Alumni Join in Homecoming. Witness Basket Ball Game

Basket Ball Schedule will be real test of the truth of this remark

On February first, Saturday evening and afternoon will be held the annual field meet and home-coming. The girls' team competition has been eliminated and only individual girl contestants represent their classes in the meet.

Those who attended the 1929 field meet will remember the very close contest and the victory of the very strong Junior team. That team will represent the 1930 seniors and in turn will face a strong junior class team. Erhardt Bremer will run for the intermediates and Everett Keyes and Howard Johnston will wear the same colors. The Freshmen showed unexpected strength in the Hallowe'en meet and have recruited good material from among new winter term students. There is every reason to believe that the field meet will be no pink tea party and is full of promise as a record breaker. Are you going? Horses could not drag me away. Kumonover, Skinny!

Basket Ball Schedule Full of Interest

Unusual interest in basket ball has been stimulated by the presence of abundant material for the team.

New men have shown much talent and the regulars know that their places are not safe against competition from new and good men.

A new feature was introduced by the athletic club in the sale of season tickets. This should insure good attendance and support to the team at home games.

At the January 25 game with Minnesota College, here, an informal dance followed the game.

The first team includes the following members: Everett Keyes, center; Erhardt Bremer and Arthur Tjosvold, forwards; Leslie Krusemark and Curtis Wood, guards; and Vernie and Joel Clementson, Howard Friese and Howard Johnston, subs. Gilman Hoven is manager.

The first game of the season was played on Tuesday, January 14 with Minnesota College, there, and resulted in an Aggie victory, the score being 43 to 14. During the game the Clementsons subbed for Keyes and Friese and Johnston as guards. A good band of Aggie rooters gave their vociferous approval to the scoring game of the team.

Zero weather, a bus trip in zero weather, one hour of rest after the trip and before the game presented handicaps to the team when it travelled to Winona to play the Teachers, on January 17. The game was a victory for the home team, the Aggies losing the game to them in a 37 to 17 score. At the end of the first half the score stood 9 to 16 in Winona's favor. Vernie Clementson substituted for Tjosvold at forward.

The January 25 game had not been played when this went to press.

Girls' Athletics

All the girls who play Basket Ball met at the gymnasium, Monday evening, January 13, and the school team was chosen. The members are the following: forwards, Adelia Schmiesing, Muriel Bassett and Elma Bajari; guards, Olga Fruechte, Sadie Hoven, and Juanita Lunderborg; and substitutes, Blenda Lofgren and Beatrice Dezell.

At the last meeting of the girls' athletic association, it was agreed that archery and swimming be included in the field meet sports and that volley ball be cancelled.

John O. Christianson, Popular Instructor Chosen Acting Principal of the School

Directs Organization of Students Self-Government Association

Clifford Anderson Chosen President

4-H Club

The Aggie 4-H Club started out the quarter with a very peppy and interesting meeting held January 15. There were over two hundred and twenty-five members and friends present. The officers for this term are: Cletus Hallquist, president; Ann Schubring, vice-president; Ray Sullivan, secretary; Dick Henry, treasurer; Magnus Christianson, sergeant at arms; and Frank Borich, pianist.

Mr. Kittleson, assistant state 4-H Club leader, was the speaker of the evening and he told the club about the junior leadership project in which all club members who have been in club work before may enroll before they return to their home communities. Mr. Kittleson pointed out that if several did this work and did it effectively that it would be a great help.

Ann Schubring won third place in the Moses National leadership trophy contest as well as a scholarship in the School of Agriculture. Recently, she spoke about her club experience over KSTP during the 4-H Club radio hour. The club programs are broadcast from KSTP, Saturday afternoons, between 4:30 and 5:00 o'clock.

Arthur Bohnsack gave a demonstration on swine sanitation at the January 24 meeting of the Minnesota Livestock Breeders Association at University Farm. Together with another 4-H Club member, he had given this demonstration at the State Fair and it had been scored 97.3 per cent, winning for the boys a trip to the International Livestock Show at Chicago and the award "Grand Champion Agricultural Demonstration."

Cletus Hallquist and Ralph Grant, also repeated their "Champion Dairy Demonstration" at this meeting. They, too, won a trip to the International Show.

John O. Christianson

The Board of Regents has named Professor J. O. Christianson as acting principal of the School of Agriculture. He has been an instructor in the social sciences for ten years and has always taken an active part in extracurricular activities and is familiar with the aims, policies and traditions of the School. During the summer, his work as summer project supervisor has brought him into intimate contact with students and prospective students and their homes, especially in the western and southwestern part of the state. His unique knowledge is a valuable asset in the administration of the School.

The annual winter organization meeting of the Students Self-Government Association was held in the auditorium, Wednesday evening, January 8. For the first time in several years, over three hundred and twenty-five boys are in residence in the dormitories and participate in self-government.

Roy Lennertson, presided over the meeting and introduced Miss Hognason who spoke briefly on the successes of the association during the fall quarter. Acting principal, J. O. Christianson, was then introduced and summarized the purposes of the association and its relation to the principal and the school.

The election of officers resulted in the naming of Clifford Anderson as president of the association; Lören Holmberg, vice-president; and Magnus Christianson, secretary-treasurer.

Because so many of the boys in the dining hall were strangers to each other, officers for the hall were appointed. Arnold Aakre was named president, and Severin Klevin, Edward Hoover, Arnold Anderson, Carl Pinney, and Donald Josephson, floor monitors.

Miles Rowe was elected president of Dexter Hall; Paul Garbe, vice-president; and Arthur Fahland, secretary-treasurer.

The boys of Pendergast Hall re-elected Charles Winzer as president and named Vollrath Graupman, Alfred Shulte, Reo Swenson and Melvin Kullhem, floor monitors.

Here's Proof They Did it in 1929

Georgina Lommen, Once Preceptress of Girl's Dormitory Visits Farm and Meets Many Former Students

The farmers and home makers while here during short course enjoyed some of the talent presented by the music department. The band and orchestra played at various times, including the banquets, Monday and Friday evenings. Miss Ruth Pearson played two violin solos and Mr. D. W. Boland made his cornet sing.

An interesting feature of the programs during that week was the community singing led by Mr. Paul J. Leach. Mr. Leach also gave some talks on "Everybody Neighbors Through Song," "The Home, the Birthplace of Good Music," and "The Church, a Community Center for Music."

It is always a joy to have the old School of Agriculture Quartette back for special occasions like this and back they came to add to the fine program of the week. This quartette includes Howard Johnston, Frederick Johnston, Einar Eilertson, and Victor Pearson.

"Way Down South in Dixie" is the name of the operetta presented by the School of Agriculture, Wednesday, January 22 under the direction of Mr. Cecil Bjrdet.

This musical extravaganza by Frederick H. Martens and Carl Engel was written to the memory of Stephen Collins Foster (1826-1864) the greatest American folk song writer. He is known by everyone through his lovely ballads and folk songs relating to the life of the southern negro. They are so sympathetic and touching in their simplicity that they have lived down through the ages and are still sung and treasured by young and old.

The operetta as a whole brings back those picturesque and by-gone plantation days of the South. The cast of characters included Dixie Girl, Blanche Peterson; Jeanie, Adelia Schmiesing; A Southern Planter, Allen Hanson; Susanna, Eleanor Eckholm; Nellie Bly, Marcelle Thostenson; Alabama Boy, Olaf Hunstad; Nell's Lover, Chester Billings; The Roamer, Ralph Eckblad; Old Negro, William Helmerick; and Negro Mammy, Margaret Cook. The members of the chorus were Frederick Sprenger, Bertrand Majerus, Alvin Eckblad, Arthur Eckblad, Clarence Tolin, Arnold Foslien and Arnold Aakre.

Loyalty to the School of Agriculture is shown in many ways. It was tested and found true when students gave up the dining room on Monday and Friday nights for the Master Farmers' and Home-Makers' banquet and for the annual Farmers' and Home-Makers' banquet. The eighty odd girls served their lunches in their own dormitory sitting room, and Pendergast Hall club room was lunch room for the more than three hundred and fifty boys who eat in the dining room. Student committees had charge of the service of supply.

Georgina
Lommen
Speaks on
"Character
tion"

In honor of Miss Georgina Lommen of the State Teachers College at Moorhead, Miss Hognason entertained at tea a group of friends from the faculty and the Park on Thursday afternoon, January 23, in the Gray Parlor of the Girls' Dormitory. Among the guests was Mrs. Jean Muir Dorsey of Ithaca, New York, who was at one time an instructor on the Home Economics staff on this campus.

Sunlight Hop? Oh Yes!

That's what we heard everybody talking about Saturday, January 18. "Are you going to the Sunlight Hop?" "I wouldn't miss it for anything." "Who's playing?" "Why, don't you know? One of the best orchestras in the Twin Cities; Apollo's Orchestra from St. Paul.

"Oh, boy! We'll all be there." And they were and just ask anyone if he didn't have a good time from three o'clock to five Saturday afternoon. Only, the time went too fast. That was the first one of this term. If you missed it press your trousers in time for the next one!

A coveted honor is the right to represent the School of Agriculture at the Red River Valley Winter Meet in the livestock judging events on February 10 at Crookston. Competing in the contest are students from schools of agriculture in Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Canada.

Competing for this honor are Howard Grow, Kenneth Hanks, Martin Pautsch, Miles Rowe, Bertel Stensrud, Harold Carlbloom, Ray Sullivan and Frederick Bjornstad. This group of boys was permitted to enter the college livestock judging contest on January 18 and 25 for practice. From this group three will be selected for the judging team and one alternate.

The team with their coach, Professor A. L. Harvey, will go to Fargo two days before the contest, for practice.

Sunday night suppers are served cafeteria style in the dining room by students committees in rotation from the several dormitories. Curiosity about the kitchen and "the other fellows job" is satisfied, too.

The largest attendance of regular school students since 1916 has crowded classes and compelled the addition of several sections in many classes. Over 555 students were enrolled on January 15. The very large enrollments in 1919-20 and 1920-21 were due in considerable part to the presence of ex-service men who had come for rehabilitation.

It is very gratifying to see this increase for the rich curriculum offers much of worth to the students who are here for a purpose, and that includes 98.9% of all students.

The Owl Literary, presided over by Cletus Hallquist, resumed its meetings for the coming quarter by having the election of officers on Saturday evening, January 11. The management will be in charge of boys only. The position of president will be occupied by Darwin Hall; that of vice-president, by Kenneth Hanks; secretary, Arnold Foslien; treasurer, Vernie Clementson; and Cletus Hallquist will pass the song books and straighten the chairs as he has been chosen sergeant at arms.

Do You Waste the Time of Others? Lay Off

How do you spend your time? One of people's greatest faults is the wasting of valuable time. Do you apply yourself to your work, and then apply yourself to your play which you will enjoy to a much greater advantage if your work has first been thoroughly done? Do you work when you work and play when you play? Do you rob others of their time by encouraging them to waste it when they are trying to use it to the best advantage by working hard and then spending their time at extra-curricular activities? "A person, who goes through school bragging about the little time he spends in studying while others are deeply interested in their books, does not receive any benefit from the school. He is too busy thinking of himself to give time to lessons or outside work. He is not popular with his fellow students for he has no sympathy or kindness to give them and therefore lacks the qualities that make a good friend.

While the student, who sets his teeth, and goes to work intending to get his tasks over, does his work in half the time. Then he has time to spend in enjoyment with his friends. He becomes developed more perfectly; he knows both books and people. When the time comes for him to apply his knowledge he will be successful, for success depends upon the very qualities he developed in school."—M.S.

Letters from alumni and former students constantly make reference to Mr. Mayne and the significance of his life to them. Clarence Jonk wrote shortly after Mr. Mayne's death: "Mr. Mayne meant more to me than any other member of the faculty. Somehow, I think many of us believed that Mr. Mayne would never die. We were right in our belief—for he is living in all of us."

The Agrarian of 1930

"The Agrarian, you say? What in the world is it?"

Yes, there are some people who do not know what it is. They cannot be blamed for they have not been here long enough to learn just exactly what it is.

The Agrarian is the year book which each graduating class publishes. It contains pictures and articles about the classes, organizations, athletics and all school activities. Each class attempts to improve the book and the Class of '30 is no exception.

Plans for the book are practically completed and pictures have been taken during the past weeks. No one can afford not to buy a copy.

Three cheers for the success of the 1930 Agrarian.

Beaver Literary

The Beavers, an all boys' literary, held their first meeting of the term on Tuesday night, January 21. Election of officers took place. They are as follows: President, Robert Ring; vice-president, John Flueger; secretary, Loris Nelson; treasurer, Reinhold Johnson.

Girls' Mixer

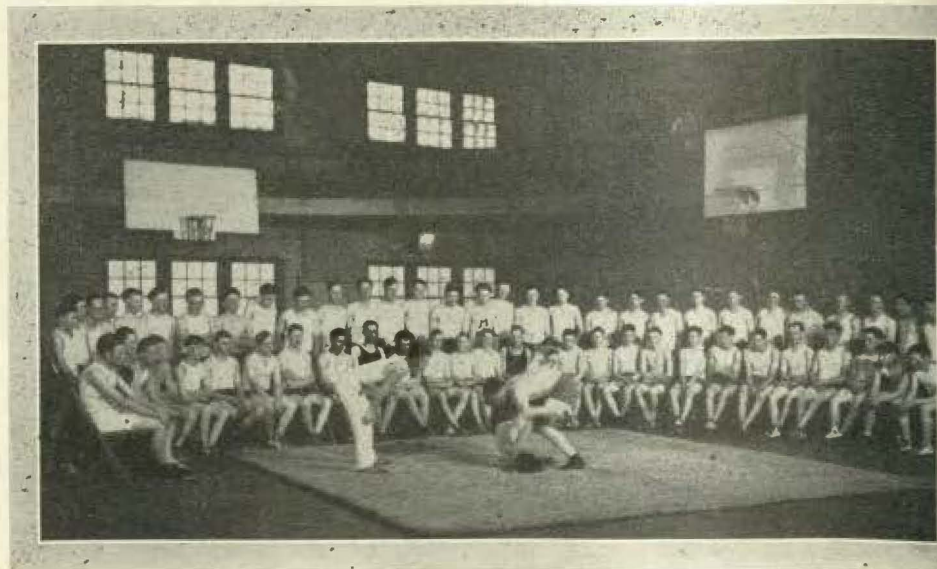

Tuesday evening, January 7, the old girls of the dormitory entertained the new girls and those back from previous years. Adelia Schmiesing led the party. The first part was informal introductions of both old and new girls. All the big sisters introduced their little sisters, who are the new girls in the dormitory.

The old girls showed the new ones how quickly and correctly news travels at the School of Agriculture, besides giving them some very good information. A beauty contest, several songs, and refreshments followed. Another group of songs was sung after which happy good nights were spoken.

The Eagle Literary Society held its first meeting of the year in room 106, Engineering building, Saturday evening, January 11. Donald Baer was elected president; Arnold Aakre, vice-president; Ruben Nelson, secretary; Cora Kinneberg, treasurer; and Robert Ring, sergeant at arms.

S.A.U.M. Literary

The S.A.U.M. literary held its first meeting of this term, Saturday evening, January 11 at 6:15 o'clock in the Old Dairy Hall. The following officers were elected: Stanley Lindgren, president; Gerit Douwsma, vice-president; Mable Beattie, secretary; Fred German, treasurer; and Charles Lockwood, sergeant at arms.

Y.M.-Y.W. Entertain Student Body

Saturday evening, January 11, about four hundred students, visitors, and faculty gathered at the Gymnasium for the Winter Quarter Y.M.-Y.W. Mixer. A grand march led by Mr. Kenneth Wollan and Miss Beach, the Y.M. and Y.W. secretaries, opened the evening of entertainment.

The program numbers were announced by Mr. Wollan, while William Hanson was chairman of the program committee. Ina Wilson was chairman of the decoration committee which trimmed the Gymnasium with gaily colored strips of crepe paper suspended from the lights, and Myrtle Sunness was chairman of the refreshment committee. The refreshments were doughnuts and fruit nectar.

The Boys' Stag Party

The Y.M. Stag Party, which the boys of the School of Agriculture eagerly look forward to at the beginning of each term, was held on January 7.

The evening was started out by competitive games and after these we gathered around in a circle and watched Marlin Reynolds and Henry Langenfeld give an exhibition of the manly art in a three round boxing bout. We also were entertained with a wrestling match by two students of the College of Agriculture.

By this time the first term students had lost most of their dignity and became absorbed in the gaiety of the evening. A treat of apples climaxed the enjoyable evening and we reluctantly said "good night."

Kampus Ketches

"Listen my friends, and you shall hear,
The latest news about Dankers dear!"

To come back to earth

Did you know that Martin Dankers was the only gentleman of a table "gang" enrolling seven girls? Well it is time to wake up and learn that he really is a Romeo. We knew it all the time!!

A flash of fire!! Where? In the P.O. of course. Who? "Bunny" Eckholm in jaunty red. Cletus has an outfit which is an almost perfect match.

On Wednesday, January 15, everyone in the Girls' Dormitory looked sleepy and response in classes was exceedingly poor. Now, the mystery is.....Why??

It seems that very few students, boys, we mean, knew that it was necessary to get a pass, in order to visit the Girls' Dorm. One fellow, however, was lucky enough to have a sister who knew school rules. Consequently, he with three friends attempted to get passes. They were unable to acquire them because of a shortage of paper. Too bad. Some other time, boys.

Ask G. A. Glissendorf what is so screamingly funny about the particular Home Ec Class which is taught third and fourth hours, Monday, Wednesdays and Fridays. We've tried to figure it out but had no luck.

Define jazz! Is it music or not? Who knows?

Heavens! It's 10:15 and we surely will be late for class. 'Bye 'till next time.—C.I.B.

Shows

The first show of this term was, "The Sophomore" which was shown January 6 in the auditorium. Sunday, January 12, the Intermediate class took charge of the show which was "The Shepherd of the Hills." George Fredrickson was general manager. "The Jack-knife Man" which was shown Sunday, January 19 was under the management of the Senior class with Dave Grandstrand as general manager.

A special price concession made it possible for school students to purchase tickets to the Punchinello play, "Laff That Off," on Saturday, January 18, for twenty-five cents and to attend in large numbers.

Surprise Pajama Party

Tuesday night, January 14, at 11 o'clock the rooms of the girls living in the dormitory were visited by members of the Self Government Association, who hurriedly invited all the girls to a "Surprise Pajama Party" in the parlor. The place was dimly lighted and the open fire cast weird shadows about the room. Roll was called and the girls were grouped according to their respective classes. Stunts were assigned to all, many which brought peals of laughter. A chosen group put together a word puzzle which told of the friendly feeling of the old girls for the new. After this, the freshmen crawled through living tunnels and over human bridges to the back parlor where doughnuts and cocoa were served. At twelve-forty, the new girls were sent back to their rooms, feeling much better acquainted with the old girls and much more a part of the dormitory family.

Gladys Glissendorf was chairman of the party committee.

Over Eighty Alumni Attend Reunion Supper During Farmers' and Homemakers' Week

Two Members of First Class Attend

Victor Christgau Speaks Informally

Farmers' and Home-Makers' Week, January 20 to 25, brought many alumni to the campus. Over eighty of them attended the reunion supper in the party room of the cafeteria, Wednesday at six o'clock. Mr. Donovan was chairman of the alumni committee that served the supper and Professor Will Boss presided over an informal program. Among those called on to speak were Professor J. O. Christianson and Honorable Victor Christgau. Roll call of classes represented gave the attendance records to the 1910 and 1915 classes. Two members of the first class, R. J. Mackintosh and W. S. Higbee, were present.

George Clifford, who won his letter in varsity basket ball in Minnesota in 1929, is the flashy coach of the basket ball squad.

Helmer Hermanson '17 is an insurance agent for the Farm Bureau. His headquarters are at Madison. His wife and father and mother came with him to attend the short course.

Ingvard Madsen '18 and Mrs. Mildred Skogman Madsen '19 are living on Routh No. 1 near Forest Lake. Not far from them live Donald Ferguson '20 and his wife, Harriet Albers '19.

Kenneth Dickson, 1920, was married to Maureen Bailey, last June, and they are living near Lynden, Washington and operating a poultry farm.

On December 19, 1929, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Miller of Congor, Minnesota, Cora R. Miller became the bride of Mr. Erick Klouklow of Albert Lea, Minnesota. Following the ceremony a lunch was served to the immediate relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Erick Klouklow are making their home on a farm near Albert Lea.

Among the many alumni, only a few registered in the Big Book in the principal's office. More interest is attached to alumni signatures than they realize. Come in and sign. Several who called at Pendergast Hall are mentioned here.

Nuel Olson has bought a half interest in the home farm and has had good success. His children, Fern Margaret, age three, and Robert Emery, age nine months, are Nuel's pride. He says Silas '23 has severed his connections with the post office department in Gary, Indiana, and has enrolled as a student, together with his wife, in the Moody Bible Institute in Chicago. His brother William is in the employ of the post office department at Gary, Indiana.

Mrs. Loretta Harvey Whiting '21 was present at the alumni supper. Her husband and his brother, Roland Whiting '26 have bought the old home farm and will operate it on a partnership basis.

Harvey Holst '23, Geo Schwartz '21, Al Sjowall '20, Art True '24, Clifford Lee '26, Vern Taylor Hjalmar Anderson '21, Gilbert Glyre '21 are regular Farmers' Week fans.

Alfred Sabin '29 sells Farm Bureau insurance as a side line. His main interest is farming with his father near Walnut Grove.

Victor Uhlhorn, a member of the famous 1924 Pendergast Hall Orchestra, is married and living in Fargo, where he is manager of a Red Owl grocery store.

Marvin Lee '23 was married to Vernitta Hanson at her home in Sleepy Eye, June 27. They are making their home at La Salle where Marvin is in the hardware business. He visited the Farm on January 15 while attending the Hardware Merchants Convention.

Fritz Lee '22 operates the home farm near Hanska.

Mildred Boraas was graduated from the Deaconess Hospital in Minneapolis in October.

Einar Aamodt '22 is a salesman with the McDonald Chevrolet Co. at Fourth and Pleasant, St. Paul.

Patrick Estes III as a "chip of the old block." He was born last September. Patrick Estes, Jr. '19 is in the stock buying department of Swift and Company in South St. Paul and makes his home at 153 Fifth Street South, South St. Paul.

The Goodhue county crop breeders' association sent George Schwartz '23 as a delegate to the January 16 meeting of the State Fair Board.

A. O. Gross '16 of La Moille, Minn., is farming. Still a bachelor, he says. On a recent trip, he visited University Farm, Clarence Hanley '16 and Lenore Torgerson Hanley '17 of Staples and Will Calkins '17 of Deerwood.

R. N. Ruedlinger is local secretary of the National Flower and Garden Show which opens in Minneapolis, March 29. He has appointed 1200 representatives of 236 towns and cities in Minnesota as members of the northwest co-operating committee for the show.

Gemilla Clementson '27 is attending the Northwest Institute of Technology in Minneapolis.

Visitors find their way to the principal's office and the reporter found that the following had made "their mark" in the Visitor's Book.

Andrew Boss Honored
Named Honorary Premier Seed Grower

Andrew Boss '90, vice-director of the Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station, was named an Honorary Premier Seed Grower and presented with a medal given by the Minnesota Crop Improvement association, of which Mr. Boss is secretary, and the Northwest Crop Improvement association. This award was made in recognition of Professor Boss' 40 years of service to the cause of crop improvement through his association with the experiment station.

Benjamin Zakariasen, graduate of the School of Agriculture in the Class of 1921, will talk to the Western Canada Dairy Convention which takes in the dairy industry of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba. He is scheduled to give two addresses, one on "Efficiency in Manufacturing Creamery Butter" and the other on "Composition, Yeast, Mold, and Cream Grading."

Katherine Gessner and Dan Gorowsky were married last June. They spent their honeymoon in northern Minnesota and Canada. They now live at 1104 East Lawson Street, St. Paul.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sherwood are ranching in Barnard, Montana. Mrs. Sherwood was Helen Clark of the Class of 1925.

Robert Lewis is the name of the son who was born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Halstead on November 27.

Jean McGeagh '20, is now Mrs. Shove of 2517 Camino Road, Arcadia, California.

John Bornholdt '23, directed the Christmas cantata given in the Lutheran Church at Princeton and later at St. John's Lutheran Church at Livonia. Alfred Shulte took part in the cantata.

Dale Kelsey, '29, of Lewisville, is an enthusiastic corn grower, and won nine first prizes last fall on his corn exhibits. His little daughter, Donna Jean, was born last October 8.

Sidney Pohcin '21 and Mildred Hill were married June 26, 1929. Sidney is farming in partnership with his father near St. Peter. His mother is a Master Homemaker and visited University Farm during Farmers' and Homemakers' Week.

The Prince Comes

Tuesday afternoon, January 21, "The Prince Comes" was presented in the auditorium. This was a playlet in three scenes by Verna El-singer, Director of Home and Community, Ohio Farm Bureau Federation. The cast of characters included the mother, Ann Shubring; children, Bertha Strause, Phyllis Kingsley; courtier, Darwin Hall; king, William Helmerick; princess, Elizabeth Isaksen; prince, Kenneth Hanks; and eight hand-maidens, Muriel Bassett, Eleanor Eckholm, Ruth Otterness, Mae Otterness, Marcelle Thostenson, Theresa Boerboom, Dorothy Young, and Adelia Schmiesing.

Song Service

Mr. J. O. Christianson spoke to the group that gathered in the assembly hall for the first song service of the winter quarter on January 12. He gave an excellent talk regarding six words of advice which have been handed down from previous civilizations. They are "Know Thyself," "Control Thyself," and "Deny Thyself." They are summed up in Paul's writings to Timothy where he says "Take heed to thyself."

"Daddy Geiken" of the North Dakota Agricultural College at Fargo was the subject of Dean Coffey's Sunday morning talk at the January 19 song service. "Daddy Geiken's" pet saying, "I'm perticeler" was typical of a man who has become a success because of his application of that principle to his every day life.

Einar Eilertson conducted the group singing and Fred Johnston, Victor Pearson, Howard Johnston, and Einar Eilertson sang "Doan you hear dem bells?"

Assemblies

Tuesday, January 7—This is our first assembly of the quarter and Dr. Andrew Boss gave the welcoming address. The auditorium had more school boys and girls in it today than it has had for about 10 years.

Wednesday, January 8—William Boerger, County Superintendent of Schools, Stearns County, told us some things about the educational system of the state. He mingled more humor in his talk than most of us kids thought there was in any superintendent of schools.

Friday, January 10—We were on a trip today. Dr. Chapman took us there with his slides and lecture. Where to? Why, way over to Hawaii, and most of the slides were beautifully colored, too.

Saturday, January 11—On another trip today. What do you think of that? Rev. Gilmore of St. Anthony Park Congregational Church told us about Talladega College, where many colored men and women go for their education. Pretty girls and well dressed students made a good looking assembly crowd. Wonder what he thought of us?

Tuesday, January 14—Well! Well! Our old friend, John Brandt, President of the Land O'Lake Creameries, Inc. I'm sure this wasn't the first time most of us heard him but we never seem to tire of listening to his talks. Did you freshmen know Miss Lindenberg can sing? Well, you know it now after hearing her sing, "Am I Blue?"

Wednesday, January 15—Dr. A. V. Storm told us something about the Farmers' and Home Makers' Week. Is your mother or dad coming? Better do what you can to help them get here.

Aggie Livestock Judges Get Ready for Winter Meets

Competition Is Keen for Places on Teams

Annual Livestock Judging Contest

The annual livestock judging contest will be held on February 22. Two classes each of horses, hogs, sheep and swine will be judged and oral reasons given on one class of each kind of livestock.

Gold medals donated by "The Farmer" of St. Paul will be given to the one having the highest total score in placings and reasons for each kind of livestock.

An additional medal is to be donated this year to the best judge of all classes of livestock mentioned above. Professor M. A. McCarty, now in the Animal Husbandry Division at Pennsylvania State College, formerly of the University of Minnesota and coach of the School Livestock Judging, is offering the medal in order to stimulate more interest in livestock judging among School students.

Teams representing the freshmen, junior, senior and intermediate classes will also compete for the honor of retaining for one year a silver loving cup to be donated by the Minnesota Livestock Breeders' Association.

The contest will be held under the auspices of the Dairy and Livestock Club and with the co-operation of the Division of Animal Husbandry.

It is hoped that the usual large number of contestants will be on hand to help make the contest a success. Everyone registered in the School of Agriculture is eligible to compete.

Dairy and Livestock

The Dairy and Livestock club held their first meeting of the term January 13, in room 108 Old Dairy Hall.

The election of officers was the main event of the meeting. Magnus Christianson was elected president; Dick Henry, vice-president; Clifford Anderson, secretary; Cletus Hallquist, treasurer; and Miles Rowe, sergeant at arms.

This promises to be a very successful year for the club. Members of the club are already making plans for the two livestock judging contests that take place later in the term.

Nine School boys participated in the College livestock judging contests, Saturday afternoon, January 18 and 25. They were Howard Grow, Kenneth Hanks, Martin Pautsch, Miles Rowe, Bertel Stensrud, Harold Carlbloom, Ray Sullivan and Arthur Bjornstad. From this group, the School team was selected which will go to The Red River Valley Show to compete with teams from sister agricultural schools in the northwest on February 10.

Music

The enrollment in the music department has increased almost two-fold this term. The band and orchestra have almost doubled. There is some very fine talent and a most successful year is anticipated. There has also been a most decided increase in the enrollment for private piano, violin, and voice lessons as well as in the music classes.
