MEDICAL GROUP CONCERNED WITH MECHANICAL METHODS
TO HOLD CONFERENCE IN DETROIT

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

The American Society of Extra-Corporal Technology (AmSECT) -- technicians, surgeons, and para-medical personnel concerned with heart-lung and kidney-dialysis machines -- will hold its seventh annual conference July 16-19 in Detroit, Mich.

Some 800 technicians, physicians, nurses, administrators, and engineers will be discussing organ transplantation and preservation, kidney dialysis, and cardio-pulmonary technology.

AmSECT President James B. Wade, supervisor of the experimental surgery laboratories at the University of Minnesota, explained that clinical extra-corporal technology (mechanical means to stimulate and perpetuate the functions of the human body) is a recent benefit of medical science.

Every day hundreds of chronically ill people with severe kidney problems rely on artificial kidney machines and skilled medical technologists to cleanse their blood allowing them to lead relatively normal productive lives.

Oxygenation technology -- the use of a by-pass pump to perpetuate blood circulation during open heart surgery -- has been used successfully for more than 15 years. The system, it is anticipated, may be used for longer periods to give a malfunctioning heart two or three days' rest.

Wade emphasized more knowledge would be needed to make long-term oxygenation a clinical reality. He also cited the growing importance of organ and tissue preservation as an example of extra-corporal technique.

PROGRAM SEEKS IMPROVEMENT IN LIBRARIES FOR INDIANS

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Better library facilities and services for Minnesota Indians is the purpose of a new program being conducted under the auspices of the Minnesota State Department of Education and the University of Minnesota.

Representatives from 48 Minnesota schools with large American Indian enrollments are currently attending a five-week orientation institute at the University of Minnesota. They include certified librarians, teachers and teacher aides from rural and urban, public and private schools.

When the participants have completed the orientation phase of the program July 18, they will establish resource centers in their home communities to serve both in-school and out-of-school programs for all ages. During the coming school year they will attend five three-day workshops at various locations throughout the state and next June will return to the University campus for a two-week summary institute.

The program is directed toward understanding the culture, heritage and needs of the American Indian people; developing techniques for communication; and developing individual library programs with emphasis on preschool and adult activities.

Basic materials, books and instructional materials for the resource centers will be provided for each of the 48 schools in the program.

More than a quarter million dollars, including a recent federal grant of $135,000 to the University for this purpose, is being used to fund the program. Part of the money will come from federal grants to the Minnesota State Department of Education for the purpose of improving Indian education in Minnesota.

MACARTHUR TO DIRECT
'THE GHOST SONATA'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Visiting director Dugald MacArthur is directing the University Theatre's production of "The Ghost Sonata" during first summer session.

The dream play by Swedish playwright August Strindberg will be presented at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, July 10, 11 and 12, in Scott hall auditorium.

Disillusionment is the theme of the drama in which a young man goes through life finding "things are never what they appear to be."

"It is an eerie, haunting psychological drama," MacArthur says.

MacArthur, 38, is also conducting an acting workshop for members of the Minnesota Theatre Company this summer. In September, he will become associate dean of theatre at the new California Institute of the Arts in Valencia, Calif.

Cast in the lead roles in "The Ghost Sonata" are Robert Boys, Jr., Michael Tezla and Beverly White, all graduate students.

Tickets and reservations can be obtained from the University Theatre's Scott Hall Ticket Office, phone 373-2337, or at Dayton's.

JR. COLLEGE PERSONNEL
TO TAKE COURSE AT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

A summer course offering in-service training for two-year college personnel dealing with student activities programs and college unions/centers will be held at the University of Minnesota Sunday through Friday July 6 - 11.

Organized at the request of the rapidly growing junior and community colleges, this pilot program is the first of its kind in the country, according to Gordon Starr, its director and director of planning for University Student Unions.

More than 50 presidents, deans and students union/center directors, representing colleges in 26 states and several Canadian provinces, will take part in the workshops, covering such topics as building planning, increasing student involvement, cultural programming and staffing the union/center.

According to Starr, though few junior colleges now have student centers, many are in the planning stages. The purpose of the course is to assist them with the planning and to help them improve their existing student activities programs.

President Earl Klapstein, Mt. Hood Community College, Gresham, Ore., will keynote the gathering Monday (July 7) with "The Student in the Two-Year College." Other speeches throughout the week will be concerned with campus unrest, federal assistance for leadership and facilities and models for union/center organization and building. Participants in the course will break into smaller groups and formulate plans for what they consider to be the "ideal" two-year college union building.

The course is presented in cooperation with the Association of College Unions-International and the American Association of Junior Colleges.

MANNEL, MENTER
NAMED TO NEW POSTS
IN 'U' BUSINESS SCHOOL

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

A new assistant dean and placement director have been appointed in the University of Minnesota School of Business Administration, Dean Paul Grambsch announced today.

Charles Mannel, former placement director, is the new assistant dean for administration. His assistant, Mrs. Elaine Menter, is the new director of career planning and placement for the school.

"Both of these people have considerable experience in their fields and will make possible more complete academic service to students," Grambsch said.

Before coming to the University in 1960, Mannel worked as a teacher, radio announcer and account representative for an investors' service. He received his master's degree in counseling and guidance from the University in 1965, and is the author of a series of articles on interviewing recently published in the "Journal of College Placement."

Mrs. Menter, 29, received a bachelor's degree from Morningside College, Sioux City, Iowa, and is a graduate student in industrial relations at the University. Her experience includes four years of teaching and one year with a publishing company in Chicago.

MET SOPRANO MILDRED MILLER
TO PRESENT 'POETS IN SONG'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Metropolitan Opera mezzo-soprano Mildred Miller will present a program of "Poets in Song" Tuesday, July 15, at 8 p.m. in Northrop auditorium at the University of Minnesota. The concert is open to the public with no admission charge.

Miss Miller appeared with the Metropolitan Opera Association when it performed at the University in May.

"Poets in Song" includes poetry by e.e. cummings, Walt Whitman, Gertrude Stein, Robert Frost, Emily Dickenson and Pierre Louys with the music of Serge de Gastyne, Paul Creston, William Flanagan, Herbert Elwell, Aaron Copeland and Debussy. A part of the concert will be devoted to German songs with words by Goethe, Heine, Ruckert and Moericke and music by Schubert, Schumann and Wolf.

Miss Miller made her debut with the Metropolitan Opera in 1951. She has appeared in starring roles with most major United States opera companies and has toured Europe and the Orient.

Miss Miller is the wife of Wesley W. Posvar, chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh.

FIRST SUMMER SESSION
ENROLLMENT AT 'U'
DOWN SLIGHTLY FROM 1968

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Enrollment for the first Summer Session at the University of Minnesota is down slightly from the all-time record set in the same session a year ago. Currently there are 17,039 registered; just 144 fewer than in 1968 for a decrease of less than one per cent. Of those, 9,532 are men and 7,507 are women.

Undergraduate attendance at each of the three campuses (Twin Cities, Duluth and Morris) is somewhat lower than for 1968, although graduate-student registration at the first two campuses is slightly higher than a year ago.

"In view of the major enrollment increases experienced in the 1968 Summer Session, it was anticipated that there would be a leveling off in 1969," Willard L. Thompson, dean of Summer Session, said today. "Meanwhile, our Summer Session continues to be the largest in the nation."

He added that course offerings were expanded again this year "to meet the needs of students who increasingly make use of the Summer Session as a fourth quarter of study." He estimated that more than half of those enrolled this summer will prove to be regularly enrolled University students.

Most of the colleges on the Twin Cities campus showed a small decrease in numbers of students, such as the College of Liberal Arts, from 5,846 to 5,834. However, a few colleges, such as School of Business Administration, School of Dentistry and College of Veterinary Medicine, showed slight gains.

The General College showed an increase of more than 14 per cent, a growth consistent with that of the last four years. Its dean, Alfred Vaughan, speculated that the establishment of junior colleges throughout the state may have called attention to the value of a two-year degree, which may have focused attention on the two-year General College.

The Minneapolis-St. Paul campus enrollment is 15,317; Duluth campus, 1,535; and Morris, 187. In addition to these regular, daytime figures, some 2,500 people are registered for General Extension Division evening classes, an increase of almost 50 per cent.

FRENCH D.J. SHOW TO HIGHLIGHT
KUOM CELEBRATION OF BASTILLE DAY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

The French have liberty, equality, brotherhood and Maurice Gardett.

A disc jockey whose personality requires no interpreter, Gardett will be featured in recorded selections from his daily Radio Monte Carlo show as KUOM radio observes Bastille Day, France's Independence Day, Monday (July 14).

News and station breaks will be given in French, a famous French play will be performed, and regular art and music shows will be devoted to French accomplishments.

"Gardett Party" and a Radio Luxembourg show will be broadcast on KUOM --- the General Extension Division radio station at the University of Minnesota --- from 5 to 7 p.m. on Bastille Day.

Earlier in the day, the curator of the Louvre and staff members from the Minneapolis Institute of Art will talk about the collection of nineteenth-century French painting now at the Institute (1 p.m.) and music written and performed by Frenchmen will be broadcast from 2:30 to 4:25 p.m.

A French dramatization of Jules Verne's "Le Tour du Monde en 80 Jours" ("Around the World in 80 Days"), at 7 p.m., will be the final program of the day.

THREAT OF ORGANIZED CRIME
TOPIC FOR 'U' SYMPOSIUM

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

The threat of organized crime in Minnesota and action local law enforcement agencies can take to eliminate it will be discussed Thursday (July 10) in a public symposium at the University of Minnesota.

Professor David Ward, chairman of the University's department of law enforcement science and criminal justice, will moderate the symposium which begins at 1:30 p.m. in Mayo auditorium on the East Bank campus.

Speakers will be Professor Donald R. Cressey, author of "Theft of the Nation;" Henry S. Ruth, director of the National Institute of Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice; and Ralph F. Salerno, retired from the Central Intelligence Bureau of the New York City Police Department.

This is the first in a series of four symposia to be sponsored by the department of law enforcement science and criminal justice. Others will be held July 17, 24 and 31.

ARTS WORKSHOPS TO BE HELD WITH ART EXHIBITION IN REDWOOD FALLS

(FOR RELEASE THURSDAY, JULY 10)

Workshops in several arts will be offered in connection with the Southwest Minnesota Art Exhibition in Redwood Falls Aug. 13 through 17.

The exhibition, open to amateur artists in a 24-county area, and the workshops, open to anyone who is interested, are under the direction of the University of Minnesota Agricultural Extension Service and the General Extension Division.

University faculty members will teach one and two-day workshops in batik, tie dye and bleach, macrame, drawing and design, watercolor, and wood. A former president of the Minnesota Weavers' Guild will teach a weaving workshop.

Batik is a process in which clear wax is painted on fabric prior to dyeing, so that certain areas aren't affected as strongly by the dye, explains Huldah Curl, University coordinator of continuing education in art.

Tie dyeing and bleaching are similar processes in which fabric is folded and tied before being dipped in dye or bleach.

Macrame -- knotting cord -- is an intricate process, but the results can be beautiful, Miss Curl says. Wall hangings, room dividers and a kind of coarse lace are among the things the process can be used to make.

All the workshops are for beginners as well as those with some experience. They will be held indoors and outdoors on the Redwood County fairgrounds.

Registration fee is $15 for each two-day workshop and $7.50 for one-day workshops; several have materials fees of $5 or under.

Early registration is necessary so that information on materials can be distributed to participants in advance. Inquiries can be directed to county extension offices or to Miss Curl at 316 Nolte Center, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn. 55455.

'WRITERS READ -- READERS WRITE' TO BE TOPIC OF
'U' INSTITUTE ON CHILDREN, CREATIVE WRITING

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Children who write well probably also read, and children who read well probably also write, says Naomi Chase, co-chairman of the University of Minnesota's annual institute on creative writing for and by children.

On that assumption, "Writers Read -- Readers Write" was chosen as the theme of the fifth institute, to be held July 21 through 25 in Nolte Center on the Minneapolis campus.

An exchange of ideas among elementary school teachers, college instructors, authors and others interested in the topic is the purpose of the institute, which is sponsored by the College of Education and the General Extension Division.

Faculty members for this institute represent many aspects of the relationship between creative writing and children. The faculty includes Professor Ruth Kearney Carlson (Cal-State College, Hayward, Calif.), who writes about creativity in children's writing; Professor Doris Young Kuhn (University of Houston), who writes about books for children; and New York author Mary O'Neill, who writes children's books.

Associate Professor Naomi Chase and Professor Norine Odland, both in elementary education and co-chairmen of the institute, plus two Minnesota teachers also will be on the faculty.

Registration remains open through the General Extension Division's Department of Conferences and Institutes, Nolte Center, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn. 55455; telephone 373-3151.

'U' JULY GRADUATES TO HEAR
FEDERAL COURT JUDGE

The Honorable Charles E. Wyzanski, Jr., chief justice of the United States District Court, Boston, Mass., will give the commencement address when more than 700 students are graduated from the University of Minnesota Friday, July 18.

Commencement exercises for the first summer session will begin at 4 p.m. in Northrop auditorium, after the graduating students proceed from the foot of the mall into the auditorium.

Receiving degrees will be 617 undergraduates, 105 candidates for master's degrees and 34 candidates for doctor of philosophy degrees.

Judge Wyzanski has a law degree from Harvard University as well as honorary doctor of law degrees from several schools including Carleton College, Tufts University and Brandeis University. The author of "Whereas---A Judge's Premises," published in 1956, he is a former president of the Harvard Board of Overseers and is now Senior Fellow of the Society of Fellows at Harvard.

President Malcolm Moos will speak for the University and confer the degrees and certificates. The Reverend George Garrelts, director of the University Newman Center, will deliver the invocation.

Following the ceremony, the graduates and their guests are invited to the President's reception on the mall. In case of rain, the reception will be held in the court of the Architecture building.

Planning for various kinds of development of the state of Minnesota will be examined in a Wednesday-afternoon workshop series at the University of Minnesota July 23 through Aug. 20.

Governor Harold LeVander will open the first session, on "Minnesota's Environment," at 1:30 p.m. July 23 in room 5 Blegen hall on the West Bank.

Physical planning, social development, urban-rural regionalism and intergovernmental coordination are the topics for the four other workshops. A chairman will give background information at each session and panel members will present their views before the discussion is opened to all participants.

Speakers for the series include James Goetz, Minnesota lieutenant governor; G. Theodore Mitau, Minnesota State Colleges chancellor; James Hetland, Jr., chairman of the Metropolitan Council and law professor; several state senators and representatives; and planners from a number of state and regional agencies.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

Students can attend the workshops for academic credit arranged through the Summer Session. The series is open to the public, for a registration fee of $7.50, through the General Extension Division.

Professor George Warp, director of the University's Public Administration Center, and Raymond Olsen, assistant professor of public affairs and director of the State Planning Agency, are co-chairmen of the workshops.

Sponsoring units are the School of Public Affairs, the General Extension Division and the Summer Session.

'U' SHOWBOAT CANCELS WINONA TRIP

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

The University of Minnesota's Centennial Showboat will not travel to Winona, Minn., this season, Frank M Whiting, University Theatre director, announced today.

Operational expenses and a demand for extra performances in the Twin Cities caused the cancellation, Whiting said.

The boat will travel to St. Paul, Stillwater and Red Wing, as previously announced.

Instead of going to Winona, the boat will return to the Minneapolis landing Aug. 26. "The Birds" will be presented Aug. 26, 27 and 28 and "The School for Scandal" will be given Aug. 29 and 30.

"The School for Scandal," a comedy by Richard Brinsley Sheridan, is playing in Minneapolis now through July 26. It will be presented at Harriet Island in St. Paul July 28 through Aug. 2; in Stillwater Aug. 15 and 16, and in Red Wing Aug. 19, 20 and 21.

Walter Kerr's adaptation of Aristophanes' satire "The Birds" will be presented in St. Paul Aug. 4 through 9; in Stillwater Aug. 12, 13 and 14; and in Red Wing, Aug. 22 and 23.

Tickets for all performances are available at the University Theatre Ticket Office in Scott hall or at Dayton's.

WILDERSON NAMED
ASSISTANT DEAN
OF EDUCATION AT 'U'

(FOR RELEASE AT 11 A.M. FRIDAY, JULY 11)

Appointment of Frank B. Wilderson as assistant dean of the College of Education and associate professor of urban education was approved today by the University of Minnesota Board of Regents.

Professor Wilderson, who has been a member of the University faculty since 1962, also will serve as urban education coordinator in the University's Center for Urban and Regional Affairs.

"Dr. Wilderson will serve as a link between the College of Education and the community," says Dean Robert J. Keller. "His work will be with the college's programs in teacher education and education for the disadvantaged in the metropolitan area as well as out in the state."

Wilderson is currently involved in a study of teacher training, curriculum development and research relating to the education of minority group children in urban settings. During the coming year most of his time will be devoted to this project.

He has recently been involved in a graduate program for training teachers for seriously emotionally disturbed children under a grant from the National Institute for Mental Health and the U.S. Office of Education. He has conducted institutes for college professors throughout the country in the area of behavior disorders in school-age children and just completed a training film on the classroom management of behavior-disordered children which will be distributed to colleges and universities this fall.

Wilderson is a member of the National Advisory Committee on Handicapped Children and the Advisory Committee for Region Six of the U.S. Public Health Service.

NATION'S HEALTH MANPOWER
SUBJECT OF 'U' LECTURE SERIES

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

This country's health manpower situation will be critically examined this summer by a series of national speakers at the University of Minnesota Health Sciences Center.

Health professionals from Twin Cities hospitals and health agencies have been invited by University Hospitals to attend the Friday noon lectures. They will be held in Mayo auditorium.

Last year's inaugural series covered topics from education of health professionals to planning of health care delivery. This year, according to John Westerman, hospitals director, the lectures will focus on health manpower. "Production of health professionals is receiving an increasing amount of attention in both its qualitative and quantitative aspects because of its important relationship to the whole question of health care delivery."

Among the authorities speaking will be Dr. Leonard Fenninger, director of the bureau of health professions education and manpower training, Department of Health Education and Welfare; Dr. William Maloney, dean of the Tufts University School of Medicine, and Dr. John Holloman Jr., past president of the National Medical Association.

University Hospitals is sponsoring the series along with St. Paul-Ramsey and Miller Hospitals in St. Paul, and Hennepin County General, Mount Sinai, Veterans Administration, Fairview, and St. Mary's Hospitals in Minneapolis. They are all local members of the Council of Teaching Hospitals of the American Association of Medical Colleges.

The complete schedule:

July 18 -- Dr. Leonard Fenninger, director of the bureau of health professions education and manpower training, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, "Health Manpower: Perspective and Problems."

'U' REGENTS NAME
DEAN SUMMERS TO
'SPECIAL ASSIGNMENT' POST

(FOR RELEASE AT 11 A.M. FRIDAY, JULY 11)

R. E. Summers, dean of admissions and records at the University of Minnesota for the last 23 years, will take on a new assignment this academic year, the first person to hold a new position called "administrators on special assignment."

The University's Board of Regents today named Dean Summers to the post, which will involve serving as special consultant to the vice president for student affairs, Paul Cashman. Summers, 68, is slated to retire next June.

"In too many cases, outstanding administrators complete their careers without an opportunity to bring into focus their enormously valuable perceptions of the University as a whole," President Malcolm Moos said today in recommending the appointment. "Recognizing this, I have asked that we attempt to find new ways to allow the experience of able administrative officers to be made fully available to the University as their careers are coming to an end."

Vice President Cashman added that "President Moos and I are particularly pleased that Dean Summers will undertake this assignment because of his many years in the administration of this University. He will bring to the task keen insight based upon his work as an administrator and his experience in national organizations dealing with higher education."

Cashman said that Dean Summers would be asked to do a good deal of traveling to colleges and universities throughout the United States as one phase of his assignment.

"Nationally, many new approaches to the relationships between students and their colleges are in progress," Cashman said. "We expect the dean will assess these various efforts and help us develop recommendations for change in University procedures as a result."

(MORE)

Dean Summers said he felt both proud and humble to be the first chosen for the new position. "I view this as a distinct honor and a challenging new assignment, among the many different assignments I have had at the University. I love this institution and I hope to make a further contribution to its outstanding future."

Summers is the only dean of admissions and records the University has had. The office was created shortly before he assumed it on June 1, 1946, but his predecessor had the title of dean of admissions, and limited his concerns to the student admissions area.

REEVES, ZANDER NAMED
ASS'T VICE PRESIDENTS
FOR STUDENT AFFAIRS

(FOR RELEASE AT 11 A.M. FRIDAY, JULY 11)

The University of Minnesota Board of Regents today appointed Assistant Professor James Reeves and Associate Professor Donald Zander to the positions of assistant vice presidents for student affairs.

Reeves, formerly coordinator of special programs in the office of the vice president for student affairs, Paul Cashman, will be working with student services such as loans and scholarships and counseling.

Zander, who was named assistant to Vice President Cashman in March 1969, will devote his primary attention to the growth of student activities and their mounting complexity, according to Cashman.

"These two appointments were made in recognition of the increasing significance of the student role in the University," Cashman said today. "Both the volume and the quality of student activities and the University's amplified attention to student concerns are reflected as well."

He stressed that both Reeves and Zander are experienced in dealing with students and have their respect. He said that the new appointments would make it possible for his office to undertake new programs and obligations in the area of student affairs.

Zander, who has been with the University since 1950, has served as director of both the Student Activities Bureau and the University Student Unions.

Since coming to the University in 1955, Reeves has been the associate director of the Student Activities Bureau, assistant dean of students, and, since June 1968, coordinator of programs for disadvantaged students for Cashman's office.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

Zander--Born in Hankinson, N.D., holds a bachelor's degree from Concordia College, master's degree in educational psychology from the University (1950) and received his doctoral degree in 1959. He has received the All-University Congress Staff Recognition Award several times.

Reeves--A native of Greensboro, N.C., holds a bachelor's degree from Greensboro Agricultural and Technical College, master's degree from Boston University, doctor of philosophy degree from the University of California at Los Angeles.

DOUGLAS MCEWEN TO TEACH CLASS,
CONDUCT MINNESOTA ORCHESTRA AT
'U' ARTS CENTER IN GRAND RAPIDS

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

The Minnesota Orchestra will return to the University of Minnesota Summer Arts Study Center in Grand Rapids, Minn., Saturday, July 26, for a concert conducted by Douglas McEwen, the study center's choral music teacher.

The orchestra will perform Handel's "Water Music" and Bizet's "L'Arlesienne Suite" and accompany students of the study center choral music workshop in a performance of Beethoven's "Mass in C."

The program will be at 7:30 p.m. at the Sugar Hills resort, site of most of the study center's educational and recreational activities.

McEwen will use rehearsals for the performance as part of a week of classes prior to the concert.

McEwen, director of choral activities at the University of New Mexico since 1963, recently toured Europe and the Middle East with the Roger Wagner Chorale as a soloist and assistant conductor.

The Summer Arts Study Center is sponsored by the University General Extension Division and the Grand Rapids Performing Arts Council. Classes in early music and acting have been completed, and classes in drawing and painting and contemporary art aesthetics are now in progress.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

McEwen, a native of Ohio, has spent his 16-year teaching career in the West. He taught in public schools and in colleges in California and was for three years director of choral activities at Colorado State College before taking his position at the University of New Mexico. He is a popular guest conductor.

Soloists in residence during the week of classes to act as section leaders will sing at the concert. They are Donna McRae (Albuquerque), soprano; Maryellen Huffington (Minneapolis), mezzo; A.V. Wall (Albuquerque), bass; and Patrick Robinson (Denver), tenor.

A few additional registrations will be taken for the choral music workshop. Because the number of men who have registered for the workshop has far exceeded the number of women, female voices are particularly needed. NEW LEGISLATION
TO BE STUDIED IN LAWYERS' COURSE

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Major legislation concerning personal injury cases, truth in lending and creditors' remedies, passed in Minnesota in 1969, will be reviewed for lawyers in a University of Minnesota one-and-a-half day course July 31 and Aug. 1.

The Minnesota Lawyer's Legislative Review will be held at the St. Paul Hotel under the direction of the department of continuing legal education, a joint program of the University General Extension Division and the Minnesota State Bar Association.

Garnishment (holding back wages) and attachment (reclaiming property) are the principal procedures to be examined in the discussion of creditors' remedies from 9 a.m. to noon July 31. New legislation governs these procedures more strictly than in the past.

The afternoon will be spent on truth in lending legislation, with particular attention to the regulations governing disclosure of actual costs of interest and carrying charges to the consumer.

Comparative negligence, a new concept of fault liability in personal injury cases, will be examined from the viewpoints of the judge and the plaintiff's and defendant's attorneys from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Aug. 1.

Registration, for a fee of $35, can be made with the Department of Continuing Legal Education, 338 Nolte Center, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn. 55455; telephone 373-5386.

MOOS NAMES BOSTON'S HALE CHAMPION AS NEW 'U' VICE PRESIDENT

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

University of Minnesota President Malcolm Moos Saturday announced his choice as new vice president for planning and operations: Hale Champion of Boston, Mass.

Champion, 46, is director of the Boston Redevelopment Agency, the planning body for the city of Boston; for six years was director of finance for the state of California, the highest appointive position in that state; and for a year (1967-68) was a fellow in the John F. Kennedy Institute at Harvard University. At that time he also served as a member of two presidential task forces --- on the reorganization of the federal government and on the role of the university in urban society --- and was a consultant to the Kerner Commission.

Before working for the state of California, Champion was a reporter for three different newspapers and a wire service.

"I am delighted to make this appointment," President Moos said Saturday. "The University is exceptionally fortunate in attracting a man of Mr. Champion's experience and talent. He brings to us a strong background both in fiscal management and in planning."

Champion's appointment was approved Friday (July 11) by the University Board of Regents in an executive session, but could not be made public until Saturday.

Champion will begin at the University Sept. 1. He will succeed Laurence R. Lunden, vice president for business administration, who Friday was named to the position of vice president and consultant to the president. Champion also will take over the functions of Elmer Learn as director of planning at the University. Learn, who is also executive assistant to President Moos, will become vice chancellor--- executive assistant at the University of California, Davis, on Aug. 1.

'PRESSURES ON THE KREMLIN WALLS'
SERIES TO BE BROADCAST ON KUOM

What has happened in Russia in the last 10 years?

University of Minnesota faculty members who visited the Soviet Union 10 years ago and again last fall will talk about changes in the Russian way of life in a series of broadcasts on KUOM radio that began this week.

During the 7 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday broadcasts, continuing through Aug. 19, they will discuss the revolution in industry and agriculture, Russian consumers, Russian cities, education, religion and the arts, foreign trade and Eastern Europe.

Dean E.W. Ziebarth of the College of Liberal Arts serves as the host-coordinator.

"Pressures on the Kremlin Walls" is a repeat of a spring series on the University of Minnesota television hour. Both KUOM and the television hour are educational programs of the University's General Extension Division.

RHODESIAN ARTIST
TO EXHIBIT AT 'U'

Animals and people of Africa have inspired many of the semi-abstract oil paintings by Rex Mhiripiri which will be exhibited in the Terrace room of Coffman Gallery at the University of Minnesota Monday (July 21) through Aug. 8.

Mhiripiri, 34, is a native of Rhodesia and an English and philosophy student at the University. He came to the United States almost three years ago. In Africa, he was employed by the Kenya Ministry of Information and as a sales executive by the Mobil Oil Company. He has traveled extensively in Africa and has exhibited his works there and in Israel.

African music will be heard at the public opening of the show Monday from 7 to 9 p.m. Regular gallery hours are 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., Monday through Friday.

MINNEAPOLIS WOMAN NAMED
KUOM PROGRAM DIRECTOR

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

A woman who has been active in fighting discrimination and destruction of the environment has been named program director for KUOM, the University of Minnesota General Extension Division radio station.

Burton Paulu, director of the extension division's department of radio and television, announced that Mrs. Marion Watson of Minneapolis has been named to the station's top administrative position.

Her concern with public affairs, a principal interest at KUOM, plus her experience in radio work were factors in choosing Mrs. Watson, Paulu said.

Mrs. Watson has lobbied extensively for the Minnesota League of Women Voters, particularly for anti-discrimination legislation, and was chairman of the league's study of discrimination, with special attention to discrimination against Indians in Minnesota and against women in the labor force.

A member of the board of the Minnesota Council for Civil and Human Rights, she was for four years a citizen appointee to the Minnesota Indian Affairs Commission.

In addition, she was one of the organizers and is presently secretary-treasurer of the Minnesota Environmental Defense Council, a coordinating organization.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

Mrs. Watson holds a bachelor's degree in theatre and radio and a master's degree in speech pathology from the University. She has taught speech and was a speech therapist for the Speech and Hearing Clinic at the University.

She was a member of the state board of directors of the League of Women Voters from 1961 until this year and was first vice president for the last two years. She was legislative chairman for the 1969 session, coordinating all lobbying efforts for the league. In May, she received the league's Hope Washburn Award for outstanding service.

URBAN JAZZ TO BE FEATURED IN SUMMER FESTIVAL AT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

"Only a city, and a big one, has the diversity needed for the development of a new art form -- and can provide an audience for it," says William C. Rogers of the University of Minnesota.

"Jazz, which originated among the black people in American cities, is the only distinct, original American contribution to world culture."

Rogers, a serious jazz devotee in private life, is director of the General Extension Division's program of continuing education in urban affairs, which is sponsoring a free urban jazz festival at the University Aug. 4, 6, 7 and 8.

An educational program illustrating the styles and backgrounds of the traditional jazz of several American cities, the festival will feature four Twin Cities jazz groups and program notes by Professor John Lucas of Carleton College.

Each band will play a different style of jazz at 8 p.m. on the steps of Northrop auditorium (inside in case of rain). The groups are:

Aug. 4 -- Doc Evans' Original Minnesota Dixielanders. Evans, according to Rogers, is "one of the few great jazzmen in the United States who hasn't left his home."

Aug. 6 -- The Hall Brothers New Orleans Jazz Band. The group will play a New Orleans funeral sequence, numbers with geographical meaning in New Orleans ("Burgundy Street Blues"), and numbers about the work of the city ("Coal Cart Blues").

(MORE)

Aug. 7 -- Father Freeman's Twin City Stompers. Father Freeman, a Dominican priest who teaches philosophy at the College of St. Catherine in St. Paul, leads his group in playing Chicago-style jazz.

Aug. 8 -- Bill Price and his New Yorkers, featuring Frank Gillis from Indiana University.

The program notes, by Professor John (Jax) Lucas, internationally known as a writer on jazz, are a genuine contribution to the knowledge of American music, Rogers said. They include a piece on the roots of urban jazz in general, as well as notes on all the selections to be performed by the bands.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

"The origins of jazz, however complex and obscure, all acknowledge some city or other as center. There was country jazz at the turn of the century as there is today, but its instrumentation was primitive and its appeal limited. Jazz began as good-time music and people with a pocketful to convert into a snootful naturally gravitated to the nearest big town."

--from Lucas' introduction to the program notes

Co-sponsors of the festival are the University's Summer Session, department of concerts and lectures and Coffman Union Board of Governors, and the Minnesota Jazz Sponsors.

WAR IS THEME OF NAGRIN
DANCE TO BE PRESENTED AT
'U'-GRAND RAPIDS CENTER

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Thucydides' account of the Peloponnesian War, the thirty-year conflict between Athens and Sparta which he predicted would be man's most terrible and last war, provides the framework for dancer-choreographer Daniel Nagrin's most famous solo performance.

Nagrin will perform his "Peloponnesian War" dance/theatre collage at the University of Minnesota Grand Rapids Summer Arts Study Center at Sugar Hills resort at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 2. Tickets will be available at the door.

A multi-track tape score of music and electronic sound is used in the collage, which Nagrin composed while he was artist-in-residence at the State University College at Brockport, N.Y.

The presentation marks the end of a week-long workshop in dance conducted by Nagrin and the end of the study center's first season.

The project, sponsored by the University's General Extension Division and the Grand Rapids Performing Arts Council, has been judged a success, according to Dale Huffington, its director.

"We are pleased by the response of the participants and the Grand Rapids community. Although there will be some changes, we are fairly certain that there will be an arts study and performance center in Grand Rapids next summer," Huffington said.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

Nagrin, a New Yorker, says of his art: "We have learned to distrust appearance, surface, skin. We now demand to know what happens deep inside regardless of what it will look like. To manipulate the dancer's body before the mirror, to make it look like something we think is beautiful and true is to compound the half-truths in the worn-out hand-me-downs of the past."

The dance workshop he will conduct at Grand Rapids is for beginning and advanced students of dance and will include classes in technique and composition. Registration remains open through the Drama Advisory Service, 320 Westbrook Hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn. 55455.

'U' TO AID STUDENTS HURT BY TUITION INCREASE

by Patricia Juliani

Assurance that no eligible student will be kept out of the University of Minnesota is the goal of the Board of Regents' move to borrow half a million dollars for a loan fund.

The plan follows the board's commitment to the student body, when tuition fees were raised in April, that it would take steps to provide financial aid to any student for whom the increase ($105 a year) would create a hardship.

The plan also takes into account the recent decreases in federal student loan programs, according to Pierre Meyer, director of the Office of Student Financial Aids.

The Regents committee that recommended the $500,000 loan, under the chairmanship of Regent Elmer L. Andersen, reports that about 1,600 students can expect no financial aid from their families. These students are to be found on all four University campuses (Twin Cities, Duluth, Morris and Crookston).

To serve these students and those who would be affected by decreases in federal loan programs and the general tightening of bank loans, the committee also suggested changes in the lending policies for the University Trust Fund Loans. This fund includes all loan money not directly connected with the federal government.

In the past, students had to be enrolled at the University for two quarters before they were eligible for such a loan. Now, any needy student who is in good academic standing, or any prospective student who shows the potential for academic success is eligible for a loan. The amount a student can borrow from the University has also been raised.

Meyer encourages students to come in for individual counseling. Often students are eligible for aid who might not think they are. The first step in receiving financial aid is to fill out a need application and a parent's confidential statement. Students attending the Twin Cities campus of the University should write to the Office of Student Financial Aids, 107 Armory, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn. 55455. Students at other campuses of the University should write to their school's financial aids officer.

JOHN SHERMAN COLLECTION
GIVEN TO 'U' LIBRARY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

A collection of material relating to the career of the late Minneapolis Star critic John K. Sherman has been presented to the University of Minnesota, Austin McLean, special collections librarian, announced today.

The collection, given by Mr. Sherman's widow, includes articles, reviews and columns written during Mr. Sherman's 44-year career as a critic of the arts for the Minneapolis Star and Tribune; speeches; manuscript material; notebooks; photographs; letters from numerous persons engaged in the arts, such as Eugene Ormandy and Robert Penn Warren; and other memorabilia.

"This significant acquisition will be an important part of the Minnesota Performing Arts Archives to be established in the University Library," McLean said.

"The purpose of the archives will be to preserve a wide variety of material pertaining to cultural activity in the area and to insure a permanent record of history that will be available to scholars."

McLean also pointed out the need for historical material on any aspect of the performing arts in Minnesota, and invited persons with such items or collections to provide them for the archives. He requested that individuals having letters from Mr. Sherman consider donating them to the University Library to add to the Sherman collection.

Mr. Sherman died April 18 at the age of 71. He began his career as a critic for the Star in 1925 and was active in that capacity and as books and arts editor until his death. Born in Sioux City, Iowa, he was a student at the University of Minnesota for a brief period.

He was the author of "Music and Maestros," a history of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra; "Music and Theatre in Minnesota History," and "Sunday Best," a collection of his columns, published in 1963.

JURY SET FOR SOUTHWEST MINNESOTA
ART EXHIBITION AT REDWOOD FALLS

(FOR RELEASE THURSDAY, JULY 31)

A three-man jury has been named for the third annual Southwest Minnesota Art Exhibition to be held in Redwood Falls Aug. 13 through 17.

The exhibition is sponsored by the University of Minnesota through its Agricultural Extension Service and General Extension Division.

Judges will be Russell Barton, coordinator of the University's annual Town and Country Exhibition; Suzanne Kohn, owner and manager of the Kohn Gallery in St. Paul; and James Roy, chairman of the art department at St. Cloud State College.

Each will choose first, second and third-place and honorable mention awards. They will collaborate in presenting a "best-of-show" award.

On Sunday, Aug. 17, at 3 p.m. the judges will explain their selection of awards in a session which the public is invited to attend.

The exhibition and several workshops being offered in conjunction with it will be held on the Redwood County fairgrounds. Hours will be 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Aug. 13, 14, 16 and 17 and 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Aug. 15.

There will be a gallery tour of the exhibition at 7 p.m. Aug. 15, and at 8 p.m. Uel Blank, resource economist for the Agricultural Extension Service, will give a slide talk on community planning. Both events are open free to the public. Admission to the exhibition will be 50 cents.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Police relations with the community and with students will be discussed Thursday (July 31) in a public symposium at the University of Minnesota.

Speakers will be Charles Gain, chief of police in Oakland, Calif.; David Bayley, co-author of "The Police and Minorities" and associate professor in the Graduate School of International Studies at the University of Denver (Colo.); Robert Wasserman, administrative assistant to the director of police in Dayton, Ohio, and consultant on police community relations to the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice and the National Advisory Committee on Civil Disorders; and Raymond Galvin, nationally recognized authority on police-community relations who will join the University of Minnesota faculty in September.

The session will begin at 1:30 p.m. in Mayo auditorium on the Minneapolis campus.

Each speaker will give a brief presentation followed by comments from Joe Rigert, editorial writer for the Minneapolis Tribune, and Arne Schoeller, assistant Minnesota attorney general in charge of criminal matters.

Professor David Ward, chairman of the department of law enforcement science and criminal justice, will moderate the symposium, the fourth and last in a series on "Critical Issues in Law Enforcement" sponsored by the department.

HOUSING IN 'U'
AREA SCARCE

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

"No vacancy" is the word from the University of Minnesota Student Housing Bureau concerning off-campus housing in the University area.

Students will have to consider living away from the campus area, according to Margaret Space, associate director of the bureau.

Housing in the East and West Bank and Como vicinities was scarce and expensive to begin with, and now it's almost non-existent, says Miss Space.

Though apartments in outlying areas are usually less expensive, there are transportation problems to consider.

House-hunting aid on Saturdays will be available throughout the summer from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. During the week, the bureau's offices in 209 Eddy hall and 101 Coffey hall are open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Both offices will be closed Aug. 30 for the Labor Day weekend.

The bureau also handles housing for University staff and faculty.

EMOTIONALLY DISTURBED, DELINQUENT CHILDREN
TO BE SUBJECT OF 'U' WORKSHOP AUG 7 AND 8

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Creation of an environment helpful to emotionally disturbed and delinquent children will be discussed by a national authority on residential treatment in a University of Minnesota workshop Aug. 7 and 8.

"The Other 23 Hours of Treatment" will feature Albert Trieschman, director of the Walker Home for Children in Needham, Mass., as main speaker.

"The theme of the workshop reflects commitment to a philosophy of treating the child in the life milieu, with structure derived from his needs," says William Hoffman, director of continuing education in social work for the General Extension Division.

Social workers, administrators, child care personnel and others involved in caring for and rehabilitating disturbed and delinquent children will attend.

Trieschman holds a Ph.D. in clinical psychology from Harvard University. At the Walker Home for Children --- a small residential school for emotionally disturbed children which he directs --- treatment, training of staff and students from the mental health professions, and research are emphasized. In addition to his position there, he is staff psychologist at the Children's Hospital Medical Center in Boston. He is co-author of the recently published "The Other 23 Hours: Child Care Work in a Therapeutic Milieu."

Other speakers are: James Whittaker, soon to become an instructor in the University's School of Social Work, former director of the Walker Home and co-author with Trieschman of "The Other 23 Hours;" Franz Kamps, assistant professor of social work at the University and former director of the Minnesota Children's Treatment Center; and Tai Shigaki, director of training for the Minnesota department of corrections.

Major sessions (all to be held in Nolte Center):

Thursday, Aug. 7

9:30 a.m. -- introduction by John Kidneigh, director of the Graduate School of Social Work

9:45 a.m. -- Trieschman speaking on the concept of a therapeutic milieu

1:30 & 3 p.m. -- training child care staff (Kamps, Whittaker and Miss Shigaki)

Friday, Aug. 8

9:30 a.m. -- "Clinical Interventions in the Life Space: The Temper Tantrum," Trieschman

1:30 & 3:15 p.m. -- discussion of issues in residential treatment (tolerance of disturbed behavior, punishment, privacy, physical aggression, property damage)

ROGER KENNEDY NAMED
'U' VICE PRESIDENT,
U OF M FOUNDATION HEAD

(FOR RELEASE AT 9 A.M. TUESDAY, AUG. 5)

Roger G. Kennedy, senior vice president and chairman of the executive committee of Northwestern National Bank of St. Paul, today was named vice president for investments of the University of Minnesota and executive director of the University Foundation.

Kennedy, 42, will assume the two positions in September. He will remain a member of Northwestern Bank's executive committee and its board of directors.

University President Malcolm Moos announced Kennedy's appointment at a news conference today on behalf of the Regents' executive committee and the foundation executive committee. Formal Board of Regents' approval of his position is expected at the Sept. 12 board meeting.

Moos expressed "great pleasure that we have been able to attract Mr. Kennedy into the service of the University and the foundation." He mentioned Kennedy's "leadership in public service, particularly in the area of urban development," citing his presidency of the St. Paul Urban Coalition and his work with the Inner City Youth League, among others.

"His decision to undertake a new career devoted to the development of the University gives us outstanding leadership for major functions of material importance to our strength," Moos stated.

As vice president for investments, Kennedy will work closely with Hale Champion, recently named vice president for planning and operations. Each will assume some of the work carried out by Laurence R. Lunden, former vice president for business administration and now vice president and consultant to the president. The two new positions are part of an overall reorganization plan by President Moos.

Kennedy's post with the foundation is separate from the vice presidency, as the foundation is a separate legal entity. Its function is to seek private support for University needs for which legislative funds are generally not available. Fred J. Lauerman recently announced his Sept. 30 resignation as director of the foundation to become vice chancellor for institutional resources of the Minnesota State College System.

While Kennedy will assume many of the responsibilities previously carried out by Lauerman, the dual nature of his position is expected to promote even greater interaction between the foundation and the central administration of the University.

Bernard H. Ridder, Jr., president of the foundation, stated that the foundation "considers it most fortunate to secure the services of Roger Kennedy. He has had a broad experience in financial affairs as well as having taken an active and constructive interest in a host of civic affairs in the Twin Cities area. By education, business experience and cultural interest we feel he is eminently qualified to become executive director of the foundation."

Kennedy's salary of $40,000 will be shared by the University and the foundation.

'U' FORMS NEW DEPARTMENT
TO STUDY SPEECH, HEARING DISORDERS

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

A department of speech science, speech pathology and audiology has been formed in the College of Liberal Arts at the University of Minnesota.

According to CLA officials, the new department will consolidate programs and facilities that have existed under other departments within the University---mainly in the department of speech, communication and theatre arts and the former office of the dean of students---and will serve as a base for future growth and development.

The University now has 70 undergraduate and 50 graduate students preparing for clinical and research careers in areas encompassed by the new department. Students are served by seven senior faculty members and by a clinical and research staff.

In conjunction with the department, a Speech and Hearing Clinic and research laboratories have been established. The clinic now will be able to offer diagnostic and therapy services to outpatients and University students.

In describing the new department, Professor Clark Starr, acting chairman, stressed the fact that the University has a long history of concern for communication problems and that its present faculty has received national recognition for clinical and research activities. Training and research in the department are currently supported by the National Insitute of Neurological Diseases, the National Institute of Mental Health, the National Science Foundation, the U.S. Office of Education and the Rehabilitation Services Administration.

According to Starr, inadequate physical facilities constitutes one of the main problems facing the new department. However, plans for increasing clinic space and expanding service programs hopefully will be implemented in the near future.

A JOINT RELEASE FROM THE MINNESOTA INDIAN EDUCATION COMMITTEE AND THE UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA

NATIONAL INDIAN EDUCATION CONFERENCE
TO BE HELD IN MINNEAPOLIS IN NOVEMBER

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

A national conference on Indian education will be held in Minneapolis Nov. 20 and 21.

The American Indian community of the Minneapolis-St. Paul area is planning the conference, with cooperation from the University of Minnesota General Extension Division.

Although the conference is planned as a forum for exchange of ideas among Indians from throughout the country, anyone interested in Indian education will be welcome, a conference spokesman said.

Among the topics scheduled to be discussed are community control and parent participation through school boards and other councils; school finances; training of Indian educators and non-Indian teachers of Indian children; special programs for adult education and dropout prevention, and Upward Bound; and textbook evaluation and curriculum development in languages, history and college Indian studies departments.

Will Antell, director of Indian education for the Minnesota Department of Education, has been named honorary chairman of the conference.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

The sponsoring organizations are:

The Minnesota Indian Education Committee, an independent organization comprised of members from each of the Indian reservations in the state, plus several members from the urban areas of Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth.

The Upper Midwest American Indian Center, a United Fund agency in Minneapolis.

The Minnesota Indian Urban Federation, a league of Indian organizations from Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth.

The American Indian Movement (AIM), a direct-action group for Indian self-determination. Originally an urban Twin Cities organization, AIM now has several groups in Minnesota and one in Denver.

2ND SUMMER SESSION
ATTENDANCE DOWN
SLIGHTLY FROM 1968

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Attendance for the second summer session at the University of Minnesota is approximately the same as a year ago.

There are 12,286 students registered in regular daytime classes---
7,586 men and 4,700 women.

This represents a decline of just 45 students from last year's attendance during the same period, or just one-half of one per cent.

Attendance on the three campuses at the end of the second week of the session was:

	1969	1968
Twin Cities	11,159	11,231
Duluth	1,050	1,078
Morris	77	22

In addition, Duluth has 106 graduate students in attendance who are formally enrolled in Graduate School on the Twin Cities campus.

The largest numbers of regular daytime students are enrolled in the College of Liberal Arts (4,093, up 193 over 1968); the College of Education (1,415); and the Graduate School (2,365 on the Twin Cities campus).

'U' STUDENTS GRADE
COURSES, PROFESSORS

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Most of the students surveyed at the University of Minnesota give their professors passing grades, according to a course evaluation booklet published by the Minnesota Student Association (MSA).

"Salvage" is a listing of 115 courses, with brief explanations of course content, required work, and most importantly, evaluations of the courses and their professors by students who have taken them. The booklet will be given to all entering freshmen this fall with additional copies available in the MSA office and at other campus locations.

Professors who were rated the highest by students were "enthusiastic about their subjects, accessible to students who needed special help, and concerned about their students' progress."

"We included both positive and negative comments about the courses and professors," says Barbara Rudolph, MSA vice president who headed the "Salvage" staff.

"The first course evaluation MSA did included only the good things."

Several professors received all 1 ratings, the highest possible.

"There were a few courses that rated very badly, but these were the exceptions," says Miss Rudolph. "Usually if a course was weak in one area, such as the lecture section, it would make up for it in the smaller recitation sections."

The booklet concentrates on courses that are frequently taken as electives and courses that are needed to fill lower division requirements.

Included in the booklet is a page of "funnies" taken from the students' comments, such as "filling out this questionnaire is the most interesting thing we've done all quarter."

Editors note: Dr. Laur will speak at noon Friday in Mayo auditorium. A complimentary sandwich lunch will be served. Newsmen are invited both to the lunch and to an informal question and answer session following the talk in Dining Room III of the Hospitals Cafeteria.

TO RETURN TO MINNEAPOLIS

The University Theatre's Showboat will return to the Minneapolis campus landing Tuesday, Aug. 26, for seven performances, after traveling to St. Paul, Stillwater and Red Wing.

"The Birds," a political satire written by Aristophanes and adapted by New York critic Walter Kerr, will be presented at 8 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday, Aug. 26-28.

Richard Brinsley Sheridan's comedy of manners, "The School for Scandal," will be presented at 7 and 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Aug. 29 and 30.

Frank M Whiting, director of the University Theatre, is captain of the showboat crew which this year included 17 University students from seven states -- Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Alaska, Maryland, New York and Louisiana.

'U' HOMECOMING WEEK
SET FOR OCT. 10-18

Homecoming Week, with its traditional pep fests, returning alumni and queen candidates, will be Oct. 10 through 18 at the University of Minnesota.

Capping the week's activities will be Saturday's football game between the Minnesota Gophers and the Ohio State Buckeyes. The Gophers will play to the cheers of "Give the BUCKS a WARM--ath," this year's Homecoming slogan.

This is the centennial year for college football throughout the nation, points out John Trentner, publicity chairman and member of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity which is sponsoring this year's Homecoming.

EDUCATION COMMISSIONER TO ADDRESS 'U' GRADUATES

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Commissioner Duane J. Mattheis, Minnesota Department of Education, will address more than 850 graduates and their guests at the University of Minnesota's Second Summer Session commencement Friday, Aug. 22.

Mattheis recently resigned his post, effective Oct. 1, to accept a two-year fellowship at Stanford University, where he will work on his doctorate in education. He has been commissioner since 1964.

Because of construction being done on the stage of Northrop auditorium, the exercises will be held on the Mall, beginning at 4 p.m. In case of rain, it will be moved to Coffman Union main ballroom. The academic procession up the Mall will be led by the mace-bearer, English Professor Harold B. Allen.

William G. Shepherd, vice president for academic administration, will confer the degrees and certificates, assisted by Paul Cashman, vice president for student affairs. Included in the number will be 63 doctoral and 189 masters-degree candidates.

Following the ceremony, the graduates and their guests are invited to the president's reception on Northrop Plaza. In case of rain, the reception will be held in the main lobby of Coffman Union.

Should the exercises be moved into Coffman Union, the graduates' guests will be directed to other rooms in Coffman where they will be able to listen to the ceremonies. The main ballroom is not large enough to hold both the graduates and their guests.

LILLIAN D. ANTHONY
NAMED TO 'U' FACULTY

(FOR RELEASE: TUESDAY, AUG. 19, 1969 AM)

Lillian D. Anthony, director of the Minneapolis Civil Rights Department, has been named an assistant professor and assistant chairman in the University of Minnesota department of Afro-American Studies.

Miss Anthony's appointment, subject to the approval of the University's Board of Regents, will probably be effective Sept. 15, said Dean E.W. Ziebarth of the College of Liberal Arts today.

Her resignation from her present position was submitted Monday (Aug. 18) to the Minneapolis City Council.

"This appointment, when confirmed by the Regents, will mark the active beginning of what we hope will be one of the most productive programs of its kind in America," said Dean Ziebarth. "The planning stage has been long and thoughtful and the program is being designed as a sound academic and community-related enterprise. Miss Anthony's experience as a teacher and community leader will contribute significantly to those objectives, and she will be warmly welcomed on this campus."

In her new position Miss Anthony will teach classes in Afro-American history and assist in the administration of the department which was approved by the University Board of Regents in June.

Miss Anthony has been director of the Minneapolis Civil Rights Department since 1967. She has 11 years of administrative and supervisory experience while employed by the City of Minneapolis, the United States Department of Labor, and social service agencies under the control of the United Presbyterian Church.

She has five years of teaching experience in the United States and in Egypt.

Miss Anthony has a bachelor of science degree in elementary education from Lincoln University and a master's degree in religious education from Pittsburgh Seminary. She has done graduate work at George Washington College, the University of Minnesota and Indiana University.

Miss Anthony designed the curriculum, which included Afro-American history, for the Twin Cities Opportunities Industrialization Center and has been a consultant on training in human relations for numerous institutions and businesses, including the Minneapolis and St. Paul Public Schools, the Minneapolis Civil Service Commission and the Minneapolis Police Department.

'MUSHROOM CLOUD'
SHOWS POPULATION EXPLOSION
AT U'S STATE FAIR EXHIBIT

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Fun-seekers at this year's Minnesota State Fair should be prepared for a shock when they enter the Education building. The University of Minnesota has prepared one for them.

At the end of the building opposite the entrance is a huge nuclear-bomb-like cloud. But this cloud is unique because it is loaded with scurrying little people; it's the population explosion cloud.

"Fall-out" from this population explosion, as presented in the University exhibit, includes displays symbolic of air pollution and water pollution, and an example of artful garbage under glass. Clocks spinning away at the back of the booth depict the world's rapid population growth.

Visitors to the booth may obtain colorful little pamphlets explaining what pollution is, who pays for it, and suggesting what people can do to prevent it.

The exhibit has been prepared by the College of Biological Sciences at the University in cooperation with a number of other colleges and departments.

MATH, ASTRONOMY
TO BE TAUGHT IN
SEPT. WOMEN'S COURSES

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Traveling at a given speed, how long a time would a voyage to Mars require?

More women are able to answer this question this year than last, according to Mrs. Louise Roff, director of continuing education for women in the University of Minnesota General Extension Division.

Mrs. Roff commented on what she sees as the positive effects of space travel on knowledge of the universe as she announced two non-credit short courses in which women might take new interests in space and technology a step further.

The courses, in astronomy and mathematics, are scheduled for September. The math course, in addition to being useful for future courses in science and math, is for students of the social sciences in which facility in working with statistics is important, Mrs. Roff said.

"Time and Space" will be taught at MacPhail Center, 1128 LaSalle ave., Minneapolis, by Karlis Kaufmanis, an associate professor of astronomy, on Thursday mornings Sept. 4 through 25.

Kay Blair, formerly of the Minnesota School Mathematics Center, will teach the math course on the Minneapolis campus on Tuesday and Friday mornings Sept. 9 through 26.

Probability, logic, sets, functions and number systems are among the topics to be discussed in the course, for which the prerequisite is two years of high school math -- no matter how long ago they may have been taken.

Registration for both courses is now open through the Department of Continuing Education for Women, 310 Nolte Center, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 55455; telephone 373-9743.

NOTE TO NEWSMEN: Dr. Malloney's talk will be presented at noon in Mayo Auditorium Friday, Aug. 22. A complimentary sandwich lunch will be served. You are particularly invited to a news conference, following the talk, in Dining Room III of University Hospitals Cafeteria.

TUFT'S MED SCHOOL DEAN TO DISCUSS URBAN, RURAL HEALTH PROGRAM FOR POOR

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Two innovative health care programs for the poor -- one in a Boston slum and the other in rural Mississippi -- have been established by the Tuft's University School of Medicine in Boston, Mass.

The Tuft's Medical School dean, Dr. William Malloney, (a 1946 graduate of the University of Minnesota Medical School), will discuss his program's implications for Minnesota this Friday (Aug. 22) on the Minneapolis campus.

Dr. Malloney explained recently that the number of clinical settings desirable for an adequate medical education has increased greatly in the last few years.

"The most important new dimension in this decade is the community, as distinct from the hospital, as a place where the delivery of health care should be seen and participated in by health-sciences students," he said.

HOUSING DISCRIMINATION
REVEALED IN NEW BOOK

"Racial Policies and Practices of Real Estate Brokers," a close look at one of the basic problems underlying racial discrimination in housing, has been published by the University of Minnesota Press.

The book, by Rose Helper, associate professor of sociology at the university of Toledo, is based on a series of 121 interviews with real estate brokers conducted in 1955-56 in Chicago, Ill. The Chicago data is compared with information about brokers' practices in other cities.

WILSON LIBRARY
EXTENDS HOURS

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Wilson Library at the University of Minnesota will be open evenings and weekends Saturday (Aug. 23) through Sept. 28.

Previously the library has been open only from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday during this period between the end of the second Summer Session and the beginning of fall quarter.

"We are extending the hours in response to requests from graduate students who need to use this six-week period for intensive work," said Edward B. Stanford, director of University Libraries.

All facilities are open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. The basement reading areas will be open until 10 p.m., Monday through Thursday; from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays and from 2 to 5 p.m. Sundays. Plaza-level areas will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays.

Fall quarter classes start Sept. 29.

WARREN GULKO
NAMED TO WESTERN HIGHER EDUCATION UNIT

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Warren Gulko, assistant to the vice president for educational relationships and development at the University of Minnesota, has been appointed assistant director of the Management Information Systems (MIS) program of the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education.

His resignation from the University of Minnesota is effective today (Friday, Aug. 22) and he will assume his new position in Boulder, Colo., Sept. 3.

George Robb, formerly assistant to the dean of the College of Education, has been named to replace him at the University.

The MIS program has been initiated to help colleges and universities examine critically the management function of higher education. The Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education is an organization for higher education in 13 western states, supported by the governments of those states.

Gulko, originally from San Diego, Calif., received his master of science degree in business administration from the University in 1968 and has been on the University staff since 1965. He was named to his present position in February, 1968.

'U' CLUB TO SHOW
AMERICAN FILMS

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

More than 100 American films, from the silent period through the early '50s, have been scheduled for showing at the University of Minnesota Sept. 3 through next July 16.

Musicals and comedies will be featured fall quarter and dramas and mysteries will be the fare for winter quarter.

The films are sponsored by the Encore Film Club, a newly organized non-profit group of about 100 University students and staff members.

Showings will be at 7 p.m. in the Museum of Natural History auditorium on the Minneapolis campus. Admission is $1.25 for non-members. Membership is open for a $1 fee which provides a 50-cent discount on each ticket purchase. Or one may buy a pass for $5, good for any six films.

"All the films are rated 'G'," said Bob Patrin, a graduate student in library science and organizer of the group.

The schedule for September is as follows:

Sept. 3 -- "My Favorite Brunette" with Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour
"Ghost Breakers" with Bob Hope and Paulette Goddard

Sept. 10-- "Alexander's Ragtime Band" with Don Ameche, Tyrone Power, Alice Faye
"Rose of Washington Square" with Al Jolson, Tyrone Power, Alice Faye

Sept. 17-- "Mr. and Mrs. Smith" with Carole Lombard and Robert Montgomery
"Turnabout" with Carol Landis and John Hubbard

Sept. 24-- "Invisible Man" with Claude Rains
"The Mummy's Hand" and "The Mummy's Tomb" with Lon Chaney, Jr.

TTT STAFF ANNOUNCED

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Mrs. Ruby Riney, chairman of the Citizens Community Centers (CCC) board of directors, has been named assistant director for community relations for the Training of Teacher Trainers (TTT) Project at the University of Minnesota.

Appointments of three full-time TTT staff members, retroactive to July 1, were announced today (Aug. 25) by Charles Bruning, TTT director and director of clinical experience in the University's College of Education.

Glen White, presently on leave from his position as professor of education at Mankato State College, was named assistant director of instructional involvement for TTT. David Goodlow, a former Northern Pacific Railway employe who has been a volunteer youth worker in the community, was named coordinator for community relations in St. Paul.

The TTT Project, funded by a $490,000 grant from the U.S. Office of Education, is designed to involve the community in the process of teacher education. Cooperating in the project are the Minneapolis and St. Paul public schools, the University of Minnesota and several Minnesota colleges.

Beginning Sept. 2 some 40 teachers and teacher trainers from Minnesota schools will work in inner-city schools and communities in St. Paul and Minneapolis while attending a special program of classes at the University of Minnesota.

Headquarters for the project will be in Burton hall at the University of Minnesota. Mrs. Riney will have an office in Central High School in Minneapolis and White and Goodlow will occupy offices in Ramsey Junior High School in St. Paul

Mrs. Riney, the mother of five, has taught in the Minneapolis public elementary schools since 1955. She has bachelor's degrees from Lincoln University in Jefferson City, Mo. and Macalester College and a master of arts degree from the University of Minnesota.

'U' EVENING CLASSES OFFERED
IN TWIN CITIES AND SUBURBS

Some people leave for school right after breakfast; others leave right after supper.

The after-dinner crowd goes back to school the week of Sept. 29, when University of Minnesota evening classes begin.

They will find their choice of classes and where to take them better than ever, according to Theodore Campbell, acting director of the General Extension Division's department of evening and special classes.

"Meeting students' needs -- what they are interested in and where and when they can go to class -- is a primary concern of the department," Campbell said.

"Students in the north and south suburban areas can leave later for classes this fall, and some individuals who were never able to attend before will be able to now, because of two new evening-class centers at Richfield High School and Kellogg High School in Roseville."

The major evening-class centers, in addition to Richfield and Roseville, are the University's Minneapolis and St. Paul campuses, MacPhail Center in downtown Minneapolis, the downtown-St. Paul Extension Center, Sandburg Junior High School in Golden Valley, Central High School in South Minneapolis and Hopkins High School.

"We offer many courses in computer sciences, mathematics, engineering, industrial relations and scores of related subjects of direct occupational and professional relevance," Campbell said.

"That firms put increasing importance on employee education is attested by the rising number of registrants whose tuition is reimbursed by their employers."

"But as important as professional advancement and occupational updating are, general education courses -- those which increase one's cultural understanding and social awareness -- are, in the development of the individual, perhaps even more important."

"From the more or less traditional courses in the arts and sciences, to the study of topics of current social concern, the department provides a variety of continuing education experiences to people in all walks of life, occupations and age groups."

Although most evening classes carry credit applicable to University degrees, students who are taking courses for their own educational enrichment can register as auditors and will not receive either a grade or degree credit.

There are no requirements, such as a high school diploma, for taking or receiving credit for courses.

Students may register by mail in almost all classes -- including those with a limited enrollment. Mail registration is now open. In-person registration will be held Sept. 11 through 19.

A schedule of office hours and all classes to be offered during the year is available from any of the evening class offices. The main office is located in Nicholson hall on the Minneapolis campus, telephone 373-3195.

Note to Newsmen: Professor Shores' talk will be presented at noon Friday (Aug. 29) in Mayo Auditorium. A complimentary sandwich lunch will be served. An informal question and answer session will follow in Dining Room III.

LIBRARY'S IMPORTANCE TO MEDICAL EDUCATION
TO BE DISCUSSED AT U

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

The importance of incorporating electronic data retrieval equipment in Medical School libraries will be discussed Friday (Aug. 29) at the University of Minnesota Health Sciences Center.

Louis Shores, dean emeritus of the Florida State University Library School and editor-in-chief of Collier's Encyclopedia, will base his talk on a quote from Thomas Carlyle, "The true university is a collection of books."

Professor Shores, who was cited in 1967 by the American Library Association for 50 years of contributions to reference librarianship, believes all media formats -- from textbooks through television and computer consoles -- should be available to medical education.

The Health of the Nation lecture series is sponsored by local members of the Council of Teaching Hospitals of the Association of American Medical Colleges.

ALFORD LEAVES MINNESOTA
TO TAKE KANSAS STATE POST

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Harold J. Alford, director of independent study at the University of Minnesota, has accepted a position as director of continuing education and summer session at Kansas State University, effective Sept. 1.

The announcement was made by John Chalmers, vice president for academic affairs at the Manhattan, Kansas, institution.

As a professor of education, Alford also will teach in a doctoral program in adult education -- one of the main attractions for a man who considers himself above all else a teacher.

Multimedia teaching for continuing education will be among his chief concerns there because the area served by Kansas State is "even more rural than Minnesota," he says.

Under his direction, the University of Minnesota General Extension Division's correspondence study program changed its name to "independent study" to reflect increasing use of such audio-visual techniques as slides, tapes and telephone lectures.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

Before coming to Minnesota, Alford held several positions with the University of Washington, where he helped organize the Pacific Northwest Writers' Conference. He joined the Minnesota department of concerts and lectures in 1951 and joined the General Extension Division staff in 1955 as head of its St. Paul Extension Center. In 1964, he was named director of independent (then correspondence) study, and of off-campus classes and special courses, departments which later became part of the department of evening classes.

Alford, a writer, is the author of the recently published "Continuing Education in Action: Residential Center for Lifelong Learning," but has concentrated primarily on teaching writing. Many novels -- both published and unpublished -- have been written under his guidance. He will not teach writing at Kansas, as he does at Minnesota, but he does anticipate a writers' conference as part of the summer session there.

'U' TV LECTURE SERIES FOR HEALTH PROFESSIONALS TO BE HELD
IN TWIN CITIES, ROCHESTER, DULUTH

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Drug therapy in eye, ear, nose, mouth and throat disorders will be the subject of a University of Minnesota symposium for pharmacists and other health professionals beginning in September in Rochester, the Twin Cities and Duluth.

"Over-simplification and misinformation in advertising and the abundance of non-prescription drugs for treatment of these diseases make it important that those in the para-medical professions have correct information on the diseases and the drugs used to treat them," says William Hodapp, director of continuing pharmacy education.

Video-taped lectures by University faculty members from the departments of ophthalmology, otolaryngology, clinical pharmacy and pharmaceuticals, followed by discussions with local medical experts, will constitute each of the five symposium sessions.

Sponsored by the University's General Extension Division, the symposium is supported by grants from several pharmaceutical firms.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

Rochester -- the symposium will be held Sept. 9, 16, 23 and 30 and Oct. 7 at 8 p.m. in the Science Lecture Hall at Rochester State Junior College. Local coordinators for the program are Neal Schwartau, chief pharmacist for Rochester Methodist Hospital, and Paul Allen, a community pharmacist.

Twin Cities -- the symposium will be held Sept. 16, 23 and 30 and Oct. 7 and 14 at 8 p.m. in room 120 Burton Hall on the University's Minneapolis campus.

Duluth -- the symposium will be held Sept. 30 and Oct. 7, 14, 21 and 28 at 9:30 p.m. in room 112 of the Education Building on the University's Duluth campus. Local coordinator for the program is Bob Gibson, a community pharmacist.

Registration, for a fee of $15 for the entire symposium, can be made in advance with the Department of Continuing Pharmacy Education, 115 Appleby Hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 55455, telephone (612) 373-2186; or at the door.

ADELE DAVIS, CRITIC OF AMERICAN DIET,
TO SPEAK AT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

A clinical nutritionist who has written several books criticizing the way Americans eat will speak Thursday, Sept. 4 at the University of Minnesota.

Adele Davis has called the American diet inadequate and stated that the food we buy in the market has lost much of its nutritive value. She has recommended that Americans supplement their diet with minerals and vitamins or eat organically grown food which has not been sprayed with DDT or other pesticides.

Miss Davis has also written a book for expectant mothers and nutritional aspects of child care.

She will speak at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 4 in Mayo Auditorium.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

Adele Davis -- has a master of science degree from the University of Southern California Medical School and has studied at Purdue University, Columbia University and the University of California at Los Angeles.

She has worked as a dietician at Bellevue Hospital in New York City and as consulting nutritionist in Los Angeles.

She is the author of "Let's Eat Right to Keep Fit," "Let's Get Well," "Let's Have Healthy Children" and "Let's Cook It Right."

Her appearance is sponsored by the Bio-Medical Students Committee for Social Responsibility and the University of Minnesota Medical School.

BETTER DELIVERY
OF DENTAL CARE
IS AIM OF UNIQUE CHAIR

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

A unique professorship in dental-care delivery has been established in the University of Minnesota School of Dentistry, Dean Erwin Schaffer announced today.

Funds for the chair have been provided for the next 10 years by the Hill Family Foundation of St. Paul.

Dental-care delivery encompasses such problems as providing total dental care for a greater number of people than are now getting it, particularly in rural and poverty areas where there is the most severe dentist shortage; making greater use of dentists' aides or auxiliaries in such jobs as cleaning and filling teeth; lowering the cost of dental care, etc.

Thus the person who holds this research professorship does not have to be a dentist, Dr. Schaffer said today. He added that he is selecting a search committee to find the best person.

The research professor will join five behavioral scientists and three dentists in the dental school's division of health ecology. Dean Schaffer praised the Hill Foundation for its concern in meeting an impending crisis in health care and added that the division, headed by Dr. Lawrence Meskin, had shown leadership in developing the research-professorship proposal.

Dr. Meskin stated that the University probably has the largest group of people now working in the area of dental-care delivery and said, "We're way ahead of any other institution in establishing this research professorship."

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

The Hill Foundation grant is for $187,000 for 10 years. For the last five years the University will share salary costs for the professor.

An advisory committee to aid the research professor will be named, composed of a private practitioner, a pediatrician, a University sociologist, a Dental School faculty member and a private citizen.

PRIZE TURKEYS
TO GO TO U OF M

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Two of the prize turkeys now at the Minnesota State Fair are slated to achieve immortality at the University of Minnesota. The birds will be preserved for display at the Bell Museum of Natural History.

The birds were selected for the honor by Roy Munson, executive secretary of the Minnesota Turkey Growers Association. The association is donating the big white birds and $500 for preserving them and for reconstructing a turkey skeleton and an exhibit of turkey bones in a roasting pan.

All four birds will then be on display as part of the children's "Touch and See" room at the museum.

"We think it's fitting that turkeys raised by kids end up in a display for kids," said Assistant Professor Richard E. Barthelemy, public education coordinator at the museum.

The Minnesota Turkey Growers Association has contributed to several research projects at the University.

PROFESSIONAL CORPORATIONS
TO BE SUBJECT OF LAWYERS' COURSE

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Professional corporations -- the requirements, the advantages and the disadvantages -- will be explained in a one-day course for lawyers at the University of Minnesota Friday, Sept. 26.

Recent federal court decisions and changes in Internal Revenue Service policies have made it possible for organizations of doctors, lawyers and other professional men to be treated as corporations -- the principal advantages being tax benefits and limited liability, according to John Wirt, assistant director of continuing legal education at the University.

Attorneys Berrien C. Eaton, Jr., of Phoenix, Ariz., and Jule M. Hannaford of Minneapolis will speak to lawyers interested in professional incorporation for themselves or for clients.

Sponsors of the course are the University General Extension Division's department of continuing legal education and the Minnesota State Bar Association. Registrations will be taken by Continuing Legal Education, 338 Nolte Center, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn. 55455. Tuition is $25.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

The schedule for the course, which will be held in the Bell Museum of Natural History, is:

- 9:30 a.m. -- Background of the Professional Corporation (Eaton)
- 11 a.m. -- Evaluating Whether or Not to Incorporate (Hannaford)
- 1:30 p.m. -- Problems in Connection with Incorporation (Hannaford)
- 3 p.m. -- Ethical and Operational Problems (Eaton)
- 4:15 p.m. -- Question and answer session.

BRUSSELS RESEARCHER TO DISCUSS CHLOROPLASTS

Chloroplasts, chlorophyll-containing bodies in cells, will be discussed by a researcher from Brussels in a special lecture at the University of Minnesota.

Open free to the public, the lecture will be of special interest to local botanists and pathologists. "The Chloroplasts: Their Function, Their Dependence on the Nucleus and Their Circadian Rhythms" by Therese Vanden Driessche, Ph.D., of the University of Brussels, Belgium, will be presented Wednesday (Sept. 10) at 4 p.m. The talk, in Room 6 Botany (auditorium) on the Minneapolis campus of the University of Minnesota, is sponsored by the departments of pathology, botany, and concerts and lectures.

FRENCH PHYSIOLOGIST TO DISCUSS FRUIT-FLY RHYTHM

The life rhythms of the fruit fly (Drosophila) will be discussed at the University of Minnesota. Entomologists, pathologists and interested members of the public are invited to hear "Circadian Rhythm in Drosophila During Life Span and Under Various Ambient Conditions" Tuesday, Sept. 23 at 3:30 p.m.

The lecture, by Associate Professor Alfred Heusner, Ph.D., of the University of California at Davis, will be held in Room 495 (auditorium) of the Entomology, Fisheries and Wildlife Building on the St. Paul Campus of the University of Minnesota.

Originally from Strasbourg, France, Heusner has worked extensively on rhythms in oxygen consumption in insects and has contributed considerably to knowledge of the beehive. The lecture is sponsored by the departments of entomology, fisheries and wildlife, pathology, and concerts and lectures.

'U' ASKS SUPPORT FOR ARTS FESTIVAL

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minnesotans are being asked to contribute a total of $7,000 to support "Of Media," a statewide arts festival sponsored by the Coffman Union Board of Governors (UBOG) of the University of Minnesota.

Art, crafts, photography, film, theatre and music will be included in the festival which is planned for Jan. 7 through 17, 1970. There will be public exhibits and performances and workshops and competition open to all students enrolled in Minnesota institutions of higher education.

"Our purpose is to develop awareness in art programs throughout the state," said Tom Stark, UBOG program consultant. "Although there have been art festivals at the University for at least 15 years, this is the first time we have sought support from throughout the state and have actively encouraged students from other colleges and universities to participate in all areas."

Present plans for the festival include emphasis on the workshop approach, with sessions on plexiglass and cast polyethylene, graphics and filmmaking; a program series in music combining the new classical renaissance with modern techniques; a traveling graphics exhibit of competition winners and a folk festival.

The projected budget for the festival is $12,000. UBOG has appropriated $5,000 in student funds, with the remainder to be raised by contributions from individuals, corporations and community groups.

Inquiries and contributions may be addressed to Of Media, 229 Coffman Memorial Union, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn. 55455.

CERAMIC SCULPTURE EXHIBIT TO OPEN IN COFFMAN GALLERY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Is a whipped ice milk cone with a curl on top really a sex symbol?

Curtis Hoard thinks so. The cone is one of the pieces that will be included in his showing of ceramic sculpture in Coffman Gallery at the University of Minnesota Sept. 15 through Sept. 30.

"I pick up on something that's current -- a prevalent idea -- and attempt to express it in a new way," Hoard said, explaining how he gets ideas for his non-functional sculptures. There will be some 30 works in the Coffman show, which will have a public opening at 7 p.m. Monday (Sept. 15).

Hoard is an instructor in glass blowing and ceramics in the University's studio arts department.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

Hoard joined the University faculty in 1967 after receiving a master of fine arts degree from the University of Wisconsin and a bachelor of science degree in art education from Wisconsin State University-River Falls. He studied at Cranbrook Academy of Art in Bloomfield Hills, Mich., in 1965-66. Last summer he was a visiting professor at the University of New Mexico.

His works are included in the permanent collections of the Universities of Wisconsin and Michigan, Wisconsin State University-River Falls and the Nordness Galleries of New York City. He has exhibited widely throughout the United States and received major awards at the Wisconsin and Minnesota State Fairs in 1967 and 1968.

UPPER MIDWEST RESEARCH COUNCIL,
U OF M URBAN AFFAIRS CENTER LINKED

For further information, contact:
NANCY PIRSIG, 373-5193

(FOR RELEASE AT 11 A.M. FRIDAY, SEPT. 12)

CROOKSTON----The Upper Midwest Research and Development Council and the University of Minnesota's Center for Urban and Regional Affairs became more closely linked today through two joint appointments.

The University Board of Regents, meeting here, named Thomas L. Anding, who is executive ~~director~~ of the council, associate director of the Center for Urban and Regional Affairs (CURA); and Neil C. Gustafson, council associate director, as coordinator of CURA. Anding is an assistant professor at the University and Gustafson an instructor.

The Upper Midwest Research and Development Council (UMRDC) conducts research and ~~provides~~ information and technical assistance on problems in agriculture, industry, education and urban development. It encompasses Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana, northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan.

CURA, formed in 1967, is becoming involved in many of the problems that UMRDC has worked on in the past, and is able to bring the resources of the University faculty to bear on these problems to a greater degree than has been true in the past. Its work includes major research efforts as well as experimental projects in continuing education. Director is Geography Professor John Borchert.

Main advantage of the joint appointments is seen as greater coordination of projects.

UMRDC will remain a separate, independent body supported by regional businesses and will continue to develop its programs as before, with the additional help of CURA's resources. The council in 1969-70 plans to direct its efforts to the following problems:

(MORE)

Local government reorganization; further research on the urban-rural balance; improvement of educational opportunity, grade school through post-high-school; plans for utilization of 1970 census material in this region; efforts to improve the decision-making process in the Twin Cities area (the UMRDC was involved in the setting up of the Metropolitan Council); environmental pollution problems; and other special projects.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

The Board of Directors of the UMRDC and the Board of Regents had prepared for the greater coordination of the two services in meetings earlier this summer. Today's action formalized the joint appointments.

Since 1959, UMRDC and the University have participated jointly in more than $2 million worth of research, major studies being the Upper Midwest Regional Economic Study and the Upper Midwest Regional Urban Study. Currently three major studies are under way. UMRDC's 1969-70 annual budget, independent of such research projects, is $100,000.

Both Anding and Gustafson have been associated with the University's General Extension Division for many years. Gustafson, in his new position, will be mainly responsible for administering programs in CURA's Office of Community Programs.

In addition to Anding and Gustafson, a secretary at UMRDC, Dorothy K. Bromenshenkel, also is a joint appointee.

STARR APPOINTED TO URBAN AFFAIRS POST IN LABOR EDUCATION SERVICE

(FOR RELEASE AT 11 A.M. FRIDAY, SEPT. 12)

CROOKSTON -- Emil Starr, formerly of the University of Massachusetts, was named ~~director~~ of urban affairs for the University of Minnesota Labor Education Service (LES) by the Board of Regents today.

An assistant to the chancellor at the University of Massachusetts at Boston, Starr was in charge of educational television in the Boston area.

At the LES --- a joint office of the Industrial Relations Center and the General Extension Division --- Starr will coordinate educational and research programs dealing with labor involvement in urban activities.

He will be responsible for four major federally financed action and research projects with budgets totalling over half a million dollars, according to Professor John Flagler, LES director.

Commenting on the creation of the new post held by Starr, Flagler said today, "It is essential that the University expand its educational assistance to the labor movement as the movement becomes increasingly involved in programs designed to meet the problems of our cities."

Flagler cited Starr's experience in education, union programs and urban affairs as his qualifications for the position.

A national-award-winning producer of documentary films on urban crises in Boston, Starr has taught at a number of universities, directed an anti-poverty training program in New York City (1965) and spent seven years as national education director for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America (1953-1960).

(MORE)

In addition to other duties at Minnesota, he will teach industrial relations with the academic rank of associate professor. His appointment is retroactive to Aug. 1.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

Starr -- holds a doctorate in international relations (dissertation on British labor and the Soviet Union between 1939 and 1949) from the University of Chicago.

has taught at Boston University (visiting lecturer, 1967); the New School for Social Research, New York City (1965); and Farleigh Dickinson University in Teaneck, N.J. (1962-66).

was northeast regional director for the Foreign Policy Association (1962-66). Acted as a consultant on foreign policy to community organizations, high schools and colleges, and trade union education programs.

was consultant to the U.S. government's office of labor affairs (1960-61).

is co-author of "The Reuther-Meany Foreign Policy Dispute: Union Leaders and Members View World Affairs," a book to be published in 1969.

(FOR RELEASE AT 11 A.M. FRIDAY, SEPT. 12, 1969)

CROOKSTON----John E. Brandl, deputy assistant secretary of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), has been named to head the University of Minnesota's new School of Public Affairs.

The University's Board of Regents today appointed Brandl, 31, as director of the School of Public Affairs, effective immediately.

A native Minnesotan, Brandl graduated from Cathedral High School in St. Cloud and received a bachelor of arts degree in economics from St. John's University, Collegeville. He received his master of arts and doctor of philosophy degrees in economics from Harvard University.

Prior to his appointment to HEW as deputy assistant secretary for educational planning in September, 1968, he was a member of the economics faculty at the University of Wisconsin, where he directed a graduate program for federal government employees. From 1963 to 1965 he was a systems analyst in the Office of the Secretary of Defense. He has served as a consultant to several government departments and agencies at both federal and state levels.

Brandl received the Joint Service Commendation Medal from Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara in 1965 and was named one of the Outstanding Young Men of America by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce in 1967.

(MORE)

"Dr. Brandl's rich experience, in both research and administration, in the field of public affairs is an asset which we have been seeking in the director. As director he will bring to the school, not only his talents as a scholar, but also the awareness of the need for continuing education and community service. I am confident that all his talents will help to make the School of Public Affairs at the University one of the best in the country," said University President Malcolm Moos.

"Dr. Brandl is a distinguished man whose high-level experience in government combined with academic qualification will bring strength to the new School of Public Affairs," Dean E.W. Ziebarth of the College of Liberal Arts said today.

Also at today's meeting, the University Regents appointed Harry H. Vorrath as associate professor in the School of Social Work and General Extension Division and director of "Project Newgate," a federally funded program to provide higher education for the inmates of the Minnesota State Reformatory for Men in St. Cloud.

Vorrath, 40, has a bachelor of arts degree in psychology and philosophy from Montana State University and a master's degree in social work from Ohio State University.

His previous experience includes work as a police officer, settlement house program director, group treatment consultant in the Kentucky Department of Child Welfare, administrator of Kentucky state institution for the treatment of delinquents, director of a program for the rehabilitation of youthful offenders in Washington, D.C., and consultant to the Minnesota Department of Corrections.

Other appointments made by the Regents today include:

John Cromwell, 81, a visiting professor of speech, communication and theatre arts for fall quarter, 1969. Cromwell is a noted American actor, producer and stage and film director. He played in the Broadway production of "Mary, Mary" in 1961 and in 1963 joined the Minnesota Theatre Company for four seasons where he played in "The Miser," "Hamlet," "Death of a Salesman" and other productions.

(MORE)

Among the films he directed are "Anna and the King of Siam" (1946) and "The Company She Keeps" (1951). His wife, Ruth Nelson, is with the Minnesota Theatre Company this season. At the University, he will teach acting.

Joel Hunt as visiting professor of French and Italian for fall and winter quarters. Hunt is associate dean of the Graduate School at Indiana University. A specialist in 16th-century French literature, he received his doctor of philosophy degree from Yale University.

Jacques L. DuBois as visiting professor of French and Italian for spring quarter, 1970. DuBois is a graduate of and professor of French literature at the University of Liege in Belgium. He will teach the novel of the 19th and 20th century with special emphasis on Emile Zola.

Lawrence Berger as visiting professor in the Law School for 1969-70. Berger, a specialist in commercial law and real property, is a law professor at the University of Nebraska. He received a bachelor of science degree from the University of Pennsylvania and his doctor of law degree from Rutgers University and has been in private law practice in New Jersey. He will teach classes in real property and modern real estate.

Vernon L. Hendrix as professor of educational administration, effective Sept. 16. Hendrix has been administrative assistant to the chancellor of the Dallas County Junior College District since 1967. His duties have been primarily in the area of faculty in-service training with particular emphasis on sensitivity training. Hendrix was a member of the Minnesota faculty from 1965 to 1967. He has a bachelor of music degree from Texas Christian University and a master's degree in musicology and a doctor of philosophy degree in college administration from the University of Texas. He will teach a course in research and advise students in higher education, particularly doctoral candidates. He will also be working on the completion of the federally funded "Project: Junior College."

'U' REGENTS COMMIT
$4 MILLION FOR STUDENT LOAN FUNDS

(FOR RELEASE AT 11 A.M. FRIDAY, SEPT. 12, 1969)

Crookston, Minn.----The University of Minnesota Board of Regents, meeting here today, considerably eased University student problems of obtaining loan money from banks.

It committed $4 million from the University's endowment funds to insure that banks would make that amount available to students in loans at 7 percent interest. This step was seen as an interim 1-year emergency measure in light of a crucial money situation in recent months, particularly for students.

The board's action -- recognizing the urgency of the problem since classes start Sept. 29 -- could enable students to attend the University who otherwise could not.

It is anticipated that the State of Minnesota, using its trust funds, will make $8 million available to non-University college students in a similar program. The total estimate of $12 million required came from a Governor's advisory committee appointed to aid needy Minnesota college students.

Regent Elmer L. Andersen, chairman of a Regents committee which studied the matter, said today that the Regents, "feel our primary responsibility is to the student attending the University, and we have been anxious to take any steps necessary to assure that no qualified student will be denied admittance for lack of funds."

The money is tight for student loans for two reasons. The federal student loan program guarantees banks that student loans will be made good and the federal government pays their interest while the student is in school. However, the interest rate ceiling was set at 7 percent on these guaranteed loans, while the current prime rate is 8.5 percent. Secondly, in an effort to combat inflation, the federal government is putting pressure on banks to reduce their total loans and resist new loans.

(MORE)

Congress is expected to revise the Federal Student Loan Program in the near future to provide for a current 8.5 percent interest rate and for a periodic review of the guaranteed interest rates, however, this would not affect the tight-money situation.

The effect of the Regents' action today will be to make new money available for student loans. The method for redeeming the Regents' pledge will be that as banks make loans to students, they will "sell" the loan paper to the University in substantial "bundles." Thus the University will take the loans after the banks have processed them; the banks will contribute the time and personnel needed to do the work.

To accomplish this, the University must tie up its endowment funds to this extent and accept a slight potential loss of income, since the student loans would earn less for the University than would the same dollars invested in other paper.

The Regents made clear that the University still does not regard loan funds as the only way to help needy students and prefers a balanced program of scholarships and grants as well as loans.

"This in no way alters the University's efforts to maintain a balanced blend of both kinds of financial assistance," Regent Andersen said, pointing out that $800,000 in grants has been made available through the Office of Student Financial Aids for the coming year.

2 WOMEN TO RECEIVE OUTSTANDING ACHIEVEMENT AWARDS

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Two women, University of Minnesota graduates who have achieved prominence in the fields of psychology and library science, will receive the University's Outstanding Achievement Award Saturday.

The highest honor the University gives to its alumni will be presented to Mrs. Helen H. Gee and Eileen Thornton by William G. Shepherd, vice president for academic administration, at the University Alumnae Club's annual meeting Saturday, Sept. 20 at 1 p.m. at the Edina Country Club.

Mrs. Gee has been the scientist administrator of the Research Review Branch of the National Institute of Health since 1965.

Listed in both "American Men of Science" and "Who's Who of American Women," she has headed research programs for the Association of American Medical Colleges and the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development. She received her bachelor, master's and doctoral degrees from the University.

Miss Thornton, currently librarian at Oberlin College and the Oberlin Public Libraries, Oberlin, Ohio, has served as president of the Association of College Research Libraries and is now president of the Library Administration Division of the American Library Association (ALA) and a member of the ALA council and its executive board. She is also serving on an ad hoc committee on opportunities for Negro students in the library profession.

A native of Ireland, she received a bachelor's degree from the University of Minnesota and a master's degree from the University of Chicago.

As part of the program, the recipients will be interviewed by Maynard Speece, of the WCCO radio staff and member of the Minnesota Alumni Association Board.

'U' OB-GYN DEPT.
ADDS 4 PROFESSORS

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Four international authorities in obstetrics and gynecology have joined the staff of the University of Minnesota Health Sciences Center.

Erlio Gurpide, 42, an authority on the metabolism of estrogens and other steroid hormones, has a dual appointment as professor of biochemistry and of obstetrics and gynecology.

Born in Argentina, Prof. Gurpide received his doctorate in 1955 from the University of Buenos Aires. Before joining the University of Minnesota staff he was an assistant professor of biochemistry at Columbia University. In addition to teaching, he will conduct research in reproductive endocrinology and infertility and the biochemistry of hormones.

Dr. Jan Jirasek, 40, is an assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology. Last year he was the Lasby Visiting Professor in the School of Dentistry's oral pathology division.

Born in Czechoslovakia, Dr. Jirasek was formerly Chief of the Laboratory of Embryology and Histochemistry at the Research Institute for the Care of Mother and Child in Prague. His main research interests are in the physiology and pathology of the placenta, developmental anatomy and genetics.

Dr. Carlos Mendez-Bauer, 39, is an associate professor in the departments of obstetrics and gynecology and physiology.

He has made extensive studies of the fetal and maternal characteristics associated with normal and abnormal labor. A Uruguayan, Dr. Mendez-Bauer was formerly chairman of the obstetrical physiology service in the University of Uruguay School of Medicine.

Dr. Juan Poseiro, 44, an associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology, is noted for his research into maternal and fetal welfare, particularly in high-risk patients.

Also from Uruguay, Dr. Poseiro was chief of the gynecology clinic and head of the obstetrical unit in the obstetrical physiology service at the University of Uruguay.

RADIATION AND MAN
IS TOPIC FOR 'U'
EVENING COURSE

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

The nature and biological effects of radiation--particularly radiation from nuclear reactors and x-ray machines--will be studied in a University of Minnesota evening class this fall.

Donald Barber, associate professor of environmental health and course instructor, explained that the course is offered as a direct result of public concern about the alleged hazards of nuclear power plants and is designed to be informative for the general public.

Course content includes an introduction to man's radiation environment, biological responses to radiation, radiation measurements, and radiation protection principles.

Classes will be held Mondays, from 6:20 to 8 p.m., in room 100, Mayo auditorium. The deadline for registration is Sept. 19. Classes start Sept. 29. Further information is available from the General Extension Division's department of evening and special classes.

CHILDREN'S ART CLASSES
TO BEGIN AT 'U' OCT. 4

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Saturday art classes for children ages 5 to 10 will be offered at the University of Minnesota for 10 weeks beginning Oct. 4.

The classes will meet from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. every Saturday at the Institute of Child Development on the University's Minneapolis campus.

The sessions are planned to provide opportunities for teachers and students to experiment with various new art materials and methods of instruction in art.

Professor Clifton Gayne, chairman of the University's art education department, is supervisor of the program. Classes are coordinated by Mrs. Ardis Norberg and taught by graduate students in art education.

Registration materials and further information can be obtained from Mrs. Helen Dickison, Institute of Child Development, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn. 55455. Telephone 373-2219.

A fee of $10 is charged for the series. Children who have not previously attended an art class at the Institute will be enrolled first.

GRAMBSCH ASKS TO RESIGN
AS BUSINESS SCHOOL HEAD

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Paul V. Grambsch has requested that he be relieved of his duties as dean of the University of Minnesota School of Business Administration as of June 30, 1970.

Dean Grambsch has served as dean of the School of Business Administration since 1960 and occupied a similar position at Tulane University in New Orleans for five years prior to joining the Minnesota faculty.

President Malcolm Moos expressed appreciation for "the decade of dedicated service which Paul Grambsch has given to the University of Minnesota as dean of the School of Business Administration."

"The post of president of the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business and the recognition he has received as co-author of the book, 'University Goals and Academic Power,' indicate the high regard in which he is held in his professional field," President Moos said. (The book, written with Edward Gross, was published in 1968 by the American Council on Education.)

In a letter addressed to faculty members of the School of Business Administration, Dean Grambsch said that he had served as dean for 10 years and "I think this is an appropriate length of time in an administrative post of this kind and, therefore, I have requested of President Moos to be relieved of the duties of dean at that time (June 30, 1970). It is my intention after a period of leave of absence, to devote my time fully to the regular professional duties of teaching and research."

WELCOME WEEK AT 'U'
TO BEGIN SEPT. 22

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

University of Minnesota Vice President for Student Affairs Paul Cashman, who recently returned from Czechoslovakia where he studied university structure and student unrest, will open Welcome Week activities at the University Monday (Sept. 22). His public address begins at 10 a.m. in Northrop auditorium.

"Welcome Week" includes some 50 programs and events designed to acquaint the new University student with his new environment," said Assistant Professor Roger Harrold, director of orientation.

"More than telling him where the buildings are, we want to delve into some of the gut issues of our time -- student unrest, racial conflict, pollution."

"Within You/Without You," taken from the Beatles' song, is the theme of this year's Welcome Week.

Among the scheduled speakers are former Vice President and University professor Hubert Humphrey (Wednesday, Sept. 24, 10 a.m., St. Paul campus mall) and Milt Williams of the Way, who will discuss Cleaver's "Soul on Ice" (Monday, Sept. 22, 11 a.m., Coffman Union main ballroom).

Balancing sessions dealing with the hard issues are programs strictly for entertainment. On Thursday, Sept. 25 the Old Log Theatre will present "We Knew Lincoln" at 2 p.m. in Scott hall auditorium. The program will be performed at the White House in Washington, D.C. later this year.

'U' STUDENT PRESIDENTS
CRITICIZE LEVANDER'S ACTION
ON STUDENT LOAN ISSUE

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

In a statement issued today, the presidents of the four University of Minnesota campus student governments accuse Governor Harold LeVander of "using the emergency funding of the guaranteed student loan program for political purposes."

The four student leaders, representing some 46,000 University students, say that though Minnesota's approach -- combining state government action and educational institution support to alleviate a shortage in student loan money -- has been successful, "it is also necessary to single out for strong criticism the action of the governor."

Referring to the governor's public request last week that the University make available additional money for student loans, the students point out that the University had notified the governor, prior to his statement, that it planned to commit substantial funds to bolster student aid.

The students' statement says, in part, "It is important to point out that the governor's action had no part in the releasing of University funds, an action which the governor cannot take."

It further states, "We see the governor's public statements in relationship to the University and the guaranteed student loan programs as characterized by a desire to seek publicity, to obtain credit for actions where recognition does not properly belong."

The four student association presidents who drafted the statement are Tom Gilsenan, Twin Cities campus; Scott Erickson, Morris; John Vignes, Crookston; and Greg Fox, Duluth.

SECURED CREDIT, BANKRUPTCY
TOPICS FOR LAWYERS' COURSE

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Secured credit and bankruptcy laws, as they apply to businesses, will be the topics of a continuing legal education course to be held four consecutive Wednesday evenings in October at the William Mitchell College of Law in St. Paul and later shown on video tape throughout the state.

Sponsors are the Ramsey County legal clinics committee, the University of Minnesota General Extension Division and the Minnesota State Bar Association.

William E. Hogan, law professor from Cornell University and currently visiting professor at the University of Minnesota, will teach the course.

Class sessions will be held at 7 p.m. at the William Mitchell College of Law, 2100 Summit ave., Oct. 1, 8, 15 and 22. The course will be video taped for later showing in Rochester, Mankato, Montevideo, Moorhead and Duluth.

In Rochester, the tapes will be shown on four Saturday mornings, Oct. 11, 18 and 25 and Nov. 1 at the Midway Building, 604 Second st. SW. in downtown Rochester.

The other taped courses are scheduled for November and January. Exact dates and locations will be announced later.

Registration information is available from Continuing Legal Education, 338 Nolte Center, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn. 55455.

BROOK TO TEACH 'THE FINAL CRISIS'
ON TELEVISION THROUGHOUT THE STATE

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

"Modern man seems to believe that he can get everything he needs from the corner drugstore. He doesn't understand that everything has a source in the land or sea, and that he must respect those sources. If the indiscriminate pollution continues, we will be sawing off the branch we are sitting on."

Norwegian author-explorer Thor Heyerdahl made this comment after seeing masses of floating garbage and waste at sea.

Closer to home, University of Minnesota ecologist Alan Brook is concerned with the same problem.

"Ecologically, the world might be a better place without man," Brook says. (Briefly, ecology is the study of the relationship between living things and their environment.)

He has evidence from every part of the world that man is threatening the existence of much of the life on earth through over-population and an unwillingness to care enough about his environment to preserve it.

Prof. Brook, who is head of the ecology and behavioral biology department, teaches a course entitled "The Final Crisis," which will be broadcast this fall on KTCA-TV, channel 2, in the Twin Cities and on three other stations in the Midwest by the University's General Extension Division.

There are several ways to take the course -- for degree credit, as an auditor (whose participation is recorded, though not graded), or simply as a concerned television viewer.

The first class is Monday, Sept. 29 at 9 p.m. The course will continue on Monday and Wednesday evenings through Jan. 19.

Books and registration information are available from the Department of Evening and Special Classes at 57 Nicholson Hall, University of Minnesota, Mpls., Mn. 55455.

NEW FACULTY MEMBERS TO BE GUESTS OF PRESIDENT

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Some 1700 new University of Minnesota faculty members will be guests at the home of University President and Mrs. Malcolm Moos Friday (Sept. 26).

The new faculty, ranking from teaching assistant to professor, will be entertained at a series of five receptions between noon and 7 p.m. at the Moos home at 176 N. Mississippi Blvd. in St. Paul

Fruit kabobs, wine punch, homemade breads and Minnesota sunflower seed nuts will be served. Tours of the home will be conducted.

Buses will take the new faculty members and their wives or husbands from Coffman Union to the Moos home. This is the first time in recent years that new faculty members, as a group, have been entertained in the President's home.

LABOR SCHOOL, LEADERSHIP ACADEMY
CLASSES TO START IN OCTOBER AT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Two University of Minnesota programs for active union members have been reorganized for the 1969-70 academic year.

The Basic Labor School (BLS), for those who have not attended previous Labor Education Service (LES) classes, and the Union Leadership Academy (ULA), open to local union officials and anyone who has had two or more recent classes, last year included some ten courses lasting eight to ten weeks each.

Similar courses have now been combined, and a total of four courses -- two in each program -- will be held this year. All classes start Oct. 13 and 14 and continue through April.

The purpose of the two programs is to prepare active union members for positions of increasing responsibility in the labor movement.

John Flagler, director of LES, explains that the advantages of the new organization are that it provides a greater sense of how the subjects studied are related and a longer time period for intensive study and motivation.

Ideally, a student would complete the entire four-course sequence in two years, taking both BLS courses the first year and the ULA courses the next.

The Labor Education Service is an office of the University's Industrial Relations Center and General Extension Division.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

The BLS courses are:

Administrative Processes and Techniques (Tuesdays, 7-9 p.m. in room 118 Food Science Building on the St. Paul campus)

Basic Collective Bargaining Processes and the Legal Environment (Mondays, 7-9 p.m. in room 210 Blegen hall on the West Bank).

The ULA courses are:

Economic and Political Realities for Union Leadership (Mondays, 7-9 p.m. in room 118 of the Food Science Building on the St. Paul campus).

Societal and Institutional Issues for Unions in a Changing Environment (Tuesdays, 7-9 p.m. in room 260 Blegen hall on the West Bank).

Registration information is available from the Labor Education Service, 421 Business Administration, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 55455.

U OF M RESEARCHER HEADS
MAJOR SMOG STUDY
BEING DONE IN L.A.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

People who have never experienced the stinging eyes and choking for breath caused by smog don't worry about it. Thus, in city after city, smog banks grow before anyone does anything about them.

Until this year, in fact, no major organized studies of smog had been made. The first one anywhere in the world got under way this summer in Los Angeles, involving leading scientists from Minnesota, California and Washington.

Professor K.T. Whitby, director of the University of Minnesota Particle Technology Laboratory, described the study, which he initiated, as "the first combined analysis of gases and particles, their relationship to each other, and the chemical changes that occur in them under the effects of sunlight, that has been made anywhere.

"While quite a bit is known about the gaseous components of smog, comparatively little is known about the kinds and numbers of very small particles in it. These particles range in size from a tenth of a millionth of an inch up to four thousandths of an inch."

Commenting on the importance of the project, being conducted at the California Institute of Technology near Los Angeles, Professor B.Y.H. Liu, of the Particle Technology Laboratory, said, "Each of the 57 air-quality control regions in the United States is responsible for developing 'models' of the atmosphere of its basins.

(MORE)

"These models must be able to predict the region's atmospheric composition because they are used in setting emission standards and in locating sites for factories and power plants to minimize pollution.

"We hope this study will provide better data for creating such models, thus providing a rational basis for setting emission standards."

Aerosol particles, which are fine particles of matter suspended in the air, are believed to have generally negative effects. These effects include the reduction of visibility and the carrying of toxic chemicals, such as lead, into the lungs.

There is also speculation that the large number of particles being injected into the atmosphere may modify the weather -- at least in regions downwind from large metropolitan areas.

In the smog analysis project, samples of air are taken at Cal Tech's W.M. Keck Engineering Laboratories. Outside air is pumped through a plastic pipe which rises 22 feet above the roof of the lab to computerized equipment for analysis inside.

New instruments developed by the Particle Technology Lab at the University of Minnesota make it possible to sort out particles in the air and count them by size. Results are available every 10 minutes on computer tape. This instrumentation, measuring the size distribution of the particles, provides the key data necessary to tie together all the various analyses in the project.

Other experimenters also measure very large particles found in the air and collect particles for chemical and mass analysis. Asbestos fibers and sulfuric acid droplets, as well as other particles and gases, are being examined by scientists under the direction of Peter K. Mueller, chief of the Air and Industrial Hygiene Laboratory of the California State Department of Health.

(MORE)

Interestingly, says Whitby, the Los Angeles area is low in sulfur dioxide, a chemical compound often named as the air pollution culprit in other places such as New York City and London. On the other hand, ozone in the air in one day in Los Angeles was found to be several times higher than acceptable industrial safe limits.

'U' TO HOST NEWSMEN,
LAWMAKERS OCT. 4

(FOR USE WEEK OF SEPT. 29)

Some 1,400 lawmakers and newsmen will attend the 1969 Legislators-Editors-Broadcasters (LEB) Day Saturday, Oct. 4, at the University of Minnesota.

The visitors will attend an exposition and a barbecued beef luncheon in Williams Arena before the Minnesota-Nebraska football game at 1:30 p.m. in Memorial Stadium.

LEB Day, a traditional affair begun in the 1940's, includes a public panorama of University activities. More than 45 displays, representing various departments, have been set up around the inside rim of Williams Arena. Public viewing is from 4 to 6 p.m.

One of the featured displays this year will be the "Touch and Feel Room" from the Bell Museum of Natural History. Designed by Assistant Professor Richard Barthelemy, public education coordinator for the museum, it is planned primarily for school children. The antithesis of the "do not touch" museum, this exhibition encourages the viewer to participate in the display--to touch and feel the skins and skeletons of animals.

University Hospitals' pioneer efforts in life-saving will be shown in the Pediatrics Intensive Care Unit on display. This is a preview of the 18-bed unit which will go into operation in University Hospitals this December. The unit, specializing in infant care, utilizes computerized patient monitoring.

The College of Liberal Arts Honors Division display focuses on the scholarly research and creative work done by the University's honor students. Another, organized by the athletic department, depicts the 100th anniversary of college football.

SAM FRANCIS EXHIBIT TO OPEN IN 'U' GALLERY

An exhibit of colored lithographs by contemporary American artist Sam Francis will open Monday (Sept. 29) in the University Gallery in Northrop Auditorium at the University of Minnesota. The show will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, through Oct. 26.

Exhibits by two master of fine arts (M.F.A.) degree candidates will open Friday (Sept. 26) in the University Gallery. Delor Erickson, 33, will show some 25 paintings, drawings and prints. A graduate of Edison high school in Minneapolis and the Art Center College of Design in Los Angeles, Calif., he has worked for nine years as a commercial artist and advertising illustrator in Minneapolis. "The Silent Image" is the title of the photography exhibit by Gary Hallman, 29. Hallman graduated from White Bear Lake high school and received his bachelor's degree in political science from the University of Minnesota. His works are currently included in two shows which are circulating nationally -- "The Young Photographers '68" and "Nine Minnesota Photographers." Both M.F.A. shows will also be open through Oct. 26.

PHYSICAL FITNESS EXPERT TO SPEAK AT MACALESTER

The director of programs for the Wingate Institute for Physical Education in Israel will give a free public address at 8 p.m. Wednesday (Oct. 1) in the concert auditorium of the Fine Arts Center at Macalester College in St. Paul.

Dr. Yriel Simri will speak on physical education in the United States, Israel, Europe and the Far East.

Simri is on a lecture tour of the United States and Canada. While in the Twin Cities he will visit with students at the University of Minnesota, Hamline University and Macalester College.

Wingate Institute is known internationally for its programs in the rehabilitation of service personnel, research in physical fitness and training of physical education instructors.

TRAFFIC CONGESTION EXPECTED
IN 'U' AREA ON FIRST CLASS DAY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

"If you plan on coming to the University of Minnesota Monday (Sept. 29) for the first day of classes, form a car pool, start early, take a bus, or better yet, walk."

This advice is from Andrew Vernes, assistant director of University Police, who expects an opening day traffic snarl in the University area.

Vernes suggests students who must drive find routes other than Interstate 94 approaching the University, as congestion at the rush hours causes traffic to back up onto the freeway. People approaching the University on 35W from the north should exit on highway 280 and enter the campus from University ave., rather than using 194.

Students should take the first available parking place they find, rather than driving around looking for a closer one, Vernes says. The parking lots on 15th ave. SE., north of the railroad tracks, were never filled last year. Other lots that usually have space available are the free lot on 28th st. and Como ave. and the State Fairgrounds lot on Randall, north of Commonwealth. The fairgrounds lot is served by a free shuttle bus to the Minneapolis and St. Paul campus during the rush hours.

There is a special lot for car pools on Fifth st. and 17th ave. SE. It is open to any car with three or more people in it.

Once again, intracampus bus service between Minneapolis and St. Paul campuses will be free to those who ride the entire distance. Those entering or exiting at the three scheduled stops--18th and Como, 28th and Como, and Eustis and Larpenteur--will be charged. This bus runs every ten minutes during the day with limited service at night and on Saturdays. This bus originates in front of the Student Center in St. Paul and in front of Jones hall in Minneapolis.

The free West Bank bus runs continuously from Nicholson hall to the West Bank between 7:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. It also stops in front of Morrill hall and Coffman Union.

This year time-rate parking for guests of the University is available on the third level of Ramp B, behind Comstock hall. No reservations are necessary.

100 ACCEPTED FOR 'U'
ALCOHOLISM, DRUG ABUSE
COUNSELING PROGRAM

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Response to the University of Minnesota's newly-established certificate program on Alcoholism and Other Drug Abuse Counseling has been "overwhelming" according to Professor Robert W. Schwanke, assistant director of the School of Public Health and coordinator for the program.

More than 250 applications were received for the fall quarter class. Only 100 students could be accepted.

The high response to this program is partially based on greater recognition of this rapidly growing public health problem, Professor Schwanke said.

"It is also a clear indication of just how badly both lay and professional persons need and want additional and more accurate information on both alcohol and other drugs, the nature of the addict, and how to counsel him," he said.

The new course, designed principally for professional or lay counselors, is the first in a series of three General Extension Division evening classes with alcoholics or other drug abusers. The program is supported by a grant from Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Butler of St. Paul.

Among the applicants were clergymen, nurses, social workers, law enforcement personnel, teachers, guidance counselors and administrators. A large number of applications came from lay counselors in alcohol and drug treatment centers or with Alcoholics Anonymous. In addition, numerous inquiries or applications were received from relatives and friends of alcoholics or drug addicts.

Since this is the first year of the program, an intensive evaluation of its impact will be made, Professor Schwanke said. "This will not only enable those teaching in the program to strengthen their presentations as they go along, but it will also serve as a guide to the University in the development of other courses which may be offered in the future," he said.

An internship experience is being developed as a part of the program for a limited number of persons planning careers in counseling the alcoholic and drug addict. Cooperating with the University in the internship program are St. Paul-Ramsey Hospital, the Minneapolis Veterans Administration Hospital, and the Hazelden Treatment Center for Alcoholism and Related Chemical Dependencies.

MOOS TO NAME NEW
REGENTS' PROFESSORS
AT 'U' OPENING CONVO

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

University of Minnesota President Malcolm Moos will name three new Regents' Professors at the University's 1969 Opening Convocation on Thursday (Oct. 2), beginning at 11:15 a.m. in Northrop auditorium.

A Regents' Professorship is the highest honor the University can bestow on its faculty members. Fourteen have been named in the past.

Also taking part in the ceremony will be 150 faculty members and student leaders in academic costume. Following an invocation by Robert Ross, Baptist minister and Student Activities Bureau adviser, Vice President Donald Smith will lead the audience in the University pledge, a statement of academic ideals.

Speaking for the student body will be Greg Fox, president of the Duluth campus student organization. He will introduce Tom Gilsenan, president, Twin Cities campus student association; Scott Erickson, president of the Morris campus student association; and John Vignes, president, Crookston student association.

President Moos will then speak and present the citations and silver medallions to the new Regents' Professors.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

Previously named Regents' Professors are Neal R. Amundson, Regents' Professor of Chemical Engineering; Ralph E. Comstock, Regents' Professor of Genetics; Ernst R.G. Eckert, Regents' Professor of Mechanical Engineering; Herbert Feigl, Regents' Professor of Philosophy; Walter W. Heller, Regents' Professor of Economics; E. Adamson Hoebel, Regents' Professor of Anthropology; Paul E. Meehl, Regents' Professor of Psychology; Alfred O.C. Nier, Regents' Professor of Physics; James B. Serrin, Jr., Regents' Professor of Mathematics; Wesley W. Spink, Regents' Professor of Medicine; Allen Tate, Regents' Professor of English; Maurice B. U OF M RADIOLOGY DEPT.
HAS NEW CHAIRMAN

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

The department of radiology at the University of Minnesota Health Sciences Center will have a new chairman as of Oct. 1.

Dr. Eugene Gedgaudas was appointed by University Regents to replace Dr. H.O. Peterson, professor and department head since 1957. Dr. Peterson will continue on the staff.

Dr. Gedgaudas joined the staff of University Hospitals in 1963 and two years ago was appointed director of diagnostic radiology.

The radiology department, with divisions of diagnostic radiology, radiation therapy, and nuclear medicine, has 68 Fellows in the largest Resident Training Program in the country.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

Dr. Gedgaudas: born in Lithuania, received his doctor of medicine degree in 1948 from the University of Munich. He took post-doctoral training in Canada and completed his residency training in radiology at the University of Minnesota in 1957. Afterward he returned to the University of Manitoba in Winnipeg.

Several years ago the University's department of radiology was ranked number one in a survey of 80 departments around the country.

'U' PRESIDENT MOOS
ISSUES POLICY FOR FACULTY
ON CAMPUS DISRUPTIONS

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

What should a University professor do if a group of demonstrators enters his classroom? If hecklers try to disrupt a campus meeting?

University of Minnesota President Malcolm Moos, in a policy statement issued today to faculty members and administrative officials, defines the role of the University and of individual teachers in case of disruptive events on the Twin Cities campus.

Prepared by the Office of Student Affairs under Vice President Paul Cashman, the statement lists the standards currently used in judging whether or not an event is to be considered "disruptive;" sets down procedures for faculty members faced with disruptions in the classroom or elsewhere on campus; and defines the disciplinary procedures followed by the University after such an event.

In general, behavior that seriously interferes with teaching, administration or other University activities, or that involves injury to persons or property, is considered disruptive.

Examples of such behavior include demonstrations in classrooms, laboratories, study centers, offices, and meeting places; blocking access to or creating noise interfering with activities in those places; and willfully failing to comply with instruction from a University officer acting within the scope of his authority.

A teacher, chairman of a public meeting or any other University officer is instructed to call the University Police immediately if a disruption appears to threaten life or property. He is then requested to call the Office of Student Affairs to provide details on the situation.

If a disruption represents a "serious intrusion" into normal activities, and, in the judgment of the University representative present, cannot be tolerated, he can adjourn and report the incident to the proper offices, or call in a representative of the Office of Student Affairs.

In either case, he may inform demonstrators that they are violating the University policy on campus demonstrations and will be disciplined by University authorities (or, in the case of non-student demonstrators, in accordance with civil and criminal law), though he is advised to consult a representative of the Office of Student Affairs, if possible, before declaring a disruption to exist.

Certain procedures are standard in the various disciplinary bodies within the University. These include notifying a student of the complaint or charge filed against him and granting him a hearing before a University committee. He can choose to be represented by an adviser, call witnesses, and hear evidence presented against him. Appeals through proper channels can go to the president and the regents.

In a letter accompanying the statement, President Moos explains that it is temporary pending the report, expected in 1970, of a committee studying student affairs. In addition, the 1969 "Report of the University of Minnesota Commission on Demonstrations," upon which the statement is based, anticipates further development of procedures and agencies for dealing with student disruptions.

President Moos notes that though there have been incidents of disruption, "these have been few in number, and have been resolved for the most part through instruction, persuasion, and mediation, and without resort to legal sanctions or disciplinary actions. In this regard the climate of our campus continues to be remarkably open and free from the destructive hostilities which have developed elsewhere."

TEACHING HOSPITALS HERE HAVE LARGE IMPACT ON HEALTH MANPOWER, DELIVERY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

The importance of teaching hospitals in this state's health care delivery and health manpower development was revealed today in the annual activities report of the Twin Cities Council of Teaching Hospitals (COTH).

COTH institutions train almost 56 per cent of this state's interns and more than 40 per cent of its residents. In related medical fields, COTH institutions train 35 per cent of the nursing students and 39 per cent of the X-ray technology students.

Stanley Williams, administrative resident at University Hospitals, who prepared the report, explains that COTH members are not only interested in meeting a health manpower shortage but also are interested in training personnel to work in a more effective health care delivery system.

COTH institutions include University Hospitals and affiliates, Fairview and Fairview Southdale, Hennepin County General, Northwestern and St. Mary's in Minneapolis; and Charles T. Miller and St. Paul-Ramsey in St. Paul.
