GREETING

ANOTHER YEAR HAS COME AND GONE. MANY NEW PAGES ARE REQUIRED TO CHRONICLE THE EVENTS THAT HAVE TRANSPIRED. WE, AS A CLASS, HAVE GONE JOYFULLY TO THE TASK OF TRUTHFULLY ILLUMINATING THE BIT OF SCHOOL HISTORY OF WHICH WE HAVE MADE A PART. OUR SCHOOL HAS MADE GREAT GROWTH AND PROGRESS SINCE OUR COMING, AND WE FEEL NOT ONLY THE DIGNITY, BUT THE RESPONSIBILITY, AS WELL, OF RECORDING TO THE BEST OF OUR ABILITY THIS HISTORY AS IT WAS IN THE MAKING. OUR EFFORTS HAVE BEEN BUT HUMAN—WE ARE AGRICULTURISTS AND HOME MAKERS, OUR TRAINING HAS NOT BEEN TOWARD THE PRODUCTION OF SCHOOL ANNUALS—BUT WE HAVE PUT IN HONEST EFFORT, AND FEEL THAT OUR WORK HAS NOT BEEN DONE IN VAIN.

TO THE FACULTY, ALUMNI, STUDENTS AND FRIENDS EVERYWHERE, WE SEND OUR GREETINGS.

REETINGS

TO THE CLASS OF 1916,
NORTHWEST SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE:

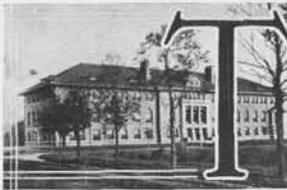

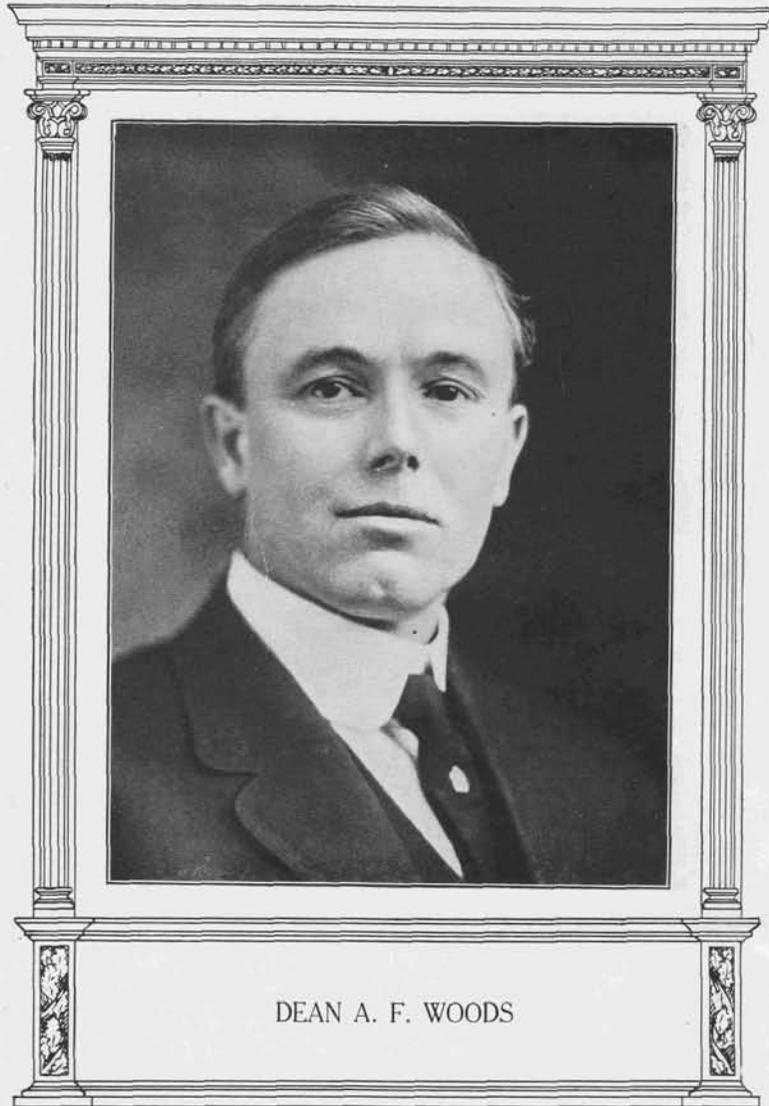

To you I send greetings, congratulations and best wishes. You are members of the University, and of that larger University which includes all the earnest men and women, youths and maidens of the State who are trying to understand life better and to live it more worthily.

Remember that a University is not buildings, books, or apparatus, but an attitude toward life. To be open-minded, to seek truth always, to follow it bravely, to try to understand others rather than to judge them, to prefer the common welfare to personal advantage, to be just and sympathetic, to be reverent in the presence of the mystery of the Universe—these things are the essence of the University spirit.

May it be with something of this spirit that you go gladly and with courage to take up your work in the World!

Yours sincerely,

George E. Vincent.

TO THE CLASS OF 1916,

NORTHWEST SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE:

Only a few of the young men and women of Minnesota will be able to enjoy the advantages of the University Schools of Agriculture. It is incumbent upon you who have had that advantage to see to it that the rural schools of the state are organized for efficient educational service. Give the boys and girls of the country, schools at least as good as those of the city. This is being accomplished through the consolidation of the weak schools into larger and efficient units. Study this movement, and you will give it your heartiest support. It is the corner stone of the new country life.

Faithfully yours,

A. F. Woods,

REETINGS TO THE CLASS OF 1916,
NORTHWEST SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE:

It is ten years since students first came to this school. During that time more than eight hundred students have enrolled for a longer or shorter term, and, counting your class, one hundred eighty-seven have graduated. A large number, in addition, have attended farmers', junior and summer courses.

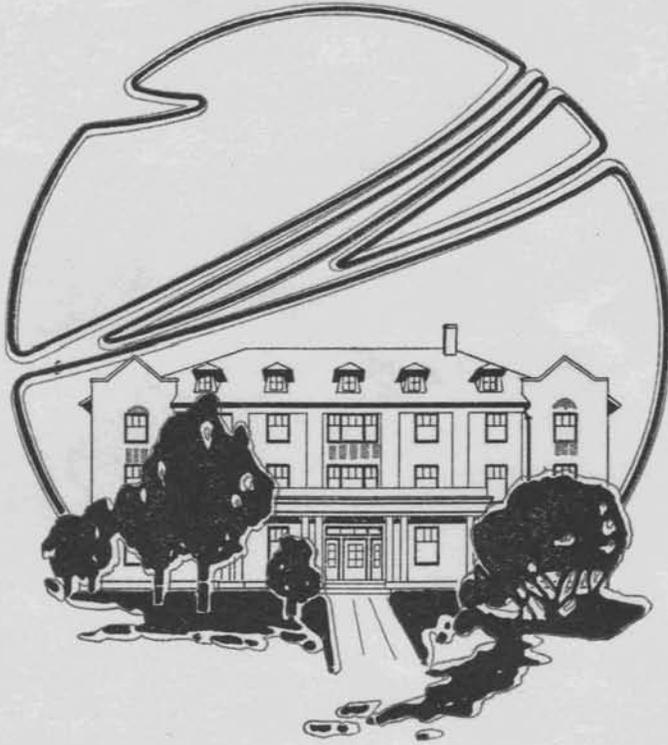

These figures ought to remind us that for service rendered these hundreds by the state through this institution, service to their neighbors, in their community, to their state and country, is due by them and from them in return. We must give as well as receive.

Your training here will make you more efficient in your work, in the home and on the farm. May it also inspire you to live a life of service.

Sincerely,

C. G. Selvig

ACT I.

Mr. Hardcastle, a gentleman of the old school, has selected young Marlow for the future husband of his daughter, Kate. Young Marlow and his friend, Hastings, lose their way when traveling to Mr. Hardcastle's house and stop at an inn for directions. Mr. Hardcastle's scamp of a step-son is there at the inn, and plays on them one of his impish tricks by telling them they are miles away from their destination, and by directing them, for the night, to his father's house as if it were an inn.

ACT II.

Marlow and Hastings find the supposed inn—Mr. Hardcastle's house—very comfortable; but the supposed landlord—Mr. Hardcastle—decidedly presuming for an inn-keeper. Hastings meets his fiancee, Miss Neville, a niece of Mrs. Hardcastle's, and she, of course, tells him they are in Mr. Hardcastle's home. Hastings and Miss Neville plan to elope. They keep Marlow in the dark about the mistake of the inn, and introduce him to Miss Hardcastle, telling him that she also is stopping over night at the inn.

ACT III.

Marlow is overcome by his excessive bashfulness when talking to Miss Hardcastle, but later he meets her in her house-wife's dress, mistakes her for a bar-maid, and falls in love with her. She continues the deception in order to win him.

ACT IV.

Marlow finally discovers that he is in Mr. Hardcastle's house, and that the girl who has attracted him is a lady of position. Mrs. Hardcastle discovers the plot of the eloping pair and starts off in their very coach to put Miss Neville into safe keeping, but Tony, who has gotten them all into this trouble, plans to get them out of it.

ACT V.

He drives his mother's coach through all the sloughs and ditches in the neighborhood, and by a circuitous route lands her in the horse-pond back of her own home. Her husband appears, and she learns that Tony is again at the bottom of it. Hastings and Miss Neville are pardoned by her. Marlow refuses to give up the lady who has attracted him, and then discovers that she is the very Miss Hardcastle before whom his bashfulness had at first so overcome him.

CLASS HISTORY

Esther Pearson, 1916.

In the year of our Lord nineteen hundred thirteen, seventy-nine timid freshmen came to the Crookston School of Agriculture seeking knowledge. With Mr. and Mrs. McCall as class advisors, they began to climb the ladder of success.

With Miss Brown as director, they took part in literary societies, and gave a program every third week in the auditorium. All of these were well attended and closely listened to because such excellent artists are bound to compel attention. Our verdure became more and more subdued as we learned how to apply purity and germination tests to corn, and the important maxim that to every action there is an equal and opposite reaction.

We did not neglect the social side of our life for we entertained the school at a big party. We then proved to be excellent hostesses. At the party given to us by the old students, we had the honor of riding in an American airship, but we were not sure whether we would alight as pole-landers or lap-landers.

The second year we returned to school and enrolled as Juniors. We were no longer bashful and backward, but took part in athletics, won the class championship in basket ball, and when the field meet was held, showed our skill by scoring against the Seniors.

Our class supplied prominent members to debating clubs, and won a number of debates against members of other classes.

During our Junior year we witnessed the erection of the magnificent Senior Hall on the campus, to serve as a boys' dormitory. In the same year a central heating system was installed for our comfort and warmth. We now believed we were living in luxury. In our Domestic Science department, we found Miss Catlin, with her never-to-be-forgotten smile, taking the place of Miss Kadlec, who had decided that if our work should be done accurately we must be given wholesome food. It was in this year also that Miss Hovey, our music teacher, with her winning manner and gentle ways accomplished the work of melting an ice-Bergh.

Miss Olsen and Mr. Sewall had, while we were at home spending our summer vacation, decided that two heads put together were better than one.

It was in this momentous year that a three months' short course was established for the advantage of boys and girls, who do not have the opportunity of taking up the regular three years' course.

After Christmas we were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. McCall who gave us a delightful party, where we took the entrance examination in Forestry. Some of us passed by getting good marks, others by our good looks, and some of us by our reputations. Mr. McCall decided that we were such a nice group of Juniors he would take a flash light picture of us to save for the future when he wanted to have some fond recollections.

Although for a period of two years we were treated as minor characters by the upper classes, we, ourselves, knew what places we were occupying. During this time some of our number were claimed by victories, more by defeats, and others by adverse circumstances, until, at the beginning of the third year, there were only forty-two of us left. According to Darwin and his theory of evolution, those who have survived are the fittest.

We began this year by enjoying with the school, a camp-fire festival. Everyone took part and fried his bacon in true woodsmen style over the glowing fire. We are proud to say that our class carried off the honors in the relay race. On Thanksgiving the students and faculty were served an elaborate dinner at which the Senior boys acted as waiters. They did their work as well as any of the girls who serve in the boarding club could have done. In the evening the world's favorite play, "Kindling the Hearth Fire," was given in three acts in the auditorium.

We, girls of the Senior class, have nourished the faculty this year, giving them 100 grams protein, 500 grams carbohydrate, and 70 grams of fat per person, and as proof of the success of this feat, we boast a corps of teachers who are free from dyspepsia.

RED RIVER AGGIE

Our Senior boys, have learned to manage a farm in such a way that their future mates will not have to keep their farm accounts.

Miss Brown and Miss Metcalf after having taught us as much English as they thought we could possibly absorb, and fearing the future consequences of this problem, left our school to seek more learning themselves. We now have the Haig Tribunal to arbitrate on all dormitory disputes, and our library has become a new Smithsonian Institute.

Mr. Bengtson, Mr. McCall and Mr. Dietrich have stood the test of time and with their patience and endurance we have prospered luxuriantly.

Our happy three years are closing with this elaborate Junior-Senior banquet. Thus we depart from the scenes of our school days, with gratitude in our hearts towards Mr. Selvig who has superintended our school career, and toward our faculty who have trained our minds and our lives, and with love for our Alma Mater which is sending us forth well-prepared to commence our real life.

Blanche Morrison's a great pianist. She has now been given charge
Of the A. C. music courses, and her classes are quite large.

professor of dietetics is the worthy William Ash.
He is fast becoming famous for his scientific hash.

Hildur Lindfors is preceptress at this
Aggie School so great.
She makes the girls regret it if they stay out very late.

Selmer Erfjord's musical talent is the greatest in the land,
He is now the great director of the famous Buxton band.

Stewart is a student of the Paris
School of Art,
And of every great exhibit his drawings are a part.

Oliver has been chosen Governor as the women's candidate;
The reforms she introduces are in the interest of the state.

SENIOR CLASS WILL

Lorin J. Laughlin, '16.

WE, the members of the Senior class of '16 of the Northwest School of Agriculture, being of sound mind and body, and having partaken of the tree of knowledge in this school for three successive years, do hereby declare this to be our last will and testament.

To the Junior class, we bequeath the following:

1st. To the Class the ability of study, and get the lessons in their Senior year; to the Boys the care of Senior Hall during the school year of '16-'17; to the Girls the ability to cook for the faculty in a satisfactory way; to the Class our golden thoughts of our past years in this school.

Individually, the followin bequests are made:

- Wm. Ash to Magnus Spjut the ability to take pictures.
- Gertrude Bagaas to All—her bright and willing way.
- Jennie Boisner to Katie Osterloh her jolly good natured laugh.
- David Berland to the person who will take it—his lazy nature.
- Wilfred Brunelle to anyone his nickle plated cornet.
- Ross Correll to ClarenceLee—his position as class giant.
- Richard Camrud to anyone capable of doing good work—his basket ball togs.
- Wm. Espe to Bernard Moses—his hard luck.
- Paul Englestad to Walter Peterson—his ability to write letters to all the pretty girls in Minnesota.
- Selmer Erfjord to All—his honored position in the band.
- Ruth Englebraksen to Katie Osterloh—her quiet disposition.
- Ole Flaata to Berger Hagglund his hair brushes, combs and shampoos.
- Lester Garceau to Conrad Clementson—his windy nature to add to what he already has.
- Murray Hales to Oscar Gigstad—his old candy recipes and empty flavoring extract bottles.
- Edwin Hammer to any Junior or Freshman who has wind and brass enough to blow a brass horn—his place in the band.
- Hannah Imsdahl to Gerda Kulle—her quiet reserved disposition.
- James Kirkeby to Herbert Anderson—his "votes for women" and diplomatic ability.
- Olive Larness to Ellen Bloomquist—her industrious way.
- Clara Lindfors to Pauline Letnes—her good looks.
- Hildur Lindfors to Josie Imsdahl—her dignity and reserve.
- Andrew Landby to Earl Johnston—his flirting nature.
- Oscar Lund to anyone who will buy his slide for fifteen cents—his position in the band as solo trombonist.
- Ruby McDonald to Maja Peterson—her quiet smiles.
- Blanche Morrison to Almira Torgerson if not taken to date—her bright smile and radiant face.
- Alma Nettum to Clara Johnson—her bright and pleasant ways.
- Carl Olson to the first girl who will write him an appealing letter on or before June 1st—his photograph.
- Esther Pearson to Johannah Monson—her ability to have her lessons at all times.
- Peter Pearson to a reliable Junior—his job as Senior Hall inspector.
- Cora Peterson to Maja Peterson—her efficiency in turning folks down.
- Chloe Starr to anyone who will do his duty by it—her power as a leader.
- Claude Starr to Oscar Tunheim—his secrets of "How to Play Basket Ball Successfully."
- Helen Sontag to King Scherfenberg—a certain framed picture which she has kept for a long time.
- Lloyd Stewart to Earl Johnston—his artistic temperament, his broken pencils, T squares and triangles.
- Martinus Stenseth to Library—his books on physical culture.

RED RIVER AGGIE

Randolf Saugstad to Sam Anderson—his speed in basket ball.

Henry Rud to anyone who is a poet and does not know it—his poetical ability.

Ray Stow to the most needy Freshman—his classy vocabulary.

Herman Skyberg to the awkward squad—his erect military form as a model.

Thorval Tunheim, realizing as he does, that no one in school is capable of taking over the responsibilities of his position, does hereby petition and urge Junior boys and Magnus Spjut, in particular, to aspire to his honored position.

Victor Younggren to James Porten—his personal peculiarities.

The writer realizing, that to make any progress in this world one must work for it, hereby bequeaths his ambition for labor to Peter Ness.

In proof of the fact that we are sound in mind we admit:

That we are the largest class ever graduated from the Northwest School of Agriculture; that we have the best looking girls; that we have the best basket ball players.

In testimony whereof we have hereunto subscribed our names this 30th day of March, A. D. 1916.

(Signed)

THE MEMBERS OF THE SENIOR CLASS.

On this 30th day of March, A. D. 1916, the above named testators, the Senior class of 1916, subscribed the foregoing instrument in my presence and declared the same to be their last will and testament.

Juniors

Fate has decreed that the Junior Class of 1916 should be heavily pruned. But being vigorous and healthy, it was by no means discouraged by this. What this class lacks in numbers is more than made up for in quality. Seldom is there found a group of people charged with so much energy and enthusiasm as this Junior Class of three girls and twenty-two boys. Their deeds speaks for themselves.

Music hath charms to soothe the savage beast.—Shakespeare.

Musical ability is a marked characteristic of the Junior Class. This is a picture of one of their musical organizations to which belong the most distinguished musicians of the class. It gives an idea of their outward appearance, but a conception of their musical performance cannot be thus conveyed. Nothng less than hearing their music could adequately do this, for it is indescribable. Special musical education is necessary in order to fully appreciate it.

Nineteen-Sixteen Junior Class Song

Tune: In the Prison Cell I Sit.

I.

Jolly Juniors are we all,
And although our class is small,
We can fill this place with sunshine warm and bright.
Never in their play or work,
Junior "Aggies" lag or shirk;
But they meet their duties promptly and with cheer.

Chorus:

Sing! Sing! Sing! O Junior "Aggies"!
Springtide of life is filled with joy.
We have set our mark up high;
Yet we'll reach it by and by.
We shall be our Alma Mater's pride and joy.

II.

Let us then with vim and zest,
Do our very level best,
Learn our lessons, mind our business and the rules
So at last when we depart,
This conviction swells our heart;
We have filled our lives with strength for coming years.

Chorus:

RED RIVER AGGIE

Freshmen Class

The class of 1918 was born on October 6, 1915. That this class of industrious, bright and fun loving students will succeed is without a doubt. They have already shown their great ability in a large number of ways. The above and aforementioned class is the Freshman Class of the Northwest School of Agriculture and, though young, as yet, it is considered an important part of this school.

Superintendent C. G. Selvig kindly gave us the right hand of fellowship at our first called business meeting, and guided our helm until we were able to walk alone through the "tall, green grass" surrounding us.

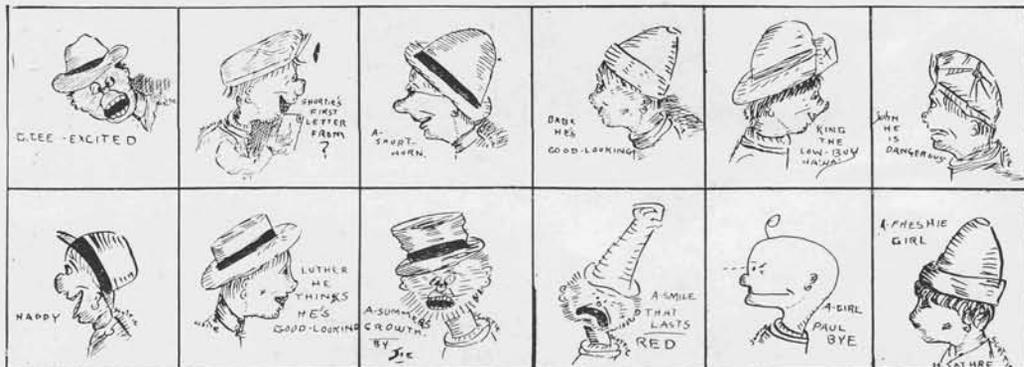

Our latent ability manifested itself early in our school career so much so that faculty members freely predict that we will be the greatest class in the school's history.

Prof. and Mrs. F. L. Kennard were chosen class advisers.

Advanced Course

The Advanced Course was first offered as a regular School Course during the fall of 1913. This course was organized to fit school graduates for college entrance, and to train teachers in agriculture and academic courses for positions in consolidated and graded schools.

Credits for work in the Advanced Course are accepted by the college and university the same as high school credits.

The course is instructed by the regular school and Teachers' Training Course instructors. The school year lasts nine months instead of six as in the regular course.

The attendance has been increasing each year. Eight boys are enrolled in the course this year.

Teachers' Training Course

The Teachers' Training Course is the result of the need that is felt by people in the rural communities for better trained teachers. They are realizing more and more each year that the rural teachers have not had enough professional training, do not understand rural conditions, and do not know the needs of the rural schools. Consequently they are not as efficient as are schools in other communities. To meet this demand of the people this Teachers' Training Department was established in 1913. It is the purpose of the department to train young men and women for the one room rural schools, and for the consolidated schools which are rapidly growing in public favor.

The course includes work usually given for the training of teachers, and special attention is given to Domestic Science, Agriculture, Nature Study and Manual Training. In connection with the work, an ungraded school is used as a demonstration school. It is a typical country school, and by observing the work done here, and by actually teaching the school under the close supervision of the Normal Training Teacher, the student teacher comes in close contact with rural school conditions and problems and learns how to solve them.

In addition to work done in the demonstration school, the student teachers take charge of small classes made up of students from the regular course and the short course students. This work is also done under the direct supervision of the instructor.

In view of the fact that hot noon lunches are required in consolidated schools, and because these lunches not only prove a benefit to the child, but give an excellent opportunity for social training, this work has been taken up in connection with the Domestic Science work. One hot dish, which has been prepared by the children under the student teacher, is served each day.

Students finishing this course are given a state first grade certificate which is renewable indefinitely.

Debating was given a new impetus in the fall of 1915 by the addition of a course in debating as a part of the regular English work. Prof. A. H. Larson is in charge of the debating class work, and has also been appointed as school debating coach.

Interest in debating was further stimulated by Supt. C. G. Selvig upon his presenting to the school a beautiful silver loving cup as a trophy to the Literary Society winning the intersociety debate three successive years. The "Selvig Cup" debates are to be made a feature of the Commencement Program each year.

The following debating schedule has been arranged for the present year:

February 8—Dual debate with North Dakota School of Science, Wahpeton.

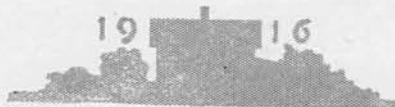

March 18—Dual debate with West Central School of Agriculture, Morris, Minn.

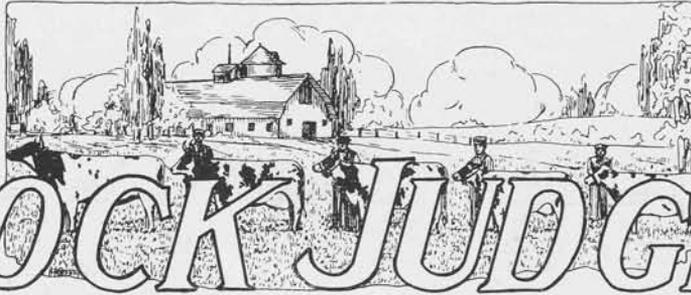

March 27—"Selvig Cup" debate. Pioneer vs. Lincoln Club Debating teams.

STOCK JUDGING

Live stock judging has become a special feature of the school course. Special work in live stock judging has been given outside of the regular scheduled classes, and great interest and enthusiasm has been shown by the students in this work.

Superintendent Selvig appreciating the great value of the knowledge of live stock judging, presented to the school a beautiful silver cup as a trophy to the class winning the annual stock judging contest.

The "tryouts" for the stock judging teams were held on February 16, and teams were selected to represent the Advanced, Senior and Junior classes. The judging teams journeyed to the Carlson farm at Erskine for the first annual class, stock judging contest, which was held March 6.

Early during the year arrangements were made with the Central School of Agriculture of St. Paul, the West Central School of Morris, the North Dakota Agricultural College, the Winnipeg Agricultural College and this school for an interstate Stock Judging Contest. The interstate contest did not materialize for this year, however the prospects are good for the contest next year.

The local Y. M. C. A. was organized March 22, 1914, succeeding the Christian Association organized when the school was established. The membership roll has been increasing each year so that now a large number of active and associate members are enrolled.

The officers elected for 1915-1916 were: President, Thorvald Tunheim; Vice President, Oscar Lund; Secretary-Treasurer, Ole A. Flaata; Sergeant-at-arms, Herman Skyberg; Faculty Advisory Committee, T. M. McCall, J. P. Bengtson and A. H. Larson.

The Sunday meetings of the association begin with Bible study in the morning at eight forty-five, followed by the regular Y. M. C. A. meeting at three o'clock, and the joint meeting with the Y. W. C. A. in the evening at seven o'clock. The morning class is led jointly by the faculty advisors and a great deal of interest and enthusiasm is shown in the course. Speakers from Crookston and elsewhere are frequently called on to address the afternoon and evening meetings, but these meetings for the most part are conducted by student leaders, at which time the problems of social welfare and religious activities of the country are discussed.

The delegates to the State Y. M. C. A. convention at Faribault, February 10, were Thorvald Tunheim and Raymond Anderson. The following members attended the convention at their own expense: Chester Wilson, Herbert Anderson and Robert Billings.

RED RIVER AGGIE

Young Women's Christian Association

The Y. W. C. A. is a young organization at the school, but in the one year of its existence it has made itself felt as a power for good and an inspiration for a more fully developed and rounded out life among the girls. The great ideal of the association is that of training young women to take their proper place in the moral and religious life of their home communities.

The officers for the present year are: President, Chloe Starr; Vice President, Johanna Monson; Secretary, Clara Lindfors; Treasurer, Amanda Hanson. The faculty advisers are Mrs. C. G. Selvig, Mrs. A. F. Haig and Miss Grace Sherwood.

The regular association meetings are held on the first and third Sundays of each month. A definite course of Bible study is taken up each year, and the Bible study classes meet each Sunday morning.

The Y. W. C. A. meets with the Y. M. C. A. each Sunday evening in a joint service. The joint meetings are led by students twice each month, and the meetings on the alternate Sundays are addressed by preachers and other prominent men from Crookston and neighboring towns.

The Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. give a joint reception each year to new students and faculty. This reception is looked forward to as being the chief social event of the fall term.

MILITARY

Stenseth, Isaacson, Hallgren, Boness, Ness, Johnson, Moses.
Krogseng, Hagglund, Jones, Peterson, Johnson, Morris, Bjorsness.

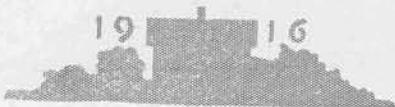

The course in military drill as in all land grant schools and colleges, is required of all boys in the regular course, except those with physical disqualifications. The ideals of the course are first: To give a thorough training in the rudiments of military tactics and second to train the mind and body to act together producing graceful, snappy action and proper carriage.

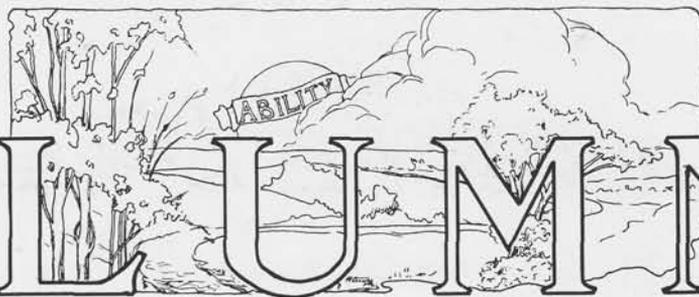

The students are required to furnish themselves with full uniform while the guns and other necessary equipment is furnished by the state.

Worthy students showing progress and ability are promoted to become officers as soon as they prove themselves proficient. The officers are: Captain, First and Second Lieutenant, First and Second Sergeants and Corporals.

Examinations are given officers at the close of each school year, the meritorious passing of which entitles them to promotion and a certificate of honor.

An annual competitive drill down is held near the close of the school year at which time the student remaining on the floor the longest receives a gold medal and commendation.

DAILY HAPPENINGS

Tuesday, October 5.

This is the opening day of school. Prospects for a large senior class are very bright.

Saturday, October 16.

An out-door festival was held in the park. Supper, which consisted of sandwiches, bacon, doughnuts, and coffee was served at 6:30 o'clock. Several bon-fires were built over which the bacon was fried. After supper, games were played. The band gave a number of selections.

Saturday, October 23.

A basket ball game was played between two picked teams. A moving picture film was shown.

Saturday, October 30.

Some of the boys celebrated Hallowe'en till 3:00 o'clock in the morning.

Saturday, November 6.

The Y. M. and the Y. W. C. A. gave a reception to the new students this evening.

Thorval Tunheim's hunting instinct is aroused, and he yields to a temptation to go deer (dear) hunting.

Thursday, November 11.

Mrs. Haig: "What do you do, James, when you see a word that you don't know?"

Jimmie: "Skip it."

Friday, November 12.

Mr. Bengtson in Civics class: "Who issues marriage licenses, Paul?"

Paul: "I don't know, but I should like to find out."

Mr. Peck and Mr. Coffin, of the State Y. M. C. A., are visiting at the school.

The candidates for the first team played a game at the gymnasium this evening.

Sunday, November 14.

A large number of students went to town to attend lectures given by Mr. Peck and Mr. Coffin.

Tuesday, November 16.

Wednesday, November 24.

Mr. Brown is very busy preparing the turkeys for tomorrow's big feed.

Thursday, November 25.

Thanksgiving day. This was a very happy day at the School of Agriculture.

True to the spirit of the day, everyone was anxious to help in doing the necessary work. In the forenoon a large number of students were busy making preparations for dinner.

The tables in the dining hall were decorated with flowers and fruits, which helped to make this occasion a feast for the eye as well as for the palate.

In the afternoon a program was rendered, which consisted of readings, music and an address on "Thanksgiving Spirit" by Mr. Selvig.

This was followed by a moving picture film of Scott's "Ivanhoe."

The people of the surrounding country, who had been invited to attend the afternoon and evening programs, were present in large numbers.

At six o'clock a lunch, consisting of sandwiches, salad and cocoa, was served in the dining hall.

The Arithmetic of Saving

DIVIDE your income sensibly—

SUBTRACT useless expenditures—

ADD to your savings account regularly, and you will

MULTIPLY your chances of success.

The foregoing is a lesson in mathematics which the First National Bank hopes that every student of the Northwest School of Agriculture will learn before he is graduated, because to know it will surely make for his future success.

This strong bank pays 4% compound interest on savings accounts.

Bureau, Supremacy Commands Attention!

LOOK back over the past years and ask yourself what other Engraving Institution, specializing in college annuals, has wielded so wide an Influence over the College Annual Field?

Ask yourself if College and University Annuals are not better today because of BUREAU PROGRESSIVENESS and BUREAU INITIATIVE?

You know that the BUREAU OF ENGRAVING, Inc. inaugurated the system of Closer Co-operation with college annual boards in planning and constructing books from cover to cover.

Our marked progress in this field commands attention. Our establishment is one of the largest of its kind in this country. Our Modern Art Department of noted Commercial Art Experts is developing Artistic Features that are making "Bureau" Annuals Famous for Originality and Beauty.

And again, the help of our experienced College Annual Department is of invaluable aid. Our up-to-the-minute system, which we give you, and our Instructive Books will surely lighten your Burden.

A proposition from the Natural Leaders in the College Annual Engraving field from an organization of over 150 people, founded over 17 years ago, and enjoying the Confidence and Good Will of the foremost Universities of this country, is certainly worth your while.

Is not the BUREAU OF ENGRAVING, Inc., Deserving of the Opportunity of showing what it can do for - YOU?
