Duluth --- Edwin O. Siggelkow, coordinator of student activities and Kirby Student Center at UMD, will play a major role in the 50th anniversary conference of the Association of College Unions April 19-22 at Indiana University, Bloomington.

As chairman of the Association's Professional Development Committee, Siggelkow is the author of a paper on "College Unions and Leadership Development." This paper will be a chapter in a book "College Unions--Year Fifty" which will be published this summer.

Siggelkow also will take part in a conference panel discussion program on "The Academic Community." Siggelkow and W. Jack Peterson of Northern Illinois University will speak on the "student" segment of the campus.

Seven major addresses and seminars, reports on 30 research papers, panel presentations and workshops will be presented during the three day conference.

Clifford R. Stayton, principal dietician and head of the UMD cafeteria, will also attend the concurrent sessions in Bloomington of the National Restaurant Association Executive Development Program.
