Publications

Graduate School Bulletin—Prospective and current graduate students are responsible for all information contained in this bulletin that is pertinent to graduate study and their specific field.

The first section, General Information, is the official source of information about Graduate School policies and procedures.

The largest section, Fields of Instruction, presents faculty, requirements, and course descriptions for the various programs offering graduate degrees. The short section that follows, Related Courses, features faculty and course descriptions for units offering graduate credits but not graduate degrees. The next section is called Graduate Offerings, Duluth Campus.

At the back are a complete set of Campus Maps and an extensive Index. The last page, Course Key, explains the numbering system, punctuation, department prefixes, and symbols used throughout the course descriptions.

Other Bulletins—The annual General Information Bulletin provides a brief overview of the Twin Cities campus and basic costs and regulations. Separate bulletins are printed for Continuing Education and Extension, the Duluth campus, and other University units. Most may be obtained by visiting the Information Center on the upper concourse of Williamson Hall.

The Campus and Community

On the Twin Cities campus, Graduate School students enjoy the vast academic and cultural opportunities of a major university and a unique metropolitan area.

Two Campuses in One—The Twin Cities campus, the largest and oldest in the University system, is technically two separate campuses; one just east of the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome on the edge of downtown Minneapolis, the other just west of the State Fairgrounds a couple miles from downtown St. Paul.

The Mississippi River divides the Minneapolis campus into two banks connected by the double-decker Washington Avenue Bridge. The picturesque Mall of the main East Bank is bordered by stately traditional buildings—including Johnston Hall, home of the Graduate School. Next door is Northrop Auditorium, its weighty pillars softened in summer by nearby umbrella-topped tables. On the other end of the Mall, Coffman Union beckons anyone in need of a break between classes. On the fringes are futuristic underground structures and the health sciences complexes.

Just across the river is the West Bank. Newer and smaller, it boasts sleek brick buildings like the main library, the Humphrey Institute of Public Affairs, the Law Center, and Ferguson Music Hall.

Several miles away is the St. Paul campus, whose animal barns, croplands, flowers, and wooded areas evoke a small college atmosphere.

Urban Diversity—The Dinkytown, Stadium Village, Seven Corners, and Cedar-Riverside areas near the Minneapolis campus, and the St. Anthony Park neighborhood alongside the St. Paul campus, all feature shops and restaurants tailored to students' interests and budgets. Also close are newly renovated festival markets like St. Anthony Main, Riverplace, and Bandana Square.

Minneapolis (the largest city in Minnesota) and St. Paul (the state capital) are both flourishing centers of commerce and industry, where grandiose historic buildings complement bold new skyscrapers. Focal points of a progressive metropolitan area of 2 million people, the two down-towns offer myriad opportunities for entertainment, research, volunteer or part-time work, internships, and eventual careers.

Arts and Entertainment—The Twin Cities are renowned for innovative and varied cultural attractions, such as the Guthrie Theater, Ordway Music Theater, Orchestra Hall, Science Museum and Omnitheater, Garrison Keillor's Prairie Home Companion, and Dudley Riggs' Brave New Workshop. Northrop Auditorium, the campus centerpiece, hosts performances by popular musical and dance artists and outstanding University bands and ensembles. Students can see or star in plays at the Rarig Center or the summertime Showboat. Or they can savor the University Art Museum or the Minneapolis Institute of Arts, the Apple Valley or Como Park zoo, the Renaissance Festival or Valleyfair, the Aquatennial or Winter Carnival.

Recreation and Sports—The Rec Sports program, one of the largest of its kind on any campus in the country, offers curling, cycling, racquetball, crew, ballroom dance, juggling, and 100 other teams, clubs, and fitness activities. Big-league sports fans can view Golden Gophers or Vikings football and Twins baseball at the Dome, North Stars hockey or Strikers soccer at the Met Sports Center, and professional horse racing at Canterbury Downs. Numerous women's and men's intercollegiate athletic events also take place right on campus.

Outdoor enthusiasts can explore the Twin Cities' 150 parks and 200 lakes, ideal for picnicking, hiking, biking, swimming, canoeing, sailing, fishing, roller or ice skating, cross-country or downhill skiing, or simply sitting and staring. The Boundary Waters Canoe Area, one of the most unsullied wilderness treasures in the entire nation, is only a few hours drive to the north.

The gentle warmth of spring, sunny greenery of summer, and bright crisp colors of autumn do give way to at least three months of winter snow, but even then, daytime temperatures generally average a quite bearable and invigorating 10 to 30 degrees above.

Centennial of the First Ph.D.

The University of Minnesota's first Ph.D. degree was awarded in 1888 to Charles Burke Elliott, a lawyer who majored in history and went on to become associate justice of both the Minnesota Supreme Court and the Supreme Court of the Philippine Islands. A life member of the Minnesota Historical Society, Elliott authored a number of standard legal texts and a two-volume work on the Philippines. He also left behind autobiographical writings and diaries from the period of his graduate study, which bear careful witness to the daily rigors of life associated with raising a family, earning a living, and completing requirements for the doctorate. The excerpts below are reprinted from the Charles B. Elliott Papers, Minnesota Historical Society.

The University of Minnesota Graduate School was formally organized as a free-standing college in 1905. Today, it embraces approximately 180 graduate programs, 2,800 graduate faculty members, and 7,500 students. To commemorate the 100th anniversary of the first Ph.D., the Graduate School is sponsoring a series of interdisciplinary forums—one a month for the better part of the 1987-88 academic year—focusing on scholarship from the entire research spectrum. Further information about these forums and related festivities involving alumni, faculty, and students will be available beginning in September 1987.

From Charles B. Elliott's Autobiography

In the spring of 1885, my wife's parents moved to Minneapolis and purchased a home near the University. We gave up our house and for two years lived with them.

Of course for a time there was no real law business, but I secured some editorial work to do for the West Publishing Company which was then getting its National Reports system under way. This helped materially to keep things going. I also read the galley proofs and verified the citations in a Minnesota Digest which the West Company was publishing.

Having no time for unproductive labor, I decided to take on some work at the University, in the hope of supplementing the college course which I had abandoned to enter law school. At that time the German University influence was very strong in the United States. From the time of Bancroft and Motley American students had been going to Germany for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, and it had been almost impossible for one without that degree to secure a position on the faculty of an American university. The new Johns Hopkins University, erected on the German plan, was sending out Doctors, most of whom, like Woodrow Wilson and Albert Shaw, early established reputations.

The idea came to me that I might enter the University and study for the doctorate without interfering with my office work.

The University was then quite small, but it had a new president who had come from Yale with the ambition to put the University of Minnesota on the educational map. I went over to see President Northrop and talked with him about my plan of study. He was sympathetic and thought it could possibly be arranged. The University had a few graduate students, but no course of study had been provided leading to the degree of Ph.D. Their graduate school ambition had not yet advanced beyond the provision of the Master's degree.

After several conferences with the President it was arranged that I might enter, but there was a difficulty in the way. I had never taken the B.A. degree. In lieu thereof I offered a small volume made up of various articles, mostly legal, which I had published, and presented it with my diploma, as a Bachelor of Laws. In due time it was accepted, and a course of study was laid out for me to follow. I was to major in History, with studies in Roman Law, International Law and the Constitutional History of England and the United States (with stress on diplomatic history).

I was to work under the direction of Dr. H. P. Judson, professor of history, Dr. W. W. Folwell, professor of political science, formerly president of the University, and Professor George E. MacLean, head of the English department. From time to time I met these gentlemen at their homes, where my work was examined and reading directed. Each took great interest in his only candidate, each became a life-long friend. Dr. Judson afterward became well-known as the President of the University of Chicago. Dr. MacLean became President of the University of Iowa and the University of Nebraska, and later was in charge of educational work of American students in Europe with his headquarters in London.

During the second year I commenced work on the required thesis.

Doctors' theses had not become so numerous as to exhaust the field of appropriate subjects and to make a selection difficult. Candidates had not been driven to such subjects as "Administrative Problems of the High School Cafeteria," or "An Analysis of Paring Knives in Terms of Time and Waste Material in Paring Potatoes." At Dr. Judson's suggestion I decided to write on the old diplomatic controversy with Great Britain over the Newfoundland Fisheries. The subject was then very much alive, as the Cleveland Administration had made a treaty with Great Britain which gave much dissatisfaction to certain elements in the United States. The subject was being discussed from time to time in the Senate, and was receiving much publicity thru the press. After getting the book, for such it became, blocked out, I went to Washington and worked for a while in the State Department Library, and later in the Boston Public Library and Lenox Library in New York. I found much important material on the matter in manuscript, of which I made use. My own manuscript was completed and submitted in 1887, and it proved so satisfactory that the University decided to publish and distribute it as sort of a University public document.

Just then the fisheries controversy had reached an acute stage. Naval vessels of both countries were on the fishing grounds, and there was serious danger of a collision which might lead even to war. Senator C. K. Davis, then a member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, secured a large number of copies of the book and put one in the hands of each senator. It was quoted in the debates and given much publicity, very gratifying to the University and the youthful writer. I received many flattering letters from distinguished people including Senator Hoar, Henry Cabot Lodge, James Russell Lowell, George Bancroft, John Jay, and other well-known men.

I continued the course for another year, and in the spring of 1888 I had to pass the oral examination. The faculty committee met at Professor MacLean's house and the proceedings were held according to the most approved German University procedure, upon which Mr. MacLean was an authority, having taken his degree at Göttingen. At the end of the inquisition I was informed that the results were satisfactory. Wine and cake were then brought in, à la Göttingen, and a mild celebration was staged. Thus did the University of Minnesota create its first Doctor of Philosophy. The result of this work and the publicity it gave me was very far-reaching.

From Charles B. Elliott's Diaries

Sunday, July 31, 1887

Worked on "The Fisheries" almost the entire day.

Friday, August 5, 1887

After supper went and spent the evening with Prof. Judson on revising the MSS of Fisheries.

Friday, September 2, 1887

Went over to see Printer at the University about the Fisheries.

Wednesday, December 7, 1887

Ordered some large envelopes made to mail copies of the Fisheries. Prof. Judson informed me that Dr. Folwell intended to review it at the next meeting of the "Political Science Club." Will it be favorable?

Saturday, December 17, 1887

This is a red letter day owing to the Tribune's Editorial Review of the "Fisheries." Everybody speaking about it.

Saturday, December 24, 1887

Steady office work until noon. Came home for lunch. On way back stopped at Judson's. He gave me a letter from Henry

Centennial of the First Ph.D.

Cabot Lodge speaking very highly of the "Fisheries." Home Early and Read Harper's Monthly all the Evening, Christmas Evening. Snow on the ground but warm and pleasant.

Friday, January 20, 1888

During May I suppose I will have to pass an examination for my Degree of Ph.D. if the faculty ever get the matter arranged.

Sunday, March 25, 1888

Came home and devoted the day to playing with the Baby and reading English History, principally Macaulay and Freeman. I find that it is very difficult to make much progress in such reading owing to the constant interruptions.

Friday, April 27, 1888

It is absolutely necessary that I be well prepared for the final examination, as it is a milestone in my career which must be passed with credit.

Monday, May 21, 1888

Am very much disgusted with my Degree business. Am unable to get time to study and will have to face a severe examination without the necessary preparation. I am a fair specimen of an ass. to attempt anything of the kind while running a business at the same time.

Thursday, June 7, 1888

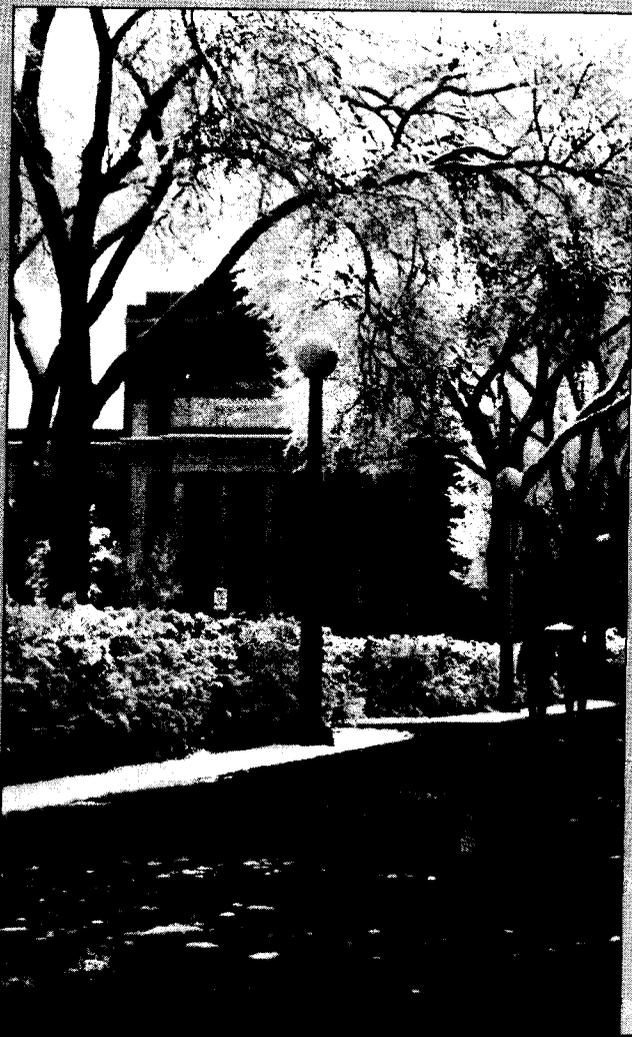

Raining furiously until about 10 a.m. Commencement day opened drearily. I had a case set for trial but at 10 o'clock the jury was dismissed until 2 which gave me time to go over to the Coliseum. Arrived when the speeches were almost through. They found a place for me among the "graduates" and at the proper time I found myself alone on the stage confronting the worthy President Northrop. The audience cheered heartily when I came forward and also at the close of the President's address which was in Latin and very complimentary. This closed the Exercises after which congratulations were in order. They were all very kind. The President came and took me by the hand and said that he greeted me as "the highest in the University."

I had to return to the Court Room at 2 p.m. so that I was unable to attend the Commencement dinner, where, as the President informed me in the evening I was to have made a speech.

In the evening we all attended the President's reception which was also in the Col. A large crowd and a pleasant time. Home at 11 p.m. Thus ended Commencement Day A.D. 1888 and I found myself entitled to write the mystic letters "Ph.D." after my name—well they represent long hard work and Doctors of Philosophy are scarce in this community.

General Information

General Information

The central purposes of the Graduate School are the advanced training of men and women in a wide variety of fields and the promotion of research in an atmosphere of freedom of inquiry.

The Graduate School administrative structure includes six policy and review councils, consisting of faculty and students, in the areas of education and psychology; health sciences; language, literature, and arts; physical sciences; plant and animal sciences; and social sciences. These councils, together with an Executive Committee, are responsible for making general policy for the Graduate School. The Executive Committee is composed of the dean of the Graduate School; chairpersons of the policy and review councils, the Graduate Research and Advisory Committee, and the Fellowship Committee; and representatives from the Duluth Graduate Faculty Committee, the Graduate School administration and staff, and the Council of Graduate Students.

Libraries and Research Opportunities

The University of Minnesota-Twin Cities Libraries, with a collection of more than 4 million catalogued volumes, ranks 14th in size among American universities. Included in the system are the Biomedical Library (health sciences); Institute of Technology Libraries (engineering, architecture, mathematics, physics, geology); St. Paul Libraries (agriculture, biological sciences, veterinary medicine); and Humanities and Social Sciences Libraries (social sciences, humanities, archives, special collections). In addition to strong comprehensive research collections, the system offers a full range of reference and information services, including specialized reference assistance, data base literature searching, and library user instruction.

Among the University's many research facilities are the Archaeology Laboratory, (Charles) Babbage Institute for the History of Information Processing, Center for Advanced Feminist Studies, Center for Ancient Studies, Center for Austrian Studies, Center for Death Education and Research, Center for Educational Policy Studies, Center for Health Services Research, Center for Humanistic Studies, Center for Interest Measurement, Center for Northwest European Language and Area Studies, Center for Population Studies, Center for Research in Human Learning, Center for Youth Development and Research, Center of Plasma Chemistry, Clinical Research Center, Corrosion Research Center, Gray Freshwater Biological Institute, Herbarium, Hormel Institute, Human Genetics Institute, Immigration History Research Center, Industrial Relations Center, Institute for Mathematics and Its Applications, Instructional Development Laboratory, Laboratory for Research in Scientific Communication, Laboratory for Research in Social Relations, Lake Itasca Forestry and Biological Station, Lake Superior Basin Studies Center, Landscape Arboretum, Limnological Research Center, Management Information Systems Research Center, Microelectronic and Information Sciences Center, Mineral Resources Research Center, Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station, Minnesota Center for Philosophy of Science, Minnesota Center for Social Research, Minnesota Consortium Institute for the Education of Severely Handicapped Learners, Minnesota Geological Survey, Minnesota Rehabilitation Engineering Center, Minnesota Research and Development Center for Vocational Education, Minnesota Sea Grant Institute, Natural Resources Research Institute, Productivity Center, (Harold Scott) Quigley Center of International Studies, Radiation Oncology Research and Clinical Center, Remote Sensing Laboratory, Research Animal Disease Diagnostic and Investigative Laboratory, Sudan Underground Research Site, Statistical Center, Underground Space Center, Water Resources Research Center, Williams Laboratory for Nuclear Physics.

Basic Admission Requirements

Any student with a bachelor's degree or its foreign equivalent from a recognized college or university may apply to the dean of the Graduate School for admission. Applicants with the necessary background for their chosen major field, an excellent scholastic record from an approved college or university, and appropriate professional qualifications may be admitted for graduate work on recommendation of the graduate faculty in the proposed major field and approval of the dean of the Graduate School.

The faculty and staff of the Graduate School encourage applications from persons belonging to minority or other groups that have been underrepresented in the student body. The Graduate School is committed to providing equal opportunity to all who seek access to its programs, facilities, and services; establishing fair educational standards and applying them equitably in making decisions about admission and academic standing; and helping to compensate for inequities in society.

University of Minnesota undergraduates who have no more than 9 quarter credits or two courses to complete for their bachelor's degree (including both distribution and total credit requirements), if they are admitted, may register in the Graduate School to begin a graduate program while simultaneously completing their baccalaureate work.

Application Fee—The fee for Graduate School applicants is $25 for each major they wish to be considered for. This application fee is subject to change. The most detailed and up-to-date information about the fee is included in the instructions that accompany the Graduate School Application for Admission form.

Transcripts—Official transcripts of previous academic study must be submitted. See the Graduate School Application for Admission form for detailed information.

International Applicants—All international applicants who have attended universities that issue official, original transcripts of records upon request must submit such credentials. Attested true copies of such records are not accepted. Those international applicants who have attended universities that issue original transcripts or mark sheets only once to the student must submit attested or certified true copies of academic records. If the grading system employed by the university is not shown in the credentials, a separate official statement from the university detailing this information is required. If an applicant is uncertain about what documents are required, early inquiry is recommended.

Experience at the University of Minnesota has been that often during the course of the program of study a student has need of a complete set of official credentials covering previous college and university training. Applicants are urged to request two sets of official credentials when preparing their application for admission—one to be submitted for permanent filing in the Graduate School and the other for personal use.

Test Data—One or more of the following tests may be required as part of the application process:

Miller Analogies Test—A graduate-level form of the Miller Analogies Test is required of applicants for some major fields and programs. The Graduate School Application for Admission form includes a list of majors requiring the test. Those on or near a college or university campus should contact the student counseling center, testing service, or similar office on that campus to arrange for testing. Those not near a college or university campus should write to the Psychological Corporation, 304 East 45th Street, New York, NY 10017, for a list of testing centers.

General Information

Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT)— All master's applicants in business administration and business taxation must take the GMAT and must request that an official report of the results be sent to the Graduate School from the Educational Testing Service. Since this test is given at limited times and places during the year, applicants should make early arrangements to take it. For information on registering for the GMAT, write to the Educational Testing Service, CN 6108, Princeton, NJ 08541.

Graduate Record Examination (GRE)— Applicants who submit undergraduate narrative transcripts or transcripts containing "pass-no credit (P-N)," "credit," or other ungraded notations for a substantial number of courses taken during the junior and senior years or whose transcripts do not show a substantial number of letter grades during those years must submit the results of the GRE General test and an appropriate GRE Subject test.

Most major fields request the GRE. It would be wise, therefore, for applicants to complete this test either in the senior year of undergraduate work or before filing an application for admission.

For information about the test, contact the Educational Testing Service, CN 6000, Princeton, NJ 08541. Official scores must be sent to the Graduate School office from the testing service.

Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL)— This test is required of all international applicants whose native language is not English, except those who will have completed an academic year in residence as a full-time student at a recognized institution of higher learning in the United States prior to entering the University of Minnesota. These transfer students, however, may be asked to take locally administered English tests after arrival on campus.

Foreign Medical Graduate Examination in the Medical Sciences (FMGEMS)— Applicants seeking admission to graduate study in clinical medical fields whose medical degrees or qualifications were conferred by medical schools outside the United States, Puerto Rico, or Canada must submit certification by the Educational Commission for Foreign Medical Graduates or evidence of a full and unrestricted license to practice medicine issued by a state or other territory under United States jurisdiction that is authorized to license physicians. For more information on certification and the FMGEMS, write directly to the Educational Commission for Foreign Medical Graduates, 3624 Market Street, Philadelphia, PA 19104, U.S.A. or phone 215/386-5900.

Additional Information—The Graduate School and individual programs within it reserve the right to request additional information in any case in which it is believed necessary.

Overall Application Procedure

Requests for application materials should be sent to the director of graduate studies in the individual program (see Fields of Instruction for program addresses). Requests should specify the applicant's proposed major field and emphasis, degree objective, and date of entry.

Applicants are encouraged to apply for admission well in advance of the term in which they wish to enter the Graduate School (but no more than one year in advance of the proposed entry date). The Graduate School application, complete with all required materials, must be submitted by the following deadlines:

Fall quarter—August 15
Winter quarter—November 25
Spring quarter—February 25
Summer session, first term—May 15
Summer session, second term—June 15

Deadlines that fall on a holiday or weekend will be extended through the next regular workday.

Many major fields have established deadlines earlier than those listed above and also require additional application and supporting materials. It is the applicant's responsibility to obtain information about those deadlines and requirements from the program description in this bulletin and from the director of graduate studies for the proposed major.

Special Applicant Categories

Course Work Only—Applicants who wish to enroll in a field in the Graduate School but are not interested in a graduate degree may apply for admission for "course work only." Applicants for course work only must complete the usual application materials and meet existing deadlines and admission standards. Since some major fields restrict admission to those planning on pursuing an advanced degree, applicants are advised to consult with the director of graduate studies in their proposed major field before completing application materials.

Transient Graduate Students—Students who have registered within the last year in a graduate degree program at another recognized graduate school in the United States and wish to enroll for a summer session or single quarter in the Graduate School of the University of Minnesota to earn credits to apply toward their degree program may be admitted as transient graduate students. They are required to ask the dean of their graduate school to complete the Transient Application form (G.S. Form 57) and return it to the Graduate School, 307 Johnston Hall, University of Minnesota, 101 Pleasant Street S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55455. Submission of a transcript of credits is not required.

Under no circumstances will students be permitted to register for more than one quarter or summer session as transient students. Persons originally registering under this status who wish to apply for regular admission must follow the application procedures outlined above.

Academic Staff—Members of the University of Minnesota staff holding academic appointments above the rank of instructor or research fellow are normally not permitted to complete a graduate degree at the University. Those who wish to register for courses and transfer them elsewhere may apply for admission for "course work only."

Readmission and Other Changes

Requests for readmission, change of major or degree objective, or change of campus within the Graduate School should be made on the Change of Status form (G.S. Form 72), available from the Graduate School office, 306 Johnston Hall. Processing of these requests requires a minimum of one month.

Readmission—Persons who have not registered in the Graduate School of the University of Minnesota for two consecutive years will be considered to have withdrawn. Students who subsequently wish to resume graduate work must request readmission on the Change of Status form.

Change of Major or Degree Objective—Students currently enrolled in the Graduate School who intend to change either their major or their degree objective from that originally approved by the Graduate School should request this change on the Change of Status form.

Change of Campus—Students currently enrolled in the Graduate School on one campus who wish to continue their studies on another campus should initiate this request through the Change of Status form. Graduate study is currently available on the Twin Cities campus and on the Duluth campus.

Office for Equal Opportunity in Graduate Study

This office, 415 Johnston Hall, assists minority and disadvantaged students with the admissions process and the identification of financial aid sources. It offers information on graduate opportunities available to minorities; counsels prospective graduate students; and maintains enrollment statistics on minorities and women.

General Information

Orientation to the Twin Cities Campus

Information about the resources and services of the University is available to all incoming graduate students through activities offered during the first week of each quarter. Orientation programs introduce students to University policies and procedures, facilities and services, and the Twin Cities community. Social and cultural programs provide opportunities for graduate students to meet each other, faculty and staff, and special guests. Panels and workshops on such topics as writing and research are offered periodically. For more information, contact the program coordinator, Graduate Student Information Program, 324 Coffman Memorial Union, University of Minnesota, 300 Washington Avenue S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55455 (612/624-1483).

Admitted students may request the Graduate Student Handbook (which features information on housing, health services, child care, jobs, and the Twin Cities area) from the Graduate School, 322 Johnston Hall, University of Minnesota, 101 Pleasant St. S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55455.

In addition to these University-wide orientation activities, many graduate programs offer orientation information specifically aimed at graduate students in their fields. For more information, contact the director of graduate studies in your program major.

Registration

The Graduate School operates on a quarter system, and registration ordinarily begins about six weeks before the opening of the term. Students registering after the beginning of classes will be charged a late fee. Students may not register after the last day of classes. Work is also offered in a variety of fields during two summer terms of five weeks each. For the University calendar and registration information, refer to the University's Summer Session Bulletin or quarterly Class Schedule.

Students must receive notification of admission from the Graduate School before registration is permitted.

Registration Requirements—Registration requirements for the various graduate degrees are specified in the subsections on degree requirements in this bulletin. In addition, the following requirements apply as appropriate.

1. The University requires that graduate students holding appointments as teaching assistants, research assistants, and administrative fellows register each term that an appointment is held. This does not apply to summer terms.

2. Each individual enrolled in a clinical residency or post-M.D. graduate training program sponsored by the University of Minnesota and directed by a clinical department of the Medical School is required to register either as a medical fellow in the Graduate School or as a medical fellow specialist in the Medical School.

3. Students receiving other types of financial aid from the University or other agencies, international students with certain types of visas, and students wishing to use various University services and facilities may have to meet specific registration requirements of other agencies or University units; they are responsible for securing information about such requirements from the appropriate offices.

Graduate students need not register for the sole purpose of taking final written or oral examinations for the master's degree, or for taking the preliminary written or oral examinations for the doctorate.

Varieties of Registration—There are currently four kinds of registration:

1. Registration for Course Work—The maximum number of credits for which a graduate student may register in a single quarter during the academic year is 16; in a single term during the summer session, 10. Exceptions are granted by the Graduate School office only in unusual circumstances.

2. Thesis Credit Registration—This type of registration is for students entering the Graduate School in fall quarter 1983 and later. Students completing a Plan A master's thesis or a professional master's degree in engineering are required to enroll for 16 master's thesis credits before receiving the degree. Students completing a doctoral degree are required to enroll for 36 doctoral thesis credits before receiving the degree. Thesis credit registration replaces doctoral candidate registration for students first registering in the Graduate School fall quarter 1983 and later. Students entering before fall quarter 1983 should not register for thesis credits.

3. Student Status Registration—This category is for students who are required to register for institutional reasons (e.g., to fulfill the registration requirement for a graduate assistantship). Students should check with the offices requiring registration to determine whether or not Student Status fulfills their registration requirements.

4. Doctoral Candidate (Continuous) Registration—This option is restricted to and required of doctoral students who entered the Graduate School before fall quarter 1983 and who have passed their preliminary oral examinations. (See Thesis Credit Registration above for the registration requirement for students entering fall quarter 1983 and later.) Doctoral Candidate Registration bears a special tuition rate. Students must begin their registration in the quarter following the successful completion of their preliminary oral examinations. (Eligibility must be established prior to the official opening of the quarter or term in which the student proposes to register in this category.) Doctoral students in the final quarter of registration are required to pay the final quarter fee, in addition to registering as doctoral candidates, in order to take the final oral examination. If the student does not graduate in the quarter or term in which the final oral examination is passed, he or she must resume doctoral candidate registration at the special tuition rate.

Note: Beginning fall quarter 1988, Continuous Registration will no longer exist as a category of registration. All students, regardless of their initial date of entry to the Graduate School, will be subject to the thesis credit requirement. This will include all students who are readmitted after a two-year absence, who change their major or degree objective, or who request an extension of time.

Changes in Registration—The addition, deletion, or change of a course registration up to the sixth week of a quarter requires the approval of only the adviser. Any change after the sixth week but before the end of a quarter requires approval of the adviser and the instructor. Students are not permitted to register or to change their registration after the last day of classes of a quarter.

Registration Holds—Reminders to students to file official programs and thesis proposals at appropriate times are generated as a part of registration, as are warnings and registration holds when students fail to meet Graduate School and major field standards for scholastic achievement and progress. If a student registers late or not at all, a notice may not be generated. However, this does not absolve the student from responsibility for complying with these requirements.

Tuition and Fees

For academic year tuition and fees, see the current General Information Bulletin or quarterly Class Schedule. For summer session tuition and fees, see the current Summer Session Bulletin.

Rate Structure—Students registering for 1 to 6 credits (part-time) do so on a per-credit basis. Students registering for 7 to 15 credits (full-time) do so on the basis of a flat rate. Registration for credits beyond 15 credits is on a per-credit basis.

Students admitted to the Graduate School in fall 1983 or later may register at half the full-time or part-time rate after completing a four-quarter Graduate School residency requirement for the master's, a six quarter requirement for the specialist certificate, and a nine-quarter requirement for the doctorate. Master's students who register at the half rate may not use those quarters to meet the six-quarter specialist or nine-quarter doctoral residency requirement. Specialist students who register at the half rate may not use those quarters to meet the nine-quarter doctoral residency requirement. However, courses taken during quarters of half-rate registration may be used to meet credit and distribution requirements for higher degrees.

General Information

"Course work only" students register for courses at half the full-time or part-time rate. If they are later admitted to a graduate degree program, quarters registered for at the half rate may not be used to meet residency requirements.

Residency—For the doctoral degree, a residency requirement of nine quarters of full-time registration (7 credits per quarter or more) is required. Doctoral thesis credits may be used to fulfill this requirement.

For the master's degree, a residency requirement of four quarters of full-time registration (7 credits per quarter or more) is required. Plan A thesis credits may be used to fulfill this requirement.

Students registering for 1 to 6 credits in a quarter accumulate one-tenth of a quarter's residency for each credit taken. Graduate students registering for 1xxx and 3xxx courses may use them to meet residency requirements.

The above rate structure and residency requirements apply without exception to all students entering the Graduate School fall quarter 1984 and after.

Students entering from fall quarter 1983 through summer session 1984 have the option to come under the new rate structure in its entirety. If they do not exercise this option they will still be required to register within the system minus the residency requirements.

Students who entered the Graduate School before fall quarter 1983 are required to register within the rate structure minus the residency requirements.

Students transferring into a doctoral program fall quarter 1984 and after who have one or more master's degrees from another institution will be credited with four quarters of residency toward the nine-quarter doctoral residency requirement if the doctoral program recognizes their degree(s).

Students who enter the Graduate School fall quarter 1984 and after with authorized credit transfers may use them to meet residency requirements as follows: if entering a master's program—one-tenth of a quarter's residency for each authorized transfer quarter credit up to a maximum of one and eight-tenths quarters of residency; if entering a doctoral program—one-tenth of a quarter's residency for each authorized transfer quarter credit up to a maximum of three quarters of residency.

Grading System

The Graduate School uses two grading systems, A-B-C-D-F and S-N. Except in courses in which grading has been restricted to one system or the other with approval of the Graduate School, students have the option of choosing the system under which they will be graded. Students must declare a choice of grading system as part of their initial registration. Any change in the grading system must be made with the instructor within the first two weeks of the term. For information about courses in which grading is restricted, students should consult the department offering the course (see also Minimum Grade Requirements under Master's Degree or Doctor of Philosophy Degree below).

Incomplete Grades—Course instructors may, at their discretion, place a time limit for the removal of incomplete grades. The maximum number of credits of incompletes allowable at any given time is established by each department for its majors.

Retaking Courses¹—The Graduate School discourages the retaking of courses to improve grades. Permission of the course instructor and the major adviser is required. If a course is retaken, all registrations for the course will remain on the student's record.

Credit Hour Definition

The credit hour, as defined by the University of Minnesota Senate, is equivalent to three hours of work by the student per week. Independent study courses, workshops, clinics, and practicums are also assigned credit on this basis. So, 1 quarter credit involves three hours of student work per week for ten weeks, or thirty hours total.

Student Records

The Office of Registration, Student Records, and Scheduling of the University maintains and releases the official student transcripts. Requests must be submitted in person or in writing, accompanied by a fee, to the Certification Service, 155 Williamson Hall, 231 Pillsbury Drive S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Transfer of Credits

Tuition Differential—For all Continuing Education and Extension (CEE) course work taken fall 1980 or later and adult special course work taken fall 1984 or later, and then transferred to a graduate degree program, students must pay the difference between the CEE or adult special tuition rates and the Graduate School tuition rate in effect at the time the credits are transferred.

For the Master's Degree—Unless otherwise specified in Fields of Instruction, the following rules apply to transfer of credits.

Master's degree students are required by the Graduate School to complete at least 60 percent of the course work (excluding thesis credits) for their official degree programs (see Master's Degree below) as registered Graduate School students. With the approval of the adviser and director of graduate studies in the major (and the director of graduate studies in the minor if the courses are for a designated minor), the transfer of up to 40 percent of the degree course work from any desired combination of the following is permitted:

1. Other recognized graduate schools.
2. Adult special, summer session, and CEE status at the University of Minnesota.

Individual graduate programs may, at their option, specify a lower percentage of course work for transfer.

The work to be transferred must be graduate level (postbaccalaureate), must have been taken for graduate credit, and must have been taught by faculty members authorized to teach graduate courses. CEE courses must bear the special CEE transcript entry verifying that they were completed for graduate credit. Credits transferred from other institutions must appear on official graduate school transcripts of the institutions. Credit for courses completed through independent (correspondence) study, and credit for courses completed through extension or special categories at other institutions, may not be transferred.

The transfer of credits is accomplished by the inclusion of the courses on the proposed degree program.

For the Doctoral Degree—Transfer of graduate credit is not allowed for courses completed through independent (correspondence) study or taken prior to the awarding of the baccalaureate degree. In the following cases, transfer of credits is accomplished by inclusion of the courses on the proposed degree program; official transcripts of the work must be attached.

From Adult Special or Summer Special Status—Students admitted to and registered in the Graduate School may transfer to their graduate programs the graduate-level credits earned in their first academic quarter as adult special students, or in their first summer session (both terms in the same calendar year) as summer special students at the University of Minnesota. Such work must be graduate level and must be offered by members of the faculty approved to teach graduate courses, and students must complete the work required of graduate students in the courses.

From Continuing Education and Extension—A maximum of 12 credits of graduate-level work completed in Continuing Education and Extension (CEE) may be transferred to the graduate program. This applies only to credits earned in CEE at the University of Minnesota; graduate-level extension credits earned at other institutions may not be transferred. University extension courses must bear the special CEE transcript entry showing they were completed for graduate credit.

From Other Graduate Institutions—Graduate credits (including up to 8 thesis credits) from a master's degree earned at other recognized graduate institutions may be applied to doctoral degrees if credits appear on official graduate school transcripts.

For the Specialist Certificate—For education fields, see Specialist in Education below.

Master's Degree

Two Plans for the Master's Degree—The Graduate School offers the master's degree under two plans: Plan A, involving a thesis, and Plan B, which substitutes additional course work and special projects for the thesis. For plans offered in each major, consult Fields of Instruction.

Registration Requirement—At least 60 percent of the course work for the master's degree must be completed while registered in the Graduate School; individual programs may require a higher percentage.

Registration Requirement for the Clinical Medical Fields—For the master's degree in a clinical subject with designated field, (e.g., M.S.Surg.), a minimum of three calendar years are required. For the master's degree in a clinical subject without a designated field, a minimum of two calendar years are required. Registration requirements for each clinical medical field appear in Fields of Instruction. Thesis credits cannot be used to satisfy any of the above registration requirements.

Time Requirement for the Master's Degree—All requirements for the master's degree must be completed within seven years. The seven-year period begins with the earliest work included on the official degree program, including any transfer work applied. The graduate faculty in a specific program may set more stringent time requirements.

Official Program for the Degree—After completing 15 credits, and ordinarily not later than the third quarter of registration (the second year for the longer programs), students must file with the Graduate School an official proposed program for the degree. The program form is available in the Graduate School office. On it students list all course work, completed and proposed, that will be offered in fulfillment of degree requirements; this includes transfer work (see Transfer of Credits above). If a foreign language is required, the one to be offered is specified. If the degree is being completed under Plan A, students also include the thesis proposal. On the basis of this program, the members of students' final examining committees, and the thesis readers for Plan A, are appointed.

The minimum credit requirements for the program are specified below under the two plans for the degree.

Official Program for the Degree in the Clinical Medical Fields—Students are encouraged to submit their programs and thesis titles before the end of the second year of registration. Approval by the program faculty and the Graduate School indicates a student's admission to candidacy for the degree. Students should include on the official program forms only the minimum number of credits actually required for the award of the degree, rather than the full complement of credits taken during the course of the residency program.

Changes in the Approved Program—Once approved, the program must be fulfilled in every detail to meet graduation requirements. Alterations in the program that are found necessary or desirable should be requested by Petition form.

Minimum Grade Requirements—The minimum grade point average required by the Graduate School for courses included on the official program for any master's degree is 2.80 (on a 4.00 scale). Grades of A, B, C, and S are acceptable, but grades of S are not calculated in the grade point average. At least two-thirds of the credits taken in the Graduate School and included on any degree program must be taken under the A-F system.

Individual major fields may set higher grade requirements, and students should be familiar with special requirements in their major field.

Language Requirement for the Master's Degree—See Fields of Instruction to determine the language requirement, if any, for a specific field. The Graduate School monitors the fulfillment of language study when a department requires a language. Information about how to demonstrate proficiency and the conditions under which proficiency will be recorded on the official transcript is available from the Graduate School office.

Clearance for Graduation—Degrees are granted at the end of each month. To qualify for graduation for a particular month, students must pay the degree application fee on or before the first workday of that month and must complete the examination and all other requirements (including necessary forms) by the last workday of that month.

Two Graduate School commencement ceremonies are held each year—in late spring (for January through June graduates) and in late fall (for July through December graduates). Graduates are encouraged, but not required, to attend. To make sure their name appears in the program distributed at the commencement ceremony, graduates must pay the degree application fee by April 15 for the spring ceremony or by the first workday in November for the fall ceremony.

Plan A: Master's Degree With Thesis

Minimum Credit Requirements—Students must complete a minimum of 20 quarter credits in the major field, a minimum of 8 quarter credits in one or more related fields outside the major, and 16 thesis credits to constitute the minimum of 44 quarter credits required for the degree.

Students who wish to complete a designated minor (which will be certified on the transcript—unlike the related fields option, which will not be) must complete 9 or more quarter credits in a single field. A designated minor must be approved by the director of graduate studies in the field.

For majors in clinical branches, the minor or related fields must be in nonclinical fields that will serve as a basis for the proposed clinical specialization. This fundamental work should be concentrated in the first part of the program. Familiarity with those phases of the nonclinical disciplines essential to proficiency in the major specialty is required.

Master's Thesis—The thesis title is submitted for approval as a part of the student's official degree program. Instructions for preparation of the thesis should be obtained from the Graduate School office.

Language of the Thesis—Theses must normally be written in English, the language of instruction. However, in some fields of study, a language other than English may be used provided there is a scholarly reason for its use. When the degree program is submitted, a justification for the use of a foreign language, signed by the adviser and director of graduate studies, should be attached. The statement should attest that the recommended thesis reviewers (including the outside reviewer) are qualified to read, comprehend, and criticize a thesis in the foreign language.

Thesis Credits—Students first registered in the Graduate School fall quarter 1983 or later must enroll for 16 master's thesis credits before receiving the degree. Students cannot include thesis credits in the total program credits when determining maximum transfer allowed (see Transfer of Credit above). They also cannot transfer thesis credits from other graduate institutions, double-count thesis credits between two master's degrees, or use thesis credits to meet the minimum major and related field course work requirements for the degree.

Registration of the Thesis Title—Students must register the thesis title with the Graduate School, 316 Johnston Hall, by submitting a copy of the thesis title page as it will appear in the final document. Upon submission of the thesis title, the Graduate School will provide the student with the Thesis Reviewer's Report form and the other forms and information necessary to graduate.

Thesis Reviewers—The thesis will be read by a committee of at least three members, as appointed by the dean of the Graduate School on recommendation of the program faculty at the time of approval of the student's official degree program. All members of the examining committee must have at least two weeks to read the thesis. The examining committee will ordinarily include at least two representatives from the major field and one from the minor or a related field. This committee must be unanimous in certifying that the thesis is ready for defense.

Thesis Binding—Two copies of the thesis must be bound in maroon and submitted to the Graduate School office.

Final Examinations—Candidates for the master's degree, Plan A, must pass a final oral examination; a final written examination may also be required at the discretion of the graduate faculty in the major field. If both a written and an oral examination are specified, the written examination must precede the oral examination.

The final examination covers the major and minor or related fields and may include any work fundamental thereto. This examination is coordinated by the chair of the student's examining committee. A majority vote of the committee, all members present and voting, is required for a pass. Results are reported to the Graduate School on a Final Examination Report form, which is issued to the student when the form certifying that the thesis is ready for defense is submitted. In case of failure, unanimous consent of the examining committee is required to retake the examination.

Plan B: Master's Degree Without Thesis

Minimum Credit Requirements—Students must complete a minimum of 20 quarter credits in the major field and a minimum of 8 quarter credits in one or more related fields outside the major. The balance of the credits to be completed to meet the 44-credit minimum requirement for the degree will be chosen by agreement between the adviser and the student, subject to whatever restrictions the graduate faculty in the major field may place on that choice.

Students who wish to complete a designated minor (which will be certified on the transcript—unlike the related fields option, which will not be) must complete 9 or more quarter credits in a single field. A designated minor must be approved by the director of graduate studies in the field.

Plan B Project(s)—Students must demonstrate familiarity with the tools of research or scholarship in their field, the ability to work independently, and the ability to present the results of their investigation effectively, by completing at least one Plan B project. The graduate faculty in each major field may require as many as three such projects.

The Plan B project(s) should involve approximately three nominal weeks or 120 hours of work. The graduate faculty in each major field specifies both the nature and extent of the options available to satisfy this requirement and whether the requirement is to be satisfied in conjunction with or independent of the courses in the student's program.

Final Examinations—The Graduate School requires a final examination for Plan B candidates; this may be written, oral, or both, at the discretion of the graduate faculty in the major field. A committee of at least three examiners is appointed by the dean of the Graduate School upon recommendation of the program faculty at the time of the approval of the official degree program. The committee will include one member from outside the major field. Students will make the Plan B project(s) available to the examining committee for its review. A majority vote of the committee, all members present and voting, is required to pass. The vote is reported to the Graduate School on a form the student must obtain from the Graduate School office before taking the examination. In case of failure, unanimous consent of the examining committee is required to retake the master's final examination.

Professional Master's Degree in Engineering

A number of engineering departments offer programs, with emphasis on design methods, leading to a designated professional master of engineering degree. The design emphasis of the program is on engineering applications rather than on engineering methods or material behavior, and on application of knowledge and methods of the physical and social sciences as well as of engineering. The programs are designed primarily for students who have already earned a bachelor's degree in a related engineering field. Students normally are expected to be recent B.S. in engineering graduates from Engineers' Council for Professional Development (ECPD) accredited programs. Full-time students should be able to complete a program in one calendar year (a minimum of three quarters of registration).

Regular Graduate School application procedures should be followed. Applicants should designate the master of engineering as their degree objective, to distinguish it from the master of science degree also available in the engineering fields.

Credit Requirements—Students must complete a minimum of 20 quarter credits in the major field, a minimum of 8 quarter credits in one or more related fields outside the major, and 16 thesis credits to constitute the minimum of 44 quarter credits required for the degree.

If students wish to complete a designated minor (which will be certified on the transcript—unlike the related fields option, which will not be), they must complete 9 or more quarter credits in a single field (making the minimum requirement for a degree with a designated minor 45 credits, including thesis credits). Credits must be in graduate-level courses in which a minimum grade point average of 2.80 is maintained. A designated minor must be approved by the director of graduate studies in that field.

Design Project—A design project is a major component of the master of engineering program. It emphasizes problem solving based on engineering design criteria used in industry. Performance of professional caliber, which can be subjected to the critique of senior design engineers in industry as well as engineering faculty members, is expected. Approximately 20 weeks are spent on the project.

Registration of the Design Project Title—Students must register the design project title with the Graduate School, 316 Johnston Hall, by submitting a copy of the design project title page as it will appear in the final document. Upon submission of the design project title, the Graduate School provides the students with the Design Project Reviewer's Report form and other forms and information necessary to graduate.

General Information

Examination—Students must pass a project examination given by a committee appointed by the dean of the Graduate School.

Project Binding—Two copies of the design project report must be bound and submitted to the Graduate School.

Fields in Which the Program is Offered—Refer to the appropriate engineering department sections under Fields of Instruction for information about the fields in which the master of engineering program is offered.

Master of Fine Arts

Prerequisites—Admission to master of fine arts programs is limited to students with the bachelor's degree or its equivalent from an accredited university or college who demonstrate exceptional promise as creative artists in one or more of the subfields in their major area. For a list of the subfields, see Studio Arts and Theatre Arts under Fields of Instruction.

Course Requirements—Candidates must normally complete from 65 to 90 credits, depending upon their previous preparation. At least 45 credits must be earned at the University of Minnesota. A minimum of 9 credits in the history or literature of art, theatre, or music and a minimum of 8 credits in areas of study outside of the major department are required.

Creative Project—Students must complete a creative project (production, recital, or exhibition), which will be accompanied by a supporting paper that deals with the planning or execution of the creative work.

Final Examinations—Candidates will take a final oral examination, a final written examination, or both, at the discretion of the graduate faculty in the major field. The examination(s) will be administered by a committee appointed by the dean at the time of approval of the official degree program. A majority vote of the examining committee, all members present and voting, is required for a pass. The results are reported to the Graduate School on a form students obtain from the Graduate School office before taking the examination.

Specialist in Education

The Graduate School offers two-year specialist programs in several education fields (see Education, Educational Administration under Educational Policy and Administration, and Educational Psychology in the Fields of Instruction section for specific fields and program descriptions). These programs require completion of a minimum of 90 credits. Students ordinarily complete the requirements for the master's degree with a major in the field of the specialty as the first year of the program. All first-year students must meet regular admission, candidacy, and examination requirements for the master of arts degree and should specify as their degree objective the master's degree on the application form. A decision regarding continuation beyond the master's degree in a specialist program will depend on an evaluation of performance in meeting the master's requirements.

Qualifying examinations in specific areas may be required of students who transfer credits from other institutions by the major adviser and the department faculty. Such examinations are designed to aid students and their advisers in planning the program for the specialist in education certificate and will be taken before students file their program.

All students in the specialist program must earn a minimum of 45 credits in residence at the University of Minnesota, distributed in a manner approved by the adviser and the graduate faculty in the area of specialization. At least 30 credits of the second year of the program must be earned at the University of Minnesota.

The program can be completed in two years but must be completed in 12 years. Graduate credits earned previous to the 12-year span will be evaluated by the graduate faculty in the area of specialization and may be recommended to the Graduate School for acceptance on a full or partial basis.

Doctor of Philosophy Degree

The doctor of philosophy degree is granted chiefly in recognition of high attainment and ability in a special subject field as demonstrated, first, by passing the required examinations covering both a candidate's general and special subject fields and, second, by the preparation of a thesis that is based on original research and makes a significant contribution to knowledge in the student's field.

Registration Requirement for the Doctoral Degree—Registration in the Graduate School for at least nine quarters is required. The following registration requirements also apply to doctoral students:

1. Students first registered in the Graduate School before fall quarter 1983 must maintain candidacy by registering continuously and paying candidacy fees during the academic year (fall, winter, spring quarters) from the quarter after passing the preliminary oral examination until the doctorate is awarded. Registration for the first or second summer term (or both terms) fulfills the candidate registration requirement for the academic quarter(s) immediately following [see Doctoral Candidate (Continuous) Registration under Registration above].

2. Students first registered in the Graduate School fall quarter 1983 or later are required to enroll for 36 doctoral thesis credits before receiving the degree (see Thesis Credit Registration under Registration above).

Official Program for the Degree—Students are expected to file their official programs for the degree in the second year of study; the specific quarter depends upon individual major field requirements. Students should submit their programs at least two quarters prior to the term in which they plan to take the preliminary oral examination. The program form is available in the Graduate School office. It should contain all course work, completed and proposed, that will be offered in fulfillment of degree requirements in the major field and in the minor or supporting program fields; this includes transfer work (see Transfer of Credits above). Students should also specify the foreign languages, if any, that will be offered in fulfillment of the department requirement. On the basis of the program, the members of the students' preliminary oral examining committees will be appointed by the dean of the Graduate School.

Minimum Grade Requirements—Grades of A, B, C, and S are acceptable, but grades of S are not calculated in the grade point average. At least two-thirds of the credits completed in the Graduate School and included on any degree program must be taken under the A-F system.

Major Work—There is no minimum number of credits specified for the major by the Graduate School. Frequently, depending on previous preparation, the length of programs for individual students, even within the same field, may vary considerably.

Minor or Supporting Program Work—At least 18 quarter credits must be offered in the minor or supporting program. With a traditional minor, this work will be in a single field related to the major. If the student is offering a supporting program, it must be composed of a coherent pattern of courses possibly embracing several disciplines. Students electing the supporting program option may be required to take written preliminary examinations in the fields included, but will not be expected to have competency in each of the fields comparable to that of a person with a traditional minor.

For majors in clinical branches, the minor or supporting programs must be in nonclinical fields that will serve as a basis for the proposed clinical specialization. This fundamental work should be concentrated in the first part of the program. Familiarity with those phases of the nonclinical disciplines essential to proficiency in the major specialty is required.

Language Requirement—See Fields of Instruction to determine the language requirement, if any, for a specific program. The Graduate School monitors the fulfillment of language study when a department requires a language. Information about how to demonstrate proficiency and the conditions under which proficiency will be recorded on the official transcript is available from the Graduate School office.

Changes in the Approved Program—Once approved, the program must be fulfilled in every detail to meet graduation requirements. Changes that are found necessary or desirable should be requested by Petition form.

Official Doctoral Candidacy—Candidacy is established when students have passed the preliminary oral examination.

Time Limit for Earning the Doctoral Degree—Doctoral candidates must complete all requirements and receive the degree within a maximum of five calendar years after passing the preliminary oral examination. Petitions for extension of the time limit must be submitted before the expiration of the five years. Failure to receive the doctoral degree within the five-year period may necessitate retaking the preliminary oral examination. The graduate faculty in the degree programs may establish more stringent time limitations.

Preliminary Written and Oral Examinations

Preliminary Written Examination—A written examination in the major subject will be given by the graduate faculty in the major field, generally before the preliminary oral examination is given. This examination covers all work completed in the major field and may include any work fundamental thereto. It is the student's responsibility to ensure that the results of the written examination are reported immediately to the Graduate School office. A form for this purpose, available in the Graduate School office, requires the signatures of the adviser and the director of graduate studies in the major field.

Preliminary Oral Examination—The student will take the preliminary oral examination after completing a substantial part of the course work and passing the preliminary written examination (except in those instances where the written follows the oral), but prior to writing the dissertation. The examination will be administered by the committee appointed by the dean, upon recommendation of the program faculty, on the basis of the official doctoral program.

Preliminary Oral Examining Committee—The examining committee will include a minimum of five members, three from the field of the major and two from the field of the minor or supporting program.

Changes in the Preliminary Oral Examining Committee—Substitutions on the examining committee, which may be necessitated, for example, by the departure or absence on leave of a faculty member, must be requested by the adviser or the director of graduate studies through the Graduate School office well in advance of the examination.

Scheduling the Preliminary Oral Examination—It is the responsibility of the student to schedule the preliminary oral with the examiners and with the Graduate School office at least one week in advance. In certain of the health science areas, however, one month's notice must be given. The Graduate School must have on file an approved degree program and a report that the student passed the preliminary written examination before the oral examination can be scheduled.

The Graduate School issues the report form for the preliminary oral examination to the student's adviser, and informs both the student and the adviser if the language requirement or course work on the official program has not yet been completed. The preliminary oral will be authorized in spite of such deficiencies, but deficiencies must be completed before the final oral may be scheduled.

Preliminary oral examinations will not be scheduled from the beginning of the second term of summer session to the opening of the fall quarter, unless the members of the assigned committee can be assembled without substitution.

Preliminary Oral Examination Content and Outcome—The preliminary oral examination covers the major field, the minor field or supporting program, and any work fundamental thereto, including possible plans for thesis research.

Immediately prior to the preliminary oral examination, the committee chair will clearly stipulate the objectives of the examination and, in consultation with other members of the examining committee, determine how the examination is to be conducted. Immediately after the preliminary oral examination, the candidate will be excused from the room and a written vote will be taken before discussion of the examination. Following discussion, a second and final vote will be taken, and the participants will sign in the appropriate place on the report form.

The outcome of the examination, with all committee members present and voting, will be recorded in one of three possible ways: passed, passed with reservations, or failed. The voting proportions necessary for these decisions are as follows: if the committee consists of five members, a favorable verdict for passing will consist of either a unanimous vote or a vote of 4-1; if the committee consists of six members, a favorable vote for passing will consist of a unanimous vote or a vote of 5-1 or 4-2; and if the committee consists of seven members, a favorable vote for passing will consist of a unanimous vote or a vote of 6-1 or 5-2. Candidates who do not earn committee votes in these proportions will fail. If, in order to achieve the minimum number of votes to reach a verdict of pass, any vote of pass with reservations is included, then the outcome is recorded as a pass with reservations.

Reporting the Results—The examining Committee will report the results of the preliminary oral examination to the Graduate School office. If the committee decides that a student passed the examination with reservations, it must inform the student immediately. The committee has one week, however, to send the student a letter that clearly stipulates the reservations and the steps required to remove them. A copy of this letter must be forwarded to the Graduate School. A second letter informing the student that the reservations have been satisfied is also required; again, a copy must be forwarded to the Graduate School. The chair of the preliminary oral examination committee should write both letters on the committee's behalf. The final oral examination cannot be scheduled until the Graduate School receives a copy of the second letter.

General Information

Failure of the Examination—Students failing the preliminary oral (a) may be allowed, on unanimous recommendation of the examining committee, to retake the examination or (b) may be excluded from candidacy for the degree. In no case may the reexamination take place before at least one full academic quarter has passed. No more than two preliminary oral examinations are allowed.

Ph.D. Thesis

The thesis must demonstrate the student's originality and ability for independent investigation, and the results of the research must constitute a contribution to knowledge. The thesis must exhibit the student's mastery of the literature of the subject and familiarity with the sources. The subject matter must be presented with a satisfactory degree of literary skill.

Thesis Proposal—At the time of submission of the doctoral program, or not later than the first quarter after passing the preliminary oral examination, students must file the thesis title form and statement in the Graduate School office. The thesis title form is available from that office. The statement, approximately 250 words in length, must describe the research to be undertaken and the methods to be employed in carrying it out.

On the basis of the thesis proposal, the thesis reviewers and other members of the final oral examining committee will be appointed by the dean of the Graduate School upon recommendation of the program faculty.

Changes in the Thesis Title—Changes in the wording of the thesis title may be made without special approval, but changes should not be made after the thesis title is registered (see Registration of the Thesis Title and Timely Delivery of the Thesis to Thesis Reviewers below). If the substance of the proposal should change markedly in the course of the research, a revised proposal should be submitted immediately.

Language of the Thesis—Theses must normally be written in English, the language of instruction. However, in some fields of study, a language other than English may be used provided there is a scholarly reason for its use. When the thesis statement is submitted, a justification for the use of a foreign language, signed by the adviser and director of graduate studies, should be attached. The statement should attest that the recommended thesis reviewers (including the outside reviewer) are qualified to read, comprehend, and criticize a thesis in the foreign language.

Preparation of the Thesis—Instructions for the preparation of the thesis should be obtained from the Graduate School office.

The Use of Published Work in the Thesis—The thesis may include materials that students have published while University of Minnesota graduate students, provided the research was carried out under the direction of the graduate faculty and approved by the adviser for incorporation into the thesis. The adviser should notify the Graduate School in writing of the intention to publish a part of the material, but no approval is required.

Registration of the Thesis Title and Timely Delivery of the Thesis to Thesis Reviewers—Students must register the thesis title with the Graduate School, 316 Johnston Hall, by submitting a copy of the thesis title page as it will appear in the final document. Upon submission of the thesis title, the Graduate School will provide the student with the Thesis Reviewer's Report form and the other forms necessary to graduate.

At the time the candidate submits the thesis to the thesis reviewers, copies must also be provided to all other members of the final oral examining committee. All members of the committee must have at least two weeks to read the thesis, which assures sufficient time to decide whether the thesis is ready for defense.

The thesis abstract must be included with the thesis when it is distributed to the committee. It also must be signed by the adviser before it is submitted to the Graduate School, which will forward it to University Microfilms.

The final oral must be scheduled with the Graduate School seven or more days after the thesis is judged ready for defense, but at least one week before the proposed examination date.

Thesis Reviewers—All members of the final oral examining committee will read the thesis, although only those designated as thesis reviewers will sign the report form certifying that the thesis is ready for defense.

The designated thesis reviewers will consist of the adviser and at least two other members of the final oral examining committee, including at least one representative from the minor or supporting program. The committee to certify that the thesis is ready to defend shall at least partially be made up of individuals other than those on the thesis advisory committee, when such committees are used by programs. The committee must be unanimous in certifying that the thesis is ready for defense before the student can take the final oral examination.

Certification of the thesis as ready for defense is a necessary step toward the final oral examination but in no way diminishes the significance of that examination.

Final Oral Examination

To be eligible for the final oral examination, the student must have completed all work on the official doctoral program including the language requirement (if any) and must have passed both the written and oral preliminary examinations. In addition, the thesis must have been certified by the readers as ready for defense. The examination will be conducted by a committee appointed at the time of approval of the thesis proposal and consisting minimally of the adviser, two additional thesis reviewers, and two other members of the graduate faculty. The examination covers the candidate's thesis and special field of study. It will not exceed three hours.

Scheduling the Final Oral with the Graduate School—The examination must be scheduled by the student one week in advance (see Clearance for Graduation below) with the committee and with the Graduate School. In certain of the health science fields the faculty requires 30 days' notice of the date of the final oral.

When the examination is scheduled the file will be checked to determine that the student is clear to take the examination as stipulated above, and, if so, the report form for the final oral examination will be forwarded to the adviser.

If time permits, the date of the examination will be publicly announced, and any member of the scholarly community may attend (see Form of the Final Oral Examination below).

The final oral cannot be scheduled during the same quarter in which the student takes the preliminary oral, or from the beginning of the second summer term to the opening of the fall quarter unless the committee members can be assembled without substitution.

Final Oral Examining Committee—Although the student's adviser will serve as a member of the final oral examining committee, another member of the committee will be designated as the chair and will function in this capacity at the final oral examination. The chair must be a full member of the graduate faculty, and may be from the minor or supporting program. The Graduate School dean will appoint the chair and other members of the final oral examining committee upon recommendation of the director of graduate studies in the major field. The final oral examining committee should consist minimally of five members, three from the major and two from the minor or supporting program, at least two of whom normally represent a graduate program and budgetary unit other than that of the student's major.

Changes in the Final Oral Examining Committee—See Changes in the Preliminary Oral Examining Committee above.

General Information

Form of the Final Oral Examination—

The final oral examination consists of a seminar in which the candidate presents the thesis and to which the scholarly community is invited. A closed meeting between the candidate and the appointed examining committee immediately follows the thesis presentation. The candidate is then excused and the vote taken on whether she or he passed the examination. The seminar may take place only after the thesis has been judged ready for defense. The final oral examination is limited to the thesis subject and relevant areas.

The adviser should be responsible for ensuring the inclusion of appropriate modifications and required revisions, if any, in the final thesis. The final oral examination report form should not be signed and submitted to the Graduate School until all reservations have been satisfied.

Reporting the Results of the Final Oral—

Upon completion of the examination, a formal vote of the committee is taken. To be recommended for the award of the doctoral degree, candidates must receive a vote with no more than one dissenting member of the total examining committee. The results must be reported to the Graduate School on the Final Oral Examination Report form.

Clearance for Graduation—Degrees are granted at the end of each month. To qualify for graduation for a particular month, students must pay the degree application fee on or before the first workday of that month and must complete the examination and all other requirements (including necessary forms and fees) by the last workday of that month.

Two Graduate School commencement ceremonies are held each year—in late spring (for January through June graduates) and in late fall (for July through December graduates). Graduates are encouraged, but not required, to attend. To make sure their name appears in the program distributed at the commencement ceremony, graduates must pay the degree application fee by April 15 for the spring ceremony or by the first workday in November for the fall ceremony.

Doctor of Education Degree

The University of Minnesota awards the doctor of education (Ed.D.), its highest professional degree in the fields of educational administration, industrial education, and vocational education, in recognition of satisfactory academic preparation and demonstrated competence for professional activity in those fields.

Standards and procedures for admission and expectations for scholastic performance are, in general, comparable to those for the Ph.D. A major part of the program must be conducted in full-time residence, including at least one continuous academic year at advanced stages of the program. Rules and procedures governing examinations, candidacy, time limits, appointment of committees, and the thesis for the Ph.D. apply in general to the Ed.D.

Program for the Degree—The Ed.D. program requires the completion of a major, a minor or a supporting program, and a collateral field of study. A foreign language is not required. A significant proportion of the graduate course work, usually at least one-fifth of the total program, should be completed in fields other than education.

A supervised internship or clinical experience is an integral part of the program and must be completed by each candidate.

Field Problem—Candidates for the Ed.D. must complete an extended essay that demonstrates the ability to carry out an independent and meaningful study of a problem relevant to the field.

Examinations—Satisfactory performance on both a written comprehensive examination conducted by the major department and a preliminary oral examination conducted by a committee of graduate faculty members is required to establish candidacy for the degree. These examinations assess students' scholarly mastery of the subject matter of their major field and their general readiness and qualifications to pursue the Ed.D.

The final examination committee will be appointed by the dean of the Graduate School upon recommendation of the program faculty. It will consist of three readers and two others who are qualified to assess the student's professional competency. In the final examination students are expected to defend the essay and their general qualifications for the degree.

For detailed requirements, see Doctor of Philosophy Degree above.

Doctor of Musical Arts

The program for the professional doctor of musical arts (D.M.A.) degree has a performance-teaching orientation. Programs are offered in the areas of piano, voice, trumpet, clarinet, and organ. Standards and procedures for admission and expectations for scholastic performance are, in general, comparable to those for the Ph.D. Details concerning major and minor requirements, recitals, and supporting papers for the D.M.A. are included in the Music section under Fields of Instruction.

Doctor of Philosophy (Designated) in Clinical Medicine

In the clinical fields, the Ph.D. is always a degree with designation. See Doctor of Philosophy Degree above and individual clinical medicine fields under Fields of Instruction for requirements.

Termination of Graduate Student Status

When performance is unsatisfactory in terms of grades or normal progress, as established and promulgated by the graduate faculty in the major field, graduate student status may be terminated. All guidelines stated in this bulletin are minimal requirements, and each program is free to set more specific terms by which progress will be measured for purposes of continuation. Students are encouraged to check with their major departments for complete information about these procedures and requirements.

Council of Graduate Students

The Council of Graduate Students (COGS) is the official governing body representing all students in the Graduate School. Graduate students in each degree-granting program are entitled to one representative to serve on the council. These representatives provide a communication link between COGS and the students in each program. Students have the opportunity to actively participate in University administrative and policy decisions affecting graduate students by becoming members of COGS or by representing it on Graduate School and University committees. COGS members meet five times yearly.

COGS serves as an informal ombudsman in investigating certain student complaints. Information pertinent to graduate students is distributed via the Gradletter, a newsletter published five times a year. COGS also has information sheets on housing, student government, and grievance procedures.

Students with questions, problems, or suggestions should contact COGS, 418 Johnston Hall, University of Minnesota, 101 Pleasant Street S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55455 (612/626-1612).

Committee on Institutional Cooperation Traveling Scholar Program

The University of Minnesota is a participant in the Traveling Scholar Program for graduate students enrolled in CIC (Committee on Institutional Cooperation) institutions. The 11 participating universities are the members of the "Big Ten" and the University of Chicago.

The program enables doctoral students at any CIC university to take advantage of educational opportunities—specialized courses, unique library collections, unusual laboratories—at any other CIC university without change in registration or increase in fees. Students may take advantage of these educational opportunities for three quarters or two semesters.

Graduate students interested in graduate course offerings not available at the University of Minnesota should confer first with their major department and major adviser concerning which of the cooperating institutions to select for program enrichment and diversification. Information on procedures for participation in the Traveling Scholar Program is available at the Graduate School Fellowship Office.

Use of Human Subjects in Research

All Twin Cities, Duluth, and Morris campus research that involves the use of human subjects must be reviewed and approved by the University Committee on the Use of Human Subjects in Research. This policy, approved by the University Senate and Board of Regents, applies to both funded and nonfunded faculty and student research. Any individual student research project (e.g., Plan B project, thesis, dissertation) that involves human subjects must be approved by this committee prior to initiation of the research. For additional information, visit or contact the committee office at 1919 University Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55104 (612/624-9829).

Grievance Procedures

Academic Freedom and Responsibility—Grievance procedures relating to academic freedom and responsibility are governed by the University Senate statement on Academic Freedom and Responsibility of December 17, 1970, and the Revised Report of the University Appeals Committee on Academic Freedom and Responsibility of April 18, 1974. As a consequence of these policies, each department or program has available a set of operating procedures to deal with both the formal and informal aspects of possible grievance matters; often these procedures are spelled out in a department's or program's handbook for graduate students or are available upon request in the department or program office. Also as a consequence of the two senate policies, each department or program has established a standing committee on grievances to conduct hearings and make recommendations in those cases that reach the formal grievance stage. In general, it is best for graduate students with a potential grievance to seek the advice and assistance of their adviser or director of graduate studies and the department or program chairperson. In the event that the nature of the potential grievance precludes such inquiry and discussion, graduate students may wish to seek advice from the Graduate School grievance officer by contacting the Graduate School dean's office. There is a Graduate School Grievance Committee, but its function is essentially limited to hearing appeals from department or program grievance committees.

Sexual Harassment—Policies and procedures pertaining to sexual harassment are contained in the University Senate's policy statement of May 17, 1984. As the introduction to the statement notes, sexual harassment undermines the mission of the University and jeopardizes the careers of students, faculty, and staff. The statement defines sexual harassment in this manner:

"Unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature constitute sexual harassment when (1) submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of an individual's employment or academic advancement, (2) submission to or rejection of such conduct by an individual is used as the basis for employment decisions or academic decisions affecting such individual, or (3) such conduct has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual's work or academic performance or creating an intimidating, hostile, or offensive working or academic environment."

Individuals seeking information and guidance in matters involving sexual harassment should contact Patricia A. Mullen, Entry-Level Officer for Sexual Harassment, 419 Morrill Hall. All inquiries will be held in strictest confidence.

Assistantships and Fellowships

Resolution of the Council of Graduate Schools in the United States—Acceptance of an offer of financial aid (such as a graduate scholarship, fellowship, traineeship, or assistantship) for the next academic year by an enrolled or prospective graduate student completes an agreement that both student and graduate school expect to honor. When a student accepts an offer before April 15 and subsequently desires to withdraw, the student may submit a written resignation for the appointment at any time through April 15. However, an acceptance given or left in force after April 15 commits the student not to accept another offer without first obtaining a written release from the institution to which a commitment was made. Similarly, an offer made by an institution after April 15 is conditional on presentation by the student of a written release from any previously accepted offer. It is further agreed by the institutions and organizations subscribing to this resolution that a copy of the resolution should accompany every scholarship, fellowship, traineeship, and assistantship offer.

Graduate Assistantships—Graduate assistantships are academic appointments that are reserved for graduate students. Appointments to teaching assistant, research assistant, or administrative fellow positions are offered through various departments. A teaching assistant helps in teaching students in a specified course or courses under the general supervision of the academic staff. A research assistant carries out activities connected with research studies that are assigned by the supporting department or principal research investigator. An administrative fellow performs duties of a specialized nature connected with administration.

To be eligible to hold one of these appointments, a student must have been admitted to the Graduate School and must be registered in the Graduate School each quarter the appointment is held during the academic year. Registration during the summer session is not required. A student may be appointed for 75 percent time or less per academic quarter (or up to 100 percent time during the summer).

Students registered in the Graduate School and holding appointments as teaching assistants, research assistants, and administrative fellows at 25 percent time or more pay resident tuition rates. This same privilege applies to members of their immediate families (spouses and children). Extensions of the privilege beyond the term of qualifying appointment are subject to the following rules:

1. The qualifying appointee must have held one of the above appointments for a minimum of three academic quarters, at 25 percent time or more, in one of the specific positions listed above. Two summer terms will count as one academic-year quarter.
2. After completion of the qualifying three quarters of appointment, the use of the privilege is extended on a quarter-for-quarter basis up to a maximum of six quarters of use.
3. The entitlement of the qualifying appointee and members of her or his immediate family to this privilege will not extend beyond three years from the termination of the last or most recent qualifying appointment.

Beginning in fall 1986, all graduate assistants with appointments of at least 25 percent will automatically receive tuition fellowships equal to twice the percentage of their appointments. Students with appointments of 50% or more will receive 100% tuition scholarships, not including fees.

Each department sets its own application deadline. Unless otherwise noted, applications must be received by February 15 for appointments for the ensuing academic year; applications received at other times will be considered for any available vacancies. All applications for graduate assistantship appointments should be returned to the head of the appropriate department—not to the Graduate School.

Stipends for graduate assistants are based on the level of appointment and percentage of time of the appointment. A schedule of current stipends for graduate assistantships is available from the Graduate Assistants Office. Graduate students may not hold appointments for which there is no monetary compensation, nor are they allowed to hold appointments for which they receive only course credit or resident tuition rates.

Application forms and further information may be obtained from either the head of the department offering the appointment or from the Graduate Assistants Office. This office provides ombudsman services for and handles problems and information requests of graduate assistants. An administrative arm of the Office of the Vice President for Academic Affairs, it distributes The Handbook for Graduate Assistants and the Grapevine, a quarterly newsletter for graduate assistants. Copies of the handbook and more information about the assistantship program at the University may be obtained from the Graduate Assistants Office, 411 Johnston Hall, University of Minnesota, 101 Pleasant Street S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55455 (612/626-1310).

General College Assistantships—Graduate students are eligible to apply for teaching assistantships in the General College. The General College program consists of general education courses in such areas as natural science, social science, communications, and the humanities, as well as specialized courses in such career areas as business, health, and law. Graduate students may also be interested in the college teaching/counseling internship program for graduate assistants. Graduate assistants in the General College may participate in the internship program and earn credit (but not degree credit) by registering for GC 5001—General College Teaching Internship or GC 5002—General College Counseling Internship the first year, and GC 5005—General College Supervised Teaching Projects or GC 5006—General College Supervised Counseling Projects the second year. Inquiries about assistantships and the teaching/counseling internship program should be directed to the Office of the Dean, General College, 106 Nicholson Hall, University of Minnesota, 216 Pillsbury Drive S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Graduate Fellowships—Graduate fellowships, awards based on academic merit, are available to new and currently enrolled graduate students. The Graduate School Fellowship Office, 422 Johnston Hall, administers several fellowship programs, described in detail below; a number of individual academic departments also administer field-specific fellowships. Entering students must file their fellowship application with their prospective graduate program. Currently enrolled students should consult the Fellowship Office and their graduate program office for current information on fellowship opportunities. The Fellowship Office also processes applications for several international competitions, such as Fulbright Grants for graduate study abroad.

Resident Benefit for Graduate Fellows and Trainees—Graduate students holding fellowships and traineeships with stipends equivalent to that of a 25 percent time assistantship are entitled to the same resident tuition benefits as graduate assistants. The same privilege applies to members of their immediate families. See Graduate Assistantships above for details.

Fellowships Awarded and Administered Through the Graduate School Fellowship Office

Awards listed below are subject to change in amounts or cancellation, depending on availability of funds. The following policies govern all awards administered by the Graduate School Fellowship Office:

Supplementation—Recipients of any full-support Graduate School awards may concurrently hold an assistantship or other position at 25 percent time or less without reduction in the fellowship stipend. Recipients of full-support awards may not hold other fellowships, scholarships, grants, or similar awards that duplicate the benefits of the fellowship; they may, however, receive additional partial stipends (not administered by the Graduate School) not to exceed the value of a 25 percent time assistantship. No part of any full Graduate School fellowship may be used to supplement other full support awards.

Terms of Award—Graduate School awards may not be renewed, used for summer study (unless specifically designated), or deferred for use in another academic year.

For New Graduate Students

GRADUATE SCHOOL FELLOWSHIPS—Those planning to enter the Graduate School for the first time in the fall quarter are eligible for these one-year fellowships, which provide a stipend of approximately $7,200 plus tuition (fees not included) for the academic year. All applicants must be nominated by the graduate program they plan to enter. Applications must be submitted directly to the prospective graduate program by the program's specified deadline, but no later than February 1.

Army and Air Force ROTC—Students in the Graduate School may pursue a two-year Army or Air Force ROTC program. To be eligible, applicants must have six quarters of academic work remaining after successful completion of a required six-week ROTC summer camp. Transportation, meals, lodging, and a salary are furnished during the summer encampment. All ROTC textbooks and uniforms are loaned to the student without cost, and all cadets receive a tax-free stipend of $100 per month during the school year. Students successfully completing the program are commissioned as second lieutenants in the Army or Air Force. For more information, see the University's Army-Navy-Air Force ROTC Bulletin or call the Army ROTC (612/624-7300) or the Air Force ROTC (612/624-2884).

Access to Student Educational Records—In accordance with the regents' policy on access to student records, information about a student generally may not be released to a third party without the student's permission. The policy also permits students to review their educational records and to challenge the contents of those records.

Some student information—name, address, telephone number, dates of enrollment and enrollment termination, college and class, academic awards and honors received, major, adviser, and degrees earned—is considered public or directory information. To prevent release of such information outside the University while in attendance at the University, a student must notify the records office on his or her campus.

Students are notified annually of their right to review their educational records. The regents' policy, including a directory of student records, is available for review at the Information Center in Williamson Hall, Minneapolis, and at records offices on other campuses of the University. Questions may be directed to Registration, Student Records, and Scheduling, 150 Williamson Hall (612/625-5333).

Placement—Graduate students seeking placement in college, university, or other positions may obtain aid and counsel from advisers and departments, from the deans of various colleges of the University, and through the placement office of the Education Student Affairs Office. This last office receives reports of vacancies for college teaching positions in all fields as well as for positions in counseling, administration, student personnel work, and research. Non-education graduate students seeking college teaching positions are eligible to establish placement files. The address of the Education Student Affairs Office is 1425 University Avenue S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55414 (612/625-5545).

Degrees Offered—Aerospace Engineering: M.S.Aero.E. (Plan A and Plan B), M.Aero.E., and Ph.D.; Mechanics: M.S. (Plan A and Plan B) and Ph.D.

Curriculum—In aerospace engineering, emphases include aerodynamics, aerospace structures, astrodynamics, control theory, dynamical systems, fluid mechanics, gas dynamics, and stability theory. In mechanics, emphases include composites, continuum mechanics, control theory, dynamics, dynamical systems, elasticity, fluid mechanics, fracture mechanics, plasticity, stability theory, vibrations, and viscoelasticity.

Prerequisites for Admission—For the M.Aero.E. program, a four-year B.S. degree from an accredited engineering program is required. For the other programs, an engineering degree is not required, although applicants must have adequate preparation in the fundamental engineering sciences (mathematics, physics, mechanics, and chemistry).

Special Application Requirements—Graduate Record Examination scores (for both the General Test and the Subject Test in engineering) are recommended for all students and are required for students whose degrees are not in engineering.

Master of Science Degree Requirements—In aerospace engineering and mechanics, Plan B project requirements may be met in connection with any graduate course or seminar, or with independent work completed under faculty supervision, subject to prior approval from the student's adviser and the faculty member supervising the project. The M.S. program can normally be completed in one year of full-time study. The final examination is oral.

Master of Aerospace Engineering Degree Requirements—This degree program is primarily for students interested in advanced training with a professional or applied emphasis. The program involves both course work and a project. See Professional Master's Degree in Engineering in the General Information section of this bulletin.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—Programs are designed by the student and the adviser to develop appropriate skills in research and scholarship. In aerospace engineering, students normally concentrate a large portion of their work in one of the emphases. In mechanics, programs include one or more emphases.

Language Requirements—None, for either major. Some doctoral candidates, however, may find that reading proficiency in one or more languages is essential.

Degrees Offered—M.S. (Plan A and Plan B) and Ph.D.

Curriculum—Graduate study requires an operational knowledge of economic theory and modern methods of quantitative analysis as well as practical application in specialized fields of inquiry, which are: production economics and farm management, agricultural business management, agricultural finance, agricultural development, agricultural marketing, agricultural prices, agricultural policy, consumption economics, economics of public services, regional economics, and resource economics.

Prerequisites for Admission—An undergraduate grade average of B or better is normally required. Students lacking background work in economics, mathematics, and statistics may be required to complete deficiencies before acceptance in the graduate program or while concurrently working on their graduate programs.

Special Application Requirements—Graduate Record Examination scores are required for domestic students. A minimum TOEFL score of 500 is required for applicants whose native language is not English. Applicants should provide evidence of superior scholarship, professional experience, and general aptitude for graduate study.

Master's Degree Requirements—All M.S. students are required to complete introductory graduate-level courses in macro and micro theory and in statistics, or to have completed equivalent courses. Under Plan B, the project counts for 6 to 9 course credits toward the degree.

A minimum grade point average of 3.00 in the graduate program is required for graduation. A final oral examination is required.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—Students follow a study program in the major that includes three subfields of specialization selected from the following: production economics and agricultural business management, agricultural prices and marketing, agricultural policy, agricultural development and trade, natural resource and environmental economics, regional economics and public services, and consumption economics.

Students must complete work in quantitative techniques (e.g., statistics and mathematical techniques). The written preliminary examinations cover economic theory and subfields of agricultural economics.

Language Requirement—None.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—A minor in agricultural and applied economics must include micro and macro theory courses from the Department of Economics at the intermediate level (5151 and 5152) or higher. Other courses are chosen by the student and major and minor advisers, and must be approved by the director of graduate studies. Written examinations for both M.S. and Ph.D. students minoring in agricultural and applied economics may be required at the discretion of the major and minor adviser. Ph.D. students majoring in economics who select a minor in agricultural and applied economics are required to pass the written preliminary examination for the Ph.D.

Degrees Offered—M.S. (Plan A and Plan B) and Ph.D.

Curriculum—Training is provided in basic and applied aspects of management, physiology, production, and weed control of field crops. The program is closely aligned with the interdepartmental programs of plant breeding and plant physiology. Prospective students should consult other sections of this bulletin which describe these programs. The Department of Agronomy and Plant Genetics can supply information about all three programs on request.

Prerequisites for Admission—Applicants should have university-level training in agronomy, biology, chemistry, and mathematics. Applicants must have a background in biochemistry and biometrics, or must acquire this background as part of the degree program.

Special Application Requirements—Three letters of recommendation and a statement by the applicant outlining career objectives and experience are required. Graduate Record Examination scores are strongly recommended. Students may enter the program at any time, but most assistantships begin in the summer and applications are usually acted on by mid-February.

Master's Degree Requirements—Most programs are Plan A. Students plan their course program and thesis research in consultation with their adviser and a department advisory committee. A final oral examination which includes a department seminar covering the thesis research or Plan B project is required.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—

Course programs normally range from 60 to 75 quarter credits, depending on previous preparation. Students plan their course program and thesis research in consultation with their adviser and a department advisory committee. The final oral examination includes a department seminar covering the thesis research.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—Ph.D. minors must complete a minimum of 20 credits in agronomy including 8020.

Degree Offered—M.A. (Plan B only).

Curriculum—The master's degree in American Legal Institutions is intended to give lawyers who have completed law degrees in foreign universities an understanding of the American legal system and a background in the social, economic, and political framework within which it operates.

A joint degree program in law and public affairs is also available. See Public Affairs.

Prerequisites for Admission—Applicants should hold a law degree from a foreign institution and have the requisite facility in the English language.

Special Application Requirements—Applications should be accompanied by a detailed outline of the desired course of study. The program does not provide financial assistance for admitted students.

Master's Degree Requirements—Students select most of their courses from the professional offerings of the Law School (see the Law School Bulletin). The related field requirement for the Plan B degree is fulfilled with courses from one or more other departments of the University. At least one full year in residence is necessary to complete the degree, although students may spend as long as two years in residence.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—A minor for either the M.A. or Ph.D. may be earned in law when it logically relates to the major field. Effort will be made to suit the minor program to the particular needs and interests of the student. Courses must be selected from among those offered in the regular professional curriculum of the Law School (see the Law School Bulletin). Many law courses have prerequisites or enrollment limitations, so early planning of a minor in law is essential.

Please read the General Information section of this bulletin for Graduate School requirements that apply to all major fields.

Degree Offered—M.Arch. (see Degree Requirements for plans offered).

Curriculum—Students seeking the M.Arch as a first professional degree who have no previous experience with architectural design education normally need four years of architectural design courses as the heart of their graduate curriculum. Course work is also required or recommended in environment/behavior studies, energy topics, architectural history and theory, structural design, urban design/planning, computer-aided design, technology, and practice. Related work is encouraged in such diverse areas as business, American studies, and journalism. Students in the final two years of this program are exposed to design scales ranging from a regional or community level to the details of a site and building. During the final year, students complete their graduate thesis of two quarters duration. Students who hold the B.Arch normally study for four quarters to earn the M.Arch as a second professional degree, developing an individualized program in consultation with faculty and the director of graduate studies.

Prerequisites for Admission—Students who hold only a nonarchitectural baccalaureate degree and lack the lower level technical course work required for the professional degree will be considered as Type I applicants for graduate admission in the four-year M.Arch program. Students will be classified as Type II candidates and admitted as graduate students with advanced standing if they have completed a four-year preprofessional degree, such as the bachelor of arts with a major in architecture or its equivalent. Type III classification will be assigned to those who hold the professional degree bachelor of architecture, which is a prerequisite for admission to the M.Arch as a second professional degree.

Special Application Requirements—Applicants for the four-year program must complete a design exercise prepared by the School of Architecture and must submit three letters of recommendation to the director of graduate studies in addition to meeting the Graduate School application requirements. Examples of original design work, in 8½" × 11" portfolio format, are encouraged. The Graduate Record Examination is not required, but candidates who wish to submit scores are encouraged to do so. Prospective students are encouraged to contact the director of graduate studies before applying for admission. A statement of intent is helpful.

Students seeking entry with advanced standing (such as those with preprofessional degrees) and students applying to enter the M.Arch as a second professional degree must submit portfolios. An 8½" × 11" format is recommended.

Fall quarter candidates for the four-year program must apply by April 1. All others (including those with preprofessional or professional degrees) are advised to apply by mid-April (although fall admission for advanced level students can take place as late as mid-August). Since fellowship nominations are made in early February, students with outstanding academic records should apply by January 15 for fall quarter admission. Admission to the first graduate design course in each year is normally limited to fall quarter.

Degree Requirements—Students who hold a nonarchitectural baccalaureate degree will normally need four years of study to earn the M.Arch, and will study under Plan A. Those who hold a four-year preprofessional or nonarchitectural baccalaureate degree, coupled with the required prerequisite technical courses, will also follow a Plan A program but for a shorter period (which generally involves six quarters of graduate design, including five studio quarters and a partially overlapping two-quarter thesis). Required support courses and electives complete the sequence. Students who hold the B.Arch degree (i.e., those seeking a second professional degree) will study for four quarters, and may follow either a Plan A or Plan B program. Plan A requires 44 credits with a thesis; Plan B requires 44 credits and three major papers.

Specific requirements for the master of architecture program will depend on the content of the undergraduate program and may occasionally exceed the Graduate School minimum. The total requirement for a program will be determined in consultation with the adviser and director of graduate studies.

Degree programs in architecture are exempted from the Graduate School minor or related field requirements. Programs often, however, include course work from one or more departments outside of architecture. The final examination is both written and oral.

Language Requirements—None.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—No minor is offered in architecture.

For Further Information—Contact the director of graduate studies, School of Architecture and Landscape Architecture, 110 Architecture Building, University of Minnesota, 89 Church Street S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Note—See also the program in Landscape Architecture.

Please read the General Information section of this bulletin for Graduate School requirements that apply to all major fields.

Degrees Offered—Art History: M.A. (Plan B only) and Ph.D.; Museology: M.A. (Plan B only).

Curriculum—The subfields offered are American, ancient, East Asian, medieval, modern, renaissance/baroque, Scandinavian, and South Asian.

Prerequisites for Admission—For the M.A. programs, a bachelor's degree and evidence of academic excellence, preferably in art history, are required. For the Ph.D. program, an M.A. degree is required.

Special Application Requirements—For the M.A. programs, results from the General (Aptitude) Test of the Graduate Record Examination are required. For the Ph.D. program, submission of an M.A. thesis or extended research papers and three letters of recommendation are required. Admission to the Ph.D. program is to a single subfield offered by the department; the desired subfield must be specified on the application and in a letter to the department.

Application forms and transcripts must be submitted to the Graduate School as follows: by October 1 for admission winter quarter, by February 1 for admission spring and fall quarters. The deadline for financial aid applications is February 1 preceding the academic year for which aid is sought.

Master's Degree Requirements—For both the museology and art history majors, a student must complete at least one advanced lecture course in each of these subfields either before or after enrollment in the degree program: ancient, medieval, modern, non-western and renaissance/baroque.

For the major in art history: Course work must include a concentration of three courses in a single subfield. Courses in one or more related fields outside art history, preferably English, anthropology, classics, literature, history, or studio art, are also required. A written examination is taken not later than the sixth quarter of residence.

Fields of Instruction

For the major in museology: Two tracks are available in this major. The first track places special emphasis on professional training for work in art museums and centers. Candidates for this degree are accepted initially as graduate majors in art history. Admission to the museology program depends on acceptance for an internship, which is applied for during winter quarter of the first year in residence. Course work includes the same distribution requirements as for the M.A. degree in art history and additional courses including the museology seminars and a supervised internship in an approved museum. The written examination is taken or formally scheduled by the fourth quarter of residence, or at least before the museology internship begins.

The second track is designed to train students for work in historical museums. An M.A. degree in history is required. A strong United States component and some work in anthropology and art history are recommended. Students are required to complete the museology seminars, independent study and graduate-level art history courses in the area of concentration, and an internship in an approved history museum or historical society. The Plan B project requirement is generally fulfilled through independent study. A written examination is required after completion of the internship.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—Students design their own program in consultation with a graduate adviser and other faculty members in or outside the department with related areas of interest.

Language Requirements—For the M.A. degree, a reading knowledge of either French or German or another language appropriate to the student's program must be acquired before permission will be granted to take the final M.A. examination. For the Ph.D., knowledge of two foreign languages is required; French and German are preferred, but substitutions may be made with department approval.

For Further Information—Contact the director of graduate studies, Department of Art History, 107 Jones Hall, University of Minnesota, 27 Pleasant Street S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Astronomy and Astrophysics (Ast)

Regents' Professor: Edward P. Ney

Professor: Thomas W. Jones, chair; Kris D. Davidson; Phyllis S. Freier; Robert D. Gehrz; Roberta M. Humphreys; Paul J. Kellogg; Robert O. Pepin; Wayne A. Stein; C. J. Waddington; John R. Winckler; Paul R. Woodward

Associate Professor: Lawrence Rudnick, director of graduate studies; John M. Dickey; Robert C. Kennicutt, Jr.

Assistant Professor: Terry J. Jones

Please read the General Information section of this bulletin for Graduate School requirements that apply to all major fields.

Degrees Offered—Astronomy: M.S. (Plan A and Plan B); Astrophysics: Ph.D.

Curriculum—The program offers emphases in observational and theoretical astronomy and astrophysics and in instrument development. Current research emphasizes the properties and dynamics of normal and active galaxies, quasars, stellar evolution, interaction of stars with their environments, the interstellar medium, and the cosmic distance scale. Observational research includes ultraviolet, optical, infrared, and radio astronomy. Extensive research programs in space physics and the elementary particle-cosmology interface are also carried out in the School of Physics and Astronomy.

Facilities—The University jointly operates a 60-inch telescope on Mt. Lemmon, near Tucson, Arizona, with the University of California, San Diego. It is well equipped for both optical and infrared observations. A 30-inch telescope is maintained at the O'Brien Observatory about 40 miles from the Twin Cities campus. Plans are under development for a major (3.5 meter) observatory in the Southwest. Excellent shop facilities support our instrument development for the telescopes at O'Brien and Mt. Lemmon and for major national observatories such as the NASA

Infrared Telescope Facility (IRTF) in Hawaii.

The unique Automated Plate Scanner (APS) is available for measuring the positions and magnitudes of stars and galaxies. This machine simultaneously scans two photographic plates of the same field and can analyze 100,000 images per hour. Plates of different colors or epochs can be compared for very rapid surveys. The APS is controlled by a PDP 11/60 minicomputer, allowing densitometry studies of extended objects and measurement and reduction of spectra. A color image-processing system is used for interactive analysis of images.

Another image-processing system is coupled to a departmental VAX 11/780 computer for the reduction and analysis of optical, infrared, single-dish radio, and Very Large Array (VLA) radio interferometry data. The department is connected through a 1.5 Mbyte/sec network to Cray 2 and Cyber 205 supercomputers at the University's Supercomputer Institute. These facilities are available to faculty and students for their research.

In addition, members of the department regularly use such national facilities as the Kitt Peak National Observatory; Cerro Tololo Inter-American Observatory in Chile; National Radio Astronomy Observatory's single-dish facilities in Green Bank and Kitt Peak and its VLA; Arecibo Radio Observatory; the International Ultraviolet Explorer satellite; and the IRTF in Hawaii.

Prerequisites for Admission—For major work, Ast 3051 or the equivalent, differential and integral calculus, and two years of college physics are required. Advanced undergraduate work in physics is strongly recommended.

Special Application Requirements—A statement of career goals, scores from the Graduate Record Examination General (Aptitude) Test and Subject (Advanced) test in physics, and three letters of recommendation are required. Applications for financial aid for fall quarter are due February 1.

Master's Degree Requirements—Two quarters of the classical physics sequence Phys 5051-5052-5053 and three 5xxx astronomy courses are required. Completion of the degree normally takes two years. An oral examination is required.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—Five 5xxx astronomy courses are required along with Phys 5051-5052-5053. Competence in quantum physics at the level of Phys 5101-5102 is expected. A placement test in physics is taken in January of the first year, with the comprehensive examination in astrophysics taken in spring of the second year. After a thesis topic and adviser are selected, by the end of the third year, an oral examination is taken that focuses on the thesis area.

Language Requirement—None.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—Ast 3051 or the equivalent, differential and integral calculus, and one year of college physics are prerequisites for admission to the minor.

Degree Offered—M.S. (Plan A and Plan B) and Ph.D.

Curriculum—Biomedical engineering is an interdisciplinary program designed to provide broad familiarity with the interactions among the engineering, biological, and medical sciences plus in-depth training in at least one of these disciplines.

Thesis research topics, which provide the focus for a student's training, may be chosen from among the following areas of biomedical engineering research: blood fluid mechanics and its application to cardiovascular problems and design of artificial internal organs; organ preservation; chemotaxis; modeling of lung dynamics and study of pathological pulmonary conditions; bone and joint mechanics and design of bone and joint prostheses; microbial population dynamics; intestinal mass transfer; development of instrumentation and control devices to correct neurological defects; human factors engineering; health effects of design of tools and workplace; application of computer science to a wide variety of problems in physiological simulation, diagnosis, and medical data recording. Further information on current research areas is available from the director of graduate studies.

Prerequisites for Admission—A baccalaureate degree in engineering is preferred. Applicants with a baccalaureate degree in physical or biological science may be accepted into the program, but are required to complete the course work through the junior year of an undergraduate engineering curriculum before being admitted as a candidate for the degree. In most cases, this course work is not considered part of the Ph.D. program.

Special Application Requirements—Three letters of recommendation are required. In evaluating applications, consideration is given to whether or not an appropriate focus exists within the program to match the candidate's interests.

Degree Requirements—Programs are planned with the aid of an adviser and a three-member subcommittee selected jointly by the candidate and the director of graduate studies from the above list of department faculty members and approved by the Biomedical Engineering Graduate Program Review Committee. The committee decides on the suitability of the program and thesis topic, and is responsible for the appointment of examination committees, subject to Graduate School approval.

The major program provides students with comprehensive training in both the engineering and biomedical aspects of at least one area of biomedical engineering. Students normally complete a broad but cohesive program consisting of at least 9 credits in each of three departments. Two of these departments should be in a college other than that offering the minor. In addition, students normally register in one of the ongoing biomedical engineering seminar series for at least six quarters. The minor program must be the equivalent of major field course work for a Plan B M.S. program in an engineering field. That engineering department must approve the minor program.

Language Requirements—A demonstrated proficiency in French, German, or Russian, or completion of an alternative program, is required.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—For the M.S. degree, students are required to complete 12 credits in two departments other than that of their major. For the Ph.D. degree, 18 credits outside the major are required. For both degrees, courses are approved by the director of graduate studies based on consultation with the student. Students must also register for three quarters of an approved biomedical engineering seminar series.

For Further Information—Contact the director of graduate studies, Biomedical Engineering, Department of Mechanical Engineering, 455 Mechanical Engineering, University of Minnesota, 111 Church Street S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Degrees Offered—M.S. (Plan A and Plan B) and Ph.D.

¹*This program was previously named Biometry and Health Information Systems. The Health Information Systems track will no longer be offered. A new program in Health Informatics, focusing on the concepts and content of the previous Health Information Systems track, is currently under review by the University. It should be formally available during the 1986-87 academic year. For more information, contact the Division of Health Computer Sciences, Box 511 Mayo Building, University of Minnesota, 420 Delaware Street S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55455. A master of public health degree (M.P.H.) with an emphasis in biometry is offered by the School of Public Health. Consult the School of Public Health Bulletin for further information.*

Curriculum—Biometry is the statistical and other quantitative analysis of data from biology, medicine, and public health. Emphases include biostatistics, experimental design and analysis, health statistics, clinical trials, and computerized data management. Students may elect to complement biometry course offerings with courses from such fields as epidemiology, mathematics, management information, computer science, or health sciences. Advanced work in statistics is usually taken as part of the program.

Prerequisites for Admission—General biology, linear algebra, four quarters of calculus, introductory statistics, and an undergraduate major in one of the social, biological, mathematical, or physical sciences. A student may be allowed to take one or two of these courses after admission.

Special Application Requirements—Fall quarter entry is recommended.

Master's Degree Requirements—Most students are enrolled in the Plan B program, usually completed in two academic years. During the first year, students take basic sequences. The remainder of the program is designed for further specialization and advanced courses. Students with an undergraduate degree in biometry may be able to finish in one year. Candidates must pass a final oral examination.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—Consult the director of graduate studies for requirements.

Degrees Offered—M.S. (Plan A and Plan B) and Ph.D.

Curriculum—Degree programs include concentration in one or more of the four areas: experimental biophysics, applied biophysics, theoretical biophysics, and medical biophysics. A list of more than 50 courses offered by a variety of departments and accepted for credit in the biophysical sciences major is available on request from the director of graduate studies. Other pertinent courses may also be used as part of the program.

Prerequisites for Admission—All students should have some familiarity with physical chemistry, intermediate physics, intermediate mathematics, biostatistics, computer programming, biology, physiology, and biochemistry. This may be demonstrated by course work completed at the undergraduate level or as part of the graduate program; by reading or practical experience; or by informal competency examinations.

Master's Degree Requirements—Three core courses—Phys 5551, 5552, and 5553—are normally required. A special three-person committee, chaired by the adviser, is responsible for assuring that the student's program of study includes broad training in the biophysical sciences. This committee is usually recommended to the Graduate School to administer the oral examination. A final oral examination is required.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—The core curriculum consists of Phys 5551, 5552, and 5553, as well as Path 5415, 5416, and 5417. A significant portion of the course work should be relevant to the area of thesis research. Programs should also include an area of specialization outside the thesis area. Students are required to take a written preliminary examination at the end of one year of postbaccalaureate study, or as soon as possible after completing Phys 5551, 5552, and 5553. This examination is prepared by a committee and is given at the start of the fall quarter. A special committee is recommended to the Graduate School to administer the Ph.D. oral preliminary examination, which should be taken by October of the third year of full-time registration or its equivalent. The oral examining committee is also expected to review the student's course program.

Language Requirements—For the M.S. degree, none. For the Ph.D. degree, candidates must demonstrate competence in reading scientific literature in at least one foreign language. Foreign students may submit evidence of competence in their native language if significant, relevant publications exist in that language. All other students must meet Graduate School requirements for the language selected.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—Programs are arranged on an individual basis and must consist of courses that represent broad coverage of the biophysical sciences. Eight-credit minors are not acceptable.

For Further Information—Contact the director of graduate studies, Biophysical Sciences, Box 511 Mayo Memorial Building, University of Minnesota, 420 Delaware Street S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Note—The following courses are offered in biophysical sciences. Those numbered 5170 through 5174 are taught concurrently with courses in radiology and/or in therapeutic radiology that bear the same course numbers.

Degrees Offered—M.B.A. (Plan B only), M.B.T. (Plan B only), and Ph.D.

Master of Business Administration (M.B.A.)

Curriculum—The M.B.A. program prepares its graduates for responsible positions in all types of organizations in our economy: large and small, service and manufacturing, profit and non-profit. Throughout the program emphasis is placed on the knowledge and skills necessary to carry out these responsibilities, particularly on analysis—recognizing a problem exists and defining and selecting the appropriate course of action—and implementation—developing, organizing, and motivating people.

Prerequisites for Admission—Applicants must have completed an undergraduate degree in any field and the equivalent of at least a first college course in microeconomics and in finite mathematics or calculus.

Special Application Requirements—Results of the Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT) are required.

Degree Requirements—Three programs are offered. The regular program of 74 credits is designed for students without prior education in business administration. An accelerated program of 50 credits is designed for students with an undergraduate degree in business administration. These two programs are offered through full-time day and part-time evening study. A Managers M.B.A. program for managers with ten or more years of full-time experience is also available.

For Further Information—A complete brochure is available from the M.B.A. program, School of Management, University of Minnesota, 271 19th Avenue South, Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Master of Business Taxation (M.B.T.)

Curriculum—This degree program is designed to help students acquire a conceptual understanding of taxation and to develop technical competence in the practical application of the rules of taxation in business and personal decision making. The program is offered only in the evening through Continuing Education and Extension. It is designed to accommodate the nontraditional student who is employed during the day and enrolled in the program on a part-time basis during the evening. Students enrolled part-time can expect to complete the program in approximately two years. Students enrolled full-time can complete the program in a shorter period.

Special Application Requirements—Results of the Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT) or the Law School Admission Test (LSAT) are required. Applicants will be considered for admission during fall, winter, spring, or summer terms.

Degree Requirements—Students are required to have gained, through course work, a common body of knowledge in the various areas of business. When the appropriate course work is lacking, students must make up the deficiencies. These courses may be taken after admission; graduate credit will not be granted in most cases.

Students must complete 45 credits, including 16 credits in business, economics, and accounting, 13 credits in the fundamentals of tax, tax research, tax procedure, and corporate tax, and 16 credits of elective tax courses. At least 4 credits of the course work will serve as a basis for the Plan B project(s). Students must maintain a 3.00 grade point average. The final examination is oral.

Fields of Instruction

For Further Information—Contact the director of graduate studies, Business Taxation, 645 Management and Economics Building, University of Minnesota, 271 19th Avenue South, Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Doctor of Philosophy

Curriculum—The goal of the Ph.D. program is to educate scholars who have the ability to contribute to their field through theoretical and applied research, excellence in teaching, and leadership in the profession. The following areas of specialization are offered: accounting; finance; management information systems; marketing, operations management; decision sciences; risk management and insurance; strategic management and organization; logistics management.

Special Application Requirements—Scores from the Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT) are required unless the applicant has already taken the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), in which case GRE scores may substitute for GMAT scores.

Degree Requirements—The program includes a field of specialization within the School of Management, research methodology, a supporting field of study, written and oral examinations, and a doctoral dissertation. If a student does not have a bachelor's or master's degree in business administration, certain basic courses may also be required. Three to four years of full-time study are usually required to complete the Ph.D.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—For the Ph.D. minor in business administration, students must complete a cohesive program of 24 credits of graduate work in the field, developed in consultation with an adviser who is a full member of the graduate faculty in business administration.

For Further Information—A complete brochure is available from the director of the Ph.D. program, School of Management, University of Minnesota, 271 19th Avenue South, Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Degrees Offered—M.S. (Plan A and Plan B) and Ph.D.

Curriculum—Cell biology and developmental biology are broad interdisciplinary fields closely related to molecular biology, biochemistry, physiology, and anatomy. Research seeks to answer basic questions regarding the organization, composition, function, and assembly of cells and cellular components, and their regulation during the processes of cellular growth and differentiation. Graduate experience in cell and developmental biology is offered in cellular structure, cellular regulation, the biology of cellular organelles, the biology of cell surfaces, and developmental biology.

Prerequisites for Admission—The program is sufficiently flexible to accommodate students with a wide range of backgrounds. Those with bachelor's degrees in any of the biological, chemical, or physical sciences are encouraged to apply. Recommended academic preparation includes one year each of calculus, organic chemistry, and physics and background in basic biology, including biochemistry, genetics, and physical chemistry. For students of demonstrated ability, background deficiencies can be made up during the first year of graduate study.

Special Application Requirements—Applicants should submit: three letters of recommendation from persons familiar with their academic and research capabilities; scores from the General (Aptitude) and Subject (Advanced) Tests of the Graduate Record Examination; and a statement of interests and goals. Recommended date for receipt of completed applications is February 1. Completed files are reviewed between February and June. Graduate studies typically begin in summer session or fall term.

Master's Degree Requirements—The average length of time required to obtain a master's degree is two years. Advanced courses in cell biology and biochemistry are typically required, in addition to specialty courses designed to meet the individual student's needs. An oral final examination is required for both plans.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—There are no specific course credit requirements. The Ph.D. program is designed by the student and the adviser to meet individual interests and goals. Advanced courses in cell biology (including the core sequence 5048 and 5049) and biochemistry are required, in addition to special courses, topical seminar courses, laboratory research rotations, thesis research, department seminars, and journal clubs.

Language Requirements—None. Applicants to the cell and developmental biology program are urged to obtain a working knowledge of at least one language before enrollment.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—Proposed minor courses should be approved by the director of graduate studies and typically include the cell biology core sequence (5048 and 5049), supplemented by advanced cell and developmental biology courses appropriate to the student's field of specialization.

For Further Information—Inquiries about admission should be directed to the director of graduate admissions, Department of Genetics and Cell Biology, 250 BioScience Center, University of Minnesota, 1445 Gortner Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55108. Inquiries about graduate program activities, courses, and research opportunities should be directed to the director of graduate studies in cell and developmental biology at the same address.

Please read the General Information section of this bulletin for Graduate School requirements that apply to all major fields.

Degrees Offered—M.S.C.E. (Plan A; Plan B if approved by adviser), M.C.E., and Ph.D.

Fields of Instruction

Curriculum—The professional master's degree (M.C.E.) is intended for engineering graduates interested in design, planning, operation, or management rather than in research. All subdisciplines of civil engineering (e.g., environmental engineering, water resources, structures, soil mechanics) are available.

Emphases in the Ph.D. program are structural design and analysis; water resources engineering (including fluid mechanics, hydrology, hydraulic engineering, and water resources management); environmental engineering (including water and wastewater process engineering and environmental chemistry); transportation engineering; and soil and rock mechanics. Students are expected to concentrate the major part of their work in one of these areas.

Prerequisites for Admission—For the master's and doctoral programs, the normal requirement for admission is a good academic record in a civil engineering undergraduate program accredited by the Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology (ABET). Some areas of civil engineering are so broad that students with other undergraduate preparation may be considered for admission. For example, in environmental engineering, students with an undergraduate concentration in chemistry, chemical engineering, physics, or certain of the biological sciences may be admitted. In transportation, applicants with an undergraduate concentration in economics, mathematics, or physics may be admitted. Applicants who lack civil engineering training are often required to complete one or more appropriate courses from the undergraduate civil engineering program. Graduate degree credit is not awarded for such preparatory work. For the M.C.E. program, an ABET-accredited bachelor's degree in engineering is required.

Special Application Requirements—Applicants should submit to the director of graduate studies three letters of recommendation, either from professors qualified to estimate their class rank and evaluate their ability to complete a program of graduate study, or from engineering professionals who can assess their professional potential. These letters may also be used in applying for financial aid. Applicants for admission should also submit a résumé of their academic history and professional experience and a statement of purpose, including the proposed area of emphasis within civil engineering. Applicants are encouraged but not required to submit results of the Graduate Record Examination. Those who have not taken the GRE will be at a disadvantage in fellowship competitions.

Professional Registration—Applicants who have as their goal a professional career as a civil, structural, or mining engineer will need to obtain registration as a professional engineer. Admission to the registration examination is, in most states, restricted to graduates of an ABET-accredited curriculum for the bachelor's degree in engineering (B.C.E., B.Geo.E., B.Min.E.). Students who lack this preparation should seriously consider obtaining the training before entering a graduate program. For a student with an undergraduate background in mathematics, for example, this can normally be accomplished in four quarters. Prospective students may receive counseling on the need for professional registration in light of their career objectives from the director of graduate studies.

Degree Requirements—Certain graduate-level civil engineering courses are acceptable for graduate credit only as part of a minor or supporting program for students majoring in a field other than civil engineering. Consult the director of graduate studies for further information.

For M.C.E. degree requirements, see Professional Master's Degree in Engineering in the General Information section of this bulletin.

The final examination for the M.C.E. and M.S.C.E. degrees is oral.

Language Requirements—None.

Fields of Instruction

Please read the General Information section of this bulletin for Graduate School requirements that apply to all major fields.

Degrees Offered—Classics¹, Greek, Latin, and Classical Studies: M.A. (Plan B and, in exceptional cases only, Plan A); Ph.D.

Curriculum—In addition to Classical Greek and Latin literary studies, formal areas of concentration are available in archaeology, history, language teaching, linguistics, modern Greek and Hellenic studies, medieval and renaissance Latin, myth and folklore, oral performance, philosophy, religious studies, and women in the Classical world. While full faculty participation from a wide variety of fields provides differing course work, all students take a common core of courses to promote optimum collegiality and intellectual exchange. Special facilities are the Center for Ancient Studies, the Center for Modern Greek Studies, the Center for Humanistic Studies, and the Humanities Computer Lab.

Prerequisites for Admission—Ability, motivation, imagination, and creativity are the main criteria. Many course prerequisites can be made up on provisional admission. Prerequisites for unqualified admission to majors in Classics, Greek, and Latin include sufficient knowledge to begin graduate reading courses in at least one of the two Classical languages and at least intermediate ability in the other. For a major in Classical Studies, graduate reading ability in one language and evidence of ability and experience in the proposed area of concentration are required for unqualified admission.

Applications from students with undergraduate majors in such fields as the following are welcomed: English, history, Greek and Latin, philosophy, comparative literature, anthropology, theatre, religious studies, art history, political science, the modern languages, and linguistics.

Special Application Requirements—Applicants must send the following to the Department of Classics: results of the Graduate Record Examination; three letters of recommendation from persons well acquainted with their academic work and professional experience; and a two-page statement describing their previous experience and academic training as related to the intended course of study and professional goals.

Classical Language Proficiency—For admission to the Ph.D. program, applicants must provide all of the above materials as well as documentation of appropriate language proficiency. Students who have completed the M.A. degree at Minnesota and are applying to the Classics, Greek, or Latin Ph.D. programs must pass proficiency examinations in Greek and Latin. For the Classical Studies program, students must pass a proficiency examination in either Greek or Latin and must pass either a proficiency examination in the other Classical language or demonstrate higher competence in another language. If the M.A. degree has been completed at another institution, language proficiency examinations may be taken after admission.

Master's Degree Requirements—There are four degree programs:

M.A. in Greek: Advanced courses and seminars in Greek literature and supporting work in Latin and other related fields are required.

M.A. in Latin: Advanced courses and seminars in Latin literature and supporting work in Greek and other related fields are required.

M.A. in Classics: This program requires nearly equal emphasis on courses and seminars in Greek and Latin, as well as work in related fields.

¹For degree purposes, "Classics" indicates a program in which courses in Greek and Latin are combined to form a major. This use of the term should not be confused with the course designation "Classics (Clas)," which indicates courses that do not require knowledge of Greek or Latin.

M.A. in Classical Studies: This program requires nearly equal emphasis on one of the two Classical languages and one of the areas of concentration mentioned above, as well as some graduate study in another (usually but not always Classical) language. Interested students may draw upon the resources of the faculty and propose other areas of concentration or may add a formal minor in another field.

Emphasis in Classical Archaeology:

This program is available under the requirements for the degree program in Classical Studies and in cooperation with the Center for Ancient Studies.

Modern Greek and Hellenic Studies:

This program is available under the requirements for the degree program in Classical Studies and in cooperation with the Center for Modern Greek Studies.

The final examinations for all master's degrees are both written and oral. Consult the department's Graduate Student Handbook for details.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—In the Classics, Greek, and Latin programs, additional work leads to specialized study and research in Greek and Latin literature, a special (elective) author or genre, and a special (elective) topic or subdiscipline. In the Classical Studies program, the four foci are either both Classical literatures or one Classical literature and the literature of one non-Classical language; a special (elective) topic or subdiscipline, author, or genre; and an area of concentration. Consult the department's Graduate Student Handbook for details.

Modern Language Requirements—For the M.A. degree, reading knowledge of one modern foreign language appropriate to the student's program is required (normally French or German). For the Ph.D. degree, reading knowledge of two modern foreign languages appropriate to the program is required (normally French and German).

For Further Information—Contact the Department of Classical Studies, 310 Folwell Hall, University of Minnesota, 9

Degrees Offered—M.S. (Plan A and Plan B) and Ph.D.

Curriculum—Significant research is being done in the basic areas of compilers, operating systems, programming languages, data structures, computer graphics, artificial intelligence, heuristic programming, machine organization and architecture, microprogramming, mathematics of computation, computational complexity, formal languages, design automation, and hybrid computation. In addition, research is being done in the application of computers to medicine, psychology, biology, art, human languages and other fields. At the University Computer Center, students may use a battery of computers including Control Data Cybers 74 and 172, C.E.C. 6400 for time sharing, and a recently acquired Cray 1. The department has its own computers including Teraks, a PDP/11, and a VAX system, which are available for student use.

Prerequisites for Admission—A degree in any major with a substantial background in mathematics and basic core computer science is required. Applicants with an inadequate background must remove any deficiencies either before or after admission to the Graduate School, but before beginning their degree program.

Special Application Requirements—Scores from the General (Aptitude) and Subject (Advanced) Tests of the Graduate Record Examination are required. For undergraduate majors in computer science, the advanced test should be in computer science.

Master's Degree Requirements—In addition to general Graduate School requirements, students must show proficiency in the use of computers by writing and executing a significant and adequately documented computer program. This can be done in connection with a thesis, Plan B project, graduate seminar, or independent study under supervision of the faculty adviser. All master's students must demonstrate competence in the basic material through a written final examination. Plan A students must also take a final oral examination on the thesis.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—Because of the breadth of possibilities for research in computer science at the doctoral level, some student programs and research are highly interdisciplinary; others focus on one or more core areas of computer science. After completing the necessary preparatory course work as determined in consultation with their adviser, students take the written preliminary examination consisting of two parts: general knowledge of basic core area material and in-depth knowledge of a specialized area of the student's choice. The latter may be the thesis research area. In addition to meeting the other requirements of the Graduate School, doctoral students must demonstrate proficiency in the use of computers as described in Master's Degree Requirements above.

Language Requirements—For the master's degree, none. For the doctoral degree, one foreign language. Requests for alternatives may be made to the major adviser.

For Further Information—Contact the director of graduate studies, Computer and Information Sciences, 136 Lind Hall, University of Minnesota, 207 Church Street S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Please read the General Information section of this bulletin for Graduate School requirements that apply to all major fields.

Degree Offered—Ph.D.

Curriculum—Student programs must emphasize modelling—mathematical and physical analyses of control and/or dynamical systems, with some computational or numerical expertise—and two areas selected from the following three: control theory for deterministic processes; stability theory and general analysis of dynamical systems; stochastic processes and information theory.

Prerequisites for Admission—Applicants normally have completed a master's degree in one of the related fields of engineering, computer science, mathematics, statistics, or physics. Master's degrees with an emphasis in control science and/or dynamical systems can be earned in any of these programs at Minnesota. An applicant with a master's degree in another area whose scientific, mathematical, and/or engineering background is adequate to pursue the program will also be considered. A high level of proficiency in mathetics is necessary to successfully complete the Ph.D. program.

Special Application Requirements—Three letters of recommendation evaluating the applicant's scholarship and a complete set of transcripts are required. At least one letter of recommendation must be from a faculty member familiar with the applicant's previous graduate work. Since faculty are drawn from a number of disciplines, and students' programs can reflect a variety of emphases, it is important for applicants to clearly specify career goals and program emphasis desired in their application materials.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—Programs are designed by the student and the adviser. Course work is normally selected from those courses in science, mathematics, engineering, and related fields that are relevant to the field of control science and dynamical systems. The written preliminary examination covers three of the four areas of emphasis (see Curriculum above). Normally students can prepare for this examination by completing three 8xxx or suitably advanced courses in three of the four areas. In addition, students will normally take substantial course work in advanced mathematics.

Language Requirements—For emphases other than mathematics, one foreign language. For the emphasis in mathematics, a second foreign language or a special project.

For Further Information—Contact the director of graduate studies, Control Science and Dynamical Systems, School of Mathematics, 127 Vincent Hall, University of Minnesota, 206 Church Street S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Degrees Offered—M.A. (Plan B only) in education (emphasis in curriculum and instruction), art education, elementary education, mathematics education, and music education; Ph.D. in education (emphasis in curriculum and instruction); and Certificate of Specialist in Education.

Curriculum—Majors for the master's degree in art education, education, elementary education, mathematics education, and music education are administered by the Department of Curriculum and Instruction, under the direction of a single director of graduate studies. The education major with emphasis in curriculum and instruction is divided into the following concentration areas: adult, continuing, and community education; curriculum and instructional systems; English education; international development education; reading education; science education; second languages and cultures education; and social studies education.

For the Ph.D. degree in education with emphasis in curriculum and instruction, concentrations include art education, communications education (children's literature, English education, language arts, and reading), curriculum and instructional systems (adult education, early childhood education, general curriculum, instructional systems, supervision, teacher education), elementary education, mathematics education, music education, second languages education, science education, and social science education.

The specialist certificate is offered in curriculum supervision and mathematics education.

Prerequisites for Admission—Prerequisites vary among areas of emphasis or concentration. Generally a bachelor's degree with licensure fulfills the requirement. For some areas, however, there is no equivalent undergraduate program. In that case, 15 to 20 credits of work at the undergraduate level determined acceptable by advisers and the director of graduate studies are adequate. Some areas require a minimum of one year of teaching experience.

Special Application Requirements—Scores from the Miller Analogies Test are required. Graduate Record Examination scores are helpful, but not required.

Master's Degree Requirements—Students must complete requirements in the areas common to all emphasis areas, in behavioral and humanistic studies, in multicultural education, and in preparation for research. A final oral examination is required.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—Requirements include core courses and course work in the concentration. Students must show competency in methodology and evaluation; social, historical, and philosophical foundations; and psychological foundations.

Specialist Certificate Requirements—Students complete course work in an area of emphasis and related studies. An internship, a project, and final examination are required.

Language Requirements—For the master's degree and specialist certificate,

Fields of Instruction

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—Requirements are designed according to individual student needs.

Degrees Offered—M.S. (Plan A and Plan B) and Ph.D.

Curriculum—Activity centers on the biology of organisms: how they interact in social groups, populations, and communities, and how those interactions have influenced the distribution of organisms in space and time. The program provides unusual breadth of training and encourages the interrelation of two or more fields of specialization, including animal behavior, ethology, evolutionary ecology, vertebrate ecology, radio-telemetry, population biology, invertebrate ecology, plant-animal interactions, plant ecology, paleoecology, limnology, and wetland ecology. Opportunities exist for field research in various parts of the world as well as in local habitats. Each student's program is planned to meet individual requirements. Seminars and tutorials constitute an important part of all programs.

Prerequisites for Admission—Incoming graduate students are ordinarily expected to have completed course work in inorganic chemistry and at least one quarter of organic chemistry, one year of college physics, one year of college calculus, and at least one course each in the areas of animal biology, plant biology, genetics, biochemistry, and physiology. Deficiencies must be made up early in the graduate program.

Special Application Requirements—Three letters of recommendation evaluating the applicant's scholarship and Graduate Record Examination scores are required. Deadline for application is January 15; earlier application is encouraged for individuals seeking financial aid. Successful applicants are encouraged to participate in the Lake Itasca Biology Session during the summer before their first quarter in residence.

Master's Degree Requirements—A complete statement of degree program requirements may be obtained from the director of graduate studies. There are few specific course requirements; each program is planned to meet the individual interests and needs of the student. Participation at a field station and competence in statistics are required. The final examination is oral.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—Individual programs are designed by the student and a three-person advisory committee. Participation at a field station and competence in statistics and the use of computers are required.

Language Requirements—For the M.S. degree, none. For the Ph.D. degree, one foreign language is required.

For Further Information—Contact the director of graduate studies, Ecology and Behavioral Biology, 109 Zoology Building, University of Minnesota, 318 Church Street S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55455.

The master's degree ordinarily serves as a first step for students beginning a program of graduate study in the field. The Ph.D. program emphasizes intensive study in a particular area of educational administration. While the Ph.D. program is available to persons who may follow administrative careers, it is especially appropriate for those who plan to pursue research or teaching careers. The Ed.D. program is particularly suitable for individuals interested in leadership careers in the operation of educational institutions and capable of applying the findings of scholarly research in the school setting.

Prerequisites for Admission—There are no special prerequisites for admission.

Special Application Requirements—There are no requirements in addition to those established by the Graduate School.

Master's Degree Requirements—In addition to course work and research in the field of educational administration, the program includes work in curriculum and instruction, educational psychology, foundations of education, and a collateral or related field outside of education.

The Plan A major must include at least 21 credits in the student's area of emphasis as part of the minimum of 28 credits in the major. At least 8 credits are required from outside the major field. The Plan B major requires a minimum of 45 credits including the following: at least 21 credits in educational administration; at least 12 credits in two or more fields substantively related to educational administration with a minimum of 6 credits in each; and at least 9 credits of independent research work culminating in one 9-credit or three 3-credit paper(s). Students usually complete one of the following courses, depending on the chosen emphasis: for elementary school administration, EdAd 8270; for secondary school administration, EdAd 8271; and for school business administration and general administration, EdAd 8272.

A final oral examination is required for both master's programs. The examination covers the major and minor or related fields and the thesis or project(s).

For further details, see the program publication.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—For the Ph.D., work in a collateral field outside of education is required. The Ed.D. program is flexible and is suited for students with diverse backgrounds. It emphasizes breadth of preparation in education and in substantively related fields. Ed.D. students are encouraged to translate theoretical knowledge into practice in a school environment.

For further details, see the program publication.

Degrees Offered—M.A. (Plan A and Plan B); Ph.D.; and Certificate of Specialist in Education.

Curriculum—Program areas are counseling and student personnel psychology (CSPP); psychology in the schools training program (school psychology); special education; and psychological foundations of education (including evaluation, computer applications, statistics, and research design, as well as learning, cognition, human relations, measurement, personality, social psychology, and instructional systems).

Prerequisites for Admission—There are no special prerequisites for admission at the M.A. level in any of the four program areas, or at the Ph.D. level in school psychology or psychological foundations of education. Doctoral applicants to CSPP or special education must hold an M.A. degree in counseling, psychology, education, or a related field. Applicants interested in earning the specialist certificate should hold an M.A. degree; if not, they should apply to both the M.A. and specialist certificate programs.

Special Application Requirements—

Applicants must submit a department application (with clear indication of the desired program area), a statement of goals and interests, three letters of recommendation, and official transcripts from all colleges and universities attended. These test score are required: Graduate Record Exam (GRE) and Miller Analogies Test (MAT) for M.A., and GRE, MAT, Minnesota Multiphasic Personality Inventory (MMPI), and Strong Campbell Interest Inventory (SCII) for Ph.D., CSPP; GRE and interview, school psychology; GRE, special education; and MAT or GRE, psychological foundations.

Applications to CSPP and school psychology are accepted for fall admission only; the deadline is February 1. Applications to psychological foundations and special education are accepted throughout the year.

Master's Degree Requirements—Programs must include a minimum of four core courses: one in each of the following content areas: statistics, measurement or evaluation, human learning or cognition, and personality or social psychology. The final examination is oral.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—Programs must include a minimum of twelve core courses: three in statistics, two in human learning or cognition, at least one in each of the following areas—measurement, evaluation, personality, social psychology, and critical issues in educational psychology; plus two more. Students should check with their specific program area concerning written general preliminary examination requirements and thesis procedures.

The second year allows for in-depth study in one or two areas of concentration related to the work of the counselor (e.g., career development and career education, family counseling, organizational and systems development, guidance administration). It is expected that the student will have completed course work or can demonstrate competency in specified areas, with specialization in one or two. A year of full-time postbaccalaureate study at either the University of Minnesota or another institution before enrollment in the program is required to qualify for the specialist certificate.

Psychology in the Schools Training Program—In the first year, the student completes requirements for the M.A. degree. The second year includes additional work in educational psychology, psychology, child psychology, diagnostic and remedial procedures, and special education as well as appropriate practicum experiences.

Special Education—This program is designed for students preparing for administrative, supervisory, and consultant positions in special education. Flexibility allows concentration in a particular field (e.g., education of the gifted, the mentally retarded, or the hearing impaired). Generally students will be expected to develop competencies in several areas of special education. Applicants should have basic preparation and experience in at least one special education area as well as licensure for public school work.

Degrees Offered—M.A. (Plan B only) and Ph.D.

Curriculum—Course requirements for the Ph.D. program are broadly defined, allowing the student to shape a program of study responsive to special needs and interests. Three different emphases are available in the master's program: language and literature; literary genre; and writing. The M.A. program may be completed through Continuing Education and Extension, which schedules mainly late afternoon and evening classes.

Admission to the Program—Holders of a bachelor's degree may apply either to the master's program or to the doctoral program. An M.A. degree can be gained en route to the Ph.D. degree. Applicants to the Ph.D. program who show promise but whose qualifications do not warrant direct admission to that program may be invited to enter the M.A. program. M.A. candidates who wish to continue their studies may apply for admission to the Ph.D. program.

Prerequisites for Admission—A minimum of 16 credits in English, 12 of which must be at the upper division level, is required, preferably including satisfactory courses in Chaucer, Shakespeare, and Milton. Students who have not completed courses in Chaucer, Shakespeare, or Milton are required to take them after admission.

Special Application Requirements—

Three letters of recommendation, scores from the General Test of the Graduate Record Examination, and a writing sample, such as a course paper, are required. Most Ph.D. candidates begin their studies in the fall quarter; the relevant application deadline is January 15. Applicants for the M.A. program are admitted quarterly; deadlines for each quarter are as follows: April 15 for either of the two summer sessions or fall quarter; October 25 for winter; January 25 for spring. These deadlines are earlier than Graduate School deadlines and supersede them.

Master's Degree Requirements—The minimum requirement is 44 credits (normally, eleven courses). For the master's degree with an emphasis on language and literature, course work must include: at least 36 credits (nine courses) in English, of which 8 credits (two courses) are at the 8xxx level—including 4 credits (one course) at the seminar level; 8 credits (two courses) in related fields outside of English; and three Plan B papers. For the master's degree with an emphasis on literary genre, course work must include: Engl 8012; 4 credits (one course) in English language or English linguistics; 16 credits (four courses) in literary genres, such as poetry, the novel, drama, and nonfictional prose (three of the four courses to be devoted to the same genre); 8 credits (two courses) in related fields outside of English; three elective courses in English or related fields; and three Plan B papers. For the master's degree with an emphasis on writing, course work must include: at least 36 credits (nine courses) in English—of which 20 credits (five courses) are in writing (including one seminar), and 16 credits (four courses) are in language and literature; 8 credits (two courses) in related fields outside of English; and two Plan B projects.

The qualifying examination for the master's program (all emphases) is written, and is administered twice a year, in the fall and the spring.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—The following courses are required: Engl 8011 and 8012, preferably during the first year of doctoral study; four courses, distributed among broad areas; four additional English courses in a focused area of emphasis; and two extra-departmental courses related to the area of emphasis. Students are encouraged to enroll in additional courses as appropriate.

All doctoral students must take a preliminary written examination and a preliminary oral examination; both are based on a reading list of approximately 50 to 75 books that the student constructs in consultation with his or her examining committee. This list of primary and secondary works defines a broad area of doctoral study. A dissertation and a final oral examination in defense of the dissertation complete the program.

Language Requirements—For the master's program, a reading knowledge of one classical or modern language approved by the director of graduate studies is required. For the doctorate, a thorough reading knowledge of one classical or modern language approved by the director of graduate studies, or a reading knowledge of two such languages, is required.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—A minimum of 16 undergraduate credits in English literature, including a course in Shakespeare, is a prerequisite for undertaking a minor in English.

For a master's program minor, a minimum of 16 graduate credits in English is required. For a doctoral program minor, a minimum of 20 graduate credits in English is required. Students should consult the director of graduate studies for advice in selecting courses.

For Further Information—Contact the director of graduate studies, Department of English, 205 Lind Hall, University of Minnesota, 207 Church Street S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Fields of Instruction

Degrees Offered—M.S. (Plan A and Plan B) and Ph.D.

Curriculum—The department offers basic and advanced instruction for students planning teaching, research, or administrative careers in epidemiology. Courses are also available to students from other public health and health-related programs.

Students may select areas of concentration appropriate to their academic interests and career objectives, including the epidemiology of cancer, epidemiology of infectious diseases, epidemiology of cardiovascular diseases, nutritional epidemiology, and behavioral epidemiology. In addition to the required public health courses, students may select courses from a wide range of areas such as anthropology, biochemistry, computer science (public health), genetics, microbiology, pathology, physiology, and sociology. A detailed description of the course of study and a more comprehensive list of elective courses may be obtained by writing to the director of graduate studies.

Prerequisites for Admission—For the master's program, a strong undergraduate background in biological and physical sciences and high scholastic achievement (i.e., a grade point average of at least 3.00) are desirable.

For the doctoral program, applicants must have received either the M.S. or the M.P.H. degree from an accredited school of public health. Applicants who have not yet completed a master's degree in epidemiology are usually admitted, initially, to the master's program in epidemiology, where they must demonstrate their research capability. Since positions in the program are relatively limited, selection of students is competitive with respect to academic background and experience presented.

Special Application Requirements—The following materials are required by the department: an acceptable score on the Graduate Record Examination (test results should be forwarded to the department); a minimum of three letters of recommendation from faculty or work supervisors with knowledge of the applicant's scholastic and professional capabilities and potential; and a two-page statement of goals and objectives for seeking a career in epidemiology.

In addition to the above materials, applicants for the Ph.D. program must submit evidence of their capability in or potential for original research.

M.S. and Ph.D. students should begin their studies in the fall quarter. Applications must be completed by March 31 of the same year.

Master's Degree Requirements—The M.S. degree program is designed to prepare students for careers in teaching, research and program development, administration and evaluation in health agencies, medical institutions, regulatory agencies, and industry. The two-year program includes advanced course work in the basic medical sciences. Students who have a graduate degree in a health-related field or a professional degree such as an M.D., D.D.S., or D.V.M. may complete the program in one year. Students usually complete the curriculum under Plan B. A Plan A program may be approved subject to the availability of research material and the feasibility of completing the research in the time available. A complete list of degree program requirements may be obtained from the director of graduate studies. Students take an oral final examination.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—The doctoral program is designed to help students develop proficiency in epidemiologic investigations as a preparation for careers in service, research, or teaching in health agencies and institutions. The program includes advanced course work, with electives chosen according to the individual's background, interests, and needs. Students participate in ongoing field research designed to provide increasingly complex experiences commensurate with their development. The thesis should be based on an original field investigation of acceptable complexity and sophistication.

Language Requirements—None.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—For the master's degree, a minimum of 9 credits selected by the minor adviser on the basis of the student's major field of study is required. For the doctoral degree, a minimum of 20 credits selected by the minor adviser on the basis of the student's major field of study is required.

For Further Information—Contact the director of graduate studies, Division of Epidemiology, Stadium Gate 27, University of Minnesota, 611 Beacon Street S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Grad 8777. THESIS CREDITS: MASTER'S. (1-16 cr per qtr; Plan A only)

Grad 8888. THESIS CREDITS: DOCTORAL. (1-36 cr per qtr)

Note—Courses in epidemiology are listed and described in the Public Health section of this bulletin. See PubH 5330 to 5399 and 8330 to 8389.

Family Practice and Community Health (FPCH)

Professor: Edward W. Ciriacy, head; John B. O'Leary, director of graduate studies; Douglas A. Fenderson; John T. Kelly; John E. Verby; Vernon E. Weckwerth

Associate Professor: Carole J. Bland; Harold R. Ireton; Sharon B. Satterfield

Assistant Professor: Janis I. Amberson; Patricia M. Cole; Edmond J. Coleman; Michael E. Metz; Leon J. Nesvacil; John E. Sutherland

Lecturer: Faruk Abuzzahab

Please read the General Information section of this bulletin for Graduate School requirements that apply to all major fields.

Degree Offered—M.S. (Plan B only).

Curriculum—Studies focus on the discipline of family medicine and on academic skills, rather than on the body of clinical skills necessary for family practice.

Prerequisites for Admission—Applicants must have completed an M.D. or D.O. degree.

Special Application Requirements—Applicants must meet with a department adviser to obtain a letter of endorsement, which must be submitted with the formal application.

Master's Degree Requirements—At least 20 credits from the major field are required. Courses designated nonclinical in the following list must make up at least 50 percent of the credits in the major. However, if the total number of credits presented in the major is 30 or fewer, at least 16 credits in nonclinical courses from the following list are required. Courses may be taken from outside the department if they form a coherent sequence related to the major. For the minor, at least 9 credits are required. Courses may be taken from more than one department if they are relevant to the major and form a coherent sequence related to the minor. All courses included in the minor must be nonclinical, and must be taken on the A-N grading system. In lieu of choosing a minor, students may elect to present at least 8 credits in a number of related nonclinical fields outside the major. A final oral examination is required.

Language Requirements—None.

For Further Information—Contact the director of graduate studies, Department of Family Practice and Community Health, Box 381 UMHC, University of Minnesota, 420 Delaware Street S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55455 (mailing address).

Fields of Instruction

Curriculum—Family Social Science is a multidisciplinary program designed to offer the opportunity for an integrated program of study in the areas of family relationships, family therapy, and family economics and management. The program uses the knowledge of various social sciences to study the family as a system and its interaction with other social systems. The goals of graduate training include breadth and depth of knowledge, sophistication and skill in research, teaching, counseling, and interpersonal sensitivity.

A joint master of arts in family social science/master of social work is offered for students interested in specializing in marriage and family therapy. Students are required to apply to both programs, and typically spend their first year in social work, their second year in family social science, and their third year in an internship in marriage and family therapy.

Prerequisites for Admission—Minimum requirements for admission to the master's program include two family courses, four courses in social and behavioral sciences (two family courses can be counted toward this requirement), and one statistics course.

Minimum requirements for admission to the doctoral program include two family courses, eight courses in social and behavioral sciences (two family courses can be counted toward this requirement), one statistics course, and two additional research and/or quantitative courses. Admission to the doctoral program is contingent on completion of a master's degree.

Experience in working with families through paid employment or volunteer work is highly valued.

Special Application Requirements—Consult the director of graduate studies and the Family Social Science Graduate Handbook.

Degree Requirements—Consult the director of graduate studies and the Family Social Science Graduate Handbook.

Language Requirements—None.

Course of Study—Minor in feminist studies, applicable to either master's or doctoral programs.

Curriculum—The Center for Advanced Feminist Studies (CAFS) offers a structured interdisciplinary graduate curriculum for students specializing in feminist studies. The program focuses on the acquisition of skills and competencies in four general areas: interdisciplinary knowledge of women and gender; feminist theories and methods; competency in feminist research in a specific field; feminist practice through teaching or internships.

Prerequisites for Admission—Admission to the CAFS Graduate Minor Program is contingent upon prior admission to the Graduate School and to a master's or doctoral program in a degree-granting department.

Special Application Requirements—Completion of application form, due February 1 for consideration for acceptance into the minor program in the following academic year. Applications received after February 1 will be considered as space allows. It is anticipated that no more than fifteen students will be admitted into this minor each year. CAFS does not require an undergraduate major or minor in Women's Studies as a prerequisite for admission to the minor program. However, applicants are expected to show general knowledge of feminist scholarship as evidenced, for example, in some combination of previous course work, research, writing, or organizational experience.

Minor Requirements—A sequence of two core seminars in feminist theory and methods is required of all students in the program. In addition, M.A. students must take two electives, for a total of 16 credits for a minor. Doctoral students take two additional seminars, in feminist research and writing, and one elective, for a total of 20 credits for a minor.

Language Requirements—None specific to minor program.

Curriculum—The fluid mechanics program is interdisciplinary, with the curriculum based on courses offered in several engineering and scientific disciplines. Research areas include aero-acoustics, boundary layer flow, cavitation, rheology, bluff body aerodynamics, wind engineering, hydro- and aeroelasticity, numerical methods, meteorology, geophysical fluid dynamics, capillary hydrodynamics, flow in porous media, and spray technology. The program offers students maximum flexibility in the choice of courses.

Prerequisites for Admission—Candidates for admission will normally have completed undergraduate work in one of the following related fields: aerospace engineering, chemical engineering, civil engineering, mathematics, mechanical engineering, or physics. The Fluid Mechanics Subcommittee will consider any applicant whose scientific and engineering training is adequate to prepare them to pursue the program.

Special Application Requirements—None.

Master's Degree Requirements—Course work should normally be selected from science and engineering courses that are particularly relevant to the various fields of interest in fluid mechanics. The minor or related field should consist of a reasonable collection of courses that support the major program of study. The final examination requirement is identical to that required of a master's student in the thesis or project adviser's home department.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—The program provides maximum flexibility in course selection. It is desirable, however, that at least 9 8xxx credits be selected from at least three of the several graduate programs from which the fluid mechanics graduate faculty is drawn. The minor or supporting program should consist of any reasonable collection of courses that supports the major program and should be approved by the adviser and the director of graduate studies.

Language Requirements—Students must meet the language requirements of the thesis or project adviser's home department.

For Further Information—Contact the director of graduate studies, Fluid Mechanics, St. Anthony Falls Hydraulic Laboratory, Mississippi River at Third Avenue S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55414.

but highly recommended. Applicants for the doctoral program should supply the names and addresses of three people who can provide evaluations of their capacity for advanced study and independent research.

Master's Degree Requirements—M.S. (Plan B) students, in consultation with faculty members, design a program of study that develops competence in one or more subfields. M.S. (Plan A) students usually design a program to support their specific thesis project. Master's degree students are required to present a seminar on the thesis, Plan B project, or a topic selected in consultation with the graduate adviser. Specific requirements vary by subfield; prospective students should contact the director of graduate studies and/or a prospective faculty adviser for specific information. Students in the M.F. program are required to complete basic science courses and introductory forestry courses if not included in their undergraduate program.

The final examination is oral.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—The program of study is designed to insure that students gain the necessary competence in the subfield for independent research. Programs normally vary from 60 to 90 credits, not including thesis credits. Course selection and thesis proposals are developed by each student in consultation with the faculty adviser for review and approval by the forestry graduate study committee.

Language Requirements—None.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—Students who wish to minor in forestry should contact the director of graduate studies. The selection of courses for an acceptable minor will be influenced by the student's background and educational objective. Minor field competence is evaluated in the oral examination.

Degrees Offered—M.S. (Plan A and Plan B) and Ph.D.

Curriculum—The program provides students with a broad understanding of genetics and related scientific disciplines and with training in basic genetic theory. Students are expected to gain competence in one or more of the specialty areas in genetics. Areas of research in the program include molecular genetics, plant genetics, population and quantitative genetics, human and behavioral genetics, developmental genetics, and cytogenetics. (This classification is for convenience of description only; categories overlap and many research programs fall into more than one category.) Special institutes in human genetics, plant molecular genetics, and biological process technology provide opportunities for graduate study.

Prerequisites for Admission—The program is sufficiently flexible to accommodate students with a wide range of backgrounds. Students with bachelor's degrees in any of the biological, chemical, or physical sciences are encouraged to apply. Recommended academic preparation includes one year each of calculus, organic chemistry, and physics, and background in basic biology including biochemistry and genetics. Physical chemistry is recommended for students interested in molecular genetics. For students of demonstrated ability, background deficiencies can be made up during the first year of graduate study.

Special Application Requirements—Applicants should submit three letters of recommendation from persons familiar with their academic and research capabilities; scores from the General (Aptitude) and Subject (Advanced) Tests of the Graduate Record Examination; and a statement of interests and goals. Recommended date for receipt of completed applications is February 1. Completed files are reviewed between February and June. Graduate studies typically begin in summer session or fall term.

Master's Degree Requirements—The average length of time required to obtain a master's degree is two years. Advanced courses in genetics (including the core sequence GCB 5031, 5032, and 5033) and biochemistry are required, in addition to specialty courses designed to meet the individual student's needs. An oral final examination is required for both plans.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—There are no specific course credit requirements. The Ph.D. program is designed by the student and the adviser to meet individual interests and goals. Advanced courses in genetics (including the core sequence GCB 5031, 5032, and 5033) and biochemistry are required, in addition to special courses, topical seminar courses, laboratory research rotations, thesis research, department seminars, and journal clubs.

Language Requirements—None. Applicants are urged to obtain a working knowledge of at least one language prior to enrollment.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—Proposed minor courses typically include the genetics core series (GCB 5031, 5032, and 5033) supplemented with advanced genetics courses appropriate to the student's field of specialization.

For Further Information—Inquiries about admission should be directed to the director of graduate admissions, Department of Genetics and Cell Biology, 250 BioScience Center, University of Minnesota, 1445 Gortner Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55108. Inquiries about graduate program activities, courses, and research opportunities should be directed to the director of graduate studies in genetics at the same address.

Degrees Offered—M.A. (Plan A and Plan B) and Ph.D.

Curriculum—Geography at Minnesota covers six broad clusters: cultural and historical geography; physical geography; urban and economic geography; cartography and geographic information systems; regional geography; and history of geographic thought. Students work with their advisers to design individual programs suited to their educational and professional goals.

Prerequisites for Admission—Prospective students should have completed the equivalent of introductory courses in physical and human geography and at least seven upper division courses in systematic and regional geography. Students who were not undergraduate geography majors are encouraged to apply but may be required to make up deficiencies.

Special Application Requirements—Three letters of recommendation must be sent directly to the department. Tardy letters will delay processing of the application. Scores from the General (Aptitude) Test of the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) are required of students with baccalaureate degrees from U.S. institutions.

Master Degree Requirements—The final examination for both plans is oral. In unusual circumstances the graduate faculty may substitute a written examination for the Plan B oral examination. For further information, contact the director of graduate studies.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—Information on selecting an adviser and constructing a doctoral program can be obtained by requesting a copy of "Geography at Minnesota" from the director of graduate studies.

Language Requirements—Although there is no formal requirement, M.A. and Ph.D. students are expected to acquire competence in the research tools appropriate to their endeavors as graduate students and to their future professional work. Often these are foreign languages and/or quantitative or experimental skills. The selection of the appropriate skills is the responsibility of the adviser and the student.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—A minor program must be developed in consultation with an appropriate faculty adviser. Consult the director of graduate studies about selecting an adviser.

Please read the General Information section of this bulletin for Graduate School requirements that apply to all major fields.

Degrees Offered—M.A. (Plan A and Plan B) and Ph.D.

Curriculum—Course work and theses may emphasize German literature, philologically oriented aspects of the language, or a combination of the two.

Prerequisites for Admission—For major work, a minimum of 36 upper division quarter credits or equivalent in German, of which a minimum of 20 credits must be in German literature courses, is required. Candidates whose preparatory work evidences gaps that can be remedied may be asked to complete a supplemental reading list before admission.

Special Application Requirements—The following must be forwarded directly to the department: three letters of recommendation, a complete set of transcripts (in addition to transcripts sent to the Graduate School), a copy of one or more papers representative of current level of scholarly development, and an intellectual biography describing the applicant's intellectual development and plans for the future. For the master's program, the General (Aptitude) Test of the Graduate Record Examination is required. For the doctoral program, applicants must have a master's degree from an accredited institution or present other evidence of adequate background and competence.

Prospective students should contact the department for further information. All financial application materials are due February 1; all teaching assistant application materials are due March 1.

Master's Degree Requirements—Students must complete Ger 8111 or 8701; 8112 or 8100; one course in 18th-century literature; one course in 19th-century literature; 2 courses in philology; and 2 or more elective German courses. Consult the current Graduate Study in German brochure for more details. All candidates must demonstrate proficiency in German either by passing a special examination or by completing Ger 5011 with a B or better. Plan B students must submit three research papers of high quality, one of which must be written in German. The final examination is both written and oral, involving not only the areas included in course work but also the works specified in the department reading list.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—A minimum of ten courses beyond the M.A. level is required, including two philology courses, two theory of literature courses and six literature courses. In addition, five or six courses (totaling at least 18 credits) outside the department are required for a minor or supporting program. Students must design their program of study by the end of their second quarter in residence; the program must be planned in consultation with the adviser and approved by the department Graduate Committee. For the written preliminary examination, students select three areas of emphasis and, together with the adviser, compile a reading list for each area. The oral preliminary examination will include general questions on German literature, philology, and the minor or supporting program. Consult the current Graduate Study in German brochure for more details.

Language Requirements—For the M.A. degree, reasonable competence in at least one language other than German and English is required; the choice of the language must be approved by the adviser. Language competence may be demonstrated by scoring in at least the 65th percentile of the Graduate School Foreign Language Test, or by evidence of completion of advanced work in the language.

For the Ph.D. degree, competence in two languages other than German and English must be demonstrated.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—The approval of the director of graduate studies is a prerequisite for minor work in the field.

For Further Information—Contact the director of graduate studies, Department of German, 219 Folwell Hall, University of Minnesota, 9 Pleasant Street S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Degrees Offered—M.A. (Plan A and Plan B) and Ph.D.

Curriculum—Emphases are medieval literature and the history and structure of medieval Germanic languages.

Prerequisites for Admission—None.

Special Application Requirements—Three letters of recommendation and a satisfactory score on the General (Aptitude) Test of the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) are required. A Ph.D. qualifying examination, which is substantially the same as the written M.A. examination in Germanic philology, will be administered to students who have earned their M.A. degree at another institution. This examination must be taken within one year of entering the Ph.D. program. See the program publication for details.

Language Requirements—For the M.A. degree, students must demonstrate competence in English and Medieval Latin. For the Ph.D. degree, students must demonstrate competence in English, German, Medieval Latin, and two additional languages chosen from the following: Swedish, Norwegian, Danish, Faroese, Modern Icelandic, Dutch, French, Italian, Spanish, Classical or Modern Arabic, Classical Greek, Classical Latin, Sanskrit, Hebrew, Russian, Czech, and Polish.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—For a master's degree minor, one medieval language sequence and two additional philological courses are required. All courses must be selected with the help of a philology adviser from the committee. For a doctoral degree minor, emphases in medieval literature, medieval language, modern language, and a combination of these are available. Fields of Instruction

Curriculum—Emphases available for the Ph.D. are Spanish literature, Spanish-American literature, and Lusophone literatures.

Prerequisites for Admission—Prospective students generally have completed an undergraduate degree or substantial course work in the field, although individuals with other backgrounds may be admitted. The Graduate Study Committee may require completion of background course work, without graduate degree credit, for admitted students with insufficient preparation.

Special Application Requirements—Three letters of recommendation from previously attended institutions evaluating the applicant's scholarship and a complete set of transcripts in addition to that required by the Graduate School should be sent to the director of graduate studies. The Graduate Record Examination is strongly recommended, especially for fellowship candidates. Financial aid applications should be submitted by February 1 for fall quarter entry.

Master's Degree Requirements—For specific information about program requirements, consult the Department's Graduate Handbook.

Both written and oral final examinations are required for all M.A. degrees.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—Students who hold an M.A. degree or who wish to bypass the M.A. program must pass a Ph.D. qualifying examination by the second quarter after beginning work toward the doctorate. For further information consult the department's Graduate Handbook.

For the doctoral degree, students must have proficiency—speaking, reading, writing, comprehension—in the minor language (i.e., Portuguese for those emphasizing one of the Hispanic components, Spanish for those emphasizing the Luso-Brazilian component). Proficiency must be demonstrated by use of the minor language in written and oral forms: by writing the minor language topic paper (see the department's Graduate Handbook) in that language in the last of the minor language area courses offered on the program, and by speaking the minor language in relation to the minor area component in the Ph.D. examining process.

Degree Offered—Ph.D.

Curriculum—In contrast to the professional master's degree (M.H.A.) program, the doctoral program is designed for those pursuing careers in teaching and research in the health care field. The curriculum, which normally requires three years to complete, is multidisciplinary and focuses on (1) the social, political, and economic aspects of health care; and (2) research and statistics in health and health care. Supervised research and teaching experience is provided.

Prerequisites for Admission—Although no single program of undergraduate studies is recognized as the best preparation for the doctoral program, prior training in the social sciences, administration, research methods and statistics is recommended. Applicants are expected to have demonstrated proficiency in microeconomics and quantitative methods before admission to the doctoral program. A master's degree in hospital and/or health care administration or advanced training in such allied fields as business administration, medical sociology, economics, public administration, public health, nursing, health planning, or medicine is also desirable.

Special Application Requirements—An undergraduate and graduate grade average of B or better plus above average performance on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) and Miller Analogies Test (minimum raw score of 60) are required for admission. Foreign students whose native language is not English must attain a TOEFL score of 550 or higher to be considered for admission. A statement indicating reasons for seeking the Ph.D., plus three letters of reference attesting to the applicant's academic ability and potential for a career in teaching and research, are required. When possible, a personal interview with members of the admissions committee is desirable.

Language Requirements—Demonstration of a reading knowledge of one foreign language.

For Further Information—Contact the director of graduate studies, Program in Hospital and Health Care Administration, C309 Mayo Memorial Building, Box 97, University of Minnesota, 420 Delaware Street S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Fields of Instruction

Degrees Offered—M.A. (Plan A and Plan B) and Ph.D.

Curriculum—Subfields are collective bargaining; compensation theory and administration; economics of human resources; organization theory and administration; and staffing, training, and development.

Prerequisites for Admission—Entering students are expected to have completed, or to complete during their first quarter, introductory courses in micro and macro economics, psychology, and statistics.

Special Application Requirements—Three letters of recommendation evaluating the applicant's scholarship, a complete set of transcripts (in addition to that required by the Graduate School), and Graduate Record Examination scores are required. Applicants whose native language is not English are required to score at least 550 on the TOEFL.

Entry in the M.A. program is for fall or spring quarter only. Priority application deadlines are February 15 for fall quarter and December 1 for spring quarter. Applications received after these deadlines are considered on a space-available basis. Entry in the Ph.D. program may be in any term; application deadlines are those established by the Graduate School. The financial aid application deadline is February 15.

Master's Degree Requirements—The M.A. degree is offered in day and evening programs. The evening program is designed for students whose daytime obligations interfere with enrollment. For Plan A, a minimum of twelve courses, 16 thesis credits, and a thesis are required (64 credits). Major course work includes 8002, 8001, one course from at least three areas in industrial relations, and three additional industrial relations courses. The related field must consist of a minimum of three courses in an approved field or fields of study related to industrial relations. Commonly selected fields are business administration, economics, psychology, sociology, or statistics. One additional course must be taken in IR or an outside related field.

For Plan B a minimum of sixteen courses (64 credits) and three Plan B papers are required. Major course work includes 8001, 8002, 8003, 8004, 8005, 8006, 8007, 8012, and four additional industrial relations courses. A minimum of 16 graduate credits must be earned in at least two related fields, at least 8 credits of which must be in a single field. It is recommended that students include at least 8 credits or two courses in each of the two related fields. Commonly selected fields are business administration, economics, psychology, sociology, or statistics. A Plan B paper must be written in conjunction with 8001 and 8012. The third paper can be written in conjunction with any other course appearing on the approved program.

Students with limited or no business administration background may take a core of specified M.B.A. courses consisting of a minimum of 12 credits.

A final oral examination is required under both plans after all course work and Plan B papers are completed and the thesis draft approved by the adviser.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—In addition to course work and study in industrial relations, students are expected to have a solid preparation in one or more of the six designated related social or behavioral science disciplines (anthropology, economics, history, political science, psychology, sociology). Students must pass a qualifying comprehensive examination usually taken in the second year of study and successfully complete examinations in research methodology and two of the five industrial relations subfields.

Ph.D. programs should be composed of a major, a supporting program, and either a language or a research program. The supporting program must include a minimum of 24 credits in one or two fields in the social and behavioral sciences. If two fields are elected, each field must consist of at least 12 credits. Course work used to satisfy a part of the major or research technique program may not be used as part of the supporting program.

The graduate faculty in industrial relations may require higher performance standards than those specified in the General Information section of this bulletin.

Language Requirements—For the master's degree, none. For the doctoral degree, students must fulfill a language and/or research technique requirement. Options for fulfillment of this requirement are:

- 1) study of two foreign languages related to research and teaching interests;
- 2) study of one language and completion of a research technique course sequence;
- 3) demonstration of proficiency in a computer language relevant to the proposed research area and completion of research technique course sequence; and 4) completion of a research technique course sequence and an additional 4-credit course from the relevant sequence. (For relevant course sequences under each option, see the director of graduate studies.)

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—Industrial relations may be selected as a minor or as part of a supporting program for the Ph.D. by students majoring in education, hospital and health care administration, or the social and behavioral sciences. The minor must consist of at least 28 credits, including five courses in at least four subfields, plus a Ph.D. seminar. Industrial relations can also be offered as a related field in business administration. Students must complete a minimum of 28 credits and pass the qualifying comprehensive examination in industrial relations. For specific minor and related field requirements, consult the director of graduate studies.

For Further Information—Contact the director of graduate studies, Industrial Relations Center, 537 Management and Economics Building, University of Minnesota, 271 19th Avenue South, Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Please read the General Information section of this bulletin for Graduate School requirements that apply to all major fields.

Degree Offered—M.L.A. (Plan A and Plan B).

Curriculum—The master of landscape architecture program is organized around two tracks: the M.L.A. track for applicants who have earned a B.L.A., B.S.L.A. or equivalent before entry, and the B.L.A./M.L.A. track for applicants who have an earned baccalaureate in another field. The M.L.A. allows students in either track to work closely with faculty to pursue a highly individualized scholarly focus within the broad discipline of landscape architecture. The B.L.A. allows students who have not yet earned an accredited first professional degree to become familiar with the broad spectrum of landscape architecture work and also to earn their fundamental practice credential.

The M.L.A. program is structured around three sequential research seminars organized to provide a thorough approach to defining specific research areas. They utilize the unique metropolitan resources and ecological diversity of the state as well as interdisciplinary linkages to architecture, horticulture, forestry, geography and planning. Specific research areas include landscape theory, landscape evaluation, small community resource planning, urban open space regeneration, and long-term landscape definition. Opportunity is provided to explore teaching methodologies in relation to areas of landscape technology, graphics, theory, land development history, planting design and design studio.

Prerequisites for Admission—Applicants must have completed a B.L.A. or B.S.L.A. degree or equivalent or apply for the combined B.L.A./M.L.A. program. Applicants for the combined B.L.A./M.L.A. program must have earned a baccalaureate in another discipline. A statement of intent to pursue graduate work and to accomplish a course of study in a specialized area of landscape architecture must be submitted along with three letters of recommendation. All applicants must demonstrate undergraduate excellence as illustrated by high scholastic achievement. Applicants with an earned B.L.A. or B.S.L.A. must also demonstrate excellence in a portfolio or in design work. Submission of the portfolio is desirable but not required of B.L.A./M.L.A. combined degree applicants. The Graduate Record Examination is not required. Applicants wishing full consideration for fellowships and assistantships must apply by February 2. However, applications will be accepted at anytime.

Degree Requirements—B.L.A./M.L.A. candidates are required to take a minimum of 69 credits of additional undergraduate work with a design-oriented undergraduate degree, or a minimum of 92 credits of additional undergraduate work with a nondesign undergraduate degree. All candidates must take a minimum of 12 or a maximum of 16 quarter credits of graduate-level landscape architecture courses, including 8281, 8282, 8283, and either 8500 or 8600. For Plan A, a minimum of 28 quarter credits of graduate course work, including the minimum 12 credits listed above, plus a thesis are required. For Plan B, a minimum of 44 quarter credits of graduate course work, including the minimum 12 credits listed above, plus three Plan B papers are required. (Plan B papers may be landscape architecture design projects.) After completing 15 graduate credits, or by the third quarter of registration, candidates must file an official proposed program with the Graduate School. Since there is no minor requirement, M.L.A. candidates are expected to take courses in a variety of related disciplines to meet the objectives of the defined area of specialization. The final examination is written, oral, and graphic.

Language Requirement—None.

Degrees Offered—M.A. (Plan A and Plan B) and Ph.D.

Curriculum—Students may specialize in any subfield of theoretical or applied linguistics. All Ph.D. students must pass preliminary written examinations in phonology, syntax, and historical linguistics.

Prerequisites for Admission—For the master's program, at least one course in each of the following areas is required: phonetics, phonology, syntax, and historical linguistics. These requirements can be satisfied after admission.

For the doctoral program, students are ordinarily required to complete the M.A. degree before being considered for admission. In exceptional cases, a student will be allowed to bypass the M.A. and enter the Ph.D. program at the end of the first year of study if performance in course work and on the Qualifying Examination (see Degree Program Prerequisites below) is sufficiently promising.

Special Application Requirements—Applicants must submit scores from the Graduate Record Examination and complete a supplementary questionnaire detailing background, interests, and accomplishments.

Degree Program Prerequisites—All students are required to take a written Qualifying Examination that, in conjunction with all other information regarding performance in the program, determines their eligibility to continue in the program. The examination must be taken at the end of the first year of study or, if that is not possible, at the next administration of the examination.

Master's Degree Requirements—For Plan A, the following courses are required: 5011, 5202, 5206, 5303, 5304, 5602, 5711, 8510, and one of the following: 5211, 5603, or 8841. For Plan B, the following courses are required: 5011, 5202, 5206, 5211, 5303, 5304, 5602, 5711, 8510, and two of the following: 5603, 5805, 5821, 8841. Students in both plans must take a final oral examination.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—Students are expected to complete a broad course of study including work in phonology, syntax, and historical linguistics beyond that required for the master's program. The Ph.D. program must include the following: 5211, if not completed for the M.A. degree; 5691 or 8841; three topics courses, representing at least two areas (topics courses include 8200, 8300, and 8600, although other 8xxx courses may, with the permission of the director of graduate studies, be used toward satisfaction of this requirement); two 8xxx seminars; 8510 applied to a language different from that studied in the course taken for the M.A. degree, or a course approved as equivalent by the director of graduate studies; and additional courses approved by the adviser.

Ph.D. students select two areas of specialization and are examined in these areas as well as in phonology, syntax, and historical linguistics on the preliminary written examination.

Language Requirements—For the M.A. degree, proficiency in one language not native to the student as demonstrated through an examination approved by the director of graduate studies is required. For the Ph.D. degree, proficiency in two languages not native to the student as demonstrated through an examination approved by the director of graduate studies is required.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—For the M.A. degree, 5001, 5201, and 5302, or their equivalents, are required. For the Ph.D. degree, six courses approved by the director of graduate studies, including those required for the master's minor, are required.

Professor: Walter H. Brovald; Roy E. Carter; Irving E. Fang; Donald M. Gillmor; John M. Lavine; Phillip J. Tichenor; Daniel B. Wackman; Donald E. Wells

Associate Professor: Donald L. Breneman; Hazel F. Dicken-Garcia; Theodore L. Glasser; Chin Chuan Lee; Jean W. Ward

Assistant Professor: John C. Busterna; Robert L. Craig; Kathleen A. Hansen; Nancy L. Roberts; Dona B. Schwartz

Please read the General Information section of this bulletin for Graduate School requirements that apply to all major fields.

Degrees Offered—M.A. (Plan A and Plan B) and Ph.D.

Curriculum—Two types of master's programs are offered. The general M.A. program focuses on the theoretical study of mass communication and emphasizes analysis of media systems. Students completing the general program are particularly suited for careers in communication policy, research, or teaching at the community college level; they may also wish to pursue further graduate study. The professional M.A. program provides preparation for careers in the print and broadcast media, advertising, visual communication, and certain specialty areas such as science journalism and media management. These degree programs combine general study in mass communication with professional skills courses. Although there may be exceptions, the general M.A. program usually follows Plan A; the professional program, Plan B.

The doctoral program offers training for academic careers in communication education, research, or communication policy. Four fields of specialization are offered: communication theory and research methodology; history of mass communication; mass communication agencies as social institutions, which includes communication law and regulation; and international mass communication.

Special facilities include the Minnesota Journalism Center for professional studies, the Media Management and Economics Resource Center, the Silha Center for the Study of Media Ethics and Law, the Eric Sevareid Library, and the SJMC Research Division.

Prerequisites for Admission—The minimum requirement for admission is the B.A. or equivalent.

Special Application Requirements—In addition to Graduate School requirements, a departmental application, letters of recommendation, and scores from the Miller Analogies Test (MAT) and the General (Aptitude) Test of the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) are required.

For students whose native language is not English, TOEFL scores, but not GRE and MAT scores, are required.

Prerequisites for Graduate Study—

Students without an undergraduate major in journalism must complete up to four undergraduate courses (12 to 16 credits), chosen in consultation with an adviser. One of the four courses may be a key lecture course carrying graduate credit, and may therefore count toward the degree. Students may also attempt to satisfy prerequisite requirements through special examination. Prerequisite courses are completed while the student is working on the graduate program. The adviser may not require a student to take specific course work beyond the minimum required. A statement signed by the adviser indicating how the graduate program prerequisites have been met must be attached to the student's graduate program proposal.

Master's Degree Requirements—For Plan A, a minimum of 36 credits plus a thesis are required. Course work must include 8101 and 8001, two additional mass communication seminars, 12 credits in other journalism and mass communication seminars or courses, and 8 credits in other departments, in addition to the thesis. Plan A students must also register for 16 master's thesis credits (Grad 8777). For Plan B, course work must include 8101 and 8102, two additional mass communication seminars, 12 credits in other journalism and mass communication courses or seminars, 8 credits in other departments, and 8 credits inside or outside the department for a minimum of 44 credits, plus a master's project in lieu of a master's thesis. The final examination for the master's degree is oral.

Please read the General Information section of this bulletin for Graduate School requirements that apply to all degrees and to all major fields.

Degrees Offered—M.A. (Plan A and Plan B), M.S. (Plan A and Plan B), and Ph.D.

Curriculum—Special areas of research include ordinary and partial differential equations; probability; real, complex, harmonic, functional and numerical analysis; differential and algebraic geometry; topology; group theory and ring theory; logic and combinatorics.

See also Control Science and Dynamical Systems, and Fluid Mechanics, in this bulletin for Ph.D. programs that rely heavily on mathematics.

Prerequisites for Admission—A solid background in single and multivariable calculus and a minimum of 15 credits of mathematics at the upper division level, including a three-quarter sequence in either analysis or abstract algebra, are required.

Students entering with a bachelor's degree are usually admitted to the master's degree program. Transfer to the Ph.D. program is made when the written Ph.D. preliminary examination is passed and does not require earning a master's degree.

Special Application Requirements—The Graduate Record Examination Subject (Advanced) Test in mathematics is strongly recommended (particularly for applicants seeking financial aid) but not required.

Master's Degree Requirements—There are two Plan B options: general and specialized. The first requires passing part of the written Ph.D. preliminary examination and lays the foundation for Ph.D. degree work. The second requires course work, instead, in an area of concentration that may be in another field. At least one three-quarter 8xxx mathematics sequence is required; additional 8xxx course work may be required depending on the student's program. The final examination is oral.

For further information, see the publication Requirements for the Plan B Master's Degree in Mathematics.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—The written preliminary examination, given twice each year, covers basic analysis, basic algebra, and basic point set topology. Students may take this examination on entry and should ordinarily pass the examination during their second year. All teaching assistants and fellowship students are required to take this examination at each opportunity until they pass. After passing the written examination and completing the course work for the program, students may take the preliminary oral examination for the Ph.D. degree. This examination is given three times a year—in September, December, and June. It consists of four parts, weighted equally, that examine the following: real and complex analysis; algebra or topology or geometry; the thesis area; and the minor or supporting program. Students normally take this examination before their fourth year, how early depending on their level of preparation.

If a supporting program is chosen, it may consist partly or entirely of mathematics courses.

For further information, see the publication Requirements for the Ph.D. Degree in Mathematics.

Language Requirements—For the master's degree, one foreign language, and for the doctoral degree, two foreign languages are required from among the following: French, German, Russian, and Italian.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—For the master's degree minor, a three-quarter 8xxx or 5xxx sequence is required. For the Ph.D. minor in mathematics, course work must include 1) a three-quarter 8xxx sequence or a three-quarter 5xxx sequence that has two quarters of 5xxx course work as prerequisites, or one of the following sequences: 5282-5283-5284, 5571-5572-5573 or 5612-5613-5614; and 2) any three-quarter 8xxx or 5xxx sequence or any two two-quarter 8xxx or 5xxx sequences.

For Further Information—Contact the director of graduate studies, School of Mathematics, 127 Vincent Hall, University of Minnesota, 206 Church Street S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Note—Certain 5xxx courses are acceptable only for satisfaction of the minor requirements in mathematics and may not be counted toward the total credits required for a master's or doctoral program in mathematics. Such courses are designated by the phrase "does not carry grad cr in math."

Since topics courses are all offered when feasible, primarily to serve the needs of Ph.D. candidates, all advanced students are urged to request useful topics by February 1 before the academic year containing the desired courses.

"Offered alternate years," for the mathematics course listing, means offered regularly, but not annually, and not necessarily every other year.

Molecular Biology

Curriculum—Molecular biology is the study, at a molecular level, of the organization, maintenance, and expression of the genetic information of the cell. The principles and practices of molecular biology cut across many traditional areas of biology, including biochemistry, genetics, cell biology, and microbiology. A cross-programmatic admissions and fellowship program has been established for Ph.D. students with interests in this area. Students who enter the Graduate School through this route will receive a non-service fellowship during their first year. They will take courses in molecular biology and related fields and receive laboratory research training. After the first year, students will select an adviser from among participating faculty and enter the graduate program of that adviser. Students will complete requirements and receive their degree in the selected graduate program, but will also participate in molecular biology training throughout their graduate studies.

Graduate programs with faculty participating in this cross-programmatic program in molecular biology include:

Biochemistry
Microbiology
Pathobiology
Plant Physiology
Botany
Plant Pathology
Plant Breeding
Genetics
Cell and Developmental Biology
Animal Physiology
Animal Science
Agronomy
Food Science

Prerequisites for Admission—Prospective students should have completed courses in general and organic chemistry, calculus, physics, genetics, and biochemistry. In addition, courses in quantitative analysis and physical chemistry are recommended. For students of demonstrated ability, background deficiencies may be made up during the first year.

Requirements—All students who enter through this plan must complete the Advanced Molecular Biology course series (BioC/GCB/MdBc 8213 and 8214) or Microbial Genetics (MicB 8112) during their graduate studies. In addition, students are expected to participate in research seminars, laboratory rotations, and journal clubs in molecular biology.

For Further Information—Students interested in entering the Graduate School through this cross-programmatic molecular biology program should contact the coordinator, Molecular Biology, 4-225 Millard Hall, University of Minnesota, 435 Delaware Street S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55455. Students may apply directly to this plan by designating molecular biology on the Graduate School application form. In addition, students may also wish to consider applying directly to individual graduate programs listed above that correspond to their interests.

Degree Offered—Ph.D.

Curriculum—Neuroscience is a relatively new field of scientific inquiry. The objects of this inquiry—the brain and nervous systems—are sufficiently complex and unique among biological systems as to require analytical approaches that cross the traditional boundaries of anatomy, behavioral biology, biochemistry, cell biology, genetics, pharmacology, physiology, and psychology. In some instances, neuroscientific inquiry also encompasses the disciplines of computer science, information processing, engineering, physics, and mathematics.

The core of the neuroscience curriculum consists of a three-quarter lecture course that emphasizes molecular and cellular neurobiology and the application of these principles to neural systems. In addition, an experimental foundation in neuroscience research is established through an accompanying laboratory course. These courses have been formulated, but inclusion in the neuroscience course list awaits formal approval. Elective courses and an appropriate minor field are selected through consultation between the student and the adviser. Students with sufficient background and previous course experience equivalent to one or more courses in the curriculum may apply for waiver of appropriate requirements.

Prerequisites for Admission—Applicants to the Ph.D. program must have a bachelor's degree or its foreign equivalent from a recognized college or university. Undergraduate course work should include instruction in several of the following disciplines: mathematics, physics, chemistry, biology, psychology, and neuroscience. Applicants are required to take the Graduate Record Examination General test and Subject test appropriate to their field of emphasis.

Degree Requirements—Elective courses are selected from the following list and should total at least 16 credit hours. Because thesis work is expected to include statistical analysis of data, a course in statistics, such as PubH 5400, is required. Proficiency in at least one computer programming language is highly recommended.

Language Requirements—None, although a reading knowledge of a foreign language relevant to the student's major field of interest is highly recommended.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—The program for an individual student will be developed by consultation between the student and the director of graduate studies for neuroscience. Students are required to take at least three core courses in three of four areas: function, structure, neurochemistry, and behavior. In addition, students are required to take elective courses in one area, for a total minimum of 18 credits (including the core courses).

If there is evidence that the applicant has a good background in the sciences, some of the prerequisites can be met after admission.

Applicants interested in the M.S. degree with clinical emphasis must offer as prerequisites courses in general biology, human nutrition, microbiology, college algebra, one year each of general and organic chemistry, 20 to 25 quarter credits in food science and nutrition, and a dietetic internship or equivalent.

Applicants to the Ph.D. program who have completed the M.S. degree with a clinical emphasis must have completed the requirements described in the first paragraph above under Prerequisites for Admission.

Special Application Requirements—Graduate Record Examination scores and three letters of recommendation evaluating the applicant's scholarship must be submitted. At least two letters should be from professorial-rank faculty.

Master's Degree Requirements—Students must develop and demonstrate general competence in nutrition, including knowledge of basic biochemistry, physiology, and statistics. In addition, students must develop a minor or coherent related field program in a discipline(s) closely allied to nutrition—e.g., biochemistry, physiology, cell biology, embryology, microbiology, zoology, or food science. An oral final examination is required for both plans.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—Programs are designed by the student and adviser to develop appropriate skills in research and scholarship. A more comprehensive knowledge is required in the subject matter listed above for the master's program. Students complete a minor consisting of an individual subject (e.g., biochemistry) or a supporting program consisting of a cluster of subjects (e.g., biochemistry, physiology, and statistics).

Language Requirements—None, unless specified by an adviser.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—General competence in nutrition.

For Further Information—Contact the director of graduate studies, Nutrition, Department of Food Science and Nutrition, University of Minnesota, 1334 Eckles Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55108.

Fields of Instruction

Degrees Offered—M.S. (Plan A and Plan B) and Ph.D.

Curriculum—Students are provided with a broad understanding of the orofacial region, its development (including aging), structure, function, and pathology. More specialized areas of interest, such as salivary glands and secretions, development of oral structures, mineral metabolism and nutrition, pulp biology, oral microbial ecology and physiology, and mechanisms of microbial infection and immunity, are emphasized in advanced course work and research. Individual programs are planned according to the student's specific areas of interest and may include courses from other disciplines as part of the major. A minor in a related discipline is also required. During each quarter of their first year, students work with a faculty member to gain research experience.

Prerequisites for Admission—Programs are designed for individuals who have completed requirements for graduation with high standing from dental or medical schools and desire to undertake advanced studies in oral biology. In some cases individuals who have not yet obtained the D.D.S. (D.M.D.) or M.D. degree, but who have demonstrated exceptional potential for graduate study, may be admitted for a combined program. Individuals with a bachelor's or master's degree who can demonstrate an appropriate background and an interest in oral biology are considered for admission.

Special Application Requirements—Applicants should submit three letters of recommendation from persons familiar with their academic and research experience. Students may enter the program in any quarter, but fall or winter quarter is recommended.

Master's Degree Requirements—The M.S. degree program generally requires two years or more. Students must maintain a cumulative GPA of at least 3.00 in both the major and the minor and pass a written qualifying examination no later than the end of their fourth quarter in residence. A designated minor in a related discipline is required. The Plan B program involves three papers, at least one of which includes a laboratory study. A final oral examination is required for both plans.

Doctoral Degree Requirements

There are no minimum credit requirements for the Ph.D. program, except for the minor program. Course work is selected to give the student a broad background in oral biology plus advanced work more directly related to the student's research interests. A designated minor is required. Students must pass a written qualifying examination no later than the end of their fourth quarter in residence. The written preliminary examination is taken after the qualifying examination and before the end of the second year in residence. It consists of two research proposals, one representing the student's anticipated thesis research, and the other on a topic assigned by the graduate faculty. The preliminary oral examination consists primarily of a defense of the two proposals described above. Students must present a research seminar in connection with OBio 8030 (which will be attended by the final examination committee) no later than six months before defense of the thesis.

Language Requirements—None.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—A minor in oral biology consists of 9 credits for the M.S. degree and 20 credits for the Ph.D. degree. The minor must include OBio 8010, at least two advanced courses in oral biology, and other course work in consultation with the director of graduate studies.

For Further Information—Contact the director of graduate studies, Department of Oral Biology, 17-226 Moos Health Sciences Tower, University of Minnesota, 515 Delaware Street S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Please read the General Information section of this bulletin for Graduate School requirements that apply to all major fields.

Degrees Offered—M.S. (Plan A and Plan B) and Ph.D.

Curriculum—Research areas in experimental physics are cosmic rays, earth's atmosphere, elementary particles, low temperature, mass spectroscopy, molecular collisions, nuclei, plasmas, solar system, and solid state. Research areas in theoretical physics are elementary particles, low temperature, nuclei, plasma, solid state, and statistical mechanics.

Prerequisites for Admission—For major work, an undergraduate major in physics or a strong undergraduate minor in physics is required.

Special Application Requirements—Teaching associateships and a few fellowships are available on application to the School of Physics and Astronomy; three letters of recommendation are required. Submission of Graduate Record Examination scores is strongly recommended. Fall quarter entry is strongly recommended for students who have not completed previous graduate study.

Special Examination—During the week before the beginning of fall quarter, new graduate students are expected to participate in the department orientation program. At the start of orientation, a placement examination in quantum mechanics is given to help students decide which level of quantum mechanics to take during the first year.

Master's Degree Requirements—For both Plan A and Plan B, either the classical physics sequence 5051-5052-5053 or the quantum mechanics sequence 5151-5152-5153 is required. The minor or related field requirement may be satisfied by completion of courses in one or two areas outside the area of specialization. Some or all of these courses may be in physics.

The Plan B project requirement can be satisfied in one of the following ways: (1) completion of one to three papers written in connection with three courses (totaling at least 9 credits, with at least two courses in physics or astronomy) that are part of the student's program; (2) completion of a project while registered in 8500; the student must obtain approval of the project topic from a faculty member before registering for the course, and a written report on the project is required. In either case, the papers or written report must be made available to the student's final examination committee, which must certify that the Plan B project has been satisfactorily completed. A final oral examination is required.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—The course sequences 5051-5052-5053, 5151-5152-5153, and a year-long (3-credit total) seminar sequence in the student's research area are required. For the minor or supporting field, see Master's Degree Requirements above.

The department written examination, offered once each year early in winter quarter, must be passed in a maximum of two attempts in order to gain admission to the preliminary oral examination.

Language Requirements—There is no formal language requirement for the master's or doctoral degree. In individual instances, however, the thesis adviser may require a reading knowledge of one or more foreign languages if justified by the nature of the research topic.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—For admission to a physics minor, differential and integral calculus and one year of calculus-level college physics are required. For the Ph.D. minor, 18 credits in physics are required including either of the two sequences in classical physics—5021-5022-5023-5024 or 5051-5052-5053—or one of the two sequences in quantum physics—5101-5102 or 5151-5152-5153.

Please read the General Information section of this bulletin for Graduate School requirements that apply to all major fields.

Degrees Offered—M.S. (Plan A and Plan B) and Ph.D.

Curriculum—Plant pathology interfaces with all plant science disciplines. Plant pathology majors have the option of pursuing a special emphasis in mycology. Courses related to mycology are also offered by the Departments of Botany, Food Science, and Microbiology.

Prerequisites for Admission—Master's degree applicants must have a sound collegiate background in the basic biological and physical sciences and mathematics, including 35 quarter credits in biology with at least one course in each of the following areas: botany, zoology, genetics, plant physiology, and microbiology. Applicants must also have completed at least one course in inorganic chemistry, organic chemistry, biochemistry, and physics. Ph.D. applicants must have an M.S. degree or proven master's-level competency in plant pathology, in addition to the prerequisites for the master's program. If prerequisite deficiencies exist, they must be corrected during the first year of the graduate program.

Special Application Requirements—Graduate Record Examination scores, a statement of objectives, and three letters of recommendation must be submitted to the department.

Master's Degree Requirements—Students must take the M.S. core courses (PIPa 5005, 5006, and 5007) and a minimum of 1 credit of colloquium (PIPa 8200) or seminar (PIPa 8201 or 8202). Remaining course work requirements are determined by the student's graduate adviser and the director of graduate studies according to general Graduate School requirements. The final examination is oral.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—Ph.D. students must take the core courses (8001, 8002, and 8003) in sequence, and at least 2 credits of colloquium (8200) or seminar (8201 or 8202). The student's advisory committee and the director of graduate studies determine any other course work in the program. Written comprehensive examinations are mandatory and are administered in the third week of January following completion of PIPa 8003 by a committee of five graduate faculty members elected by the faculty.

Emphasis in Mycology—M.S. students pursuing this emphasis in the plant pathology major must fulfill all M.S. requirements and, in addition, complete 5105, 5106, and 5107. Ph.D. students pursuing the mycology emphasis must fulfill all Ph.D. requirements and, in addition, at least 12 credits in mycology, including 5102, 5109, or 8111.

Applicants to clinical psychology also must have completed at least one course in abnormal psychology. An undergraduate major in psychology is desirable, but not necessary.

Special Application Requirements—A statement of career goals, three letters of recommendation, and Graduate Record Examination (GRE) scores should accompany applications for both the M.A. and Ph.D. programs. Applications are accepted only for fall admission; the deadline is January 15. Minimum acceptable grade point averages and GRE scores and other specific requirements are available from the psychology graduate admissions office.

Master's Degree Requirements—Each student's program is individually planned in consultation with the adviser. In general, since most M.A. programs are practitioner-oriented, Plan B is preferred.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—There are no general course requirements. Each student's program is individually planned in consultation with the adviser. In addition to the requirements of the Graduate School, the department requires successful completion of four general written preliminary examinations and a preliminary examination covering the major area of concentration. Each specialty area also requires completion of a series of Ph.D.-level seminars designed to teach scholarship and research skills.

Language Requirement—None.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—For a Ph.D. minor, requirements are designed according to individual student needs, and generally include 20 to 28 credits of course work.

For Further Information—Contact the Office of Graduate Admissions or the director of graduate studies, Department of Psychology, Elliott Hall, University of Minnesota, 75 East River Road, Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Degrees Offered—Public Affairs: M.A. (Plan B only); Planning: M.Plan. (Plan B only).

Curriculum—The master of arts (M.A.) program in public affairs provides individualized curricula in policy analysis, administration, and topical areas of interest in public affairs. The master of planning (M.P.) program offers professional training in planning. The central concern in both programs is governance—the formulation and achievement of actions in the public interest. Focus is on decision making, public and private, and on techniques of analysis, synthesis, and process appropriate to different circumstances.

Prerequisites for Admission—The core curriculum for both degrees assumes a knowledge of intermediate microeconomics and the rudiments of statistical inference and American government. Applicants with deficiencies may be admitted with the understanding that these deficiencies must be removed as soon as possible after admission. A special remedial course in intermediate microeconomics is offered in the five weeks before the beginning of fall quarter.

Special Application Requirements—A statement of purpose and three letters of recommendation evaluating the applicant's potential for graduate study in public affairs should be sent directly to the Humphrey Institute of Public Affairs. All applicants must submit Graduate Record Examination scores. All application materials should be submitted by February 1 for applicants seeking financial aid, and by April 1 for other applicants. Students should enter the program in fall quarter. Applications received after the April 1 deadline will be considered; however acceptance is dependent on availability of space.

Master's Degree Requirements—For the M.A. degree, students complete at least 64 credits of graduate course work, including the core curriculum and at least 18 credits in a primary concentration plus 12 credits in a secondary concentration; two Plan B projects; and an arranged internship of at least three months. The internship requirement can be waived for persons having equivalent experience.

For the M.P. degree, students complete at least 64 credits of graduate course work, including the core curriculum, a required set of generic planning courses, at least 12 credits in an additional area of concentration and 6 workshop credits; two Plan B projects; and an arranged internship of three months. The internship requirement can be waived for persons having equivalent experience.

An oral final examination is required for both degrees.

Dual Degrees—Dual degrees, consisting of a degree in public affairs or planning taken concurrently with a degree in law, social work, public health, or political science, are available and encouraged. Applicants must submit separate applications to the two programs. Dual degrees with other major fields are under consideration.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—For the master's degree, students complete at least 9 credits chosen from core courses or from a field of concentration. For the doctoral degree, students complete at least 18 credits chosen from core courses and a field of concentration.

For Further Information—Contact the student affairs coordinator, Hubert H. Humphrey Institute of Public Affairs, 230 Humphrey Center, University of Minnesota, 301 19th Avenue South, Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Degrees Offered—M.S.W. and Ph.D.

Curriculum—Concentrations in the master's program include practice in three areas: 1) family and children, 2) health, mental health, and aging, and 3) management, planning, and development. Four dual programs are also available: M.S.W./master of public health, M.S.W./master of arts in public affairs, M.S.W./master of arts in planning, and M.S.W./master of arts in family social science. The doctoral program is designed to prepare students for advanced levels of scholarship and research and to provide intellectual leadership for the profession; it is not designed to provide advanced training for clinical practice. The program emphasizes interdisciplinary study and development of analytic skills to accommodate the diverse interests of individual students.

Prerequisites for Admission—Applicants to the M.S.W. program must present 39 quarter credits in the social sciences, i.e., sociology, political sciences, economics, psychology, history, and anthropology, including one or more courses in at least three of these fields. Applicants must also have completed a course in statistics or must complete one during the first quarter of graduate work. One year of paid or volunteer social work experience is required of all applicants who do not have a bachelor's degree in social work. Doctoral applicants must have earned the master's degree in social work from a school of social work accredited by the Council on Social Work Education, and must have a superior academic record. Significant experience in social work practice is preferred.

Special Application Requirements—Three letters of recommendation, a complete set of transcripts (in addition to that required by the Graduate School), an example of written work, a personal statement, and a department application form are required of all applicants. GRE scores are not required for admission, but applicants who wish to be considered for nomination for a Graduate School Fellowship must submit the scores by January 15. The application deadline is February 1 for the master's program. Priority consideration for the doctoral program is given to applications received by December 15; late applicants to the doctoral program are considered on a space-available basis. Beginning students in either program are admitted only for fall quarter.

Master's Degree Requirements—The master's degree requires the equivalent of two years of graduate study. A part-time program is available. A total of 81 credits is required for the two-year M.S.W. degree; a 69-credit advanced standing program is available to graduates of undergraduate social work programs accredited by the Council on Social Work Education. Students may test out of courses or receive advanced standing credit by examination. All credits must be completed within five years of the date of the earliest course students wish to apply to their M.S.W. program of study. A maximum of 40 quarter credits may be transferred toward the 81-credit M.S.W. degree from the following sources with the approval of the School of Social Work: 1) up to 12 credits of graduate-level course work from Continuing Education and Extension at the University of Minnesota; 2) up to 12 credits of work at graduate level and quality completed as an adult special student at the University of Minnesota; 3) up to 40 credits from another regionally and professionally accredited school of social work, if the student was registered as a graduate student in the program; and 4) up to 12 credits of non-social work electives taken as a graduate student in another university.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—Programs are designed by the student and adviser to develop appropriate skills in research and scholarship. Students must complete basic courses in statistics and research methods. Required components of the program are seminars in research methods, statistics, social welfare history, social policy, and social work practice. The doctoral program requires at least two years of post-master's degree work.

Language Requirement—None.

Fields of Instruction

Degrees Offered—M.A. (Plan A and Plan B) and Ph.D.

Curriculum—Studies in social organization, social psychology, sociological theory, and statistics and research methodology provide background for more advanced work organized around the following substantive foci: family, gender and sexuality; law, criminology and deviance; social self and life course; organizations and occupations; demography and population studies; community; historical and comparative. Although these are the main substantive areas, individual programs can be developed in other specialties such as death education, gerontology, and rural sociology. Training for students interested in both academic and applied employment is generally available.

Prerequisites for Admission—A background in basic sociology, usually consisting of 18 quarter credits in undergraduate work, or an M.A. degree in sociology or a closely related field is required. Individuals who have completed fewer than 18 credits may be admitted but are generally required to complete background course work during their first year of residence.

Special Application Requirements—Applicants are evaluated on their general ability, knowledge of basic skills, creativity, and potential for contribution to the field. Applicants must submit the following: Graduate Record Examination scores; a complete set of transcripts in addition to that required by the Graduate School; two letters of recommendation (three with an application requesting financial aid); a copy of a term paper, written in English; and a statement of professional objectives. Applicants for the master's degree are evaluated and admitted separately from applicants for the doctoral degree. For fall admission, the final application deadline is April 25. For financial aid, the final application deadline is January 15.

Master's Degree Requirements—The department offers both a general academic program (general M.A.) and a more specialized program in policy, research, and evaluation (PREP M.A.). A final oral examination is required for both degrees.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—The program consists of a period of concentrated course work (or its equivalent), extensive preparation in an area of specialization, a significant research experience, preparation in a special research technique, and a doctoral dissertation.

Language Requirements—For the master's degree, none. For the doctoral degree, expertise in a foreign language may be used to fulfill department requirements in comparative sociology.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—Six courses in sociology, including two 8xxx courses, are required. Courses should be chosen equally from two of the department's four subfields.

For Further Information—An informational brochure covering specific admission and degree requirements is available from the Graduate Office, Department of Sociology, 1178 Social Sciences Building, University of Minnesota, 267 19th Avenue South, Minneapolis, MN 55455.

The following areas of concentration are available: ceramics and glass (blowing, cold working); drawing and painting; photography; printmaking (intaglio, lithography, silkscreen, relief); papermaking; and sculpture (metal casting, metal construction, kinetics and electronics, and wood and stone).

Prerequisites for Admission—A bachelor of fine arts or its equivalent, or an undergraduate major in studio arts, is required.

Special Application Requirements—Applicants must submit from 10 to 20 color slides of work completed in their chosen medium to the director of graduate studies in studio arts. Printmaking applicants are urged to submit a minimum of 4 matted original prints in addition to slides. Photography applicants are required to submit a minimum of 8 finished prints.

All applications and portfolios are reviewed during a limited screening period each winter quarter. Completed Graduate School applications (including transcripts) should be received by the Graduate School by January 15. Slides and other materials should be received by the director of graduate studies not later than January 15. Students may apply for admission for either term of the summer session or for fall quarter. Students submitting applications or portfolios after the specified deadlines will be considered only if program space is available.

Degree Requirements—Students must complete a minimum of 75 graduate credits, at least 45 of which must be earned at the University of Minnesota. Additional credits may be required by the graduate faculty. Upon completing the required credits, students must present an acceptable thesis exhibition accompanied by a supporting paper. Minor requirements may be satisfied by completing either (a) 15 credits in art history or (b) 9 credits in art history plus 6 credits in another field outside of studio arts. The M.F.A. degree is considered a terminal degree in these areas of theatre arts. Special facilities include the Performing Arts Archives, the Kerlan Children's Literature Research Collection, and various language centers.

Prerequisites for Admission—For all programs, a minimum of 18 undergraduate credits or the equivalent in theatre arts is required. The master's degree is a prerequisite for admission to the Ph.D. program.

Special Application Requirements—Applicants must submit scores from the Graduate Record Examination. For the M.F.A. degree, an audition is required. Contact the director of graduate studies for further information.

Applications for all programs are screened twice each year, once in February and once in April. Deadlines for these screenings are January 15 and March 15, respectively. Applications are processed after these dates only if program space is available. New M.A. and M.F.A. students are admitted for fall quarter only. Those accepted for fall quarter may enter the preceding summer if they notify the Graduate School by May 15. Ph.D. students may enter in any quarter.

General Degree Requirements—A comprehensive diagnostic examination must be taken during the first quarter of residence. All graduate students are required to take 8101.

For certain graduate programs, there are limits to the number of credits in practicum and performance courses (5100, 5321, 8311, 8312, 8313, 8321-8322-8323, and 8326-8327-8328) that may be used to satisfy degree requirements. These limits are as follows: M.A., Plan A, 6 credits; M.A., Plan B, 9 credits; Ph.D., 18 credits. There is no limit for the M.F.A. degree. No more than one half of the credits that the Graduate School accepts for transfer to a master's degree may be in practicum and performance courses.

Master's Degree Requirements—For the M.A. degree, Plan A, general Graduate School requirements prevail. For the M.A. degree, Plan B, the minimum of 27 credits in the major field should be selected from the various subfields. Program descriptions may be obtained from the director of graduate studies. Final written examinations are required for the M.A., Plan A and Plan B; in addition, a final oral examination is required for Plan A.

For the M.F.A. degree, a minimum of 84 graduate credits is required. Written and oral final examinations are required for the M.F.A.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—Programs are designed by the student and adviser to develop appropriate skills in research and scholarship. The student will demonstrate special competence in the subfield of history and dramatic literature, in a performance area, and in an additional subfield agreed on by the student and adviser. The choice of a minor is subject to approval from the major and minor advisers. A supporting program may be substituted for the minor with approval from the major adviser and director of graduate studies. Of the minimum 20 credits required for the supporting program, as many as 12 credits may be completed in any of the theatre arts subfields not represented in the major. The minimum for non-theatre arts courses is 8 credits in at least two different courses (preferably in a single outside field), each of which carries at least 3 credits.

Students are also expected to acquire a technique for carrying out thesis research, which requires completion of a minimum of 9 credits in relevant courses. Competence in a foreign language, statistics, historiography or critical methods may be offered to fulfill this requirement. Candidates must pass comprehensive written and oral examinations demonstrating competence in all subfields.

Language Requirements—For the master's degree, none. For the doctoral degree, one thesis-related language may be required. See Doctoral Degree Requirements above.

For Further Information—Contact the director of graduate studies, Theatre Arts Department, 204 Middlebrook Hall, University of Minnesota, 412 22nd Avenue South, Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Therapeutic Radiology (TRad)

Professor: Seymour H. Levitt, head; Chang W. Song, director of graduate studies; John H. Kersey; Faiz M. Khan; Mark E. Nesbit

Please read the General Information section of this bulletin for Graduate School requirements that apply to all major fields.

Degree Offered—M.S. Ther. Rad. (Plan A only).

Curriculum—Specialized study is available in clinical research and in radiobiology and radiation physics. Clinical research entails implementing new protocols of radiotherapy and analyzing the results. Research in radiobiology involves investigating the effects of ionizing radiations on biological systems, with emphasis on developing new means to control tumors. Research in radiation physics seeks the means to deliver radiation energy to tumors with minimal damage to normal tissues.

Prerequisites for Admission—Applicants must hold an M.D. degree from an approved medical school; they are eligible for appointment as medical fellows with a stipend in therapeutic radiology. Medical fellows without stipend are also accepted if places are available. Previous preparation in internal medicine, pathology, or both is highly desirable although not required. The course of study extends over three to four years, excluding any time devoted to other subjects. For those who have been away from medical practice for a considerable period, a preliminary program of studies in the laboratory sciences and general medicine is highly desirable.

Master's Degree Requirements—Students must take a minimum of 20 credits in therapeutic radiology and a minimum of 8 credits in one or more nonclinical fields to make up the minimum of 28 credits required. If students wish to complete a designated minor, they must take 9 or more credits in a single nonclinical field, making 29 credits the minimum requirement for a Plan A degree with a designated minor. A final oral examination is required.

Language Requirements—None.

Water Resources

Graduate specialization in Water Resources is pursued within a variety of departments in the physical, biological, or social sciences. Studies may focus on a single discipline or be multidisciplinary if the adviser and department agree. The principal departments involved and their areas of specialization related to water resources are:

PHYSICAL SCIENCES

Agricultural Engineering—irrigation and drainage, hydrology, erosion control, agricultural waste management, environmental control

Civil Engineering—hydrology, hydromechanics, environmental engineering, environmental chemistry, water resources management

Geology and Geophysics—hydrogeology, geophysics, limnology

Soil Science—soil water, climatology, erosion control, nonpoint pollution

BIOLOGICAL SCIENCES

Ecology and Behavioral Biology—Ecology, freshwater ecology, aquatic ecology

Fisheries and Wildlife—Fisheries biology and management, wildlife biology and management, ichthyology

Environmental Health—Environmental biology, groundwater supply, water quality

Forestry—Forest hydrology, and water quality, outdoor recreation, watershed management

Plant Pathology and Physiology—Plant-water relationships

SOCIAL SCIENCES

Agricultural and Applied Economics—Resource, environmental, and recreation economics

Geography—Climatology, cartography, water resources

Law—Resource law, environmental regulation

Public Affairs—Resource policy

Fields of Instruction

Students interested in water resources should consult with the graduate faculty of the above departments. The choice of major will depend on the student's baccalaureate background; a student with a bachelor's degree in the physical sciences, for example, would normally choose to work in one of the departments listed above within the physical sciences group. However, a baccalaureate degree in one of the specific disciplines listed is not usually required in order to pursue graduate studies in water resources; students with degrees in such areas as physics, chemistry, biology, or mathematics are considered for graduate study in several of the above departments. Prior training in water resources is not required; however, certain course work required of undergraduates in the chosen major may need to be completed without graduate credit by a student newly entering a discipline.

The minor field is most often chosen within the same broad science group as that of the major to take advantage of the student's undergraduate preparation. However, some students may find it desirable to broaden their background by completing a minor or supporting program in a different science area.

Courses pertinent to water resources are listed in the sections of the various departments named above. In addition, the University has a number of research facilities (field stations, laboratories, centers, dedicated research sites) devoted to water resources research. The resources of these facilities may be used in connection with thesis work.

Wildlife (FW)

Professor: Gary E. Duke; Gordon W. Gullion; Ulysses S. Seal; Donald B. Siniiff; John R. Tester

Associate Professor: James A. Cooper, director of graduate studies; Peter A. Jordan; James R. Kitts

Assistant Professor: Yosef Cohen; Francesca Cuthbert; J. L. David Smith; Michael C. Zicus

Please read the General Information section of this bulletin for Graduate School requirements that apply to all major fields.

Degrees Offered—M.S. (Plan A and Plan B) and Ph.D.

Curriculum—This program is administered within the Department of Fisheries and Wildlife. The wildlife graduate program, unlike the ecology program, is an applied program stressing resource-management applications. For the M.S. degree, emphasis is on wildlife biology and related areas in ecology, animal behavior, and physiology, as well as on management and problem-solving approaches. For many students, the M.S. is a terminal degree leading to employment with government resource-management agencies. For the Ph.D. program, emphasis is on basic biology and ecology with concentrated work in independent, original research.

Prerequisites for Admission—For the M.S. program, a bachelor's degree and a biological sciences background, preferably with emphasis on terrestrial or wetland vertebrates, and a natural resource management orientation are prerequisites. A strong background in physical sciences and mathematics is expected; familiarity with statistics and computer use is desirable. For the Ph.D. program, a master's degree in wildlife science or a closely related field is normally required.

Special Application Requirements—Three letters of recommendation are required from persons able to evaluate the applicant's scholarship and professional experience. Also required are scores from the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test. Applicants taking the examination should list the biological sciences department code. Applications are accepted at any time; however, since the faculty reviews most applications in early February for admission the following fall, it is recommended that complete applications be received by February 1.

Master's Degree Requirements—Plan A is recommended; Plan B is available under special circumstances. Students must become familiar with factors underlying wildlife population and habitat ecology, techniques in management, and the functioning of management agencies. Academic work includes graduate-level courses in animal ecology, wildlife management, and statistics. The Plan A thesis should involve at least one field season but no more than two. Plan B students specialize in one to three projects involving field, laboratory, or planning work. An oral preliminary examination is required as well as a final seminar and oral defense of the thesis or Plan B papers.

Doctoral Degree Requirements—Programs include basic wildlife biology and development of analytical skills, and one or more additional areas of specialization. Work on the thesis, which is usually field-oriented, may extend over two but not more than three years. In addition to the final oral examination, students must give an oral presentation describing the dissertation results.

Language Requirements—For the M.S. degree, none. For the Ph.D. degree, a foreign language is required only when the advisory committee determines that a language is needed to support the student's research objectives. Symbolic language (computer programming) is recommended for all students.

Minor Requirements for Students Majoring in Other Fields—Programs are designed according to individual student needs, while insuring a reasonable exposure to wildlife ecology and management.

For Further Information—Contact the director of graduate studies (wildlife), Department of Fisheries and Wildlife, 200 Hodson Hall, University of Minnesota, 1980 Folwell Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55108.

Art

Director of Graduate Studies—Associate Professor Dean R. Lettenstrom

Degrees Offered—M.A. (Plan B only) emphasis art studies; M.A. (Plan B only) emphasis studio art.

Prerequisites for Admission—The normal prerequisites for admission are an interest in personal development in studio; an interest in related areas such as art history, museum studies, humanities, or teaching; and a B.A., B.S., or B.F.A. degree in art. Individuals with undergraduate degrees in other disciplines who have completed a substantial number of art courses may be considered for admission. Students with minor deficiencies may be admitted with the provision that equivalent course work or approved substitutions be completed during the first year of graduate study.

A portfolio of slides (15 to 30) of original work is required as part of the application. Other relevant visual material in the form of videotape or film may also be included. Applicants may be requested to submit actual work. All supporting materials should be sent or hand-delivered to the director of graduate studies, Department of Art, at the time the application form is submitted to the Graduate School office. When feasible, applicants should schedule an on-campus interview.

Full-time attendance for three quarters and summer work is necessary in most cases to complete this degree.

Emphasis Art Studies—Candidates may focus on one studio area or pursue work in several related studio areas. Art history is part of the related field requirement, and other approved courses may be elected from the humanities, education, or internships in museum practice or arts administration. Candidates will complete an approved 6- to 9-credit project and supporting paper, will participate in the Graduate Review studio sessions, and complete the oral examination. At least 44 quarter credits are required in the following areas: 20 to 29 credits in art, 9 credits in art history (related field), and 6 to 15 credits in other related areas, including the final project and supporting paper.

Major Requirements—At least 20 credits in six approved physics courses numbered above 5103, including at least 8 credits chosen from 5123 or 5124 or 5125 (no more than one of these three courses), and 5109, 5166, 5174, 5176, 5177, and 5178.

For a more interdisciplinary concentration—for example, in geophysics—an individualized program can be planned by the student and his or her adviser to suit the student's needs and interests. Such a program must be approved by the director of graduate studies.

Related Field Requirements—8 credits in related fields outside of physics, such as biology, chemistry, geology, or an interdisciplinary study in environmental problems. A student who wants to complete a minor must complete 9 credits in a single department outside physics.

Course Key

Course Numbers—Courses numbered from 5000 to 5999 (listed as 5xxx if individual course number unspecified) are open to juniors, seniors, and graduate students except in the School of Dentistry and a few departments of the Medical School. Those numbered 8000 or above (8xxx) are open to graduate students only. Courses at the 1000 (1xxx) and 3000 (3xxx) levels are for undergraduates and may not be applied to graduate programs. Courses numbered 0000 to 0999 do not carry credit.

Sequence Courses—A hyphen between course numbers (e.g., 5121-5122-5123) indicates a sequence of courses that must be taken in the order listed.

Series Courses—A comma between course numbers (e.g. 8301, 8302, 8303) indicates a series of courses that may be entered any quarter.

Department Prefixes—In conjunction with course numbers, departments are designated by a 2-, 3-, or 4-letter prefix (e.g., CE for Civil Engineering, Pol for Political Science, WoSt for Women's Studies). When no department prefix precedes the number of a course listed as a prerequisite, that prerequisite course is in the same department as the course being described.

Course Symbols—The following symbols are used throughout the course descriptions of all University bulletins to denote common and recurring items of information.

* Courses in which graduate students may prepare Plan B projects.

† All courses preceding this symbol must be completed before credit will be granted for any quarter of the sequence.

§ Credit will not be granted if the equivalent course listed after this symbol has been taken for credit.

- ¶ Concurrent registration is allowed, or required, in the course listed after this symbol.
- # Registration Override Permit, completed and signed by the instructor, is required for registration.
- △ Registration Override Permit, completed and signed by the department offering the course, is required for registration.
- Registration Override Permit, completed and signed by the college, is required for registration.
- f,w,s,su Fall, winter, spring, summer (follows the course number).
- H Honors course (follows the course number).
- x Course is offered more than one quarter.
