E. B. JOHNSON, '88, - - - Editor

To the Alumni of the University:

You have placed me here to give my whole time to the service of the University. I am very grateful to you for the opportunity to serve the institution we all love so well. Naturally I appreciate, most thoroughly, the confidence you have shown in me, in thus choosing me to represent you, and yet I realize most profoundly, the responsibilities which such choice entails on me. You expect, and have a right to expect, definite returns from the work. Yet please do not forget that my best efforts will be of little avail unless backed by the hearty cooperation of every alumnus.

As your representative, I have endeavored to place before you in this issue of the Weekly, some of the things which you can do for the University. I have tried faithfully, to honestly put all matters in their true light. But the work is your work, and if you do not do it, it will not be done. I have appealed to you in so many places for the things which need to be done, that I shall not burden this letter with further pleas.

To each and every one of you, I send my heartiest greetings. May your Christmas be Merry, and your New Year Happy; may they be more: may they be full of a deep abiding joy which comes from a sense of a duty done, of triumph over self, and the possession of a brave and cheerful spirit to face the future.

Believe me, sincerely yours,
E. B. Johnson.

A DEAN OF WOMEN.

The Board of Regents, at its last meeting decided to secure a dean of women for the University and the election will take place at the next meeting of the board which will come in May.

This will provide the University with an officer, who has long been needed. With Alice Shevlin Hall, and a dean of women, the young women of the University are well cared for. Their cup of rejoicing is surely full.

"FOLWELL HALL."

The Regents, at their meeting last Tuesday, adopted a resolution, prepared by President Northrop, naming the new main building Folwell Hall. The action will meet the unqualified approval of the vast number of young men and women who have known Dr. Folwell, and have learned not only to respect the teacher but to revere the man. We doubt if the Re-

DON'T FORGET OUR ADVERTISERS.

They are all reliable, and you can get as good service, from anyone of them as can be had anywhere, and at prices which are right. They have a right to expect larger returns from their investment in this advertising than from advertising in other lines and if we can demonstrate to them that they are getting such returns, advertising will come easy next time. When you make a purchase from any one of those who advertise here, tell them you saw their "ad" in the Alumni Weekly, and it will bring more advertising. The advertisers make it possible to furnish so complete a directory to our subscribers, as one of the regular numbers of the Weekly, and to others at a nominal price. When you do what is here suggested, you will be doing something which bring you direct returns in the way of better service in the future. "Be good to yourself."

By SUBSCRIBING FOR THE WEEKLY which will bring to you each week, not less than twenty-four columns of news and notes concerning the UNIVERSITY, ALUMNI and FORMER STUDENTS, which will include news and concerning many of your friends and mates of college days—DO IT TO-DAY,

THOSE WHO HAVE—SAY—

"If the Weekly is as full of interest for the remainder of the college year as it has been the first part, I shall consider the investment the best I ever made."

Signed—John W. Howatt.

"I always read it from cover to cover and then put it on file in our public library."

Signed—Nelle A. Olson.

"I think it is one of the most valuable assets of the University and trust that it will receive the support it merits."

Signed—Henry A. Scandrett.

"It has been my intention to write you before, asking you to send me my old friend the Alumni Weekly. Though extremely busy with my school work here in Owasso, yet I become lonesome without the Weekly to tell me about the rest of the alumni."

Signed—J. H. Santee.

"I am always happy to send in my subscription; it is one of my best investments. I know of no other place where I can place a dollar and get so large returns of profit and pleasure.

Signed—Estelle Bennett Boot.

"I spend a good many dollars for subscriptions, but none more willingly than the one I enclose for the Weekly for 1906-07."

Signed—Frederick J. Wulling.

"I invest no money which brings me more pleasant returns than this annual dollar, and I read the Weekly visitor eagerly and completely, you may be sure."

Signed—E. R. Barton.

The following is quoted from the "round robin" which the engineering section of the class of 1906 is passing around: "How many of you fellows take the Alumni Weekly? For the — sake jump in and take it, for you will never regret it as long as you live. I'd rather have that paper than any other I take." This man's heart is in the right place, if he did emphasize his statement rather emphatically.

"You are giving us an interesting paper with just the news an alumnus wants."

Signed—Francis Ramaley, '95.

"I could not do without the Weekly."

Signed—Clara E. Bailey, '92.

"I find the Weekly keeps me in touch with subjects on college life in a manner that is invaluable to me. It is like a breath of the old campus days."

Signed—Malcolm A. MacLean.

NEW PLANS AND PURPOSES.

For many years there has been a feeling among the Alumni, growing in intensity each year, that the alumni should make their natural interest in the University, really effective for the good of the University. This feeling led to the organization of the General Alumni Association, which was organized for the sole purpose of promoting the good of the University, in any way and every way it may be found possible to make the influence of the organized alumni effective to that end; in a word, to translate good will into good works.

Last spring, the board of directors, acting for the General Alumni Association, employed E. B. Johnson '88, formerly registrar, to give his whole time to the work of the association for the good of the University. Mr Johnson has been at work since last May and the results already show that the work is going to be well worth the doing.

At the present time, the board of directors have several very definite plans accomplish some things which need to be done for the University.

1st. The development of the Weekly until it shall adequately represent the University and reach a large portion of the alumni, keeping them in touch with the University, its needs and its purposes. To make this feature of the work most effective, the co-operation of the alumni is needed, to secure a large subscription list, more active interest in University matters, and suggestions from all alumni who have any ideas about the University and its policies, past, present or future. The importance of developing the Weekly and having it pretty generally circulated among the alumni can hardly be over estimated.

2nd. To get before the people of the State the facts concerning the University, its needs, its claims, its service to the State, and to strive to arouse the people to a realization of the fact that the University is their own institution, and the most valuable asset the State has. To do this the alumni must be aroused to take a more active interest in the University, first by keeping informed as to conditions at the University and by using every opportunity to do the University a good turn, by setting others right in regard to the real conditions at the University. This work can be helped by working through the newspapers of the State by furnishing them with items of interest to be used in their columns, and this is one of the things the association has planned to do.

3rd. Supporting the University authorities in all that they ask of the legislature for the needs of the University. This work must be done almost wholly through the alumni out in the State, working with the members of the legislature from their own districts. In doing this work there is no intention on the part of anyone to bulldoze or use undue influence to secure large appropriations for the University. The University does not want anything that is not just, and which can not be secured in legitimate ways. The alumni who are to do this work, must be fully informed, and thoroughly familiar with the matters which they are to present to the men who are to have the fixing of the University appropriations for the next biennial period.

4th. The employing of a secretary to give his whole time to the work of the association that it may be done systematically and effectively. The secretary is the agent of the alumni, through whom a large part of the work must be done

It is his duty to keep in touch with the whole University and to keep the alumni informed as to prevailing conditions. This he will do through the Weekly. It is his duty to keep track of the alumni and to publish from time to time an alumni directory, and to be ready at all times to make himself useful to the University or its alumni in any way occasion may offer.

If this work is to be carried on effectively it must be supported. At the present time it is being supported by money contributed by a few of the alumni, who realize the need of such a work and who have shown their interest in the same by contributing from $10 to $200 each, to put the new movement on its feet. The Weekly, too, contributes several hundred dollars toward the work, and every additional subscription adds to the amount so contributed. The balance is made up from the income received from annual dues and the income from invested life membership funds.

The alumni surely do not want this burden to be carried by a few who have contributed so liberally for the two years already provided for, and during that time it is hoped to build up the life membership fund so that the income from that source, together with the income from the Weekly will meet all the necessary expenses of carrying on the work of the alumni for the University.

The life memberships take the place of the annual dues, and have several pronounced advantages over annual dues from the same number of people. The life membership produces sixty cents net, each year; the annual dues from each alumnus produces but twenty-five cents net. Take last year for example. About six hundred sent in their dues of fifty cents each, or, $300 was received from this source. The printing, postage, and mailing expenses were approximately $150, leaving but $150 net income from this source. Life memberships from the same number would have produced $360 net. Life memberships also allow the board of directors to plan ahead for their work, for they know definitely what they can depend on as the income from this source, and know when it will be available. Then, too, life memberships will be productive for the use of the association for an indefinite length of time. If you want your share in the work to count for the most possible, take out your life membership soon. It is no figure of speech to say that the alumnus who acts promptly in this matter gives twice and makes the giving more than doubly effective.

Every penny received from life memberships is invested and nothing but the income from the same is ever used. The investments are in charge of a committee of the board of directors, who purchase only mortgages which are carefully examined and have been pronounced perfectly safe, so that the funds are cared for in the most careful manner and given every protection that honest business methods can devise.

The money is needed to pay the salary of the secretary, to meet the necessary office expenses, including postage, printing, correspondence, office supplies, etc., and to carry on the work which has been outlined above.

Every alumnus can thus have some part in the work. Three thousand life memberships will produce $1,800 annually, which, together with the income from the Weekly, will care for the work indefinitely. The more time it takes for the secretary to secure the life memberships, and thus assure the stability and permanence of the work, the less time he is going to have to devote to the work which is to count most for the good of the University. The securing of life memberships is a means to an end, and not an end in itself. If the alumni want their work for the University to reach its maximum of efficiency at an early day, they must provide the necessary life memberships soon. To do this will doubtless mean some sacrifice on the part of most of those who do it, but is not the work worth making some sacrifice for? Do we not all owe the University something more than that which costs us no sacrifice?

The alumni have undertaken to make their influence felt for the good of the University, and have put in motion certain machinery to that end; are they going to stand behind the work, and by their united support, make that machinery as effective as possible, or, are they going to hang back and allow the work, to be done in a half hearted manner and at a great loss of efficiency, just for the lack of the personal co-operation of each alumnus? Your share may be small, but it is vital. Do not expect others to do the work, they may be waiting for you. Your share in the work will not be done unless you do it. If the work is worth the doing it is worth doing so as to make it as efficient as it is possible to make it.

What is wanted of each alumnus, is, first to subscribe for the Weekly, and thus keep in touch with the University. Get your friends to subscribe too, a little personal effort on the part of the present subscribers would easily double the net income from this source.

Then become life members, by the payment of the required fee of $10. This will make your share in the work more than doubly effective. If you cannot pay in this sum at once, a definite statement, to the secretary that you will do so some time before June 1st, 1907, will aid materially in promotion of the efficiency of the service of the association, for the University.

This is your work for the University. It affords you an opportunity to make some return for the benefits you have received. You believe it to be worth doing. Will you do it?

It is up to you.

The effectiveness of the work depends on you.

What do you want?

What will you do?

The degree of the success of this work depends upon you, for its possibilities are limited only by the co-operation afforded by the alumni—which means you.

THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

gents could have done anything which would have brought a deeper sense of satisfaction to Dr. Folwell's many friends than by giving him this deserved recognition. It will also be a source of no little satisfaction to Dr. Folwell himself, to know that his work and worth, are recognized. How this matter is generally regarded in the city is shown by the fact that both the Minneapolis Journal and Tribune used this item of news for head-line material, over their reports of this very important meeting of the Board of Regents.

This recognition of Dr. Folwell, coming as it did, by a unanimous vote of the Board of Regents, and backed by the almost universal sentiment of the alumni and student body, the faculty and the public, is a fitting tribute to the man who has been so largely instrumental in making Minnesota's educational system what it is to-day. His was the day of small beginnings, but the seed planted and nurtured by him at the cost of almost infinite patience and despite the greatest hardships, has grown to the great institution of which we are all so proud, and not the University alone but the whole state is his debtor. The honor could not have been conferred upon one more deserving.

PROFESSOR SANFORD'S BIRTHDAY.

Professor Sanford will be seventy years old next Wednesday, the 19th of December, and her friends are to give a reception in her honor in Alice Shevlin Hall. Everyone, who thus finds it in his or her heart to honor Professor Sanford are urged to be present at this time. Professor Sanford has been engaged in teaching in the University for twenty-six years and during that time she has won a warm spot in the hearts of the thousands who have enjoyed her instruction and have been inspired by the rare enthusiasm which characterizes all she does. The Weekly, in behalf of the Alumni of the University, extends to Miss Sanford, hearty congratulations on the past, and a no less hearty god-speed and unbounded good wishes, for the future. May the inspiration and blessing she has been to others, bring blessings to cheer and brighten her own life through all the days that are to come.

THE CARNEGIE PENSION FUND.

It has been hoped that matters might be settled so that state universities, as well as denominational colleges, might enjoy the benefits of this fund. A meeting was held recently and it was found that the matter could not be finally settled until further instruction from the executive committee, in charge of the fund, have been received. The entire matter was referred back to the trustees and it is understood now that the matter cannot be settled until next spring. There is strong reason to hope that Minnesota may come under the provisions of this act. There are a number of professors who would be entitled to enjoy its benefits if it is decided to allow state universities to share as other colleges do the generous provisions of the fund.

MINNESOTA EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION MEETINGS.

For the first time the State association of teachers is to meet at the University. The meeting will be in session December 26 to 29th inclusive and will doubtless bring back a large number of the alumni to the University. The meeting will be presided over by Professor Rankin, who is president of the association and the whole program is full of interesting things, that will prove a great treat to those who will turn out.

THE PAST YEAR—A REVIEW.

The past year has been in many respects, most remarkable and in other respects it has been rather hum-drum. During the year many new buildings have been going up. A new main building at the farm costing about $250,000, the new main building on the campus costing $400,000, the new building for the department of public health and pathology, and the new woman's building, Alice Shevlin Hall. These together have made a great change in the campus. During the past year, the last vestige of the Old Main has been removed and Alice Shevlin Hall now stands where it once stood.

The growth of the University has kept up, although the total number of students has not increased so rapidly as in some previous years. The registration for the present year is practically four thousand, and will undoubtedly pass that mark when all the students are in.

The year has been remarkable, chiefly for the change in general University ideas and ideals. Perhaps this has been nowhere more marked than in the changes which have been wrought in athletics. Immediately after the close of the football season of 1905, all the ills which have been attached to the game in past years were given a thorough airing. Many of the friends of the game feared it would result in the total doing away of football, but it has not so resulted. Football has been decidedly reformed and where the game has been changed, it has been at no loss in any direction, and at a decided gain in many ways. Student sentiment in regard to the great game has undergone a decided change. During the past fall, although Minnesota has had a good schedule of games and the rivalry between the University and the teams that have been met has been strong, football has not been the whole thing as in previous years. The work of the University has been less interrupted this fall, than at any time since football began to occupy so large a place in University life. The sentiment of the student body has been toward generous treatment of the rival teams, in the games played on Northrop Field. The visiting teams have been cheered freely, and individual players, who have specially distinguished themselves, have been marked by the rooters for special approval, even though members of the opposing team. The "anything to win" spirit has been greatly modified. Although there is, of course, an intense feeling of joy over victories over the opposing teams and deep gloom when defeat is our portion, the feeling is not as it has been in the past.

Then the cleaning up of student organizations, which in many cases in past years have been loosely managed, has resulted in a higher standard of honesty among those chosen to represent student organizations. The past year has not seen a single serious infraction of the rules which the faculty adopted to secure honest administration of student affairs.

Among the things that should be mentioned here, in passing, which have been given more space elsewhere is the growth of the feeling that the University should be better supported by the state. This feeling has not only made itself manifest among those directly connected with the University, but the people of the state are beginning to realize that the University should receive better support from the state.

The completion of Alice Shevlin Hall marks a red letter day in university history. What this means to the young women of the University, and to the University itself, can hardly be over estimated.

The intensely congested condition of the University, which has existed since the destruction of the old Main, has reached an almost acute stage, during the past year, and the only thing which has made conditions at all bearable, has been the thought that the New Main is so near completion, that another year will see the needed relief a reality.

To the alumni, the past year has meant much. There has been an awakening among the alumni as to their responsibility for the well-being of the University, and a definite forward step has been made to meet these needs. So much has been said elsewhere, on this point, that it is not necessary to more than mention it in passing. One thing right in this line which shows the feeling of the alumni for the University, is the gift of the magnificent 150-foot flag pole, by Messrs. Schwager and Nettleton of Seattle, Wash. This pole now stands in the corner near the athletic field between the Armory and Pillsbury Hall, 150 feet clear of the ground, and with the magnificent 40-foot United States flag, the gift of George H. Partridge, is an inspiring sight.

The completion and dedication of the magnificent monument, to the University soldiers of 1898, has been one of the great events of the past year. The monument now stands, opposite the Armory, a perpetual reminder to the young men and women of the University, that devotion to country is one of the noblest of virtues, and one for which men, even in this age of rush and scramble after the almighty dollar, are willing to sacrifice all that they hold dearest.

The future of the University has never looked brighter than it does at the present day. The very fact that the alumni have taken a decided stand, and have determined to make their efforts felt for the good of the University, is sufficient to augur great things for the future. The fact that the alumni are beginning to exert their influence upon the state is shown in the fact that two of the state officers-elect are alumni and a third, a former student of the University. The State Auditor, Samuel G. Iverson, is a graduate of the law school; and the State Treasurer, Clarence C. Dinehart, is a graduate of the academic college; and Edward T. Young, Attorney General, was a student here at the University in the early days, although he did not quite complete his course. A large per cent of the county attorneys of the state are alumni, and the new legislature contains the names of many who have enjoyed the privileges of the University's provisions for a higher education.

THE GENERAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION.

This association is made up of graduates of all departments of the University. There are eligible to associate membership, matriculates in any department of the University; and to the honorary membership, any member or former member of the board of regents or teaching staff of the University. Life membership in the association costs ten dollars and when once paid the holder of the life membership is exempt from annual dues for all time. For a statement of the purpose of the association, see statement made elsewhere in this issue of the Weekly.

The affairs of the association are managed by a board of directors, made up of two representatives from each of the various departments of the University. These are elected by their respective alumni associations. At the present time this board is constituted as follows—

From the college of science, literature and arts—

Henry F. Nachtrieb, '82, and Fred B. Snyder, '81.

From the department of engineering—

Lewis Singer Gillette, '76, and William E. Grimshaw, '02.

From the college of law—

Hugh V. Mercer, '94, and Walter N. Carroll, '95.

From the college of medicine and surgery—

Soren P. Rees, '97, (acad '95), and Louis B. Wilson, '96.

From the college of homeopathic medicine and surgery—

Albert E. Booth, '99, and Oscar K. Richardson, '93, (acad '90).

From the college of dentistry—

Thomas B. Hartzell, '93, (med '97), and Frank E. Moody, '96.

From the college of pharmacy—

Gustave Bachman, '00, and Arthur G. Erkel, '02.

From the department of agriculture—

Daniel A. Gaunmits, '94, and John A. Hummel, '99.

Ex-officio members—

Charles F. Keyes, '86, law '99, treasurer, and E. Bird Johnson, '88, secretary.

The officers of the board are Henry F. Nachtrieb, President; Oscar K. Richardson, Vice-president; Charles F. Keyes, Treasurer; E. Bird Johnson, Secretary.

This board is also incorporated according to the laws of the state of Minnesota, governing fraternal corporations, as the Minnesota Alumni Association.

The purpose of this incorporation is to provide for the care of the permanent funds to be accumulated through the securing of life memberships and to hold and manage any property that may be acquired. The officers of this organization are the same as for the General Alumni Association.

GREETINGS FROM PRESIDENT NACHTRIEB

To the Members of the General Alumni Association—Greeting.

Our Secretary and Editor has asked me for "a letter to the alumni."

Let me begin it with a hearty "Merry Christmas" and a "Happy New Year" to all.

1906 will always be a red-letter year in the history of the General Alumni Association. The lunch by the classes under the oaks and the "meet" on Northrop Field on Alumni Day introduced an event that all who participated in hope will be established as one of the customs of Commencement Week. You can help to fix it by taking part next Alumni Day. Your Board of Directors is more than pleased with the action that secured a secretary who gives his whole time to the interests of the Association. No organization was ever more fortunate than ours was when it secured the services of such a loyal, generous and able man as our E. B. Johnson. Good judgment will not permit me to put into print the specific instances that I could cite in evidence of the great value such a man can be to Alma Mater. The wisdom of our move will become more and more apparent as the years go by and the results become tangible to all friends of higher education.

As I look over the past in the light of the present I can see nothing but a most promising future. The value, importance and future greatness of our University has never been so largely appreciated from the Governor of the state down to the humblest citizen as it is to-day. We are slowly, but surely and safely reaching a real university plane with the approval of a justly proud people. When the great—the very large, things now being planned for Minneapolis and St. Paul are being realized, The University of Minnesota will stand as a beacon light and promise of the perpetuity of the best in the midst of a magnificent city in a glorious state. Then will the fruit of our efforts be blessing and blest. Where can you make a better investment of some of your thought, time and money?

This interrogatory suggestion reminds me that this afternoon Alice Shevlin Hall was given to the Board of Regents for the young women of the University. I wish all the alumni could have heard the addresses made by the women.

They were not surpassed by President Northrop and made every hearer rejoice and hope and pray with the speakers. Hereafter your daughters, all daughters, at the University will be able to find a safe and restful retreat in a place of beauty and comfort. Be sure to visit this home of the girls the first time you are on the campus. It will make you all feel better.

Perhaps it will also lead you to think of the boys and their needs. What influences for good could not be maintained in an "Alumni Hall" with adequate quarters for the alumni, administrative officers and the young men of the University! But I must not dwell on this. My letter is growing too long.

I must say, before closing, that with very, very few exceptions, the alumni have most heartily endorsed all the Association stands for and so far as possible are giving it financial support. The State has a right to expect this. If we who have enjoyed the blessings of the University do not take an active and positive interest in the University, who will? It is not only our duty but our privilege to do so. Let us then keep ourselves in close touch with Alma Mater thru the Alumni Weekly, our Secretary and General Association.

The promise is a gloriously bright future!

Sincerely yours for Alma Mater,

Henry F. Nachtrieb, '92.

Dec. 6, 1906.

LOCAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATIONS.

The Board of Directors of the General Alumni Associations have placed decided emphasis upon the establishment of local associations, wherever there are enough alumni to make such an association worth while, and a surprisingly small number of alumni can make a local association worth while. You will be surprised how much real enjoyment half a dozen alumni can get out of occasional meetings to talk over old times and to hear the latest word from the University. Naturally the social side of such meetings will be the thing which will appeal most to the alumni far from the University. But in addition to this side of such meetings, the alumni at a distance can give aid by expressing their feelings and convictions on matters of interest to them as alumni of the University. It frequently happens that the alumni far from home have a better perspective of such things than those who are on the ground. Then, too, such associations can give life to, and make effective, plans of the general association, which needs the cooperation of the alumni generally. These associations can assist in rounding up life memberships and subscribers to the Weekly and these two items are vital to the work which the alumni are trying to do for the University. Then the local alumni, in this state, can help in many matters very vital to the University. Minnesota alumni should get together before election, or better yet, before the nominations and should find out how the various legislative candidates stand on the question of supporting the University. This does not mean that the local alumni need to swing a club, but such an organization could do some very effective work toward getting the University's needs considered on their merits and this is all that need be asked. The University does not want or need anything more than what the state can well afford to give, and what it should give for its own good. It will also happen at times, that the local alumni can do something to cut out unfriendly and unjust criticism of the University. In this respect there is a great work for the alumni to do, and no one else can do it so effectively. The University does not fear, and its friends will welcome, just criticism offered in a friendly spirit, but the "knocker" should be suppressed.

The legislature is to meet this winter and there should be a local association in every legislative district. There is no question that those who take part in such organizations will not only help the University to secure what it needs to make it of the greatest service to the state, but will enjoy the getting together more than they anticipate.

WHAT CAN I DO?

This is the question which many an alumnus is doubtless asking himself, as he reads these appeals for assistance from the alumni. The alumni and former students of the University, who love the University no less than do the alumni, now number above twenty thousand. If this number of persons could be united to ask for anything reasonable for the University, the legislature would not hesitate to grant that request.

First of all, the alumni owe it to the state, which has given them an opportunity of securing an education, service in kind. The impression seems to be pretty general throughout the state that university men do not take the interest in the common schools and the high schools, which they should. If this impression is well founded, there is certainly cause for complaint. The state has a right to demand of the University man that he be interested in everything connected with the welfare of the state in very respect and especially in all that affects the educational system of the state. The alumni should interest themselves in the schools of their towns and communities, the graded schools and the high schools and should be ready to serve as school officers for the good of the schools. Any man who will give careful and conscientious thought to the matter and will interest himself, or herself, in the schools of any community will soon be recognized as one to be in control of such matters. It is a duty which you owe to the state and the performance of which will react most favorably upon the University. Do this because it is the only decent thing to do and you will be serving your day and generation well and will be making some returns for the benefits you have received.

Then keep informed as to the University needs, and be ready to lend a hand at any time to help secure for the University what is needed to make it of the greatest use to the state. Get the University men and women of your community together at your home, and don't forget that anyone who has ever been at been at the University has an interest in its welfare; talk over the situation and plan what you can do to help. The legislature is to meet this winter and it is up to you to see that your representatives in the legislature are ready to listen to the claims of the State for the University, with open mind, ready to be convinced if shown the needs. In this matter it is vastly important that you are sure you are right before you go ahead. The alumni have a great work to do here that no one else can do and which if the alumni do not do will not be done.

In this matter, never allow yourself to be put on the defensive, or be placed in the light of asking for anything for the University, save as you make it clear it is for the purpose of making the University of the greatest use to the state. It is only as the University brings returns to the state that the state support of the same can be justified. From the very nature of education, a thing unseen yet eternal, it is hard to show, to one who is not willing to be convinced, that the returns are so palpable as to be readily demonstrable. But it can be shown.

Then the alumni have a great work to perform in helping to create a right sentiment, throughout the state, by lauding with the "knocking" newspapers. This is a free country, and free speech and free expression through the newspapers is to be encouraged rather than otherwise, and the University does not fear criticism, however severe, if the spirit in which it is offered is fair. But when a newspaper systematically "knocks" the University, the alumni and other friends of the University should get busy and make their displeasure felt. A few determined men and women in any town can greatly mollify if not altogether wipe out, such reports. In this matter it should be remembered that the University is a large institution, and that among the four thousand students, who come out of the four quarters of the state, there are bound to be some who will drink, gamble, and conduct themselves generally to the discredit of the University and be a disgrace to mankind. When one such person, or a few together, for birds of a feather, always flock together, do things which they should not do the newspapers herald it as a disgraceful "student" orgie. These men do not represent student sentiment and are not representative of the student body, any more than the few students who have been convicted of grafting in connection with college affairs, are representative of the student sentiment, which is, all things considered, sane and sound. In the first place nine-tenths of these reports are greatly exaggerated. In one case last year, a few rowdies, including a former student of the University and two students then in attendance, were arrested for drunkenness and general rowdyism. The papers credited the whole affair to University students and the same was published abroad to the state as a sample of student conduct. Supposing the full report had been true, instead of being mainly false, it would prove nothing but the weakness of a few boys who are the exception and not the rule.

Take another more recent case in point, the newspapers, all over the country have been publishing reports of disgraceful doings in Chicago, by the University men celebrating their victory over Chicago. There were some thing like five thousand people who went to Chicago from Minneapolis, practically every one was wearing the University colors, though not more than one thousand, at an outside figure, were University students. Some young men were seen drunk, no one knows that they were University students, though it was taken for granted that they were because they wore University colors. It is a notorious fact that the team is followed by gamblers who hope to win on the games. These gamblers do not represent high ideals in any line and is it not an part of charity to attribute most of the drunkenness and rowdyism of this class of hangers on rather than to the students who back their team from pure love of what the team stands for their college? In this condition of affairs, Minnesota is not peculiar. It is an indisputable fact that there is always a large crowd of hangers-on who attend the big games, and who do not put on colors until the game is over, and then parade the colors of the winning team, and under the fancied protection of such colors, do things which bring disgrace upon the college whose colors they wear. This is a condition of affairs which it is well-nigh impossible to prevent. It can only be stopped by the bonafide, decent students insisting that college colors shall be stripped from every man or woman who is wearing them only to disgrace them. This state of affairs will come some day and there are signs that it is coming soon for Minnesota.

Knock the "knocker" wherever you see him.

Local conditions will dictate other things which the local alumni may do to serve the state and alma mater. Most of the benefits we receive we are never able to make adequate returns for, but we can pass them on. We shall best serve state and University if we do our duty where ever we may be, and if we are so fortunate as to be able to make some direct returns to the University, let us count ourselves unusually blessed and do our whole duty with a right good will.

WHAT THE UNIVERSITY NEEDS.

The alumni have a right to know what the University really needs and what it needs most, and the people of the state have a right to know the facts. The things which we are going to enumerate, below, may seem tremendous, but the University is growing and the state is growing in population and riches, and the day of small things is past and is no longer true economy.

First of all, the University should have an additional appropriation of $180,000 to raise the average salary of University instructors to the purchasing power such average salary had twenty years ago. This is the least the state can do and retain its self respect. As we have elaborated on this point elsewhere, we shall say no more of it here.

Second, the library should have $25,000 a year for the next few years anyway, for general improvement.

Third, the campus should be increased by the purchase of the blocks adjoining on the south, bounded by Church street and the river. The University farm is not adequate for the needs of the experiments being carried on, and there should be an appropriation for more land there.

Fourth, buildings are needed, as follows: the order of enumeration is not significant.

For the college of dentistry.

For the college of pharmacy.

For a new main engineering building.

For a museum and zoological laboratories.

For the college of education.

A gymnasium for the women.

For the new hospital, a sum equal at least to that of the Elliott bequest, to make a building such as is needed.

For a new library building, or a new administration building, leaving the present building entirely to the use of the library.

For new dormitories at the school of agriculture.

For a new Dairy barn, for the same department.

For provision for new instructors, and for increasing salaries, so that they shall be in advance of the average purchasing power of the same twenty years ago.

If the State were paying for the annual support of the University, its chief educational institution, $500,000, we might well boast that the state was generous, and we should soon find that Minnesota would take rank among the first in all pertaining to matters of education, as it does now in so many other respects. It is not the University that is asking for this. The people of the State demand the best for their sons and daughters. And when shown the needs they will stand for any necessary expense to attain that end.

SALARIES.

The question of proper salaries for University instructors and professors is the most serious problem to be met by the University authorities. For more than twenty years the standard salary of a full professor has been $2400. Last year there were twelve persons receiving this salary. There were eighty persons having the rank of professor, assistant professor or instructor receiving an average salary of $13-98. The average salary of members of the faculty holding the rank mentioned above has decreased, since 1894, from an average of $1658 to an average of $1398 in 1905. And this despite the fact that the cost of living has increased anywhere from thirty to fifty percent. The startling fact appears that salaries have actually decreased, when purchasing power is taken into consideration about fifty percent from the standard of fifteen or twenty years ago.

Last year, the Regents undertook to cut general expenses to the lowest possible limit so as to be able to make some increases that were absolutely necessary and when the board met last spring to fix salaries for the current year it was found possible to increase the salaries of a considerable number of persons having the rank of instructor, or better, bringing the average up to $1442. This increase of course applied to a comparatively few members of the faculty, and the others are still laboring along hoping, almost against hope, that they may be the favored ones next time. The limit of $2400 has been raised to $2700, but even if it were possible to raise all salaries the paltry twelve percent represented by the additional $300, salaries which with us have always been low, would still be about thirty percent below that standard of twenty years ago.

Some months ago, an instructor in Harvard University, who had been connected with the college for nine years, and who had a family consisting of a wife and two children, made out a schedule of what he considered necessary expenses for a man in his position, and in the schedule he kept many items to a ridiculously low point and made no allowance for a man to own his own home unless he invested the money laid aside for his old age, in a home, and yet the total amounted to $3200.

In considering this matter it should not be forgotten that a man occupying a professor's chair is obliged to incur expenses from which the average man is free. To fill his position acceptably he must travel somewhat, at least enough to keep in touch with other men working in the same field, and attend district and national meetings of his fellow workers so as to get the inspiration which can only be had by such personal contact.

A business or professional man who had given the same amount of time and gone to the same expense in preparing himself for his business or profession, would consider himself most unfortunate if his income did not at least double that of a professor.

It was only a few months ago that we were talking with one of the assistant professors of the University and he said I ought to attend some of the meetings of the men who are engaged in the same line of work that I am in but it is absolutely out of the question, as it is only by the closest economy that I can provide for my family.

Plain living and high thinking are to be commended, today, as ever; but compulsory plain living may in time develop a race of professors incapable of high thinking. "Can a man whose energies are spent in so unequal a struggle to make both ends meet, maintain frankness and vigor in his work, be an inspiration to his students, and fulfill in scholarship the promise of his early years?"

It has been asked, "Where can you save $800?" going on the supposition that the professor receives the full salary limit provided for full professors. But the facts in Minnesota are that the average salary of professors, assistant professors and instructors, which includes the men and women who have charge of giving instruction to classes, now only averages $1442. The question is, then, for Minnesota, at least where will you save $1800?

Yale has recently had this subject up and has made the salary of a full professor, in charge of the department, $4000, $1300 above the limit set by Minnesota.

The question of salaries is a vital one, and affects the grade of work done by an institution. A professor who has to worry all the time, planning how to keep the wolf from the door cannot do the grade of work he should be doing, which will tell most on the lives of the men and women under his care. Vital energy cannot be available for making his character felt in the lives of his students when it is consumed in plans of how to make both ends meet, or at least to come within sight of each other.

Business men say that it argues something wrong with a man, when he will stay on at the University for the pitiful remuneration which the work affords. Looked at from the standard of the business man, that of dollars and cents, the business man is right, but the profession of teaching is one that has its compensations other than cash. The average professor does not expect to leave a fortune behind him, and is well content if he can see the future of his loved ones provided for in case he should be taken from them. His work is its own reward. But this does not change the fact that the state is not getting proper returns from the University because it does not pay the men it employs to give instruction, proper salaries, so that they can give their best to the young men and women of the state who seek an education in the University.

But this is not all. Twenty years ago, taking into account all of the colleges then organized, the average size of all classes was twenty. At the present time, taking the same colleges in existence then, the average size of classes is thirty. That is, the size of classes has increased during the twenty years, fifty percent. The true significance of these figures is not apparent until it is considered that in order to bring the average up to this figure, there must be a great number of classes so large that the instructor cannot do anything like satisfactory work with the students under his charge. This state of affairs has been the outcome of the sternest necessity. The students have come for instruction and the Regents have been obliged to care for them as best they could, and this has usually been done by increasing the size of the classes, since there was no money to pay for additional instructors.

The legislature is to meet this winter and should have placed before it a fair statement of these conditions. The University must have more money to pay its faculty if the state is to receive the full benefit of the investment it has already made. The question is not really a debatable one. The cost of living has been going up for twenty years and the average salary paid to professors in the University of Minnesota has actually decreased $215, or thirteen percent. Everyone else has had some benefit from the good times, but the University professor, and he finds that the good times, unless he has been so fortunate as to make some paying investment, are worse than the awful days of the early nineties when everyone felt the hard times. The condition is not only serious, it is alarming, and the day for bettering conditions cannot be postponed unless at a sacrifice of what is vital in University affairs.

"The laborer is worthy of his hire," is a fair way of putting the matter. That the "hire" has a direct relation to the product, is a selfish way of looking at the matter. But both point to one obvious conclusion, the University professors are underpaid and that conditions which now obtain, are all wrong.

THE UNIVERSITY AND THE STATE.

Not long since the editor of the Weekly was talking with one of the State officials, and there came up the question of the cost of the University to the State. This official said that the University was costing the State an immense amount of money, about $500,000 a year, and was greatly surprised when he was told that the expense to the State was less than half that amount.

When satisfied, as to this matter, he mentioned the fact that this did not take into account the buildings of the University, and that they had cost the State an immense sum. He was still more surprised when he was told that all of the money spent upon the buildings of the University, from the beginning down to the present, amounted to less than the cost of the building in which the discussion was then being carried on, that is, the State Capitol building. The gentleman was incredulous, and it was only after he was told that the statement was made on the strength of a recent investigation, that he was willing to concede the correctness of the claim.

The editor, at that time, did not know the exact figures, or he could have made a much more emphatic statement of the case. The following figures tell a tale that is very impressive.

The figures for 1904-05, those given below, are not as favorable to our contention as those of almost any other year, but still are sufficient to prove that the editor was well within the facts of the case, when he said that the State paid less than half of the annual cost of running the University. The average has been two-fifths paid by the State and three-fifths from other sources. Cut these figures out and paste them in your hat; you may have use for them during the next few months, when the University is asking the legislature for more money.

Source of Income.

From the Federal Government, including interest on bonds and land contracts, and the Hatch and Morrill bills, a total of $94,340.45.

From fees, sales and miscellaneous sources, $158,506.82.

From these two sources, no expense to the State, a total of $252,847.27.

From the State, for current expenses, including deficiency appropriations, and other special appropriations, not including buildings, $243,942.71, or less than half the total expense for the year is provided by the State.

These figures are taken from the books of the accountant and vary somewhat from the report of the State Auditor; the variation is due to the fact that the auditor's figures include the Old Main and plant house and all repairs and additions.

Taking the figures of the State Auditor, see report of 1905, this report shows—

Total spent for University Buildings	$1,679,786.00
Now in process	810,000.00

Total

Gifts—Pillsbury and Shevlin Halls	$2,489,786.00
Total cost to State	$2,284,786.00

Think of it! $2,284,786.00, for buildings to care for four thousand students and three hundred and fifty professors and $4,500,000 for a building to house a few hundred people who conduct the affairs of State.

MORE FIGURES.

The figures for this article are taken directly from the books of the state auditor, and can be verified by anyone who will take the pains to examine for himself. On pages 150 and 151 of the latest report of the auditor, there is given a table showing the total disbursements for the support of state institutions from 1861 to 1904. The table shows the yearly disbursements as well as the totals. The totals are sufficient for the purpose of this discussion. It appears that the state has spent $2,569,121.92, for its prison; $1,408,158.02, for its training school; $793,991.48, for its reformatory, or a total of $4,771,271.42, for penal and reformatory institutions. The income from these institutions has been inconsiderable until recent years, the figures to show just what offsets are due were not available, in form to allow of fair comparison.

For hospitals and asylums for the insane, $10,467,812.72. The income from these institutions has been very small, for instance, the auditor's report shows that for the year ending July 31st, 1904, the income was a trifle less than $20,000, a mere bagatelle when the totals are considered, and the totals turned in to the state from all these institutions from the beginning would certainly not exceed half a million at the outside.

For the University, the state has disbursed $5,326,266.68. For many years past, the state has paid an average of two-fifths of the annual cost of the University, though in the earlier days the percentage was somewhat higher, it is well within the facts of the case to say that the state has not furnished more than half of the sum spent on the University. This means that the University has cost the state approximately $2,700,000.00, or an average of $75,000 a year since 1869, when the first appropriation was made for the University. For the normal schools the state has spent $2,446,462.31, and the report shows an income of about $12,000 for the year ending July 31st, 1904, which would indicate a small percentage of offsets on the totals. For the deaf, dumb, blind and feeble-minded the state has spent a total of $3,278,529.42, and the report shows that the income from these institutions, for the year ending July 31st, 1904, was about $13,000, the expenses for the same year being $224,162.10. For the state public school, the state has spent, since 1887, $573,018.21, the expenses for the year being $43,551.03, and the income from the institution for the same year being $657.56. For soldiers and orphans the state has spent $110,102.23. For the soldiers' home the disbursements have amounted to $883,225.01.

During the period under consideration, the state has disbursed a total of $27,856,757.65, for its state institutions.

We want it to be clearly understood, that we would not have the state cut one penny from the sums which it has spent to care for its unfortunates and to restrain or reform its criminals; these persons need the care which the state has given them and they have been cared for on a plan which has been in no sense too generous. What we contend for is the claim that the University has not been treated with the lavish generosity which has been claimed in some quarters. The statement was made not long since in the hearing of the writer that the University was the most expensive institution in the state. This is not true. The state has spent a trifle over two and one-half millions of dollars upon its University, for current expenses to date, and it has been the most profitable investment which it has made, and is bound to return larger and larger dividends as the years go on. The last dividend on past investments will not be in until long after the present generation has passed away.

The next time you hear anyone claiming that the state has been lavish in its support of the University, or that the University is receiving more than its share of the disbursements of the state, put these figures before them. They are from the books of the state auditor and can be verified. The state has not been lavish, we believe that in view of the figures just quoted, that no fair-minded man will presume to claim that it has even been particularly generous.

Then, too, do not forget the fact, that for every dollar the state has spent on the University, another dollar has been spent, either by those receiving instruction at the University or by the general government, from which the state has received the benefit. A man in business would consider an investment gilt-edged if for every dollar he put into the business some one else put in a second, the dividends on the investment coming to the man himself. The state is a big business concern. It believes in University education, and that such education pays dividends, else why has it invested nearly five millions in establishing and maintaining the educational plant known as the University of Minnesota? This being the case, the parallel is fair and the conclusions to be drawn are inevitable.

Don't apologize for the expense the University has been to the State. Insist that the State has had many times value received, and that the State owes it to itself to support the University in a manner befitting an institution which brings in such large dividends on the investment. Don't be afraid to ask for what the University needs for its proper development.

Mr. John G. Lennon, a member of last house, in a recent political meeting, gave an example that illustrates the fallacy of trying to run the institution on a basis of small things. He said:

"What would you think of a farmer who would hire a man and pay him good wages, provide him with a fine team and wagon and tell him to go out and sow a wheat field and not provide him also with a seeder? Very likely the hired man would say, 'Where is the seeder?' He would not tell the man to go out and scatter the seed by hand and do the best he could that way, but he would provide him with a suitable seeder, at least he would if he was a wise man. He would have to do this to get even fair results out of the previous investments. He certainly would not be willing to lose the good of the expected results of the main investment, for lack of just a small additional expense."

There is a lot of "horse sense" in this statement of the case. His application was an invitation to the regents to ask for what was needed to make the University what it ought to be. The University is placed in the hands of the regents to be administered as a trust for the state, and it is as much their duty to ask for what is really needed for its best good, as it is to see that the money entrusted to their charge is spent so as to bring the largest returns to the state. They are not asking for themselves; they are not even asking for the University, they are merely asking the state to be just to itself.

STILL MORE FIGURES.

In 1887 the population of Minnesota was estimated to be 1,180,000, it is now estimated to be 2,000,000. During that time the attendance at the University has increased from 412 to 3944 which is an increase of over 857 per cent. The increase in population has been a trifle less than 70 per cent. This means that the University has increased more than twelve times as fast as the population of the state. This of course means that the per capita cost to each person in the state has increased very materially. In 1887 it was only 2.996 cents, now it has gone up to 12.19 cents. But if we take into account the actual expense to each person in the state to support each student in the University, that is the public expense to maintain the University, the figures run the other way and we have the expense in 1887 of .00714 cents decreased to .00309 cents, that is, the cost to each person in the state for each student in the University has been cut in two and a trifle better (or worse, as you may look at the matter) than that. The total average expense per student, to state, for the period covered, nineteen years, has been $54.42. The total average expense per student for the same period has been $115.92.

These figures will repay a careful study.

IS MINNESOTA GENEROUS TO THE UNIVERSITY?

This is a fair question, and it deserves to be fairly met by every man who represents the state in the legislature this winter, as well as by every other citizen of the state. What are the facts? The University expends for general current expense, every year, in round numbers, $500,000. The state furnishes less than half of this amount, or about $240,000. This sum looks pretty large to those who deal mainly in hundreds, or fractions thereof, but when the returns which the state receives are taken into consideration, is the sum generous? The state gets the benefit of the expenditure of $500,000 for the investment of less than half of that sum.

Looked at from another point of view, is the state generous? Since the memory of man, times have never been so "good" as at the present moment. Salaries in every line of business have advanced, in the amount of cash paid for services rendered, and in purchasing power in nearly every line of business. But how is it with the employees of the state, who are serving the state so faithfully as members of the faculty of the University? The average salary of instructors has actually decreased during the past twelve years, over two hundred dollars or about fifteen per cent, and the cost of living has gone up, conservatively estimated, more than thirty five per cent. When the two are combined, the startling fact is shown that the average University instructor is working for two-thirds of what he received twelve years ago. Is this generous? A state is to be judged, as the individual, by what it does, and these facts, if brought home to an employer would brand him as far from generous, why should not the state face the facts? We might put the question in a form even more emphatic, and ask, is it decent treatment of faithful servants?

Salaries, at the University of Minnesota, have never been high, even in the balmy days of long ago; the least the state can do and maintain its self respect, is to put salaries back where they were twelve years ago, taking the purchasing power of the same into consideration. This would mean an abrupt raise of fifty per cent. The pay roll is $360,000 a year, add fifty per cent, or, $180,000, indicates the amount which the state should add to the annual appropriation to simply provide the men who are now on the faculty the same grade of salaries paid twelve years ago.

We are proud of our state, and we are wont to boast of its vast resources, that it stands well up among the states of the Union in respect to its boundless resources, but when it comes to the University, we must hang our heads with shame, that the state, in the face of its great advance in material wealth, treats the faculty of its great University, in a manner so niggardly.

There is also another way of looking at the matter, looked at from the selfish side, the state cannot afford to do as it is doing and has done in the past. Niggardliness is always expensive. It may save money but such saving is always at a loss of the things which are really worth having. This is true of the individual and is no less true of any collection of individuals, whether they are called a state or a corporation. There is that scattereth abroad and yet increaseth, and there is that withholdeth more than is mete, yet it tendeth only to poverty." The man who, in business, is afraid to risk his dollars in doing things, in a large way, is the man who is always scraping along making a bare existence. It is the man who can see that bread cast upon the waters comes back to him bringing larger returns on the investment who wins large success. The state should see that real success for its greatest educational institution cannot be purchased for a mere pittance, that the state must do things on a large scale if it would receive the greatest benefit, or even fair returns on the investment it has already made.

That such a distressing state of affairs has come about, has been mainly due to the fact, that the real facts have never been fairly before the people of the state. The members of the University faculty have borne the hardship in silence, until the time has come when they can no longer live under the conditions which prevail. There are signs, on every hand, however, that the people of the state are awakening to the fact that the faculty of its chief educational institution are the poorest paid of any employees of the state. The people of the state certainly do not expect to receive that for which they are not ready to pay the price, and the facts in this case are mathematically demonstrable, and as plain as that two and two make four. The state ought to be spending $500,000 on its University every year and such an expenditure would result in better service to the state and larger proportional returns on the investment than the present expenditure of less than that amount. There are thousands of good bookkeepers who are receiving salaries larger than those received by some of the assistant professors in the University, men who are undoubtedly masters of their subjects and who have given ten of the best years of their lives to the service of the state in the University. Men in positions of responsibility, approximating the responsibility and importance of the position of an instructor in the University, are everywhere receiving more than University professors are receiving. The state should at least pay the men who are moulding the future of the state, working in the most precious material that the world affords—the lives of young men and women, full of enthusiasm and boundless possibilities for good—salaries such as business men pay for men to manage a department of a business which deals in matters far less vital.

THE WOMEN OF THE UNIVERSITY.

The number of women who receive instruction in the various departments of the University, is now about 1200. That is, the University provides for the education of more women than any strictly woman's college in the United States. The attendance at some of the more important women's colleges, according to the World's Almanac, is as follows: Smith, 1075; Wellesley, 1050; Vassar, 980; Bryn Mawr, 447; Radcliffe, 409; Barnard, 355; Woman's College (Baltimore), 256.

Of the total 425 colleges listed in the World's Almanac, there are but 46 that have a total enrollment greater than the number of women enrolled in the University of Minnesota.

Think of it! 1200 women, and for two years the only place they could call their own was a little room 15x35 feet. No wonder that the prospect of a $60,000 building, designed and built to meet their needs, causes them to rejoice with a "joy unspeakable."

The young women of the University are to be congratulated upon the successful completion of a great undertaking and the University and the State are to be congratulated upon the possession of 1200 young women so energetic, enthusiastic and unselfish in their devotion to the cause for which they have worked so long and devotedly; for those who have done the most for the cause will reap the least personal benefit. Yet, we venture to predict that their joy is none the less real and their satisfaction will be none the less enduring because others will reap where they have sown.

THE ALICE A. SHEVLIN HALL.

Last Thursday, Mr. Shevlin, the donor of the magnificent new building for the women of the University, turned the building over to the Regents and the same was accepted and dedicated to the young women of the University. The building is to be, to the women of the University, a club building and is to be sacred to the young women of the University. Under no circumstances whatever will a man be allowed within its sacred precincts save on a few rare occasions when the women hold a reception or fair, in the evening, to which men may be invited. The building is rather plain of exterior, but within it is—to use a feminine expression—a love of a building. The woodwork throughout is finished in brown and the color scheme of the interior is calculated to satisfy the most aesthetic and to give the building a "homey" and restful character. In short it will supply the need which has been felt for so many years.

Last spring Professor Ada Comstock prepared an article for the Weekly telling what the women of the University expected the new building to be to them. We repeat the main portions of the article, since it sets forth the purpose of the building so well and shows what a large place it is to occupy in the life of the women of the University from now on.

"There has never been a time in the last ten years, I suppose, when some one has not been hoping for a "Woman's Building" at the University. But the term has had a different signification at different periods. One of the earliest ideas of the building made it a tiny structure containing only such material comforts as lavatories and a rest room. Later, some of the enthusiastic advocates of the idea had a dormitory in mind; and, indeed, only within two or three years has the conception which is embodied in the Alice A. Shevlin Hall taken definite shape. The plans call for a building which, so far as I know, has no exact parallel in our colleges and universities.

"It may surprise, and even disappoint, some of the alumni to learn that our Woman's Building is not a dormitory. That it is not is due to the situation of the University and the peculiar conditions existing here. Of our twelve hundred women students more than two-thirds live in St. Paul and Minneapolis. Some of the remainder are living with relatives in these two cities; so that the number of those who are boarding near the University is comparatively small. On this account, though a dormitory is much needed, a building for women on the campus seems the greater need. The Alice A. Shevlin Hall will benefit every girl in the University; but it will be of greatest value to those whose whole day, from half past eight in the morning until four or five in the afternoon, is spent on the campus.

"The building stands upon the site of the 'Old Main.' The basement is given over largely to lavatories, bath rooms, and lockers. It contains also a lunch room in which girls may eat lunches which they bring with them from home, or where they may buy sandwiches and various hot beverages. This room is so dainty and attractive that the noon-day meal will be a treat instead of an ordeal.

"The main floor of the building is devoted to the social and religious life of the women students. Here is the assembly room, where meetings may be held and where the girls' glee club may give twilight concerts. It is flanked by the rooms of the Young Women's Christian Association, and the council room in which the council of the Woman's League may carry on its deliberations. Across the hall are parlors and the great living room. This room, with its lofty ceiling, its wainscoting, its window seats, and its generous fire place, is to be the heart of the building. It is pleasant to think how much talk and laughter it will echo; and how sometimes on winter afternoons a fire of blazing logs will invite the girls whose day's work is almost over to a quarter hour of rest and friendliness.

"On the third floor we find the home of quiet and studiousness. The rest room with fourteen or fifteen couches will make it possible for the girl who is worn out to get a nap during a vacant hour. For cases of sudden illness there is an emergency room provided with a bed and other conveniences. The largest room on this floor is the study room, furnished with chairs and long tables, somewhat after the fashion of a reading room, and lighted by a sky-light as well as by windows. Of the two smaller rooms on this floor, one will probably be used as a class room by the Young Women's Christian Association, and the other as a meeting place for the girls' literary societies.

"So long has this building been a castle in the air that we can hardly believe it to be more substantial. If the Alice A. Shevlin Hall fulfills our hopes it will have a wonderful influence upon the life of the University girl. She has led, hitherto, a nomadic life on the campus. There has been no place where she might have a quiet hour. Such material needs as a fit place in which to eat her lunch, and warm water in which to wash her face and hands have been absolutely lacking. Privacy and rest have been impossibilities. With the completion of the Woman's Building a change has come. Though its rooms may hum with life from morning until night they will afford the women students a kind of privacy impossible in any other building on the campus. There will be opportunity for the dainty girl to keep herself dainty, for the tired girl to rest, for the studious girl to study, and for the shy girl to make acquaintances. And there we touch a vital point. Most of our University girls are as fine examples of young womanhood as one could wish to see. So long as the girls do not know one another, however, so long as they are mere classroom acquaintances, the finer types have little opportunity to make themselves felt. The noisier and more aggressive members of any unorganized body have too much prominence. But now that the University girls have a meeting place, they will learn to know one another truly and well, the higher ideals will have a better chance to prevail, and the dignity, and graciousness, and fine feeling which characterize so many of our women students will exert their rightful influence."—Ada Comstock.

WHAT ALICE SHEVLIN HALL STANDS FOR

The following is a report of a speech made by Professor Ada Comstock, at the dedication of Alice Shevlin Hall, and is given because it voices so well the feeling of the women of the University, as to what the new building is to mean to them—Prof. Comstock said—

"One of the most delightful things about this Alice Shevlin Hall of ours is that it is an air-castle—or was an air castle. For years the University girls and their friends have been hoping, and working, too, for such a building; so that now in its substantial usefulness and beauty, it still retains for us the tender romantic charm of a dream castle. Mr. Shevlin is indeed a necromancer to have made such dreams come

"Everything in this castle, moreover, has its pleasant association. Much of the furniture has been the gift of the Woman's League, and of the Y. W. C. A. and its friends. The stained glass windows in the room across the hall were presented by the Woman's League; the great lamp is the gift of the girls of the Y. W. C. A.; the long table—the same room, and some andirons to replace those already there, are to be presented by two of the sororities. The wives of the members of the faculty are going to give the building a picture; a portrait of Miss Sanford is to be the gift of the women of the state. From the towels in the laboratories, to the blankets at the foot of the couches in the rest-room, everything in the building is a gift from an individual or an organization. Many of them are spontaneous gifts. "What can we do for the Woman's Building?" has been a commoner question than "Wont you do something for the Woman's Building?" So the girls who are to inhabit here would be hard-hearted, indeed, if they did not feel themselves surrounded by an atmosphere of friendliness and generosity and the kindest solicitude. They will feel it so, I am sure, and will love and respect the building and its belongings as we all love and respect the gifts of friends.

"But gifts bring responsibilities. Mr. Shevlin and the Board of Regents and the State of Minnesota have a right to expect some proceeds from this building—something in the way of rent. They have a right to expect better health among the girls, I think. Not that our women students have been especially fragile—but surely the rest room and the parlors and the lunch room ought to bring forth fruits in the way of redder cheeks and brighter eyes. And that study room above us ought to show results in scholarship. (I should like to add in parenthesis that our women students already outstrip their brothers in scholarship. With this study room to the advantage of the girls, I don't see how the men students can make any showing at all.) Then, too, the Y. W. C. A. is better housed than it has been before. We should see, I think, some increase in spirituality. A large part of the building, as you see, is given up to rooms which have social purposes; and though the word social has a frivolous sound, it is precisely from these rooms that I expect to see the greatest results. Aren't the rooms across the hall a very garden for friendship and good feeling? Won't the loneliest girl succeed in finding a friend to sit with her before the fire? We cannot doubt that the girls who meet here will enjoy and appreciate one-another as they never have before. Fellow feeling, sympathy, and comprehension should grow here as they could never grow in the chance contact in corridors and recitation rooms.

"The best result of all, I suspect, is a thing rarer and more delicate than any of those I have mentioned though compounded of all of them. Every college has its ideal, avowed or unconfessed. None has ever been formulated here, yet I think we recognize its presence. Our Minnesota girl has been a fine type always, has she not—frank and free and healthy, active in mind and body, and full of sympathy—when her sympathies were touched? These are the qualities to build on. But there are other qualities possessed by many of our girl students, but thus far hardly expressed by our University type. With this beautiful building in which the girls may know real companionship, and with the spirit of helpfulness which is growing up so palpably, we may look, I am sure, for development in the ideal. A little more of daintiness and sweetness, a little more of gentleness in voice and manner, a little more of sensibility and sympathy—and where could you find a higher ideal of womanhood than of our Minnesota women? That is what we have a right to hope from this building—a raising, a refining, of an ideal which is already sweet and true."

MISS HILLMAN'S SPEECH.

Mr. Wyman, Mr. Shevlin, Mrs. Shevlin, and Friends:—"I tried to beg off—three times I tried, but it was my first attempt to oppose a regent, and here I am!—here, because I stand as representative of the Young Women's Christian Association, not because, a few years ago, in the same capacity I had a little to do with the origin of this building. What was done then was only the natural thing to do—anyone in the same position, who was giving her best thought to the womanhood of this University would have felt its great needs, which were then the same as they are to-day, a Woman's Building, a dormitory—or rather cottage system with official chaperonage, and a dean of women.

It was but natural to lend our energy toward the accomplishment of that which lay in our province.

There are a few women in this presence who remember the hours of discussion in advisory committee meeting and the months of labor in the attempt to solve the first two problems. The first plan was to build a Young Women's Christian Association building, but it was finally decided that a general woman's building would be best lest any girl might not feel equal ownership. Later the Woman's League rallied to the same cause, and under Miss Comstock's assistance they have done valiant service, a large share of the furnishings being the result of their earnings.

Not long ago some good people gave a picnic to some mission children in a very poor district of the city. To some it meant the first square meal. One little fellow was especially eager. He allowed the ladies to fill his plate three times, and when ice cream was brought on, he sighed, but soon his plate was empty. One of the ladies offered him a second helping of cream. He looked up wistfully. "Please, mum, I think I could chew some more, but I'm afraid I couldn't swallow." There were hundreds of poor little girls about this campus,—how really destitute they were they themselves did not realize, but one had but to pass the Library and notice the "cushioned" furnishing stairs to realize how they were crowded out of even a place to study, no rendezvous, they could call their own but the too limited quarters of the Y. W. C. A. To-day, so many good things are heaped upon us—this harmony of color, this beauty of line, this roof which we can call our very own—there is a lump in our throat, we can scarcely swallow.

We are so glad we have with us our Patron Saint, that we may unite in saying "thank you." I doubt if there is any heart rejoicing as much as the one which was big enough to take in this great throng, and the thousands of young women of Minnesota who are yet to come to share this bounty.

It has been a pleasure too to see this great company of friends Alice Shevlin Hall already has, and to see with what eagerness they have brought their gifts. We too shall love every piece of furnishing, for its own attractiveness, and because the personality back of each.

After all, the chief glory of this building will not be its comforts much as they will be prized, nor its quiet dignity though we realize that that is culture inducing, but its atmosphere,—and that will be what we make it. The spirit of gladness with which the building and furnishings have been given, the spirit of appreciation, manifest to-day, are but symbols of the true spirit of fellowship that must pervade, this "our home"—that fellowship of soul meeting soul in the quest of the highest and the best.

At this dedication time I am reminded of the story of the coronation of that young woman, than whom there has been none greater in royal chair. There was much punctiliousness about a coronation, but the lord chamberlain trained her in its etiquette among other things telling her to remain sitting while the people did her homage. All of this she carried out to the letter until, in the rendering of Handel's Messiah they came to the words, "We'll crown him lord of all." Immediately she rose to her feet in recognition of His sovereignty over hers. If God stirs the impulses to do for others, if God leads us in knowing what that service should be, if in a word, God answers prayer, then we should indeed be ungrateful if we did not take Him in account to-day in our Thanksgiving, and in our hearts honor Him as the great Giver back of it all, for the inception of this building was behind "closed doors."

Dear girls and friends all, in this our first "Home-gathering," let us all say as did Tiny Tim, "God bless us every one."

GREETINGS FROM DEAN DOWNEY.

To the Alumni of the College of Science, Literature and the Arts, Greeting:

While always taking a live interest in the students under my charge, I do not forget those of former days. Twenty-six classes of these having gone out from the University during my connection with it, I meet them wherever I go. It is a great satisfaction to learn of their success and to feel that their course at the University has given them a larger and fuller life than they would otherwise have had.

Those of us who remain here through generations of students are striving to retain all that was good in your day and to introduce much which you did not have. In the college of Science, Literature and the Arts, with the completion of the new Main building with its one hundred and six rooms and with the Woman's building just opening, we shall have better opportunities than ever for doing good work.

After a few much needed buildings for other colleges, we shall hope to have a Chapel and Administration building, and either a Botany or Animal Biology building. The great growth of the University not only justifies, but demands these. We shall count on your help in securing them, and when you return a few years hence, you will see these and other new buildings, and all worked to their full capacity.

Remember Alma Mater and do not entirely forget the "profs." John Downey.

GREETINGS FROM DEAN JONES.

To the Graduates and former Students of the College of Engineering and the Mechanic Arts:

Gentlemen—The Weekly has invited me to write you a short letter, and it is a pleasure to do so. Some of you were students here when the college had a different name from the one it now bears, but you will all understand me if I address the Engineering alumni.

You know of the General Alumni Association with its board of directors, its permanent secretary and the Alumni Weekly as its official organ. Have you joined the association? If not, you should do so, for it deserves your support. Keep in touch with the University and let us keep in touch with you. In order that we may do this. Write the Weekly of yourself and your work. If you are successful, let us rejoice with you; if you are still on the road to success, let us help you to your destination. Be loyal to one another; if you know of a good engineering position that is open, push a Ski-U-Mah into it. Be loyal to Alma Mater; if you see a chance to advance her interests be a good Ski-U-Mah yourself. If you have children to educate, send them to us; we can train them better than we trained you.

The University needs many things, but most of all she needs your allegiance; give it to her and help to make her what she ought to be.

Yours for the "U",

Fred'k S. Jones.

GREETINGS FROM DEAN JAMES.

I am very glad of the opportunity to say a word to the alumni of the University who are engaged in teaching. You are not technically graduates of the College of Education, but you received such education for your present work as the University afforded during your period of residence. Your experience since graduation has brought home to you the importance of professional teaching for teachers, and I know that you cherish the best wishes possible for this new school at your Alma Mater. I hope that every graduate who is teaching will feel that he is in a sense a member of the College of Education, sharing personally in its development.

This school, long desired by the teachers of Minnesota, has been authorized by the legislature and established by the regents. At present both buildings and funds are lacking for the successful prosecution of its work. An appeal will be made to the coming legislature to appropriate sufficient funds for an adequate building and for current maintenance. This is peculiarly a movement of Minnesota teachers, among whom the alumni of the University are a most important part. If each of you will feel a personal responsibility to speak in behalf of the college directly to members of the legislature or indirectly through their friends, or the columns of the local newspapers, success is certain.

I am speaking to you not as a member of the University, but as one of the teachers of Minnesota. Fully recognizing the various and pressing needs of the University from which selection must be made by the regents for the consideration of the legislature, I feel nevertheless as one of you that the problem of training teachers for the higher positions in the state has waited patiently for a solution and that at the present time it takes properly precedence in its claim upon the representatives of the people. No one appreciates more than I the needs of the colleges of Dentistry, Pharmacy and Engineering, or is more impressed with the spirit of magnanimous consideration and mutual sympathy which animates all connected with these schools at the University. The feeling of integral union and common interest among all the various faculties is the best promise of success for our institution and I would be the last to press an untimely or premature claim. The request in behalf of the college of education will go to the legislature distinctly from the teachers of Minnesota and will, I believe, interfere in no way with due appreciation of other needs of the University. Therefore, I express with no reserve my hope that all Alumni who have taught or are teaching will join heartily in this movement.

GREETINGS FROM DEAN PATTEE.

To the Law Alumni:

I have been asked to voice the Department's greetings along with the list of its graduates.

Your College sends her most hearty and sincere greetings to each of you personally. However absorbed your mind may have become in the affairs of life, even to the exclusion of frequent thought of your Alma Mater, she never forgets her sons and daughters, nor can she ever cease to have an affectionate interest in your success, your happiness and your highest well-being.

She rejoices with you when you rejoice; she weeps with you when you weep. She watches with solicitude your individual career. She knows your location, she follows you in thought as you change your abiding place. She observes with pleasure your triumphs at the Bar, your promotion to the Bench, and your election to the legislature or to other positions of power and influence.

Eighteen classes have already gone forth from the College of Law. Of the three comprising the first class, one occupies a seat upon the District Bench of Montana, another upon the District Bench of South Dakota, and the third is conspicuous at the Bar of Minnesota. Of later classes, several have been promoted to the District Bench: one in California, another in Montana, and two in Minnesota; several are judges of Probate Courts, several others are in the State Legislatures of Montana, of Minnesota and one North Dakota; and a multitude of them have seized, as by divine right, the positions of county attorney in various states of the union, of United States District attorney in several districts of the country, and Assistant United States Attorney at Washington, D. C.

Many of them are conspicuous in the business world. Among the Alumni are bankers, lumbermen, miners, real estate dealers, promoters and manufacturers who have already become men of unusual wealth, potent factors in the world of business, and influential members of society in general.

But Alma Mater recognizes with equal pride, and cherishes with equal affection, those who have chosen less conspicuous walks in life, and who are devoting themselves with conscientiousness and zeal to the various labors they have undertaken. She sends her words of cheer to each. In this age of opportunities she bespeaks a rich success for everyone,—that success which is earned by patient thought and persistent effort, by high aims and correct conduct, by honest purpose and pure living, by faith in God and unselfish service to men. In this age of awakening pride in our national development, she bespeaks success for those of her sons in our country's service, success to those who are officers in her armies both at home and abroad, success to those in her civil department—success that comes from loyalty to the highest ideals of service and from self-sacrifice in the unflinching discharge of duty.

The Alumni of the entire University are organizing in her interest. She needs the support of all. Through the Alumni Weekly the University endeavors to speak to every graduate of the institution. She would acquaint you with her needs, suggest methods whereby you can render her assistance, and keep you informed respecting her work and influence. Every graduate from every department of the University has an interest in her welfare as she has an interest in the welfare of every student. This is an age of mutual helpfulness.

Again, greeting to each, and hope for the prosperity of all.

GREETINGS FROM DEAN WESBROOK.

Dear Mr. Johnson:

I am very glad to know that the Alumni Register is to be re-issued by the Alumni Weekly. Your efforts in this direction and in relation to the Alumni Association are perhaps more appreciated than can well be expressed. If it takes time to develop a feeling of responsibility among our alumni, it will be time well spent, and I am sure that you can depend upon the heartiest co-operation of the alumni of this college.

We are particularly anxious to keep in touch with all of the alumni of our college and I shall ask you to supply us with any changes in address which are furnished you from time to time, and in the issues of the Weekly to point out to our alumni the importance of keeping this office informed as to their movements. We desire to maintain a complete card catalogue of the alumni in which will be recorded their movements, their progress, what has been accomplished by them and any honors which come to them because we are proud of them; furthermore, we feel that we need their help.

The future of the College is altogether dependent upon the confidence which can be inspired in the medical profession and in the minds of the public at large. Our success or our failure will be judged by the quality of our output and one of the greatest elements of our success will be the inspiration of our alumni with a feeling of responsibility and helpfulness to their Alma Mater. Our alumni can do as much or more for the College than can the Faculty.

We have heartily appreciated the expressions by the alumni of the advance of the College from time to time in its requirements and the Alumni Association through its Advisory Committee, has been most helpful. The power of our Alumni for good or ill will be constantly increasing and their experience in practical Medicine and Surgery derived from their own practices and their observations at other centers of medical teaching and research when guided by their interest in their Alma Mater, will make them most impartial critics and of the utmost value in the upbuilding of the school. It is therefore very important that we be in a position to communicate with them and they with each other and us. I hope the mechanism will be built up whereby each member of each class will be kept in touch with all the other members by the formation of some class organization, perhaps with a permanent secretary. Such organizations would be mostly helpful not only to the profession at large but to the College since if we can maintain a bureau of information in regard to vacant posts and available men, the advantage will be mutual. Apart, however, from any such mutual advantage, we all have a dormant sentiment which should be kept alive and there seems to be almost no limit to the good which can be done by an active body of alumni.

It is a matter of great gratification to every one interested that such a strong feeling of fellowship has grown up between the various parts of the University and the alumni of the various Colleges and Schools. They are drawn together in every community, large and small and their individual fealty to the University cannot be doubted. The only matter of improvement is that of perfecting a mechanism whereby each can supplement the efforts of the other and engender a feeling of individual responsibility which has an outlet through channels so laid as to water each one of the roots of the parent tree.

Yours very truly,

F. F. Wesbrook.

GREETING FROM DEAN MANN.

To the Alumni of the College of Homeopathic Medicine and Surgery, Greetings;

The merited support of its Alumni is the highest goal that any institution of learning can aim at, and this College congratulates itself that it has this support and will always strive to keep it; to this end it desires to keep in touch with its graduates; the Alumni Association was formed with this in view and the faculty always welcomes any news of the men who earned their degrees at this college. It wishes to keep a record of your achievements in after life as well as during the four years of your residence here; believe me no detail of your work will seem inconsequential, and the Dean would welcome a yearly letter from each one of you, at least keep us informed of your whereabouts and of any way in which we can assist you; we shall from time to time call upon you for help and I know that each will give as he can, but above all, through the University Committee of your Alumni Association or by direct correspondence with the Dean, we urge you to keep in touch with the college and any suggestions that may come from you for its betterment will be always most gladly received and thoughtfully considered.

Sincerely,

Eugene L. Mann.

December 6th, 1906.

GREETINGS FROM DEAN WULLING.

To the Alumni of the College of Pharmacy:

I send you hearty greetings and well wishes and remind you of the high ideals of professional abilities and integrity that I have always endeavored to place before you. There is now an opportunity for you to aid in the realization of a higher standard for your chosen profession. As you may know, the Minnesota State Pharmaceutical Association will introduce a bill into the next legislature to make a training in a recognized college of pharmacy obligatory for all who desire to become pharmacists after 1912. This must appeal to you for the reason that prompted you to go to college to obtain a good professional education. The pharmacists of several states, notably those of New York, Pennsylvania, District of Columbia, and even Hawaii have asked for such measures and their legislatures speedily enacted them. The Minnesota pharmacists were given an opportunity last spring by the State Association to vote for or against the proposed bill. Of those sufficiently interested in the matter to vote, nearly ninety per cent. voted affirmatively. While this is most gratifying, it yet should not be taken for granted that no further effort is necessary.

Each and every one of you should see your Representative and Senator personally and urge upon them the necessity of such an act. Medical practitioners are required to have had four years of training at a medical college preceded by four years of high-school work and in many cases by from two to four years' additional work in the academic department of a university or similar institution before they can practice. To become eligible to practice medicine, therefore, requires a minimum training of eight years above the grades and in some cases ten and twelve years. For the practice of pharmacy there are now no requirements as to academic or professional training beyond the State Board examinations. Note the great difference in favor of medicine. And yet it is generally conceded that the public is in greater danger from poorly qualified pharmacists than from inadequately trained physicians. The physicians have the pharmacists to discover many of their mistakes, but the pharmacists have no one to thus guard them.

Another reason why this proposed bill should become a law is the greater professional skill that will become necessary through the new food and drug law that goes into effect January 1, 1907.

Opposition to the proposed measure comes largely from those who are afraid it will apply to them. This of course it will not; no law can be retro-active. All in business now will continue as heretofore. To prevent any hardship, it is proposed that the bill shall not become effective until 1912. That would give all apprentices and clerks the needed time to register under the old conditions.

The law would benefit both proprietors and clerks in that it would prevent the present too rapid increase of drug stores. It would increase the wages of clerks, but with a lesser proportion of drug stores, the proprietors would be easily able to pay better salaries.

Do your duty in this matter and give it your repeated personal attention and do not rest until you have helped to create for your profession a higher and more deserved standard.

There is another matter for which I bespeak your consideration and co-operation. The General Alumni Association is engaged in the most worthy undertaking of championing in many ways the cause of the University. To do this effectively, the services of Mr. E. B. Johnson, whom you all know as the former University Registrar, have been secured. No mistake has been made as is evidenced by the result already shown by Mr. Johnson's labors to put the Association on a solid financial basis by increasing the life membership list. The life membership fee has been placed at the low sum of ten dollars to enable a larger number to be entered upon the life list. The fee is not expended, but is used to create a fund from which a fixed and certain income may be derived with which to meet the growing current expenses of the Association.

This matter has my fullest endorsement and I earnestly urge every pharmacy alumnus to become a life member. Nothing would please me better than to see a very strong representation of pharmacists on the life roll.

Thirdly, I have good news for you. The Pharmacy Building for which the faculty has worked for about twelve years and for which many of you have worked and hoped is now to become a reality. The Board of Regents will ask the coming Legislature for the necessary appropriation. When you see your Representatives and Senators about the proposed educational qualification for pharmacists urge them also to see that this appropriation is made. A strong appeal from you will help very materially. The College of Pharmacy has demonstrated that it is entitled to quarters and equipment commensurate with those of other departments of the University.

In this connection, I also want to urge you to keep in touch with the University and especially with your Alma Mater. The Alumni Weekly is a most useful means to that end. Subscribe to it and have a weekly communication from the University and from the Association. As time permits and occasion calls for, I will address you through its columns. The editor would, I have no doubt, be glad to publish from time to time a letter from any of you of interest to your fellow pharmacists. Identify yourselves with the Alumni Weekly.

This directory will reach you shortly before Christmas, the time of good cheer and good will towards men, so I send you this greeting:

In order to grow in mind and in spirit, in health and in beauty you must ever practice the attitude of cheerfulness and courage. If you fall, suppress the cry, arise, smile and walk erect with firmer step. Banish discouragement by creating and rising into higher thought currents. Persistently look up and on and build in you now a secure foundation for the future you desire. Never let fear be an ingredient in your fabric; supplant it with courage. Whatever the state of your unfoldment may be, rest assured that it is your best starting point for a higher unfoldment. But you must not live unto yourself alone; you must help others to become happy, and show them how to help themselves. There is no greater reward than that growing out of successful effort to make others happy. Observe the golden rule always, be kind and let your soul shine forth in the light of your eye and in the smile on your face. If you haven't yet done so, Christmas is a good time to begin.

This is my Christmas greeting.

Frederick J. Wullings.

December 6th, 1906.

GREETINGS FROM DEAN FRANKFORDER.

To the Graduates of the School of Chemistry. The professors, instructors and students of the School of Chemistry send you greetings through the Alumni Weekly. We wish to say to you, in the way of encouragement, that we are all more sanguine than ever over the future prospects of the chemists in this country. The laws recently enacted by Congress mean that our own country will soon be the rival of Germany along chemical manufacturing lines. We have the raw products, we now have laws which give us equal advantages with other countries. All we need at the present time is an army of able chemists, to develop these latent industries.

In looking over the list of graduates, we are surprised, and feel sure that you will be both interested and surprised in the widely diversified work in which our graduates have specialized. We find on our list of graduates, biological and pharmacological chemists, organic chemists, physical chemists, gas and coal chemists, iron and sugar chemists, chemical technologists and chemical engineers.

In sending you these greetings, we earnestly beg of you to keep in closer touch with the University in the future, than you have done in the past. A letter now and then to us or to the Alumni Weekly will always be welcome and will do a vast amount of good, not only to the undergraduate students, but to the graduates as well.

Yours very truly,

G. B. Frankforter.
Dean of the School of Chemistry.
University of Minnesota.

GREETINGS FROM DEANS OWRE AND LIGGETT.

Dean Owre was so busy that he could not put in shape what he wanted to say to the alumni, and will give his message later through the Weekly. Dean Liggett was in Chicago capturing prizes for his department and could not be reached, we shall hope to hear from him later, also. The hearts of both of these deans are with the alumni, and their good will is none the less real because not voiced in these columns.

A STUDENT PASTOR.

One of the most important matters connected with University development, during the past year, has been the approval of a plan for inter-denominational support of a student pastor, to have charge of Bible study work for the students of the University. The plans call for the selection of a man capable of filling acceptably a professor's chair, and paying him the salary of a full professor. The churches back of this movement are the Methodist, Presbyterian, Baptist, and Congregational churches. Another year will probably see the plan in operation and great things are hoped for the future from the work of such a man.

SECURE MORE ENERGY.

You will be stronger, healthier, happier, more successful in business or society be you man or woman.

ADDRESS,

Minneapolis Teachers Agency,

329-H-14th Ave. S. E.,

MINNEAPOLIS,

MINN.

A COMPLETE DIRECTORY

OF THE

ALUMNI

OF THE

University of Minnesota

1873-1906

COMPILED BY

E. B. JOHNSON, '88

AND ISSUED BY

The General Alumni Association.

AS A SPECIAL NUMBER OF

The Minnesota Alumni Weekly

When a name appears in boldface type—type like this—it indicates that the person named is a life member of the General Alumni Association, or has definitely agreed to become a member before June 1st, 1907, at the latest. Three hundred have already paid; two hundred more have agreed to pay before January 1st and another hundred and fifty have agreed to pay before June 1st, 1907, a total of six hundred and fifty.

THE PLAN.

It will be noted that all of the alumni of the various colleges of the University are given first in one alphabetical list; the college being indicated as follows:

- E—College of Engineering.
- M—School of Mines.
- A—College of Agriculture.
- L—College of Law.
- R—College of Medicine and Surgery.
- H—College of Homeopathic Medicine and Surgery.
- D—College of Dentistry.
- P—College of Pharmacy.
- C—School of Chemistry.

Graduates of the college of science, literature and the arts are given without any distinguishing letter.

The second list is arranged by location, an arrangement which was followed in the directory of 1904, and which proved so useful and so acceptable to the alumni generally.

The third list is the list by classes and will doubtless prove useful to those who desire to reach the members of any particular class alone.

† means no information for several years.

A LIFE MEMBERSHIP IS $10.

It pays your annual due for all time.
It insures permanence to the work of the Alumni for the University.
This investment will be bringing returns to the University long after it is in your power to lend a hand.
The principal is never used—only the income.
It may cost you some sacrifice—but is the end to be gained—the good of the University, not worth it?

THIS MEANS ME. I'LL DO IT TO-DAY

It is a Fact

Do you realize that the prompt securing of ONE THOUSAND life memberships is an argument that will have great weight in helping to bring about some things which need to be done for the University this winter? This is one way in which you can lend a hand, and it is a vital matter. Why not do it TODAY? Prompt action is more than doubly effective.
