Gov. Rudy Perpich's budget recommendations to the 1977 Legislature include $353 million for the U, excluding salary increases. This compares with a 1975-77 appropriation of $313 million and U's request for $366.6 million for 1977-79. Governor's recommendations include more than $14 million for items that were not included in the U's request.

No new regular faculty positions, except an unrequested appointment in Minnesota history, were included. About 15 new faculty appointments were recommended in the legislative specials and about 76 civil service positions were included, mostly for maintenance of new buildings. The U had requested a total of 733 new positions. Any enrollment-related positions should come from increased tuition revenue, Perpich said.

State replacement of private funds for graduate fellowships and the requested $1.8 million increase for libraries were included in recommendations. Perpich recommended $200,000 of the requested $1.8 million increase for agricultural research and approved the requested diagnostic laboratory and teaching hospital in the College of Veterinary Medicine.

Governor approved the full request for women's intercollegiate athletics and an equal amount for men's sports. Total was unclear after initial study.

Governor's health priorities stressed preventive medicine. He recommended an increase of $14 million for medical research at the U and proposed a $3 million dental research program and $1 million for a health services research center. These were not in the request.

"We'll need to study the Governor's recommendations before knowing specifically how they relate to our request," said President Magrath. "I see some encouraging items, such as more support for libraries and graduate fellowships. But we will continue to seek additional faculty positions, and we have placed a high priority on salary increases."

President Magrath accepted Gov. Perpich's challenge to cut back on energy use at the U by at least 20%. Energy task force directed by Asst. VP C. Luverne Carlson will meet daily during the early phase of the fuel crisis and will be on call through the heating season.

Magrath expressed hope that the U will not have to close or switch to a 4-day week, but he said a 4-day week is still "a distinct possibility if the energy situation worsens and we are unable to show dramatic reductions in energy use." In that event, Magrath urged a staggered schedule: closing Monday one week, Tuesday the next, and so on.

Temperatures have been lowered to 65° during working hours and 60° during nights, weekends, and holidays in buildings on all campuses (except for hospitals and research labs where such temperatures would be unworkable). Lighting has also been reduced.

Five campuses are heated in different ways. Duluth, Morris, and Waseca use fuel oil, Twin Cities and Crookston use coal. Although the crisis involves fuel oil and not coal, the U is reducing its energy use throughout the system because all energy sources are related.

Minority enrollment for fall 1976 was nearly the same as in 1975. More minority-group women and fewer men were enrolled. Total of 2,748 compares with 2,783 in 1975. Twin Cities and Waseca campuses reported slight increases and other campuses slight decreases.

DULUTH--Officials from UMD and Energy Research and Development Administration signed a contract Jan. 18 for coal gasification plant that will convert low-sulfur coals to gas and oil for firing UMD boilers. The $4.8 million project will take 17 months to complete.

Program to reduce energy consumption on campus 20-25% has been set in motion. A 19-member energy emergency task force is chaired by Vice Provost Robert Bridges.

CEE evening classes will meet as usual, but a gradual effort will be made to consolidate the classes in a few buildings. Extracurricular activities will not be curtailed during the energy emergency, but temperatures will be reduced to no more than 60° at the site of the event, and efforts will be made to cancel as many other evening events as possible. Library and food service units will remain open as usual.

All employees are asked to keep windows closed, turn lights down when in use and off when not in use, avoid using space heaters, and report overheating or uncomfortably low temperatures by calling 373-3625 (answered 24 hours a day).

Temperatures in Coffman Union and the St. Paul Student Center have been lowered to 60° on weekends, and the possibility of closing both buildings on weekends is being considered.

Williams Arena will be cooled to 50° on game days instead of the usual 58°. Since body heat brings the temperature up quickly, lower temperature at game time is not expected to result in any great discomfort to fans or to jeopardize the health of athletes.

Continuing increases in the enrollment of women and a 24% increase in adult-special registration resulted in a record winter-quarter enrollment of 53,329. Last winter: 51,964. Women now account for 42% of enrollment, compared to 35% a few years ago.

Importance of liberal education in helping young people cope with ethical and identity pressures is too often overlooked, UMD English professor Wendell Glick told the Regents. In commenting on the accomplishments of the U, he said, "we most often dramatize our research efforts and the sensational things we are doing at the expense of the people in the trenches teaching the freshmen and sophomores."

Faculty salary request is "the No. 1 emphasis and the No. 1 priority" of the U in its legislative request, President Magrath told the education division of the House Appropriations Committee last week. He said the $37.5 million the U is seeking for pay increases would keep the U competitive with "our traditional marketplace" of the Big 10 public universities and the U of California. Request is for annual increases of 11% and 8%.

Faculty spokesman Ken Keller supported the salary request and took issue with charges that the U is overstaffed because enrollment has not increased as much as predicted. "We are simply forced to hire people who are not related to the student-faculty ratio," he said. "There is, for example, a request for a sculptor on the Morris campus. That program can't exist as a major without the teaching position."

Magrath and Keller defended the request for 205 new permanent faculty positions. Magrath said the assumption is that about 660 faculty members will retire during the 1980s. Enrollment increases are expected until 1981, followed by a decline. Keller expressed reservations about a proposal to hire temporary faculty during the time of enrollment growth. "You can't really get the best people for one year," he said.

Gov. Rudy Perpich has made no recommendation yet on faculty salary increases. His budget proposals recommended against the U's requested new positions.

U officials revealed last week how they would spend the more than $2.5 million Gov. Perpich has recommended for intercollegiate athletics if it were appropriated by the Legislature. U request had been for $1.25 million for women's sports to bring the U into compliance with federal law; Perpich recommended an equal amount for men's sports.

VP Bruning said $917,495 would go for men's sports on the TC campus over the next 2 years, $52,889 to Crookston, $190,600 to Duluth, $47,507 to Morris, $56,109 to Waseca. New funding for women's sports, in addition to present base, would be $654,000 for TC campus, $8,645 for Crookston, $38,173 for Duluth, $25,700 for Morris, $6,080 for Waseca.

Constitutional amendment to end the U's autonomy has been reintroduced in the House. Question to be submitted to voters in 1978 would be: "Shall the Minnesota Constitution be amended to make the administration of the University of Minnesota subject to statutory law as are all other public institutions of higher education in the state of Minnesota?"

MPIRG leads 26 public interest research groups in the nation in the number of campuses from which it collects (16) and ranks second (to New York) in its annual budget ($163,723) and full-time staff (12). "Qualified freeze" on the hiring of new faculty pending legislative action on the U's $366.6 million biennial request has been announced by President Magrath. "It is obvious that we will not receive many net new instructional positions for 1977-79 (and possibly some cuts), but it would be a serious mistake to overreact or draw hasty conclusions," Magrath said in a memo to administrators last week.

Both House and Senate subcommittees on education have voted down continued funding for an estimated 147 positions added at the U last fall in anticipation of enrollment increases. The U had requested 205 new instructional positions in addition to the 147 already in the budget. Gov. Perpich recommended the 147 enrollment-related positions but no new program-related positions, essentially a stand-still recommendation.

Education subcommittee of the Senate Finance Committee trimmed the 147 workload-related positions Monday night and then added 33.5 of the 199 positions the U requested in the programs that were covered in the hearing.

In his memo last week, Magrath held out hope for much of the U's requested 11% faculty salary increase the first year and 8% the second year of the biennium. Subcommittee chairman Roger Moe commented on the salary request during the hearing. "Anybody who thinks they're going to get 11 and 8 in salary is living in a dream world," Moe said.

HEW auditors have questioned more than $28 million charged by the U against federally funded grant projects in 1972-74. Charges of $25 million for salaries and wages, fringe benefits, and indirect costs and $3.7 million for cost transfers were questioned. Most of the money was for health research.

Negotiated settlement will be sought between the U and granting agencies. Clinton Johnson, U treasurer, said he is optimistic that the amount in question will be substantially reduced. Other universities that have had charges questioned have had their obligation reduced to amounts such as $500,000 and $200,000, he said.

Government report called the U's time-accountability system during the period of the audit "generally not adequate" for the identification and recording of costs incurred.

Hiring decisions on many new faculty will be delayed until students are registered for next fall, VP Kegler told the Regents last week. This departure in hiring policy is the result of legislative reaction to the hiring of about 147 new faculty last fall in anticipation of increased enrollment and thus more income from tuition.

Enrollment increase of about 1,900 students is expected next fall. Additional staff may again be hired from tuition income, but not until students are registered.

President Magrath, commenting on the status of the legislative request, said: "It's not a catastrophe, but we are going to face some problems."

Faculty salary increases of 6% each year of the 1977-79 biennium, plus fringe benefits, have been recommended by Gov. Perpich. Senate subcommittee recommended 6.5% the first year and 6% the second, including fringes. House has not yet acted on salaries.

A weekly internal bulletin serving all campuses

President Magrath will discuss the status of the legislative request at the TC Campus Assembly meeting April 28, 3:15 p.m., in Nicholson auditorium, with hook-ups to the coordinate campuses. Discussion will be the first item on the agenda.

About 40 faculty leaders met last week with President Magrath and VPs Kegler and Koffler to express displeasure with the way the Legislature is receiving the U's request. They said faculty real income has fallen sharply compared to that of other state employees.

Civil service staff members in some cases are making more money than the faculty members they work for, faculty spokesmen said. "We eliminated one research position because the postdoctoral research fellow ended up making less than the civil service people who were working for him," said Alfred O. Nier, physics.

Proposed cutbacks in staff are falling disproportionately on academic ranks, said J. Bruce Overmier. House and Senate subcommittees have recommended a cutback of 147 faculty and 110 civil service positions that were added in anticipation of enrollment increases over the past 2 years. Anticipated enrollment increases in the next biennium may mean that those positions can be filled again, President Magrath said.

Harriet Lewis, a TA in classics, expressed concern that a disproportionate number of cuts would come at the teaching assistant rank, as in past retrenchments. "In 1970, there were 6,000 graduate assistants," she said. "Today there are 2,800."

Senate Committee on Educational Policy met Tuesday to consider report of the Committee for the Organization of Experimental Educational Programs, including recommendations that U College be continued and that an assistant VP for academic affairs be added to coordinate U-wide experimental programs.

President Magrath and his wife Sandra have announced their decision to separate after 22 years of marriage. Their statement: "After much thought and consideration, we have made the difficult decision to separate on an amicable basis. A divorce is possible, but that decision is left open. Since this is a personal matter affecting the two of us, we sincerely ask that our desire for privacy be respected." Magrath will continue to live at Eastcliff. UMC has received CETA funds for 3 technical positions.

DULUTH--Senior Neill Atkins was elected Student Association president in elections last week. Referendum on MPIRG funding was not tabulated after MPIRG and Student Association agreed that methods used by both groups to sway opinion would render results questionable. Second referendum, on whether student fees should be mandatory, received 609 "no" and 426 "yes" votes. About 18% of student body voted in election.

A weekly internal bulletin serving all campuses

Good news/bad news quip characterizes the legislative situation, President Magrath told TC Campus Assembly and coordinate campus listeners last week. Several key issues are still open. House has passed its appropriation bill, and Senate has passed House bill with amendments. Conference committee will resolve differences.

Most serious problem is the decision to cut 147 faculty and 110 civil service positions, Magrath said. Dollar amount of cuts is $4.2 million in House bill, $3.7 million in Senate. After ordering cuts, however, House and Senate recommended adding 33-39 new faculty and 64-85 new civil service positions.

Net increase in appropriation will be at least $45 million and may be as high as $60 million, VP Kegler said. He said it will be difficult for the public to understand the U's pain when "we will end up with about our usual share of the pie."

Support for libraries, graduate fellowships, research, and equipment replacement are in the "good news" category, Magrath said.

Fringe benefits negotiated for state employees (including dental coverage) will be given to U faculty and staff. Disadvantage is that amount for improved fringes for faculty will come out of salary money, Magrath said.

Funding for Unit F (pharmacy-nursing building) was approved by the Education Division of the House Appropriations Committee. Offer of federal funding expires May 15 if the Legislature does not fund state share. Unit F is the U's top-priority building request.

Cease and desist order issued against the U in 1973 was rescinded last week. Order restrained the U from changing working conditions in an attempt to influence the outcome of a faculty collective bargaining election. Bureau of Mediation Services and U officials said that the same restraints are still required by state statute.

Eight faculty members will receive Horace T. Morse-Amoco Foundation Awards for outstanding contributions to undergraduate education for 1977. They are Philip Allen, Waseca; Evelyn Unes Hansen, GC; James Henkel, pharmacy; Ernest Kemble, Morris; Kenneth Nafziger, Morris; Mischa Penn, UC; Betty Wallace Robinett, CLA; and Karen Viskochil, Medical School.

Working conference of administrators from land-grant universities and the U.S. Agency for International Development will discuss ways of implementing the Famine Prevention and Freedom from Hunger Amendment to the 1975 Foreign Assistance Act in Minneapolis this week. President Magrath and Deputy VP Hueg will be among participants.

Faculty salary increases of 7.9% the first year of the biennium and 8% the second (fringe benefits included) were voted by the House-Senate conference committee Friday. Staff members estimated that cash raises would amount to 6.2% the first year and 7% the second. Rep. Ray Faricy said the raises would bring U faculty increases to slightly below those awarded State University System faculty through binding arbitration.

Legislative appropriation approved by House-Senate conference committee is about $44.7 million above the appropriation 2 years ago, but the new money is committed to specific areas. Retrenchment from money that is allocated to academic and civil service positions will have to total about $4.7 million, VP Brown told the Regents last week.

Faculty retrenchment will affect all campuses and "will follow the legislative reasoning so far as possible," President Magrath said. He said administrators will consult with faculty, students, and staff. Budget plan will go to Regents for action in June.

Positions and dollars will be retrieved from the units that received allocations of excess tuition income in anticipation of enrollment increase, Magrath said, and any residual retrenchment will be "spread across those units most able to handle the reduction."

MPIRG contract was renewed for 2 years on a vote of 8-3 with 1 abstention. Regent Goldfine, who opposed the 2-year renewal last year, changed his vote after talking with students at UMD and finding "strong and overwhelming support" for MPIRG.

Handful of protesters chanted and pounded on the door while Regents were meeting. Group was protesting U investment in corporations that have holdings in southern Africa.

Recombinant DNA research may begin at the U within next few months, President Magrath and VP Koffler told the Regents. Safety guidelines are being developed, they said. Critics of recombinant DNA techniques have expressed concern that the creation of a new substance by gene splicing could create new forms of life with an evolutionary process that cannot be controlled by known antibiotics. Safety guidelines are needed, Koffler said, but "I can only say that I personally find ignorance more frightening than knowledge."

Reisman report recommending continuation of U College and experimental educational programs was endorsed by SCEP. Recommendation that an assistant VP for academic affairs be appointed was dropped. Patricia Swan, SCEP chairperson, said SCEP was reluctant to tell an administrative office what responsibilities people in that unit should have.

Civil Service Committee is trying to locate all non-union civil service staff associations at all campuses and experiment stations. Send name of association, chairperson's name, and campus address to Elizabeth Petrangelo, S-68 Morrill Hall, Minneapolis.

Legislature appropriated $383.1 million for the U for 1977-79. U had requested $406.3 million. Appropriation is $64.7 million more than was received for 1975-77.

Funding of $13 million for Unit F (nursing-pharmacy building on the TC campus) was approved in time to meet the HEW deadline. Federal government will pay $8.3 million.

Bill requires the U to cut 147 faculty and 110 civil service positions but adds 36 new faculty and 92.1 civil service positions. Also, 40.5 faculty and 40.9 civil service positions are added in state specials.

Plan for distributing 1977-78 faculty compensation funds of 7.9% is outlined in May 24 memo from President Magrath. All full-time faculty (both A and B appointments) will receive cost-of-living increase of $400; part-time faculty will receive prorated amounts.

Large segment of faculty salary appropriation (about 4%) will be used for merit/discretionary adjustments. Central reserve fund of 0.47% will be held for possible equalization among campuses and unit merit increases. Remaining 1.36% must be distributed as fringe benefits, including improved health care package.

Pay bill passed for state employees (including U civil service staff) is a closed bill, except for cost-of-living increases. In past years, total was left open.

Tentative pay plan for U civil service staff, subject to administrative review and Regents' approval, includes conversion increases averaging 4% for Schedules A and B and 3.5% for Schedule C on July 1, 1977. Plan calls for cost-of-living raises Jan. 1, 1978, and July 1, 1978. Proposal is that progression/performance increases for Schedules A and C in the first year of the biennium be lump sum nonrecurring payments.

Dental coverage for faculty and staff is the biggest item in improved fringe benefit package approved by the Legislature. Other items: free health screening for all staff, paid $500 life insurance policy for employees who retire on or after July 1. State contribution to dependent hospitalization insurance will increase by $15 per month as of July 1, 1977. Coverage will be completely paid by the state as of July 1, 1978.

Property rights issue has been incorporated into the U's arguments in the NCAA case. Arguments were heard last week in the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Paul. Asked by Federal Judge Myron Bright to explain how the U defined a property right, lawyer Joe Walter cited scholarship aid and other considerations. He said, "It doesn't have anything to do with expectation of a future career or some kind of remuneration."

Ken Keller, chairperson of the Senate Consultative Committee, said the U "is facing a severe retrenchment, which is bound to affect quality and which is made much worse by 'legislative intent' restrictions that limit how and where we absorb that retrenchment. Legislative appropriation and how it will be spent will be the subject of 2 mornings of discussion by the Regents June 9-10. Regents will meet with faculty leaders this evening (June 8). Pro- and anti-abortion groups will present their positions on the closing of the outpatient abortion clinic on the TC campus at a committee meeting Thursday.

Wenda Moore, who has been recommended by a nominating committee, is expected to be chosen as chairman of the board at the Regents' biennial election of officers. Lloyd Peterson, nominee for vice chairman, may be challenged for that position in the election.

President Magrath said Friday at the Minnesota Press Club that he takes responsibility for determining where cuts in U staff would be made. "We tried to make the cuts where we can, in effect, best accommodate them," he said, and cuts had to be made in units with the largest base budgets and had to be based in substantial part on workload factors.

Legislature viewed the U as overstaffed and indicated that cuts should come from areas where staff were added last year, Magrath said. He repeated his belief that nobody will have to be fired. "It will be taken care of through attrition," he said.

Rep. Ray Faricy, DFL-St. Paul, said to UMEA members on the TC campus last week that his education division of the House Appropriations Committee will look into the delays in getting a collective bargaining election among U faculty. UMEA, then UMET, first filed to become a bargaining agent in June 1973. Since then UMEA, AAUP, other unions, and the administration have disputed over who would be represented in a bargaining unit.

Faculty salary increase was determined by the bargaining agreement obtained by faculty in the State University System, Faricy said. He said it would be unfair for U faculty to receive more than those who had gone to the bargaining table. On another subject, Faricy said U faculty spend too much time on research, leave too much teaching to TAs.

President Magrath said in Washington last week that greater demands are being placed on the nation's universities at a time when their budgets are being cut. He said "we are faced with more restrictions, more guidelines, more compliance and accountability reports, and more procedural and legal hassles in general, all of which require substantial and rapidly increasing attention, time, and faculty and administrative costs."

New demands are very rarely "accompanied by new dollars to help us meet the demands," Magrath said. He said the U spends at least $1 million annually to comply with federal regulations, not counting the cost of faculty time.

Magrath characterized Veterans Administration's efforts to prevent abuses of its student aid program as "the use of a meat ax when a scalpel would have sufficed." He said about 25% of the U's enrolled veterans lost their benefits last fall as a result, and only 10% of those were able to return to school.

CROOKSTON--Five faculty vacancies have been reported, including new position in hotel, restaurant, and institutional management funded by the Legislature for 1977-78.

President Magrath will confer 503 master's and doctoral degrees at Graduate School ceremony June 11, and Regents' Prof. William McDonald will speak. Commencement info: 373-2126.

Dean Irene G. Ramey of the School of Nursing has announced that she has bequeathed the bulk of her estate to the School of Nursing. Interest from the endowment will be used for basic and applied research by faculty and graduate students in the school.

National pediatrics conference honoring John Anderson, retiring head of the Department of Pediatrics, will be in Mayo auditorium June 16-17. Some 60 distinguished graduates of the department will present their current work.

National list of AFROTC graduates shows that the U ranks 3rd in the number of its officers holding regular commissions (more prestigious than automatic reserve commission). The Citadel and Texas A & M, the 2 schools ahead of Minnesota on the list, graduate 2 or 3 times as many officers as Minnesota each year.

Wenda Moore was elected chairman of the Board of Regents last week. She is the first woman and the first black in the post. David Utz was elected vice chairman; Lloyd Peterson, who had been recommended by a nominating committee, withdrew his name.

Anticipated tuition increases were announced during 2 days of discussions of the 1977-78 budget and the 1977-79 biennial appropriation. Tuition is likely to increase by $33 a quarter for most undergrads next fall. Final approval of the budget, including tuition, is not expected until the Regents' July meeting in Rochester.

Compensation improvement for faculty and staff amounts to about $46.6 million of the $64.8 million biennial increase in the legislative appropriation, VP Kegler told the Regents. He said U appropriation of $383.2 million represents about the same proportion of anticipated state revenue as in 1973 and 1975.

President Magrath reported that the legislative picture in other states is "rather discouraging." Although U appropriation is "one of the better ones in the country," he said, "that doesn't mask our disappointment at losing valuable positions."

Mandate to reduce budget base by $3.6 million was partly offset by addition of some new positions and may be further offset by addition of faculty from tuition income next fall, Kegler said. U officials are expecting enrollment increase of 1,588 FYE students. "If they all show, that would generate about $900,000," Kegler said. "Roughly converted, that means we would be able to add 90 to 100 TAs."

Budget plan for 1977-78 includes retrenchment of $4.4 million ($3.6 million mandated by the Legislature plus $.8 million for internal commitments).

Duluth and Waseca campuses would be given budget increases of $137,104 and $56,980 because of large enrollment increases. Crookston would stay even; Morris faces cut of $26,418. Biggest cuts would be $1.6 million from academic units on the TC campus (excluding health sciences) and $1.4 million from administrative and service units. Health sciences units would lose $63,144 in civil service salaries but faculty salaries would not be cut in view of loss of $800,000 in federal capitation funds during current biennium.

Regents passed resolution praising President Magrath and other administrators for their work in making presentations to the Legislature and preparing budget.

Regents granted tenure to 84 faculty members, including Mischa Penn, who nearly lost his annual appointment 2 years ago. Penn was promoted from assistant to associate professor in U College. He has been on the faculty 13 years and has won teaching awards.

Regents listened to pro- and anti-abortion groups, took no action on reopening the outpatient abortion clinic on the TC campus.

Regents voted to borrow $3 million to build and install bag house filters on the heating plant in Minneapolis and continue construction of the UMD coal gasification plant.

Regents approved a $2 fee for intercollegiate athletics on the Morris campus pending an administration study of all potential funding sources for intercollegiate athletics on the Morris, Duluth, Crookston, and Waseca campuses.

Regent Michael Unger was awarded the 1977 silver medal of the Royal Society of Arts, one of the oldest learned societies in Great Britain.

Faculty leaders met with 6 Regents and President Magrath last week to discuss ways that faculty can help tell the U's story to legislators. Regent L. J. Lee said that before they can present a convincing case they will "have to admit that there are some bad apples over here and do something about it."

A weekly internal bulletin serving all campuses

What President Magrath has characterized as "a mixed set of results" in the legislative appropriation, plus the painful process of preparing a retrenchment budget, will be discussed in special issue of Report in July. Some details are given below.

Student-faculty ratios posed a problem for the U in the 1977 session. VP Kegler said ratios do not reflect the work of a complex university but said it is up to the U, not legislators, to develop better analytical tools. Ability to develop such tools before the next session "will spell the difference between success and failure," he said.

Civil service staff in recent years have received better salary increases than faculty have, but increases will be "pretty close" in 1977-79, civil service compensation manager John Erickson said. Perspective is needed in making comparisons, he said. "Faculty in some years did much better than civil service. It's a seesaw thing."

Three big units on the TC campus--CLA, IT, and Education--are the academic units taking the heaviest cuts in proposed retrenchment budget. "For a variety of reasons, they end up taking the brunt--not because anyone decided those units ought to," Acting VP Brown said. "All the factors came down on the wrong side for them" (e.g., size, stable enrollments).

Coordinate campuses received special budget consideration in varying degrees, with increases for UMD and UMW because of enrollment jumps, stay-even base budget for UMC, less-than-formula cut for UMM. Crookston officials "would argue that they, too, have had enrollment increases," VP Brown said, "but their workload is substantially better than Waseca's. It always has been, and even now it continues to be somewhat better."

President Magrath will be in Israel July 3-13 with group of about 10 American university presidents who will meet with Israeli academic, political, and social leaders. Expenses paid by Israel Universities Studies Group for Middle East Affairs.

People and work and life of the U are portrayed in "Pictures From the University of Minnesota," an exhibit of 24 photos by Tom Foley. Exhibit will be at Twin City Federal atrium in Minneapolis July 5-23, Northwestern National Bank in St. Paul July 25-Aug. 12, Apache Mall in Rochester Aug. 26-Sept. 5, Twin Cities International Airport Sept. 12-25.

Crookston-Waseca State Fair booth will focus on internship programs at both campuses.

Enrollment for dental coverage has been extended through July. All faculty and staff who have not completed their applications are reminded to do so.

Pay-for-performance program for civil service staff will be explained in memo to departments from Compensation Division this week or next, with details on lump-sum increases.

Training program on equal opportunity and affirmative action will be offered at Ball State U July 11-15. Anyone who is interested should call (612) 373-7969.

CROOKSTON--Preparations are under way for legislative hearings July 18 and 25. Education Division of House Appropriations Committee meets at UMC July 18 and subcommittee of Senate Finance Committee meets July 25 to hear presentations on UMC building request.

Bruce L. Gildseth has been named vice provost for student affairs, subject to Regents' confirmation. He is expected to begin at UMD in mid-August. Gildseth has been executive assistant to the president and director of planning at Augsburg College since 1975 and previously held student affairs positions on the TC campus and at Kansas State.

Low bids total $1,052,269 for initial construction on the UMD coal gasification plant. Contractors from Duluth, St. Paul, and Superior are apparent low bidders. Coal gasification equipment is being bid separately. Work is expected to begin later this summer.

Marine Advisory Service at UMD has instituted a "Lake Superior Recreation Report," heard at 3:45 p.m. Thursdays and Fridays and 12:45 p.m. Saturdays on KDAL radio. Program highlights coming events, sights to see, and history of the western Lake Superior area.

Teacher negotiations, grievances, staff reductions, school closings are among topics covered during 4-day Symposium on School Conflict that opened Monday at UMD. Speakers include teachers, administrators, state and local board of education members.

About 30 demonstrators marched to the U Police building and President Magrath's office Monday to protest alleged "racist treatment" of IT student Victor Anoje, who was stopped by police 2 weeks ago after a caller reported him as a suspect in a locker theft. Anoje, from Nigeria, said he was kicked by a police officer and was not told why he was being questioned. VP Bruning and Jeanne Lupton told protesters that a complaint has been filed with the police internal affairs unit and a full investigation is under way.

University gained one VP and lost another at its Board of Regents meeting Friday in Rochester. Resignation of Walter H. Bruning as VP for administrative operations was announced. Appointment of Donald P. Brown as VP for finance was approved.

Bruning will leave Sept. 1 to become VP for data base development for Technotec, the worldwide technology exchange service of Control Data. He will manage an inventors file and data base development in the areas of solar energy and agriculture and will supervise the transfer of specialized technology to lesser-developed countries.

Brown had served as acting VP for 7 months. In recommending him to the Regents, President Magrath said Brown "believes that the finance officer must act as support to the academic needs of the institution" and "is a strong advocate of openness and has the creative ability to see solutions where others may see confrontation as the only possibility."

Brown's office will be assuming the additional responsibilities of coordinating the preparation of the biennial legislative request with VP Kegler. Office of Management Planning and Information Services will be transferred to Brown's jurisdiction.

Robert J. Odegard, executive director of the U Foundation and director of development, was named associate VP for development. He will report to Brown. Magrath said the change is a promotion for Odegard without a change in his responsibilities.

Campaign to establish Hubert H. Humphrey Institute of Public Affairs on the TC campus was announced July 28 by VP Mondale at a news conference in Washington. Humphrey Institute will be an expansion of the existing School of Public Affairs, both in curriculum and in the addition of several endowed chairs and privately supported visiting lectureships.

Goal of the project is to "build the Humphrey Institute into an academic center on the scale of the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs in Austin, Tex., which is funded in excess of $22 million," said Irving Shapiro, who is heading the national campaign. Goal of the first phase of the private fund drive will be about $7.5 million.

Initial contributor to the drive is Curtis Carlson, U Foundation chairperson, who will give $1 million in the name of his Minneapolis-based business, Carlson Companies. Businessman Dwayne Andreas announced his gift of $1 million at a luncheon following the news conference.

Regents' retreat Aug. 11-12 will include discussion of building request for 1978, tuition and all its ramifications, Regents and their constituencies, other topics. UMD Provost Robert Heller is heading a committee to study possible uses for and ways of financing the lakeside Duluth estate of Elisabeth Congdon, who was murdered in June. House was given to the U in 1968 with the provision that Miss Congdon be allowed to live there until her death. Expenses of maintaining the estate are estimated at $50,000 a year.

President Magrath said the committee will study how the 39-room mansion can be used for educational purposes. "This property presents an unusual opportunity and also, frankly, some difficult challenges," he said. Robert Odegard, associate VP for development, said the U would like to maintain the house as a conference center as the Congdon family wished.

Faculty leaders are discussing ways to overcome what they believe to be false perceptions among Minnesotans and state legislators. "Recent incidents point up the need for involvement of the faculty in the public relations process of the U on an ongoing basis," Fred Morrison said at a meeting of the Faculty Consultative Committee.

Kenneth Keller, former committee chairperson, said he plans to meet informally with a number of key legislators to discuss how faculty members spend their time. Members of the committee, chaired by Betty Robinett, agreed to discuss the problem of faculty image on a continuing basis with Regents and administrators involved in PR and legislative relations.

Regents held initial discussion of $68 million capital request to be presented to 1978 Legislature. Plan emphasizes renovation and remodeling wherever possible in lieu of new construction. High-priority item asks funds for major study of how to accommodate programs of CLA, IT, and GC. Request also includes $5 million item for systematic updating and repair of U facilities. Regents will act on request in September.

President Magrath outlined 5 major goals for U progress during next 5-10 years: more intense effort to serve "nontraditional" students, search for ways to sustain innovation during possible retrenchment, improvement of existing U buildings, cooperation with other higher education systems in state, better articulation of U's research mission.

Regents pondered their role as trustees of higher education, agreed that inevitably they are seen as representatives of certain constituencies--geographic or otherwise--but that final decision on any issue must respond to the best interest of the U and the state.

Importance of basic research and young researchers' need for funds were themes of faculty presentations to Minnesota Congressional delegation members Friday. Granting agencies want to bet on winners, Regents' Prof. Richard Varco said, "but the winner today wasn't even in the race yesterday." Attending were Sen. Humphrey; Congressmen Fraser, Frenzel, and Vento; aides to other members of the Congressional delegation; most of the Regents.

About $70 million or 15% of the U's budget comes from federal funds, VP Koffler said, and it makes the difference in whether U is "a first-rate institution or not." Research projects were described by Richard Jordan, Paul Gassman, John Wood, William Hueg, Ronald Phillips, Betty Robinett, John Adams, Lyle French, Henry Blackburn, David Brown, Richard Varco.

Indefinite probation imposed by the NCAA on all men's sports on the TC campus was ruled legal by the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis Aug. 2. President Magrath said last week that the U will take the case to the U.S. Supreme Court. If writ asking the court to hear arguments is denied, he said, the U is unlikely to pursue further legal action.

Minnesota Supreme Court ruled 5-4 that the U is subject to a state law governing selection of architects. Case was a test of the U's constitutional autonomy. Court majority said Legislature cannot intrude on "internal" control of the U but can "impose reasonable conditions" on the use of appropriated funds. One of the dissenting justices said the ruling could lead to a "teacher selection board" or a "student selection board."

Senate Consultative Committee has been asked by President Magrath to assist in an internal search to identify top candidates for post of VP for administrative operations.

Personnel Department reorganization will mean fewer personnel generalists, more specialists in such areas as labor relations, employment, compensation. Sen. Hubert Humphrey is scheduled to leave U Hospitals this week following colostomy surgery Aug. 18 during which doctors discovered an inoperable cancerous tumor. Surgery was performed by Dr. John Najarian. Chemotherapy will be directed by Dr. B. J. Kennedy. Humphrey's recovery from surgery has been called "remarkable."

Petition filed last week asks for a rehearing on Aug. 12 Minnesota Supreme Court decision upholding law requiring U architects to be selected by state designer selection board. Petition was filed to meet the court's deadline and give Regents time to review decision and decide on legal course of action, President Magrath said.

Court decision is inconsistent with 1928 Chase decision, the petition argues. Chase decision affirmed constitutional status of Regents, assigning to them the sole responsibility for governing and managing the U.

President Magrath said he will look into allegations that the U participated in mind-control research for the CIA between 1953 and 1964. Last week he was informed by the CIA that the U was among 80 institutions that may have knowingly or unknowingly participated in such research. CIA form letter did not cite any experiments or name any personnel.

"I have never condoned secret research on university campuses, nor, to my knowledge, has any such research been conducted since adoption in 1971 of a Regents' policy explicitly prohibiting the conduct of secret research" at the U, Magrath said.

Summer enrollment on all campuses was 16,769 during the first term and 13,532 during the second. Last year's totals were 16,914 and 13,598. Increases in the number of female students were matched by decreases in the number of male students.

As many as 1,000 seniors are expected from high schools in northeastern Minnesota and northwestern Wisconsin.

Comments by President C. Peter Magrath to Regents' Committee of the Whole
on November 11, 1977

I am sorry to have been in Africa when issues arose in the Minnesota Daily regarding the filling of the Vice President for Administrative Operations position and my relationship to the University Senate Consultative Committee. Sometimes certain issues attract more comments, speculations, and rumors than are warranted; my instinct is to say little on this matter since I am in the midst of the delicate and important task of evaluating four good candidates. I will override that instinct to the extent of making these factual comments, realizing, as always, that individual members of our community are entitled to their personal views, assessments, and interpretations as to events and decisions at this University.

(1) My relationships with the Senate Consultative Committee are productive and constructive; they will remain that way.

(2) I asked the Committee to function as a search committee and provide me with a slate of four to six names; they gave me four good names to work with -- two of whom I had personally suggested.

(3) Before leaving for Africa, I met with the Committee, reviewed the search, and informed them that I would immediately proceed to arrange in-depth interviews of the prospects.

(4) I am disappointed that women and minorities were not available for consideration on the final list submitted to me. (Three women prospects withdrew.) With regard to Jeanne Lupton, whose name has been bandied about, my regard for her executive and professional abilities is well known. I am disappointed that she was not on the list for me to consider, but I committed myself to a search process and respect that process; I also respect the Senate Consultative Committee and their integrity in the search for a new Vice President with which they have assisted me.

Robert Stein, associate dean of the Law School, was named VP for administrative operations Friday. President Magrath told the regents that Stein has played a major role on faculty committees and that his legal background would be helpful "in view of the many legal and quasi-legal issues we face these days." Appointment is effective Jan. 1.

Magrath gave an affirmative-action report on the search for a VP. He said the 15 candidates who were considered in depth were 13 white males, 1 black male, 1 white female.

Barbara Pillinger, dean of women at Lawrence College in Wisconsin, was named assistant VP for student affairs. Marcea Staten, new attorney on the staff of the U attorney's office, was introduced to the regents.

Regents' resolution extended sympathy to the family of Richard Bailey, dean of General College on the TC campus, who died Thursday morning of a heart attack. Bailey, 55, came to the U as GC dean in June 1975 from Hamline U, where he was president from 1968 to 1975. Resolution called him "a great man who honored the University by his presence."

Nonvoting student will again sit with the regents when they meet as a committee of the whole. Board eliminated 2 nonvoting student positions on the committee in 1976 when Michael Unger was appointed a student regent by Gov. Anderson. Unger was elected to a 6-year term in 1977. Debate focused on Unger's role as a regent. Key vote was 7-5.

Faculty members of Senate Consultative Committee met with regents Thursday evening. Fred Morrison said faculty is facing a "revolution of declining expectations" as real income of most faculty has declined. Mahmood Zaidi spoke of long-term uncertainty about program funding. Richard Purple said the U's breadth is one of the things that attracted him but suggested that some programs be cut if the U is hit with another retrenchment.

St. Paul students voiced concerns to regents and requested that excess funds for the Earle Brown Center (bids were $700,000 under estimates) be transferred to expansion of the St. Paul Student Center (bids were $800,000 over budget). They said student center design retrenchment results in loss of a banquet-meeting room. President Magrath said no decision has been reached but U must be careful not to betray the wishes of private donors.

Regents adopted the energy policy Gov. Perpich has recommended for the state.

Regents heard reports on international programs. Donald Browne said 15% of faculty are involved in international programs, if only by attending conferences abroad. James Ozbun spoke about Morocco project, Vern Freeh about trip to Cuba and Title XII, Oswald Brownlee about plan for exchange program with Tunisia. Regent Unger said he has heard there is difference of opinion on Title XII and he would like to hear diverse views.

Review of purchasing procedures led to lengthy discussion on whether regents should review all purchases that go to someone other than the apparent low bidder before bids are awarded. Regent Lebedoff suggested more pre-bid conferences; VP Brown said this would require additional staff. U of Michigan has 27 professional buyers compared to Minnesota's 4, Brown said. Issues will be discussed further next month.

Copyright colloquium coordinated by the Library School will be Jan. 17, 1-4 p.m., Mayo auditorium, Minneapolis. Colloquium is designed to inform faculty of the basic requirements of the new copyright legislation and provide an opportunity for questions.

Holiday message from President Magrath: "With the advent of winter break upon us, I want to take this opportunity to wish each member of the University community a truly joyous holiday season. It is, I feel, a time to reflect upon matters that we too often neglect during the course of our normally hectic schedules. In particular, I would hope that each of us might devote but a moment or a prayer or a wish to the cause of world peace and international accord among all of our sisters and brothers."

CROOKSTON--Mah King Seng, a Malaysian student at UMC under reciprocal exchange program with Berkshire College of Agriculture in Maidenhead, England, will donate plaques to the 2 institutions in recognition of their international interinstitutional cooperation. Visitors will learn about HRI majors and about career opportunities in hospitality industry and will be served gourmet luncheon prepared by HRI students.

DULUTH--Regents rejected a proposed UMD bachelor of science program in dental hygiene after lengthy debate. Regent Utz said program would provide an opportunity for practicing hygienists and students in northeastern Minnesota at little or no additional cost over present 3-year program. Regent McGuiggan, a Marshall dentist, said he opposes adding the program before a need for more dental hygienists in the state is established.

Thirty nude models moved into the UMD Theatre Monday, donating their bodies to education. They are store mannequins, given by Maurice's clothing stores in Duluth for use in costume design classes, lobby displays, and costume exhibits at Tweed Museum of Art.
