The UMD Coaching Staff

Greg Cane Head Coach

In the relatively brief history of women's soccer at Minnesota-Duluth, head coach Greg Cane has taken a club level team and created a program that has proved it can compete with the elite teams in the region. Cane enters 1999, his sixth season at UMD, with a 47-26-5 lifetime record. After debuting in 1994 as a varsity sport with a 2-4-1 record, his Bulldogs have won at least 10 games per year and have captured two out of the three Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference championships since the league added the sport in 1996.

No stranger to successful programs, the 38-year-old Cane also handled the head coaching duties for the UMD women's tennis team from 1995-1997. During Cane's tenure, the Bulldogs produced a 30-15 overall record and captured three NSIC titles. In his first season, UMD set a school single-season record for victories and winning percentage with a 15-2 mark as the team made its first appearance in the NCAA Division II Midwest Regional. In 1998, Cane, the 1997 NSIC Coach of the Year, handed the women's tennis reins over to Duluth native Heather (Kottke) Hietala, but remains with the Bulldog tennis program as an assistant coach.

A native of Duluth, Cane played soccer for three seasons at the College of St. Scholastica. After graduating in 1983 with bachelor's degrees in both secondary education and history, he remained at his alma mater to coach the Saints' men's soccer contingent. In his nine years with the men's program, Cane rolled up a 106-53-12 record while earning two National Soccer Coaches Association of America National Championships, the 1988 NSCAA Coach of the Year Award and five NAIA District 13 championships. Cane averaged 12 wins a season, and endured just two losing seasons, while leading the Saints men. He was also integral in establishing the Saints' women's soccer program in 1990, and compiled an overall record of 13-35-1 in his four years as women's head coach.

Cane and his wife, Patti, currently reside in Duluth with their daughter, Amanda (11).

Anne Johnson Assistant Coach

Anne Johnson, a member of the inaugural Minnesota-Duluth women's soccer team, is in her first year as an assistant coach with the Bulldogs.

Johnson, 24, played midfield for UMD from 1994-96. She tallied seven goals and seven assists for 21 points over 42 career games and was a UMD co-captain in her junior and senior years.

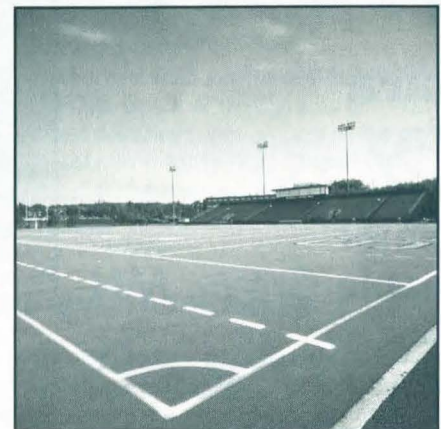

A native of White Bear Lake, MN, Johnson completed her B.S. degree in exercise science from UMD in 1997 and earned a master's degree in exercise physiology from the University of North Dakota this past spring. During her senior academic year at UMD, she served as an assistant coach for the women's soccer program at the College of St. Scholastica.

Welcome to Griggs Field

Northern Minnesota's premier outdoor athletic venue, Griggs Field has been the home of Bulldog football for the past 33 seasons and home to women's soccer since 1994. And, talk about a home field advantage. In 38 lifetime appearances at Griggs Field, the Bulldogs have posted a 29-7-2 overall record for a .776 winning percentage. The Bulldogs have had two perfect home seasons (10-0 in 1995 and 7-0 in 1998) and only one losing record (1-2 in 1994). UMD will begin the 1999 season riding a nine-game home winning streak and a 12-game unbeaten streak (11-0-1).

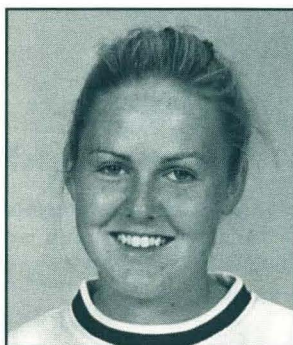

This past summer, Griggs Field underwent a $1.6 million facelift with the installation of a new football playing surface (it is one of only two on-campus football facilities in Minnesota equipped with artificial turf) along with an eight-lane all weather track. In addition to housing the football, women's soccer and track Bulldogs, the 4,000-seat Griggs Field also hosts a number of high school football and track and field events throughout the year as well as University intramural activities.

Some Hangovers Last Forever.

If you think drinking can only mess you up for a night, think again. Drinking can open the door to all kinds of violence. And if you drink and drive, you can hurt or kill someone—even yourself. Of course, you know all that. What may be news to you is that a conviction for drinking and driving or alcohol-related violence can ruin your chances of getting a job—now and long after you graduate. Isn't that a heavy price to pay for a night on the town?

You're not as cool as you think when you drink.

UMD and the Duluth Community

Like Nowhere Else ...

Hiking amid the dense white pines that grow down to the rocky coast, one can hear the cry of seagulls and the distant wail of a foghorn as the mighty waves crash against the shore, covering the lush green vegetation with a fine mist. A scene out of a remote spot in the Pacific Northwest right? No, it's Duluth.

Straining against the incessant tug of gravity, you make your way up the steep cobblestone sidewalks of the bustling downtown. The air is filled with the honking horns of cars, cabs and busses. Mingling with the sea air is the wafting scent of freshly baked bread coming from one of the ethnic grocery stores, restaurants and bakeries in the tightly-packed neighborhood. You're walking the streets of San Francisco, right? No, it's Duluth.

The boardwalk is simply alive today. Down the street from the casino, and in front of hundreds of waterfront hotel rooms, there is every mixture of human enjoying the gentle breeze off the water. Tourists mingle with businessmen on their lunch break, and in-line skaters zoom past a mime entertaining the kids as couples check out the galleries and coffeehouses that line the sun-splashed strip. Is it Atlantic City, Miami Beach, or Santa Monica? No, it's Duluth.

A Meeting Place...

Centuries before the first Native Americans pitched their teepees and launched their primitive canoes in the waters of the massive lake they called "Gitchee Gummee," there were countless meetings in the place that would come to be known as Duluth. The crashing waves of Lake Superior came here to meet the churning waters of the St. Louis River.

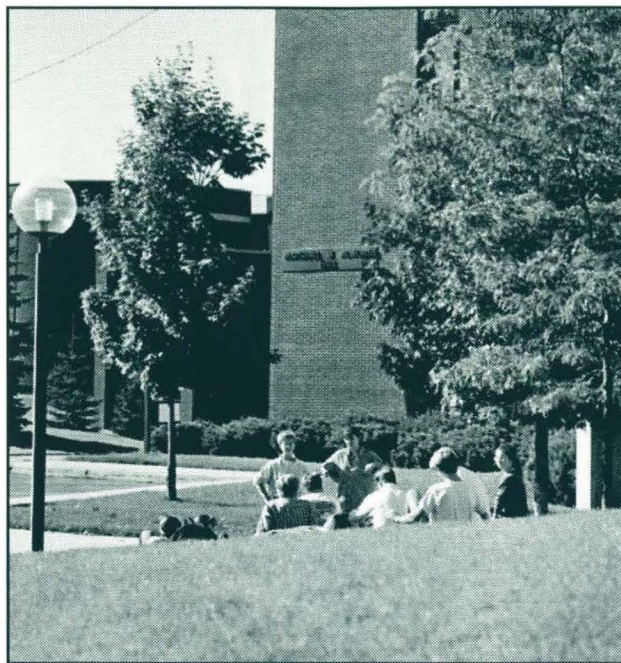

Those meetings of natural forces formed a ten-mile long strand of sand where, on warm summer days, you will find thousands of modern-day Twin Ports visitors shedding the wraps of winter and meeting the rays of the sun.

And that stretch of beach, now known as Park Point, provided a huge natural harbor where tiny canoes, then larger boats, and today, immense ocean-going ships, can find shelter from the wind and waves of the great lake. Around this natural harbor where the lake met the river, cities grew.

Today, Duluth and its Twin Ports partner, Superior, are viewed as meeting places more than ever.

It is here that small-town truckers in jeans and feed caps haul loads of grain down to the giant elevators next to the docks. More than 1,000 miles from the salt waters of the nearest ocean, they meet sea captains from ports in every corner of the globe, who will haul that wheat, corn and barley east through the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence Seaway, then across the Atlantic to become pasta in Italy, bread in France, vodka in Russia, lefse in Sweden, beer in Germany and food for the hungry in impoverished and war-torn regions of Europe, Asia and Africa.

Mile-long trains loaded with iron ore and taconite pellets from the mines of Minnesota's

Iron Range come to Duluth to have their contents emptied into ships (commonly called lakers) which will haul their goods to the steel mills of Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania. There the ore will be used to make the structural steel for the buildings of the future, and the frames for the automobiles being designed for use in the coming century.

It is here that people from throughout Minnesota, Wisconsin, and all of the Midwest come to shop, eat, relax and be entertained by the endless variety of things to see and do in and around the Twin Ports. Goods are for sale in every variety, from tiny galleries where local artisans display seagull figurines carved from the driftwood found along the shore of Lake Superior, to sleek modern shopping malls filled with the latest designer fashions.

Diners choose from options like grabbing a quick burger and a soda on their way to the game, or sitting down to hot coffee, warm apple pie and a bowl of steaming chowder made from fish that just hours ago was swimming in the cold waters of Lake Superior, or savoring prime rib and a fine wine at a linen covered table in a four-star restaurant that revolves while they dine to provide a panoramic view of the lake, the beach and the activity of Duluth-Superior's harbor.

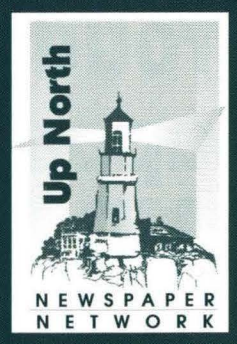

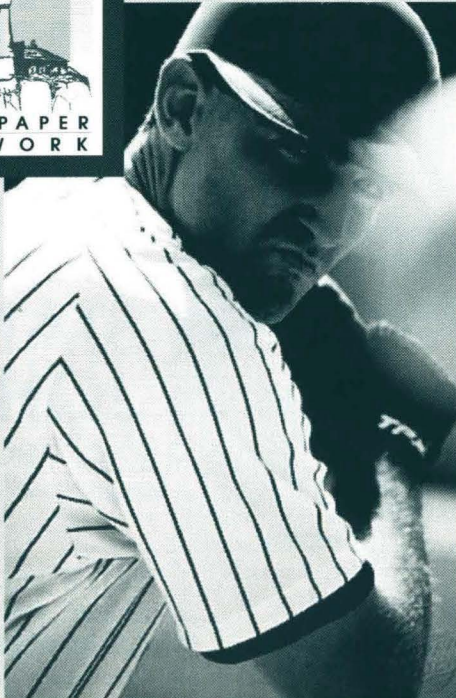

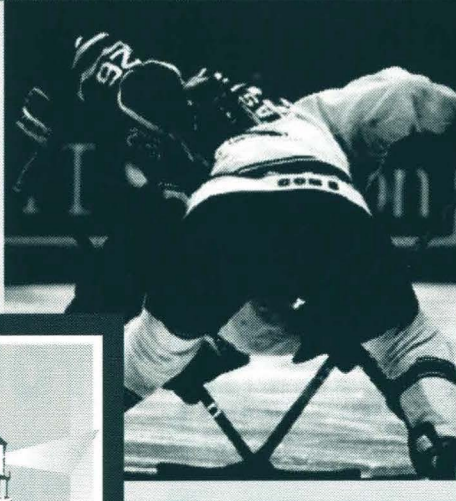

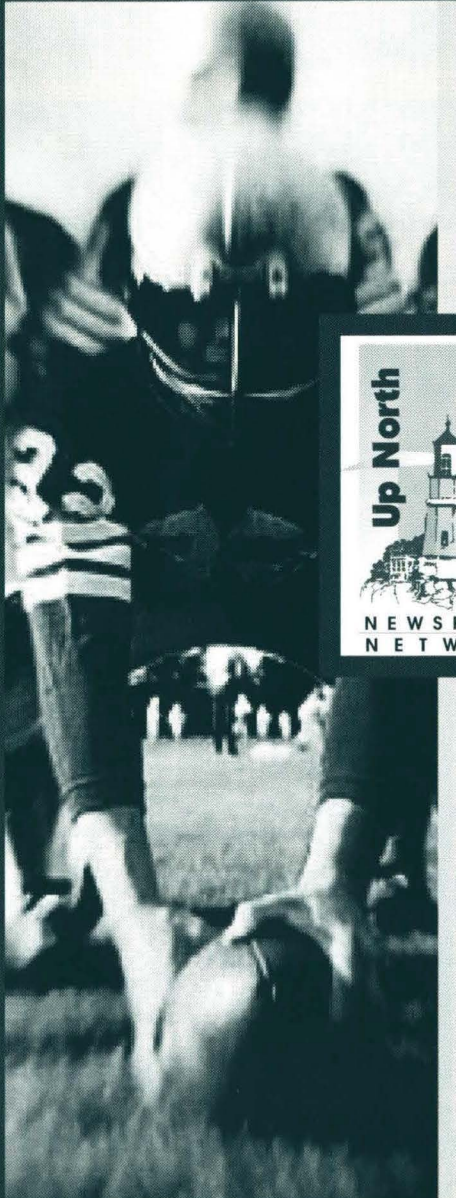

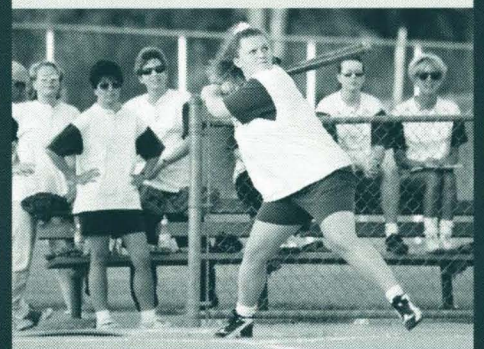

For active visitors, Duluth and the surrounding area offers every kind of outdoor recreation imaginable, from hiking, kayaking, sailing and biking along the rugged shore of the lake, to first-class downhill and cross-country skiing, snowmobiling and dog-sledding that takes advantage of the area's common lake-effect snows to provide the finest winter recreation conditions between the Adirondacks and the Rockies.

Dozens of parks and open spaces in and around the city are complimented by a lakewalk which stretches for miles from Canal Park up the North Shore, passing countless parks, monuments and places to sit and ponder the inland ocean, and providing ample opportunities for walkers, bikers, skaters or those who favor a horse-drawn carriage ride.

When it comes to staying up to date on what's happening around town, around the region and around the globe, Duluthians are blessed with four local television stations, several print media options and more radio stations per capita (in every available format) than nearly any community in the nation. One of the largest media markets in the Midwest, Duluth television and radio stations attract some of the nation's top up-and-coming on-air talent to cover news, sports and weather in the Twin Ports, Northern Minnesota and Northwestern Wisconsin.

And for those who like to take their entertainment sitting down, Duluth, quite literally, offers something for all interests. Broadway entertainment and dozens of movie screens bring the stars of the East and West Coasts to the Twin Ports. National recording artists perform by the shore of the lake during concerts, including the region's annual blues festival. For the sports fan, Duluth is home to minor league baseball, one of the nation's largest marathons each summer, a major dog sled race each winter, and top-level intercollegiate athletic competition in the form of the teams who wear the maroon and gold of the University of Minnesota-Duluth Bulldogs.

A Great University on a Great Lake

For more than 100 years, the modest teachers college that has grown and evolved into the University of Minnesota-Duluth has been offering students of all ages, and all interests, a window into the opportunities that come with knowledge.

The University of Minnesota system (which today has campuses in Minneapolis, St. Paul, Morris and Crookston, as well as Duluth) was started by an act of the Territorial Legislature in 1851, seven years before Minnesota achieved statehood. It took another 44 years before public higher education came to the north woods with the opening of the Duluth Normal School in 1895. Renamed Duluth State Teacher's College in 1921, the school became a coordinate campus of the University of Minnesota in 1947.

The modern-day UMD has a campus community of nearly 7,800 undergraduate and graduate students pursuing bachelors, masters and doctorate degrees in more than 80 majors and close to 20 graduate programs. A unique combination of quality and value, UMD was recently ranked among the best 15 regional universities by U.S. News & World Report, and was also the recipient of a "best education buy" rating from Money magazine.

Complemented by a full-time faculty of 500, UMD's students come to Duluth and call it their home during their college careers and beyond. Unlike the sprawling commuter schools of the Midwest's metropolitan area's, where parking spaces out-number library periodicals, UMD is a community where close to half of the undergraduate population resides in the many on-campus housing options available, or in the historic neighborhoods surrounding the campus.

Comprised of more than 50 buildings and set on 250 acres of residential land with views of Lake Superior, the UMD campus is a city unto itself, with housing, dining facilities, a theater, a planetarium, research laboratories, athletic facilities, parks, wilderness areas, radio and television studios, a newspaper, the latest computer technology, medical facilities, shopping, entertainment, and a new library in the works which will merge the print and digital worlds to provide students with the region's most advanced gateway to information, scheduled to be completed in the fall of 2000, the new UMD library is a $25 million project which will provide the campus with nearly 168,000 square feet of new space and room for more than 200 laptop and desktop computers.

In a community like Duluth-Superior, with its metro population of close to 200,000 and its amazingly diverse economy, opportunities for internships, employment and on-the-job education abound, giving countless UMD graduates a much-desired chance to make their permanent home and start their careers in the area.

Here, where the ability to transport goods over water created an economy and several communities, transportation is in abundant supply. A major highway hub for the region, the Twin Ports is connected by numerous four-lane freeways. Minneapolis-St. Paul is less than a three-hour drive away, and places like Madison, Milwaukee and Chicago can be reached by car in less than half a day. And the Duluth International Airport is served by several regional and national airlines with daily non-stop flights to Minneapolis-St. Paul, Detroit and Chicago, and connections to every major airport in the world.

Meet the Future

Centuries have passed since the first Native peoples made their primitive homes near that place where the river meets the lake, and it's been generations since the first foreign sea captain sailed his ship as far inland as it will go, but modern-day Duluth is still a buzzing meeting place.

More than ever, young families are finding good jobs, safe streets and a great place to raise children. And each year, thousands of students come to Duluth to earn the skills to compete in a global marketplace, learning the latest in technology and life skills at the world class university on the top of the hill.

Duluth has changed dramatically over the past 100 years or so, from a small town in the woods, to an industrial shipping hub, to a crossroads of commerce, information and education. But one overwhelming and constant trend remains -- meeting.

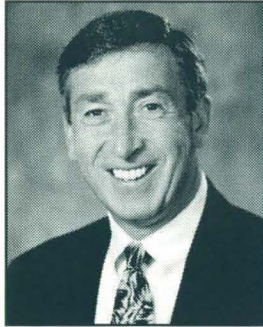

Just as ships meet their cargo and big city opportunity meets small town charm, young adults by the thousands come to study and meet their future where the woods meet the water.

University of Minnesota-Duluth Athletics

Now in its 69th year of existence, University of Minnesota-Duluth athletics continues to reign as one of the most well-balanced and competitive programs in the Upper Midwest. UMD is a member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) and belongs to the 10-school Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference in all sports (NCAA Division II), except for men's and women's ice hockey, which is aligned with the prestigious Western Collegiate Hockey Association, a NCAA Division I circuit.

During the course of the 1998-99 athletic season, Bulldog teams captured NSIC championships in baseball, women's basketball, men's and women's cross country, men's and women's indoor and outdoor track, soccer, men's tennis and volleyball. The Bulldog women's basketball, women's cross country, men's and women's indoor and outdoor track teams and volleyball all sent representatives to NCAA national and/or regional events. In addition, UMD laid claim to its seventh NSIC women's all-sports title in as many years and did likewise in that same competition for men (for the sixth consecutive year and 14th time in the past 16 seasons).

Overseeing the Bulldogs' 15-varsity sport program (seven men and eight women) is Bob Corran, who enters his third season as UMD's director of intercollegiate athletics in 1999-2000. Corran, 50, joined the Bulldog family after serving a 12-year stint as athletic director at the University of Calgary. Born in Northern Ireland and raised in Hamilton, ONT, Corran lettered in hockey, football, and lacrosse while attending Ithaca College (NY) where he earned a B.S. degree in physical education. After attaining a Master's degree in athletic administration from Springfield College (MA), Corran went on to receive his Ph.D. from the Ohio State University and was a Buckeye assistant hockey coach during that time (1977-79). In 1980, he began a five-year tour of duty as the head hockey coach (and assistant football coach) at the University of Windsor and, in his final season with the Lancers, was selected the Ontario Universities Athletic Association Coach of the Year. During his dozen years of directing the 19-sport Calgary athletic program, the Dinosaurs captured 21 na-

Senior outfielder Matt Joesting, the 1999 NSIC Player of the Year, was one of 73 UMD athletes to attain all-conference honors during the 1998-99 season

The cornerstone of any successful intercollegiate athletic program is strong leadership. The University of Minnesota-Duluth is certainly a case in point.

Collectively, the Bulldog coaching staff has few rivals in terms of experience, talent, and national prominence.

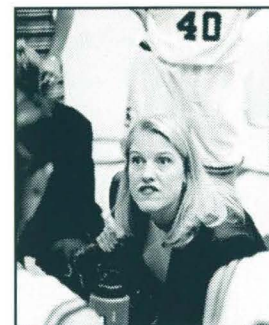

And talk about stability. Of a possible 14 head coaches, no less than seven have been members of the UMD coaching fraternity for a decade or more. Along those same lines, all but three Bulldog head coaches have been in the profession for at least a dozen years.

UMD Athletics will welcome two new additions in 1999-2000 -- Bob Nielson, the Football Gazette's NCAA Division III Football Coach of the Year in 1998 while at the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire following a storied 40-year career.

University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire and Shannon Miller, who will direct the Bulldog women's hockey program during its inaugural season of varsity competition. Nielson assumes the coaching reins from Jim Malosky, who resigned last

Bulldogs in the Community

Being a student-athlete at the University of Minnesota-Duluth means more than just academics and sports. It's about learning some of life's simple lessons, such as it is always better to give than to receive.

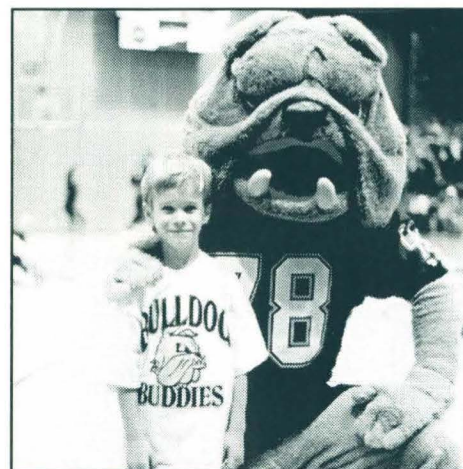

Community service work has been a focal point of Bulldog athletics almost since its inception. UMD student-athletes, as well as coaches and staff continuously seek opportunities to volunteer their time and reciprocate the support that Duluth and surrounding communities have generously given Bulldog athletics for the past seven decades.

In addition to participating in the successful Reading With Champions program in area elementary schools since 1996, the Bulldogs have been involved in numerous other charitable projects, including the Toys for Tots program, which provides gifts for thousands of local children every Christmas, Project Read, Jump for Heart, Adopt-A-Highway, Kid's Fest, Kid's Giving (at Thanksgiving -- the Duluth Foodshelf's largest annual fundraiser), Northland Festival of Peace, D.A.R.E, YMCA Kid's Day, and various elementary school/youth clinics, carnivals, parties, dinners and hospital visits.

The UMD athletic department is committed to providing the Duluth, Northeastern Minnesota and Northwestern Wisconsin community with the time, effort and enthusiasm of its nearly 400 student-athletes, coaches and staff. If the Bulldogs can help your organization in anyway, please contact UMD Youth and Community Programs Coordinator Don Collins at (218) 726-7952.

Why The Bulldog?

When the University of Minnesota-Duluth (which was then known as Duluth State Teacher's College) launched its intercollegiate athletic program back in September 1930, the institution's four sports teams (football, hockey, basketball and track and field) used the nickname "Peds", short for Pedagogues. Uniforms at the time were adorned in green and gold -- the original school colors. In the spring of 1933, the DSTC athletes voted on a new school mascot and chose the Bulldog. Official team colors were subsequently changed to the current maroon and gold. Legend has it that a member of the football team, a short and squat lineman by the name of Jack O'Hehir, was the inspiration behind the new mascot. O'Hehir supposedly not only looked like a bulldog, but talked and acted like one as well. In fact, the first drawings of the Bulldog logo are allegedly sketches of O'Hehir done by fellow DSTC football player Neil Scott.

Yeah, it's nice. But if you pump up the reds a little and pull back on the yellows, then you've got something!

The UMD Athletic Hall of Fame

The University of Minnesota-Duluth Athletic Hall of Fame was established in 1991 and enshrined its first induction class exactly 61 years to the day the first Bulldog athletic event took place (Sept. 20, 1930). It now consists of 47 distinguished members, including the lone inductee from the 1999 class, legendary football coach Jim Malosky.

These individuals, all of whom have played an integral part in the development and maintenance of the rich Bulldog athletic tradition, are honored with plaques in the UMD Sports and Health Center complex. The following is a complete listing of the UMD Athletic Hall of Fame inductees:

GENIUS AT WORK.

THE TRUCK is smart. Because Chevy Silverado knows that the best way to get the job done is to work smarter. Not harder. That's why The Truck was designed to give you the biggest extended cab of any half-ton pickup. And a more powerful V8 than any V8 in a 4x4 pickup from Ford F-150 or Dodge Ram.[†]

Once things get rolling, you'll be happy to know that The Truck is the only pickup that combines an industry-exclusive Tow/Haul mode with standard 4-wheel disc/antilock brakes with Dynamic Rear Proportioning (DRP). The Tow/Haul feature actually reprograms the automatic transmission schedule so that it shifts less and you hit the gas less. And DRP is smart enough to recognize rear-brake lockup and balance the pressure applied to the front and rear brakes. Making towing the heavy stuff easier on you and The Truck.

Just how smart is The Truck? See for yourself. The Driver Message Center helps keep you informed on up to 15 key truck functions. Smart design. Smart features. Smart truck. Proof positive that Silverado isn't just any truck. It's The Truck. From Chevy. The most dependable, longest-lasting trucks on the road.^{}

Bulldogs Claim Back-To-Back NSIC Titles

The University of Minnesota-Duluth ended the 1998 women's soccer season with its second-consecutive Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference championship. The Bulldogs closed the fifth year of the program's history with a record of 11-5. The Bulldogs finished with 10-plus wins for the fourth straight year. Minnesota-Duluth began the season with a 8-1 victory over the College of St. Scholastica. The Bulldogs dropped three of the next four including their only conference loss of the season (3-1 to Moorhead State University). After the loss to MSU, the Bulldogs regrouped and won their next nine in a row -- a new school record. UMD hosted the 1998 NSIC tournament defeating Minnesota-Morris (5-0), Moorhead State (2-0) and Winona State (2-1) on the way to the championship. A season ending trip to Missouri provided a true challenge to the Bulldogs as they dropped a 6-2 decision to nationally ranked Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville and a 2-0 loss to the University of Missouri-St. Louis. Ginger Jeffrey, Beth Byers and Jenny Warrick were all named first team All-NSIC.

Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference

Long recognized as one of the most distinguished athletic unions in the Upper Midwest, the Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference traces its colorful roots back to 1932. Over the course of six decades, the NSIC has undergone several transitions, but throughout numerous additions and departures, it has remained one of the strongest alliances in college division athletics.

One of two recent, significant changes to the NSIC came in 1992, when the all-men's Northern Intercollegiate Conference (NIC) and all-women's Northern Sun Conference (NSC) joined forces, forming the NSIC, which includes seven schools -- Bemidji State University, UMD, the University of Minnesota-Morris, Moorhead State University, Northern State University, Southwest State University, and Winona State University.

Another important change was implemented in 1995, when the NSIC became a solely NCAA Division II conference, after previously being affiliated with the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA).

Bemidji State, UMD, Moorhead State, and Winona State were charter members when six schools joined to form the original Northern Teachers College Conference in 1932. Mankato State University and St. Cloud State University were also initial members of the NTCC. UMD withdrew from the conference -- renamed the NIC -- in 1947, and became a member of the Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (MIAC). The NIC was restored to a six-team circuit in 1958, with the admission of Michigan Technological University. In 1969, Mankato relocated to the North Central Conference (NCC), but the NIC vacancy was filled the same year by Minnesota-Morris.

The 1970s and 1980 saw the

Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference

NIC take its current form, beginning in 1970 when Minnesota-Morris was added to the conference. UMD returned to the NIC in 1976, while Mankato State, after another brief stint (1978-1980) in the league, once again jumped to the NCC, as did St. Cloud State. Michigan Tech departed the NIC in 1980, opting for the more logical proximity of the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Conference. Also in 1980, Northern State, of Aberdeen, S.D., became a member of the NIC.

The NSC, with a more brief, yet no less illustrious, history than the NIC, was established in 1979, with an initial membership of eight teams. It was at seven teams in 1985, with the addition of Northern State. St. Cloud State and Mankato State had left the NSC, in order to become members of the NCC, in 1983. This fall will mark the first additions since 1985 as Concordia University of St. Paul, Minnesota-Crookston and Wayne State (NE) increase the league's membership to 10.

Last year marked the third season of official NSIC soccer competition. Moorhead State captured the conference's first soccer championship, in 1996, and Minnesota-Duluth has won the last two. This season, all 10 teams will field women's soccer.

Besides soccer, the NSIC holds championships for women in basketball, cross country, indoor and outdoor track and field, tennis, softball, and volleyball. Men's championships are held in baseball, basketball, cross country, football, indoor and outdoor track and field, tennis, and wrestling.

A number of NSIC teams and individuals have been national champions and tournament and participants, and a significant number have gone on to the ranks of professional athletics.

The Bulldog Club

A Word From the Chairman

David Zentner
Board of Trustees

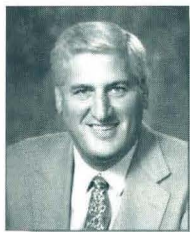

The Bulldog Club got off to a great start last year. In our first year of existence we enrolled over 800 members, more than a 300 member increase over the previous total for all the various individual booster groups. A lot of positive feedback has resulted from the effort to unify our support for our University under The Bulldog Club.

Another encouraging sign was the tremendous increase in fund raising; a record level. Now we are challenged to do even more. In 1999-2000 we'll focus on increasing our membership further, getting together socially with Club members at least twice during the year, continuing our noon luncheons, getting as many of our fans to travel to Bulldog road games as possible, and, of course, setting another record in fund raising for Bulldog athletics.

We are very proud of our athletic/academic traditions at UMD, and we are working extremely hard to give our coaches and athletes every chance to succeed. We want and need your help and support.

Dale Race
Coordinator,
Bulldog Club

What Is the Bulldog Club?

The Bulldog Club is an all-sport booster organization dedicated to providing advice, assistance, financial support, fan support, and community leadership to the UMD Intercollegiate Athletic Program.

Who manages the Bulldog Club? A board of trustees, composed of people who reflect the diverse nature of UMD athletics, heads the Bulldog Club. Membership is open to anyone interested in supporting and advancing UMD Athletics. Members undertake various activities and projects through subcommittees which report to the board.

Ways to contribute. Although monetary contributions are the most common method of supporting the Bulldog Club, other ways, including gifts-in-kind, deferred or planned gifts, gifts of insurance policies, stocks, or securities, and group gifts are welcomed. All monetary donations are deposited into and monitored as part of the Rasmussen Fund, which was established in 1962 to provide scholarships for UMD athletes who qualify on the basis of character, academic achievement, and athletic skill. Contributions to the Bulldog Club may also be made to an endowment fund, namely the James S. Malosky, Willard and Jeri Ogren, Linda Graham Powless, David and Joyce Goldberg, Ralph A. Romano, Blueline club of Duluth, Dale Race, Harvey Solon, or Theodore E. Maki Endowment Funds. Bulldog Club members who are under 30 may join the club and maintain membership at any level for half the normal cost.

Must I pay in full? No. You may pay in quarterly installments.

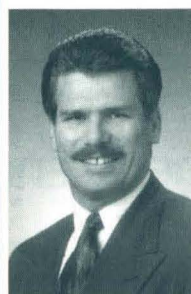

How does the membership year run? Contributors to the Bulldog Club are welcomed anytime. However, contributions should be paid during the fiscal year in which they are pledged. The UMD Department of Intercollegiate Athletics runs on a July 1 - June 30 fiscal year.

Can I specify who receives my contribution? You may designate your gift to be used for a certain sport, a specific purpose, scholarships, etc., or for unrestricted purposes.

Success

True success in a collegiate athletic program requires a balance between competitive victories and academic achievements. The consistent performances of Bulldog athletes in both arenas place the UMD athletic program among the nation's elite. Such balance and consistency are the result of superior coaching, a comprehensive athletic academic support system, and plain old hard work. But in order to develop successful Bulldog teams and student-athletes, UMD's coaches must recruit talented, intelligent, quality young women and men. The Bulldog Club, through your contribution, preserves UMD's athletic tradition by funding scholarships which are essential in attracting gifted student-athletes. Imagine the pride of knowing that your support plays a direct role in the Bulldogs' next WCHA or NSIC title, or that your contribution has helped a young man or woman earn a college degree. Bulldog victories, in the arena and in the classroom, begin with YOU.
