'BOTTLE' THEME OF 'U' GIRLS'
WATER SHOW

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

"In the Bottle" will be the theme of the University of Minnesota Aquatic League annual water show Friday and Saturday (April 8-9) at 8 p.m. in the Cooke hall pool.

The 26 girls, members of the University Women's Athletic association sponsored swimming group, will use precision swimming patterns and elaborate costumes to depict the "bottle" theme. Included will be perfume bottles, a baby bottle, ink and milk bottles and a ship in a bottle.

Two University students, both holders of the state senior women's diving championship titles, will do exhibition diving at the show. Going off the high board will be Mary Mero, 235 Robie st., St. Paul, 1959 champion and University junior, and Claire Sorenson, 1846 Asbury, St. Paul, University sophomore and champion in '56, '57 and '58.

The first Aquatic League performance in the Cooke hall pool was given in 1932, according to Helen Starr, former director of the University organization. It was at this time that the famous "synchronized swimming" that later evolved into the many water follies was developed by Miss Starr and league members. Miss Starr now is director of health, physical education and recreation for the Minneapolis Board of Education.

Public admission to the water show will be 75 cents.

HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS OF 7-STATE AREA
ELIGIBLE FOR U.S. COUNSELING, GUIDANCE
TRAINING PROJECT AT UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Secondary school teachers and counselors from a seven-state area are eligible to apply for two National Defense Counseling and Guidance Training institutes to be conducted by the University of Minnesota during the academic year 1960-61, according to Willis E. Dugan, University educational psychology professor, institute director.

The area comprises Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, western Wisconsin, northern Iowa, Nebraska and the eastern half of Montana.

The program will be financed by a federal grant of approximately $220,000 allocated by the United States Office of Education under the National Defense Education Act (NDEA) of 1958.

The first institute at the University of Minnesota will be held Sept. 5 to Dec. 23, 1960. The second institute will begin Jan. 30 and close June 9, 1961. Thirty students will be enrolled each semester. First semester enrollees may earn 18 graduate credits toward counselor certification and second semester students may earn 21 credits, Professor Dugan explained.

Minnesota is one of 22 colleges and universities which will conduct NDEA guidance training institutes next year, according to Lawrence G. Derthick, United States commissioner of education. The program is aimed at providing counseling and guidance training for top quality teachers and improving qualifications of present counselors, said Derthick.

GUIDANCE INSTITUTES

Enrollees at the University of Minnesota will attend academic classes three days a week in psychology, educational psychology, child development, counseling and guidance and a seminar on "Education and Guidance of Youth in a Changing Society". Two days each week will be devoted to field practice in testing, identification of talent and supervised counseling in cooperating schools in the Twin Cities area.

Colleges and universities conducting the institutes were selected by the Office of Education with the help of consultants from counseling and guidance programs at institutions of higher education.

From funds appropriated by Congress, a total of approximately $9 million has been allocated nationwide by the education office over a two-year period for counseling and guidance institutes. The University of Minnesota will conduct one of 84 previously announced institutes this summer.

Public school teachers who attend the institutes will receive stipends of $75 a week plus $15 a week for each dependent. Private school enrollees will attend the institutes without charge but receive no stipends.

Teachers, counselors and school administrators who desire further information and application blanks may obtain them by writing to Professor Willis E. Dugan, 139-B Burton hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 14, Minn.

Ex-Journalist--
STRATFORD FEST
FOUNDER TO TALK
AT 'U' CONVOCATION

Tom Patterson, founder of the Stratford Shakespearean Festival at Stratford, Ont., Canada, will speak at an 11:30 a.m. University of Minnesota convocation Thursday (April 7) in Northrop Memorial auditorium. His topic will be "Are We Losing the Cultural War?"

The former journalist is now director of planning of the Canadian "Stratford-on-Avon", which has gained international fame since its founding seven years ago. With no theatrical backing and no money, Patterson attained the help of British actor Alec Guinness and theater director Tyrone Guthrie in pioneering the beginnings of professional theater in Canada at Stratford. (Guthrie, theater company director at Stratford, recently has considered establishing a repertory theater in the Twin Cities, possibly on the University of Minnesota campus.)

A native of Stratford, Patterson was associate editor of a trade publication before he started to promote his theater project in 1952. His tent-theater opened in July, 1953, starring Guinness and Irene Worth. Since then the Stratford company has performed on Broadway and at the Edinburgh Festival. Patterson also founded The Canadian Players, a touring company, in cooperation with Douglas Campbell. He is associate producer of the film "Oedipus Rex" and a director of Avon Productions, Ltd., a company set up to film the entire repertory of Shakespeare. Patterson also has taken an active interest in international politics.

The 37-year-old theater promoter was graduated from the University of Toronto with a bachelor of arts degree in 1948.

His talk will be sponsored by the University's department of concerts and lectures.

Minneapolis --- Approximately 100 consumer specialists from throughout the United States will attend the sixth annual conference of the Council on Consumer Information Thursday through Saturday (April 7-9) in Room 320 Coffman Memorial Union at the University of Minnesota. Theme of the conference, which is open to the public, will be how consumers can improve their status through representation in government and private organizations.

Governor Orville L. Freeman of Minnesota will open the three-day meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday with a talk on "Consumer Representation in Government".

Jerry Voorhis, Chicago, Ill., executive director of the Cooperative League of the U.S.A. will examine "Consumer Representation Through Cooperatives" at 9 a.m. Friday.

George P. Larrick, United States commissioner of food and drugs, and Daniel J. McCauley, Jr., general counsel of the Federal Trade commission, Friday afternoon will discuss federal agencies which protect the consumer.

Their talks will be followed by a discussion of current trends to establish state agencies representing the consumer. Speakers will include W. S. Bussey, chief of the United States Office of Weights and Measures.

Persia Campbell, Queens college economics professor, Flushing, N.Y., will address the conference banquet at 6 p.m. Friday in Coffman union.

Consumer representative organizations will be discussed Saturday morning by local and national speakers including Julius F. Rothman, New York, staff representative of the AFL-CIO Community Service activities.

Professor Arch W. Troelstrup, head of family life education at Stephens college, Columbia, Mo., will preside over the conference. Ray G. Price, University of Minnesota education professor, is local arrangements chairman. Price was first president of the Council on Consumer Information, which was founded in 1953 at a meeting of 20 consumer specialists from throughout the United States at the University.

Minneapolis speakers will include George Cerney, director of member and community relations for Midland Cooperatives, Inc.; Mrs. Bea Kersten, director of the AFL-CIO Community Service Activities; Mrs. A.N. Satterlee, president of Consumer Information in Minneapolis; Louise A. Stedman, director of the school of home economics; Dr. Maurice B. Visscher, professor and head of physiology, and Walter Uphoff, assistant professor and head of labor education, all of the University of Minnesota.

The Council on Consumer Information is made up of government specialists, educators, cooperative leaders, union consumer advisers, home economists and others concerned with consumer information and education.

75 STATE HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS TO CONFER ON U.S.-LATIN AMERICAN
RELATIONS AT THREE-DAY 'U' SEMINAR

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA
NEWS SERVICE--214 ADM. BLDG.
MINNEAPOLIS 14, MINNESOTA
FEDERAL 2-8158 EXT. 6700
APRIL 4, 1960

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- This coming weekend 75 Minnesota high school students, selected for their ability in social studies and their keen interest in world affairs, will assemble in Minneapolis to spend two and one-half days discussing the United States and Latin America.

This year's high school residential seminar, the third of its kind, will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday (April 7-9). It is sponsored by the University of Minnesota Center for Continuation Study and the Minnesota World Affairs Center and financed by grants from the Hill Family Foundation of St. Paul and the Winton Fund of Minneapolis. With the exception of transportation to and from the seminar, all expenses of the student-members will be paid.

The American Assembly provides a conference pattern for the sessions and a textbook, "The United States and Latin America", which will be read by all participants prior to the seminar. They also are urged to read recent news magazines and newspapers containing information about United States relations with Latin America.

Students and staff members will stay at the Fair Oaks motel, 24th street and Third ave., S., Minneapolis, and all sessions will be held in the nearby First Christian church and the American Association of University Women's clubhouse.

The 75 students were selected from 150 candidates by a planning committee composed of high school and college educators. The group includes 36 boys and 39 girls, representing 56 schools -- 34 in Hennepin and Ramsey counties (Minneapolis and St. Paul) and 22 elsewhere in the state.

The seminar will open Thursday (April 7) at an 11 a.m. group session in the First Christian church. Following lunch at the motel, Thursday afternoon will be spent in panel discussions at the A.A.U.W. clubhouse and at the motel.

(MORE)

Thursday evening William Manger, director, Inter-American Affairs program, Georgetown university, will deliver the major address of the conference on "The United States and the Community of American States". This program will be held at the First Christian church.

Panel discussions will be held at the A.A.U.W. clubhouse and the motel Friday morning and afternoon, with the annual conference party Friday evening at the motel.

The final plenary session of the conference will be held Saturday morning at the church. Session chairman will be Charles H. McLaughlin, University of Minnesota Center for International Relations and area studies director.

In addition to Manger and McLaughlin, members of the seminar faculty will include Cyril Allen, division of social studies (history), Mankato State college, Mankato, Minn.; C. A. Hauberg, department of history, St. Olaf college, Northfield, Minn.; Edward Huebel, department of political science, Wayne State university, Detroit; Antonio H. Obaid, department of romance languages, Carleton college, Northfield, Minn.; Richard H. Phillips, public affairs officer, Office of Inter-American Affairs, Department of State, Washington, D.C.; and Thomas L. Smith, department of sociology, University of Florida, Gainesville, Fla.

University of Minnesota faculty members on the seminar staff will be Associate Professors Donald W. Beatty, history, Santiago A. Cuneo, romance languages, and Eugene C. Mather, geography.

For the first time, "alumni" of previous years' seminars will act as discussion leaders at the conference. Selected from the many volunteers were Carol Gustafson, Steven Larson, Marguerite McKay and Norman Uphoff, all from the University of Minnesota, and Patricia Stilson, Macalester college.

Attending the seminar as observers to study the program for possible use elsewhere are: Mrs. Fred Keeler, Grand Rapids, Mich., National Congress, Parents and Teachers association vice president; Leslie Paffnath, Racine, Wis., Johnson Foundation director; and two observers from the National Educational association, Lyle W. Ashby, deputy executive secretary, and Lois Rogers, convention coordinator.

Idea for a world affairs seminar for high school students was conceived in 1956 by James Treglawny, Minneapolis Bryant junior high school principal and former chairman of the Minneapolis School Commission on International Understanding and World Peace. He brought the suggestion to the attention of William C. Rogers, director of the World Affairs Center. They agreed that, while a number of programs were available for gifted pupils in the physical sciences, little was being done for the student outstanding in the social sciences. The annual seminars are the outcome of these discussions.

SIR HERBERT READ,

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Sir Herbert Read, British poet and leading literary and art critic, will lecture Wednesday (April 6) at the University of Minnesota. He will speak on "The Style of Criticism" at 3:30 p. m. in the Minnesota Museum of Natural History auditorium.

Although recognized as a serious poet, Sir Herbert's greatest volume of work has been in critical writing.

Throughout his writing career, he has held various posts both in the United States and England -- including assistant keeper of the Victoria and Albert Museums, editor of the Burlington Magazine, Watson Gordon professor of fine art at the University of Edinburgh, Leon fellow at the University of London, Charles Eliot Norton professor of poetry at Harvard university and A. W. Mellon lecturer in the Fine Arts, Washington, D. C.

He is president of the Society for Education in Art and the Institute of Contemporary Arts.

Sir Herbert was knighted in 1953 by Queen Elizabeth II. He attended the University of Leeds and received his master of arts degree from the University of Edinburgh. He was awarded an honorary degree by Leeds. While serving in World War I, he was decorated with the Military Cross and Companion of the Distinguished Service Order.

In addition to several volumes of poetry, his critical works include: "Reason and Romanticism", "Wordsworth", "Julien Benda and the New Humanism", "The Meaning of Art, Art and Society", "The Philosophy of Modern Art", "Icon and Idea" and "The Tenth Muse".

In the introduction to "The Philosophy of Modern Art", he writes: "I believe that among the agents or instruments of human evolution, art is supremely important. I believe that the aesthetic faculty has been the means of man first acquiring, and then refining, consciousness."

FOREIGN POLICY
TOWARD CHINA 'U'
Ch 2 FEATURE

A history professor and a state department official will discuss United States foreign policy toward Communist China on "Current Issues", University of Minnesota program, 9:30 p.m. Monday (April 11) on KTCA-TV, Channel 2.

Professor Norman A. Graebner of the University of Illinois will give the critique, and Josiah W. Bennett, officer-in-charge of political affairs, office of Chinese affairs, United States Department of State, will argue the defense. Robert Lindsay, instructor in the University's school of journalism, will moderate the discussion.

Graebner and Bennett, in their pre-recorded television discussion, will summarize key points of their debate Tuesday (April 5) at the University of Minnesota conference on "The Challenge of Communist China".

The author of two books and numerous articles, Graebner is contributing editor of Current History and associate editor of World Affairs Quarterly. His weekly radio program, "Background of the News", is aired over WBBM, Chicago. In 1958 he delivered the Commonwealth Fund lectures at the University of London, England.

Bennett, who has held his present State department position since 1957, formerly was public affairs officer in the United States embassies in Tel Aviv, Israel, and Taipei, Formosa, and U. S. (FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- A two-week Jazz Workshop for student and professional musicians will be held June 27 to July 8 at the University of Minnesota Center for Continuation Study.

Herb Pilhofer, Minneapolis pianist and arranger, will direct the workshop, first of its kind to be conducted by the University's department of music. Twin Cities area musicians have been invited to perform at the workshop as guest artists.

The purpose of the course is to present a training ground in techniques and new developments in arranging and composing present-day jazz for combos, ensembles and big bands, according to Pilhofer. It is open to musicians, arrangers, composers, band directors and university, college and high school students with training in music theory or a working knowledge of harmony.

Along with lectures, demonstrations and recordings, the workshop will provide participants with an opportunity to form their own ensembles and experiment with various styles of arranging and playing, Pilhofer pointed out. As a special feature in connection with the workshop, the University's Summer Session orchestra will give a concert on June 28, performing Pilhofer's "Three Pieces for Jazz Quartet and Orchestra", which he composed for the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra.

A native of Germany, Pilhofer has done arrangements for nationally known bands, sound film tracks and commercial recordings since he came to the United States in 1954. He has given a series of summer jazz concerts, playing and arranging for a local octet, at the Walker Art Center in Minneapolis. He has been a graduate student in music and taught music appreciation at the University of Minnesota. Pilhofer took his formal training at the Conservatory of Music in Nuremburg, Germany. Before coming to the United States, he was a pianist and arranger for German radio stations and U.S.O. units overseas.

The first week of the workshop will be concerned with instrumentation, melodic, rhythmic and harmonic characteristics of present-day styles in jazz, improvisation, planning arrangements and compositions and arranging for small combos.

Arranging and composing for larger ensembles of varied instrumentation and big bands will be studied the second week.

Participants may register for either, or both, weeks. The fee is $40 for each week. Registrations may be sent to the Director, Center for Continuation Study, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 14, Minn. Private lessons in piano, bass, drums, vibraphone, guitar, saxophone, flute, trumpet and trombone will be arranged for additional fees per lesson.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

The Foreign Students council at the University of Minnesota Tuesday (April 5) presented a silken scroll and many other gifts to University President James Lewis Morrill in appreciation of his many years' interest in and understanding of their problems.

Harry Apostolipulos, Greek graduate student in civil engineering and council president, made the presentation to President Morrill at the 11 a.m. ceremony in the University Regents' conference room. Shamsh Kassim, business administration graduate student from Africa, council vice president, presented other gifts representing many of the 81 countries whose nationals attend the University.

The scroll, 30 inches by 42 inches, was painted on silk by Gopal Mitra, Indian graduate student. The hand-lettered inscription, dedicated to President Morrill, is bordered by a series of medallions rising in smoke from the Lamp of Knowledge at the bottom to center at the top, in the seal of the University. Depicted are many representative scenes from the life of Buddha.

Attending the presentation were University Vice president Malcolm M. Willey; Forrest G. Moore, foreign student adviser; Edmund G. Williamson, dean of students; and representatives of the foreign student organizations making up the Foreign Student council. Organization membership in the council is held by the Arab-American club, Asian Journalists' club, Chinese Students' association of Minnesota, Filipino-Minnesotan association, Indo-American club, Islamic Cultural society, Iranian Student association, Israel-America club, Korean Student association, Pakistani Student association, Scandanavian club and the Turkish Student association.

The students and their organizations will present a similar scroll to Theodore C. Blegen, University graduate school dean, when he returns to Minneapolis later this week.

GORILLA HOMES
'U' LECTURE TOPIC

A zoology professor who lived among the Central African gorillas for six months will report on his study of "Gorilla Homes in the Belgian Congo" at 8 p. m. Wednesday, April 13, in the Minnesota Museum of Natural History auditorium at the University of Minnesota.

John T. Emlen, Jr., University of Wisconsin zoologist, will deliver the fourth in a series of free public lectures sponsored by Sigma Xi, honorary scientific society, during the academic year.

Emlen and an assistant studied gorilla habits and activities in the dense forests of East-Central Africa last year under a National Science Foundation grant. They tried out the gorillas's abandoned treetop homes, tasted their food -- foliage, bamboo and banana shoots -- and lay for hours in the tall grass on a hillside watching the animals. Emlen reports that eventually they would find that the gorillas were hiding in the grass on an opposite hillside watching the scientists.

The former chairman of the Wisconsin zoology department also did biological research in Africa in 1953-54 under Fulbright and Guggenheim fellowships. He is a graduate of Haverford college and received his doctor of philosophy degree in 1934 from Cornell university.

The Minnesota Museum of Natural History is located at 17th and University aves., S. E., in Minneapolis.

"The American Republic," as series of 13 half-hour discussions featuring noted personalities will be broadcast over KUOM, University of Minnesota radio station, at 1:30 p.m. on Mondays starting April 11.

The changing character of American social, political and economic institutions and how they affect freedom in our national life will be the theme of the series, presented in cooperation with the Fund for the Republic and the National Association of Educational Broadcasters.

The first two programs, April 11 and 18, on the question "Is Democracy Possible?", will feature Robert M. Hutchins, president of the Fund for the Republic and the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions. He will discuss the growing doubts about democratic values in various nations around the world.

Walter Millis, military and foreign affairs analyst and author, will discuss "Foreign Policy and Survival" on the April 25 and May 2 programs. Theodore H. White, former war correspondent for Time magazine and contributor to several national magazines, will analyze "The Press and Foreign Affairs" on May 9 and 16.

"The Corporation" will be discussed by Leland Hazard, director and consultant, Pittsburgh Plate Glass corporation, and W. H. Ferry, director of study of the corporation, Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, on the May 23 and 30 programs. Hazard and Ferry will examine the aims of the corporation and its effect on public policy and the community.

Eric Heffer, president of Britain's Liverpool Trades Council and the Liberal Party, will present a "British View of American Labor" on June 6 and 13. Reinhold Niebuhr, vice president of the Union Theological seminary, New York, N. Y., will discuss the meaning on separation of church and state on the June 20 and 27 programs, entitled, "Religion and Freedom".

John Cogley, director of the study of religious institutions in the free society, Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, will discuss controversies over censorship, birth control laws and the political role of the church on the final program, "The Churches and the Public", July 4. Cogley is former executive editor of Commonweal, Catholic weekly magazine.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- The Minnesota Medical Foundation, a non-profit organization of physicians, alumni and citizens supporting the University of Minnesota medical school, has begun accepting applications for its 1960 scholarship program.

Awards of $500 each are made annually to medical students on the basis of scholastic performance and financial need. The awards are financed by private contributions of individuals, businesses and organizations and are administered through the foundation.

Deadline for return of applications is May 30, 1960, according to Dr. Herman E. Drill, Hopkins, foundation president. He said the foundation made 26 awards totalling $13,250 in 1959, and hoped to make 40 scholarships available for the 1960-61 academic year.

The scholarship awards program is presently the foundation's major area of support for the medical school. In the last 10 years, 183 awards have been extended to medical students, who received a total of $93,500 in assistance.

Medical students have also been aided in the past year through the establishment of an emergency loan fund. They may borrow, for emergency purposes, up to $200 without interest for a 90-day period. The Medical Foundation administers the loan fund, which was financed by a grant of $2,000 from the Minnesota State Medical association.

'GOD IN SEARCH OF MAN' HESCHEL
TOPIC WEDNESDAY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

"God in Search of Man" will be Professor Abraham Joshua Heschel's topic at 8 p.m. Wednesday (April 13) when he delivers the second lecture in the University of Minnesota philosophy department's current series, "The Intellectual Relevance of Judaism", in the Mayo Memorial auditorium.

The free public theological lecture series originally was scheduled to be held in the Murphy hall auditorium, but an overflow crowd at the first lecture last Wednesday evening forced a move into larger quarters. The remaining seven lectures will be held in the larger Mayo auditorium, according to Alan Donagan, University philosophy department head and series coordinator.

Rabbi Heschel, professor of Jewish ethics and mysticism, Jewish Theological Seminary of America, New York, will conduct weekly faculty and student discussion groups at Hillel Foundation, 1521 University ave., S. E., according to Rabbi Louis Milgrom, foundation director. "Reason and Revelation" will be the topic of the faculty discussions; "Some Aspects of Rabbinic Theology", that of the student discussions.

Anyone interested in contacting Professor Heschel during the spring quarter at the University may do so by addressing him in care of the University of Minnesota Philosophy department, Room 100, Wesbrook hall, Minneapolis 14.

A Latin-American music program conducted by Jose Serebrier, Uruguayan composer, will be presented in celebration of Pan-American Day Thursday (April 14) at an 11:30 a.m. University of Minnesota convocation in Northrop Memorial auditorium. The program will be given again at 3:15 p.m. in the St. Paul campus student union North Star ballroom.

The concert-lecture will feature two ensembles of area musicians and Mary Ellen Jenkins, Minneapolis soprano. An Antal Dorati scholar at the University, Serebrier will conduct the ensembles, accompany Miss Jenkins on the piano and lecture briefly on South American music and the compositions to be played.

The program will be as follows:

"Bachianas Brasileiras, No. 1" for eight 'cellos....Heitor Villa-Lobos

"Bachianas Brasileiras, No. 5" for voice and eight 'cellos....Heitor Villa-Lobos
Soloist: Mary Ellen Jenkins, soprano

"Song Without Name or Words, No. 1".....Jose Serebrier
Mary Ellen Jenkins, soprano
Jose Serebrier at the piano

"Toccatà" for percussion instruments....Carlos Chavez

Serebrier, 21, composed his first orchestral work, a Fantastic Overture entitled "The Legend of Faust" four years ago. He graduated from the Municipal School of Music in Montevideo, Uruguay, at 15 and came to the United States in 1956 under a state department scholarship. He studied at Tanglewood and at the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia. He was the youngest candidate ever to receive a Guggenheim Fellowship in 1957. That same year Leopold Stowkowski conducted his First Symphony with the Houston orchestra.

Miss Jenkins, who is soloist for the Grace Presbyterian church, Minneapolis, has appeared with the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, the Minneapolis Civic orchestra, Minneapolis and St. Paul Civic Operas and in several pop concerts. A MacPhail School of Music graduate, she won the regional Metropolitan opera auditions in 1956.

The program will be sponsored by the department of concerts and lectures.

'U' STUDENT TO EXCHANGE CAMPUSES
WITH STUDENT FROM INDIAN UNIVERSITY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- A student from the University of Minnesota will trade campuses with one from Osmania university, Hyderabad, India, for the 1960-61 academic year when the University of Minnesota foreign exchange program goes into effect this summer.

The student exchange scholarship, sponsored jointly by the University's international affairs commission of the Minnesota Student association, the social service, foreign student adviser and Pan-hellenic councils and the Tozer Foundation, Stillwater, will enable the selected students to take any course offered in either university.

The new exchange student scholarship grant will be administered by the University of Minnesota international exchange committee, the group now directing the Free University of Berlin student exchange project and the student leadership project. Selection committee members of this group, headed by Henri Pol, arts college senior, 1558 Fulham, St. Paul, are William Madden, Brainerd, MSA representative; Joseph L. Nyomarkay, admissions and records department; and faculty members Werner Levi, political science professor, and Burton Stein, assistant professor of history.

While several foreign universities, including one in France, were considered for participation in this year's exchange program, Osmania university was the committee's final choice for this year's exchange, according to Josef A. Mestenhauser, assistant foreign student adviser. Wide local interest in Indian academic affairs, and the fact that English is the principal language at Osmania, and thus there would be no language barrier at either university, were instrumental factors in influencing the choice, Mestenhauser said.

FOREIGN STUDENT EXCHANGE SCHOLARSHIP - 2 -

Being considered for the exchange program in 1961-62 are the universities of the Philippines, Ghana and Karachi, all English-speaking institutions.

The grant, in any field of study available, transfer of credits not guaranteed, is open to any University of Minnesota student with these qualifications: at least a "B" average; at least third-year student or better; must plan to return to his home university after the year's scholarship; leadership potential must have been demonstrated. The winner must be a mature individual with superior intellectual attributes and the ability to understand and interpret American and international affairs.

While the exchange student's complete educational and personal expenses will be paid after his arrival at the university, travel expenses will not be covered under this grant. However, there is a possibility, according to Pol, that a Fulbright travel grant may be available to cover these expenses.

Application blanks for this exchange scholarship are available at the Minnesota Student association office, Room 213, Coffman Memorial Union. Blanks must be returned by April 18.

A retrospective exhibition of the work of the young Minnesota artist, John Beauchamp, will open Wednesday (April 20) in the University of Minnesota gallery in Northrop Memorial auditorium.

Included will be 25 oils on canvas, 32 drawings and seven sculptures in plaster, welded metal and wax.

In speaking of this exhibition, Sidney Simon, University gallery director, says----" to John Beauchamp, art arises out of an elemental but sophisticated participation in life, and the clarity he seeks is nothing less than the courage of a personal statement effectively projected".

Beauchamp, a graduate of the University of Minnesota art department and member also a former/of the University art department faculty, has pictures in the Whitney Museum of American Art and in the Walker Art Center. He has exhibited his work at the Walker Art Center, the Minneapolis Institute of Fine Arts, the University of Minnesota Faculty exhibition, 1957, the University of Minnesota, Duluth, Tweed gallery show, 1959, and in the Annual Exhibition of Contemporary American Painting, Whitney Museum, 1951-52.

An informal opening will be held for Beauchamp in the University gallery April 20 from 3 to 5 p.m.

Succeeds Blegen---
CRAWFORD NAMED
GRADUATE DEAN
AT MINNESOTA 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Bryce Low Crawford, Jr., chairman of the University of Minnesota school of chemistry, has been appointed dean of the University's graduate school by the Board of Regents. The appointment will become effective July 1, 1960.

He will succeed Theodore C. Blegen, who will retire June 30 after 33 years on the faculty and 20 years as head of the graduate school.

Professor Crawford has been chairman of the school of chemistry since 1957, and a member of the faculty for 20 years. He was elected to the National Academy of Science in 1956, and is a member of the executive committee of the Division of Chemical Physics of the American Physical society and of the visiting chemistry committee for the Atomic Energy commission's Oak Ridge National laboratory.

During World War II, the dean-elect directed secret research at the University of Minnesota on rocket propellants, for which he received a Presidential certificate of merit in 1948.

Born Nov. 27, 1914, in New Orleans, La., Crawford received his degrees at Stanford university, Palo Alto, Calif. -- bachelor of arts in 1934, master of arts in 1935 and doctor of philosophy in 1937. He was a teaching assistant at Stanford while working on his master's degree and then became a Windt Scholar and a Franklin Fellow. He was a National Research Fellow in chemistry at Harvard university in 1937-39.

Before joining the University of Minnesota faculty in 1940, Crawford taught at Yale university one year. He was promoted from assistant professor of physical chemistry to associate professor in 1943 and attained the rank of professor in 1946. In 1955, he was named head of the department of chemistry in the Institute of Technology, a position he held until he became chairman of the school of chemistry in 1957.

Crawford was a Guggenheim Fellow in 1950-51, studying six months at the California Institute of Technology and six months at the University of London and Oxford university.

The dean-elect, who is married and has three children, lives at 1545 Branston avenue, St. Paul, Minnesota.

TO BE DESCRIBED AT 'U' TONIGHT

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Professor John T. Emlen, Jr., University of Wisconsin zoologist, will report on a first-hand study he made last year of "Gorilla Homes in the Belgian Congo" in an 8 p. m. lecture Wednesday (April 13) in the Minnesota Museum of Natural History auditorium at the University of Minnesota.

The talk, to be illustrated by slides, is the fourth in a series of free public lectures sponsored by Sigma Xi, honorary scientific society, during the academic year.

Emlen and an assistant lived in the Central Africa jungles for six months last year observing gorilla habits and activities. They tried out the gorilla's abandoned treetop homes and their diet of bamboo and banana shoots and lay for hours on a hillside watching the animal community while the gorillas lay on another hillside watching the scientists. The study was financed by a National Science Foundation grant.

The Minnesota Museum of Natural History is located at 17th and University aves., S. E., Minneapolis.

APRIL 12, 1960

Two University of Minnesota students recently have won national honors in creative writing, according to their teacher, Morgan Blum, University assistant professor of English. The students, John P. Medelman, Jr., 1689 Laurel, St. Paul, and Elizabeth Field, Decorah, Iowa, are members of Professor Blum's fiction writing class, Composition 101.

Medelman, a senior student in the University's arts college who plans to make medicine his career, received one of 25 new awards being given for the first time by the New York publishing firm, Harper and Brothers. The awards, according to Professor Blum's letter from Harpers, consists of $100 options "to the first 25 college faculty members (or really accomplished students) who come to us with an outstanding piece of material, either fiction or nonfiction". In addition, Medelman's story has been accepted for publication by Harpers.

Material submitted for the Harper prize may be either a short story, a chapter of a book or an article. The $100 will constitute a part of whatever sum may be agreed upon later as an advance against earnings in a publication contract.

Miss Field was awarded third place in the National Scholarship Competition for Creative Literature according to the announcement from the National League of American Pen Women, prize donors. Professor Blum points out that this is only the second time that this award has been offered, and that both winners have been University of Minnesota creative writing students. First winner was Sarah Brady, who won a $1000 scholarship in 1958. Miss Brady, now Mrs. Richard Shaw, 3407 Nicollet ave., Minneapolis, is now doing graduate work in English at the University and is a graduate assistant in the University's humanities program.

Medelman's story was titled "Unreal City"; Miss Field's, "The Trolls Take Two"; and Mrs. Shaw's, "Sojourn", Professor Blum said.

ATTEND MUSEUM
PROGRAMS AT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

More than 14,900 visitors attended the Sunday series of free programs this winter at the Minnesota Museum of Natural History on the University of Minnesota campus, according to Donald K. Lewis, museum audio-visual adviser. This is 3,750 more than in the 1958-59 academic year.

Travelogue color films were the favorite of museum patrons this year, said Lewis. Four of these film programs drew more than 1,000 persons, which required a double showing in the 500-seat museum auditorium. Average attendance for the 23 programs presented during the year was 650.

The museum annually, from November to April, presents a Sunday series of films and lectures on natural history and natural resources. Its regular weekday and Sunday afternoon open-house hours continue throughout the year.

This year's programs included "Disney's Living Desert", a color sound film; two films on "Hawaii"; a lecture on "Oceans"; and a discussion of problems involved in projected space travel by man.

University of Minnesota Panhellenic and Interfraternity councils will be hosts to "Greek" representatives from all of the Big Ten universities April 21-23 when the eleventh annual Big Ten Greek conference will be held at the University.

The conference theme, "And the Greeks Will Grow", will be discussed by the sorority and fraternity leaders who will devote special attention to the question of maintaining effective leadership on expanding campuses. Delegates will register Thursday evening (April 21).

Malcolm M. Willey, University academic vice president, will welcome the Big Ten visitors at the Friday (April 22) morning session in the Murphy Hall auditorium. Edmund G. Williamson, dean of students, will speak on "How the Greeks Can Maintain Effective Leadership When They Are Becoming a Minority". Seven Minnesota seminar leaders will conduct discussions on Dean Williamson's talk at special seminars to be held from 10:15 to 11:15 a.m. in Coffman Memorial Union.

Janet Karon, Duluth, and Harvey Kaplan, 2194 Bayard ave., St. Paul, Minnesota's Panhellenic and Interfraternity councils presidents, will be hosts at the group luncheon at the University St. Paul campus Student Center. Stanley J. Wenberg, newly appointed University vice president and administrative assistant, will address the group on "The Role of Greeks In and To the Universities".

A "Coketail" hour sponsored by Twin City Panhellenic and IFC alumni in the Campus club will precede the group's annual banquet there at 6:30 p.m. Professor William S. Howell, chairman of the University senate committee on student affairs, will speak. All chapter presidents of fraternities and sororities on the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth campuses will be special guests at the banquet and at the conference party from 8:30 to 11 p.m. in the St. Paul University club.

The University of Minnesota Panel of Americans will take part in a discussion at the Greek conference coffee hour from 9 to 10:30 a.m. Saturday (April 23) at the University Episcopal Foundation, 317 17th ave., S. E.

The conference summary and business meetings and a Campus club luncheon will conclude the schedule of the 1960 Greek conference.

Organized at the University of Minnesota in 1949 for the discussion of problems pertinent to the Big Ten schools, the conference has met annually at one of the member schools.

(FOR RELEASE APRIL 17, 1960)

Minneapolis --- "The Creative Challenge to Man in the Space Age" will be the theme of a symposium for Minnesota educational leaders Saturday, May 7, in Mayo Memorial auditorium at the University of Minnesota.

Author-anthropologist Margaret Mead, retired United States Air Force General E. W. Rawlings and Brigadier General Robert F. McDermott, faculty dean of the Air Force academy, Colorado Springs, Colo., will be among speakers who will discuss the impact of the space age on various phases of American life and education.

The conference, to which Minnesota school superintendents and high school principals have been invited, will be sponsored by the University's college of education, the Minnesota Wing of the Air Force association and the Civil Air Patrol.

Professor Paul W. Cherington, Harvard university graduate school of business administration, will give the first major talk at 9:30 a.m. on "The Impact of the Space Age Upon Certain Aspects of American Economic Organization". He has been a consultant to the Air Force and the Aeronautical Research Foundation, economic analyst for the United States Senate military affairs committee and executive assistant to the Civil Aeronautics board chairman.

Professor Mead, associate curator of the American Museum of Natural History, New York City, will discuss the space age impact on American social organization at 10:30 a.m. She is the author of the best-seller "And Keep Your Powder Dry". Among her other books are "Sex and Temperament in Three Primitive Societies", "Male and Female" and "Growing Up in New Guinea". She was named "Outstanding Woman of the Year" in science in 1949 by the Associated Press and received the National Achievement Award and the Woman Geographer's Medal in 1942.

Miss Mead has posed the following challenge to educators:

"Is our present historic idea of education suitable for people in the mid-twentieth century, who have a life expectancy of 70 years, and who live in a world of automation and global communication, ready to begin space exploration and aware of the possibility of bringing about the suicide of the entire human species?"

General McDermott will discuss "The Effect of the Space Age on International Relations" at a Minnesota Air Force association noon luncheon in Coffman Memorial Union main ballroom. General McDermott was the first permanent professor appointed at the Air Force Academy and the first dean appointed by the President of the United States. A graduate of the United States Military Academy, West Point, N. Y., he served with the Ninth Air Force in Europe during World War II.

General Rawlings, who is now financial vice president and director at General Mills, Inc., Minneapolis, will preside over the luncheon.

Professor E. Paul Torrance, director of the University of Minnesota bureau of educational research, at the 2 p.m. session will discuss "The Creative Potential of School Children as a Key to Adaptation in the Space Age". He also will describe the University's research on creative thinking in school children.

"The Responsibility and Role of Public Education in the Space Age" will be the subject of a panel discussion at 3 p.m. led by Dean Walter W. Cook of the University's college of education. Panel members will include Forrest E. Conner, St. Paul, Minn., superintendent of schools and president of the American Association of School Administrators, Miss Mead, General McDermott and Professors Cherington and Torrance.

Malcolm M. Willey, University vice president for academic administration, will welcome the conference participants, and concluding remarks will be given by Merle S. Else, Jr., Minneapolis businessman, past vice president of the Air Force Association North Central region.

'U' ENLARGING PEDIATRICS RESEARCH
LABORATORIES IN MAYO MEMORIAL

Remodeling of unfinished fifteenth floor space in the University of Minnesota's Mayo Memorial building to provide additional research laboratories for the pediatrics department is now underway, L. R. Lunden, University vice president for business administration, reported Friday (April 14).

The $82,850 medical center project was made possible, Lunden explained, by a $41,425 health research facilities grant from the National Institutes of Health approved by the Surgeon General of the United States on a "matching funds" basis and a $20,000 grant from the Sister Kenny Foundation. Balance of the project's cost is being financed from various non-appropriated research grant funds available to the pediatrics department.

Involved in the project is the construction of a stairway from the fourteenth floor to the previously unused space below the roof. Windowless, the new laboratory area will be artificially lighted and ventilated.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Campus Carnival, the biggest annual all-campus student-participation event at the University of Minnesota, will be staged Friday and Saturday, April 29-30, in the University Field House on University avenue at 19th ave., S.E.

With more than 2,000 students from 60 campus organizations taking part in the fun, "Carry" has its practical side, too, for all profits from this largest money-raising project of the year go to student activities and University scholarship funds.

Last year's financial report showed a contribution to the University general scholarship fund of $5,661, with $3,460 contributed to student activities. Tentatively allocated funds from this year's profits will include $1,250 to the international exchange scholarship, $500 to SPAN (Student Project for Amity Among Nations), $500 to the social service council contingency fund, $200 to the Dean Johnson scholarship, and $100 to the freshman camp fund. Of the remainder of the net income, 95 per cent will be allocated to the social service council scholarship fund and 5 per cent to SPAN.

During the week before the carnival, roving clowns, clown courts and the "Carry Couple" will award $25 to canny spotters who ask them the pay-off question "Have you bought your Campus Carnival tickets yet?" They'll pay $35 if the questioners can produce their own tickets, according to Bill Rosengren, carnival promotion chairman.

Open to the public from 7 p.m. until midnight Friday and Saturday (April 29-30), the carnival will close Saturday merely to re-open immediately to participating students for the awards stage show. KSTP radio personality Don Doty will act as master of ceremonies and will present the All-Participation trophy, given to the organization with the most carnival activity points, as well as 16 other trophies awarded under the two basic classifications -- shows and concessions.

The University of Minnesota school of business administration will sponsor two free public lectures Tuesday, May 3, and Tuesday, May 10, on the uses of individual life and health insurance by businesses. The lectures, which will deal primarily but not exclusively with the problems of small business, will be presented at 7:30 p. m. in Murphy hall auditorium on the Minneapolis campus.

The speakers will be Professor William T. Beadles, of Illinois Wesleyan university, editor of The Journal of Insurance, and Professor Charles C. Center of the University of Wisconsin, editor of the McGraw-Hill Publishing company insurance series. Both men are past presidents of the American Association of University Teachers of Insurance.

Professor Beadles, who will speak on May 3, will discuss uses of life and health insurance in connection with plans for continuing a business following the death, disability or retirement of one of the owners. Other subjects to be covered by the first lecture will be the purpose and characteristics of sole proprietorship, partnership and corporation buy-and-sell agreements.

Professor Center will discuss several topics including the use of life and health insurance to protect firms against the death or disability of a key employe, split-dollar plans and deferred compensation plans.

The series of lectures is one of several projects in insurance education being conducted by the school of business administration under a grant from the New York Life Insurance company.

The University of Minnesota will conduct its first Minnesota Core conference, on principles and techniques of "core" teaching, Saturday (April 23) at the Center for Continuation Study on the Minneapolis campus.

Conference participants will consider practical application of core curriculum ("common learnings") which centers on problem solving rather than on subject matter.

Within the last year, conferences to study the core idea have been held in more than a dozen states, according to Professor Nelson L. Bossing, who is in charge of core teaching studies at the University.

Ruth I. Mills, associate professor of secondary education at the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee, will be principal speaker at the conference. She will talk at the morning session on "Problem Solving in Core Teaching" and at the afternoon meeting on "Moving Toward the Core Teaching in Block-Time Classes" (two or three hour classes in place of one hour classes).

Other visiting faculty members will include Irvamae Applegate, supervisor of student teaching, Jack R. Jones, education professor, and Russell L. Hamm, education professor, St. Cloud State college; Nora M. Barron, principal of the Country day school at Wayzata; and Willis Black, Willmar junior high school principal, Willmar. Several teachers from Twin Cities junior high schools where core teaching is practiced also will be on the faculty.

Professor Bossing said it is planned to establish the conference, sponsored by the University's Continuation center and the college of education, on an annual basis. Approximately 100 school administrators and teachers from throughout Minnesota are expected to attend this first meeting.

A $1,200 four-year scholarship will be awarded by WCCO Television to a beginning freshman to be used in the field of radio-television study at the University of Minnesota, Professor Robert L. Jones, director of the University's school of journalism, announced Tuesday (April 19).

"It is our intent to award a similar scholarship annually," said F. Van Konyenburg, executive vice president of WCCO Radio-Television, in presenting the scholarship. "The first one is to be used specifically for study in the school of journalism."

The Twin City broadcasting firm also will sponsor the First Annual Broadcast Journalism conference at the University in conjunction with the journalism school's annual Minnesota High School Press association convention, Thursday and Friday, April 28-29.

The broadcast journalism conference is open to Minnesota high school students who are contemplating careers in the broadcasting industry, particularly in the news field. On the first day of the conference, students will tour the WCCO radio and television facilities. They will participate in a series of seminars, conducted by television and radio newsmen on various facets of television and radio journalism, on the second day of the meeting.

Bernard Eismann, CBS News Midwest bureau chief, will address the students attending both MHSPA convention and the broadcast journalism conference at an awards luncheon April 29 in Coffman Memorial union. Recipients of the new scholarship and the annual MHSPA scholarship will be announced at the luncheon.

Students may apply for the new scholarship and make reservations for the Broadcast Journalism conference through their high schools.

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY ENDOWS
CANCER RESEARCH PROFESSORSHIP
AT 'U'; DR. MARTINEZ NAMED TO POST

(ADVANCE RELEASE FOR PMs OF MONDAY, APRIL 25, 1960)

Minneapolis --- Creation of an American Cancer Society cancer research professorship at the University of Minnesota and the naming of Dr. Carlos Martinez to the newly established position were announced today (Monday, April 25) by Dr. Warren H. Cole, American Cancer Society president, and University President J. L. Morrill.

Dr. Martinez, 46, professor of physiology in the University's medical school, is a native of Argentina. He is well-known for his studies in cancer endocrinology and immunology and has written 87 papers in these fields. He has been receiving research support from the Minnesota Division of the American Cancer Society as well as the national organization.

In addition to the Minnesota ACS professorship, Dr. Cole today also announced the establishment of a similar position at the University of Virginia medical school, Charlottesville, for Dr. Vincent P. Hollander, associate professor of internal medicine and assistant professor of biochemistry.

Under terms of the awards, Dr. Cole explained, the Society sets up a $100,000 trust fund for each grantee. Interest on this trust in addition to funds raised each year by the American Cancer Society pays the annual salary of the scientist. The trust itself is finally absorbed under the support schedule. Universities involved also contribute to the support of the positions.

"These awards," Dr. Cole said today, "represent the collaboration of institutions, scientists and the public through the Society. The institutions are making notable contributions to research continuity by agreeing to provide the scientists with facilities for research until their retirement. Each scientist commits himself to lifetime work in cancer, agreeing to devote his energies and his creative thought to the cancer problem. The Society guarantees his salary to the institution, assuring him long-term freedom in the development of his research.

"This type of grant meets a critical need for permanent, fulltime research positions. With this award, much of the concern over personal advancement or about promotions within the university will be removed. He will not feel compelled to produce frequent reports on short-term projects. Instead, he is free to consider problems in depth and to do long-term research in reasonable security.

"By increasing the number of faculty level positions concentrating on cancer, the American Cancer Society feels it helps establish the productive environment essential for fruitful research."

American Cancer Society Research Professorships are already established at the Universities of Chicago, Harvard, Pennsylvania, Tulane, Vanderbilt and Wisconsin and Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Martinez, who earned his doctor of medicine and doctor of philosophy degrees from the University of Cordoba in his native Argentina, has served on the University medical school staff since 1951 when he appointed an assistant professor of cancer biology. Earlier, in 1943-44, he studied in the University's physiology department under a Rockefeller Foundation fellowship. Then, for six years prior to returning to Minnesota, he worked as a staff member of the Instituto de Biologia y Medicina Experimental at Costa Rica, Argentina.

Both Dr. Martinez and Dr. Hollander have made cancer research their life work. Dr. Martinez' work has been concerned with the hormonal factors in cancer from a genetic and immunological point of view. He is seeking understanding of hormonal factors responsible for development and growth of tumors and also of the basic immunological mechanism underlying resistance to or enhancement of tumor growth

"The research of Dr. Martinez," Dr. Cole asserted today, "is of considerable value and will contribute importantly to the solution of the cancer problem."

Married and the father of four children, Dr. Martinez lives at 220 Bedford ave., S.E., in Minneapolis.

Dr. Hollander, 43, is a steroid biochemist and the author of 57 publications. He received a doctor of philosophy degree from the University of Chicago and a doctor of medicine degree from Northwestern university. His primary interest is the hormonal control of tumor growth. In addition to his faculty appointment, he is cancer coordinator and director of the cancer research laboratories at the University of Virginia medical school.

"The Society's program of research professorships meets a critical need for permanent, fulltime research positions," Dr. Cole said today. "The universities now lack the funds to create the necessary positions for cancer research for which many talented men are now prepared. In making these awards, the Society believes that this provides one of the most desirable means of making the best minds available to cancer research."

"Amazing Bulgaria", a color film by Alfred Wolff, will be presented Thursday (April 28) at an 11:30 a. m. University of Minnesota free public convocation in Northrop Memorial auditorium. Wolff, a German-born photographer, will narrate the film in person.

The film portrays the progress Bulgaria has made from semi-primitive living conditions into a modern, progressive state. The petrified forest, an ancient town built on six hills and Thracian tombs with their gold treasures will be among scenes included in the movie.

Wolff appeared at University convocations in April 1959, with his film on "Germany" and in 1949 with the film "This Is France".

In addition to his career as a photographer, Wolff has been an aviator for 42 years. He came to the United States when he was three years old and was raised in southern Wisconsin. After attending the University of Wisconsin, he studied at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and European schools. His films have won him several honors and he is a member of the Explorers Club of New York.

Since the film runs over an hour, there will be a 10-minute intermission at 12:20 p. m. to allow late comers to be seated. The convocation will be sponsored by the University's department of concerts and lectures.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE
TEACHERS OF STATE

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Three internationally known language experts will discuss recent trends in foreign language teaching in talks before the Minnesota Foreign Language conference Friday and Saturday, April 29-30, in Mayo Memorial auditorium at the University of Minnesota. Approximately 200 teachers and school administrators are expected to attend the conference, first of its kind since 1949.

A Minnesota Council of Foreign Language Teachers, to be affiliated with the proposed department of foreign languages of the National Education association, will be organized at a luncheon on the first day of the conference.

Patricia O'Connor, director of the Brown university language laboratory, Providence, R. I., will address the first general session at 2:30 p.m. Friday on "What Does Linguistic Science Say to the Classroom Teacher?" A consultant to the United States Office of Education, she has written two government circulars, "Modern Foreign Languages in the Secondary School: Prereading Instruction" and "Intensive Training for an Oral Approach in Language Teaching".

Filomena Peloro, director of foreign languages at Hackensack, N.J., public schools, will give an illustrated lecture on "The Foreign Language Curriculum: Grades 3-12" at 8:30 p.m. Friday. The Hackensack language program in the elementary grades has been featured in a Saturday Evening Post article and has gained nationwide attention. Miss Peloro is associate editor of the record-pamphlet series "Junior Hi-Fi Language Courses for Ages 7-14; HRS Records" put out by Ottenheimer Publishers.

Nelson D. Brooks, Yale university professor of romance languages, will speak at 9:30 a.m. Saturday on "New Testing Techniques for New Objectives". He is the author of the textbook "Language and Language Learning" and is a consultant to the United States Office of Education and the Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N. J.

A report on "Foreign Language Progress in Minnesota" will be given by Farley Bright, assistant state commissioner of education, at the 6:30 p.m. conference banquet Friday in the Campus Club, Coffman Memorial Union.

Exhibits of the latest laboratory equipment and materials for teaching modern languages will be on display Friday morning and Saturday afternoon in Room 320 Coffman Union.

The conference will be sponsored jointly by the University's college of education and the Minnesota state department of education. Registration will begin at 2 p.m. Friday in Mayo Memorial auditorium.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

A population expert, Kingsley Davis of the University of California, will give the third annual Guy Stanton Ford lectures next week at the University of Minnesota. "Public Policy and the World Population Crisis" will be the subject of the three-lecture series honoring the University's sixth president (1938-41).

The free public lectures will be held at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday (May 3, 4 and 5) in the Minnesota Museum of Natural History auditorium.

Davis, on successive days, will discuss "The Social Control of Demographic Behavior and Its Unforeseen Consequences", "The Contemporary Controversy Over Population Policy in Sociological and Demographic Perspective" and "The Rapid Evolution of Opinion and Policy in the Emancipated East".

A professor of sociology and social institutions at the University of California, Berkeley, Davis is the United States representative on the United Nations population commission. He also is director of the California school's international urban research project.

Professor Davis has conducted several population studies and was a population consultant for the Conservation Foundation in 1952-54. He is a member of several organizations devoted to population studies, including the Population Association of America.

A member of the University of California faculty since 1955, Davis also taught at Columbia, Harvard and Princeton universities and the University of Texas.

The Guy Stanton Ford lectureship was established by friends and colleagues of the former University president. Ford, who lives in Washington, D. C., was history professor and dean of the University graduate school from 1913 to 1938, acting president in 1931-32 and 1937-38 and president from 1938 to 1941. After retiring in 1941, he spent 12 years as executive secretary of the American Historical association and editor of the American Historical Review.

This year's lectures also will be sponsored by the University's graduate school and the department of concerts and lectures.

'SYMBOL OF GOD'
HESCHEL LECTURE
SUBJECT AT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

"A Symbol of God" will be Professor Abraham Joshua Heschel's topic Wednesday (April 27) when he delivers the third lecture in the University of Minnesota philosophy department series, "The Intellectual Relevance of Judaism".

The free public lectures are held at 8 p. m. in the Mayo Memorial auditorium.

Overflow crowds for the lecture series, originally scheduled to be held in Murphy hall auditorium, necessitated rescheduling in the larger Mayo auditorium, according to Henry E. Allen, University student religious activities coordinator and series director.

Rabbi Heschel, professor of Jewish ethics and mysticism, Jewish Theological Seminary of America, New York City, also is conducting weekly faculty and student discussion groups at Hillel Foundation, 1521 University ave., S. E., according to Rabbi Louis Milgrom, foundation director. Faculty discussions are titled "Reason and Revelation"; student discussion, "Some Aspects of Rabbinic Theology".

'U' MUSICIANS
TO GIVE HAYDN
ORATORIO MAY 4

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

More than 250 University of Minnesota musicians -- vocalists and instrumentalists -- will join their talents Wednesday (May 4) to present Haydn's oratorio "The Creation".

The University music department sponsored oratorio will be given at 8:30 p.m. in Northrop Memorial auditorium and will be open free to the public, according to Professor Paul M. Oberg, University music department head, who will direct the performance.

Taking part in the oratorio will be the 179-member University Chorus, directed by music department assistant professor Walter S. Collins; the 41-member University Men's Glee club, directed by music education assistant professor Norman E. Abelson; the eight-member Women's Glee club, directed by music instructor Evelyn C. Barry; the 36-member Music Educators' chorus, directed by music education associate professor Arnold F. Caswell; and the University Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Professor Oberg. The orchestra will be augmented by professional musicians, Oberg said.

Soloists for the performance of "The Creation" will be University music department faculty, soprano Marcella Lee Oja, tenor Paul R. Knowles, and bass-baritone Norman F. Abelson.

(FOR SUNDAY ART PAGE, MAY 1)

Six paintings by Jasper Johns, the young New York artist who climbed to prominence in the art world with his brilliant sellout exhibition at the Leo Castelli gallery, N. Y. C. in 1958, will be shown at the University of Minnesota gallery May 3 through June 5.

The Johns paintings will be hung in the third-floor Seminary gallery in Northrop Memorial auditorium.

Of Johns' work, Art News magazine says -- "Jasper Johns is the newest member of a movement among young American artists to turn to a sort of neo-Dada-pyrotechnic or lyric, earnest but sly, unaggressive ideologically, but covered with esthetic spikes."

The exhibition, loaned to the University gallery by the Leo Castelli gallery, is open free to the public during school hours and on concert evenings.

GRANT TO SUPPORT
STUDENT CHEMISTRY
RESEARCH AT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

A $9,240 grant from the National Science Foundation has been awarded to the University of Minnesota for the support of an "undergraduate research participation program" in the school of chemistry. The program, under the direction of Wayland E. Noland, associate professor of organic chemistry, will be carried out during the summer of 1960.

Nine undergraduate students will be given the opportunity to "learn by doing" under this NSF program whose purpose is to determine, through a large scale and broadly based trial, the extent to which providing superior undergraduate students with an experience in research participation under the direction of college faculty members can make an important contribution to science education.

Included in the list of this summer's undergraduate students are:

Robert J. Cedergren, Delano; James Elver Johnson, Hanley Falls; Richard A. Kretchmer, Tracy; Roger A. Lovald, Buffalo Lake; Mary K. Reck, 500 S. E. Harvard, Minneapolis; Hyler Silesky, Robbinsdale; and Gail Engerholm, Glenwood.

University chemistry participating faculty members, in addition to Professor Noland, the director are: Z Z. Hugus, Jr., I. M. Kolthoff, Maurice M. Kreevoy, Edward J. Meehan, Lloyd H. Reyerson and Warren L. Reynolds. Professor Noland, who also directed a similar program last year, will attend a meeting of program directors in Chicago May 6.

LIGHTS IN SKY TO LEAD WAY TO 'U' CARNIVAL

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Two giant searchlight beams will beckon fun-loving Twin Citians to the University of Minnesota campus Friday and Saturday (April 29-30) evenings when the annual Campus Carnival will hold sway in the Field House on University avenue at 19th ave., S. E.

More than 2,000 students from 60 campus organizations will transform themselves into Hawaiian hula dancers, fashion models from "Outer Space", Dixieland combos, night club comedians and ice skaters for "Carny"---the biggest all-campus student participation event at the University. All profits from the carnival---more than $5,000 last year---go to the University scholarship funds.

The statement, "1960 Campus Carnival is better than ever", if made to the right person at the carnival, will win the speaker a portable radio or a stereo-hi-fi set, according to Bill Rosengren, carnival promotion chairman. Carnival foods, Rosengren said, will include all the traditional delicacies---peanuts, pop and hot dogs---as well as such newer innovations as pizzas, pickled herring and near-beer.

Open to the public from 7 p.m. to midnight Friday and Saturday (April 29-30) an awards stage show for participating students will be held after the carnival closes to the public Saturday night. KSTP radio personality Don Doty, himself a "Carny" participant as an undergraduate, will act as master of ceremonies and present the All-Participation trophy to the organization with most activity points as well as 16 other trophies awarded under the two basic classifications, shows and concessions.

PULITZER PRIZE
WINNER 'U' LAW
BANQUET SPEAKER

(FOR RELEASE SUNDAY, MAY 1, 1960)

Anthony Lewis, Pulitzer-prize winning journalist, will speak at the University of Minnesota law school's 1960 banquet Friday, May 6. His topic will be "The Supreme Court and Its Critics".

The banquet, co-sponsored by the law school and the University's Law Alumni association, will be held at 7 p. m, in Coffman Memorial Union main ballroom.

Lewis, a reporter on the Washington bureau of the New York Times, received the Pulitzer prize in 1955 for his series of articles in the Washington Daily News on the case of Abraham Chasanow, a United States Navy civilian employe who had been discharged as a "security risk". Lewis proved that the charges were groundless, and Chasanow was reinstated. Lewis also received the Heywood Broun Award from the American Newspaper Guild in 1955.

Before joining the Washington Daily News staff, Lewis was a deskman for the New York Times. In 1952, he worked for the Democratic national committee preparing political, social and economic summaries of the areas in which presidential candidate Adlai Stevenson was scheduled to speak during his campaign.

Lewis rejoined the New York Times in 1955. As a Nieman Fellow in 1956-57, he studied law at Harvard, primarily in the field of public law.

Banquet guests will include J. L. Morrill, University president, and Minnesota state supreme court justices and the federal district judges.

SHOULD LAWYER EXPLORE DIVORCE
CAUSES?--U' INSTITUTE SUBJECT

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Does a lawyer have a moral obligation to explore the causes of divorce action will be one of the questions discussed at a University of Minnesota institute on "The Lawyer and Marriage Counseling" Wednesday and Thursday, May 11-12, in the Center for Continuation Study.

The institute is co-sponsored by the University's law school, the Continuation Center and the Minnesota State Bar association.

John W. Hudson, Detroit, Mich., marriage counselor, and Stanton L. Ehrlich, Chicago, Ill., attorney and specialist in family law, will be principal speakers. Hudson is chairman of the department of family life education at Merrill-Palmer school and a private marriage counselor in Detroit. Ehrlich is chairman of the committee of matrimonial actions, section of family law of the American Bar association.

Other questions to be considered during the institute will be: whether every law office should handle matrimonial actions, if a lawyer should initiate divorce action at once or first try to determine the causes of matrimonial difficulties, how children are affected by divorce, whether a lawyer is qualified as a counselor and if an effort be made to refer the parties to a marriage counselor before instituting an action.

Faculty members will represent the fields of law, psychiatry, social work and court services.

ENGINEERS' DAY
FRIDAY AT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Green will be the color of the day at the University of Minnesota Friday (May 6)---Engineers' Day--- when the University's 2,837 "engineers" parade, kiss the Blarney stone, select their Queen Colleen, picnic, and settle down to hold their annual Institute of Technology open house.

All divisions of the institute--- the college of engineering, with its departments of aeronautical, agricultural, civil and hydraulic, electrical, mathematical and mechanical engineering; and the schools of architecture, chemistry, mines and metallurgy and physics, will be open to the public on both Friday (May 6) and Saturday (May 7), according to George Gamota, 1960 Engineers' Day general co-chairman. Open house exhibition hours will be from 3:30 p.m. to midnight Friday, and from 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Saturday. Guided tours will be conducted to demonstrate and explain the many departmental and industrial exhibits. .

Some 50 units including at least 13 floats will leave the Minneapolis parade grounds at 9:30 a.m. Friday in the parade which will open "E" Day celebrations. The parade will arrive on campus at 10 a.m. and will wind up in the main engineering building court at 10:30 a.m. for the naming of "St.Pat" and the announcement of the identity of 1960's Queen Colleen. Graduating seniors will kiss the Blarney stone and be knighted by St.Pat before leaving for the "E" Day convocation at 11:30 a.m. in Northrop Memorial auditorium.

A world-rekknowned astro-physicist and author, George Gamow, will be the "E" Day convocation speaker. Gamow, University of Colorado physics professor, will address the engineers and the public on "The Physical Nature of Life" at the special 11:30 a.m. Engineers' Day convocation sponsored by the University's departments of concerts and lectures.

MORE

Engineers' Day---

Buses will be available immediately after convocation to transport the engineers and their guests to their annual picnic to be held at Minnehaha park. Such traditional events as softball games and chariot races will hold sway until the 3:30 opening of the open house exhibits on the Minneapolis campus.

If he can be found or ransomed in time (rumor hath it that students of another school know more than they are telling about his disappearance), "Robbie the Robot" will put in his annual appearance at the Friday and Saturday open houses, Gamota said. The talking and walking mechanical man has long been a feature of the occasion, but has not been located as yet. Other startling engineering "stunts" to electrify the visitors will include the American Institute of Chemical Engineers' sponsored exhibit, "Magic Through Chemicals"; the electronic cannon of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers; and the I.B.M. computer which will answer the audience's questions; and---weather permitting--- the customary opening to the public of the University's observatory in the Physics building. With the weatherman's cooperation, there will be the possibility of viewing some of the current crop of satellites now encircling the earth. The rings around Saturn and at least four of the seven moons of Jupiter also are now in viewing position, as are spiral nebula and the famous "Three Sisters", double stars with rainbow auras.

Crowning of the 1960 Queen Colleen will take place at the Engineers' Brawl Saturday evening (May 7) in the Dyckman hotel's President ballroom. The dance is open to the public and tickets may be obtained at the door or by calling "E" Day office, FEderal 2-8159, Ext. 517.

SOCIAL WORK EDUCATOR TO GIVE
HODSON LECTURE AT 'U' MAY 5

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Karl deSchweinitz, social work educator and historian, will deliver the annual Hodson lecture at 8 p. m. Thursday (May 5) in Murphy hall auditorium at the University of Minnesota. His topic will be "Persons, Time and Causation in Social Welfare".

A native of Northfield, Minn., deSchweinitz has been engaged in historical research and writing in Washington, D. C., since he left the University of California at Los Angeles in 1958. Before becoming an educator, he worked with the federal Social Security administration and was director of the Pennsylvania state emergency relief board in the 1930's.

The Hodson lecturer is the author of several books, including "England's Road to Social Security", "Social Security for Egypt" and "People and Process in Social Security". For his lecture, he will draw upon his research in England as a Fulbright scholar and upon his current studies in Washington.

The Hodson lectures, sponsored by the University's school of social work, were established in memory of William Hodson, 1913 graduate of the University and onetime executive secretary of the Minnesota State Child Welfare division. Hodson left Minnesota in 1922 and held many jobs with the Russell Sage foundation and the Welfare council of New York City. He was killed in a plane crash in North Africa in 1943 while on an assignment for Governor Herbert H. Lehman, director of the Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation.

Minneapolis --- Margaret Mead, author-anthropologist, will speak at a University of Minnesota symposium for state educational leaders on "The Creative Challenge to Man in the Space Age" Saturday (May 7) in Mayo Memorial auditorium.

Other guest speakers will include E. W. Rawlings, retired United States Air Force general; Brigadier General Robert F. McDermott, faculty dean of the Air Force academy, Colorado Springs, Colo.; and Professor Paul W. Cherington, Harvard university graduate school of business administration.

They will discuss the impact of the space age on American life and education.

The conference, to which Minnesota school superintendents and high school principals have been invited, will be sponsored by the University's college of education, the Minnesota Wing of the Air Force association and the Civil Air Patrol.

Professor Cherington will talk at 9:30 a.m. on "The Impact of the Space Age Upon Certain Aspects of American Economic Organization".

Professor Mead, associate curator of the American Museum of Natural History, New York City, will talk at 10:30 a.m. on the space age and American social organization. She is the author of several books, including the best-seller "And Keep Your Powder Dry".

General McDermott will discuss "The Effect of the Space Age on International Relations" at a Minnesota Air Force association noon luncheon in Coffman Memorial Union main ballroom. General Rawlings, now General Mills financial vice president, Minneapolis, will preside over the luncheon.

E. Paul Torrance, director of the University of Minnesota bureau of educational research, will speak on "The Creative Potential of School Children as a Key to Adaptation in the Space Age" at 2:15 p. m.

"The Responsibility and Role of Public Education in the Space Age" will be the subject of a panel discussion at 3 p. m. led by Dean Walter W. Cook of the University's college of education. Panel members will include Forrest E. Conner, superintendent of St. Paul public schools.

NEW INTERCOLLEGIATE MALE CHORALE
TO SING FIRST CONCERT AT 'U' MAY 12

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Two hundred men from five Minnesota universities and colleges -- members of the newly formed Intercollegiate Male Chorale -- will present the organization's first concert at 8:30 p.m. Thursday (May 12) in Northrop Memorial auditorium. The concert will be open free to the public.

Thomas Nee, Minneapolis Symphony orchestra assistant director, will direct the mass choir in Healy Willan's "Missa Brevis" in G, according to Norman E. Abelson, University of Minnesota Men's Glee club director and group organizer.

The program will include presentations by the individual choruses as well as selections by the group. Music will range from early church chants to modern arrangements of Negro spirituals, Abelson said.

Members of the Intercollegiate Male Chorale are: the Augsburg Male chorus, directed by John Thut; Bethel Male chorus, Sheldon Fardig, director; and the St. Thomas College Male chorus, James S. Chiado, director, all of St. Paul; St. John's University Male chorus, Gerhard Track, director, Collegeville; and the University of Minnesota Men's Glee club.

This first concert of the newly formed group is an attempt on the part of the glee club directors to fill the need created by a growing interest in male choral singing, Abelson said. In future years, concerts will be held with other group members as hosts. Tentatively scheduled as 1961 host is St. John's university, Collegeville.

OLKIN SUCCEEDS
JOHNSON AS 'U'
STATISTICS HEAD

Appointment of Associate Professor Ingram Olkin as chairman of the University of Minnesota's statistics department succeeding the late Professor Palmer O. Johnson, was announced Monday (May 2) by Dean E. W. McDiarmid of the college of science, literature and the arts.

Professor Olkin, who came to the University in March from Michigan State university where he has been a faculty member for the last nine years, will take over the chairmanship June 15. The new chairman, a graduate of City College, New York, in 1947, earned a master of arts degree at Columbia university in 1948 and the doctor of philosophy degree from the University of North Carolina in 1951.

A pioneer in the use of statistics in the social sciences, Professor Johnson died last January 24. Since his death, the department chairmanship has been held temporarily by Associate Professor I. R. Savage.

SCIENCE FICTION
WRITER-PHYSICIST
AT 'U' FRIDAY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

World-reknowned astrophysicist and science fiction writer George Gamow will speak on "The Physics of Life" at the University of Minnesota annual special Engineers' Day convocation at 11:30 a. m. Friday (May 6) in Northrop Memorial auditorium.

The public is invited to the free convocation sponsored by the University department of concerts and lectures.

Russian-born and educated Gamow, now physics professor at the University of Colorado, Boulder, developed his theory of radioactivity decay at the Institute of Theoretical Physics, Copenhagen, and in Cambridge, England, before coming to the United States in 1934 as a professor at George Washington university, Washington, D. C. During the two decades he spent in Washington, Professor Gamow continued to work on nuclear physics and its application to the problems of astrophysics and cosmology.

At this time he also became interested in the popularization of science, and wrote a number of books in the science-fiction field for the layman. This activity earned him the Kalinga prize for popularization of science, awarded to him by the United Nations Education, Scientific and Cultural organization (UNESCO) in 1956.

In 1956, Gamow joined the faculty of the University of Colorado where he is continuing his research in astrophysics and cosmology and his work as an author.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Several thousand University of Minnesota students will take part in the fifth annual Creative Arts Festival which will open on the Minneapolis campus Friday (May 6), and, past attendance figures indicate, thousands of their fellow students will attend one or more of the 53 events and 11 art shows in the 1960 Festival (May 6-15).

Covering the six main areas of science and engineering, graphic arts, theater arts, music, literature and special events, the festival contrasts a crafts fair with a Beaux Arts ball; a puppet show on the Mall with Opera Workshop productions; a "clothesline" art sale with Louis Armstrong's appearance in a Jazz Festival.

Opening officially at noon Friday (May 6) in Coffman Memorial Union main ballroom, the campus-wide Creative Arts Festival will be introduced by Sidney Simon, University gallery director. The 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. noon shows, previews of the week's festivities, will include short scenes from "Time of Your Life", three-act play presented by the University theater; a song from "Salad Days", Newman club musical comedy; a scene from "Agamemnon Dead", a production sponsored by the University classics department, and a preview of the Minnesota Folk Singers. A jazz group will be featured throughout the program.

A social highlight of the 1960 Festival will be the Beaux Arts ball Saturday (May 7) in the Union main ballroom. "The" campus costume and masquerade ball of the year, Beaux Arts patrons this year will dance to the music of "Les Brown and His Band of Renown".

Other festival highlights during the week will include the University music department's Opera Workshop productions Monday and Tuesday evenings (May 9-10) at the Prudential Insurance company auditorium on Wayzata boulevard; the college talent contest finals Tuesday (May 10) in the Union main ballroom,

Teaching, Research, Prestige---
MINNESOTA 'U' STUDIES FACULTY
ATTRACTION, RETENTION FACTORS

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- New faculty members have been attracted to the University of Minnesota chiefly by its combination of teaching and research opportunities and its scholastic prestige, according to a Faculty Attraction and Retention Study recently completed by the University's Bureau of Institutional Research.

Salaries offered to prospective faculty candidates by the University were about on a par with competing institutions and were not high enough to constitute by themselves an important incentive to come to Minnesota, the study found. When the "income package", including fringe benefits (insurance, retirement, travel, etc.) was considered, the University offers ranked somewhat below the offers of many competing institutions. Salary was more often listed by interviewees as an incentive to leave the University than to remain.

Six out of every 10 offers made to prospective faculty members by the University during the two-year period covered by the study were accepted.

The study, a survey of factors affecting faculty attraction and retention, was conducted at the request and with the counsel of a subcommittee of the faculty Senate committee on education. Directing the project were John E. Stecklein, associate professor and director of the Bureau of Institutional Research, and Robert L. Lathrop, assistant professor and bureau research associate. Philip M. Raup, professor of agricultural economics, headed the faculty subcommittee.

Major purpose of the study was an assessment of the University's current status in the competition for high quality staff members, according to Stecklein and Lathrop, with a view to identifying factors which would be most influential in attracting future faculty members.

"Although the increasing competition for faculty has not yet become a serious problem for some institutions, such as the University, recent studies suggest that current faculty shortages are only previews of more serious problems yet to come in the next decade," they added in their report on the survey results.

More than 400 faculty decisions to accept, reject, retain or resign a University faculty appointment were analyzed by means of interviews and questionnaires in the study.

"New faculty members were most often attracted to the University by an appealing combination of teaching and research responsibilities," said the authors. "The presence of competent and stimulating colleagues, the opportunity, support and encouragement to carry on a program of research and study, and the prestige, high professional standing and reputation of the University also contributed significantly to the decision to come to Minnesota."

The number of refusals to accept University appointments was relatively small, the survey showed and tended to be concentrated in a few areas in the natural and physical sciences.

The most common explanations for refusals were: the lack of any significant improvement in professional opportunity; no change in duties; lack of salary improvement (considering relocation costs); and reluctance to uproot one's family.

Reasons for remaining on the University staff after receiving an offer from another employer were much the same: "the continued professional opportunity available at the University...the strength of the University faculty...the high academic standing of the institution and the reluctance to sever family and community ties".

Three out of every four bids received by faculty members from other employers were rejected, the study showed.

More than half of the persons who left the University faculty reported salary improvements of 20 per cent or more and increased administrative or research emphasis in their new positions. Their most frequent single suggestion was that the University should have offered larger salary increases, if it really wanted them to stay.

"Most of the former faculty suggested that their reasons for leaving did not imply dissatisfaction with the University, but rather, lack of opportunity to move to positions of responsibility as soon as they felt they were ready," said Stecklein. "Apparently, Minnesota continues to serve as an important source to which other institutions turn for faculty replacements and for expansions of their staffs."

Satisfactory interpersonal relationships, both with colleagues and administrators, were mentioned by the interviewees as important elements of a decision to accept or retain an academic position, Stecklein pointed out.

"Although lines of communication occasionally were strained between faculty members and their administrative colleagues, most people viewed the University as a rewarding place to teach and study," he continued.

"Even among the people who declined offers of appointment (or resigned positions with the University)," he concluded, "the impressions of the institution were predominantly favorable. Minnesota enjoys a fine reputation, not only among its own faculty, but nationally and internationally, and its scholastic atmosphere and academic achievements are important elements in the attraction and retention of top scholars and teachers."

POLISH PRESS
SUBJECT OF 'U'
LECTURE MONDAY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Professor Jerzy Sawicki, who was Polish prosecutor at the Nuremberg trials after World War II, will give a free public lecture Monday (May 9) at the University of Minnesota. He will talk on "The Legal Status of the Polish Press" at 3:30 p. m. in Murphy hall auditorium.

Chairman of the criminal law department at Warsaw university, Poland, Sawicki has made several studies of mass communication media and is the author of two books on freedom of speech: "Libel and Freedom of Criticism" and "Professional Secrecy in Journalism". He writes a weekly column in Poland dealing with legal problems arising from new medical and technological advances.

His book, "The Nuremberg Principles" (1950), paid tribute to American scientists and raised criticism against him in some Polish circles for what was regarded as an overestimation of Anglo-American doctrines.

Before he was appointed Polish representative on the Four Powers' prosecution staff at Nuremberg, Sawicki was attorney general for the Polish government in early Nazi war criminal trials. During the 1930's he was a leading defense attorney for the victims of rising Nazi anti-semitism.

Sawicki recently was appointed commissioner for drafting a new Polish penal code.

Currently on a lecture tour of the United States, his talk at the University will be sponsored by the school of law, the school of journalism and the department of concerts and lectures.

PTA INSTITUTES
SET IN MOORHEAD,
DULUTH, MPLS.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- The University of Minnesota in cooperation with the Minnesota Congress of Parents and Teachers will conduct three two-day institutes on parent and family life education this month at Moorhead State college and the University's Duluth and Minneapolis campuses.

Dates for the institutes are May 19-20 at Moorhead, May 23-24 at Duluth and May 26-27 at the University's Center for Continuation Study on the Minneapolis campus.

Purpose of the institutes, jointly sponsored by the Continuation center and the University's Institute of Child Development and Welfare, will be to acquaint PTA members with methods and materials which can be used in organizing or extending parent and family life education programs.

Armin Grams, associate professor and head of the Child Development institute's parent education program, will open each institute with a discussion of "What Is Parent and Family Life Education?" Local PTA members will report on "What My PTA Unit Has Done" at an afternoon symposium. Elizabeth Peterson, institute instructor, will speak on the topic, "What Shall I Tell My Child About Sex?" at the final first day session.

The second day's program will open with a talk by Harold W. Stevenson, director on the Child Development institute, who will describe the institute's work in assisting PTA parent education programs. Armin Grams will lecture and lead a discussion on "Discipline" at the first afternoon session. This will be followed by a discussion of available resources in parent education programs.

Use of films and tape recordings in parent education also will be demonstrated during the institute. Films about pre-school children and adolescents will be shown at 11 a.m. on the first day of the institutes.

(ADVANCE RELEASE FOR AMs FRIDAY, MAY 6, 1960)

Minneapolis --- Reorganization of the Big Ten and University of Chicago Committee on Institutional Cooperation, now underway, includes plans for exploring multi-institutional cooperation in joint planning of the construction of facilities.

Announcement of widespread changes in the personnel of the committee and its staff and of plans to expand cooperative activities was made Thursday (May 5) by Gordon N. Ray, chairman of the committee and University of Illinois provost and vice president.

Henning Larsen, staff director of the agency, known formally as the Committee on Institutional Cooperation of the Council of Ten and the University of Chicago, will be succeeded by John Hicks, assistant to the president of Purdue university.

Under terms approved by the presidents of the 11 institutions, Hicks will join the C.I.C. staff on July 1. Larsen, vice president and provost emeritus of the University of Illinois, and the new director will coordinate staff functions in July and August with Hicks taking charge of staff operations September 1. Hicks, who will remain on part-time assignment at Purdue, has been designated as "acting director".

C.I.C. staff offices have been located on the University of Illinois campus since formal operations began in November 1958. By September 1, offices will be fully moved to the Purdue campus, Lafayette, Ind.

Assisting Hicks as associate staff director will be Stanley Salwak, assistant to the provost at the University of Massachusetts. Salwak has been granted a two-year leave from his Massachusetts position.

C.I.C. presidents have appointed Fred H Harrington, vice president for academic affairs at the University of Wisconsin, to succeed Ray as committee chairman. The latter will leave the University of Illinois in July to become associate general secretary of the Guggenheim Foundation, New York City.

University of Minnesota representative on the committee is Stanley J. Wenberg, University vice president and administrative assistant.

Future study of physical facilities by the committee will be made possible by a new $50,000 grant from the Educational Facilities Laboratories, Inc., New York City, a nonprofit corporation established by the Ford Foundation in 1958. The grant will enable the 11 institutions to establish a University Facilities Research Center at Purdue university.

As described by Ray and Harold B. Gores, president of the Educational Facilities Laboratories, Inc., the chief functions of the research center will be as follows:

1. Serve as a clearinghouse for information about educational facilities among the 11 institutions.
2. Serve as a central repository for materials on educational facilities gathered from national sources.
3. Conduct research on matters of common interest and make findings available to other educational institutions.

The $50,000 grant will cover operations for only one year, but at the end of that period both the committee and the Educational Facilities Laboratories will review activities of the research center and consider possible continuation of the project.

The Purdue Research foundation will serve as fiscal agent for the new grant.

To this point all C.I.C. studies and projects have been financed by the Carnegie Corporation of New York. Chief objectives of the committee, which includes a representative from each of the 11 institutions, are to collect and analyze information concerning cooperative efforts and to indicate areas in which further cooperation can increase the effectiveness of the universities.

The committee recently voted to support joint action in a broad graduate training program in bioclimatology in Big Ten universities and the University of Chicago. In recent weeks it has also authorized support for the study of its seven colleges of pharmacy and has agreed to provide expenses for a conference on teacher training.

Implemented within the past year have been cooperative programs in geography and landscape architecture. Presently the committee is considering proposals for future Big Ten cooperation in medicine, nursing, radio broadcasting and regional fellowship offerings.

MORE JOBS, HIGHER SALARIES
AWAIT U OF M JUNE GRADUATES

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- University of Minnesota June graduates this year are finding more job opportunities than a year ago at higher-than-ever pay rates, according to school placement officials.

The male graduate with an advanced degree who has a flexible choice of geographic location has the best prospect of getting a job at top salary. But for all graduates the demand ranges from "much better to excellent", University placement directors report.

Engineers, scientists and teachers "never had it so good", they say. In business and journalism the demand is increased over last year, but not as great as three or four years ago.

Liberal arts graduates and science majors are as much in demand as engineers and business school graduates, according to Maxwell E. Alvord, placement director of the college of science, literature and the arts.

Most graduates in engineering, where the demand is excellent, are placed already or have had several offers, according to Paul A. Cartwright, associate professor and placement director of the institute of technology. Salaries range from $5,000 a year in civil service jobs to $8,400 in industry for technology graduates with some experience.

The heavy demand for engineers continues to exceed the supply despite a 10 per cent increase in the number of graduates this year, added Cartwright. Average age of the University's engineering graduates is 24.7 years; 43 per cent are married; and 99 per cent have provided some means of self-support for their University education.

There are on the average 10 jobs available to every graduate in teaching, according to Arnold S. Woestehoff, director of the bureau of recommendations. Elementary education, English, math, science and special education are fields of greatest demand. Salaries average $4,450 for nine months, or about $150 more than a year ago. The median salary for master's degree candidates is $5,700 and for doctor of philosophy graduates $6,700.

There are "limitless" opportunities in accounting for business school graduates, both locally and nationally, according to Mrs. Kathleen M. Anderson, placement manager of the school of business administration. Average salary range in all business fields is $350 to $550 a month ($4,200 to $7,600 annually).

Journalism graduates, although still among the lowest paid, will get starting pay averaging about $85 a week ($4,420 annually), an all-time high, says John C. Sim, assistant professor and placement director for the school of journalism. In public relations jobs, salaries will average $420 a month ($5,040 annually).

Locally, the job market is somewhat tighter than nationally, say placement directors, because the Twin Cities area is greatest in demand by graduates and there are more limited opportunities here in heavy industry than in eastern cities and states. Demand for teachers and journalists is greatest in rural areas and small cities in Minnesota.

From two-thirds to 85 per cent of the graduates in various fields, will take jobs in Minnesota, school officials predict.

'U' TO PUBLISH
STATE POLITICS
HANDBOOK MAY 18

A concise handbook, "Politics in Minnesota", by G. Theodore Mitau, will be published by the University of Minnesota Press May 18. The paperbound 140-page book is priced at $1.95. It is intended primarily to help college and high school students, members of volunteer study groups, political party workers and voters to understand the workings of politics in Minnesota. It is written from an impartial, non-partisan viewpoint.

The author is chairman of the political science department at Macalester college, St. Paul. He has served as a special research consultant to the Minnesota Historical society, the Minnesota Legislative interim commission on election laws, the Minnesota employment and security commissioner, and the U. S. Senate committee on unemployment problems.

William Anderson, University of Minnesota professor emeritus of political science, has written a foreword to the book. The volume contains chapters on "Party Patterns, Issues and Leaders"; "Election Law and Party Organization"; "A Non-Partisan Partisan Legislature"; and "Lobbies Before the Legislature". The book also includes biographical sketches of a number of Minnesota's Congressional delegates, a list of the governors of the state, tables showing voting statistics, and suggestions for further reading.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Jean Paul Mather, new president of the American College Testing program, Iowa City, will speak at the University of Minnesota's annual Education Day convocation at 11:30 a.m. Thursday (May 12) in Northrop Memorial auditorium. His topic will be "Education and the Liberal Things".

Mather's resignation last year as president of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, after the state senate voted down his request for faculty pay increases received nationwide attention. He took over the ACT post April 1, cutting short his previously-announced June resignation from Massachusetts.

In his six years as president of the University of Massachusetts, the Colorado-born economist brought in several new deans and professors, reorganized the school, almost doubled the operating budget and launched a new building program.

Mather attended the Universities of Colorado, Denver and Chicago and Princeton university. He received a master of business administration degree from Denver in 1948 and a master of arts degree from Princeton in 1951.

He taught at the Colorado School of Mines, the University of Denver and Princeton university and held several administrative positions before becoming provost of the University of Massachusetts in 1953 and president in 1954.

The American College Testing Program which Mather now heads, was established last year in 14 states, including Minnesota. The program consists of achievement tests for college-bound high school seniors. The University of Minnesota is one of 13 Minnesota colleges and Universities which are participating in the program this academic year.

His lecture will be sponsored by the University's department of concerts and lectures.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Kurt Meyer, world-noted German metallurgical engineer, will give the thirty-third Warren lecture at 3:30 p. m. Friday (May 13) in Murphy hall auditorium at the University of Minnesota. He will discuss "Magnetic Roasting and High-Intensity Magnetic Separation as Processes for the Preparation of Iron Ore" -- new methods for converting non-magnetic ores into high-grade concentrates.

Meyer is director of the Lurgi-company, Frankfurt, Germany, which has designed two pilot plants to be built on Minnesota's Mesabi iron range for processing semi-taconite ore by those methods. He is in the state to confer with officials of the M. A. Hanna company and the United States Steel corporation's Oliver Iron Mining division which will build the Cooley and Trout Lake plants, respectively.

The Warren lectureship was established in 1954 by Mrs. Alice R. Warren-Gaarden, a former member of the University Board of Regents, in memory of her former husband and father-in-law, Frank M. Warren and George H. Warren, pioneers in the development and Minnesota's forest and mineral resources.

PHYSICISTS FORM COMMISSION ON COLLEGE PHYSICS TEACHING

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Formation of a nationwide commission to plan a coordinated national program for the teaching of college physics was completed here Saturday (M ay 7) by 60 physicists representing 36 colleges and universities as well as industry and professional organizations.

The commission, to consist of 17 members including two ex-officio members from the American Association of Physics Teachers and one from the American Institute of Physics, will begin planning its program at once, it was decided by the physicists during a three-day conference at the University of Minnesota. The conference was the third such meeting sponsored by the American Association of Physics Teachers and supported by the National Science Foundation. Earlier sessions were held at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, and Washington university, St. Louis

The physicists proposed that the commission, tentatively named the Commission on College Physics, be associated with the American Association of Physics Teachers and be responsible to it but that it be authorized to plan its own program, to seek financial support and to employ necessary staff and consultants.

The commission will call upon the entire physics profession to help in the preparation of teaching aids, including books, laboratory apparatus, demonstration equipment and films and will organize investigations into such problems as curricula, teacher training and supply and apparatus development and distribution. Universities and colleges will be invited to participate in the collaborative effort and to support participation of their staff members in the program. Support funds will be sought from governmental and private foundations.

Specific phases of the program will be planned and carried out by individual physicists, by the professional associations of physicists and by the commission and its various sub-committees. It is expected that several hundred physicists will be participating in the program when it reaches its full level of activity.

GROSSES $20,246,
$3,800 over '59

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

The 1960 University of Minnesota Campus Carnival grossed $20,246 in its two-day stand, May 6-7, at the University Field House, according to Harold P. Strom, student activities bureau carnival adviser. This was a $3,800 gain over last year's figures.

This year's "Carny" attendance figures also were up over last year's, Strom said, with a total figure of 20,641 admissions -- 4,000 more than in 1959.

Biggest all-campus student participation event on the University's calendar, "Carny" combines fun with profits for the University's scholarship funds. Tentatively allocated funds from this year's profits will include $1,250 to the international exchange scholarship, $500 to SPAN (Student Project for Amity Among Nations), $500 to the social service contingency fund, $200 to the Dean Elmer W. Johnson memorial scholarship and $100 to the freshman camp fund. Of the remainder of the net income, 95 per cent will be allocated to the social service council scholarship fund and 5 per cent to SPAN.

MINNESOTA 'U' TO ESTABLISH PILOT PROGRAM OF CONTINUING EDUCATION FOR WOMEN UNDER
$110,000 CARNEGIE CORPORATION GRANT

NEWS SERVICE--214 ADM.BLDG.
MINNEAPOLIS 14, MINNESOTA
FEderal 2-8158 EXT. 6700
MAY 11, 1960

(FOR RELEASE 11 A.M. THURSDAY, MAY 12)

Minneapolis --- Regents of the University of Minnesota today (May 12) accepted a $110,000 grant from the Carnegie Corporation of New York to establish a three-year pilot program of "continuing education for women".

"The program, which will get underway formally July 1, is aimed at providing the kind of education for women which will make them happier and more socially productive throughout their adult lives," according to Mrs. Elizabeth L. Cless, assistant to the dean of the University's general extension division. Mrs. Cless, who directs the divisions's liberal arts programs, and Mrs. Virginia L. Senders, psychology instructor, will direct the continuing education program.

The program will involve both undergraduate and extension offerings. The University is the first educational institution in the United States to initiate such a plan with continuity through the undergraduate, graduate and extension levels.

On the undergraduate level, the program will be aimed at helping women to plan for multiple roles in later life and to realize that they no longer have to choose between a home and a career, according to Mrs. Senders.

"Studies show that the average woman in 1958 had her last child when she was 26 years old and could expect to live to the age of 75," Mrs. Senders pointed out. "Therefore, her last child was in school when she was 32. This means she has 43 years of life remaining for which she often has made no plans."

The undergraduate program will help able women to foresee this long period and to prepare for it, said Mrs. Senders. "Special counseling will help them to make realistic vocational choices and to plan undergraduate and graduate programs that will permit carry-over through the family years. Special attention also will be paid to women who drop out of college before graduation."

The extension program will include fuller use of counseling, experimental program offerings, expansion of proficiency examinations and continuous record-keeping for women enrolled in the continuing education program, including records of non-credit accomplishments.

"Objective of the extension program will be to make it easier for adult women to contribute to society either by furthering their formal education leading to a specific profession, to broaden their activities within their communities or to gain personal satisfaction or fulfillment," according to Mrs. Cless.

This objective is four-fold:

1. To make it easier for women who drop out of college or university to return to formal education and complete their requirements for a degree.
2. To keep lines open between the University and the home-bound mother, so she may continue her education.
3. To amplify current offerings in professional refresher training.
4. To provide expanded horizons for women whose children are grown and find they have time for which they had not planned.

"It is widely recognized that the United States urgently needs to develop and utilize all possible resources of trained or trainable manpower, and particularly needs to make use of its gifted and high-ability individuals," Mrs. Cless pointed out. "Manpower wastage occurs when able people do not obtain or use education to the limit of their abilities and when trained people drop out of socially productive activity, whether it be the labor market or volunteer enterprise. This wastage is particularly common among women. The principle objective of the continuing education program is to make possible the full utilization of our resources of able and educated womanpower."

The University, through its general extension division, has provided continuation courses for women for several years. This new program will be an attempt to expand these previous offerings and to reschedule them to fit into the schedules of women in careers or homemaking.

(FOR RELEASE 11 A.M., THURSDAY, MAY 12)

Minneapolis --- Kenneth E. Clark, University of Minnesota professor and chairman of the psychology department, today (Thursday, May 12) was appointed associate dean of the University's graduate school by the Board of Regents. The appointment will become effective July 1, 1960.

Clark will succeed John G. Darley, who resigned from the post last year to take a two-year leave of absence to become executive secretary of the American Psychological association in Washington. He will serve with Bryce Low Crawford, Jr., dean-elect of the graduate school and present chairman of the University's school of chemistry, who has been named to succeed the retiring Dean Theodore C. Blegen.

A member of the University faculty since 1940, Clark is a graduate of Ohio State university where he earned a bachelor of science degree in 1935, a master of arts degree in 1937 and the doctor of philosophy degree in 1940. He was on leave of absence from 1942 to 1946 while serving as a psychologist with the Army and Navy. He served as a classification officer for the Navy during part of that period.

Clark has directed a nationwide study of the research and professional activities of psychologists and is the author of a book on the subject. His research activities and teaching have been primarily in the field of psychological measurement, especially interest and opinion measurement.

The associate dean-elect has been directing a long-term study since 1946 of the vocational interests of Navy enlisted men and civilian skilled tradesmen under a contract from the Office of Naval Research. He is president of the American Board of Examiners in Professional Psychology, chairman of the policy and planning board of the American Psychological association and editor-elect of the Journal of Applied Psychology.

Clark was born December 18, 1914, in New Madison, Ohio. He is married and the father of three children. The family lives at 526 Seventh street, S. E., Minneapolis.

Dr. and Mrs. George W. Crile, Jr., deep sea adventurers, will present and narrate their color movie, "Sunken Silver", at 4 p.m. Wednesday (May 18) in the Minnesota Museum of Natural History auditorium at the University of Minnesota. The program will be open free to the public.

"Sunken Silver" is a film of an underwater adventure in the Caribbean sea in which the Criles salvaged the Spanish galleon "Genevesa" off Jamaica and dived into the sunken city of Port Royal. Other sequences include the legends of gold and silver from the Grand Cayman Islands to the Silver Shoals off Haiti.

Deep-sea diving has been a hobby with the Criles for 25 years. Their search for sunken treasure has led to salvage and identification of the British ship, H. M. S. LOOE, sunk in 1742; and salvage of 25 elephant tusks from the slave ship "The Ivory Wreck", a cannon dating to the days of Columbus and glassware from the Mediterranean sea dating back to the First Century. Several of their relics are on exhibition in the Smithsonian institute in Washington, D. C.

Their four children have accompanied them on many diving expeditions.

Dr. Crile, who is chief of the general surgical division at the Cleveland (Ohio) clinic, also will give a lecture on "Some Biologic Aspects of the Cancer Problem with Special Reference to Cancers of the Thyroid and Breast" at 2:30 p.m. Thursday (May 19) in the Todd amphitheater.

Dr. Crile is the author of several medical books, and he and his wife, Jane, co-authored the book, "Treasure Diving Holidays".

While visiting the University, the Criles will be guests of Dr. and Mrs. Owen H. Wangensteen, 2832 West River road, Minneapolis. Dr. Wangensteen is chairman of the University's surgery department.

The Criles' film-lecture will be sponsored by the University's department of concerts and lectures.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Paul Victor Grambsch, dean of the Tulane university school of business administration, Thursday (May 12) was appointed dean of the University of Minnesota school of business administration by the Board of Regents. The appointment will become effective July 1.

Grambsch will succeed Dean Richard L. Kozelka, who announced his resignation from the administrative post last June in order to return to teaching. Kozelka, who will remain on the University faculty, has been head of the school of business administration since 1945.

The new dean was nominated by President J. L. Morrill on the unanimous recommendation of a six-member faculty-alumni advisory committee headed by Dean Theodore C. Blegen of the graduate school. President Morrill reported to the Regents that President-elect O. Meredith Wilson also had approved the appointment.

Grambsch has been dean of the Tulane school of business administration at New Orleans since 1956. He was associate dean in 1954-55 and acting dean in 1955-56.

Born March 14, 1919, in Dayton, Ohio, Grambsch grew up in Milwaukee, Wis. He received a bachelor of arts degree from North Central college, Naperville, Ill., in 1941. He was a fellow at the University of Mississippi in 1946-47, where he received his master of arts degree in 1947. He did further graduate work at Indiana university, where he earned the doctor of business administration degree in 1955.

Grambsch's special fields of interest are management, industrial relations and economics. He is a member of the Society for the Advancement of Management, the American Economics association, the Industrial Relations Research association, the Southern Economic association and the New Orleans Chamber of Commerce.

During World War II, Grambsch served as an officer in the United States Naval Reserve.

The dean-elect is married and has eight children.

A total of 139 candidates were considered for the deanship by the faculty advisory committee.

ROTC REVIEW
AT 2 P.M. FRIDAY
IN 'U' STADIUM

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Families and friends of University of Minnesota Reserve Officers Training Corps will be honored guests when more than 700 Army, Navy and Air Force ROTC cadets and midshipmen take part in their second annual combined review at 2 p. m. Friday (May 20) in Memorial stadium. The review will be held in observance of national Armed Forces' Day.

The three University vice presidents, Malcolm M. Willey, Laurance R. Lunden and Stanley J. Wenberg, and Professor Rodney C. Loehr, chairman of the University Senate ROTC committee, will represent the University at the review.

"Taking the review" will be Colonel Robert O. Bowen, USMC, University professor of naval science and NROTC commanding officer, who will retire from military service July 1 after 28 years of active duty. He will be accompanied by the commanding officers of the other two ROTC units, Air Force Colonel Arthur W. Dern, professor of air science, and Army Colonel Roy K. Kauffman, professor of military science and tactics.

Also in the reviewing party will be representatives of the feminine sponsors of the three corps, Carole E. Wood, 1461 Wynne, St. Paul, Army ROTC Corps of Sponsors president; Grace Ann Kolenda, 1721 3rd ave., Minneapolis, Navy color girl; and Lyn Torvik, 1209 7th St., S. E., Minneapolis, USAF ROTC auxiliary, Angel's Flight, commander.

Leading their units in the combined review will be Army Cadet Colonel Charles F. Jones, 3232 Colfax ave., S., Minneapolis; Navy Midshipman Captain Martin L. Brandtner, 5532 12th ave., S., Minneapolis; and Air Force Cadet Colonel David B. Englund, 3720 Park ave., Minneapolis.

The top four annual ROTC awards will be presented to the cadets and midshipmen at the review. Presenting the interservice athletic trophy to the unit compiling the best record in inter-ROTC competition for the year will be Colonel Bowen.

Minneapolis district court Judge, Levi M. Hall, will present the John Watson Memorial watch to Army Cadet Colonel Charles F. Jones, a senior in the University's Arts college. This award, sponsored by the Minnesota Department of the American Legion, is given by William E. G. Watson, Minneapolis attorney, in memory of his son, Lieutenant John Watson (Distinguished Military Cross), a University law school graduate of the class of 1942 who died heroically during the North African landings in World War II.

Brigadier General John R. Moe, USMC (Ret.), president of the Minneapolis Council of the Navy League, will present a watch, the league's annual award, to Midshipman Cadet Captain Martin L. Brandtner, also an Arts college senior. This award is made to the midshipman who has shown outstanding aptitude for a naval career.

Mrs. Lawrence C. Lundberg, 3812 48th ave., S., Minneapolis, will present the Lawrence C. Lundberg memorial plaque to Air Force Cadet Major Robert D. McLeod, 4949 Thomas ave., S., Minneapolis, a senior in the institute of technology.

The 90-member joint-services band, under the direction of Midshipman 1/c John A. Schmidt, will play for the review which will be preceded by an 11:30 a.m. luncheon for all cadets and their guests in Coffman Memorial Union.

INTERNSHIPS GIVEN
2 STATE STUDENTS

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Political party internships of $600 each for the summer of 1960 have been granted to two Minnesota college students by the Minnesota Citizenship Clearing House at the University of Minnesota and the state's two political parties, according to Edward A. Howe, executive director of the clearing house.

David Lebedoff, 2501 - 12 ave. N., Minneapolis, a University of Minnesota senior, has been selected to serve in the Democratic-Farmer-Labor party's state central committee office. George Mattson, Lindstrom, Minn., a Carleton college junior, will intern in the Minnesota Republican state office.

"The purpose of the internship program is to encourage potential party leaders to be politically active after graduation from college by providing them, while in college, with the opportunity to receive education and experience in the practical application of textbook theory," according to Howe. "The program is part of an over-all aim of the national Citizenship Clearing House, with which the Minnesota organization is affiliated, to strengthen the nation's two-party system, and through it democratic society, by encouraging college trained men and women to participate more actively in the major political parties."

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- The Minnesota Medical Foundation, a non-profit organization of physicians, alumni and citizens supporting the University of Minnesota medical school, has announced adoption of an expanded support program for the 1960-61 school year.

Its board of trustees is completing plans to raise $62,500 from members and private donors which would make possible:

Up to 40 scholarship awards of $500 each to deserving medical students.

A distinguished service professorship to be awarded to a selected member of the medical school faculty.

Expansion of the medical bulletin, official journal of the medical school, with revised format.

Awarding of research stipends to medical students during vacations and periods of elective medical education.

Establishment of a special basic research fund to support the work and ideas of young investigators at the medical school.

Dr. Herman E. Drill of Hopkins, president of the foundation, said enactment of the total program would depend on availability of funds, but that the 1,600-member organization had rededicated its present resources and energies to the long-term assistance of the University medical school at the University.

He named Alan W. Giles, Minneapolis life insurance executive, as chairman of the foundation's fund raising committee. Other committee heads are Dr. H. Mead Cavert, scholarships awards; Dr. Wesley W. Spink, editorial; Dr. E. B. Brown, Jr., membership; Dr. R. S. Ylvisaker, liaison; Dr. John A. Anderson, research awards; and Malcolm B. McDonald, finance.

"Our program," said Dr. Drill, "is designed to help the medical school maintain its high standards in the training of tomorrow's physicians. Only a portion of this increasingly costly process can be met by legislative appropriation. To fill the gap, the nation's 85 medical schools have already come to rely heavily on voluntary gifts from alumni, citizens, industry and foundations."

He said the Minnesota Medical Foundation's new program has emerged from recommendations of a 1958 faculty committee which surveyed the present and future needs of the University of Minnesota medical school. The committee was headed by Dr. Arnold Lazarow, head of the anatomy department and vice president of the foundation.

The foundation recently received a $2,000 grant from the Minnesota State Medical association with which to launch and administer a special emergency loan fund for medical students.

Minneapolis --- New chairmen for two departments in the college of science, literature and the arts of the University of Minnesota have been appointed by Dean E. W. McDiarmid.

The two -- Eugene H. Falk in the Romance languages department and Kenneth MacCorquodale in the psychology department -- will assume the chairmanships on June 15.

MacCorquodale, who has been an instructor and professor of psychology at the University since 1946, received bachelor of arts, master of arts and doctor of philosophy degrees from the University. Called by students "an excellent teacher", according to Dean McDiarmid, he has recently become widely known for his experimental work, under National Science Foundation grants, in the psychology of the learning process.

Professor MacCorquodale will succeed Kenneth E. Clark, recently appointed associate dean of the graduate school, as psychology chairman. He lives at the Campus Club in Coffman Memorial Union on the campus.

Professor Falk, born in Czechoslovakia, was educated in universities in his native country and in France and England. He came to the United States after World War II to join the staff of the University of Bridgeport, Conn., and joined the Minnesota staff in 1952. He was advanced to the rank of professor three years ago.

French language and literature and comparative foreign literature are the fields in which Falk has taught and researched. He lives with his family at 2724 West River Road, Minneapolis.

Walter T. Pattison, Romance languages chairman, has resigned from the post as of June 15, to devote full time to teaching and research.

FOR JUNE 21-23

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- New developments and research in the teaching of reading will be discussed at the University of Minnesota's annual summer reading conference June 21-23 at the Center for Continuation Study.

The conference is designed for classroom and remedial teachers, reading consultants and supervisors and college teachers of reading methods. Group meetings will be held on teaching comprehension skills, helping adolescent readers, research in personality and reading skills and teaching word recognition.

Lecture-demonstrations of analysis and teaching of word recognition skills will be held in cooperation with the University's psycho-educational clinic and the Tuttle school in Minneapolis.

Visiting faculty members will include Arno Jewett, specialist for language arts in the United States Office of Education, Washington, D. C.; Russell Stauffer, director of the University of Delaware's reading-study center and editor of "The Reading Teacher"; and Helen Huus, associate professor of education at the University of Pennsylvania.

Registration for the conference may be made through the Center for Continuation Study. The fee is $7.50.

UNIVERSITY 'FAMILY' TO HONOR
MORRILL AT DINNER MAY 24

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- University of Minnesota President J. L. Morrill will be the guest of honor at a University "family" dinner Tuesday, May 24, in Coffman Memorial Union. The 6:30 p.m. dinner in the main ballroom will be held in observance of his coming retirement June 30.

Representatives from many of the University's varied interests and departments will pay their respects to the retiring president whose book, "The Ongoing State University", will be published by the University Press the following day (Wednesday, May 25).

The Rev. James Boren, University Presbyterian center director and advisor to Presbyterian students on the campus, will deliver the invocation, and the University Men's Glee club will provide music for the program honoring President Morrill. Speaking for the University Regents will be Ray J. Quinlivan, St. Cloud, University Board of Regents chairman. Graduate school Dean Theodore C. Blegen, who also will retire from the University June 30, will present the faculty's respects to the man who has guided the University for the last 15 years.

James A. Reese, Marshall, outgoing Minnesota Student association president, will speak for the student body, and Walfred L. Pedersen, civil service senior personnel representative, and Dr. Victor Johnson, Mayo Foundation director, will represent their University divisions.

President and Mrs. Morrill will leave July 1 for New York where he will take over his new position as a consultant to the Ford Foundation later in the summer.

STUDY PROGRAM

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

The University of Minnesota correspondence study department has issued a new bulletin for 1960-62, listing and describing the approximately 300 college and high school courses, credit and non-credit, which the department will offer during the next two years.

The bulletin also gives information about applying correspondence courses to degrees and certificates. Among the new certificates which can be earned by home study is a 45-credit program in world affairs. It requires courses in political science and history and elective credits in economics, sociology and related fields.

New courses which will be available during the coming year include: culture and personality; introduction to art; technical terms of science, medicine and the humanities; grammar review; beginning Japanese; and Chinese government and politics.

All correspondence courses are open to qualified persons.

In the year ending July 1, 1959, new registrations in correspondence study courses totaled 5,145, an increase of 3 per cent over 1958 and 70 per cent more than in 1955. Enrollees represent all walks of life and are from all parts of the United States and several foreign countries, according to F. Lloyd Hansen, director of the correspondence study department.

Copies of the new bulletin can be obtained from the Correspondence Study department, 251 Nicholson hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 14, Minn.

'SELF-HELP' FOR AGED NOTED
AT 'U' CENTER INSTITUTE

NEWS SERVICE--214 ADM.BLDG.
MINNEAPOLIS 14, MINNESOTA
FEderal 2-8158 EXT. 6700
MAY 20, 1960

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

There is a growing emphasis upon maintaining persons over 65 in the community and postponing institutional care as long as possible, a University of Minnesota professor reported Monday (May 23).

At the same time institutions themselves are putting more emphasis on "self-help and recreation activities", said Professor John E. Anderson of the institute of child development and welfare.

Anderson opened a three-day institute on "The Care of the Aged in Geriatric Homes" at the University's Center for Continuation Study.

The "self-help" plan not only proves less costly for the institution than programs of high level of service but contributes to the happiness and well-being of the residents, said Anderson.

The ideal institution for older persons, as outlined by Anderson, "provides sections in which the care and activities are virtually on a self-help basis and almost like living in a modern apartment on your own, and then moves on to sections in which supplemental service is given, to final sections in which complete service is given for the bedridden.

"There also is growing emphasis upon facilities for couples who can live together to be followed by facilities for individual survivors."

Anderson attributed the new trends and changing concepts in programs for the aged to the changing characteristics of the older population itself.

Recent evidence suggests, he said, that the proportion of individuals between 65 and 75 who remain active in the community without entering institutions is steadily increasing.

"The actual number of people over 75 who need institutional care, however, is increasing because of the increase in the older population and the lengthening of life," he pointed out.

"We now live much longer than we used to due to the very marked improvements in medicine and in our standard of living....We now accept retirement as a normal procedure and most people retire in reasonably good health. Our society is less strongly work-oriented, and our population of older people has increased markedly.

"Studies of retired persons made 30 years ago," he added, "showed them generally to be in poor health. In fact, this was a common reason for retirement. Whereas a very recent and extensive study has shown that retired persons are now as healthy as non-retired persons of comparable age."

The institute will continue through Wednesday noon.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

"The Nature and Purpose of Education in America Today" will be discussed by Gisela Konopka, University of Minnesota social work professor, in a talk at 1:30 p. m. Thursday (May 26) on KUOM, University radio station.

The speech is a reply by the German-born professor to the accusations against American education which followed the launching of the Russian Sputnik in 1957. She will attempt to answer charges that American education is inferior to European education.

Mrs. Konopka and her husband, Gerhardt, escaped from Germany early in World War II after a year's imprisonment for their anti-Nazi activities. They fled first to Austria and France and came to the United States in 1941. After studying social work at the University of Pittsburgh, Professor Konopka joined the University of Minnesota staff in 1947.

She will visit Holland next year under a Fulbright grant to study the institutional treatment of emotionally disturbed children. She also will attend the International Conference of Social Welfare in Rome in January.

GROUP URGES
MEDICAL CARE
PLANS FOR AGED

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minnesota administrators of homes for the aged Wednesday (May 25) urged enactment of medical care programs for the aged either through public or private insurance or other group plans. They declined to endorse any single bill now before Congress providing such assistance, but urged further study of all programs proposed.

This was one of several resolutions adopted at a three-day University of Minnesota institute on care of the aged in geriatric homes which was held in the Center for Continuation Study. The Minnesota Association of Geriatric Homes co-sponsored the institute. Resolutions were drafted for the Governor's conference in August which will precede the White House Conference on Aging in January.

The institute also urged:

Low-cost public housing in programs to help older persons remain independent longer.

Non-discriminatory employment practices for older persons.

Classification of homes for the aged as a group separated from boarding homes, nursing homes and hospitals in setting up standards of practices and procedures and training of personnel.

(FOR RELEASE SUNDAY, MAY 29, 1960)

The Rt. Rev. William R. Moody, D. D., Episcopal bishop of Lexington, Ky., will speak at the University of Minnesota baccalaureate exercise at 3 p. m. Sunday (June 5) in Northrop Memorial auditorium. His subject will be "In an Age of Wings".

Bishop Moody, a widely known preacher and author, has been bishop of Lexington since 1945. He was born in Columbus, Miss., and received the doctor of divinity degree from Hampden-Sydney college, Hampden-Sydney, Va. He was graduated from Virginia Theological seminary and did graduate work at Columbia university, University of the South and George Washington university.

He was head of the English department of Greenbriar Military school in West Virginin in 1921-23; rector of Silver Spring Parish in Maryland in 1928-33; and instructor of sacred studies at St. Albion's Cathedral School for Boys in 1933-39. He served as rector of Christ Church, Baltimore, Md., from 1939 until his consecration as Bishop of Lexington in 1945.

Bishop Moody reactivated the Episcopal Theological seminary in Kentucky in 1951, and has served there since that time as rector and instructor of Old Testament.

He is the author of many books, including "Understanding the Book of Revelation", "A Candle in the House" and "The Lord of Life". His meditations on the Seven Last Words, "In the Cross of Christ I Glory", are used throughout the Episcopal church.

Members of the June graduating class will march in academic costume up the mall and into the auditorium for the baccalaureate service, where University President J. L. Morrill also will address them.

After the service, the seniors and their relatives and friends will be the guests of President and Mrs. Morrill at a Senior Reception on the lawn bordering the Center for Continuation Study, the Minnesota Museum of Natural History and Folwell hall. In case of rain, the reception will be held in Coffman Memorial Union main ballroom.

MORRILL TO RETIRE
AFTER 15 YEARS
AT UNIVERSITY HELM

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- President J. L. Morrill of the University of Minnesota will step down June 30 after 15 years at the helm of the University. He and Mrs. Morrill will leave July 1 for New York where he will take over his new position as a consultant to the Ford Foundation later in the summer.

During his career in higher education, the University's eighth president has been recognized as one of the nation's leading spokesmen for the land-grant institutions and state universities. Under his leadership, the University has expanded on several fronts -- more than doubling its enrollment, constructing new buildings and adding new campuses, expanding its curricula in many major colleges and enhancing its prestige in many fields of education and research.

President Morrill has seen the University through its period of greatest growth when its enrollment mushroomed from 11,396 in 1945 to 28,312 in the postwar boom and leveled off at 26,538 in 1959. Extension of the University's teaching and research programs to various parts of the state came about through the addition of the Duluth campus in 1947, establishment of the University's Rosemount Research Center and Experiment Station in 1948, creation of a new school of agriculture at Waseca in 1954 and the decision to establish college courses at the Morris campus (West Central School and Experiment Station) in the fall of 1960.

In 1957, the State Legislature appropriated funds for purchase of land west of the Mississippi river to expand the Minneapolis campus. The 1959 Legislature appropriated funds for the construction of the first buildings on the west campus.

Major changes which have occurred in the colleges under President Morrill's administration include the expansion of the four-year curricula in the institute of technology and college of pharmacy to five-year curricula, establishment of the college of veterinary medicine and raising the status of the forestry, home economics, architecture and physics departments to schools.

Born Sept. 24, 1891, in Marion, Ohio, President Morrill attended Ohio State university where he was graduated in 1913. Before entering the field of education, he was a reporter and acting managing editor of the Cleveland Press for several years. From 1917-1919, he served as executive secretary of the United States Food Administration in Ohio and the Ohio Branch Council of National Defense. He became alumni secretary and editor of Ohio State university in 1919 and instructor in journalism and education in 1925. Morrill was named junior dean of the University's college of education in 1928 and vice president of the university in 1932.

In 1942, he left Ohio State to become president of the University of Wyoming until 1945, when he came to Minnesota.

President Morrill has been awarded honorary degrees by 13 colleges and universities. He was decorated as commander of the Royal Order of the North Star by the King of Sweden in 1946 and received a certificate in recognition of meritorious service in behalf of American education by the United States Office of Education in 1958.

PARENTS URGED TO TAKE HONEST
APPROACH IN SEX EDUCATION

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

"If there ever was a time when children could grow up 'innocent' that time is certainly gone," a University of Minnesota instructor said Thursday (May 26).

Mrs. Elizabeth Peterson of the Institute of Child Development and Welfare's parent education staff told a University parent-teacher institute that "today's children have sex thrown at them constantly -- on television, movies, radio, comics, advertising, newspapers".

"So, our choice," she continued, "is not whether they should get sex education, but whether we as parents should give them correct information and vocabulary in a wholesome setting or let them pick up facts wherever they can."

Mrs. Peterson urged parents to take an "honest and straightforward" approach in sex education.

"When a child asks a question, which is likely to be at the ages of three or four, he is old enough to get a simple but correct answer," she declared... "Questions should be answered casually by either parent when they are asked and the child should be given only the answer to his question because he will come back with other questions when he is ready for more information."

Mrs. Peterson spoke on the opening day of a two-day parent and family life education institute at the Center for Continuation Study, co-sponsored by the Minnesota Congress of Parents and Teachers.

"Because today's children mature a year and a half to two years earlier than they did 50 years ago, we must be sure they get the information early enough," she asserted.

"A good rule to follow is to precede the need for information with information. Before school starts the child should know where babies come from; before boys and girls mature sexually they should be prepared for the changes that go with growing up."

As to the question of who should give sex education in the home -- the mother or the father -- Mrs. Peterson observed:

"Whoever is 'stuck' with a question, either the mother or the father, should give the answer."

The Continuation Center institute is the final in a series of three parent and family life education institutes conducted by the University during May. Earlier sessions were held May 19-20 at Moorhead State college and May 23-24 on the University's Duluth campus.

CAMPAIGN SONGS
SCHEDULED ON 'U'
MUSIC TELECAST

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

"American Presidential Election Campaign Songs" from the recent stereo blasts of "You Are My Sunshine" in the Wisconsin primary election back through the decades to the songs sung by the partisans of Lincoln, Harrison and Tyler will be the theme of this week's "At Home With Music" program Wednesday (June 1).

The University of Minnesota music department program is broadcast at 9:30 p. m. Wednesdays by KTCA-TV, Channel 2.

The final broadcast on this year's "At Home With Music" schedule will be an all-Chopin program to be played Wednesday, June 8, by pianist Paul Freed, according to Johannes Riedel, program director and commentator. The program, in commemoration of the 150th anniversary of Chopin's birth, will include a mazurka, three preludes, an impromptu and three etudes, Riedel said.

The broadcasts of "At Home With Music" will be resumed next, Riedel said, with the opening of the University's fall quarter in October.

14,180 STATE HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS
IN FIRST COLLEGE TESTING PROGRAM

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Eighteen Minnesota colleges and universities and 14,180 Minnesota high school seniors participated in the American College Testing Program during its first year, 1959-60, according to Professor Ralph F. Berdie, director of the University of Minnesota student counseling bureau and state coordinator of the ACT program.

Nationwide, 368 colleges and universities and 125,000 students took part in the program during the school year nearing completion.

The ACT tests are designed to provide comparable intellectual data on all high school seniors seeking entrance to colleges in the participating states and to yield an indication of each student's academic ability, according to Professor Berdie. The four-hour tests cover work in English, mathematics, social studies and natural science.

Test scores are used to determine college admissions and scholarship aids and as a basis for counseling. Each student's results were sent not only to participating colleges but also to other colleges throughout the country named by the student as ones in which he was interested.

More than 500 high schools in the state also received reports of scores made by their students, Berdie said, and the schools in turn receive duplicate score reports to distribute to individual students.

For the students, the tests are aimed to provide help in planning further education and careers. For the schools, said Professor Berdie, the tests provide a means to identify talented high school seniors.

The ACT program was founded by E. F. Lindquist, education professor and director of the Iowa testing program, and T. R. McCarrel, registrar and director of admissions, both at the State University of Iowa.

Students planning to apply for admission to Minnesota colleges which require ACT tests will be able to take the tests this summer on local college campuses.

'U' CLUB SEEKS BOOKS TO SEND KOREAN SCHOOLS

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

The University of Minnesota's International Relations club is conducting its annual book drive for Korean colleges and universities through Saturday (June 4).

Several thousand books are needed by the 61 schools in Korea, according to Carlyle Hystad, International Relations club president. Libraries of many of these colleges and universities, which have a total enrollment of 79,000, were destroyed in the Korean war.

Books may be left at the International Relations center, Room 310 Ford hall on the Minneapolis campus, or in any of several collection boxes on campus, said Hystad.

Past drives have netted an average of 1,000 books for every college and university. Books collected will be distributed in Korea through the Asia Foundation.

18 'U' STAFFERS
WRITE FOR NEW ENCYCLOPEDIA

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Eighteen University of Minnesota faculty members have contributed to the forthcoming McGraw-Hill Encyclopedia of Science and Technology.

The new 15-volume 9,300-page encyclopedia will be published November 15 by the McGraw-Hill Book Company, Inc., New York.

The University's plant pathology department in the institute of agriculture has provided eight contributors to the new encyclopedia of which Professor Emeritus Elvin C. Stakman of that department acted as consulting editor. Contributing professors include the department head, Jonas J. Christensen, and Clyde M. Christensen, Carl J. Eide, David W. French, Helen Hart, Thomas H. King, John B. Rowell and H.D. Thurston, who left the University in 1958 on a Rockefeller Fund mission to Colombia, South America.

Contributors from other University departments and schools are: Professors Adrianus J. Dekker, electrical engineering; Samuel Eddy, zoology; Edward L. Hill, physics; Herbert S. Isbin, chemical engineering; Thomas L. Joseph, Sr., mines and metallurgy; Alfred O. Nier, school of physics chairman; James J. Ryan, mechanical engineering; Lemen J. Wells, anatomy; and Dr. Wesley W. Spink, medicine.

The new encyclopedia has been prepared from the selections made by the 62 consulting editors, all authorities in their respective fields, who have worked with the encyclopedia staff in preparing a set of more than 300 charts outlining today's knowledge in the fields of life, physical and earth science and in engineering. From these charts, topics and outlines for the 7,200 articles were extracted.

'U' AIR ROTC
CADET RECEIVES
LINK SCHOLARSHIP

A University of Minnesota United States Air Force ROTC cadet, Peter John Torvik, is the recipient of one of the two top Air Force scholarship awards in the nation, according to Colonel Arthur W. Dern, University air science professor and AFROTC commander.

A native of Underwood, Minn., Torvik, who lives with his wife and nine-months-old son at 1209 7th st., S.E., Minneapolis, has received the $1,500 Link Foundation Arnold Air society scholarship. The two Link scholarships are awarded annually for graduate work in the field of aviation, and may be used in any qualified university in the country.

The winner must be an Air Force ROTC cadet recommended for graduate study by his school dean, a member of the Arnold Air society and must be intending to do graduate work in the field of aviation. Nominations are made to the Link Foundation by the cadets' commanding officers.

In addition to the Link Foundation award, Torvik, a senior student in the institute of technology who has been the University AFROTC cadet major and squadron commander this year, also has been named a "Distinguished Military Graduate" and probably will be offered a regular commission in the United States Air Force immediately after his graduation June 11. He then would be assigned to the Air Force Institute of Technology, Dayton, Ohio, Colonel Dern said, with duty at the University of Minnesota for two years of graduate work for the master of science degree in mechanics and materials.

Formal presentation of the Link Foundation Arnold Air society scholarship will be made Sept. 24 to Torvik before the Air Force Reserve Officers' association annual convention in San Francisco.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), New York, N. Y., will receive the University of Minnesota Outstanding Achievement Award Sunday, June 26, "in recognition of high professional attainment".

The award, which is made to Minnesota alumni who have distinguished themselves in their chosen fields, will be presented to Wilkins at the closing session of the fifty-first annual NAACP convention at 3 p. m. in Northrop Memorial auditorium on the Minneapolis campus. Malcolm M. Willey, University vice president for academic administration, will present the Outstanding Achievement gold medal and citation to Wilkins. Other NAACP meetings, which begin June 21, will be held in the St. Paul, Minn., auditorium.

A 1923 graduate of the University, Wilkins was born Aug. 30, 1901, in St. Louis, Mo. Before joining the NAACP staff in 1931 as assistant executive secretary, he served as managing editor of the Kansas City Call for eight years. He was editor of "The Crisis" magazine, official NAACP organ, in 1934-49.

Wilkins became acting secretary of the NAACP in 1949, administrator in 1950 and executive secretary in 1955. He was chairman of the National Emergency Civil Rights Mobilization in 1949-50. This was an organization of more than 100 groups who sent 4,218 delegates to Washington, D. C., in January, 1950, to support fair employment practice legislation and other civil rights bills before Congress.

The social welfare executive has lectured before clubs, forums, college groups, associations and conventions throughout the country on various aspects of race relations. He also has written several pamphlets and magazine articles.

Wilkins is married and lives at 147-15 Village Road, Jamaica, N. Y.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

The fifth annual University of Minnesota juvenile officers' institute, a 10-week training course, will begin Monday (June 13) and continue through August 19 at the Center for Continuation Study on the Minneapolis campus.

Designed to help law enforcement officers control juvenile delinquency through more effective handling of children and youth, the institute carries 24 University extension credits. Each graduate also will receive a certificate of completion.

Faculty members will include University professors, law enforcement officers and leaders in the correctional field.

The eight courses to be given during the 10-week institute include: administration of police juvenile programs, legal aspects of delinquency control, growth and change of the child, conditioning factors in juvenile delinquency, procedures and agencies for the treatment of delinquent behavior, procedures and agencies for the prevention of delinquency, techniques of training and teaching and public speaking.

All officers participating in the course will take night and day duty in patrolling, interviewing and handling juvenile problems with the juvenile bureaus of the Minneapolis and St. Paul police departments. Field trips will be made to the laboratories of the Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension and to training schools, juvenile courts, child guidance clinics, settlement houses and other public and private agencies serving juveniles in the Twin Cities area.

The institute is co-sponsored by the University, the Minnesota State Juvenile Officers' association and 13 other state agencies and associations. It grew out of recommendations made several years ago by the Minnesota Youth Conservation commission that Minnesota police officers take training in juvenile delinquency control.

'U' REGENTS APPROVE $36½ MILLION
1960-61 GENERAL OPERATING BUDGET

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Regents of the University of Minnesota Saturday (June 11) approved a $36,509,509 General University Fund operating budget for the fiscal year 1960-61. This represents an increase of $1,814,533 over the current 1959-60 budget, according to L. R. Lunden; vice president for business administration and secretary of the Board of Regents.

The General University Fund budget covers the University's regular instructional program at all levels, the evening class and correspondence instruction and service activities of the general extension division, certain research units in agriculture and technology, the agricultural experiment stations and the so-called "instructional" research carried on by staff members in connection with their instructional duties.

Sources of funds for this budget include the Legislature's general maintenance appropriation and income from tuition and fees, from departmental sales and services and miscellaneous income such as that from temporary investments and indirect cost allowances on research contracts.

The Legislative general maintenance appropriation for the year beginning July 1 is $25,402,626, Lunden reported, and estimated income for the period is $11,106,883. For the current year, the Legislative maintenance appropriation was $23,665,555, while income sources provided $11,029,421.

Included in the 1960-61 budget are academic salary adjustments provided by the Legislature totaling $1,056,017 to be distributed to the various colleges for discretionary merit increases subject to certain "floors" and fixed rates for assistant professors and lower ranks, Vice President Lunden indicated. No "across-the-board" academic salary increases are planned.

The distribution of available funds for salary adjustments will be made to each college and administrative unit in the proportion that their present budget for academic salaries bears to the total University budget for academic salaries, Lunden explained.

Also approved for 1960-61, Lunden reported, were the University of Minnesota Hospitals budget totalling $8,855,643, a budget of $2,057,154 provided by the Legislature for special research and agricultural extension activities, a University services and revolving funds budget of $13,428,206, a $2,366,160 distribution of federal funds appropriated for teaching, research and agricultural extension and a partial budgeting of trust and endowment funds for research, fellowship and other purposes totalling $907,833.

Budgeted for the current fiscal year for the categories above are the following amounts---University Hospitals, $8,580,047; appropriations for special research and agricultural activities, $2,109,202; University services and revolving funds, $11,289,697; appropriated federal funds, $2,360,777; and a partial budgeting of trust and endowment funds, $903,213.

The University of Minnesota gallery will present three shows---"Artist and Book", "Contemporary Norwegian Prints", and "Japanese Illustrated Books"--during the two summer session quarters at the University this summer, according to Sidney Simon, gallery director.

Approximately 20 original drawings by such artists as Chagall, Picasso, Delacroix and Bonnaid will make up the "Artist and Book" exhibition to be hung in the Seminar gallery on Northrop Memorial auditorium's third floor from June 20 to July 20. The pictures will be from the gallery's permanent collection.

"Contemporary Norwegian Prints", an international exchange print exhibition sponsored by the Oregon State college memorial union, will be shown in the gallery's exhibition space in the third floor front corridor of Northrop July 25 through September 15.

Edward W. Copeland, University Slavic and Oriental language instructor, will present an exhibition of Japanese illustrated books in conjunction with a University summer session course, "Japanese Literature in Translation", that he will conduct during the summer sessions. This exhibition will be hung in the third floor corridors of Northrop auditorium from July 29 through September 19.

Contemporary prints from the gallery's permanent collection will be on view in the third floor corridors of Northrop auditorium during the two summer sessions, Simon said. The gallery will be open free to the public from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. school days during the summer.

"Look Homeward Angel" will be the first University of Minnesota theater production of its thirtieth season, 1960-61, according to Merle Loppnow, theater business manager.

The play, adapted from the Thomas Wolfe novel by Ketti Frings, will be produced in the Scott hall auditorium the last week in October and the first week in November.

George Bernard Shaw's "Heartbreak House" will be produced in November and December; Eugene O'Neill's "Desire Under the Elms", in January and February; William Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice", in February and March; and Friedrich Duerrenmatt's "The Visit", in April.

The Young People's University theater will produce James Norris' "Robin Hood" October 8, 9 and 16, Loppnow said, with their spring quarter production to be announced later.

A series of original plays in the Studio and in the Arena theaters also will be announced.

Tickets now are on sale at the Downtown ticket office for the Minneapolis performances June 21-July 24 for the University theater's summer Showboat production, George M. Cohan's "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway", Loppnow said.

The Showboat will open its "down-river" performances at St. Paul July 28, with tickets available at the Field Schlick ticket office after July 1. Sales for the Red Wing performances August 16 through August 21, and the Winona shows, August 23 through August 28, will be on sale in these towns August 1.

Mail order tickets for any of the performances during the summer season may be ordered through the University Theater Scott hall ticket office, Minneapolis, 14. Summer hours for the Scott hall ticket office will be 9 a. m. through 9 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays for personal selection of tickets for all performances.

'U' MAN TO PLAN
TEXTS FOR TEACHING
ENGLISH ABROAD

Harold B. Allen, University of Minnesota English department professor and communications program director, has been appointed a member of the National Council of Teachers of English project on secondary school textbooks for teaching English abroad as a foreign language.

As a member of the project, Professor Allen will assist in the development of a special series of textbooks to be used in secondary schools in other countries. The NCTE is undertaking this project in cooperation with the United States Information Agency, Washington, D. C., and will retain control of publication rights.

In addition to the development of proficiency in the language, the series will have the objective of providing a background in the culture of the United States and other English speaking nations, as well as providing general information on matters of interest and importance to young people, such as science, exploration and invention.

The preparation of the books will be guided by a group of recognized authorities in the field of linguistics, methods of teaching English as a foreign language, educational psychology, English and American literature, art and music, and the physical and social sciences.

The series will be published by an American publisher and will be used by USIA in its English teaching programs abroad. The original texts also will serve as the basis for re-writings or adaptations appropriate to the needs of specific countries or cultural areas.

IN HUMANITIES

Humanities in the Modern World, 54, a University of Minnesota summer session course will be televised from a studio classroom at 9 p. m. Monday through Friday on KTCA-TV, Channel 2, beginning Wednesday (June 15) and continuing through July 15. The classes will run a full hour each night except Thursday, when a half-hour lecture is scheduled.

The course, to be taught by Jack Ludwig, lecturer in humanities, will cover the period since World War I and will deal with such topics as psychoanalysis, communism and fascism. Authors T. S. Eliot, Lenin, Freud, Kafka, Anne Frank, Joyce and Yeats also will be discussed.

Although a reading list will be available to home viewers, credit for home viewing will not be offered.

Ludwig received a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Manitoba and the doctor of philosophy degree from the University of California at Los Angeles. The Canadian-born writer, along with authors Saul Bellow and Keith Botsford, is the editor and founder of a new periodical called "The Noble Savage". His short story, "Requiem for Bibul", published in the July issue of "The Atlantic Monthly" has won a $1,000 award from the Canadian Broadcasting company. A chapter of his forthcoming novel, "Confusions", appears in the Spring issue of the "Tamarack Review". Before joining the University staff, Ludwig taught at Williams and Bard colleges.

The free reading list for the course can be obtained by writing to University of Minnesota Television, Minneapolis 14, Minn.

Open-Heart Pioneer---
DR. WARDEN, 'U'
HEART SURGEON,
TAKES W.VA. POST

Minneapolis --- Dr. Herbert E. Warden, University of Minnesota heart surgeon and a member of the famous team which pioneered open-heart surgery at the University in 1954, has been appointed to the surgery staff of the new West Virginia university medical school in Morgantown.

Dr. Warden, 39, was associated with Drs. C. Walton Lillehei, Richard L. Varco and Morley Cohen in the development of "controlled cross circulation", a procedure in which a patient's circulatory system was joined to that of a donor while corrective surgery was performed inside the patient's heart. This procedure later was supplanted by methods involving the bypassing of the patient's blood through oxygenating machines.

Since the world's first successful surgery within the heart was performed by the University of Minnesota team March 26, 1954, almost 1,000 "open heart" operations have been done at the University medical center by Drs. Lillehei, Varco and Warden and their associates. Dr. Cohen left the University in June 1955, to return to his surgery practice in Winnipeg.

This four-man University heart surgery team has received many honors in recognition of its accomplishments and daring innovations. In 1955, each of the four surgeons received the Lasker Award for Medical Research from the American Public Health association. The American Medical association's Hektoen Award was presented to the group in 1957.

Dr. Warden, who recently has concentrated his research on the design and development of plastic valves to replace defective valves within the human heart, will head the cardio-vascular division of the West Virginia medical school's surgery department. He will hold the rank of associate professor. Head of the West Virginia surgery department is Dr. Bernard Zimmermann, also of the University of Minnesota surgery department, who recently accepted an appointment to the eastern school's staff.

Born in Cleveland, Ohio, Dr. Warden attended Washington and Jefferson college, Washington, Pa., where he earned a bachelor of science degree in 1942. He then attended the University of Chicago school of medicine from which he was graduated in 1946 with the doctor of medicine degree.

After three years, 1946-49, in the United States Navy as a medical officer, Dr. Warden served a year as a contract medical officer at the Travis United States Air Force base in California. He came to the University of Minnesota in 1951.

Married and the father of one child, a daughter, Dr. Warden lives in Roseville.

RADIO MOSCOW
ANALYSIS TOPIC
FOR 'U' CONVO

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

William S. Howell, University of Minnesota professor of speech and theater arts, will talk on "Radio Moscow-Propaganda and Persuasion" in a University summer session convocation at 8 p. m. Thursday (June 23) in Northrop Memorial auditorium.

The convocation is open free to the public.

Professor Howell has made an intensive study of Radio Moscow, the Soviet propaganda beam to the United States, for the last eight years. He has recorded portions of the short-wave broadcasts, which will be used to illustrate his lecture, analyzing them in terms of content and propaganda.

In the summer of 1958, Howell visited the Soviet Union with a group of 12 educators, and was the first Westerner to view the North American Service of Radio Moscow in operation.

A specialist in the study of persuasion and discussion, he has co-authored several books on these subjects: "Persuasion", written with Winston Brembeck, "Discussion" with Donald K. Smith and "Speech, Debate and Drama in Contests and Festivals" with Smith and David W. Thompson. He is a consultant in communications with several firms.

The convocation will be sponsored by the University summer session under the direction of the department of concerts and lectures.

READING EXPERTS TO PRESENT PUBLIC
LECTURES AT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Three nationally known reading experts will present free public lectures at the annual University of Minnesota summer reading conference Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday (June 21, 22 and 23). All public sessions will be held at 2:30 p.m. in Mayo Memorial auditorium.

Russell G. Stauffer, director of the University of Delaware reading-study center, Newark, Tuesday afternoon will discuss "Teaching Reading As a Thinking Process". Arno Jewett, specialist for secondary school language arts in the United States health, education and welfare department, Washington, D. C., will speak Wednesday on "Teaching Critical Reading in High School". Helen Huus, University of Pennsylvania associate professor of education, Philadelphia, will give the Thursday lecture on "Materials Needed for Basic Instruction in Reading".

The guest speakers also will speak at morning sessions of the conference, which will be open only to registrants, in the Center for Continuation Study.

Focusing on new developments and research in the teaching of reading, the conference is designed for classroom and remedial reading teachers, reading consultants, reading supervisors and college teachers of reading methods.

Reading comprehension in secondary schools, developing word recognition skills, meeting the reading needs of the adolescent, fostering critical reading in the elementary school and developing reading interests and tastes at the high school level are among subjects to be discussed by conference speakers. Mildred Carlson, Minneapolis public schools consultant in elementary curriculum, will report on the Minneapolis survey of reading skills.

Visiting faculty members will include Eleanor Carlson, Austin public schools reading supervisor, and Dean Berry, St. Louis Park high school reading supervisor.

The conference is co-sponsored by the University summer session, the college of education and the Center for Continuation Study.

TWO EDUCATORS
TO RECEIVE U OF M
ALUMNI AWARDS

Minneapolis --- Two leading California educators -- B. Lamar Johnson, professor of higher education at the University of California, Los Angeles, and Lucien B. Kinney, Stanford university education professor -- will receive University of Minnesota Outstanding Achievement Awards Wednesday (June 22).

They will be honored at the fifth annual meeting of the College of Education Alumni association at a 6:30 p. m. banquet in the Campus Club on the Minneapolis campus. Dean Walter W. Cook of the college of education will present gold medals and citations to Professors Johnson and Kinney. The Outstanding Achievement Award is presented to University alumni who have distinguished themselves in their chosen fields.

Professor Johnson, a member of the University of California faculty since 1952, has led a movement stressing the library as the heart of the instructional program in schools and colleges throughout the country. He is one of the leading advocates for defining and evaluating general education offerings in terms of the needs of all students. He directed the California Study of General Education in the Junior College in 1950-51 and served on the 1932 National Survey of Secondary Schools and two yearbook committees of the National Society for the Study of Education. He headed the 1956 yearbook committee.

H. Orin Halvorson, director of the University of Illinois school of life sciences, will receive the University of Minnesota Outstanding Achievement Award Saturday (June 25).

Halvorson, who was first director of the University of Minnesota's Hormel institute and was instrumental in its founding, will be honored at a luncheon in Austin, Minn., preceding dedication of the institute's new $600,000 research laboratory building. Dean Theodore C. Blegen of the University's graduate school, will present the gold medal and citation to Halvorson. The Hormel Institute, a division of the graduate school, is a world center for research in fats and oils and the effect of fats in heart disease.

A 1921 chemical engineering graduate of the University, Halvorson is noted for his development of new processes in treating industrial and domestic wastes and has done extensive study on microbiological problems related to foods. He earned the doctor of philosophy degree at the University in 1928 and served on the faculty for 27 years, including six years as director of the Hormel Institute. He left Minnesota in 1949 to become head of the University of Illinois bacteriology department. In 1959, he was named director of the school of life sciences.

Halvorson holds the honorary degree of doctor of sciences from St. Olaf college, Northfield, Minn., and was named outstanding American investigator of the American Manufacturing association in 1940.

Born March 26, 1897, in River Falls, Wis., Halvorson is married and has four children.

The University of Minnesota's Outstanding Achievement Award is presented by the Board of Regents to alumni who have distinguished themselves in their chosen fields.

MINNEAPOLIS 14, MINNESOTA
Federal 2-8158 EXT. 6700
JUNE 22, 1960

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

More than 150 dentists and teachers of periodontology -- representing all of the university-connected dental colleges in the United States and Canada -- are assembled at the University of Minnesota today (Thursday, June 23) to attend the first international workshop for teachers of periodontology at the graduate and postgraduate levels. Sessions will be held through Saturday (June 25).

The teachers of the science of the tissues which support the teeth will establish professional and educational yardsticks defining periodontological education on the basis of objectives, academic degrees, research and relations to graduate schools.

All sessions of the workshop, sponsored by the American Academy of Periodontology and the University of Minnesota School of Dentistry, are being conducted in the University Territorial residence hall, Walnut and Delaware streets, S.E.

In addition to the teachers of periodontology, registrants include representatives from the United States Army, Navy and Air Force, as well as the American Dental association, the American Board of Periodontology, and the National Institute of Dental Research of the National Institute of Health, according to Dr. Erwin M. Schaffer, local arrangements committee chairman and University periodontology department chairman.

Following the welcoming address by Dr. William H. Crawford, University dental school dean, the workshop sessions were opened by Dr. Harold Ray, San Francisco, who spoke to the registrants on the mechanics and organization of the international workshop.

Dr. Shailer Peterson, Chicago, A.D.A. Council on Dental Education secretary, spoke at 10 a.m. on "Continuing Education in Dentistry", and Dr. William Mann, University of Michigan dental school dean, addressed the registrants on "The Definition of Graduate and Postgraduate Education in Dentistry".

Gordon M. A. Mork, University of Minnesota educational psychology professor and past president of the Minnesota Education association, will speak on "Psychology of Learning Applied in Graduate Education" at the group's banquet at 6:45 p.m. today (Thursday) at the St. Paul Town and Country club.

Deliberations of the committees of the workshop will be held Friday (June 24) with committees reporting to the general assembly Saturday (June 25) morning and afternoon.

230 Promoted---
LUND, JOHNSON
NAMED 'U' ASSISTANT
VICE PRESIDENTS

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Promotion of Roy V. Lund and Clinton T. Johnson to be assistant vice presidents in the institution's business administration topped a list of advancements in academic rank or administrative position of 230 University of Minnesota staff members announced Thursday (June 23) by President J. L. Morrill.

Lund, who has been supervising engineer in charge of physical plant was named assistant vice president and director of plant services. A University engineering alumnus, Lund has been on the University staff since 1922.

Named comptroller and treasurer last fall to succeed the late Edwin C. Jackson, Johnson now will hold the title of assistant vice president, business administration, and treasurer. The post of comptroller has been eliminated, and the comptroller's office henceforth will be known as the business office. A 1938 University graduate, Johnson joined the University staff the following year.

In the two newly established assistant vice presidencies, Lund and Johnson will serve as the chief administrative aides to Vice President Laurence R. Lunden in carrying out his responsibilities as the University's principal business officer.

Other major administrative promotions announced by the president included the advancement of Professor Mellor R. Holland to assistant dean of the school of dentistry and Professor Stuart W. Fenton to chairman of the school of chemistry. The latter's academic rank was advanced from associate professor to professor.

'U' PROF. CLARK
NAMED ARTS DEAN
AT COLORADO 'U'

NEWS SERVICE--214 ADM.BLDG.
MINNEAPOLIS 14, MINNESOTA
FEderal 2-8158 EXT. 6700
JUNE 23, 1960

(FOR RELEASE SUNDAY, JUNE 26, 1960)

Minneapolis--- Professor Kenneth E. Clark, chairman of the University of Minnesota psychology department who recently was designated associate dean of the University's graduate school, has been appointed dean of the college of arts and sciences at the University of Colorado at Boulder, it was announced Saturday (June 25).

Professor Clark, whose appointment as associate dean of the graduate school will become effective July 1, will take up his new duties in Colorado January 1, 1961. He will succeed Acting Dean John R. Little as head of the college which has an enrollment of 6,500 and which, as at Minnesota, is the university's largest unit. Little, Colorado summer session dean, has been holding the arts and sciences deanship on a temporary basis.

A member of the University of Minnesota faculty since 1940, Clark is a graduate of Ohio State university where he earned a bachelor of science degree in 1940. He was on leave of absence from 1942 to 1946 while serving as a psychologist with the Army and Navy. He served as a classification officer for the Navy during part of that period.

Clark has directed a nationwide study of the research and professional activities of psychologists and is the author of a book on the subject. His research activities and teaching have been primarily in the field of psychological measurement, especially interest and opinion measurement.

He has been directing a long-term study since 1946 of the vocational interests of Navy enlisted men and civilian skilled tradesmen under a contract from the Office of Naval Research. He is president of the American Board of Examiners in Professional Psychology, chairman of the policy and planning board of the American Psychological association and editor-elect of the Journal of Applied Psychology.

Clark was born December 18, 1914, in New Madison, Ohio. He is married and the father of three children. The family lives at 526 Seventh street, S.E., Minneapolis.

UNIVERSITY BUILDING
PLANNERS TO MEET
ON U OF M CAMPUS

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

The University of Minnesota campus and its proposed expansion will be studied next week by some 30 university architects from throughout the nation. The occasion will be the fifth annual conference of the Association of University Architects to be held Tuesday through Friday (June 28-July 1) in the Center for Continuation Study on the Minneapolis campus.

The conference will open Tuesday with walking tours of the Minneapolis and St. Paul campuses. Proposed west bank expansion studies will be discussed Wednesday morning at a session presided over by L. R. Lunden, University vice president for business administration, and Winston A. Close, University advisory architect.

Architects from the University of Utah, Texas A & M college and Tulane university, new members of the association, Wednesday afternoon will report on their campuses. They are Martin Brixen, director of planning and construction, Utah; Henry D. Mayfield, Jr., system architect, Texas A & M; and Harold E. Pique, resident architect, Tulane.

Three panels made up of visiting architects Thursday will discuss new buildings against the old, building materials and needs of the pedestrian and cyclist in campus building and planning.

The conference will conclude Friday with the annual meeting of the Association of University Architects.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

First summer session enrollment at the University of Minnesota totals 9,611, True E. Pettengill, University recorder, reported Tuesday (June 28).

The figure is 588 below the 10,199 registrations recorded for the first summer session a year ago. A large portion of the decrease -- 178 -- resulted from a change in the medical school program whereby some students have a free period this summer, Pettengill pointed out.

At the University of Minnesota, Duluth, 932 students are enrolled. Last year's first summer session attendance was 1,029. (Duluth campus attendance is included in the 9,611 total for the University).

Official registration figures at the University are recorded at the close of the second week of the term. The first summer session opened June 13 and will close July 16. Dates for the second summer session are July 18-August 20.

Attendance by colleges and divisions of the University for the first summer session of 1960 and 1959 was reported as follows:

General College	1959 196	1960 188
Science, Literature and Arts and University College	2061	1998

WILSON TAKES OVER
AS 'U' PRESIDENT

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- O. Meredith Wilson took over his duties Friday (July 1) as the ninth president of the University of Minnesota. He succeeds James Lewis Morrill, who retired Thursday (June 30) after 15 years as president of the University.

President Wilson comes to Minnesota from the University of Oregon, where he had been president since 1954. He and Mrs. Wilson and their six children will live in the Governor Pillsbury house, 1005 Fifth st., S.E., until the new president's home, Eastcliff, 176 N. Mississippi River boulevard, donated to the University by the Brooks family, is ready for occupancy.

President Emeritus Morrill has been appointed as a consultant to the Ford Foundation in New York. He and Mrs. Morrill left Minnesota Wednesday (June 29). Guy Stanton Ford, Washington, D. C., is the only other living former president of the University. He served as University head from 1938 to 1941.

The new president has had a distinguished career both as an historian and administrator.

He was born Sept. 21, 1909, in Chihuahua, Mexico, where his father headed a Mormon academy. He was educated in Utah and was graduated from Brigham Young university in 1934. After graduate work at the University of London and Heidelberg, Germany, he taught at Brigham Young university and the University of Utah. In 1943, he received the doctor of philosophy degree from the University of California. He joined the University of Chicago faculty in 1944 as assistant professor of history and served as associate dean of the college for two years. In 1947, he returned to Utah as professor and dean of the university college.

President Wilson left his teaching career in 1952 to become executive secretary of the Fund for the Advancement of Education, a position which he held until he accepted the Oregon presidency in 1954.

This spring, President Wilson made a six weeks' tour of Latin American countries as a member of a commission of the Council on Higher Education for American Republics to strengthen relations between universities of North and South America. He was named to the commission last year along with presidents of several other universities. Last October he was named chairman of the American Council on Education and holds memberships in several other professional organizations.
