

mn 2000
FH M-292

This is how to evaluate what the members have learned. Sit down with each member and have an informal talk.

LET'S SEE WHERE YOU'RE AT WITH SELF-MANAGEMENT

What resources do you use to save time? _____

What things help you get to where you want to go? _____

When do you know you've got a problem? _____

What helps you stay organized? _____

Name two things that help you plan ahead? _____

Name one project you can do well by going step-by-step? _____

What special containers help you keep your things organized? _____

Where do you put something so it is easy to use? _____

What is one secret you use so you won't lose something? _____

Name one thing you have done to get rid of a white elephant. _____

What secret do you use to keep organized? _____

When have you been a good manager? _____

Name three things you do that reveal one of your values. _____

This archival publication may not reflect current scientific knowledge or recommendations.
Current information available from University of Minnesota Extension: <http://www.extension.umn.edu>.

Tell about a hard decision that you made that showed one of your values. _____

Give me some proof that one of your values differs from another person's. _____

Tell how you have spent your time or money or energy on a value. _____

Name one way you were a people organizer by matching people and things to do. _____

What new tool resources have you learned to use? _____

When have you used your brain power to learn new things? _____

Tell two short cuts that you use to save time. _____

What resources help you save time? _____

What goals are you saving your money for? _____

Name two people who have been a good resource for you. _____

Name three new skills that you have learned from the self-management project. _____

What two places in your community have helped you reach a goal? _____

Name two ways that you care for the limited, natural resources. _____

Name two ways to get to a goal where you use different resources. _____

Describe your quality standard for a friend. _____

What is your performance standard for making cookies? _____

What is something that you have a low standard for? _____

What do you have a high standard for? _____

What standard have you reached that was a challenge for you? _____

Name a quality standard that describes a goal. _____

Name a quantity standard for a goal. _____

Name a high or low standard and a bad consequence that could go along with that standard. _____

Name the six management concepts. _____

Name a goal that you have reached recently. _____

Name a goal that uses your time and energy. _____

What people could have influenced you to choose that goal? _____

Name two goals your family has. _____

How would you evaluate your decision to join the self-management project? _____

Name a decision that you made recently that you disliked. _____

Name two decisions that you have to make to get to your next goal. _____

Brainstorm for three solutions to the problem of not having friends. _____

How can you help another person make a decision? _____

Name one problem that you have to make a decision about? _____

Tell a story about how you were a good manager. _____

Authors: Mary Frances Lamison, extension specialist, home management; Sherie Mentzer, curriculum coordinator, 4-H and Youth Development; and Juanita Reed, extension specialist, 4-H and Youth Development.