DULUTH--An annual display of new library books will be shown in Rooms 134 and 138, UMD Library, from 1-4 p.m. beginning Monday and continuing through July 19.

Mrs. Lorraine Bissonett, Laboratory School librarian, said this is the largest collection of books for children from kindergarten through senior high school that has been exhibited at UMD.

The exhibit is supplied by Books on Exhibit, a national exhibiting operation in the fields of young adult's and children's books.

The display includes 1,592 titles and covers some 120 subject classifications with a purpose of making it possible for teachers and librarian to do a thorough and efficient job of book selection in minimum time.

Annotated catalogues with cross-reference, title and author indexes provide direct and quick access to any and all books. The catalogues are free to teachers, librarians and other professionals.
