THEOLOGY LECTURES TO BE AIRED
ON KUOM RADIO

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

"The Theological Significance of the Old Testament", a series of lectures by the Rev. R. A. F. MacKenzie, S. J., will be broadcast on KUOM, University of Minnesota radio station, at 1:30 p. m. on Tuesdays, beginning July 12 and continuing through August 23. Topic of the opening lecture will be "The Quest for Salvation in the Ancient Near East".

Father MacKenzie's lectures were delivered on the University campus winter quarter when he was visiting professor of theology. He also conducted a senior-graduate seminar in the philosophy department. Father MacKenzie is a theology professor at the Jesuit seminary in Toronto, Canada.

Theme of Father MacKenzie's lectures is that the ethos and religious outlook of the western world have been molded by the Judeo-Christian religious tradition.

Subsequent broadcasts and topic of the lectures will be: July 19, "God: Power or Personality?"; July 25, "The Questions of Origins"; August 2, "The Problem of Myth and History"; August 9, "The Search for Wisdom"; August 16, "The Prayer of Israel"; and August 23, "The Hope in Israel's Future".

INFRARED SPECTRA
SUBJECT OF 'U'
SHORT COURSE

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Three leading chemists will serve as guest lecturers next week (July 11-15) at a University of Minnesota continuation course on chemical interpretation of infrared spectra in the Center for Continuation Study. They are L. J. Bellamy of the ministry of supply, Waltham Abbey, Essex, England; R. C. Lord, Jr., of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology spectroscopy laboratory, Cambridge; and W. J. Potts of the Dow Chemical company, Midland, Mich., who will be a course director.

Potts also is one of the directors of a five-day course on techniques of infrared spectroscopy which opened Tuesday (July 5) at the Continuation Center. Forty-one chemical engineers from throughout the nation are attending the techniques course, which will continue through Saturday (July 9).

The two courses, incorporating both lectures and laboratory work, are conducted by the University's molecular spectroscopy laboratory of the department of chemistry.

BANKER LEAVES
FUND TO UP
'U' FACULTY PAY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Receipt of a $50,000 trust fund by the University of Minnesota from the estate of the late Thomas F. Wallace, former president of the Farmers and Mechanics Savings bank, Minneapolis, was announced Tuesday (July 5) by Laurence R. Lunden, University vice president for business administration.

The endowment fund was established by Wallace on March 30, 1933, with the stipulation that after his death and that of his sister, Elizabeth Wallace, income from the fund be used to supplement the salaries of "loyal and distinguished members of the faculty, whom the University might not be able to retain in its service". At that time, Wallace transmitted securities in the maturity value of $50,000 to the University Board of Regents. Earned income together with market appreciation of invested funds, brings the current value of the fund to $64,729.

A second stipulation provided that the income also may be used for postgraduate scholarships.

Wallace, who died on Nov. 28, 1959, was graduated from the University in 1893 and from its law school in 1895. He served as treasurer, president and chairman of the board, successively, of the Farmers and Mechanics Savings bank for 34 years before his retirement in 1952. His sister, Elizabeth Wallace, Minneapolis, a noted author and educator, died on April 10.

AMBASSADOR
FROM PAKISTAN
TO SPEAK AT 'U'

(FOR RELEASE SUNDAY, JULY 10)

His Excellency, Aziz Ahmed, Pakistan's ambassador to the United States, will speak Thursday (July 14) evening at University of Minnesota July commencement exercises in Northrop Memorial auditorium. He will talk on "The Crucial Challenge in a New Age".

Approximately 410 degrees will be conferred at the 8 p. m. program.

President O. Meredith Wilson, who became the University's ninth president July 1, will address a University graduating class and confer Minnesota degrees for the first time.

Ambassador Ahmed, who has held his present post since March, 1959, has served the government and the new state of Pakistan for 30 years. Born in Lahore, the capital of West Pakistan, he was educated at the University of the Panjab and at Cambridge university, England. After serving in the Indian civil service for several years, he was named chief secretary of the government of East Pakistan in 1947, and secretary to the central cabinet of Pakistan in 1952. When the new government came into office in 1958, Ahmed was appointed secretary general, a post he held until his appointment as ambassador to the United States last year.

Invocation for the commencement exercises will be given by the Rev. Harry Huxhold, pastor and director of Gamma Delta, student organization of the Lutheran Synodical Conference.

Following the commencement exercises, the graduates and their families and friends will be guests at a reception on the terrace of Coffman Memorial Union. In the event of rain, the reception will be held in the Union main ballroom.

'U' DEAN URGES
INTER-UNIVERSITY
SUMMER COOPERATION

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA
NEWS SERVICE--214 ADM. BLDG.
MINNEAPOLIS 14, MINNESOTA
Federal 2-8158 EXT. 6700
JULY 7, 1960

(FOR RELEASE P. M. FRIDAY, JULY 8)

Dean E. W. Ziebarth of the University of Minnesota summer session Friday (July 8) urged extensive inter-university cooperation on specialized programs in order to avoid "needless" duplication of facilities. Ziebarth spoke at a national Summer Session Seminar for University Administrators at the University of Wisconsin, Madison.

He stressed the need for shared university programs, alternating courses, reciprocal fee arrangements wherever possible and cooperative listings of highly specialized courses.

Summer session would be an appropriate place to start, Ziebarth indicated, citing a new plan of cross-listing certain specialized summer courses at the Universities of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan. Other examples of inter-institutional cooperation which he pointed out were Minnesota's joint Scandinavian area program with the University of Wisconsin, the joint aspects of the Itasca Biological Station, and the Spanish language program in which Minnesota works with the Universities of Arizona and Guadalajara.

"There seems to be no substantial disagreement with the principle that there are many areas in which even the most distinguished of our educational institutions have little or no business trying to operate on an independent, essentially competitive, and duplicating basis," Ziebarth told the university administrators.

"In these times of fabulously costly equipment and instruction it may be quite unnecessary for every institution (for example, in the Big Ten) to be developing with equal vigor every academic area, including those for which there will, by their very nature, inevitably be few consumers," he added.

Those areas should be determined, Ziebarth declared, as the result of "the most careful judgments by scholars competent to make those judgments, not a purely fiscally oriented administrative decision."

"Even simply stated, however," he concluded, "this represents the kind of departure from the traditional insulated self-sufficiency of most of our distinguished institutions which will arouse some resistance."

'U' TO CONDUCT
FIRST ANNUAL
SEAWAY INSTITUTE

(FOR RELEASE SUNDAY, JULY 10)

The University of Minnesota will conduct its first annual Seaway Institute-- a five-day short course for businessmen, manufacturers and transportation officials on how to develop international trade -- Sept. 12-16 at the University's Duluth campus. Businessmen throughout the Midwest area will be invited to attend.

The United States department of commerce is assisting the University's Center for Continuation Study and the division of social sciences, University of Minnesota, Duluth, in arranging the institute. Advisory and planning committee members include business, education and industry representatives.

Patten D. Allen, director of the European division, office of economic affairs, United States bureau of foreign commerce, will address a dinner meeting on the opening day of the institute Monday, Sept. 12. He will discuss "The Inner Six and the Outer Seven", two groups of European countries organized for reciprocal trade arrangements.

Other guest speakers during the institute will include Clarence Wisby, foreign department head at Northwestern National bank, Minneapolis; John Mount, North American Insurance company, Philadelphia; Harry Barr, president of Barr Shipping company, New York; and Lyle Bull, vice president of American Export Lines.

The institute, focused on the complexities and problems of developing international trade at a seaway port, will attempt to answer such questions as: how does a company get into the international import or export trade, what are the mechanics of international trade and banking, how should goods for export be packed and handled, what is the role of the foreign freight forwarder and how are contracts made with foreign importers. Marine insurance and steamship operation and rates also will be discussed.

The St. Lawrence Seaway, bringing foreign ships to Midwest ports for the first time, opened last year.

REGENTS APPOINT
NEW UNIVERSITY
BANDMASTER

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

The appointment of Frank P.A. Bencriscutto as University of Minnesota bandmaster and music department instructor was approved Friday (July 8) by the Board of Regents.

Bencriscutto, whose appointment is effective August 15, will replace Gale L. Sperry, University bandmaster since 1953, who has joined the staff of the University of Southern Florida, Tampa.

A "cum laude" graduate of the University of Wisconsin where he received the bachelor of music degree in 1951, Bencriscutto returned to Wisconsin in 1956 and completed the work for the master of music degree in 1957. He received the doctor of musical arts degree from the Eastman School of Music of the University of Rochester, Rochester, N.Y., last month. His major was in composition with his major instrument the clarinet.

Solo chair clarinetist in the University of Wisconsin concert and marching bands, both as an undergraduate and as a graduate, Bencriscutto also held the same chair in the University symphony orchestra, as well as playing in dance bands for many years. He arranged the music for many of the University of Wisconsin football half-time shows and composed the music for and conducted the accompaniment of a university documentary film.

During his three years of service in the Fifth Army band he was featured alto saxophone soloist and taught a class in music composition. He also served as head arranger for the Army band's weekly broadcasts in Chicago and wrote special arrangements for soloists and band and male chorus and band.

Mr. and Mrs. Bencriscutto and their two children will come to the Twin Cities early in August.

CAPT. HALL TO SUCCEED
RETIRING COL. BOWEN AS
'U' NAVY ROTC COMMANDER

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Captain Cary H. Hall, United States Navy, has been assigned to the University of Minnesota as professor of naval science and commanding officer of the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps.

University Vice President Malcolm M. Willey announced the appointment of Captain Hall who succeeds United States Marine Corps Colonel Robert O. Bowen, NROTC commander since August 1957. Colonel Bowen retired from military service July 1.

A native of Macon, Ga., Captain Hall was graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1940, and was assigned to the USS California, one of the battleships at anchor in Pearl Harbor at the time of the Japanese attack on Dec. 7, 1941. He received the Bronze Star medal with Combat "V" for "heroic service as Air Defense officer on board the USS Columbia during assault and bombardment operations at Lingayen Gulf" in 1945.

He returned to the United States in 1945 to attend Cornell university where he earned a master of science degree in 1948. He served as executive officer and navigator on the USS Fred T. Berry during operations against the enemy in the Korean theater in 1950-51 and was cited for meritorious service.

Following his command of the USS Cotton and the USS Sperry, 1951-58, Captain Hall served as assistant training officer, guided missiles, on the staff of Commander, Training Command, U. S. Atlantic Fleet and as assistant guided missile officer on the staff of the Commander in Chief, U.S. Atlantic Fleet. In June 1959, he became Commander, Destroyer Division 222.

'U' FACULTY COMMITTEE REJECTS
EXPERIMENTAL PLAN TO OFFER 'U'
COURSES AT ROBBINSDALE HIGH

NEWS SERVICE--214 ADM. BLDG.
MINNEAPOLIS 14, MINNESOTA
FEderal 2-8158 EXT. 6700
JULY 13, 1960

(FOR RELEASE 11 A. M. THURSDAY, JULY 14)

Minneapolis --- A University of Minnesota faculty senate committee today (July 14) advised the University senate to recommend to the President and the Board of Regents that a proposal to establish University credit courses for superior students in Robbinsdale high school be rejected.

"The implications (of the plan) are so far-reaching, and would impose upon the University educational commitments so extensive, that it was seriously questioned by a majority of the committee whether the University could introduce any staff projects of this kind without undercutting the integrity of its existing collegiate activities," said the committee in its report to the University senate. "Clearly one could not stop with a single school district."

Former University President J. L. Morrill appointed the committee to study the Robbinsdale proposal in March after the board of Independent School District 281 on Jan. 11 adopted a resolution requesting the University to establish University classes in the Robbinsdale senior high school beginning with the fall term of 1960-61. In appointing the Committee on the Robbinsdale Experiment in University-High School Relationships, President Morrill said the Robbinsdale proposal might prove to be a useful experiment to identify and motivate superior high school students and to help students make the transition from high school to college less painfully.

The committee appointed by President Morrill later was designated a special committee of the University senate.

Included in the committee's study were conferences with the state commissioner of education and secondary schoolmen from the metropolitan area.

(MORE)

Three major points of agreement arose out of those conferences, according to University Academic Vice President Malcolm M. Willey, committee chairman.

These are:

1. There is need, before introducing new devices and new machinery, to take full advantage of the possibilities that the Advanced Placement Program and existing University programs already offer in achieving the purposes that appear to constitute the premises of the Robbinsdale resolution.

2. Enrichment of high-school instruction is primarily a responsibility of the high schools and not of the colleges. ("This position," said Willey, "was forcefully put by one superintendent who said that the need is to bring high-school instruction up to the level of collegiate instruction so that transition will be easy, not to bring collegiate instruction down to the level of the high school.")

3. A problem intensified by the recent population growth and likely to worsen is that of providing educational opportunity to suburban youth.

As an alternative to the Robbinsdale proposal, the faculty senate committee recommended:

Establishment of a subcommittee to study the University's participation in the national Advanced Placement program and review and evaluate present and proposed University policies on credit by examination and the development of advanced standing tests with a view to advancing superior students more rapidly.

Appointment of a subcommittee to explore the possibility of developing University extension centers in the metropolitan area, or elsewhere, to offer educational opportunities for high-school students and adults.

"The committee believe that vigorous pursuit of its recommendations by the appropriate committees would serve a further useful purpose of strengthening the relationships between the University and the secondary schools of the area," Willey commented.

Poland's history, culture and political significance will be studied at a University of Minnesota institute, entitled "Poland Through A Thousand Years", Wednesday through Friday, Aug. 3-5, at the Center for Continuation Study on the Minneapolis campus.

Leading Polish scholars from American universities and colleges will serve on the faculty. Guest speakers include: M. K. Dziewanowski, associate professor of history, Boston college, Chestnut Hill, Mass.; S. Mrozowski, University of Buffalo physics professor; Waclaw Lednicki, University of California department of Slavic languages and literature, Berkeley; Victor Weintraub, Harvard university professor of Polish literature; Ludwik Krzyzanowski, editor of The Polish Review, New York, N. Y.; Professor Konstantin Symmons-Symonolewicz, chairman of the sociology and anthropology department at Wilkes college, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; and Christine Hotchkiss, roving edotor of This Week magazine.

University of Minnesota faculty members who will lecture at the institute are John R. Borchert, professor and chairman of the department of geography, and Johannes Riedel, music professor.

The Rev. Ladislav J. Siekaniec, Cleveland, O., past president of the Polish-American Historical association, will address a dinner concluding the institute on Friday, Aug. 5. His topic will be "The Importance of Preserving the History of Immigration."

The institute will be sponsored by the University's Center for Continuation Study and Polanie, a Twin City association devoted to keeping alive an interest in the culture of Poland.

Minneapolis --- Student life on the University of Minnesota's Minneapolis and St. Paul campuses will be explained to soon-to-be freshmen and transfer students when the annual University orientation-registration program gets under way August 1.

Divided into groups of 20, for their two-day campus visit, the newcomers will be directed, supervised and advised by upperclass men and women students who spend the summer working on the orientation programs, registration and Welcome Week under the direction of Donald R. Zander, associate director of the student activities bureau.

Two series of two-day briefing sessions will be held -- the first beginning August 1 and continuing through August 19; the second scheduled for August 29 through September 16.

The program, planned by the office of the dean of students in cooperation with all University faculties and departments, is designed to acquaint new students with the University, campus facilities and registration procedures.

Scheduled for the first day of each session are general orientation group meetings, testing, appointments for physical examinations, discussion of the University ROTC programs and guided tours of the campus.

On the second day, new students receive registration materials, attend college meetings and meet with advisers to arrange their fall quarter class schedules.

Many students will meet again September 16-18 at six freshman camps which will be conducted near the Twin Cities. The week end program will include discussion groups, informal faculty consultations and campfire songfests.

Climax of summer activities for the new students will be the University's traditional Welcome Week, September 18-24, during which classroom previews, luncheons and dances will be held.

OF 'U' FILM LECTURE

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

"Venture into Afghanistan", a film lecture, will be presented by Raphael W. Green at an 8 p. m. convocation Thursday (July 21) in Northrop Memorial auditorium at the University of Minnesota. The program will be open free to the public.

The film is one of several photographed by Green, a University senior communications technician in audio-visual education, while on travels to the Middle East and Far East.

Traveling through Afghanistan by air and jeep, Green photographed celebrations of mountain tribes, desert nomads on the move, the visits of King Zahir Shah among his people, veiled women in seclusion, holy men at prayer and the hazards encountered navigating roads up a 16,000-foot mountain.

Green began his globe-trotting adventures in 1946 when he served as a member of an 11-man United States Reparations Mission to North Korea.

The convocation will be sponsored by the University's summer session under the direction of the department of concerts and lectures.

Two exhibits----"Contemporary Prints in Norway" and "Japanese Book Illustrations"---- will be shown in the University of Minnesota gallery in Northrop Memorial auditorium July 22 through the month of August, according to Miss Betty Maurstad, University gallery curator.

The Norwegian prints, an International Exchange Print exhibition sponsored by the Oregon State College Memorial Union, Corvallis, Ore., provides an excellent up-to-date visual report of printmaking activities in Norway today. Traditional Norwegian printmaking techniques--- woodcutting and intaglio processes--- are joined by lithography and serigraphy, according to Jan Askeland, Norwegian National Gallery of Art curator and assembler of the exhibit. This show will hang in the third floor front corridor of Northrop.

The 17th, 18th and 19th century Japanese illustrated books exhibition will hang in the Seminary gallery on the third floor of Northrop. These books, presented to the University library's Oriental collection by a former physiology professor, Jesse F. McClendon, upon his retirement from the University in 1939, are mainly in the medical field and display some rather startling medical ideas prevalent in the Far East in the 17th and 18th centuries. Also to be exhibited are several Japanese botany and zoology books presented to the University by Dwight E. Minnich, University professor emeritus of zoology.

This show is assembled by Edward M. Copeland, University Slavic and Oriental Languages instructor, who is using the exhibition as a teaching aid for his summer session graduate class in Japanese literature in translation.

The third floor exhibition spaces of the University gallery are open free to the public during weekday school hours, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., during the summer. The fourth floor galleries are closed until the Fall quarter.

LECTURE AT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Naturalist Emil E. Liers will present a film lecture on "Otters and the Otter Man" at 8 p. m. Thursday (July 28) at a University of Minnesota convocation in Northrop Memorial auditorium. The program, open free to the public, also will include a demonstration with live otters.

Liers was technical adviser to Walt Disney's film "Beaver Valley" and to Paramount studio releases "Sporting Pals" and "Playmates from the Wilds". He has written two books, entitled "An Otter's Story" and "A Beaver's Story".

The Homer, Minn., naturalist has lectured extensively throughout the country and has been featured in leading national magazines. He appeared at previous University convocations in 1944, 1950 and 1953.

The program will be sponsored by the University summer session under the direction of the department of concerts and lectures.

Minneapolis --- The University of Minnesota will conduct its first annual Seaway Institute -- a short course for Midwest businessmen, manufacturers and transportation officials on how to develop international trade -- Sept. 12-16 at the University's Duluth campus.

Opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway, bringing foreign ships to midwest ports for the first time, prompted the institute, which will focus on the problems of developing international trade at a seaway port.

Speakers will include government and industry leaders in the field of international trade who will discuss such topics as: how a company gets into import or export trade, the mechanics of international banking and trade, packing and handling goods for export, the role of the foreign freight forwarder, marine insurance, steamship operation and rates and contacting foreign importers.

Patten D. Allen, director of the European division, office of economic affairs, United States bureau of foreign commerce, will address a dinner meeting on the opening day of the institute Monday, Sept. 12. He will discuss "The Inner Six and the Outer Seven", two groups of European countries organized for reciprocal trade arrangements.

Other speakers will include Charles W. Arning, British consul, St. Paul; Henry Strunck, vice president of Frederic Henjes company, Inc., Wayne Holmes, vice president and secretary of William H. McGee company, Harry Barr, president of Barr Shipping company, A. B. Biegen, vice president of Caldwell and Company, and E. R. Birchler, vice president of the D. C. Anderson company, all of New York, N. Y.; A. P. Sparboe, vice president of Pillsbury company, Minneapolis; and Capt. David Jones, Isbrandtsen company, Chicago.

The United States department of commerce is assisting the University's Center for Continuation Study and the division of social sciences, University of Minnesota, Duluth, in arranging the institute.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

From 60 to 75 foreign graduate-level students from English-speaking countries throughout the world will attend a two-week orientation institute August 28 through September 10 at the University of Minnesota.

The institute, sponsored by the United States State Department's Institute of International Education, is one of six such orientation courses organized under Smith-Mundt and Fulbright Act legislation to introduce foreign students to American life and culture. Under this legislation this year, two two-week courses are being given at the Universities of Minnesota and Indiana; two four-week courses at Yale and the University of Kansas; and two six-week courses at the University of Texas and Mills college.

Overall objective of the orientation centers, according to Forrest G. Moore, University foreign student adviser and institute director, will be to provide for the student new to the United States experiences which will assist him in bridging the gap between his own educational system, culture and field of study and the American equivalents.

In addition to the Smith-Mundt and Fulbright grant students from Pakistan, India, the United Arab Republic, Japan, Africa and South and Central America, who will come to the University, Moore said, six Indian teachers will attend the institute under Danforth fellowship grants.

University faculty members assisting Moore in the orientation institute are Clarke Chambers, history department, assistant director; Josef Mestenhauser, assistant foreign student adviser, assistant to the director; and Arthur L. Johnson, sociology; Brom Weber, English and American studies; James L. Gibbs, anthropology; Stephen S. Winter, chemistry and education; Franklin G. Wallace, zoology; Marjorie H. Thurston, rhetoric; and Ruth Roberts, student counseling bureau.

PEGGY WOOD
TALK TO BE AIRED
ON KUOM

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

A lecture by actress Peggy Wood titled "A Changing Theater in a Changing World" will be broadcast on KUOM, the University of Minnesota radio station, at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday (July 27). Miss Wood, former star of the television series "Mama", is president of the American National Theatre and Academy.

The lecture was delivered on the University campus in June and was co-sponsored by the University's summer session, University Theater and the department of concerts and lectures.

Miss Wood, who plays in the movie, "The Story of Ruth", was cited in 1954 as one of the "six most successful women of the year" by Woman's Home Companion magazine. She also received the Royal St. Olav medal bestowed by King Haakon of Norway and the doctor of fine arts degree from Lake Erie and Hobart Colleges.

Born in Brooklyn, N. Y., Miss Wood began her acting career in musical comedy and starred in "Maytime" on Broadway. Major plays in which she was featured include "Candida", "The Merchant of Venice", "Bitter Sweet", and "Blithe Spirit."

POPULATION TOPIC OF KUOM SERIES

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

"Public Policy and the World Population Crisis", a series of three lectures by population expert Kingsley Davis, will be broadcast on KUOM, University of Minnesota radio station, at 1:30 p.m. on Thursdays, beginning this week and concluding Aug. 11. Topic of the opening lecture Thursday will be "The Social Control of Demographic Behavior and Its Unforeseen Consequences."

Davis delivered these talks this spring on the University campus as the third annual Guy Stanton Ford lectures honoring the University's sixth president (1938-41).

Davis is a professor of sociology and social institutions at the University of California, Berkeley, and is the United States representative on the United Nations population Commission. He also is director of the California School's international urban research project.

A member of the University of California faculty since 1955, Davis also taught at Columbia, Harvard and Princeton universities and the University of Texas.

On Aug. 4, Mr. Davis will discuss "The Contemporary Controversy Over Population Policy in Sociological and Demographic Perspective", and on Aug. 11, "The Rapid Evolution of Opinion and Policy in the Emancipated East."

NATIONAL HOSPITAL
PHARMACY INSTITUTE

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Approximately 130 pharmacists from throughout the nation will attend an American Hospital association institute on hospital pharmacy Monday through Friday (Aug. 1-5) at the University of Minnesota to exchange ideas and information on professional techniques.

A faculty of leading institutional pharmacists will discuss standards of practice and improving pharmacy administration in the hospital.

The speakers will include Vernon O. Trygstad, president of the American Society of Hospital Pharmacists (ASHP) and director of pharmacy service in the Veterans administration, Washington, D. C.; Clifton J. Latiolais, president-elect of the ASHP and assistant professor and director of hospital pharmacy at the Ohio State university health center; and Paul F. Parker, director of the American Pharmaceutical association division of hospital pharmacy, Washington, D. C.

Dean George P. Hager of the University of Minnesota college of pharmacy also will serve on the faculty.

Sponsors of the institute, along with the University's college of pharmacy and the American Hospital association, are the American Pharmaceutical association, the American Society of Hospital Pharmacists, the Minnesota Society of Hospital Pharmacists, the Upper Midwest Hospital conference, the Minnesota Hospital association and the Twin City Regional Hospital council.

Registration will take place from 4 to 9 p. m. Sunday (July 31) in Territorial hall on the Minneapolis campus.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis--- University of Minnesota courses will be substituted for some ROTC classroom courses for United States Air Force cadets in freshman and sophomore years at the University, according to Colonel Arthur W. Dern, air science professor and U.S.A.F. ROTC commander at the University.

This basic change in the Air Force ROTC pre-commission course requirements, from 120 to 60 ROTC-taught classroom hours, for the necessary six ROTC credits, will go into effect immediately, Colonel Dern said. It will apply to both freshman and sophomore students now registering for the 1960 fall quarter at the University.

University courses in mathematics, physical and natural sciences, foreign languages, the humanities and social studies will be substituted for three quarters of classroom work perviously given by Air Force personnel, Colonel Dern said. The University will continue to grant six credits for the basic ROTC course in this modified Air Force ROTC program.

Deans of all University colleges carrying courses which may be substituted have approved of the new program, Colonel Dern said. From the University standpoint, particularly that of the institute of technology, it will be decidedly advantageous, as the ROTC overload carried by the engineering students will be cut in half during the basic two years of military work.

From the student point of view, the new Air Force ROTC program will enable the cadet to utilize approximately one year of former ROTC classroom time to attain additional required University credits.

While requirements have not been changed for the weekly one-hour leadership laboratory attendance during the basic two-year Air Force ROTC course, Colonel Dern emphasized that, just as the "hay foot---straw foot" type of drill has been replaced by the present day leadership laboratory, under the new program even greater emphasis will be placed upon the techniques of leadership and the understanding of the cadets within the framework of the new Air Force.

With absolutely no field drill given to freshmen students in the Air Force ROTC during the fall quarter, subjects stressed in leadership laboratory work will include principles of leadership of men, ROTC curriculum and its import, Air Force customs and courtesies, Air Force organization, space guidance and control concepts and the mission of the ROTC in regard to the overall Air Force.

ON KUOM

(FOR RELEASE SUNDAY, JULY 31)

A speech by Tyrone Guthrie, noted state director and producer, will be broadcast on KUOM, University of Minnesota radio station, at 1:30 p. m. Monday, Aug. 1. The talk was recorded Friday (July 29) at the Minneapolis Institute of Arts during Guthrie's stay in the Twin Cities to help plan Minnesota's new professional repertory theater company.

Guthrie selected Minneapolis as the site of the company with which he will be associated, after considering several other cities outside of New York.

A new theater structure will be built in 1961 at 725 Vineland Place, adjacent to the Walker Art Center. The non-profit, self-sustaining theater company will open in May, 1962, and will present classic and contemporary plays for 20 weeks during the summer.

NAVY RESEARCH,
DEVELOPMENT CLINIC

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- A United States Navy research development clinic designed to enlist industry talent from a five-state area in the solution of the Navy's applied research problems will be conducted Oct. 19 and 20 at the University of Minnesota. Industry representatives, scientists, engineers and technicians from Iowa, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota and Minnesota have been invited to attend.

Top Navy, industry, university and college scientists and engineers and representatives of the Navy's prime contractors will lead panel discussions on specialized topics such as electronics, energy conversion, data computing and processing, materials fabrication, properties of materials and food technology.

"There is no end to the technical problems which the Navy department must solve in connection with our modern weapons systems," commented Commander T. A. Smithey, USN, Minneapolis, inspector of naval materials and navy representative in charge of the clinic. "Solutions to these problems are urgent if we are to possess weapons systems superior to those of our potential enemy."

Navy research and development clinics were held in February at Chattanooga, Tenn., and in June at Boston, Mass. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota made the proposal for a similar clinic to be held at the University of Minnesota.

Registration fee for the clinic, which will be co-sponsored by the Navy and the University, is $12.50. Applications can be made with the director of University relations, University of Minnesota, by Aug. 19.

The memory of Charles Oscar Kalman, St. Paul, for many years a member of Minnesota Orchestral association executive committee, will be honored Tuesday, August 9, when the University Trio members present a University of Minnesota Summer Session concert at 8 p. m. in Northrop Memorial auditorium.

The free public concert is co-sponsored by friends of Mr. Kalman, and the University of Minnesota Summer Sessions, under the direction of the department of concerts and lectures, in cooperation with the Minneapolis Musicians association.

The University Trio, composed of Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra members Edouard Blitz, 'cellist, and John Sambuco, violinist, and University music department faculty member Bernhard Weiser, pianist, will open the program with Dvorak's "The Dumky Trio". Included will be the opening movement, "Lento Maestoso", "Andante", "Andante Moderato", "Allegro" and the closing "Lento Maestoso".

Pianist Weiser will play Gene Gutche's "Sonata, opus 6, no.3" which he premiered at a University of Minnesota Summer Session piano recital July 15, 1958. One of Minnesota's distinguished young composers, Gutche received the master of music degree in music from the University in 1950, and the doctor of philosophy degree in music composition from the State University of Iowa in 1953.

Following the intermission, the University Trio will play Beethoven's "Trio, opus 1, no.1", including the "Allegro", "Adagio Cantabile", "Scherzo--Allegro Assai", and the "Finale--Presto" movements.

"The orchestral music for this concert is provided by the cooperation of Local 73 of the American Federation of Musicians through a grant from the Music Performance Fund of the Recording Industry".

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Professors Edward P. Ney and John R. Winckler of the University of Minnesota physics department have received a $54,700 grant from the National Science Foundation for a four-month extension of their program of continuous balloon monitoring of cosmic rays.

The program was initiated a year ago under a $350,000 grant from the foundation for a 13-month period.

Balloon flights originate both from Minneapolis and Churchill, Canada. A four-man research team currently is working on the project through the summer in Churchill. The balloons, averaging 150,000 cubic feet in size and rising to an average height of 20 miles, are kept in the air around-the-clock to provide continuous data on cosmic radiation, aurora activity and information on radiation from solar flares.

TO BE HELD AT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Regional officials from governmental and private social welfare organizations will attend a University of Minnesota seminar on social welfare research Monday through Saturday (Aug. 8-13) at the Center for Continuation Study on the Minneapolis campus.

The seminar will consider the role of regional officials who serve as consultants to state and local social welfare agencies in providing research consultation. Major subjects to be studied include: current problems involved in developing research programs in social work, potential areas of investigation, research methods, research consultation and collaboration and costs and conditions of planning and administering research projects.

William E. Gordon, professor of research at The George Warren Brown School of Social Work, Washington university, St. Louis, Mo., will direct the six-day seminar.

Members of the University of Minnesota faculty who will serve on the seminar staff include Professor John C. Kidneigh, director of the school of social work; Roy G. Francis, sociology professor; John A. Crane, instructor, and Daniel Weiner, lecturer, both in the school of social work. Weiner is chief of clinical psychology at Minneapolis Veterans administration hospital.

The seminar will be co-sponsored by the University's school of social work and the Continuation center.

'U' ENROLLMENT
SECOND SUMMER
TERM TOTALS 6,998

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Second summer session enrollment at the University of Minnesota totals 6,998, T. E. Pettengill, University recorder, reported Tuesday (Aug. 2).

The figure is 119 below the 7,117 registrations recorded during the second summer session a year ago.

At the University of Minnesota, Duluth, 614 students are enrolled. (Duluth campus registration is included in the 6,998 total for the University). Last year's attendance was 810, which included enrollment for a Summer Institute for High School Teachers of Science and Mathematics financed by the National Science Foundation. The institute was not conducted this year, accounting in part for the decrease in summer session enrollment at Duluth.

Official registration figures at the University are recorded at the close of the second week of the term. The second summer session opened July 18 and will close Aug. 20.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Graduate research laboratories in eight University of Minnesota departments will be modernized or expanded this year under grants from the National Science Foundation totaling $105,700. Another $105,700 in matching funds will be provided by the University to finance the projects.

The grants were awarded under a new NSF pilot program initiated in the fiscal year ending June 30 to provide grants to educational institutions on a matching-fund basis for modernization or expansion of graduate research laboratories. Two million dollars in grants were awarded by the foundation under the new program in the 1960 fiscal year for laboratory modernization in the physical sciences, engineering, biological and medical sciences.

Largest of the grants awarded the University is $50,000 for modernization of the physical chemical instrumental research laboratories in the department of chemistry.

Other grants are as follows: additions to the graduate research laboratories in the department of electrical engineering, $21,500; remodeling of the organic geochemistry laboratory in the department of geology, $8,000; equipping the high temperature laboratory in the department of mechanical engineering, $7,500; modernization of the X-ray laboratory in the department of geology and mineralogy, $6,050; modernization of graduate laboratories in the department of zoology, $5,000; conversion of a greenhouse in the department of botany to a paleobotanical research laboratory, $4,800; expansion of research laboratory facilities in geochemistry in the department of geology, $2,850.

Bids on all projects are scheduled to be let within the next several weeks.

'U' TO AWARD ENGLISH CREDIT TO HIGH-SCORING NEW FRESHMEN

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- College credit in English will be given by the University of Minnesota this fall to entering freshmen who made top scores in the Minnesota State-Wide High School Testing Program, according to Dean E. W. McDiarmid of the University's college of science, literature and the arts.

The test is administered to students in most Minnesota High schools in the junior year. The theme is written in the senior year.

Six credits in freshman composition (English A, B, C) will be granted to qualified students, placing them one-thirtieth on the way to graduation. These students will be eligible, additionally, to take sophomore English courses or an honors freshman course.

Initially, the program will be established on an experimental basis, said Dean McDiarmid.

Approximately 40 freshmen will receive college credits in English this fall under the new program. If the plan proves successful, it may be possible to expand it to include as many as 150 students, Dean McDiarmid declared.

The University's department of English will notify entering freshmen who will receive University credit this fall in English A, B, C on the basis of their scores.

"The high schools of the state have sent to the college of science, literature and the arts many exceptionally able students," said Dean McDiarmid in explaining the new program. "Every year numbers of them demonstrate proficiency in the use of the English language equivalent to that attained by many college sophomores. By giving University credit to such students, the college hopes to recognize their qualification".

PROVOST TO DIRECT
STATE INSURANCE
INFORMATION CENTER

(FOR RELEASE 11 A.M. TUESDAY, AUG. 9, 1960)

Minneapolis --- Appointment of Robert P. Provost, director of the University of Minnesota's Greater University Fund, as executive director of the Minnesota Insurance Information Center in Minneapolis was announced today (Tuesday, Aug. 9) by F. F. Rondeau, president of the center's board of directors and of Mutual Service Insurance companies, St. Paul.

Provost, who has directed the University's educational fund raising department since March 1953, succeeds Thomas Swain who has resigned as executive director of the center to become campaign manager for Elmer L. Andersen, Republican candidate for governor.

Prior to joining the University staff, Provost served in the insurance field for four years in Minnesota and North Dakota. A World War II Navy pilot, he is now active in the Naval Reserve program.

Married and the father of two sons and a daughter, Provost lives at Excelsior, Minn.

JOINT RELEASE FROM:
THE UPPER MIDWEST RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT COUNCIL
AND
THE UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA, MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.
AUGUST 9, 1960

NEW GRANTS TOTALING $600,000 MADE
FOR UPPER MIDWEST ECONOMIC STUDY

(FOR RELEASE 12 NOON, THURSDAY, AUGUST 11, 1960)

Minneapolis --- The Ford Foundation today announced an additional grant of $550,000 to the University of Minnesota for economic and urban studies of the Upper Midwest area, to be carried out jointly by the University and the Upper Midwest Research and Development Council.

The area included in the study consists of the Ninth Federal Reserve District-- Minnesota, Upper Michigan, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, and northern and western Wisconsin.

The plan provides that the Twin Cities Metropolitan Planning Commission will have a major part in developing the urban studies, and scholars in each state of the area are to be invited to participate in the program.

According to Council President J. Cameron Thomson and University of Minnesota President O. Meredith Wilson, the grant will supplement a previous $350,000 grant by the Ford Foundation to help finance the Upper Midwest Economic Study begun in 1959 to aid in the more rapid development of the six-state region through economic research.

Announcement was also made today of a grant to the University of Minnesota of $50,000 from the Hill Family Foundation of St. Paul for the economic study. Mr. Thomson reported the Hill grant as "the largest local contribution" to the study.

It is expected that close to $1,500,000 will be involved in the development of the enlarged study and the work to be done by the Upper Midwest Council in connection with it, Mr. Thomson commented. The grants from the Ford Foundation and the Hill Family Foundation total $950,000. Contributed research to the value of $100,000 is anticipated. Present plans, he indicated, call for the Council to raise $400,000 from business including a gift from the Committee for Economic Development, the major portion of which has already been underwritten.

(MORE)

A portion of the Ford grant announced today together with the grant from the Hill Family Foundation will be used to round out the current research of the Upper Midwest Economic Study under the direction of its research director, Professor James M. Henderson of the University's School of Business Administration, who will have over-all co-ordination of the enlarged study.

The principal share of the new grant will be devoted to the study of urban planning and development problems and their relationship to economic growth and change in the region. This will represent a major extension of the Upper Midwest Economic Study.

Members of the staff of the Twin Cities Metropolitan Planning Commission under its director, C. David Loeks, will be actively engaged in the urban planning aspects of the project. Mr. Loeks is now abroad studying urban problems and how they are met in selected cities of Europe and Asia. However, the program calls for a major portion of the urban studies grant to be applied to problems of urban centers outside the Twin Cities area. Qualified research people from each state in the territory will work on various phases of the project. Detailed design of the urban study is now under way, and when approved by the Ford Foundation, the full-scale study will follow.

"The research will not be aimed at doing local planning for the Upper Midwest's urban areas," Council President Thomson explained today, "but rather at providing a framework and an evaluation of methods to facilitate local planning. Preliminary outlines call for a study of the growth of Upper Midwest urban areas, leading to a grouping of these centers with regard to size, physical improvements and economic characteristics. Major problems affecting each group will be identified and examined in detail. The detailed studies will aim to produce findings and recommendations which are widely applicable to different classes of cities in this region. The urban areas selected for special study will include centers of small, intermediate and large size as well as the Twin Cities metropolitan area."

F. Robert Edman of St. Paul, chairman of the Twin Cities Metropolitan Planning Commission, commented today: "This analysis of the Upper Midwest's urban areas will provide an excellent opportunity to relate urban problems and economic growth to urban planning throughout the six-state region. The study will probe the influence of location, physical environment, level of public services, urban planning programs and other factors on the rate of economic development in the region's urban places. It will also identify the relationships, particularly the economic relationships, between the region's many urban areas. By these means, the study should provide the people of the region with advice and information useful for the promotion of sound economic development within their own communities."

The original economic study now well under way is designed to provide information and understanding that will lead to more rapid economic development of the Upper Midwest on a sound basis. The new urban studies are designed to supplement and enlarge the economic study to produce a more complete program for the Upper Midwest and its urban centers.

The Twin Cities Metropolitan Planning Commission was established by the 1957 Minnesota Legislature to provide advisory metropolitan planning service for an area which now includes seven counties of the state and has had a background of experience since its organization in the problems of city planning. Its membership is composed of representatives of governmental units in the area together with businessmen and other leaders appointed to the Commission.

The Upper Midwest Council is made up of area leaders, primarily from business and banking. Mr. Thomson, its president, today announced the election of six new members as follows: Alf L. Bergerud, president, Red Owl Stores, Inc.; Christian F. Beukema, president, Oliver Iron Mining division, United States Steel Corporation; Harold J. Cummings, president, Mutual Life Insurance company; John F. Driscoll, corporate secretary, St. Paul Fire Marine Insurance company; Thomas G. Harrison, chairman of the board, Super Valu Stores, Inc.; and John S. Pillsbury, Jr., president, Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

The total study comes under the general supervision of a research committee of which Frederick L. Deming, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis, is chairman. The other members of the committee are educators and others experienced in the field of research. "We have an excellent research committee and are looking forward to important results from our study," Mr. Deming said today. "We feel that we are fortunate in the top research personnel who will develop the study."

The Council is supported by important committees representative of leaders throughout the Ninth Federal Reserve District -- a Governors' Advisory Committee, consisting of six state governors in the area, and advisory committees on education, agriculture, labor, and business. The purpose of these committees is to offer advise on the study and in the development of a constructive action program to follow.

There is an important Action Program Report Committee representing the Board. Its purpose will be to coordinate its efforts with the research work and be prepared to make recommendations to the Board, growing out of the study, for the economic development of the states in the Ninth Federal Reserve District.

Henry T. Heald, president of the Ford Foundation, has said about the study planners: "Those who have organized the Upper Midwest Economic Study have acted in the best of the American tradition. They have combined energy and intellect to understand the sweeping forces which are industrializing and urbanizing our exploding population, and by understanding them, to direct, shape, and if possible, master them."

Recently President Dwight D. Eisenhower made the following statement about the program: "It is good to learn that business leaders, and members of the University of Minnesota and the Ford Foundation are cooperating in an intensive study of the economic potential of the Upper Midwest area. From such study can come sound development plans, harnessing the energies and resources of this area in the American tradition of free enterprise. This tradition offers our best hope to achieve healthy growth with a minimum of federal intervention and control and a maximum of local responsibility."

$34,000 GRANT
TO FURTHER 'U'
MAGNETIC STUDY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

A $34,000 National Science Foundation research grant will continue for another two years University of Minnesota basic research on micromagnetics begun in 1958. The grant will be used for a study of "Ferromagnetic Powders and Films" under the direction of University electrical engineering Professor William F. Brown, Jr.

While research under the grant for the last two years has been principally in the general area of magnetic fields and their properties, Brown said, the entirely theoretical work done at the University for the coming two years will attempt to show practical uses to which the magnetic powders and films may be put. Suggested applications include research on permanent magnets, magnetic recording tapes and magnetic films for use in digital computers.

HILLARD TO READ
'U' MAN'S NOVEL
OVER KUOM

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

"Level Seven", a recent novel by Mordecai M. Roshwald, University of Minnesota faculty member, will be the next book to be read on the KUOM radio program "Your Novel". The program is broadcast at 1 p. m. weekdays over the University station.

William Hillard will begin reading the book by the assistant professor of social science Monday (August 15).

Roshwald has written "Level Seven" in speculation about the future of the world should wide-scale atomic warfare take place. The book has been praised by Lord Bertrand Russell, among others, and has been translated into several foreign languages.

Hillard has recently completed reading Charles Dickens' "Great Expectations" and a short story by Mark Twain on KUOM.

INVESTMENT CHIEF

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Wendell T. Burns, Excelsior, executive secretary of the Upper Midwest Economic Study, has been reappointed to the investment committee of the Minnesota Alumni Association (MAA), according to MAA president Russell E. Backstrom, Minneapolis.

Burns, who retired last year as senior vice president of Northwestern National bank of Minneapolis, resigned from the committee in June, 1959, when he was elected MAA president for 1959-60.

John A. Moorhead, Excelsior, president of Northwestern National bank, is chairman of the committee which also includes Sam W. Campbell, James C. Harris and Paul Reyerson, all of Minneapolis.

George L. Faber, Chicago, was appointed to the alumni honors committee, replacing Arnulf Ueland, president of Midland National bank. Chairman of the committee is Bernie W. Bierman, former Minnesota football coach. John K. Fesler, St. Paul, also is a member of the committee which nominates alumni for special recognition.

Appointed to the university scholarship committee for a three-year term was Mrs. V. L. Peterson, Minneapolis, replacing Mrs. Harold Holden, Minneapolis. Chairman of the committee is Nolan C. Kearney, assistant superintendent of St. Paul public schools. Charles Judd Ringer, vice president of Foley Manufacturing company, also is a member.

(MORE)

Douglas D. Wolfangle, St. Paul, was reappointed MAA representative on the Minneapolis campus Union board of governors, and Mrs. Keith N. McFarland, St. Paul, was reappointed representative on the St. Paul campus Union board of governors. Both will serve one-year terms.

Carlyle E. Anderson, Evanston, Ill., was named MAA representative to the board of trustees of the Greater University Fund, replacing Louis Gross, Minneapolis. Anderson will serve a three-year term. Lloyd Hatch, St. Paul, is chairman of the five-member MAA board which also includes (Miss) Betty Sullivan, Minneapolis, Edwin A. Martini, Duluth and Henry C. Mackall, Minneapolis.

Newest member of the past president's committee is Burns, last year's MAA head. New chairman of the committee is Hibbert M. Hill, Minneapolis. Other members are Dr. William F. Braasch, Rochester, Minn.; Victor Christgau, Washington, D.C.; Dr. George Earl, St. Paul; J. D. Holtzermann, Minneapolis; Arthur R. Hustad, Minneapolis; Arthur O. 'U' TO CONDUCT
WORKSHOP FOR PARENTS OF DEAF CHILDREN

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Parents of deaf children will be taught methods to help their youngsters develop language skills at a University of Minnesota workshop Thursday, Friday and Saturday (Aug. 18-20) in the Center for Continuation Study.

The three-day workshop will explore such topics as causes and treatment of deafness, selection and use of hearing aids, adjustments of deaf children and of their families and school placement.

The workshop is the eighth in a series of summer programs offered by the University for parents or guardians of hearing handicapped children.

Marjorie Magner, supervising teacher of the Lower School at the Clarke School for the Deaf, Northampton, Mass., will discuss and demonstrate language and speech development in the home. Currently she is a member of the University of Minnesota summer session faculty, instructing teachers and graduate students on how to teach deaf children. She will be assisted during the workshop by Priscilla Pike, a teacher at the Clarke school in Northampton, who is teaching the demonstration class of deaf children at the University this summer.

Other faculty members will include Harriet Blodgett, program director of The Sheltering Arms, Minneapolis; Dr. R. J. Richardson, Minneapolis physician; and Raymond Stassen, audiologist at the University's Mayo Memorial hospital. Family consultations with the visiting specialists will be arranged from 3:30 to 5 p. m. each day of the workshop.

Registration may be made at 8:30 a. m. Thursday at the dormitory desk in the Center for Continuation Study, University and Seventeenth avenues S. E. Fee and tuition is $8 for individuals and $10 for a family. Play supervisors will care for children during the institute.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Detlev W. Bronk, noted American scientist and research administrator, will present the tenth Gideon Seymour memorial lecture Sunday, November 20, at the University of Minnesota. The lecture, previously scheduled for April 3, was postponed because of illness of the speaker.

Bronk will speak at 4:30 p. m. in Northrop Memorial auditorium. His topic will be announced later.

The famed biophysicist and physiologist has been president of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, New York, since 1953. He served as president of Johns Hopkins university in Baltimore from 1948 to 1953. He has been chairman of the National Science foundation since 1956 and has held the presidency of the National Academy of Sciences since 1950. He headed the American Association for the Advancement of Science in 1952 and was chairman of the National Research council from 1946 to 1950.

Established in 1954 in memory of the late executive editor (1944-54) of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune, the Seymour lectures bring to the University of Minnesota campus distinguished personalities in a wide variety of fields. Directed by a citizens' advisory committee appointed by the University president, the series is financed through funds provided by the Minneapolis Star and Tribune.

Previous Seymour lecturers have been: James Reston, Arnold J. Toynbee, T. S. Eliot, Walter Lippmann, James B. Conant, Lester B. Pearson, Harrison Brown, Archibald MacLeish and Sri Jaya Chamaraja Wadiyar Bahadur (His Highness, the Maharaja of Mysore, India).

Free tickets to the lecture may be obtained by writing to the Gideon Seymour Memorial Lecture office, 223 Northrop Memorial auditorium, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 14. Persons requesting tickets should state the number of tickets desired and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Requests should be postmarked no later than Saturday, Nov. 12.

HOME STUDY COURSE

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---- "Your Trip to Europe", a new home study course, is being offered by the University of Minnesota correspondence study department.

The non-credit course, given in 16 lessons, offers information on sightseeing, shopping and travel techniques and includes a broad coverage of the cultural aspects, economy, government and relations with the United States of the European countries.

The course is based on the lecture series of the same name given by the general extension division in the fall of 1959 and during two previous school years.

Vernie Wolfsberg, who was associated with the World Affairs Center at the University from 1958 until this year, prepared the course. Miss Wolfsberg is vice president of the Minnesota United Nations association.

"The course is designed," explained Miss Wolfsberg, "to give prospective travelers not only practical information to cover the necessary details of foreign travel, but background information to add to their enjoyment, understanding and appreciation of their travels in Europe."

"It aims to serve another purpose of helping travelers become 'informed ambassadors' for the United States while traveling abroad," she added.

Each lesson will include a reading assignment, study notes, a bibliography and a series of suggestions and questions to be considered in reading assignments and report upon.

Additional information about "Your Trip to Europe" and registration blanks can be obtained by writing the Correspondence Study Department, 251 Nicholson Hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 14. Fee for the course is $24. A kit of materials from which assignments will be made may be purchased from the World Affairs Center for $5.

NSF RESEARCH
GRANT OF $30,300
AWARDED TO 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

A National Science Foundation grant of $30,300 has been awarded to the University of Minnesota for the support of basic research on "Light Scattering and Electro-motive Force Studies on Solutions of the Isopolytantalates".

The two-year grant which became effective Aug. 8 will be directed by R. Stuart Tobias, University assistant professor of chemistry.

The research will be devoted to bridging present knowledge of the chemistry of simple salts, such as sodium chloride, and that of the very large polymeric molecules, Tobias said. A practical application may be evolved in the open field of the use of heat-resistant plastics in rocket nose-cones.

Tobias, 1233 Rose Vista court, St. Paul, came to the University in Sept. 1959 from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, North Carolina.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- The challenge of the 1960's to labor on national and international fronts will be the keynote topic of the University of Minnesota's sixth annual steelworkers' summer school next week at the Center for Continuation Study on the Minneapolis campus. Approximately 80 local union leaders from Minnesota, Wisconsin and Upper Michigan are expected to attend the six-day institute, Sunday through Friday (Aug. 21-26).

Twenty-six labor leaders and educators will serve on the faculty, discussing current problems and controversial issues concerning labor. International topics will be examined by four of the main speakers.

Walter H. Uphoff, head of the labor education program at the University's Industrial Relations center, will open the working sessions of the institute with a talk on "The Challenge of the Sixties" at 8:30 a. m. Monday.

George S. Panda, permanent secretary of the ministry of lands, mines and labor in Sierra Leone, British West Africa, will be a special guest of the institute and speak at 3:30 p.m. Monday on "Africa Today". Sierra Leone is scheduled to gain its independence next April.

Meyer Bernstein, Washington, D. C., head of the United Steel Workers of America's international affairs department, will report on "International Labor Organization" at a 6 p.m. dinner Monday. At Tuesday's 8:30 a.m. session, he will discuss the controversial tariffs on iron ore in a talk entitled "Tariffs and Trade".

"Ethics in Our Society" will be analyzed by Emery F. Bacon, Pittsburgh, Pa., director of education for the United Steelworkers of America, AFL-CIO, at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday. Sylvia von Eltz of the United States embassy staff in Stockholm, Sweden, will discuss "The Swedish Labor Movement" at Thursday's morning session. Governor Orville L. Freeman of Minnesota will speak on "Responsible State Government" at 1:15 p. m. Thursday.

(MORE)

Throughout the five-day school, steelworkers will meet in four groups for specialized discussions. First-year men will study "The Steelworker and His Union", receiving training in goals and techniques of unionism. Those attending for the second year will concentrate on "The Steelworker and the Community", to equip union officers to be of service to fellow members and their community. Fourth-year participants will examine practical problems facing unions today under the topic "Using Judgment--Making Decisions".

The institute is sponsored by the University's Continuation center and the United Steelworkers of America.

"The Intellectual Relevance of Judaism", a series of lectures by Professor Abraham Joshua Heschel, will be broadcast on KUOM, University of Minnesota radio station, at 1:30 p. m. on Mondays and Wednesdays, beginning Aug. 29 and continuing through Sept. 21. Title of the opening lecture will be "Depth-Theology".

Rabbi Heschel's lectures were delivered on the University campus spring quarter when he was visiting professor of theology. The rabbi is professor of Jewish ethics and mysticism at the Jewish Theological Seminary of America in New York.

Heschel was born in Warsaw, Poland, and educated in Poland and Germany, receiving the doctor of philosophy degree at the University of Berlin. Among his many writing are his books investigating the fundamental problems of religion as they arise for modern man: "Man Is Not Alone: A Philosophy of Religion", "Man's Quest for God: Studies in Prayer and Symbolism" and "God in Search of Man: A Philosophy of Judaism". A selection of Professor Heschel's writings were assembled in 1959 under the title "Between God and Man".

Other topics and dates of broadcast in the lecture series are: "God in Search of Man", Aug. 31; "Freedom and Existence", Sept. 5; "A Symbol of God", Sept. 7; "Needs, Ends, and Deeds", Sept. 12; "Empathy and Expression", Sept. 14; "Pathos and Sympathy", Sept. 19; and "Sanctification of Time", Sept. 21.

Professor Heschel's lecture series is the second of three delivered under the University's visiting professorship of theology. The Rev. R. A. F. MacKenzie, S.J., of the Jesuit Seminary in Toronto gave the first in the series last winter quarter on "The Theological Significance of the Old Testament". Professor Andres Nygren, Lund University, Lund Sweden, will present the third lecture series in the winter or spring quarter, 1960-61, lecturing on the Protestant theological viewpoint. KUOM has broadcast Father MacKenzie's lectures and plans to present those of Professor Nygren.

'U' DOCTOR
GETS GRANT FOR LIVER STUDIES

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

The University of Minnesota has received a five-year grant of $33,917 from the National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases for continuation of long-range research on porphyrins and biopigments and their relation to diseases of the blood and liver.

The project is under the direction of Dr. Cecil J. Watson, professor and head of the department of medicine, who has been engaged in this field of research since 1931.

Porphyrins are red pigments with wide distribution in nature -- they are found in chlorophyll and hemoglobin -- and have great importance in the processes of respiration. The studies under Dr. Watson will be related to diagnosis of blood and liver diseases.

STUDENTS PLANNING TO ENTER 'U'
URGED TO APPLY FOR ADMISSION NOW

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Students planning to enter the University of Minnesota this fall were urged today by Dean of Admissions and Records R. E. Summers to apply for admission as soon as possible, if they have not already done so, since only a month remains before classes begin in which to avail themselves of complete counseling services and planning help.

This applies to registration at all campuses of the University -- Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth and Morris -- according to Dean Summers.

Undergraduate admissions are running more than 500 ahead of those at the same time a year ago, he reported. Almost 6,500 new freshmen and advanced standing students have been granted admission to date.

New students will arrive on campus for Welcome Week, Sept. 18-24, and fall quarter classes will begin Monday, Sept. 26. Advance registration and orientation of new students has been underway since Aug. 1 and will continue in most colleges of the University into mid-September.

Total attendance at the University this fall is expected to approximate 27,000, according to Dean Summers. Last year's fall attendance was 26,538.

Paul Victor Grambsch has assumed his duties as the new dean of the University of Minnesota school of business administration. The former dean of the Tulane university school of business administration succeeds Richard L. Kozelka, who resigned from the administrative post in order to return to teaching. Kozelka, who remains on the University faculty as professor of business administration, headed the school of business administration since 1945.

Dean Grambsch was appointed by the Board of Regents on May 12. He was dean of the Tulane school of business administration at New Orleans since 1956. He served as associate dean in 1954-55 and acting dean in 1955-56.

Born March 14, 1919, in Dayton, Ohio, Dean Grambsch grew up in Milwaukee, Wis. He received a bachelor of arts degree from North Central college, Naperville, Ill., in 1941. He was a fellow at the University of Mississippi in 1946-47, where he received his master of arts degree in 1947. He did further graduate work at Indiana university, where he earned the doctor of business administration degree in 1955.

Dean Grambsch's special fields of interest are management, industrial relations and economics. He is a member of the Society for the Advancement of Management, the American Economics association, the Industrial Relations Research association, the Southern Economic association and the New Orleans Chamber of Commerce.

During World War II, Dean Grambsch served as an officer in the United States Naval Reserve.

He is married and has eight children.

FOREIGN STUDENTS
ARRIVE AT 'U' FOR ORIENTATION COURSE

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Fifty-eight foreign graduate-level students from English-speaking countries throughout the world are arriving at the University of Minnesota this weekend (Saturday, Aug. 27 and Sunday, Aug. 28) to attend a two week orientation institute which continues through Sept. 11.

The institute, sponsored by the United States State Department's Institute of International Education, is one of six such orientation courses organized under Smith-Mundt and Fulbright Act legislation to introduce foreign students to American life and culture.

Overall objective of the orientation centers, according to Forrest G. Moore, University foreign student adviser and institute director, is to provide for the student new to the United States experiences which will assist him in bridging the gap between his own educational system, culture and field of study and the American Equivalents.

In addition to the Smith-Mundt and Fulbright grant students from Pakistan, India, the United Arab Republic, Japan, Africa and South and Central America, who will come to the University, Moore said, six Indian teachers will attend the institute under Danforth fellowship grants.

'U' PROFESSOR TO STUDY URBAN GROWTH IN EUROPE

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Philip M. Raup, University of Minnesota agricultural economics professor, will sail from New York Thursday (Sept. 1) for Europe, where he will spend a year-long sabbatical studying land value and land use in various countries associated with rapid urban growth and industrial expansion. He also plans to visit the Middle East.

For the first seven months, Raup will center his studies and research in Rome, Italy, at the United Nations' Food and Agricultural organization headquarters, with which he will be associated in a consultative position. During this period he plans to visit Yugoslavia, Turkey and other countries in Southeast Europe and the Middle East to study the sharp division which exists there between urban and rural life. He also plans to examine the effects of Turkey's and Yugoslavia's economic development programs in agriculture and industry.

Next spring Raup will visit the British Isles to study land use problems such as taxation and subdivision planning arising out of the broad-scale program there to decentralize industry by moving it from the large cities into smaller communities. He also has been invited to present a lecture series at Cambridge university, England.

Raup will spend the final three months of his sabbatical in the Scandinavian countries, principally Finland, before returning to the United States in August.

Eighty members of the Associated Students of Afghanistan in the United States will attend the organization's seventh annual national convention Sunday through Thursday (Sept. 4-8) at the University of Minnesota.

His Excellency, A. R. Fazhwak, Afghan delegate to the United Nations, will address the conference on its theme, "Our Prospective Horizon" at the opening session Monday (Sept. 5). Other distinguished guest speakers will include the former United States ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary to Lebanon, the Honorable Harold B. Minor, president of the American Friends of the Middle East, A.S.A. sponsor; His Excellency Mohammed Hashim Maiwandwal, Afghanistan ambassador to the United States; and the first secretary of the Royal Afghan embassy, The Honorable Mahmud-Ghazi.

Following registration Sunday (Sept. 4), the conference will be opened at 10 a. m. in Coffman Memorial Union by Khan A. Mohabbat, A.S.A. president, a Rochester university graduate student in economics. Stanley J. Wenberg, University of Minnesota vice president and administrative assistant, will welcome the delegates to the University.

"Minnesota Night", the A.S.A's "thank you" to its host, the University of Minnesota, will be held Monday evening (Sept. 5) in the Union. A talent show and dancing program will be featured during the evening.

Organizational business and panel discussions will be held at the Union on Tuesday and Wednesday (Sept. 6-7), with the group's annual banquet scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Wednesday (Sept. 7) in the Union main ballroom. Ambassador Maiwandwal and the Hon. Mr. Minor will address the delegates and their friends. A native-dress revue and program, "Afghan Nights" will follow the banquet.

Business sessions and elections will close the conference Thursday (Sept. 8).

Minneapolis --- Administering tests to prisoners or speaking before factory workers are all in a day's work for Minnesota college students studying abroad this summer in Australia under Student Project for Amity among Nations (SPAN) scholarships.

These are some of the reports on the Australia group coming back to Dean Horace T. Morse of the University of Minnesota general college and administrative official for the Minnesota SPAN association:

John M. Hatton, 4000 Bryant avenue north, Minneapolis, who will be a senior at the University of Minnesota this fall, has been giving the Minnesota Multiphasic Personality Inventory to prisoners in New South Wales penal institutions as part of a research project on prison administration. The MMPI is a psychological test widely used for clinical and counseling purposes developed by two University professors. Hatton also spoke at a conference on "The Lawbreaker and the Community" at the University of Sydney, Australia, describing psychological testing and group therapy at Stillwater state prison, Minnesota.

Professor George Vane of Hamline university, group adviser, and Sharon Kay Fuller, Ivanhoe, Minn., University of Minnesota, presented a program before members of the school of pharmacy at the University of Sydney. Professor Vane showed slides of Minnesota and the western states and Miss Fuller explained American pharmacy education.

Two of the Australia group -- Marjorie Loken, Ada, Minn., St. Olaf college, and Joanne Larson, St. Peter, Minn., Gustavus Adolphus college, spent four days in Japan at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Richard Nelson, Lutheran missionaries from Minnesota. During their visit, Miss Loken and Miss Larson discussed SPAN activities before a group of factory workers and before another group of approximately 50 college students.

The students studying in Australia are among 47 students from nine Minnesota colleges and universities traveling abroad this summer under SPAN scholarships. Other countries being visited by the students are Austria, Russia and Denmark.

'U' PROVIDES MORE HOUSING
FOR WOMEN STUDENTS

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Because of a heavy demand for women's housing on the Minneapolis campus, the University of Minnesota this fall will convert Pioneer Court, south wing of Pioneer hall, into a women's dormitory, according to Don L. Finlayson, director of housing. The Court will accommodate 250 students, half of Pioneer hall's capacity.

North wing of Pioneer hall, which is separated from the south wing by the main lobby and offices, will continue to serve as a men's residence hall. Pioneer Court is located on Fulton street, S. E., between Harvard and Walnut streets.

Single, double and three-room suites will be available to women students in Pioneer Court at rates comparable to equal facilities offered by other University women's residences, Finlayson said. These units will be open to undergraduate and graduate students.

The dormitory will be organized into "houses" accommodating approximately 30 women each and supervised by a counselor. Each house will have a private lounge and a counselor apartment with meeting space for student committees. Common dining rooms, lounges and recreational areas will be shared with north court residents.

Applications for Pioneer Court may be sent to the Director, Pioneer Hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 14.

The south court of Pioneer hall was built in 1930 and the north wing in 1934. Conversion of the south court to a women's dormitory will bring to four the number of women's residence halls on the Minneapolis campus, with a total capacity of 1,470 beds.

Minnesota juvenile court judges and probation officers will examine juvenile delinquency and the court's responsibility for training and supervision of juveniles at a University of Minnesota institute Thursday, Friday and Saturday (Sept. 8-10) at Itasca State park.

The tenth annual institute for juvenile court judges is co-sponsored by the University's Center for Continuation Study and the Minnesota Juvenile Judges association.

Eugene Burns, St. Paul, referee of Ramsey county juvenile court, will open the institute at 9 a. m. Thursday with a talk on "Probation Is a Plan, Not a Panacea".

Remainder of the first day will be devoted to analysis of case histories. Topics and the speakers will include: "The Judge's Dependency on the School", Judge M. A. Wahlstrand, Kandiyohi county, Willmar; "The Resources of a Rural Area", Judge Paul Kimball of Mower county, Austin; "Unexplained Cases of Delinquency -- What Symptoms to Look For", Judge John T. McDonough of Washington county, Stillwater; "The Judge and Community Pressure", Judge Vincent Hollaren of Nobles county, Worthington; and "The Run-of-the-Mill Case, With and Without a Probation Officer", Judge Elmer T. Tomfohr of Goodhue county, Red Wing.

William Turnbladh, Minnesota state commissioner of corrections, will give the concluding remarks at Thursday's session.

Jacqueline Bernard, Anoka State hospital staff psychologist, will discuss psychological terminology at 9:30 a. m. Friday. Robert D. Wirt, University of Minnesota associate professor of psychology, will speak on "Analyzing Delinquency" at 10:30 a.m. and Armin Grams, University associate professor in the institute of child development and welfare, will discuss "Adolescent Development" at 1:30 p. m.

The final session at 9 a. m. Saturday will include a talk by Robert Johnson, Anoka county attorney, Anoka, on "The County Attorney and the Juvenile Judge Work Together".

INDIA STUDENT
TO STUDY AT 'U'
AS ROTARY FELLOW

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Ashok K. Gupta of Moradabad, Uttar Pradesh, India, one of 125 graduate students from 31 countries to be awarded 1960-61 Rotary Foundation Fellowships for study abroad, will study business administration at the University of Minnesota this coming academic year. The Rotary club of Moradabad sponsored his application for the fellowship.

Gupta, 24, received a bachelor of arts degree in 1956 and a master of arts degree in 1958 from K. G. K. College of Agra university, Uttar Pradesh, India. He was awarded gold and silver medals for achieving first in his school and first in order of merit in the master of arts examination. He now is an apprentice officer with the firm of M/s. Birla Bros., in one of their sugar factories in Moradabad.

While at Agra university, Gupta was a member of the Planning Forum, the Economic association and the College Students union. He was captain of the tennis team and participated in cricket and badminton. He is proficient in the English language.

Since the Rotary Fellowship program was established in 1947, 1,319 students from 67 countries have received fellowships for study in 45 countries.

The student is in direct contact with Rotarians and their families in the country in which he studies. He attends their Rotary club meetings, visits in their homes and places of business and travels as much as possible during his school holidays. In this way, he sees how the people in his host country live. One of the principal objectives of the Rotary Fellowship program is to promote international understanding.

Edward McCrady, vice-chancellor and president of the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., will give the Quarterly Surgical History of Medicine lecture Thursday (Sept. 8) at the University of Minnesota. He will speak at 8:30 p. m. in Mayo auditorium on "Leonardo da Vinci as an Anatomist".

The lecture will be open free to the public.

President McCrady, in his lecture, will discuss findings on anatomy, generally attributed to Italian anatomist Andreas Vesalius who was born 62 years after da Vinci, which evidence indicates may be those of the Renaissance sculptor and painter.

A scientist as well as an administrator, President McCrady has done research in several fields. As chief of the biology division for the Atomic Energy commission in Oak Ridge, Tenn., in 1949-51, he headed research on peacetime uses of atomic energy. One of his studies was of how radioactivity might be used to determine the age of the earth and origin of matter. He also is a specialist on the physiology of human hearing and studied anatomy and embryology at the University of Pittsburgh medical school.

President McCrady was a research scientist at the University of Pennsylvania's Wistar Institute of Anatomy before joining the faculty of the University of the South in 1937 as professor and head of the biology department. He took a leave of absence in 1948-51 to work with the Atomic Energy commission. When he returned to Sewanee in 1951, he was named acting vice-chancellor and in 1952 was elected president and vice-chancellor of the institution, positions he has held since.

The year after he became president, trustees of the University of the South voted to admit the first Negro student to the University.

President McCrady's lecture will be sponsored by the University of Minnesota medical school's department of surgery.

CAMPS PLANNED FOR 'U' FROSH

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Approximately 700 University of Minnesota new students will have an opportunity to become better acquainted with other new students, upperclassmen, faculty members and campus life at six freshman camps September 16-18. This 36th annual camp program, organized by the dean of students' office, the Minnesota Student association and the University senate committee on student affairs, is open to all new University students.

The three-day camping program will include discussions of campus activities, talks on what the University offers the student, general question and answer sessions and planned recreation.

The new students will camp at Green Lake, Spicer, Camp Iduhapi on Lake Independence, Camp St. Croix on the St. Croix river, Camp Icaghowan on Lake Wapogasset near Amery, Wis., Camp Courage at Buffalo and at Camp Memorial at Onamia.

Each camp will provide accommodations for approximately 100 campers and will be staffed by 24 counselors chosen from University upperclassmen and eight or 10 staff and faculty members.

Cost of the three-day camp will be $12.50. Scholarships covering the costs are available through the University's bureau of student loans and scholarships, and are provided by funds from the proceeds of the annual Campus Carnival.

Application blanks for the camps may be obtained from the Orientation office, Room 320, Coffman Memorial Union, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 14.

Following the camp schedule will be the University's traditional Welcome Week for new students September 18-24 on the Twin City campuses.

ARTS COMMITTEE

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Dean E. W. McDiarmid of the University of Minnesota's college of science, literature and the arts has been named to a national centennial committee of the American Association of Land-Grant Colleges and State Universities' division of arts and science.

The committee will make a study during the coming year of what is being done today in teaching, research and public service in arts and science throughout the land-grant system of educational institutions. Results of this evaluation will be reported at the association's centennial convocation in November 1961, in Kansas City, Mo. The centennial of the land-grant system will be observed in 1961-62.

The committee also will be responsible for liaison with national societies, associations and similar groups with which they are in contact in order to bring the centennial to their attention and to seek their active participation.

Other committees will make studies in the areas of agriculture, engineering, general extension, graduate work, home economics, teacher education and veterinary medicine.

•U• STUDENTS RAISE
$41,966 FOR CHARITY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- A total of $41,966 was raised or donated for charitable and public service projects by University of Minnesota students during the 1959-60 academic school year, according to Dean of Students Edmund G. Williamson.

Some 822 service projects of all kinds -- work, entertainment, and donations of books, clothing, food and money -- were carried on by the 188 student organizations advised by the student activities bureau of the dean's office.

All-campus events accounted for more than half of the $41,000 total: Campus Carnival grossed $20,246 for University scholarships; the Campus Community Chest drive raised $3,180; the Christmas Seal and Heart drives totaled $2,287.

Contributions of individual groups included $739 for nursing scholarships from Powell hall student nurses' residence, and more than $600 sent by campus religious foundations to foreign missions and schools. Over $500 was raised for the "adoption" of war orphans in Europe and Asia. Other organizations contributed to the purchase of guide dogs for blind students, to the United Nations Committee on Refugees, to the Curative Workshop, CARE, Camp Courage and to the United States Olympic fund.

Many of the 822 service projects did not involve monetary donations but were contributions of students' services. Fraternity and sorority members scrubbed floors, washed windows and painted walls at the Anoka and Hastings State hospitals. Other students cleaned buildings and grounds at church, settlement house and Salvation Army camps.

Some volunteered their services to the Goodwill Industries during their spring city-wide clothing drive. Patients at Gillette and the Shriners' hospitals, the Sister Kenny institute and in homes for the aged were entertained by students from University residence halls. A sorority assisted in the Dowling School for Crippled Children Fun Fest -- books were collected for use in hospitals, for the Mt. Sinai book fair, and for college libraries in Hong Kong and in Korea.

Boys nominated by the Big Brothers organization and from the Catholic Boys' Home were taken to athletic events and to the Shrine circus by University students. The YMCA received assistance in building cabins at Camp St. Croix and medical students volunteered their services at a Washington avenue medical clinic.

The work of encouraging the University students to take part in all types of social service activities, and of assisting campus organizations to find suitable service projects is one of the functions of the University's Social Service council, according to Dean Williamson. The council is composed of 35 students representing all phases of campus life, four faculty members and a staff member from the student activities bureau.

FILM ON GAME CONSERVATION
PRODUCED AT MINNESOTA 'U'

(FOR RELEASE 11 A. M. TUESDAY, SEPT. 13)

Minneapolis --- "The Big Four", a new color sound film on game management, was released today (Tuesday, Sept. 13) by the University of Minnesota's audio-visual education service and the Minnesota Museum of Natural History.

The film was produced by the University of Minnesota in cooperation with the Delta Waterfowl Research station, Delta, Manitoba, Canada, and the Minnesota Department of Conservation's division of game and fish. It is the first in a series entitled "Outdoor Heritage".

Aimed at sportsmen and the general public, the 25-minute film will attempt to explain the need for wildlife preservation and control and the work of the game biologist.

"The big four" referred to in the title are four "principles" or factors involved in wildlife population behavior -- environmental conditions which limit the number of game animals; the wildlife capacity of individual habitats; the rapid population turnover and reproduction which occur in the spring; and the surplus of wildlife available in the fall for hunting.

These factors will be explained through the conversations of a game biologist, a boy and his grandfather. Members of the cast are Raymond J. Lammers, University of Minnesota instructor in the drama advisory service; Ivar Brogger, University high school student; and Francis E. Drake, University associate professor of rhetoric.

(MORE)

"Much more basic information on ecology and population dynamics is needed to enable wildlife managers to build up populations on shrinking habitats," according to Walter J. Breckenridge, museum director. "Through this film we hope to bring about a better understanding of the problems faced by wildlife biologists and to gain support of sportsmen and the public for research and game management practices."

Herbert Krause, English professor at Augustana college, Sioux Falls, S. D., wrote the script for the film. He also has written several historical works and was awarded a grant by the American Association for the Advancement of Science for his annotated bibliography on "The Literature of South Dakota Birds". A native of Fergus Falls, Minn., he is the author of Minnesota's Statehood Centennial poem, "Giant in the Wooded Earth".

Donald G. Cain, production manager of the University's motion picture production division, directed and edited the film. Financing was provided by the North American Wildlife foundation, the Wildlife Management institute and individual sportsmen.

The film will be available for purchase by sportsmen's groups, conservation agencies or interested organizations from the University's audio-visual education service. Rentals may be made through the University general extension division film library or through other film libraries throughout the state.

Minneapolis --- Registration for University of Minnesota fall quarter evening classes will open Monday (Sept. 12) and continue through Wednesday, Sept. 21, according to Associate Dean Huntington Miller of the general extension division, director of the department of evening and special classes.

Almost 400 courses in subjects ranging from philosophy and political science to engineering and industrial management will be offered. Classes begin Sept. 26.

"Based on registrations of past years, preparations are being made to take care of more than 9,000 students during the fall term," Dean Miller said. Last year's fall term registration was 9,400.

A new plan whereby students may complete a master's degree in business administration and a special group of courses in economics for the layman will be added to the night school curriculum this coming school year.

New fall courses in economics will include "Scope, Methods and Applications of Economics", a background course sketching major problems of modern economics; and a survey course in state law as applied to insurance, with special emphasis on problems of small businesses. A course in consumer economics will be offered in the spring.

Other courses added to the curriculum this year will include classical literary traditions, geographical exploration and discovery, Western Europe, introduction to Biblical Hebrew, basic photography, color photography and play production in the secondary school.

Seventeen certificate programs in liberal arts, business administration and engineering science may be completed in evening school. Five regular University degrees also may be earned: the associate in liberal arts, the bachelor of arts, the bachelor of science in business, the bachelor of science in economics and the master of business administration.

Registration may be made at 57 Nicholson hall on the University campus, 690 Northwestern Bank building, Minneapolis, and 555 Wabasha street, St. Paul. Office hours will be noon to 8 p. m. on weekdays and 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. on Saturday.

The University of Minnesota Regents Award will be presented to the Masons of Minnesota at a noon luncheon Saturday (Sept. 17) in Coffman Memorial Union main ballroom. Approximately 550 Masons from lodges and chapters throughout Minnesota are expected to attend the event.

The Masons will be honored for their contribution to the Masonic Memorial hospital on the University campus, which was built with funds raised by voluntary subscription in a campaign conducted by the Masons. The million-dollar hospital, located at Essex and Harvard streets, S. E., was opened on Oct. 15, 1958. A unit of University of Minnesota hospitals, it is dedicated to patient care, teaching and research in advanced diseases, primarily that of cancer.

Regent Lester A. Malkerson, Minneapolis, will present the Regents Award gold medal and citation to Past Grand Master Clyde E. Hegman, Minneapolis, president of the Masonic Memorial Hospital Fund, Inc.

Malcolm M. Willey, University academic vice president, will welcome the guests at the luncheon. University President O. Meredith Wilson will give the main address.

Honored guests at the luncheon will include Edward L. Gruber, Duluth, deputy grand master of Grand Lodge A. F. and A. M. of Minnesota; Mrs. Florence Baker, Northfield, worthy grand matron of the Minnesota Eastern Star; and Clarence Lindstrom, St. Paul, worthy grant patron of the Eastern Star.

The Regents Award is presented to individuals or organizations who contribute to the building and development of the University through significant benefactions, or who have performed exceptionally valuable and meritorious service to the University. This will be the ninth Regents Award, which was first presented in 1957.

An open house for the guests will be held in the Masonic Memorial hospital preceding the luncheon.

Minneapolis --- The first book to appear through a joint publishing arrangement between Carleton college and the University of Minnesota will be published Monday, Sept. 26, according to John Ervin, director of the University of Minnesota Press.

The book is "The Continental Model: Selected French Critical Essays of the Seventeenth Century, in English Translation", edited by two members of Carleton college faculty, Scott Elledge and Donald S. Schier.

This book, and future volumes expected to result from the cooperative publishing arrangement, will carry the joint imprint of the University of Minnesota Press and Carleton college. Under the plan, once a manuscript has been accepted for publication by committees representing the two institutions, publishing details will be carried out by the University of Minnesota Press.

The volume "The Continental Model" contains translations of a selection of essays by various French literary critics, all of them important for their influence on the climate of opinion in which English criticism flowered. The editors provide interpretive comment and notes.

Schier is a professor of French and chairman of the department of modern languages at Carleton college. Elledge is a professor and chairman of the English department at the Northfield, Minn., college.

Professor Schier translated some of the essays which appear in "The Continental Model". Other translations contained in the volume were done by contemporaries of the authors.

The volume is expected to be useful to students of English and comparative literature.

Minneapolis --- The University of Minnesota, in an experimental program, will grant college credit this fall in French, Spanish, German and trigonometry to entering freshmen who can pass college level examinations and who present high school units in excess of the minimum 12 required for entry, according to Dean E. W. McDiarmid of the college of science, literature and the arts. Students who have had advanced or enriched courses in high school also may be eligible even though they do not present excess admission units.

Students who qualify may receive three quarter credits in trigonometry and five or more quarter credits in language after admission to the University, the dean explained.

The plan is being adopted on an experimental basis for a year or two while the program is evaluated by the University and by high school administrators, Dean McDiarmid explained.

"The program," he said, "is another step taken by the college of science, literature and the arts to recognize and reward superior high school achievement in hopes of encouraging the ablest, and highly motivated, students to go on more rapidly into advanced work in the subjects concerned."

Earlier this summer, the college also announced plans to give college credit in English composition to those entering freshmen who made top scores in the State-Wide Testing program conducted in the high schools of Minnesota.

Students entering the University's institute of technology already have an opportunity to receive advanced placement and credit in mathematics courses usually taken in the first two years of college, namely algebra, trigonometry, analytical geometry and calculus, according to Associate Dean Frank Verbrugge.

The University also participates in the Advanced Placement Program of the College Entrance Examination board. Under this program, entering freshmen may receive advanced standing or University credit, or both, in a number of subjects on the basis of College Board Advanced Placement examinations taken in high school. The University has long offered credit by departmental advanced standing examinations for work beyond that usually offered in high school.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Approximately 700 University of Minnesota students will receive National Defense Student loans for the 1960-61 school year out of the University's federal allocation of $250,000, according to George B. Risty, director of student loans. All loans already have been assigned, he added.

The University's allotment is the maximum granted to an institution under the program. Each participating college and university is required to put up one dollar of its own money for every nine dollars of federal funds granted to it. This requirement brings the University's total national defense loan fund to $277,777.

The University is among 1,410 colleges and universities in the nation which are participating in the loan program this year.

Most loans, which are given on the basis of need, will average $400 to $500, according to Risty.

"Purpose of the program," he said, "is to give assurance that no student of ability will be denied an opportunity for advanced study in the field of his choice because of financial need."

Maximum allowable loan per student is $1,000 a year, according to provisions of Title II of the National Defense Education Act of 1958. The act limits the amount of the loans, however, to "not more than the borrower actually requires".

Special consideration is given to students "with superior academic background who express a desire to teach in elementary or secondary schools and to students whose background indicates a superior capacity or preparation in science, mathematics, engineering or modern foreign languages".

The loans are interest-free until one year after the student completes his education. Three per cent interest is then charged on the loans with one tenth of the amount coming due each year.

BRAINERD MAN'S WILL PROVIDES
31 'U' SCHOLARSHIPS

(FOR RELEASE 11 A.M. FRIDAY, SEPT. 16, 1960)

Minneapolis ---Regents of the University of Minnesota Friday (Sept. 16) accepted an initial gift of $15,500 from the Charles and Ellora Alliss Educational Foundation for the establishment at the University of 31 $500 scholarships to be awarded to selected entering freshman students.

Created by the will of the late Charles Clifford Alliss of Brainerd, the foundation is an educational trust. In offering the gift to the University, Foundation trustees specified that the University select students who are Minnesota residents and who by reason of financial need require and will be significantly benefited by scholarship aid.

The grant provides that the scholarships should not be confined to students with the highest scholastic rank but that the upper 40 per cent of any class should be regarded as eligible. Students receiving aid from other sources are to be considered eligible for the Alliss Foundation scholarships.

The grant also provides that the scholarships be made available alike to students desiring to enroll at the Duluth and Morris campuses as well as at the Minneapolis and St. Paul campuses.

Upon accepting the gift today, the University Regents announced the names of the 31 incoming freshmen who have been chosen to receive the Charles and Ellora Alliss Educational Foundation scholarships. Included are two who plan to attend the University of Minnesota, Duluth, and two who have been admitted to University of Minnesota, Morris.

The winners were selected from approximately 1,000 applicants for beginning freshman scholarships who applied before March 1.

PARENT'S DAY
SUNDAY TO OPEN
'U' WELCOME WEEK

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---Educational, social and cultural aspects of campus life and the University's new president, O. Meredith Wilson, will be introduced to new students at the University of Minnesota during the annual Welcome Week (September 18-24) starting Sunday (September 18). Fall quarter classes will begin Monday, September 26.

Opening Welcome Week will be Parents' Day Sunday (September 18). Following informal campus tours for parents of new students, starting at 1 p.m., President Wilson, Dean of Students Edmund G. Williamson, Eric Nathanson, orientation commission chairman, and James Spensley, Minnesota Student association president, will address parents and students in Northrop Memorial auditorium at 2 p.m.

Open houses conducted by campus religious foundations will be held at 4:30 p.m., after which, students and their parents will attend a general welcome meeting in Northrop auditorium at 7 p.m. Winding up the first day of Welcome Week will be the University YMCA and YWCA- sponsored First Nighter program of square-dancing, singing and social dancing at 8:30 p.m. in Coffman Memorial Union.

Monday, a Dixieland luncheon featuring the music of Harry Blons on Coffman Union terrace will proceed a "Classroom Preview" at 1 p.m. in Northrop auditorium. Three campus situations--- a lecture, a laboratory and a classroom discussion--- in which the new student soon will find himself, will be demonstrated in sample classes designed to acquaint new students with the content and method of college courses.

College programs for students registered on the Minneapolis campus will be discussed by deans of the colleges of science, literature and the arts, the institute of technology, education, nursing and dental hygiene at 10:15 a.m. convocations Tuesday in designated auditoriums. St. Paul campus students will hear a discussion of the importance of student-faculty relations at the St. Paul campus convocation at 1:45 p.m. in the Student Center building.

President and Mrs. Wilson will be guests of honor at the St. Paul Campus Hey Day barbecue luncheon for new students Wednesday (September 21) celebrating the new president's birthday. Dean Rodney A. Briggs, head of the new University campus at Morris, will address the students at a convocation in Coffey auditorium at 1:30 p.m.

Following tours of the St. Paul campus at 2:30 p.m., all-for-fun Olympics, (Minnesota version) will be held on the campus Mall. Supper and a song-fest on the athletic field will precede the Blue Jean ball in the Student Center at 7 p.m.

Two convocations in Northrop auditorium will feature the Welcome Week program for Thursday. Professor David LaBerge of the University psychology department will address a 10:30 a.m. meeting on "The Enjoyment of Art and the Art of Enjoyment", and Kenneth E. Clark, associate dean of the University's graduate school, will speak on the value of activities and their place on the campus at an activities convocation at 1 p.m.

Fraternity and sorority open-house dinners at 5:30 p.m. Thursday will precede the evening program, "Introduction to the Lively Arts"--- a preview of the types of cultural entertainment which will be available to the students during the academic year. Following this program, the Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils will sponsor fraternity-sorority night at 8:30 p.m. in Coffman Union's main ballroom.

The first big dance of the school year--- the Welcome Whirl --- in Coffman Union's main ballroom will conclude the 1960 Welcome Week activities for the new students.

UNIVERSITY RADIO
'SCHOOL OF AIR'
TO BEGIN SEPT. 26

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---"The Minnesota School of the Air", the in-school radio service of University of Minnesota radio station KUOM, (770 on the dial), will begin its twenty-third year of broadcasting Monday, September 26, with several new programs.

The regular weekly schedule will offer 10 different 15-minute programs geared to the interests and curricula of children in the primary and intermediate grades. In addition, the Minnesota School of the Air will present 12 concerts for young people played by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra and concert and theater previews.

French will be added to the language series, which now includes German and Spanish, for the first time this school year. Each language series is designed to stimulate interest in foreign languages, to lay a foundation for correct pronunciation and to supplement social study units of the respective countries.

Another new series this year is "1940", 12 dramatized programs on events of that year. As in previous years, the present political situation will be discussed on "Current Events".

New also for this year is "A Sense of the World", a series encouraging listeners to develop their senses of vision and hearing and feeling in order to arrive at a greater appreciation of the arts. The series was planned in cooperation with the Walker Art Center and the Minneapolis Institute of Arts.

Bulletins, listing times and dates of all programs, are available free of charge at the Minnesota School of the Air, Station KUOM, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 14, Minnesota. Manuals for the primary and intermediate grades sell for 50 and 75 cents, respectively. Spanish worksheet sets sell for 15 cents each and French and German worksheets are 25 cents a set.

'U' REGENTS CITE
MINNESOTA MASONS

(FOR RELEASE AFTER SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1960)

Minneapolis ---Each of Minnesota's 564 Masonic lodges and Eastern Star chapters will receive a copy of the University of Minnesota Regents Award presented to the Masons of Minnesota Saturday (September 17) at a luncheon on the University campus.

The Masons were cited for their contribution to the Masonic Memorial hospital on the University campus, which was built with funds raised by voluntary subscription in a campaign conducted by the Masons. The million-dollar hospital, located at Essex and Harvard streets, S. E., was opened on October 15, 1958. A unit of University of Minnesota hospitals, it is dedicated to patient care, teaching and research in advanced diseases, primarily cancer.

More than 500 Masons from lodges and chapters throughout Minnesota, who were active in the fund campaign for the hospital, attended the luncheon Saturday (September 17) in Coffman Memorial union main ballroom.

Regent Lester A. Malkerson, Minneapolis, presented the Regents Award gold medal and citation to Past Grand Master Clyde E. Hegman, Minneapolis, president of the Masonic Memorial Hospital Fund, Inc.

University President O. Meredith Wilson addressed the luncheon guests and Malcolm M. Willey, University academic vice president, welcomed the visitors.

The Regents Award is presented to individuals or organizations who contribute to the building and development of the University through significant benefactions, or who have performed exceptionally valuable and meritorious service to the University.

The award to the Masons reads in part as follows:

"Because the Masons of Minnesota have built, because they have dedicated themselves, and because they have asserted their faith, the Regents of the University of Minnesota confer upon the Masons of Minnesota the Regents Award, in special recognition of the qualities of benefaction, fidelity and leadership."

27,000 EXPECTED

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---Classes will begin Monday, September 26, for University of Minnesota students on the Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth and Morris campuses.

Although an official attendance report will not be available until after the second week of the quarter, it is estimated that University enrollment this fall will approach 27,000.

The University's new President O. Meredith Wilson will address the University student body for the first time when he greets new enrollees and welcomes students back to the campus at the opening fall quarter convocation at 11:30 a.m. Thursday, September 29, in Northrop Memorial auditorium.

Classes will be excused for the convocation hour, and students will assemble on the mall in front of the auditorium as the University bands, directed by the new Bandmaster, Frank P. A. Bencriscutto, play from the auditorium steps.

Provost Raymond W. Darland will welcome students at opening convocation on the Duluth campus September 29. Dean Rodney A. Briggs of the University of Minnesota, Morris, which will offer college-level instruction for the first time this year, will greet students at the first convocation on that campus. The Morris campus will offer first-year college courses only during the 1960-61 school year.

Registration, which began August 1, for the fall quarter, will continue through September. New student camps will be held Friday and Saturday, September 16 and 17. Welcome Week opens Monday, September 18.

GENETICIST, NOBEL PRIZE WINNER
TO SPEAK AT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

"The Human Biological Future" will be the subject of a special lecture to be given by Nobel prize winner Professor Hermann J. Muller of Indiana University Wednesday (September 21) at the University of Minnesota. Professor Muller will speak at 8:30 p.m. in Room 125 Mayo Memorial auditorium on the Minneapolis campus. The lecture will be open free to the public.

Muller will discuss the possible changes in human heredity which might occur during the next 10 or 20 generations.

He received the 1946 Nobel prize in genetics for research done in the late 1920's and early 1930's at the University of Texas. His experiments showed that X-rays could produce mutations in germinal cells causing heredity changes in offspring of the irradiated individuals.

The prize-winning scientist has been the "distinguished service professor of zoology" at Indiana University since 1953. His honors include election as president of the International Congress of Genetics in Stockholm, Sweden, in 1948, and as president of the American Society of Human Genetics in 1949. He was president of the American Society of Naturalists in 1943 and of the Genetics Society in 1947.

His lecture will be sponsored by the University of Minnesota's Dight Institute for Human Genetics and department of concerts and lectures and by the Minnesota Human Genetics league.

'U' TO CONDUCT
12 TRAINING
INSTITUTES IN DENTISTRY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

A seminar on oral medicine Friday and Saturday (Sept. 23-24) will be the first in a series of 12 postgraduate educational institutes in dentistry to be offered by the University of Minnesota during the 1960-61 school year. A total of approximately 300 dentists are expected to attend the courses, which are conducted by the University's school of dentistry in cooperation with the Center for Continuation Study.

"The need for postgraduate or continuing education courses in dentistry has never been greater," Dean William H. Crawford of the school of dentistry said in announcing the 1960-61 courses. "This circumstance is due to the rapidity of the changing procedures in all areas of dentistry, to new materials that have been developed, to the improved and expanded use of auxiliary personnel and to the changing environment about the profession's relations in hospitals and local health programs."

Dean Crawford also cited new emphasis being put on preventative dentistry as the result of research discoveries.

The fifteenth annual course in oral medicine Friday and Saturday will be under the direction of Dr. Wendell L. Bartholdi, University professor of dentistry and chairman of the division of oral diagnosis and radiology. Current approaches in the treatment of periodontal disease, psychiatric problems related to dental patients and new dental materials will be among topics discussed.

Guest speakers will include Drs. Ralph W. Phillips, chairman of the department of dental materials at Indiana university; Capt. Charles E. Rudolph, Jr., head of the Marine Corps base dental clinic, Camp Pendleton, Calif.; Sigvard Ramfjord, professor of periodontics, and Ralph F. Sommer, head of the endodontics and radiology departments, both University of Michigan.

Three shows, the one-man retrospective of oils by Jan Mueller, the Graphic Art of Edvard Munch, and Prints by German Expressionists, will be on view in the University of Minnesota gallery Monday (Sept. 26) when the gallery salutes the opening of the fall season with an open house and tea from 3 to 5 p.m. in the third and fourth floor exhibition space in Northrop Memorial auditorium.

Fourteen brilliant oils by Jan Mueller, the young German immigrant whose tragic death cut short his career in 1958, hang in the third floor Seminar gallery. Featured is his most famous work, the huge "Temptation of St. Anthony". All of the Mueller works on exhibition until Oct. 20, are shown through the courtesy of Mrs. Jan Mueller.

The Graphic Arts of Edvard Munch, a major exhibition of 40 master prints by one of the great figures of modern art, are being featured in the main fourth floor gallery, and will be shown through Nov. 4. The exhibition, composed mainly of etchings and lithographs plus a few colored woodcuts, has been loaned by the National Gallery of Art, Rosenwald Collection, Washington, D.C. Commentaries on the prints have been written by University art department professor Dimitri Tselos.

An initial showing of 35 prints from the University gallery's own collection of prints by German Expressionists will hang in the fourth floor corridor. The selection of work by the forerunners and followers of the German Expressionism movement includes Kirchner's woodcut, "Doerli", and several plates from Kaethe Kollwitz' "Prisoners" series. Other artists whose work is included are: Beckmann, Campondonk, Heckel, Pechstein and Schmitt-Rottluff.

The University gallery is open 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. schooldays, and during concert intermissions.

STATE EDUCATORS
TO CONFER AT 'U'
ON TEST PROGRAM

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Approximately 300 high school counselors, guidance workers and school administrators are expected to attend the University of Minnesota's tenth annual conference on the Minnesota state-wide testing program Saturday (Sept. 24) on the University's Minneapolis campus.

Morning sessions will be held in Mayo Memorial auditorium. The noon luncheon and afternoon meetings are scheduled in Coffman Memorial Union main ballroom. Registration will start at 8:45 a.m., and the program will get underway at 9:15 a.m.

The conference is aimed at keeping high school counselors and administrators abreast of developments in the state-wide testing program, which is administered by the University, according to Edward O. Swanson, assistant professor in the student counseling bureau. Current trends and research in counseling also will be discussed.

Use of the Minnesota Counseling Inventory in the high school program will be reviewed at the 9:15 a.m. opening session by Professor Ralph F. Berdie, director of the student counseling bureau. At 10 a.m., Associate Professor Theda Hagenah, assistant bureau director, will discuss "Educational and Occupational Plans Made by the High School Juniors".

"The Use of Expectancy Tables by the High School Counselor" will be analyzed at 10:50 a.m. by Associate Professor Jack Merwin, assistant bureau director. Assistant Professor Forrest L. Vance will report at 11:30 a.m. on research in the Minnesota state-wide testing program and in the American College Testing Program.

Professor Arthur Brayfield, chairman of the psychology department of Pennsylvania State university, will give the principal talk at 1:15 p.m. on the topic "Counsel for the Counselor".

The conference will close with a counseling demonstration by a panel of high school and student counseling bureau counselors.

'U' MARCHING BAND
TO APPEAR IN NEW UNIFORMS THURSDAY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- The brilliant new uniforms of the University of Minnesota football marching band will be seen for the first time when the 128 musicians and 10 flag bearers make their first appearance of the year at a Welcome Week pep-fest Thursday noon in front of Coffman Memorial Union.

It also will be the first public campus appearance of the band's new director, Frank Bencriscutto, University bandmaster and music department instructor.

While all members of the three University bands--- the concert band, the concert ensemble and the football marching band--- will appear in the new uniforms of navy blue decorated in maroon, gold and white braid, only the marching band will wear the "double-exposure" dickey, Bencriscutto said.

The dickeys, white in front with a block "M" in maroon, also display the block "M" on the back---but on a gold metallic field. Gold-buckled maroon belts secure the dickeys. White plumes adorn the weather proofed white-topped caps worn by the football band.

New students at the University will bring bag lunches and assemble on the lawn in front of the Union to listen to the band and enjoy the antics of the cheerleaders who will teach them the Minnesota cheers in preparation for the coming football season.

'U' WILL HONOR
CHINA MISSIONARY,
84, 1899 ALUMNUS

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- The Rev. Perry O. Hanson, an 1899 graduate of the University of Minnesota and a missionary to China for 48 years, will receive the University's Outstanding Achievement Award Wednesday, Sept. 28.

Rev. Hanson will be honored at a noon luncheon in the Campus Club, Coffman Memorial Union, attended by friends, colleagues and members of the Class of 1899. University President O. Meredith Wilson will present the Outstanding Achievement gold medal and citation, given to alumni who have distinguished themselves in their chosen fields.

The 84-year-old clergyman is credited with establishing the first coeducational school in China under government approval. He first went to China in 1903 as a missionary for the Methodist Episcopal church and studied for the ministry and was ordained by the Methodist church during his first years there.

In addition to the school which he founded, Rev. Hanson secured funds for the building of a church, a hospital and several other missionary buildings. He also was active in the formation in 1925, of the Shantung conference of the Methodist church.

He and his wife were forced out of China in 1927 by violent anti-western demonstrations, but returned again the next year. Driven out again by the war in 1941, Rev. Hanson returned again to China in 1945, at the request of the local people. Already past retirement age, he and his wife set about to rebuild the church in China until their imprisonment by the Communists. His wife died in prison, and Rev. Hanson was deported back to the United States.

Born Nov. 24, 1875, in Darlington, Wis., Rev. Hanson was YMCA secretary for the University of Kansas and the University of Minnesota before beginning his missionary career. He is remarried and lives in Iola, Kans. Since his return from China, he has been lecturing in churches and before civic groups.

PUBLIC SCHOOL
LAW INSTITUTE
SCHEDULED AT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

The University of Minnesota's eighth annual institute on public school law will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 29, 30 and Oct. 1, in the Center for Continuation Study on the Minneapolis campus.

Approximately 150 school administrators, business managers, attorneys and school board members are expected to attend the three-day session.

Administrative and legal aspects of school construction will be discussed by the faculty of eight specialists in law and education.

Robert R. Hamilton, Minnesota state director of bar admissions and dean emeritus of the University of Wyoming college of law, will discuss the legal aspects of preliminary planning, financing, entering into contracts and construction and completion. He will speak at 10:40 a.m. and 2:40 p.m. Thursday and Friday, Sept. 29 and 30.

Guy Tollerud, director of school building planning for the Minnesota state department of education, whose office must approve all high school building in the state, will discuss planning and processes involved in the various stages of school building. He will talk at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. sessions Thursday and Friday.

Other faculty members will participate in panel discussions at the closing sessions each morning and afternoon.

Hamilton will speak at 9 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 1, on "Recent Legal Developments in Education", including the use of cars during school hours, liability of parents for damage to school property by their children and liabilities of school boards.

The institute is co-sponsored by the University's Continuation Center, and the college of education and the Minnesota state department of education and attorney general's office.

'U' GUESTS OCT. 1

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---- Some 1,000 Minnesota newspaper editors, broadcasters, telecasters and legislators will be guests of the University of Minnesota Saturday, October 1, at the annual Legislators', Editors' and Broadcasters' Day on the Minneapolis and St. Paul campuses.

Tours of the gamma ray facility and numerical analysis center on the Minneapolis campus and the college of veterinary medicine on the St. Paul campus will be conducted throughout the morning.

The gamma ray facility was established with the cooperation of 28 Minnesota concerns interested in the peaceful uses of atomic energy. University staff members bring materials used in teaching and research --- including animals, plants and seeds --- which they want exposed to radiation, to the center. In the numerical analysis center, giant computers solve in minutes many of the problems of teaching and research which would take days and even years of effort otherwise.

Fifty exhibits on teaching, service and research activities in various University departments will be on display in Williams arena.

A barbecue luncheon will be served by the University's Block and Bridle club, composed of animal husbandry students, beginning at 11 a.m. on the skating rink floor of the arena. Deans and faculty members of the University's various colleges will act as hosts at the luncheon tables.

Following the luncheon, the newsmen and legislators will attend the Minnesota-Indiana football game at 1:30 p.m. in Memorial stadium. This will be Band Day at the game, with 6,000 musicians from 96 high schools in Minnesota performing during the half-time and pre-game ceremonies. Highlighting a "Band Cavalcade" theme, the massed bands will play a variety of familiar selections. Each visiting band will be recognized individually in the parade around the running track preceding the game. Frank Bencriscutto, new University band director, will conduct the massed bands.

The University football marching band will be making its first appearance in Memorial stadium in its new uniforms of navy blue decorated in maroon, gold and white braid. The uniforms include vests which display a block maroon "M" on white in front and a block "M" on gold in back. White plumes adorn the blue and white caps.

MINNESOTA MEDICAL FOUNDATION DAY
SCHEDULED MONDAY AT UNIVERSITY

(FOR RELEASE SUNDAY, SEPT. 25, 1960)

Minneapolis --- Minnesota Medical Foundation Day will be observed Monday (Sept. 26) at the University of Minnesota medical school with traditional orientation and awards exercises marking the opening of the fall academic quarter.

A highlight of the observance will be the awarding of $16,500 in scholarships to 32 medical students by the Minnesota Medical Foundation, a non-profit organization which provides private support for the medical school. Dr. Herman E. Drill of Hopkins, Foundation president, will confer the group's 1960 awards in an 11 a.m. ceremony in Mayo Memorial auditorium.

University President O. Meredith Wilson will deliver the annual Minnesota Medical Foundation Day address at the assembly of students, faculty and guests. His topic will be "The Lengthened Shadow".

President Wilson also will present the University's Outstanding Achievement Award to Dr. Henry E. Michelson, medical school professor emeritus. Dr. Michelson, 4400 Fremont ave., S., Minneapolis, served on the medical faculty for 44 years. He retired in 1957, following 28 years as head of the school's dermatology division, and is now engaged in private practice in Minneapolis.

The Minnesota Medical Foundation will hold its annual membership luncheon and business meeting in Coffman Memorial Union following the morning program.

USE OF HUMAN
TALENT SUBJECT OF 'U' STUDY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Minnesota's record of its use of human talent is the subject of research being initiated by the University of Minnesota's student counseling bureau. The bureau has received a grant of $55,000 from the United States Office of Education to repeat a study made in 1950 of the plans of high school graduates. The new study will attempt to compare plans of today's students with those of a decade ago.

The three-year project is under the direction of Ralph F. Berdie, counseling bureau director, and Albert B. Hood, assistant professor in the bureau. It has been endorsed by the Minnesota Counselors association and the high school-college relations committee, representing the Association of Minnesota Colleges and the Association of Secondary School Principals.

One aspect of the study will be to identify schools in which the percentage of high-ability students planning to attend college has changed during the past 10 years. An individual examination of these schools will help determine characteristics relating to these changes, Berdie explained.

The study will make use of psychological and educational information obtained through the Minnesota state-wide testing program.

One aim of the study will be to reveal areas in the state and groups of students requiring special attention and programs in order to increase the extent to which high-ability students are appropriately educated, Berdie said.

AMERICAN SCHOOLS TO EXPAND
AFRICAN SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

The University of Minnesota and 23 other American colleges and universities will expand their Nigerian student scholarship program -- inaugurated this year -- to include students from all of Tropical Africa, according to Robert E. Summers, University dean of admissions and records.

Seventy-five to one hundred other American colleges and universities will be asked to join in the program.

Under the plan, up to 200 African young men and women will enter American colleges and universities in the fall of 1961. All will come for a four-year undergraduate college degree course.

The program will be an outgrowth of an experimental program by which each of the 24 sponsoring colleges and universities admitted a Nigerian scholarship student this fall.

Scholarships will be offered by the participating American colleges and universities, and portions of the overall costs will be provided by the cooperating African governments, American foundations, the African-American Institute and the International Cooperation administration. Cost of the four-year program for this first group will approach $2.5 million.

The 1960-61 University of Minnesota Nigerian scholarship recipient is Fidelis N. Umeh, Ogoni, Eastern Region, Nigeria.

Scholarship students for 1961 will be selected by a board of African educators in each cooperating country, in consultation with two American college admission officers.

African nations will be asked to indicate the kinds of training most needed for their development which are not available within their own institutions. Efforts will then be made to obtain scholarships for students in schools which offer established courses of recognized quality in these fields.

(MORE)

The program will be open to African men and women with distinguished previous scholastic records who are single and not more than 22 years old and not enrolled in another institution of higher learning.

Program costs, as now projected, will be shared in this way:

1. Each cooperating American institution will provide scholarships covering tuition and fees for each student it admits.
2. Each African government will provide transportation for the participating students to and from the United States.
3. The International Cooperation administration will make funds available to the African-American Institute for the students' cost of living beyond the limit of his own resources.
4. The Carnegie corporation will make $100,000 available to the 24 cooperating schools to meet administrative costs of the program.

An inter-university committee, with offices located at Harvard university, will have charge of overall management of the program. The African-American institute will administer the program.

The University of Minnesota, the University of Notre Dame and Oberlin college are the only midwestern schools participating in the program. The University of Minnesota now has seven undergraduate Nigerian students, most of them working under scholarships provided by their government.

"Experience with these students has been most satisfactory," said Dean Summers. "They seem, generally, to have enjoyed their stay here and their academic achievement has been very good, in difficult, full-time programs. All are apparently making good progress toward their degrees."

DUTCH, FRENCH
NEWS EDUCATORS
WILL VISIT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Two European journalism educators will visit the Twin Cities next week to speak on the Minneapolis and St. Paul campuses of the University of Minnesota.

Maarten Rooy, professor of mass communications and director of the Institute of Press Science at the University of Amsterdam, will address a public meeting in Murphy hall on the Minneapolis campus Wednesday (Sept. 28) at 3:30 p.m. His topic will be "Problems of Mass Communication in the Under-developed Countries".

Professor Rooy was, for many years, editor of the Rotterdam Courant, one of Holland's leading national daily newspapers. He is also author of a history of the Dutch press and is active in the International Press institute.

Coming to the St. Paul campus Friday (Sept. 30) to meet with editors of Minnesota weekly newspapers is Professor Jacques Kayser, deputy director of the French Press institute at the University of Paris. Professor Kayser will speak at the annual editors' short course sponsored by the University school of journalism and institute of agriculture.

Professor Kayser will meet with University students Thursday and Friday to discuss the French press. He is the author of several books on French journalism, including one on the French provincial press.

'U' STUDENTS
BEGIN FALL
CLASSES MONDAY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Some 8,000 new students will be among the estimated 27,000 who will start fall quarter classes at the University of Minnesota's Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth and Morris campuses Monday (Sept. 26).

Newest of the campuses is at Morris in western Minnesota, which is offering first-year college level courses beginning this year. More than 250 students are expected to be enrolled at the western Minnesota school.

The University's new President O. Meredith Wilson will address the University student body for the first time at opening fall quarter convocation Thursday (Sept. 29) in Northrop Memorial auditorium on the Minneapolis campus. President Wilson, the deans and other University officials will be seated on the stage for the 11:30 a.m. convocation. Classes will be excused that hour and students will assemble on the mall in front of the auditorium as the University bands, directed by new Bandmaster, Frank Bencriscutto, play from the auditorium steps.

Opening convocations also will be held on the Duluth and Morris campuses where students will be welcomed by Provost Raymond W. Darland and Dean Rodney A. Briggs, respectively.

New students received an introduction to University life last week (Sept. 18-24) during Welcome Week activities on all four campuses. Orientation groups on the Twin Cities campuses were organized on the basis of enrollment in the University's major colleges and divisions---college of science, literature and the arts; the colleges of education, medical sciences, pharmacy and general college; and the institutes of agriculture and technology.

EIGHT 'U' HIGH
STUDENTS MERIT
SEMIFINALISTS

NEWS SERVICE--214 ADM, BLDG.
MINNEAPOLIS 14, MINNESOTA
FEderal 2-8158 EXT. 6700
SEPTEMBER 26, 1960

(FOR RELEASE 7 P.M. TUESDAY, SEPT. 27)

Eight University of Minnesota high school students have been named semifinalists in the 1960-61 National Merit Scholarship competition, according to F. J. Thompson, University high school principal.

Names semifinalists from Minneapolis are: Alison Dray, 810 Mt. Curve blvd.; William S. Green, 1506 Vincent ave., N.; Charles A. Orr, 651 S. E. Huron; John W. Riddle, 222 Melbourne, S. E.; John W. Whiting, 2046 Seabury ave.; and Franklin J. Zieve, Building 13-N, United States Veterans Administration hospital.

John Rosen, 2285 Folwell and Robert E. Wilson, 1442 Ripley, were named from St. Paul.

These semifinalists are among the 10,000 high scoring students on the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test, a test of educational development given in more than 15,000 high schools throughout the nation last spring. This semifinalist group is composed of the highest scoring students in each state and in United States territories.

Each semifinalist now moves a step closer to winning a four-year Merit Scholarship to the college of his choice. The selected students will take another examination, the three-hour scholastic aptitude test of the college entrance examination board, to be given in testing centers throughout the nation Dec. 3.

Students whose scores on the second test substantiate their performance on the qualifying test and who are endorsed by their high schools will become finalists in the competition. In past years, more than 95 per cent of the semifinalists have become finalists.

In the final phase of the competition, the high school grades, extra-curricular activities, school citizenship and leadership qualities of the students will be evaluated along with their scores on the tests.

The names of the Merit scholars will be announced about May 1, 1961, Thompson said.

UPPER MIDWEST RESEARCH COUNCIL
HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING, ELECTION

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- Six new members and directors were elected Tuesday (Sept. 27) at the annual meeting of the Upper Midwest Research and Development council which, jointly with the University of Minnesota, sponsors the Upper Midwest Economic Study. Forty-four members and directors were re-elected.

The new member-directors are O. Meredith Wilson, president of the University of Minnesota; Robert Archibald, executive vice president of the North Range Mining company of Negaunee, Mich.; Chester C. Lind, president of the First National bank of Aberdeen, S. Dak.; Fred R. Orth, president of the First National bank of Grand Forks, N. Dak.; Stuart V. Willson, Eau Claire, president of the Northern States Power company of Wisconsin; and P. Norman Ness, vice president of International Milling company, Minneapolis. Additional directors will be elected at a meeting early in October.

Re-elected as officers were J. Cameron Thomson, Minneapolis, president; Joyce A. Swan, Minneapolis, vice president and secretary; Frederick L. Deming, Minneapolis, vice president; and Philip H. Nason, St. Paul, treasurer. The officers and John M. Budd, St. Paul, and Donald C. Dayton and Allen S. King, Minneapolis, were re-elected to the council's executive committee. Wendell T. Burns of Excelsior, Minn., was re-elected executive secretary.

In addition, five new vice presidents were elected and added to the executive committee. They are Archibald as vice president for Upper Michigan; John E. Corette of Butte, a re-elected board member, president of the Montana Power company, as vice president for Montana; Lind as vice president for South Dakota; Orth as vice president for North Dakota; and Willson as vice president for Northern and Western Wisconsin.

(MORE)

President Wilson of the University and Christian F. Beukema of Duluth also were added to the executive committee.

Thomson reported to the board on the new grants made to the Regents of the University of Minnesota for the economic and urban studies undertaken by the Upper Midwest council and the University of Minnesota. A grant of $550,000, in addition to an earlier grant of $350,000, from the Ford Foundation and a grant of $50,000 from the Hill Family Foundation were announced on Aug. 11. Thomson indicated that the council has plans underway to raise another $400,000 from business in the area. Most of this amount already has been underwritten.

James M. Henderson, research director, reported that the Upper Midwest Economic Study is now well underway. A prospectus for the urban studies to be conducted in the area is being prepared by Henderson, C. David Loeks, director of the Twin Cities Metropolitan Planning commission, and Professor John R. Borchert, University of Minnesota geography department chairman.

Loeks has just returned from an extensive trip to Europe and Asia, where, under a grant from the Ford Foundation, he studied urban problems and planning. Borchert, who is experienced in city planning and research, has been named director of urban studies for the program.

A meeting to discuss the research programs of the council -- especially the new urban studies -- with an opportunity for interested persons to make suggestions or ask questions was held Tuesday afternoon at the Federal Reserve bank of Minneapolis. Frederick L. Deming, president of the bank, presided.

President Wilson of the University of Minnesota addressed a dinner meeting of the council at the Minikahda club, Minneapolis, which concluded the day's meetings. A progress report on the council's achievements during the past year was presented, and Loeks reported on urban planning abroad at the dinner over which J. Cameron Thomson presided.

Integration of electronic computers in today's business and institutional organization will be one of the main subjects considered at a University of Minnesota workshop on records administration Thursday and Friday (Oct. 6,7) in the Center for Continuation Study.

The workshop is designed to give practical information on records administration procedures. Office managers, systems and procedures administrators and engineers, accountants, records administrators, comptrollers and personnel administrators in business, government and institutional organizations have been invited to attend.

William Benedon, corporate records management advisor for Lockheed Aircraft corporation, Burbank, Calif., will open the workshop at 9 a. m. Thursday (Oct. 6) with a discussion of coordinating records administration with the systems program and how records administration affects personnel and procedures.

Robert R. Koenig, Minneapolis, director of methods for Super-Valu Stores, Inc., will give an illustrated lecture at 1:30 p. m. Thursday on "Automatic Records Processing" and how it affects personnel situations, customers and cooperating firms.

Robert A. Shiff, president of Naremcu Services, Inc., New York management consultant firm, will discuss "The Records Administration Section As an Information Center" at the 9 a. m. session Friday (Oct. 7). Shiff has pioneered in the application of scientific techniques to reduce and simplify paperwork in office procedures.

Remainder of the workshop will be devoted to panel discussions on practical aspects of records administration, including referral, storage, retention, disposal and control of records.

The workshop will be conducted by the Center for Continuation Study and the school of business administration in cooperation with the Minneapolis chapter of the American Records Management association.

EVENING SCHOOL GRADUATE BUSINESS
PROGRAM ATTRACTS HEAVY RESPONSE

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- A new University of Minnesota evening school graduate program leading to the master of business administration degree has met with "overwhelming" response, University officials reported Thursday (Sept. 29).

The first complete program of graduate school work to be offered in the University's general extension division attracted 726 requests for information and 499 applications for admission. Admissions to the program this year are limited to 120.

"Response has been beyond all our expectations," Dean Bryce L. Crawford, Jr., of the graduate school reported. "We just don't have the staff to admit all of the qualified applicants to the program this year, but their applications will be kept on file."

Although original plans called for starting a new class every two and one-half years, the dean stated, it is possible, because of the great interest indicated by the flood of applications, that a new class may be started each year.

Taught by regular faculty members of the department of business administration, a unit of the University's school of business administration, the full program, which usually requires two years of full-time daytime enrollment, can be completed in five years or 15 academic quarters of evening school work, Dean Crawford explained. Students with bachelor degrees in business administration can complete the program in two and one-half years.

The program consists of two parts. The student's background and previous academic preparation is used in determining whether he must complete both Parts I and II. However, all degree candidates must complete all of Part II.

Standards for the evening school graduate program are the same as those for the daytime sequence, Dean Crawford said.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Two new University of Minnesota television series will begin Friday (Sept. 30) night on KTCA-TV, Channel 2.

An interview with Tyrone Guthrie, director of a new repertory theater to be established in Minneapolis, will open a 12-week series entitled "Repertory Theater" to be heard at 9 p. m. on Fridays.

John D. Hurrell, University assistant professor of English, will examine various aspects of repertory theater during the series and will conduct interviews with authorities in the field. A native-born Englishman, Hurrell earned the doctor of philosophy degree from the Shakespeare Institute at the University of Birmingham.

Topics of future "Repertory Theater" programs will be: "The Importance of the Artistic Director", Oct. 7; "Early Repertory Theaters", Oct. 14; "The Moscow Art Theater", Oct. 21; "The Repertory Theater Movement in England", Oct. 28; "The Abbey Theater", Nov. 4; "The Old Vic", Nov. 11; "The Three Stratfords", Nov. 18; "The Plays in the Repertoire", Nov. 25, Dec. 2 and 9; and "The Theater for Repertory", Dec. 16.

The other new series is "Faculty Abroad", on which Paul H. Cashman, associate professor of rhetoric, will interview University faculty members who have spent the past year on research or teaching assignments overseas.

Professor William J. Micheels, chairman of the department of trade and industrial education, will be the guest on the first program at 9:30 p. m. Friday. He will report on a year spent in Indonesia as consultant to a study committee of the Indonesian Ministry of Education and as an advisor to the Ford Foundation. On the Oct. 7 program, Cashman will interview Professor Walter W. Heller, economics department chairman, on his trip to Jordan as a member of the Ford Foundation Commission on Taxation and Fiscal Policy.

U* INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS CONFERENCE PLANNED AT VIRGINIA OCTOBER 20-21

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- An analysis of Northern Minnesota's economic outlook and its impact on labor-management relations will be made during a University of Minnesota conference Thursday and Friday, October 20 and 21, in Virginia, Minn. All sessions will be in the Coates hotel.

The meeting will be the annual Northern Minnesota Conference on Industrial Relations sponsored by the University's Center for Continuation Study and Industrial Relations Center. Twenty-eight specialists from labor, industry and education will serve on the faculty for the two-day institute.

Paul W. McGann, former chief economist for the United States bureau of mines, will open the conference at 9 a. m. Thursday, Oct. 20, with an analysis of "General Economic Background and Outlook" affecting the steel industry. McGann, now an economist with Arthur D. Little, Inc., international industrial research company of Cambridge, Mass., has conducted extensive research on mineral resource production. He edited the Mineral Yearbook for several years and has served as an economic consultant to various government agencies.

W. L. Lohrentz, vice president of organization planning and compensation for United States Steel corporation, Pittsburgh, Pa., will address a noon luncheon Thursday, Oct. 20, on the topic "Constructive Industrial Relations". I. W. Abel, secretary-treasurer of United Steelworkers of America, Pittsburgh, will discuss "Labor-Management Climate: 1960-65" at a 6:15 p. m. banquet, also on the opening day.

(MORE)

Lohrentz joined U. S. Steel in 1942, and held various executive positions, including assistant vice president of industrial relations, before he was named a vice president in 1958. He has participated in several major steel industry labor negotiations during the last 10 years.

Abel is one of the founders of the United Steelworkers of America and its predecessor, the Steel Workers Organizing committee. Moving up through the ranks as a local union organizer in Canton, Ohio, he became a staff representative of the organizing committee and then a district director before election as USWA secretary-treasurer in 1952. He was a delegate to International Labor Organization meetings in 1954 and 1957 and is a board member of the National Planning association.

Edward Gross, University of Minnesota professor of sociology and industrial relations will discuss "The Meaning of Leadership" at Friday (Oct. 21) morning's general session, and Dean Paul V. Grambsch of the University's school of business administration will address the closing luncheon Friday noon on "Business and Industrial Relations in the Sixties".

Workshop discussants Thursday afternoon and Friday morning and session chairman will include: Frank A. Mancina, Cluett, Peabody and company division manager, Virginia; Edwin B. Wenzel, industrial services manager of Northwest Paper company, and Gordon E. Allen, Wood Conversion company personnel manager, Cloquet; John Freeman, George Kremer company manager, Grand Rapids; Martin W. Duffy, coordinator of labor education, Northern Michigan college, Marquette; Bernard J. Derr, Minnesota and Ontario Paper company training supervisor, International Falls;

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Professor Eduard Neumann, rector of the Free University of Berlin, will arrive in Minneapolis Saturday (Oct. 1) for a three-day visit to the University of Minnesota. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Neumann.

The University is one of several schools throughout the country which Professor Neumann is visiting to observe recent developments in college teaching methods, building programs, student housing and administrative organization.

His 60-day visit to the United States is sponsored by the United States State department's foreign leaders program in the office of cultural exchange.

Professor Neumann will meet with University officials Monday and Tuesday (Oct. 3 and 4) to discuss such problems as overcrowding in American universities and its consequent impact on educational standards, the problem of promoting political interest and civic responsibility on the part of university students and ways of furthering international student and teacher exchange.

The German educator served as professor of Germanic and Nordic philosophy and literature and dean of the faculty of arts and letters at the Free University of Berlin before being named rector in 1959. Previously he taught at the University of Goettingen and served as a reeducation specialist for the Bavarian military government. He was a visiting faculty member at Ohio State university in 1956 and has traveled extensively. He was graduated from the University of Innsbruck and also studied at Heythrop college in England and at the Ignatiuskolleg in Holland.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Four educators who have helped lead the way in developing new ideas on educating gifted children will report on their studies Oct. 10-12 at the Third Minnesota Conference on Gifted Children at the University of Minnesota's Center for Continuation Study.

Esin Kaya, head of experimental teaching at New York university's school of education, will report at 9:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 10, on a five-year study she is doing in New York public elementary schools on the "dual progress plan". The study is testing the virtues of the traditional single-teacher classroom for all subjects against a classroom situation with subject matter specialists.

Elizabeth Drews, associate professor of the Michigan State university department of foundations of education, at the 1:30 p.m. session Monday will present new ideas from the Michigan State University studies of gifted adolescents.

J. Richard Suchman, director of the Illinois studies in inquiry training at the University of Illinois, will discuss ideas he and his staff have developed for teaching children—strategies and procedures for asking good questions. Professor Suchman will speak at 9 a. m. Tuesday, Oct. 11.

O. K. Moore, director of the Yale university interaction laboratory, at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 11, will discuss new ideas on teaching mathematics. Moore's speciality is developing problem-solving techniques for children.

Concluding the session on mathematics will be a report by University of Minnesota staff members Professor Paul C. Rosenbloom and Professor E. Paul Torrance, director of the bureau of educational research, on the Minnesota National Laboratory for Improving Secondary School Mathematics. Professor Rosenbloom is director of the laboratory.

University staff members will report Wednesday, Oct. 12, on various aspects of the Minnesota Studies of Creative Thinking in the Early School Years, a long-range study to determine methods of identifying and developing creative talent.

The conference is sponsored by the University's Continuation center and the college of education, through its division of special education, bureau of educational research and institute of child development and welfare.

Double Last Year's Total---
UNIVERSITY LAW SCHOOL SCHOLARSHIPS
TOTALING $22,475 GIVEN 51 STUDENTS

NEWS SERVICE--214 ADM. BLDG.
MINNEAPOLIS 14, MINNESOTA
FEderal 2-8158 EXT. 6700
SEPTEMBER 30, 1960

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --- The University of Minnesota law school has awarded $22,475 in scholarships -- more than double the amount of last year's award total -- to 51 law students for the 1960-61 academic year, according to Dean William B. Lockhart, head of the school.

The majority of the scholarships were for either $500 or for tuition, depending upon the extent of financial need, the dean reported. Twenty-two of the scholarships were granted to first-year students.

The increase in funds available for law scholarships, Dean Lockhart explained, resulted from 37 annual scholarships created by Minnesota law firms, lawyers and corporations for the purpose of enabling the school to compete for top quality students with out-of-state law schools having extensive scholarship programs.

"The generous support of the law school scholarship program by leading law firms and corporations in Minnesota was extremely heartening," the dean stated. "In the past, our scholarship support has come largely from alumni, but, this year, lawyers from many law schools joined with our alumni in more than doubling available scholarship funds. As a result we have the best first-year class we have had in my 15 years at Minnesota."

Minneapolis law school scholarship winners are: William F. Brooks, Jr., 2009 Queen ave., S.; Elliot M. Cohen, 818 Thomas ave., N.; David S. Doty, 5629 Bloomington ave., Terrence N. Doyle, 203 14th ave., N.E.; Curtis D. Forslund, 5750 Madison st., N. E.; Ernest A. Gellhorn, 5824 Fairfax ave. (Edina); Sandra Heims, 1240 Upton ave., N.; Richard J. Higgins, 641 N. E. 4th; Henry J.
