Faculty and Participants

John P. Brantner, A.B., Ph.D.

Dr. Brantner is Professor of Clinical Psychology in the Department of Psychiatry of the University of Minnesota Health Sciences. He has been a member of the Medical School faculty since 1954. He has also served as consultant to the Salvation Army, the Veterans' Hospital, Ebenezer Home Society and other hospitals and nursing homes.

He is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and obtained his Ph.D. degree there in 1958.

Dr. Brantner's interest in the psychology of death grew from his clinical work with medical patients and from his interest in the adjustment problems of the aged. It was strengthened by his study of the interface between clinical psychology and religion.

A popular lecturer, he received the Medical School's Distinguished Teaching Award in 1969. His courses for medical and nursing students focus on the emotional and psychological components of disability, pain, physical illness, old age, death and dying and grief.
