WE HUMBLY DEDICATE THIS ANNUAL TO THOSE WHO HAVE THE COURAGE AND UNDERSTANDING TO WORK TOWARD THE GOAL OF THEIR ABILITY. THEY ARE THE REALLY GREAT PEOPLE OF THE WORLD FROM WHOM WE HAVE ALL REAPED GREAT BLESSINGS. THEY ARE A BLESSING FROM GOD, A BENEFIT TO THE RACE OF MAN. MAY GOD GIVE US, THE STUDENTS OF TODAY, THE COURAGE TO USE THE WISDOM OF THE PAST TO REACH EVEN GREATER HEIGHTS FOR A MORE GLORIOUS AND HAPPY TOMORROW.

A JOURNEY

Press on, press on with courage
Thy place within the sun to make.
The summit high, and all around
The noon day's heat beats fierce and hard.
The heart faint; courage gone—no water seen.

Press on.

The world hath need of thee this day.

Angelic like the gentle Zephyr comes,
The soothing wind of Gods long gone.
Softly with unperturbed pace comes
His calming, cooling, comfort as by and by he passes.
Oh! Oh! gentle Zephyr, gently Zephyr, do not leave.
The words are said. He is gone.

Great pleasures must forgo.

These leave. Courage, understanding take.

The memory strong, and in the dust
In sorrow from fierce, fiery labor falls he.
Darkness steals. Gentle sleep claims.
Dreams of crucified pleasures come, and
All around with Jove's great strength they call.
Eyes open, dry rock, loneliness and desolation find.

The summit—look!

The pinnacle you see, courage, press on.

Up—up. Then falls he.
How far?—How far?—not very far.
Sell all you have for understanding now.
Up—up. He rises.—Presses on.
The word still heeds, yet somewhat
Doubting, wondering; then understanding comes.

Look round! Look round!

From the pinnacle great green valleys flow.

The last word comes: chose.

Greater pinnacles there are; of these
He does not hear, nor does he ask.
There is a voice most softly pure that always bids;
Climb higher, higher. Yet, to all
Too soon grows faintly dim. Silence. Courage leaves.
Deepest understanding gone. No higher climbs he.

There is a pinnacle,

Whom none have ever climbed—
And if tis reached that man shall stand with open eyes—Twill wonder and exclaim:
“Am I a God mine eyes so clear!”

FIRST ROW: Mr. Harris, Mr. Miller, Mrs. Thompson, Miss Hughbanks, Miss Bergh, Mrs. Balke, Dr. Youngquist (superintendent). SECOND ROW: Mr. Pilkey, Mr. Soderburg, Mr. Reimer, Mr. Flancher, Mr. Beresford, Dr. Frederick. THIRD ROW: Mr. Barron, Miss Parbst, Mrs. Kruta, Mr. Larson, Mr. Titus, Mr. Field, Mr. Reiersgord (principal). NOT PICTURED: Mr. Bergman, Mrs. Brown, Miss Larsen, Mr. Lysaker, Mr. Menzhuber, Mr. Nystrom, Dr. Soine, Mr. Stout, Mr. Whiting.

We the Senior class, on behalf of the student body, wish to express our gratitude to you, the administration and faculty, of our school.

You, the faculty, have worked with us and tried to guide us through the conflicting years of high school adolescence. We are appreciative of the time you have spent with us and the encouragement you would give us when things didn't run as smoothly as they should have. Thanks for helping us to grow up and become the type of citizens of our country that we ought to be.

To you, Superintendent Youngquist and Principal Reiersgord, we say thanks for giving us an efficiently run school.

This school is close to us. We will leave behind many happy memories. We will always remember the old Hill Building as a place of hard work, and a few laughs, at times, that would make the work a little easier. It was in that building, in the somewhat inadequate classrooms, that we acquired much of our academic learning.

You, the administration, could see and understand the difficulties for your faculty and students in the teaching-learning situation that this building presented. You worked hard to find an answer to this problem. Your labors were worthy, and therefore successful. You, to a very great extent, have been responsible for the beautiful new classroom building that has risen along side the old Hill Building.

You, the administration, have and are now laboring always for the best for students and faculty. When we arrived on campus this fall, we saw the new classroom building half completed. Robertson Hall was completely remodeled. In other buildings on campus, floors have been refinished and rooms completely redecorated. We appreciate your labors in making the teaching-learning situation as ideal as possible.

ACADEMIC DEPARTMENTS

LANGUAGE ARTS

ENGLISH SPEECH JOURNALISM

The Language Arts department seeks to improve the students' use and understanding of the language. In order to achieve this, much stress is placed on grammatical structure. Once the student begins to grasp the structure, the writing of original sentences and paragraphs follow.

Those who demonstrate creative ability write original short stories. The remainder of the students read and report on a novel each month.

During the second semester of the sophomore year, some of the students are assigned their first term paper.

Although complete mastery of the fundamentals of grammatical structure is always stressed and frequently reviewed, the junior and senior students find themselves writing more and more original papers. Every junior and senior is required to write one research paper during the year.

Besides being concerned about the correctness of writing of students, this department is also concerned about the thinking and speaking-listening behavior of the students. An effort is made to cause students to think through the presentation of conflicting points of view, the analysis of poems, and the discussion of ideas and human nature as found in novels, short stories and essays.

The department is guided by the principle that literary writing is good, not only because it can entertain us but, because of the insight and understanding it gives us of ourselves in particular, and human nature in general.

Life is a combination of non-living elements. We have a cell: We remove from it an element and by removing this non-living element, we also remove life. Life therefore appears to be dependent on non-living substances. Although they are non-living, nevertheless, they are necessary to life. We therefore, might conclude that life is a correct chemical combination of non-living substance. We know all the elements, the basic substances. Why then can we not create life?

Science, today, is calling for people with imagination, courage, and ambition. It wants people who sometimes merely stand alone and wonder. Enlightened wonder is the hope of progress and the beginning of scientific philosophic thought.

Here we find three sophomore boys: Robert Neset, Gary Dagen, and Darrel Anderson. Probably they came here out of intellectual curiosity concerning the growth and propagation of plants, or maybe they're here just to see how the bananas are coming along. At any rate, we know why Mr. Beresford is here.

SENIORS

We, of the Senior class, look back on our years of work and play, of sadness and laughter, with light hearts. We are now rewarded for our efforts, and because of them; we leave the campus of the Northwest School as a group better prepared to meet the world. We owe thanks to the administration and faculty, who through the years have given of their knowledge and experience to better our lives.

Our leadership camp at Itasca State Park has surely helped many of the Seniors and Juniors each year in the task of leading the student body. We need leaders, and this camp helps to prepare us to meet this need.

We, as Seniors, have reached an important milestone in our lives. To reach this has not been easy. We are mindful of the courage we many times had to muster to press on in the upward climb.

Driscoll, Terry Dahl, Dale Filipy, Harold Diedrech, Dennis Bruhn, Wayne Paupst, Norman Sheldon, Lyall Bjornson.

From these steps outside the Aggie Inn, Seniors discussed many interesting things that were left out of the class discussions. Besides the enlightening discussions, many a boy would often meet many a girl here. Probably some will remember these steps as important turning points in their lives. This was also the place where the brave few could demonstrate new styles: That's a cool hat you got there, Daryl.

Seniors take Ossie for a tour of the campus before they bid him farewell. It will be rough getting used to that barley diet at Morris.

The corn diet has made Ossie slow and heavy. However with three football players (Dean Hinkle, Dale Shanks, and Norman Sheldon) pulling, and a few more football stars (Roger Larson, Jon Schol, Kenneth Steinke, and Richard Moe) coaxing. They are able to keep Ossie moving at a fair pace.

JUNIORS

As Juniors, we arrived on campus as real upperclassmen, 118 strong. This year we are the largest of the classes here at school.

Since our freshman year, we have lost many of our classmates, but transfers from other schools have even increased our class size from year to year.

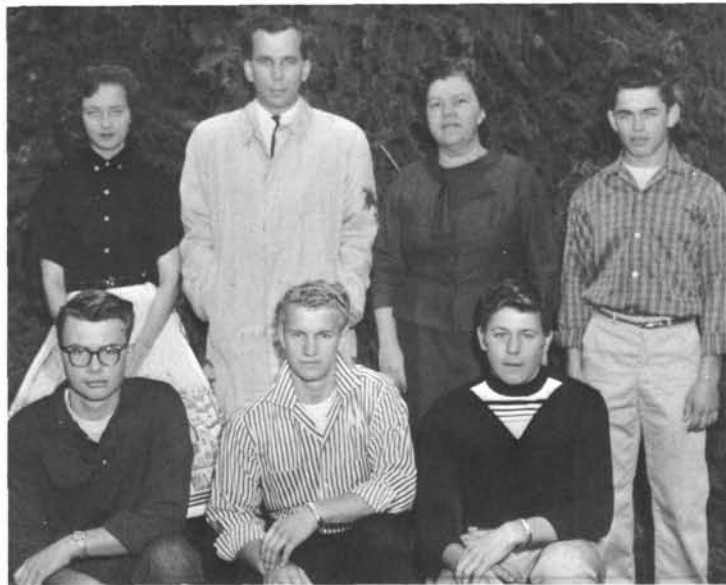

About two weeks after school started, our last year's president called the junior class to order. We elected new class officers and picked out our rings.

This year we also put on our first class play, "The Valley of Ghosts."

In the academic area many of us wrote a term paper for the first time. It was our hardest single assignment. We will never forget the long nights of hard work to meet the deadline.

As Juniors we are naturally looking forward to becoming Seniors. We hope to be one of the best Senior classes to graduate from this school.

SOPHOMORES

CLASS OFFICERS AND ADVISORS

The word sophomore comes from two Greek words which mean wise and foolish. Maybe we do many foolish things, but we feel we are becoming wiser as we continue on our way up the class ladder.

It was a good feeling to come back this year and be upperclassmen. We saw many new faces but missed many familiar smiles. We soon found the new personalities as pleasant as our old friends.

This year our class began to accept some of the responsibilities that go with the distinction of being upperclassmen. These responsibilities included such things as assisting with the Junior-Senior banquet and working on the yearbook.

Here we find some of the hopeful sophomore girls: Shirley Sheldon, Myrna Anderson, Jo Ann Straus, Marie Weng, Leeila Tvinnereim, and Eileen Arnold.

Since they have been so good, they are looking forward to seeing how well Santa knows them. Leeila and Eileen are so confident that they have already picked out the two largest gifts.

FRESHMAN

From the great farming area of eastern North Dakota and northwestern Minnesota 67 people arrived on the campus of Northwest School, registered, and became students of this school for the first time.

Our first day, September 29, was really a day of confusion. After registering we received our books in the crowded library. The morning went fast. After a few questions, we finally found the dining hall and ate our first meal here. A tour of the campus followed the meal. At 2:00 we had our first test, an I.Q. test. It was the only test we have had so far that no one has flunked. By the time the evening meal rolled around, we felt more like students. The school provided us with entertainment after the evening meal that resulted in a pleasant ending of our first great day at this school we have learned to love.

The second day we felt rather sure of ourselves at first, but we did have difficulties finding some of the classrooms.

On Thursday of that first week the first formal meeting of the class of 1962 was called together by our advisors. We elected our officers and from that time on we have come to feel more and more as a united group with much in common.

EXTRA CURRICULAR DEPARTMENTS

The importance and significance of the extra-curricular activities; music, sports, and cheerleading, are given strong recognition by our school because of the part these co-operative and individual competitive activities have in developing a well rounded personality.

The extra-curriculars, for the most part, teach us to work together as a group. Such co-operative and united working together is good and necessary training to become a worthy citizen of a great democracy.

The variety of the extra-curriculars is great enough so that every student with desire can easily find one to suit his interests.

WRESTLING

Mr. Stout; Coach

Because we are a six month school and our yearbook is sent to press before the wrestling season is over, we are never able to give the wrestling scores for the school year. However, for the past two years our wrestling team has done exceptionally well with eight wins and one lost in the '56-'57 season. We also won the Aggie School Conference that year. The '57-'58 season was almost as good with nine wins and three losses. We took third place in the Aggie School Conference that year.

Our able coach, Mr. Kruta, has left us this year to finish his law degree at the University of North Dakota. Mr. Stout, our coach, who replaced Mr. Kruta, has also done an exceptional job in coaching.

We have all found great fun in the sport of wrestling. We are grateful to you, Coach Kruta and Coach Stout, for your fine leadership and understanding that has produced winning teams. Thanks for all you have done for us.

MIXED CHORUS

A higher standard of musicianship and organizational pride are goals of the '58-'59 Northwest School mixed chorus, out of which also are chosen members of the girls' and boys' glee clubs, mixed octette, triple trio, boys quartette and soloists.

Christmas and spring concerts show the large groups at their height of performance, while smaller groups entertain at Homecoming, banquets, and the Red River Valley Winter Shows, among other school and community functions.

Upon request any student, whether or not a member of a musical group, may receive vocal training. These private students are heard in junior and senior recitals at the end of the spring quarter.

The band this year is made up of 35 players. The distribution of instruments is much better than in the past 3 years and plays a better grade of music because of that.

Rehearsals are held regularly each Monday and Thursday during the assembly hour and lessons are available for all members in addition to the band rehearsals.

In addition to the regular band members 10 new players have started on instruments this year and will be in the band before the year is up, swelling the membership to 45.

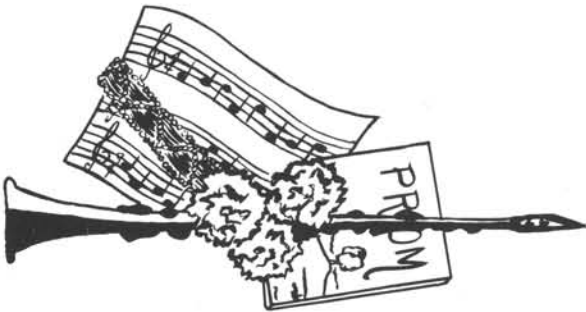

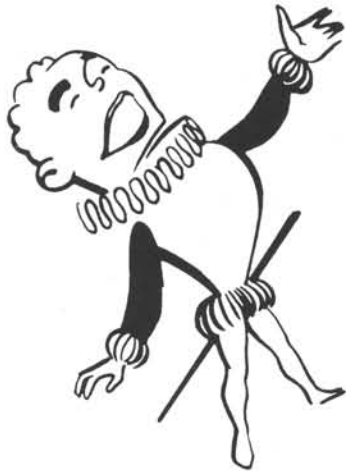

The band went to Moorhead October 27 to hear the Marine Band concert. A performance at the Parents' Day program November 26 was cancelled because of a storm, but the band played at the annual Red River Valley Winter Shows, appeared at some of the basketball games, and presented a spring concert.

The band is one of the activities made available by the Northwest School to help the students in the development of talents and interests in addition to the regular curriculum.

Here we find Duane Ophdahl, Milton Schumacher, and Fred Lundgren taking a private lesson from Mr. Harris.

One of the most active clubs on the campus is the Carpentery Club. When there is a job to be done requiring the skillful hands of a carpenter, this organization swings into action and gets the job done.

This past year the club gave needed assistance to the class plays, Christmas concert, Winter Shows, Homecoming, assembly program, and special construction projects.

This year we organized Operation "Christmas sled" which provided Homemaker groups throughout the valley with a homemakers Christmas project.

The club holds a regular meeting Monday evenings, but has access to carpentry shop and equipment at all times.

Our purpose is to provide service to our school and ourselves and develop greater skills in the field of carpentry.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

The Photography Club was organized for the third time October twenty-one, 1958.

This club was organized to teach its members the elements of photography, how to develop and print pictures, and how to show movies.

It meets every Tuesday from 4:00 to 5:00. The only requirement to belong is interest in the fine art of photography.

They're smiling because they met the deadline.

Looking back, we recall . . . that day last fall when we had the first meeting of Aggie Board . . . when we tried to take pictures at a basketball game . . . when we couldn't make the camera work to take the swimming pictures . . . those long evenings when only a few came to Aggie Board.

Remember . . . when we couldn't meet the first deadline—and Mr. Field feared we wouldn't get the annual till next fall . . . when Mr. Youngquist got his Doctor's degree . . . and finally, that week in January when the last few pages were nearing completion . . . when we found out that we would get our Aggie on time . . . and now, we have our book; it was a lot of work, but I'm sure that everyone who helped with it will agree that it was worth the effort.

I would like to thank everyone who helped make the Aggie possible. Especially Mary Ruth, Bette, Gary Mattson, Norman, Vicki, and all those who worked extra hard.

In closing, all of us thank our advisor, Mr. Field, for his hard work and the long hours he spent up in Hill 204.
