session orchestra will open the program with the overture to Handel's "Acis and Galatea". Following two numbers by Giere, it will play Mozart's Symphony No. 25 in G Minor.

Giere, who is known here as a soloist at St. Paul Pop concerts and at Lake Harriet concerts in Minneapolis, will sing two arias: Love Sounds the Alarm from "Acis and Galatea" and Il mio tesoro from Mozart's "Don Giovanni".

The final piece on the program, Mozart's Concerto for Harp, Flute and Orchestra, will feature Miss Bannerman and Solum. A radio and television performer, Miss Bannerman began studying the harp at the age of six. While in high school she received a Juilliard School of Music scholarship and worked there under Carlos Salzedo. She was invited to appear at the White House when she was 16. In addition to solo concert appearances, she has toured with the Jacques Gordon String Quartet and with the Eisenberg String Quartet.

Solum, who graduated as valedictorian of his Washburn high school class in June, has studied for five years under Anton Winkler and has played in the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra. In the fall, he will go East to become a pupil of William Kincaid in Philadelphia.

Samuel, who will direct the summer session orchestra, is entering his fifth season as assistant conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra and as director of the Collegium Musicum. Next year will be his third as musical director of the Minneapolis Civic Opera association. He has studied at the Eastman School of Music, with Paul Hindemith and Serge Koussevitsky.

The orchestra, made up largely of Minneapolis Symphony players, is provided by cooperation of local 73 of the American Federation of Musicians through a grant from the music performance trust fund of the recording industry.

Because of the small seating capacity of the Coffman Union main ballroom, only students, faculty and staff members will be admitted to the concert before 8:15 p.m. The public will be admitted, free of charge, after that time.

Harold B. Allen, associate professor of English at the University of Minnesota, will report on "The Principal Dialect Areas of the Upper Midwest" at a meeting of the Linguistic Society of America in Bloomington, Ind., August 7. Sessions will be held on the University of Indiana campus.

Since 1947, Allen has directed work on the "Linguistic Atlas of the Upper Midwest". His studies -- which will be completed after a few more field records in Nebraska -- indicate the basic dialect division in the Minnesota, Iowa, North and South Dakota and Nebraska area.

Allen has found that Minnesotans, people in several Iowa counties, North Dakota, northeastern South Dakota and the eastern Platte River valley of Nebraska use expressions derived from the speech of upper New York state and western New England. For instance, they say "belly-flop", "mouth organ", "slippery" and "sick to one's stomach".

In the remainder of this Midwest area, the other people have a different way of saying the same things. For them it's "belly-buster", "mouth harp", "slick" and "sick on" or "in one's stomach". These expressions reflect the speech of Pennsylvania, southern New Jersey, West Virginia and Kentucky.

These are among the points which Allen will cover in his paper.

TO MEET AT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

"A College Residence -- an Experience in Human Relations" will be the theme of the fifth annual conference of the National Association of College and University Housing Officers at the University of Minnesota Sunday through Wednesday (August 2-5).

Some 150 delegates -- residence directors, deans of students, counselors, dietitians, directors of food service and directors of housing -- from 90 colleges and universities will attend the sessions. Conference headquarters will be Centennial hall where delegates will gather Sunday for committee meetings and an informal reception.

Malcolm M. Willey, University vice president in charge of academic administration will deliver the keynote address: "The Place of Student Housing in the Transition from the Home to the Community" at 9 a.m. Monday.

Harold Hand, professor of education at the University of Illinois, will give an address on the conference theme Monday. In the afternoon, John Mee, professor of management and director of the bureau of personnel relations and placement, junior division of business at Indiana university, will talk on "The How's and Why's of Adequate Staff Planning".

Tuesday's schedule includes a discussion of "Pros and Cons of Student Government"; a lecture by John Kidd, resident adviser, men's residence halls, Michigan State college, on "Counseling in Residences"; and a food service clinic.

Richard Bond, associate professor of public health and public health engineer, will report on "Healthful Housing" Wednesday. The conference will wind up with an open session, business meeting and banquet.

The association began on an informal basis in 1949 and was not officially organized until its 1952 conference at Berkeley, Calif. Co-chairman of the Minnesota meeting are Mabelle G. McCullough, director, student housing bureau, and Clinton T. Johnson, director, service enterprises.

Composer Alec Wilder will visit Minneapolis this week for a performance of his one-act opera, "Sunday Excursion", at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday (August 11) in the main ballroom of Coffman Memorial Union. This is the first time the work has been done with orchestra.

Another highlight of the University of Minnesota program will be the presentation of a new composition by Earl George -- "A Currier and Ives Set" -- which he wrote especially for this concert.

Under the direction of Gerard Samuel, the summer session orchestra will play the Wilder opera as the second portion of the evening's program. The story is about four young people -- Alice, Veronica, Hillary and Marvin -- and Tim, the candy butcher, on a Sunday excursion. Action centers in a coach of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

The five roles in the opera will be sung by soprano Joanne Jonson, alto Florence Avery, tenor Howard Pierson, baritone Howard Skinner and bass Baritone Leroy Lehr.

George's new piece, designed to both compliment and contrast with the other music on the program, will open the concert. It is in three short movements: "Skating in Central Park", "Home to Thanksgiving" and "The Life of a Fireman". The suite represents the composer's response to ideas suggested by the famous Currier and Ives Lithographs. George, who has won numerous awards for his compositions, is a music instructor on the University faculty.

The orchestra will play two other selections -- Suite for Strings by Arthur Berger and Aaron Copland's Music for the Theatre.

Music for this concert is provided by cooperation of Local 73 of the American Federation of Musicians, through a grant from the Music Performance Trust Fund of the Recording Industry.

(NO. 8)

Because the capacity of the Union main ballroom is small, only University students, faculty and staff members will be admitted before 8:45 p.m. The program will be open to the public, free of charge, after that time.

WORLD HYDRAULICS
CONFERENCE SLATED
AT MINNESOTA 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- The Fifth Congress of the International Association for Hydraulic Research will hold a joint meeting with the hydraulics division of the American Society of Civil Engineers at the University of Minnesota September 1 - 4. This is the first time the international group has gathered on the American continent.

Lorenz G. Straub, head of civil engineering at the University and director of the University's St. Anthony Falls hydraulic laboratory, is president of the IAHR.

Geophysical aspects of hydraulics will be the main congress topic. Four symposiums, all centering around that subject, will be conducted: basic relationships of sediment transportation by flowing water, density currents, air entrainment by flowing water and waves, beach erosion and hydromechanics of shore structures.

Technical proceedings for the sessions are now being published and will be issued immediately preceding the congress. The volume contains articles by leading hydraulics experts from 20 countries.

Speakers and participants from overseas will include Pierre Danel, director, Neypric hydraulic laboratory, Grenoble, France; Wolmar Fellenius, professor emeritus of the Technical university, Stockholm; Sir Claude Inglis, director of the department of scientific and industrial research, Hydraulics Research organization, London; Professor G. Evangelisti, University of Bologna, Bologna, Italy; D. Doddiah, assistant director, Hydraulic Research station, Mysore, India;

TO BEGIN AT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- An internship program for prospective college teachers will be inaugurated this fall at the University of Minnesota on a $50,780 grant from the Ford Foundation's Fund for the Advancement of Education.

Ten internships -- each carrying a stipend equivalent to an instructor's salary for one academic year -- will be made available to advanced graduate students. The program will be administered through the University's graduate school by a faculty committee which is headed by C. Gilbert Wrenn, professor of educational psychology.

Students accepted for the pilot program will serve as full-time "interns" for one academic year. They will work under close supervision of a faculty sponsor, each student carrying some definite teaching responsibilities. Full resources of the University will be utilized, allowing the group to become familiar with such things as visual aids and counseling procedures.

The 10 graduate students will be selected from those who have completed their preliminary examinations for the doctor of philosophy degree, but who have not yet written their theses. They will be picked from a variety of fields. Some may be students who have completed their doctorates but have not yet had college teaching experience.

"Textiles and Ceramics" -- a representative collection from the fourth biennial exhibition of textiles and ceramics at Cranbrook Academy museum, Bloomfield Hills, Mich. -- will go on display Monday (August 17) in the University of Minnesota art gallery. The show will be on the third floor of Northrop Memorial auditorium through September 18.

Work by 27 textile designers, including both handwoven and power-loomed fabrics, was selected for the traveling exhibition by the Smithsonian Institution traveling exhibition service. Alexander Gerard, Estelle Laverne, George Nelson and Angelo Testa are among those who have pieces in the show.

Sixteen ceramics -- from the kilns of such artists as F. Carlton Ball, Gertrude and Otto Natsler, Edwin and Mary Scheier -- are also part of the exhibit.

Directed by Carl M. Carapetian, the University of Minnesota summer session chorus will give a concert at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday (August 19) in Grace Lutheran church, Minneapolis. The program, which is sponsored by the University music department, will be open to the public without charge.

The chorus will sing "In Ecclesia" by Gabrieli and Cantatas No. 64, "See How", and No. 93, "If Thou Wilt Suffer God to Guide Thee", by Bach. Soloists will be soprano Eileen Christensen and Leslie Nixon and Aris Carapetian, bass.

Most of the singers in the chorus are members of a choral techniques class taught by Carl Carapetian, associate professor of music, during the second summer session.

Paul O. Hunt, organ instructor at the University during the summer, will play for the concert. He is organist-choirmaster of Mount Olive Lutheran church, Minneapolis.

4 FRESHMAN CAMPS
TO BE STAGED
FOR NEW 'U' STUDENTS

Minneapolis --- University of Minnesota freshmen will have an opportunity to become better acquainted with other new students, upperclassmen, faculty members and campus life at four freshman camps to be conducted September 18-20.

The camps, now in their 29th year, are presented by the University YMCA-YWCA organizations, the dean of students' office and the All-University Congress. They are open to all new University students.

Nearly 300 freshmen will participate in the camps this year. The program will center around discussions of campus activities, talks on what the University offers the student and general question and answer sessions. On the lighter side, there will be a variety of recreation, including square dancing and campfire sings.

The camps will be held at Lyman Lodge on Lake Minnetonka, Camp Iduhapi on Lake Independence, Camp St. Croix on the St. Croix river and Camp Icaghowan on Lake Wapogasset near Amery, Wis. They will just precede the University's traditional Welcome Week for new students September 20-27.

Approximately 70 campers will attend each camp. The staff at each will include about 14 counselors selected from University upperclassmen and eight or 10 staff and faculty members.

Cost of the three-day camp session will be $12. Scholarships covering the cost are available through the University's bureau of student loans and scholarships. Funds for these come from proceeds of the Campus Carnival.

Application blanks for the camps can be obtained from the YMCA, 1425 University ave. S.E., Minneapolis 14.

INSTITUTE FOR PARENTS OF DEAF CHILDREN
SCHEDULED AT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Current ideas on causes and treatment of deafness in children will be the key topic at a special institute for parents of pre-school age deaf children which begins Monday (August 17) at the University of Minnesota.

Meetings of the institute, which is presented by the University in cooperation with the Quota club of Minneapolis, will be held in the Center for Continuation Study through Saturday (August 22).

One of the featured speakers will be Virginia Guthrie Lee, supervisor of the Nursery School for the Deaf, Sacramento, Calif., and former head of parent education at John Tracy clinic, Los Angeles. She will talk on language and speech development in children, sense training, lip reading, auditory training, schools for the deaf child and speech correction.

Purpose of the institute are to acquaint parents with methods and techniques they can use to develop language and speech abilities in their children and also to familiarize them with medical, psychological, educational and sociological aspects of deafness as they apply to pre-school youngsters.

Lecturers in addition to Mrs. Lee will be Dr. Lawrence R. Boies, head of the department of ophthalmology and otolaryngology; Dr. Frank M. Lassman, associate professor of audiology and speech and staff member of the speech and hearing clinic; Kenneth Doane, head of the department of education, Hamline university, St. Paul; and Dr. David S. Thorsen, psychiatrist, Wilder Child Guidance clinic, St. Paul.

'U' LAB TO STUDY
FOOD NEEDS UNDER EMERGENCY CONDITIONS

Minneapolis --- Minimum food needs in cases of emergency -- how much food and what kind man needs to maintain a capacity for working or fighting under "survival" conditions -- are the subject of a five-year research program just begun by the University of Minnesota's Laboratory of Physiological Hygiene.

Sponsored by the Quartermaster General and Surgeon General of the Army, these new studies are designed to help the Defense Department plan for military emergencies. Nineteen soldiers from Ft. Lee, Va., with Lt. L. W. Platzke in charge, have volunteered for rigid discipline and periods of real hunger and discomfort to aid scientific knowledge in the first of a series of experiments, each lasting six to eight weeks.

Dr. Ancel Keys, director of the laboratory and professor in the school of public health, points out that these experiments will also yield valuable information about basic human physiology and biochemistry. Dr. Henry L. Taylor, associate professor in the laboratory, is in charge of the early experiments. He will be assisted by Drs. Joseph T. Anderson and Ernst Simonson, both associate professors, and a staff of 20 doctors and technicians.

The volunteers will be repeatedly measured with a large variety of methods. Dr. Taylor states that circulation tests to be used will dovetail with the main long-term research of the laboratory on heart disease and aging of the blood vessels.

The well-known "Minnesota Starvation Experiment", with conscientious objectors as subjects in 1944-46, was the laboratory's last major experiment on undernutrition. During the war, the laboratory did pioneer work for the Army in developing and testing combat rations, including the "K" ration.

Minneapolis --- Some 400 students will receive diplomas at the University of Minnesota's second summer session commencement Thursday (August 20). University President J. L. Morrill will confer the degrees in ceremonies scheduled to be held in front of Northrop Memorial auditorium.

Among candidates for degrees

(Editors: Please insert names of students from your town checked with red pencil in the enclosed program.)

Ralph W. Keller, manager of the Minnesota Editorial association, will give the commencement address: "Limit: Twenty Minutes". President Morrill will also speak briefly to the graduating students, delivering his traditional "Charge to the Class".

The program will begin at 8 p.m. with an invocation by the Rev. Edwin C. Johnson, minister of the Congregational-Presbyterian fellowship on the St. Paul campus. Dean Thomas A. H. Teeter, head of the summer session, will serve as master-of-ceremonies. He will introduce deans of University colleges, who, in turn, will present their candidates for degrees to President Morrill.

Students who are to receive the doctor of philosophy degree will be announced individually by John G. Darley, associate dean of the graduate school.

A concert on the University's Flemish bells and an organ recital will precede the outdoor exercises.
