group of class room buildings at the Agricultural School. The building shown in the upper left hand corner is Owen Hall. This building contains the blacksmith and carpentry shops, engineering room, dairy practice room and the live stock judging room. The upper right hand building is the Kiehle Building, which contains the administrative office, school auditorium, library and gymnasium. Stephens Hall, the boys' dormitory, is shown in the center of the picture. This building also contains the Dining Hall of the school. Robertson Hall is shown in the lower left hand corner, this building being the girls' dormitory. The lower right hand picture shows the Home Economics Building. This building contains the Domestic Science rooms, school laundry, and the music room. Just beneath the group of buildings is shown the Hill Building. This is the newest of the six, having been built in 1912. The building contains class rooms for the Agronomy Department, Horticulture Department, Normal Training, Chemistry and Physics laboratories, and English class rooms. A new boys' dormitory is under construction at the present time, and will be finished for the school term of 1914-15.

Minnesota, hail to thee,
Hail to thee our college dear;
Thy light shall ever be
A beacon bright and clear;
Thy sons and daughters true
Will proclaim thee near and far;
They will guard thy fame
And adore thy name;
Thou shalt be our Northern Star.

Like the stream that bends to sea,
Like the pine that seeks the blue;
Minnesota, still for thee.
Thy sons are strong and true.
From their woods and waters fair;
From their prairies waiving far,
At thy call they throng
With their shout and song.
Hailing thee their Northern Star.

REETINGS TO THE CLASS OF 1914, NORTHWEST SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE:

As you leave the school to put your knowledge, skill and characters to the test, may you see your lives in their widest meaning, may you be strong in purpose and may you serve the common life. Let your prayer be that of Kipling in his "Dedication":

"Take not that vision from my ken;
O, whatsoe'er may spoil or speed,
Help me to need no help from men.
That I may help such men as need!"

With sincere God-speed,

Your friend,

George E. Viment.

TO THE CLASS OF 1914, NORTHWEST SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE, UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA:

This is an age calling for the service of true, far-sighted, broad-minded men and women. The farm home has been the great source of such men and women in the past. Resolve that it shall continue to be so in the future.

Work for peace and good will among men. Feed them and clothe them, and your reward shall be great.

Faithfully yours,

A. F. Woods,

University Farm, St. Paul, Mjnn.

Dean and Director.

TO THE CLASS OF 1914:

You are fortunate in the time you are entering upon your work. On the farm and in the home, in the schools and in the state, diligent effort is made to secure greater efficiency. You will take your part in this endeavor, not merely for selfish ends, but to give more in service.

Sincerely yours,

C. G. Selvig.

H. Grand

President Vincent, Believer in Community Spirit! He inspires us all to nobler endeavor.

Act I. Morning.

The Merrill Farm—Mid-autumn, 1906.

Merton Merrill, who is dissatisfied with the treatment he receives at home and the fact that Rose Meade, the girl he loves, thinks she cannot be happy as a farmer's wife, decides to break home ties and attend an agricultural college.

Act II.

The University of Minnesota—Five years later.

At the fraternity ball.

Merton, now an educated agriculturist, has not been home for five years on account of the harshness of his father. Learning from a lawyer at a fraternity dance that the mortgage on the homestead is about to be foreclosed, he pays it off. Merton's mother finds her way to the fraternity house, is welcomed by Merton, and persuades him to go home.

Act III.

Merton's study at the Merrill farm.

Two years later—Morning.

Merton has transformed the homestead into a modern improved farm and has won his father over to new ideas of agriculture. Gus, the hired man, has also been converted to modern farming, and is helping Merton carry out modern ideas. If Hulda, the shiftless maid, learns to be an up-to-date farmer's wife, Hulda and Gus "tank dey get married."

Rose Meade, now a domestic science teacher, has changed her mind about life on the farm, and is very happy to promise "to make this the best farm home in the western hemisphere."

The Farm Crops Show

The Northwestern Minnesota Farm Crops Show had its beginning in 1910 as an adjunct to the Farmers' Short Course. Every year since, except one, it has continued to be an interesting and instructive feature. Unpretentious and seemingly insignificant at first—merely a collection of farm crop samples brought in by the farmers at their own initiative—it has become a notable annual occasion, an exhibition of hundreds of samples of the highest excellence including all important farm crops grown in the surrounding territory. Premiums of large value are awarded including silos worth upwards of $300.00 and machinery and farm equipment of a great variety besides silver cups and handsome cash prizes.

It has won the interest and the enthusiastic support of the business men as well as of the farmers of Northwestern Minnesota. To the farmer who is seeking the highest grade of seed stock the show offers the finest line of samples from which he may have an opportunity to choose. To the grower of high grade seed it offers the best medium through which he may advertise, and to the general public the show offers educational features in exhibits of the finest types of our common farm crops that has inspired a new confidence in the Red River Valley as the best farming region in the world.

The Show had in it, from the first, the germ of an active force that will loom large in the future development of this fertile valley—and which has already borne fruit in the organization of several pure seed associations within the borders of the area which it includes. It has aroused a keen desire and a firmer and larger demand for better seed. It has opened up new avenues through which this school may serve the farmer. It has given cause for the production of both poetry and art, and is the nucleus around which the Development Association of the Red River Valley of Minnesota has taken form. Mr. Harold Grandy, '15, of this school, drew the striking emblem shown on the opposite page.

 Middle row: Jenkins, Wilson, Grothe, Pederson, Harris, Osterloh, Lovas, Clementson, Samuelson, Lindberg Billings.
 Lower row: Jones, Cannon, Lutness, Scholin, Grandy, Floan, Hest, Rud, Brunnell.

We're the intermediate of three classes.
 We have twenty-four boys and eight lasses.
 With Mr. and Mrs. Bengtson as guides,
 We cannot go wrong, whate'er betides.

Conrad is the president of our class.
 If he weren't bashful, he might have a lass.

We have a member whose name is John Hest,
 In studies, surely he's one of the best.

A very bright girl is our Selma Nyquist,
 Name all her good deeds, you'll have a long list.

Of his singing abilities Oscar Lovas is proud,
 His voice carries well, is not screechy or loud.

Carl Lindberg is one of our musical boys,
 In playing his clarinet, every one he annoys.

Wilson is one of our fine Junior boys,
 You'll never find him playing with toys.

N. W.

1914

S. A.

We have a young lass named Helen Huot,
In mischief she leads but soon she'll rue it.

Christian Hagen's as bright as ever was seen.
He's little and short but not timid nor mean.

Our heaviest Junior is Osterloh.
He tips the scales at one, nine, o.

Of Elizabeth Strandness we are all proud,
She's modest and sweet, and never talks loud.

Earl Mills is one of our classmates, too.
When he is round, you can never feel blue.

We have a tall boy called Victor Scholin,
In fact no taller than he can be seen.

Then we have a pianist called Floan,
Who would like a girl his very own.

Friend Cannon is a boy from Northcote town,
And when you call him "Irish" he will frown.

Then we have Amanda, well known by all,
She's quiet and well bred, and not very tall.

Dolly Dimples, we call Newton Jones,
But that makes him wish to pelt us with stones.

Robert Billings can make himself heard,
He is everywhere noted for his sayings absurd.

Ole, a "big norsk," six feet from head to toe.
But around the girls, he is a little slow.

Of stories, our Sophie has a great store,
They're witty and funny, and just make us roar.

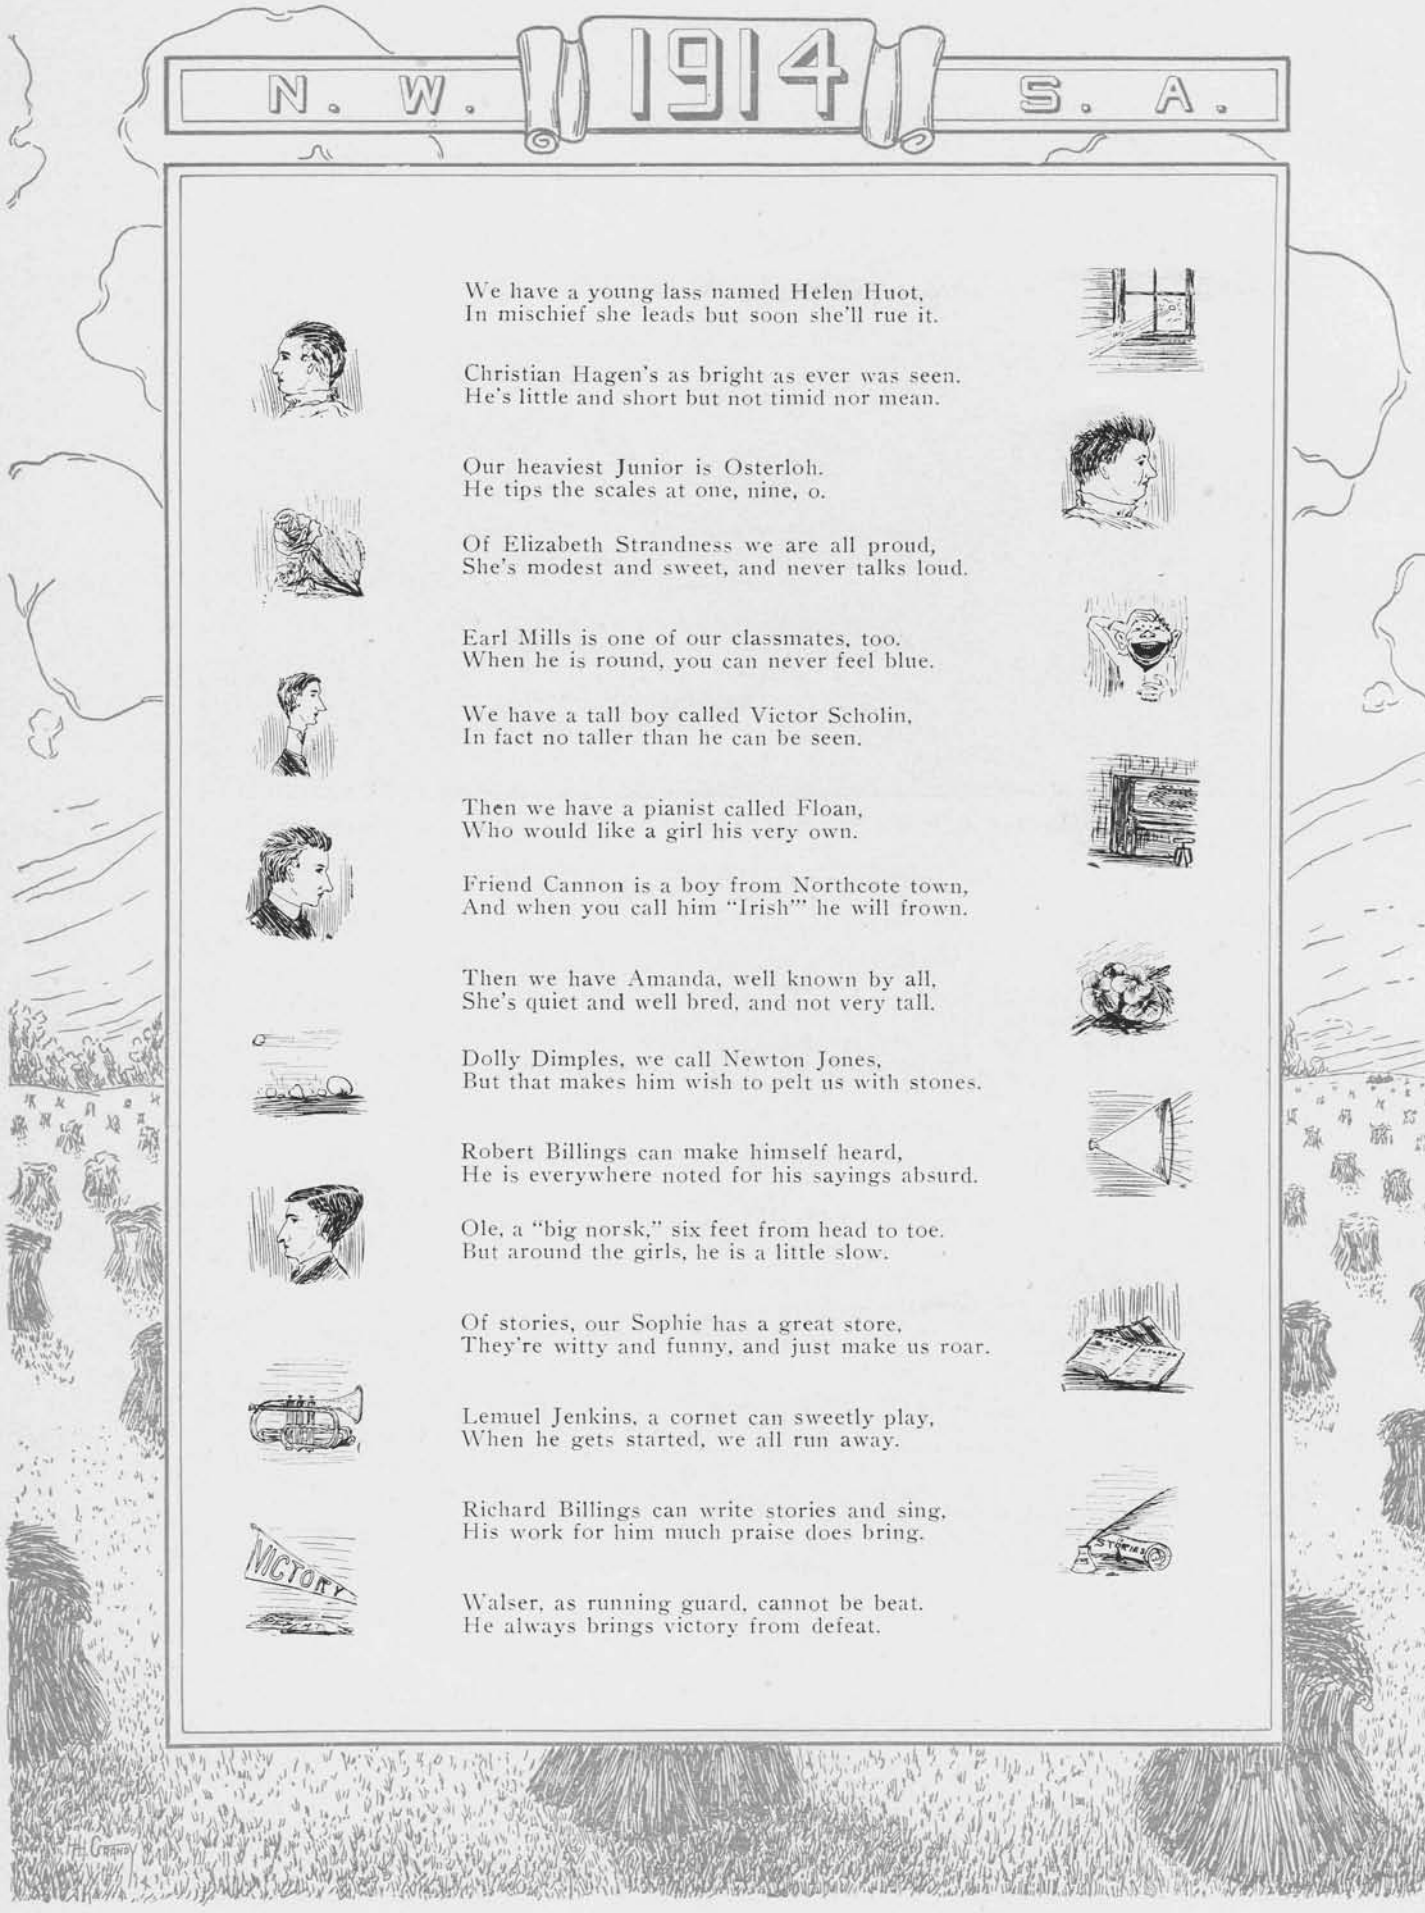

Lemuel Jenkins, a cornet can sweetly play,
When he gets started, we all run away.

Richard Billings can write stories and sing,
His work for him much praise does bring.

Walser, as running guard, cannot be beat.
He always brings victory from defeat.

Cora Petterson comes next in our class,
She's a studious and bright little lass.

Lutness, a musician surely will make,
And the dollars he earns, his wife will take.

Harris comes next; he's a bully old buck,
The boys and faculty, all call him "Chuck."

In weight and proportions, Grothe doth lead,
The cause, at meal time, is easy to read.

In our class is a maiden named Miss Grace,
And when she does smile, you should see her face.

Albert Anderson from Canada came,
Playing his mandolin always the same.

In the Junior class we have a Grandy,
Look at his drawings, they sure are dandy.

Richard Samuelson is the the best of his kind,
You'll have to look far, such another to find.

A jolly good girl is our dear Gertrude,
You'll never find her in a sulky mood.

Rexroat at this school is a famous name,
At the skating rink he has won his fame.

Willie Rud makes his accordion ring,
And the Juniors his praises will sing.

When Dunton's around, the cows all smile,
And the milk comes flowing in quarts the while.

Crandall Atwood has owned three clocks,
One he has kept by a system of locks.

The Juniors, the Juniors, forever!
Who'll dare to deny we're most clever.
You may go far and wide,
But you'll always decide,
That you'll find none like us, no never.

TEACHERS' TRAINING COURSE JUNIOR CLASS

Recognizing the demand for more advanced work than has been given in the regular three year course, the Board of Regents authorized the school to offer advanced courses, giving the students opportunity to specialize in desired branches. The first year of this course opened in October in 1913.

Special emphasis is put on the Normal Department of this course which is designed to fit young men and women for teaching in the consolidated and rural schools.

The need for country school teachers with a practical knowledge of farm work has been a long felt want. To meet this demand the young women are given work in domestic science and household arts, and the young men are given work in specialized farming, such as dairying, poultry raising, gas engineering and farm management. Much emphasis is given to the principles and methods of school management, and of teaching the practical subjects that function in farm life.

The department will maintain an ungraded model school where during the senior year each student teacher will get actual practice in teaching, and where, under the supervision of the instructor, difficult school problems will be worked out. This model school will consist of children from the community, and rural school conditions will here be met. As a result of the two years training in this department the students will be better able to meet existing conditions when taking up their work as teachers in the rural schools.

Polla Ballool ! Polla Ballool !
 A. C. Normal is some school.
 Sing and shout, all unite,
 Give us a cheer with all your might.
 Sis boom bah ! Sis boom bah !
 Normal Juniors, Rah ! Rah ! Rah !

The Normal Department class is composed of eight astute and diligent students, whose duty it has been to establish precedents in all the activities to be pursued by the department.

Being pioneers we have suffered all the hardships, and uncertainties of pioneer life. But the benignant smiles of the Seniors, the quizzical squint of the Juniors, and the gozzling gaze of the Freshmen have produced a stimulus of encouragement.

Each of our members has reached a high degree of excellence in some line, for instance: Harold Schuck's regular attendance at chapel; the sagacity of Mary James at dining room water tournament; Molly Fossbakken's zeal as a suffrage campaigner; Lenora Garceau's tact as a constant aid to cupid; the overcoming modesty of Bertha Bjoin when playing basket ball; the financial ability with which Nora Enge has managed our treasury; the persistency of Oscar Olson's calls at the hall; and the promptness with which Nels Engen adjourns our class meetings are all worthy of emulation by our successors.

As a whole our class is very modest and practical. We are not given to sentimentality but, nevertheless, cupid has claimed a victim from among us. We sorely lament this, but have no grudge against cupid, but rather blame it to the winning smiles of our senior friends. Since we have become accustomed to our surroundings, and touched by the gentle influence of the Freshmen we have become more susceptible to the charms of the Seniors, and it is only by means of the neutralizing effect of the Juniors that we are able to remain intact.

"Mr. Bob" is a play of two acts. The first act is a breakfast room scene. Miss Becky, an old maid having an affinity for cats, wishes to establish a winter home for the destitute ones, and makes plans, unknown to her niece and nephew, to remodel the upper apartments of her home for this purpose.

Katherine expects her friend, Marion Bryan, and leads Philip to believe that she is "Mr. Bob" her fiancée. Much laughter is brought about through the mistaken identity of Mr. Bob and Mr. Brown, Miss Becky's legal adviser. Philip and Miss Becky form a compact that if she will give up cats, he will give up the boat race. Everyone is disappointed to think that Philip is not going to enter, but when "Mr. Bob" arrives everything is solved, and she enters the race with Philip's boat. Her boat winning the race is the climax of the play and Philip does not know until afterwards but what "Mr. Bob" is Mr. Brown. Everything is brought to light and Philip finds out that the real "Mr. Bob" is Marion Bryant of whom he had been very fond since their first meeting during the previous summer.

The Freshman Class

The 1914 Freshman Class of the Northwest School of Agriculture is composed of seventy-six members most of whom entered school at the first of the term. The others hearing of this wonderful class could not resist the longing to join their noted ranks, and so with the encouragement of the older members of the class and by trying their very best, they were able to do so.

In all classes except Public Speaking, the Freshman class is in two divisions, as there is too large a number to be seated in the smaller class rooms. There is such a large number of girls that new equipment had to be ordered for the kitchen and new tables had to be supplied for the sewing room. In some of the boys' classes the boys were divided into three divisions, as there was not room or equipment for all of them.

In the Literary Society the Freshman class is well known. Although they are verdant and many of them have never appeared on the stage before, there are some fine speakers in the class. As practice makes perfect, they hope by the time they are Seniors to show the other students what excellent speaking, reading and singing are.

In the different subjects of the class the grades range from E. to I. Some of them receive their marks with joy, some with sorrow, and others with, "I should worry."

The Freshman Basket Ball team has quite a name for excellent playing. They have never been beaten by the Juniors, and they always make the Seniors play their best to win the game. From present indications we think that the First Team of 1915 will be composed of Juniors.

Freshmen Doings

During the first part of the term the Freshmen gave a party which was well attended as all wished to see how the Freshman would entertain. Everyone had an enjoyable time, as they proved to be excellent entertainers.

The class has given a few interesting programs which were well attended. The only trouble with them was that there were not more of them.

The first basket ball game played the Freshman team was against the Juniors. The score was seventeen to eleven in favor of the Freshmen. In all succeeding games between these two teams, the scores have been similar. The Freshmen do not remember what the score was when they played the Seniors, so all we can say is that the game was a fast one.

Freshmen

Well I am supposed to write a rhyme,
Telling of the Freshman class so fine.
Now I could write a lot,
But I will tell you what,
I cannot call to mind any verb,

N. W.

1914

S. A.

Noun, pronoun, adjective, or adverb,
Or all put together which will tell
Enough of this class we love so well.
But tell us, why do they call us green,
That we are not so is plainly seen.

In basket ball it's a sight to see
The basket shot by our own Eddie.
Starr shoots baskets also,
And Williard is not slow,
And Staska and Joe are right there, too.
As Seniors they'll make all teams skiddo.
In not only that do we excel,
But in many other things as well.
So, though very fresh we all may seem,
We want you to know, we are not green.

Limmericks from the Freshman Gazette

Blanche Morrison, a young lass so sweet,
Is fond of a Senior lad so neat.
When requested to play,
She will always obey,
And, of course, he thinks this quite a treat.

There was a young lady named Nettum.
The fellows, she always could get 'em.
When asked why it is so,
She replied, "I don't know
For it's true I never do pet 'em."

There is a brilliant fellow named Ross.
When asked to recite, he won't get cross.
He's a dinger I say,
And expects his own way,
For he always thinks he is the boss.

Of Peggy we Freshies are all proud.
On her face, there is never a cloud.
When she's asked to recite,
She is all in a fright,
But she's a jolly sport in a crowd.

There is a Freshie whose name is Starr.
His lessons are always up to par.
And to play basket ball,
He's the best of us all.
His fame will soon be known near and far.

We have in our class a boy named Paul.
He is almost as thick as he's tall.
Out courting he will go,
And is surely not slow.
But he won't ask her dad, that is all.

Music

"Music hath charmes to soothe the savage breast."

The music department of the N. W. S. A. is steadily growing. The number of music students this year is nearly twice that of last. A recital was given at the end of the first semester by the music students, and they expect to give another at the end of the second semester.

The Boys' Glee Club has now twenty members. They have appeared before down-town audiences several times this winter. This year the Girls' Glee Club, consisting of twenty members, has been organized. Together the Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs make up the mixed chorus which has furnished music for a number of programs. The mixed chorus gave an operetta, "Phyllis, the Farmer's Daughter," March 9, 1914.

Following is the cast of characters:

Mr. Merth of Crookston has charge of the band. The boys seem to be getting along nicely by the echo of sweet strains that are heard on practice days.

ATHLETICS

Athletics

Athletics in the N. W. S. A. includes basket ball, indoor field meets and gymnasium work. The gymnasium work takes up the exercises with the Indian clubs and dumb bells and rings. Before and after the gym classes the students test their skill in wrestling and many other athletic sports. Gym classes are held regularly twice a week under the direction of Mr. Buhr. The girls gym class is held twice a week under the direction of Miss Hovey, and exercises with Indian clubs and dumb bells are taken up, and different games are played.

Indoor field meets are held during the year. Each class holds try-outs to see who will represent the classes in the different events. The pick of the classes are then entered into the meet, and the class, which scores the most points, wins first place and the next highest, second place and so on. A great deal of interest is taken in these meets, and all the students are given a chance to show what they can do.

The inter-class basket ball games have aroused the greatest interest between the classes. The players were chosen according to their skill as shown in the practice games. The class games were hotly contested, and the outcome was in doubt until the final whistle was blown. Many good players were developed during the season, and those who starred were Latta, Huot and Johnson for the Seniors; Billings, Jenkins and Hagen for the Juniors, and Younggren, Johnston, Renne and Starr for the Freshmen. The class championship was based upon the per cent of games won. The Freshmen tied the Seniors for the pennant as shown by the following record:

	Games Played	Won	Lost	P. C.
Seniors -----	6	4	2	666
Juniors -----	6	1	5	166
Freshmen -----	6	4	2	666

A deciding game will be played before school closes to decide the championship.

The girls played one game, the Seniors against a team picked from the rest of the school, which ended disasterously for the Seniors.

When the call for candidates for the first team was sent out, those from last year's team to report were Vog, Cornelius, Wurden. Sundberg and Hvidsten. Walser reported after Christmas. After many nights of hard practice the following line-up was made: Vog and Cornelius, forwards with Palm, selected from a number of candidates, to play sub-forward. Wurden remained at his old position at center and Sundberg, Hvidsten, and Walser alternated at guards. From this number Cornelius was elected captain of the team. At forward Vog played a fast game and secured the largest number of baskets during the season. Wurden at center outjumped all of his opponents. The team work of the team was good, and the opponents were at a loss trying to solve the plays. The team was coached by Mr. Buhr, and under his able direction the team made the record of eight games won and one lost. Following is the record of the Aggies. First column gives the score of locals:

Literary

Each class maintains a literary society, and a program has been given by one of the classes every Monday night. Each class has shown a great deal of enthusiasm in working to give the best program, and as a result a number of exceedingly good programs have been given. Music has been furnished by the Boys' Glee Club, the Girls' Glee Club, and the Mixed Chorus. A number of vocal and instrumental solos have been rendered by the students.

The Debating Club

The boys' debating club was organized in the fall of 1910 for the purpose of improving the students in parliamentary practice, debating and discussions.

Public programs have been given occasionally, but their regular meetings have been open only to the members of the club and the faculty. A number of very interesting and educational discussions have been given at their meetings.

The debating team met the team of the West Central School of Agriculture at Morris last year (1913) but were defeated. The 1914 debates with Morris were held March 14th. One team journeyed to Morris, while the other team met the boys from Morris here. We were not successful this year, but are determined to do better next year.

Military Drill

All young men at this school, who are physically able, are required to take military drill. They must provide themselves with full uniform, while the guns and other equipment are furnished by the government.

After two years of military drill the improvement in the carriage of the fellows causes them to take on a straight forward, manly appearance. Drill also assists in the proper development of the vital organs of the body which is conducive to good health and diligent work.

The cadets most efficient in drill are promoted to commissioned offices and non-commissioned offices. The non-commissioned officers are corporals, first and second sergeants. The commissioned officers are first and second lieutenants and captains.

During the school year of 1912-13, Gilbert Huot and Leonard Story attained the position of first lieutenant.

During the year an opportunity is given all officers to take an examination which, if successfully passed, entitles them to a certificate of honor.

There is a competitive drill held as an annual event that is looked forward to with interest, and is worked with good natured rivalry. The one that succeeds in standing the longest and making least mistakes, receives a handsome gold medal. The one last year was won by Mr. Gilbert Huot, now our first lieutenant.

Alumni Association

The demand for trained young men and women with a capacity for leadership to promote the interests of the rural communities is steadily increasing.

It is the aim of the Alumni to aid the rural communities and to do this we must have honest, earnest and energetic workers. The intelligent and enthusiastic class of 1914 presents to us all that we could hope for, and we extend to them a most hearty welcome.
