The University of Minnesota

The University of Minnesota, ranked among the nation's top ten public universities, reflects the commitment to education of a state that is only 21st in population. It is almost alone among universities in the United States in its combination of three characteristics: an international research university, a land-grant institution with a strong tradition of education and public service, and a metropolitan academic community.

The Twin Cities campus, its largest campus, is made up of 18 colleges and offers the full range of academic and professional degrees. A comprehensive campus in Duluth offers undergraduate and graduate programs. The Morris campus offers a four-year liberal arts program. Two-year technical colleges in Crookston and Waseca provide paraprofessional and technical education, primarily in agriculture-related fields. Through the Minnesota Extension Service, the University is present in each of Minnesota's 87 counties.

The University is the primary center in Minnesota (and parts of the surrounding region) for instruction and research in the health sciences, law, engineering, agriculture, and forestry: it offers all of the graduate-level programs in these fields. In all the arts and sciences and in teacher preparation the University is the major doctorate-granting institution in the state.

When the University was founded as a preparatory school in 1851, Minnesota had been a territory for just two years, and statehood was still seven years away. The school was built on not much more than the pioneers' faith in education. The University struggled financially in its early years and was forced to close during the Civil War. It reopened in 1867.

Two students received bachelor of arts degrees at the first commencement in June 1873. Since then, the University has granted a total of 408,093 degrees. Students earn undergraduate and graduate degrees in more than 250 fields of study.

The Duluth campus joined the University in 1947, the Morris campus opened in 1960, the Crookston campus in 1966, and the Waseca campus in 1971.

Enrollment in fall 1987 was 55,924 on all five campuses. Enrollment was 44,293 on the Twin Cities campus, 7,365 at Duluth, 1,967 at Morris, 1,163 at Waseca, and 1,136 at Crookston.

During the 1987-1988 academic year, the University of Minnesota conferred 10,598 degrees on all its campuses: 5,798 in July, August, and December 1987 and March 1988, and 4,800 in June 1988 (subject to completion of requirements).

University alumni include four Nobel Prize winners, a former chief justice of the United States, two former vice presidents, the heads of Fortune 500 companies, pioneers in medicine, civil rights leaders, top journalists, and men and women who have achieved distinction in every field.

Alumni and their families and friends are always welcome at the University. Alumni are invited to continue their relationship with the University through the Minnesota Alumni Association and its college groups.

Academic Costume

Academic gowns date back to the 14th century, when they served two functions of nearly equal importance: to indicate the academic rank of the wearer and to keep the scholar warm in the drafty stone halls of academia.

The markings, cut, and colors of the modern-day academic costume—cap, gown, and sometimes hood—indicate the academic degree, the field of study, and the institution that granted the degree. In the United States, the bachelor's degree gown is black and untrimmed.

At University of Minnesota commencement ceremonies—except those where master's and doctoral degrees are awarded—mortarboard tassels indicate field of study (see list below), and honors students wear gold epaulets. The side of the mortarboard on which the tassel hangs has no meaning, although at some schools the tassel is moved from right to left when the degree is awarded.

After receiving a degree, graduates may wear academic costume on any appropriate occasion, always wearing a black tassel.

The University of Minnesota

The University of Minnesota, ranked among the nation's top ten public universities, reflects the commitment to education of a state that is only 21st in population. It is almost alone among universities in the United States in its combination of three characteristics: an international research university, a land-grant institution with a strong tradition of education and public service, and a metropolitan academic community.

The Twin Cities campus, its largest campus, is made up of 18 colleges and offers the full range of academic and professional degrees. A comprehensive campus in Duluth offers undergraduate and graduate programs. The Morris campus offers a four-year liberal arts program. Two-year technical colleges in Crookston and Waseca provide paraprofessional and technical education, primarily in agriculture-related fields. Through the Minnesota Extension Service, the University is present in each of Minnesota's 87 counties.

The University is the primary center in Minnesota (and parts of the surrounding region) for instruction and research in the health sciences, law, engineering, agriculture, and forestry: it offers all of the graduate-level programs in these fields. In all the arts and sciences and in teacher preparation the University is the only doctorate-granting institution in the state.

When the University was founded as a preparatory school in 1851, Minnesota had been a territory for just two years, and statehood was still seven years away. The school was built on not much more than the pioneers' faith in education. The University struggled financially in its early years and was forced to close during the Civil War. It reopened in 1867.

Two students received bachelor of arts degrees at the first commencement in June 1873. Since then, the University has granted a total of 418,826 degrees. Students earn undergraduate and graduate degrees in more than 250 fields of study.

The Duluth campus joined the University in 1947, the Morris campus opened in 1960, the Crookston campus in 1966, and the Waseca campus in 1971.

Enrollment in fall 1988 was 54,517 on all five campuses. Enrollment was 42,571 on the Twin Cities campus, 7,535 at Duluth, 2,021 at Morris, 1,169 at Waseca, and 1,221 at Crookston.

During the 1987-1988 academic year, the University of Minnesota conferred 10,733 degrees on all its campuses.

University alumni include four Nobel Prize winners, a former chief justice of the United States, two former vice presidents, the heads of Fortune 500 companies, pioneers in medicine, civil rights leaders, top journalists, and men and women who have achieved distinction in every field.

Alumni and their families and friends are always welcome at the University. Alumni are invited to continue their relationship with the University through the Minnesota Alumni Association and its college groups.

Academic Costume

Academic gowns date back to the 14th century, when they served two functions of nearly equal importance: to indicate the academic rank of the wearer and to keep the scholar warm in the drafty stone halls of academia.

The markings, cut, and colors of the modern-day academic costume—cap, gown, and sometimes hood—indicate the academic degree, the field of study, and the institution that granted the degree. In the United States, the bachelor's degree gown is black and untrimmed.

At University of Minnesota commencement ceremonies—except those where master's and doctoral degrees are awarded—mortarboard tassels indicate field of study (see list below), and honors students wear gold epaulets. The side of the mortarboard on which the tassel hangs has no meaning, although at some schools the tassel is moved from right to left when the degree is awarded.

After receiving a degree, graduates may wear academic costume on any appropriate occasion, always wearing a black tassel.
