NINETEEN HUNDRED AND

New Student Record
University of Minnesota,
Duluth

Sponsored by
UMD Alumni Association

EIGHTY.

FOUR

The University of Minnesota, Duluth
Alumni Association Welcomes
All New Students
To UMD.

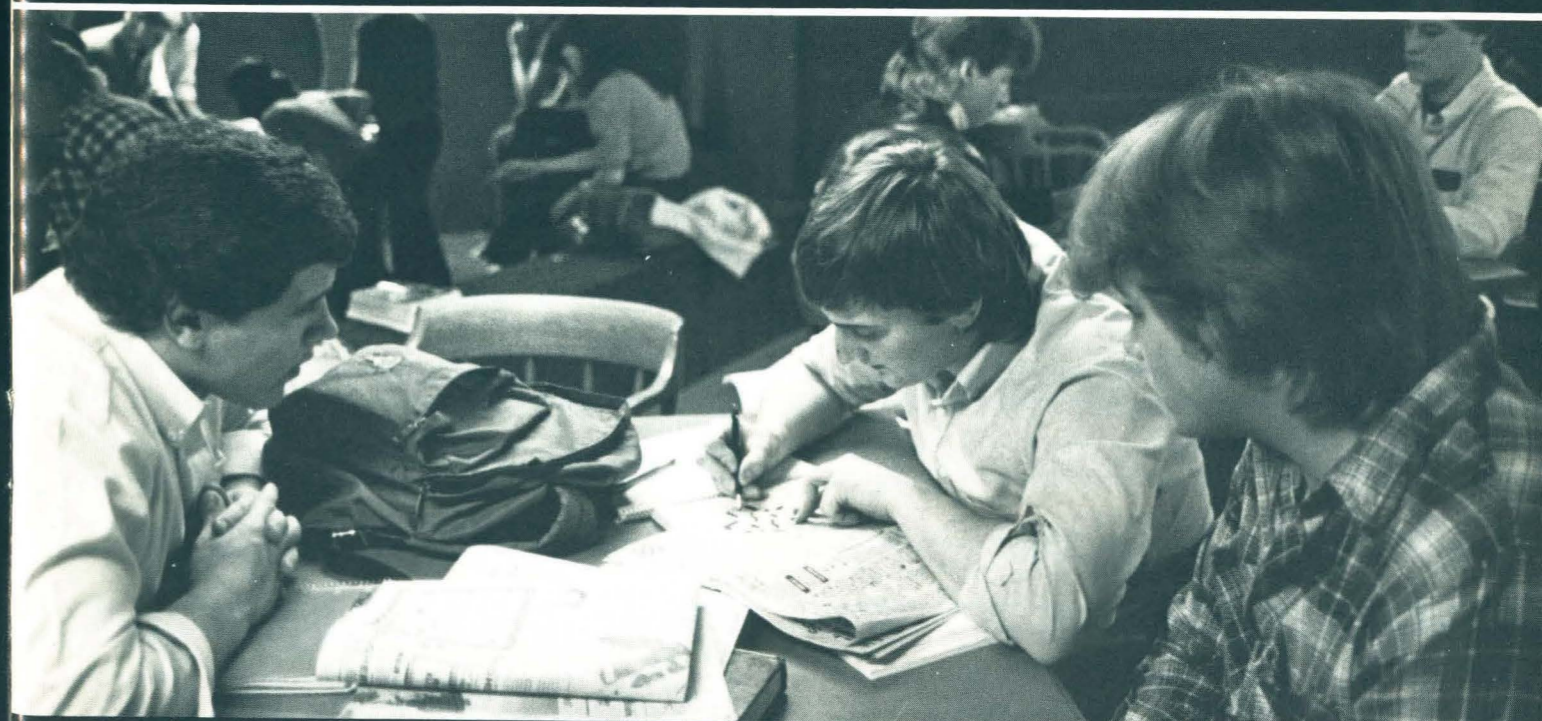

UMD Welcome To Campus!

When you decided to enroll at the University of Minnesota, Duluth, you made a very important decision. It's only the first, though, in a long line of decisions you'll make at UMD.

The courses you take will probably determine a career. The friends you make will lead to lifestyle decisions. The recreational opportunities you explore may lead to life-long interests. And the way in which you learn to view yourself may determine how happy you are in the future.

Academics are important, but you're also here to develop as a person. Make the most of your days at UMD. We hope they will be some of the best days of your life!

FACULTY & STAFF

Our Most Important Asset!

UMD believes that its 1,200 faculty and staff are the best in higher education! Because of its size, UMD is a "university" in all senses—so it can attract and retain top-quality faculty and staff members. But the campus is also small enough that the student to faculty ratio is relatively low, so you're never just a "face in the crowd."

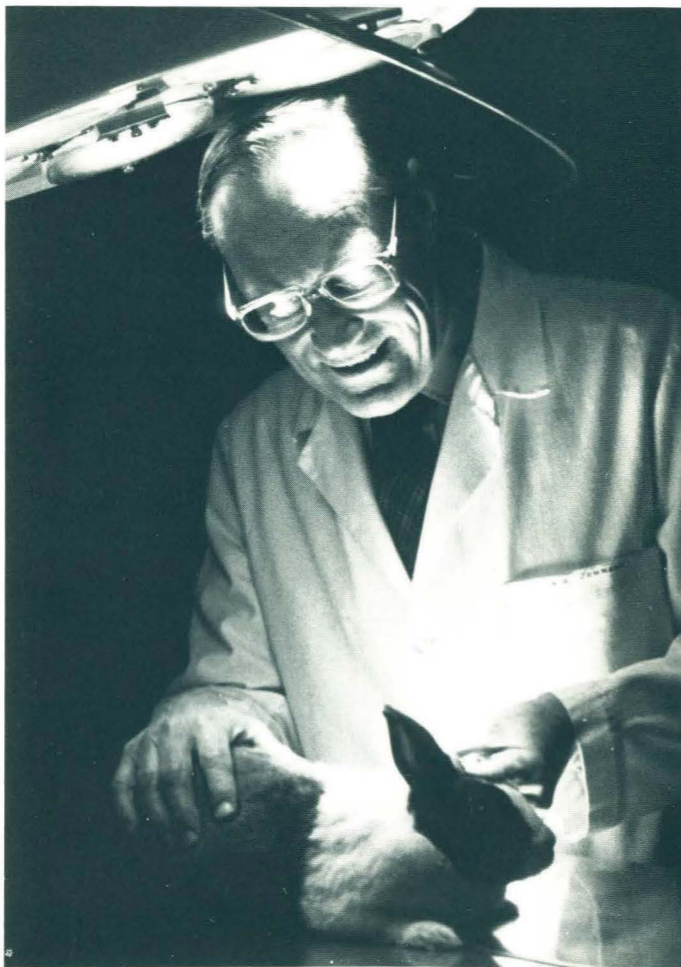

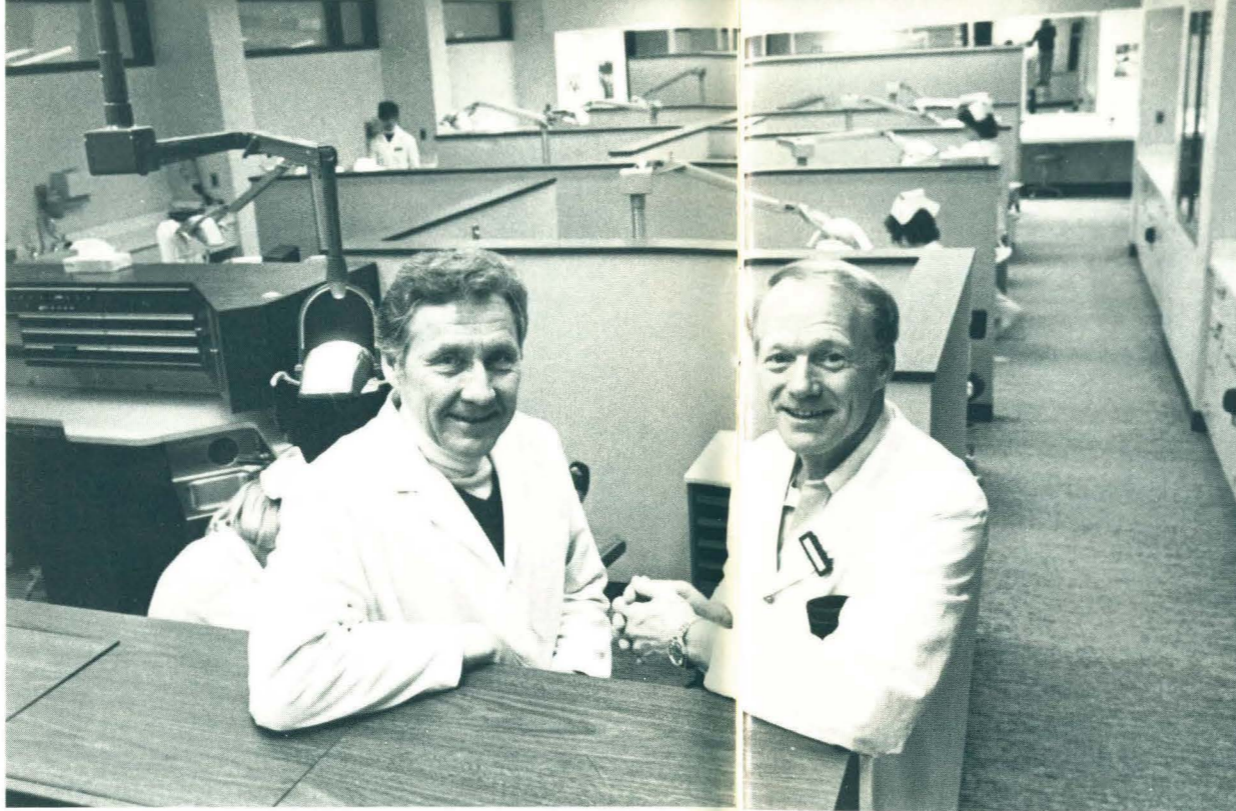

Although faculty research is important at UMD, faculty members remain at UMD because they love to teach. UMD is proud of its emphasis on faculty advisers for all students. You should take advantage of this system and establish a close working relationship with your faculty adviser.

You should also be aware of the many services offered by UMD's professional staff. There's always an open door in the Office of Counseling, Career Development, and Placement. In addition to serving the physically ill, the Student Health Clinic offers an ambitious program in stress management, weight loss, drug/alcohol counseling, and other areas.

The Housing Office is ready to help you adapt to your new living quarters. Supportive Services is available to help you "brush up" on those tough subjects. Minority and international student counselors are available, and each collegiate unit has a staff member assigned to work with students. Staff members in Kirby plan outdoor programs, recreational sports activities, and assist campus groups and organizations.

And you're ready to plan your finances for next year, make an appointment in the Financial Aids Office.

Without you, there would not be a faculty and staff. You're important to UMD, so take advantage of the activities and services offered on campus.

UMD HOUSING Your Home Away From Home!

Living on campus is probably the best way to begin your UMD experience. It means living in a community of students just like yourself. It also means the convenience of being close to everything, from classes to athletic events to the Library.

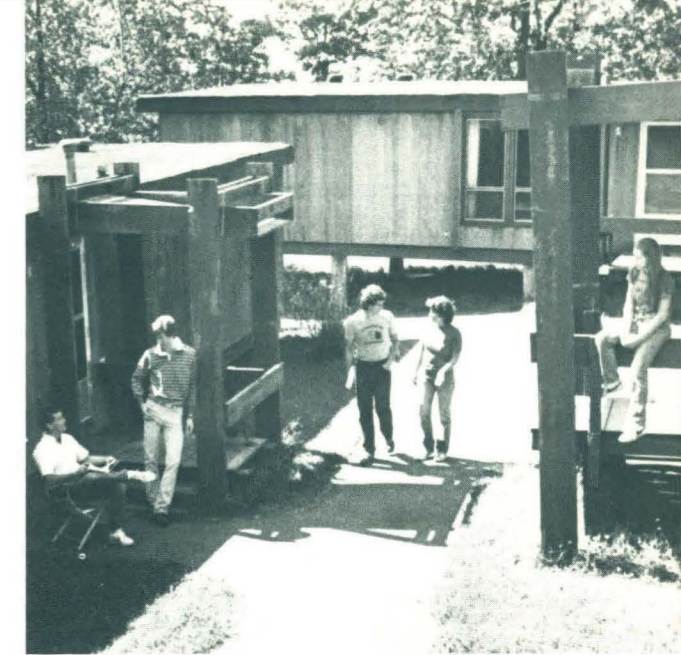

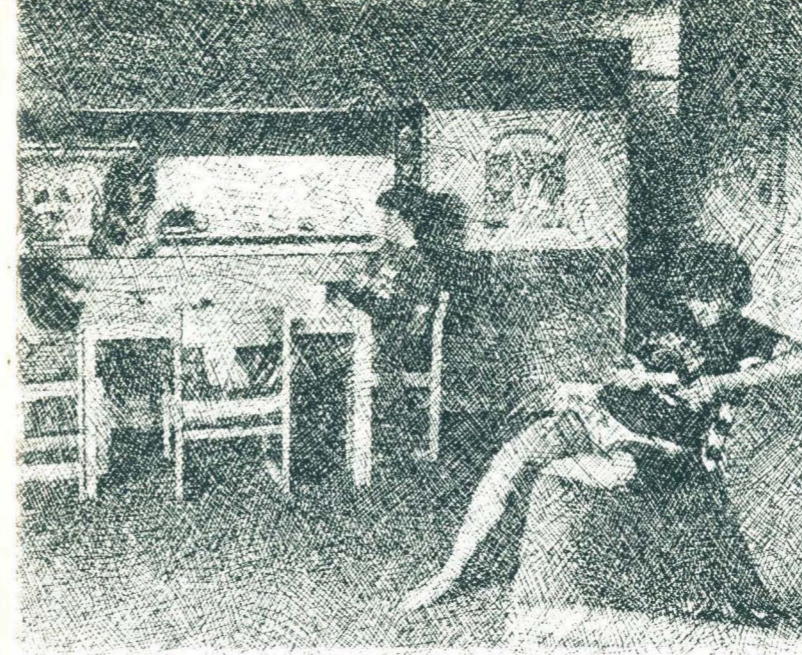

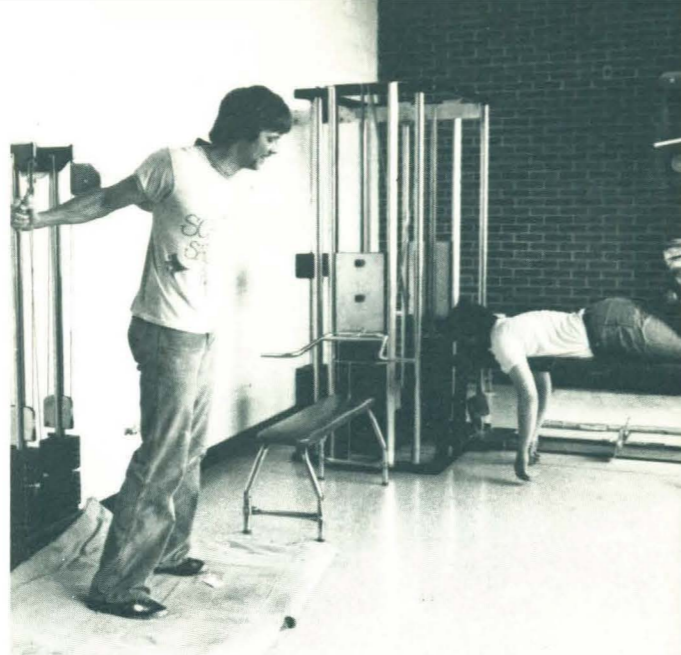

Students who live on campus usually are more active in academic and extracurricular activities, have a lower drop-out rate than other university students, and are generally more satisfied with their college education.

UMD offers a wide range of housing opportunities, ranging from dorm style rooms to apartments.

Living in the residence halls provides the traditional style of campus life. There are five residence halls on the UMD campus, three are co-educational, one is for men, and one is for women. Generally, more services are provided for you in the residence halls—like linen exchange and meals.

UMD also has four apartment complexes on campus. Students living in the apartment complexes cook their own meals and generally have a more independent lifestyle.

The staff of the UMD Housing Office is always available to work with you on housing options or problems. There are both student resident assistants and professional staff members assigned to housing units.

COMPUTERS They're Everywhere At UMD!

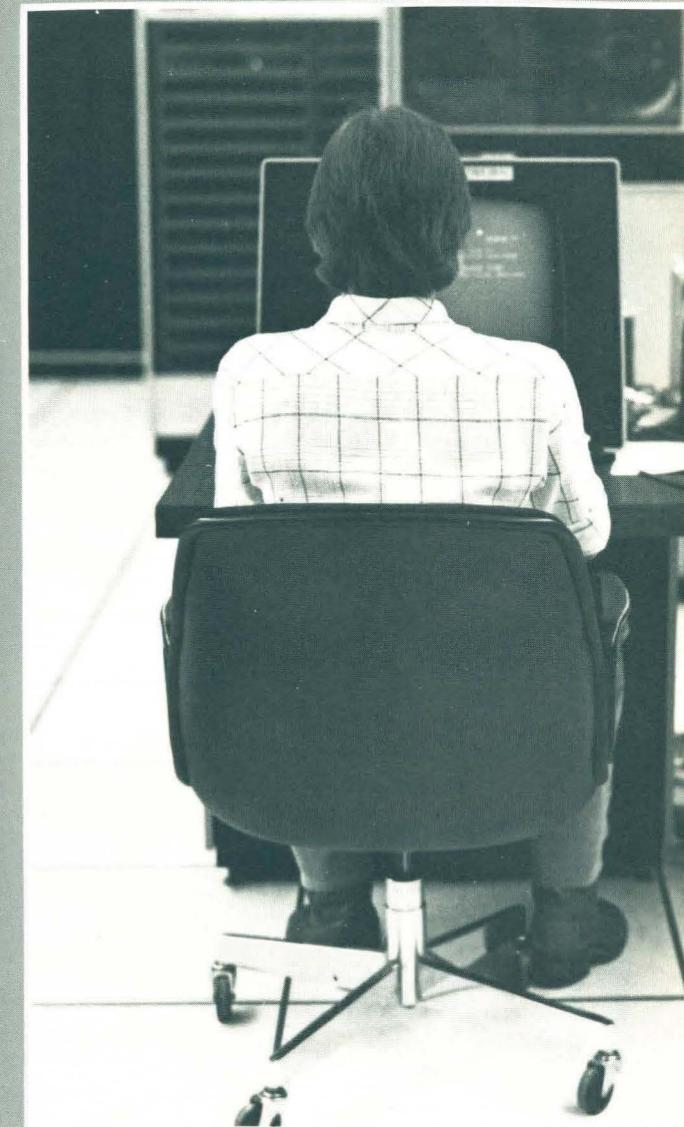

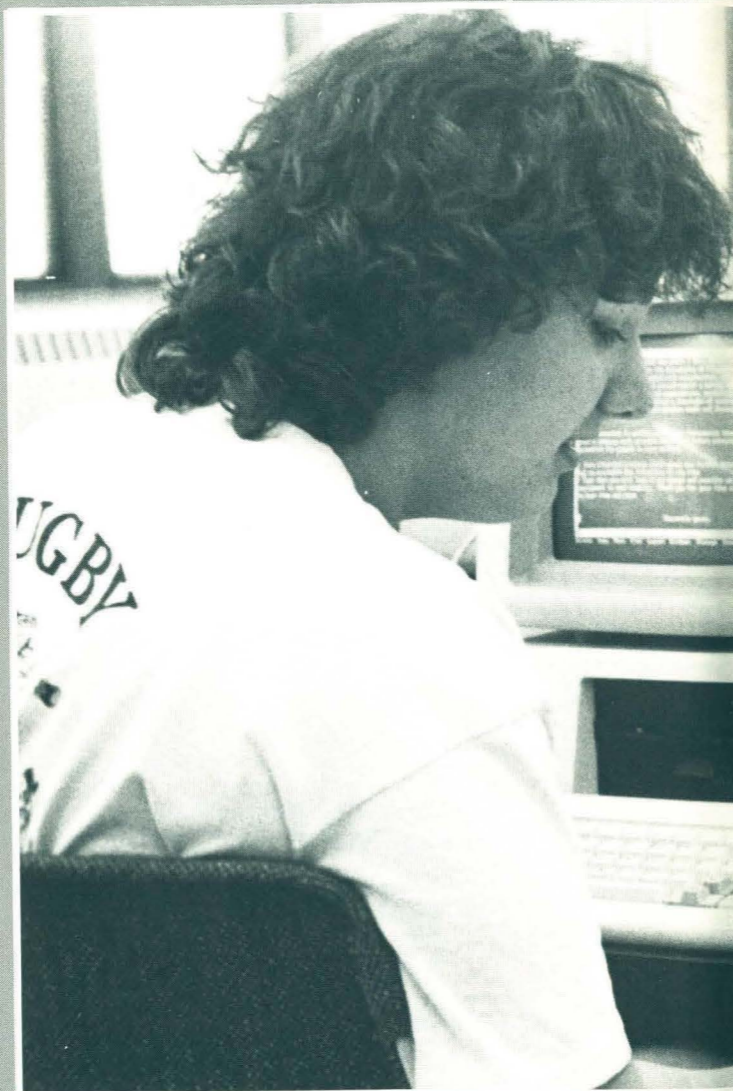

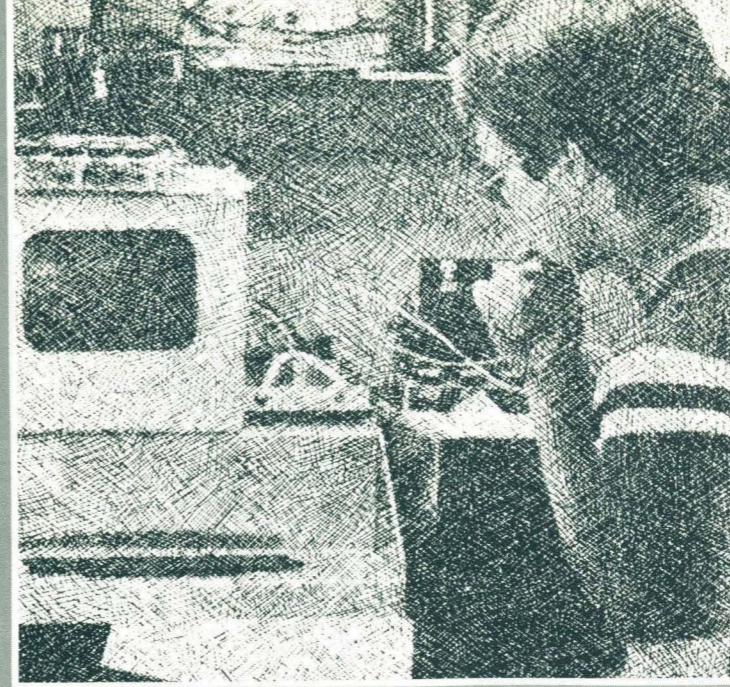

If you're not comfortable at a computer terminal now, you will be before you leave the UMD campus! Computers have multiplied like crazy at UMD and you will use them in almost every department and curriculum.

When you arrived on campus, one of your first stops should have been the Microcomputer Learning Center in the Library. By purchasing a user card each quarter, students may use the 28 IBM Personal Computers and printers for a wide range of classroom activities. Student consultants are always on hand to help with problems and the Library sponsors free, daily seminars on the use of the computers.

Many of you are already involved in a comprehensive computer project in the English Department. The School of Business and Economics has a busy computer room. And you may come into contact with the Computer Center in Marshall W. Alworth Hall.

The large computer rooms are only the beginning, however. You'll find computers in the Department of music that teach "ear training," computers that can recreate works of art, and computers that help you make business decisions.

These are just a few of the ways you will use computers while on campus. By using your imagination, you'll probably find many more.

THE OUTDOORS

Outdoor Activities Are 'In' At UMD

Many students attend UMD because of its northern location. Others develop a love for outdoor activities after they arrive. Whatever the case, UMD places a special emphasis on its outdoor programming.

UMD is located within a short drive of some of the best wilderness areas in the continental United States. Outdoor enthusiasts from around the world are attracted to the Boundary Waters Canoe Area (BWCA), Quetico Provincial Park, and Voyageurs National Park. Canoeing and backpacking opportunities are unlimited.

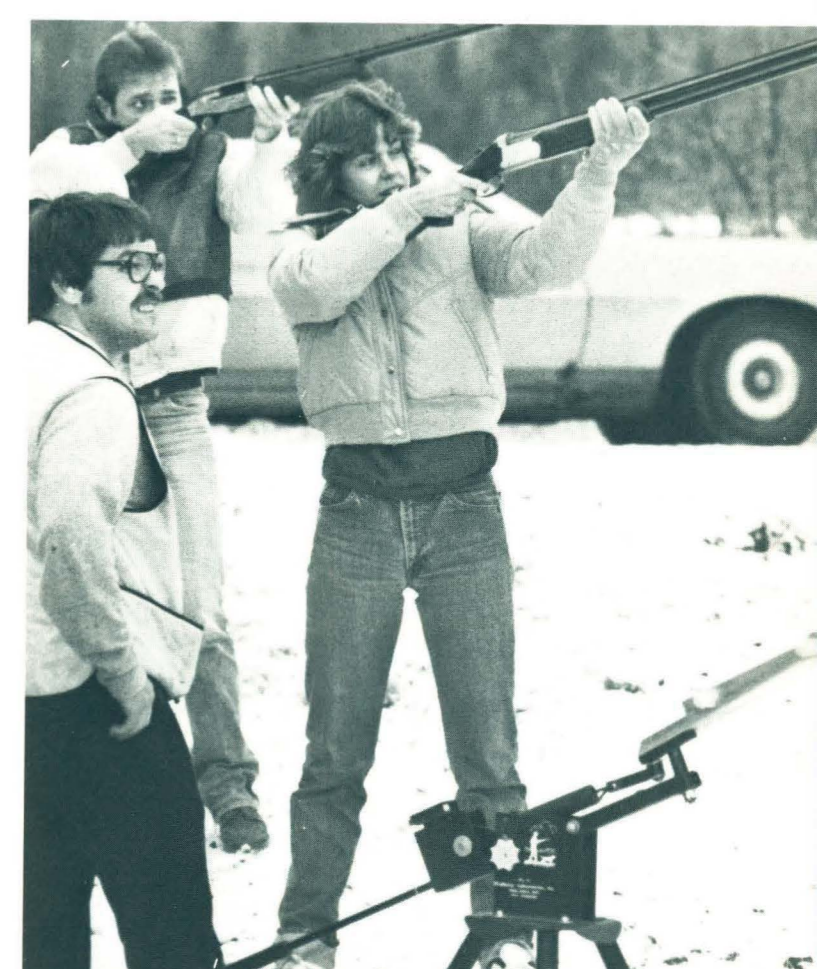

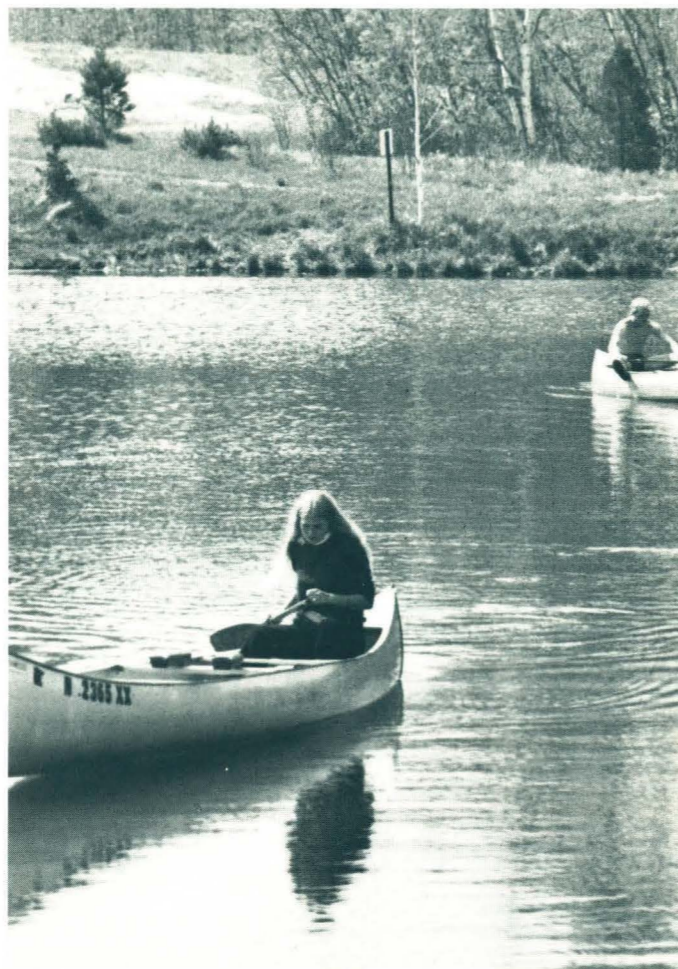

Also located within a short drive of campus are many of the lakes and streams that make Minnesota fishing famous.

During the winter, downhill skiing is popular at Spirit Mountain and Mont du Lac in Duluth. The slopes of Lutsen on the North Shore and the resorts of Michigan's Upper Peninsula are just two hours away. And cross country skiing trails can be found just outside your door in Duluth and throughout the state and national forests nearby.

An easy way to take advantage of the outdoors is to become acquainted with Ken Gilbertson, who coordinates outdoor programming on campus. From an office in Kirby Student Center, he coordinates Freshman Trips, canoeing and backpacking programs, winter camping and skiing trips, bicycle trips, sailing and windsurfing lessons, rock climbing and kayaking trips, and even programs to other states.

In addition, Kirby Student Center rents outdoor equipment (including canoes, tents, and other camping equipment) to students and UMD often operates convenient bus service to Spirit Mountain in the winter.

Whatever your level of skill or interest, UMD has the outdoor program for you.

ATHLETICS

A Winning Tradition At UMD!

Throughout its history, UMD has been known for its competitive student athletes. Intercollegiate athletics are an important facet of college life, both for the participants and the spectators. You won't be disappointed in the athletic program at UMD!

The Bulldogs compete in 14 men's and women's athletic sports. Men's sports include hockey in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association (WCHA) and football, basketball, wrestling, track, cross country, baseball, golf, and tennis—all of which compete in the Northern Intercollegiate Conference (NIC).

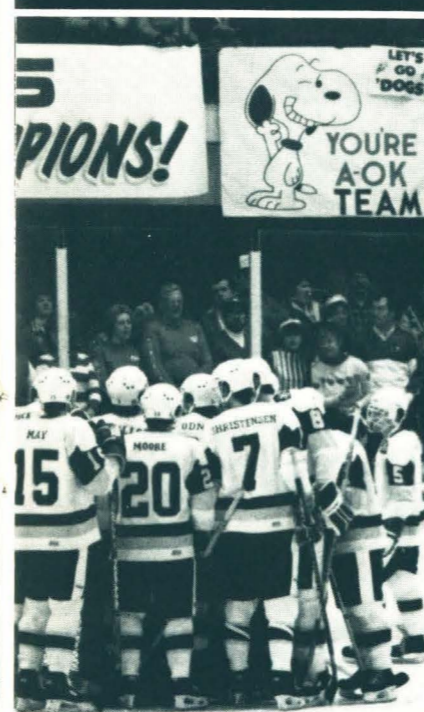

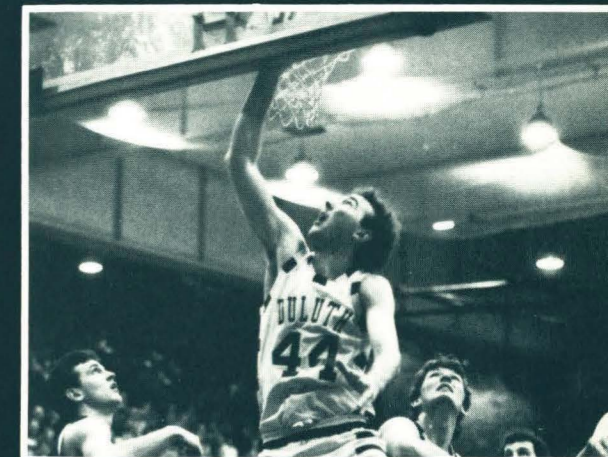

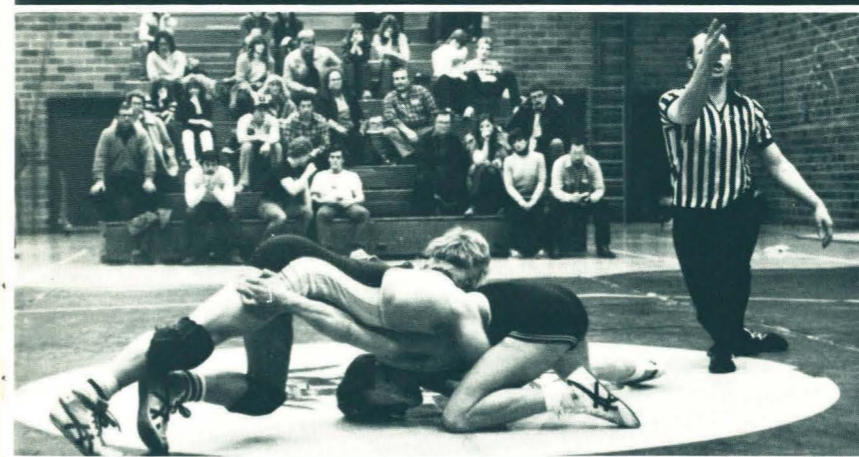

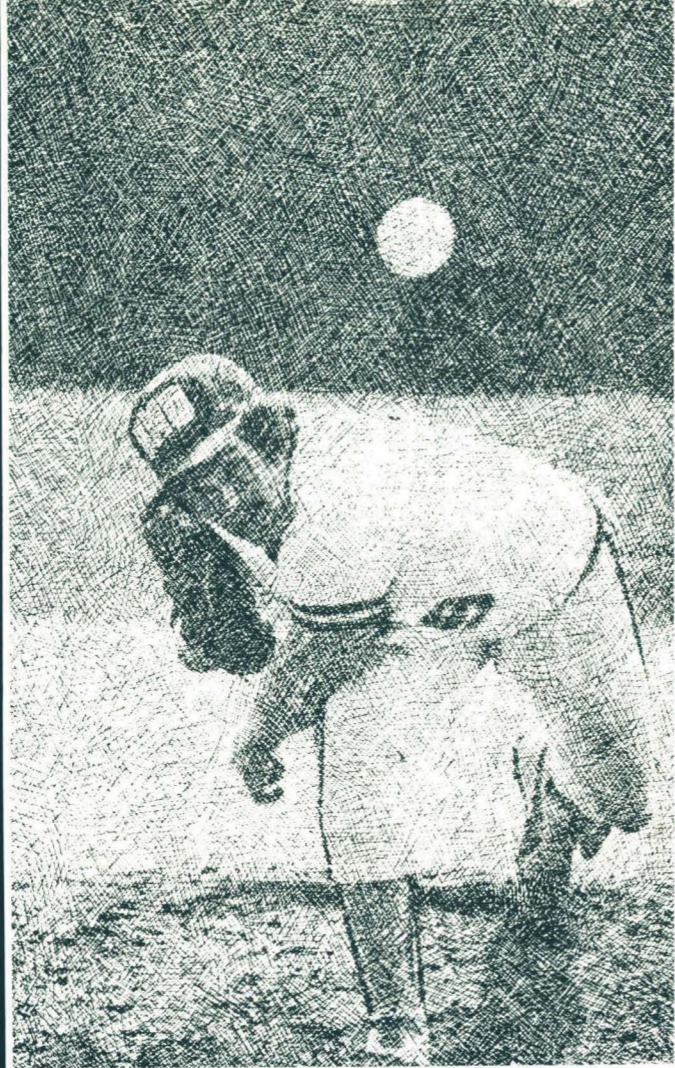

Women's varsity teams include basketball, volleyball, track and field, tennis, cross country, and softball. The teams compete as members of the National Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (NAIAW) and the Northern Sun Conference.

Many Bulldog teams attract national attention and ranking, including men's basketball, football, hockey, and golf and women's volleyball and basketball.

With the exception of hockey, most UMD athletic events are free to students.

In addition to the intercollegiate athletic program, UMD has an extensive recreational sports program—which includes touch football, basketball, volleyball, bowling, broomball, floor hockey, ice hockey, swimming, table tennis, track and field, skiing, and tennis.

So, whether you're a spectator or participant, be sure to check out the athletic programs at UMD.

DULUTH

San Francisco Of The East!

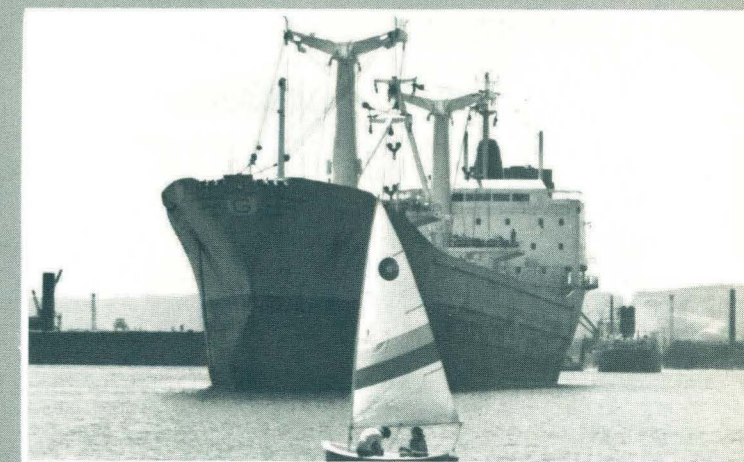

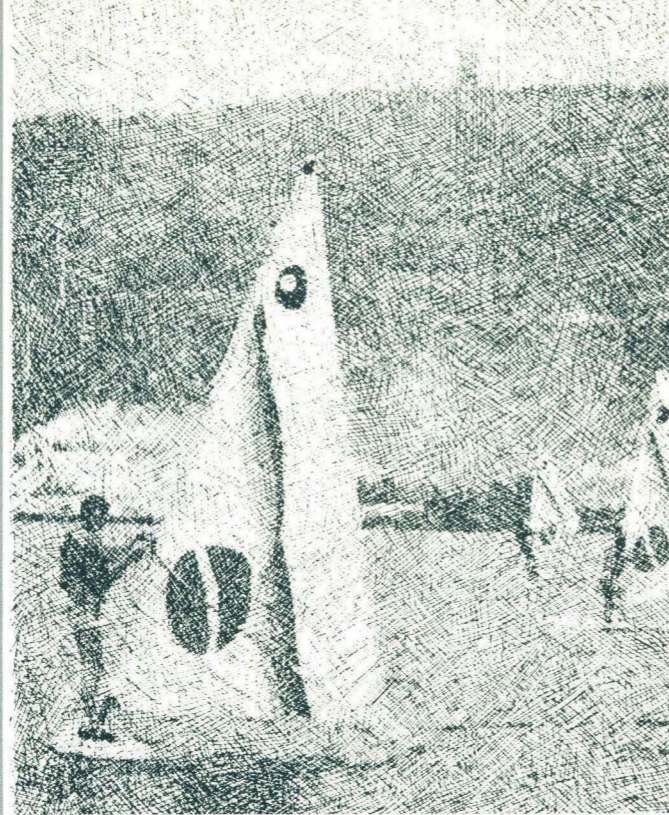

Although you'll spend much of your time on campus, Duluth will be your home for the next few years. Whether you come from a large city or a small town, you'll discover that Duluth has a lot to offer!

Duluth is truly a four-season city. Fall is a time for colorful trees, drives up the North Shore, fishing, and exploring. Although winter is a little colder here, it is a time for downhill or cross country skiing, visiting the museums and shops, and enjoying the snow. Spring means smelting and the fishing opener, getting into shape, and waiting for the first "big boat" of the season. And summer is the time for afternoons and picnics on Park Point, golf or tennis, and just plain relaxing.

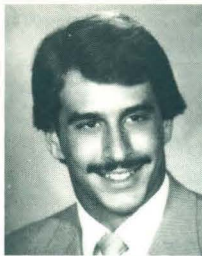

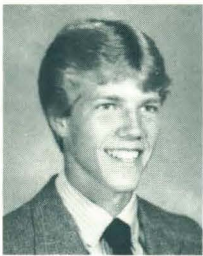

With a population of over 90,000 people, Duluth offers a wide range of shopping and entertainment possibilities. The park system is extensive and sightseeing opportunities abound.

Getting around town isn't difficult, even if you don't have a car. Duluth Transit buses stop regularly at Kirby Student Center, so almost all of the city is just a transfer away.

Take a close look at Duluth while you're on campus. Like many former UMD students, you may decide you'd like to stay!
