

August 9, 1974

Sugar Prices

(0:30)

The world price of sugar is at an all-time high and is likely to continue at this level even with relatively good crops.

Kansas State Consumer Marketing Specialist Mildred Walker says cost of sugar production and world sugar demand have increased. There are no similar products ready to enter the market to fill increased demand. She says higher sugar prices can be expected until world production catches up with world demand.

* * * *

Fresh Pack Pickles

(0:25)

Increased consumer interest in home food preservation has resulted in many questions about the preparation of pickle products.

A new University of Minnesota publication, Food Science and Nutrition Fact Sheet 26, is entitled "Making Fresh Pack Pickle Products." It is available from county extension offices or the Bulletin Room, University of Minnesota, St. Paul 55108.

* * * *

Turkey

(0:08)

The U. S. Department of Agriculture says whole turkeys and turkey products will remain abundant this month.

* * * *