

DULUTH—Ki Won Lee, a 28-year-old South Korean student, has joined 11 other foreign students at UMD in time for Christmas. Like Miss Lee, some have accepted invitations to spend the holiday with Duluth families while others will travel.

Miss Lee arrived in the Twin Ports Sunday to prepare for winter quarter studies on the Duluth campus. While here she will stay with the Franklym Bairs, 2714 East 7th Street, and, of course, be with them for Christmas.

A native of Seoul, Miss Lee never has attended a co-educational school. She previously studied language and literature at a women's college, but plans to study sociology while at UMD.

The Bair's 17-year-old daughter, Barbara, explained that family Christmas plans are the same as in other years with one possible exception. It has been suggested that dinner guests find only chop sticks to eat with when they reach the table.

Barbara, her brother Chip, and older sister Judy, who attends the University of Arizona at Tucson, plan to introduce Ki Won Lee to skiing over the holiday. "But we don't know whether she'll want to try it," said Barbara.

Connie Jo Skidmore, staff adviser to the UMD foreign student program, made the holiday arrangements for all the other students, most of them remaining in Duluth.

Sung Chul Ji, also from South Korea, will spend the holiday with Mr. and Mrs. Willard B. Matter, 3009 East 1st Street, while Hans Joachim Bellerman of Germany will be the guest of Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Barker, 8715 Arbor.

Maria Beatriz Powley Jones of Argentina and Mario Nzauwak, a native of Southern Rhodesia who studied at UMD last year and now is on the Minneapolis campus, will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl B. Gustafson, 1316 Brainerd.

Three students have invitations from UMD faculty members: Damrông Chua of Thailand with Dr. and Mrs. Robert Owens, Hakim Khair of Jordan with Dr. and Mrs. Edward Flaccus and Erich Pozza of Austria with Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Spencer.

Four Saudi Arabian students -- Ubdulaziz Jasir, Ahmed Shamekh, Hamad Alhawas and Mansoor Alohalý -- will travel during the holidays and Mansoor Alyeshmarni of Iran has been invited to the home of John and Barbara Wisdom, 2391 $\frac{1}{2}$  Woodland Avenue, a young English couple recently arrived in Duluth.
