Chest Pain?

Don't ignore the warning signs; call 9-1-1!

Chest Pain and other possible warning signs of a heart attack need to be taken seriously. Heart muscle dies when you have a heart attack. Early recognition and prompt medical attention can mean the difference between life and death.

Studies show that people with chest pain who call 9-1-1 are more likely to receive the life-saving care they need more quickly than those who do not call 9-1-1. The same research demonstrates that calling 9-1-1 gets you to a hospital catheterization (cath) lab faster than driving yourself or getting a ride from a family member. This means by calling 9-1-1 you have a better chance to save irreplaceable heart muscle and to survive a heart attack.

Gold Cross Paramedics carry life-saving equipment, enabling them to assess types of heart attacks and get patients to the most appropriate care setting. Gold Cross paramedics can even confirm when a patient needs to go to a cath lab before arriving at the hospital—saving precious time and heart muscle.

Driving yourself or others to the hospital for treatment of chest pain has actually been shown to be the slowest option for getting the care you need and it can have harmful results.

Gold Cross Paramedics: the best care for every patient, every day.

$Hockey Day Minnesota

AMSOIL® ARENA

The University of Minnesota Duluth is fortunate to offer some of the top facilities in the Upper Midwest for use by its student-athletes. In operating gameday facilities on and off campus, UMD is committed to providing a top-rate experience for its student-athletes and the thousands of dedicated Bulldog supporters in the Twin Ports.

Nothing proves UMD's incredible commitment to winning at the highest level and offering the ultimate fan experience quite like the $80-million, 6,756-seat AMSOIL Arena, which the Bulldog men's and women's hockey teams christened in December of 2010. It's located on the St. Louis Bay waterfront (officially on Harbor Drive) near Duluth's famous Aerial Lift Bridge and Canal Park — a mere stone's throw from the previous home of Bulldog Hockey, the Duluth Entertainment and Convention Center (DECC).

At first glance, AMSOIL Arena brings to mind a striking contrast with other top-notch Western Collegiate Hockey Association rinks and some familiar similarities to the old DECC. Set foot inside some of the newer mega rinks around the hockey world, and the staggering vastness of the arena bowl can be overwhelming. By contrast, a step inside AMSOIL Arena is all it takes for many to notice that despite having more than 1,600 additional seats, it's as intimate as the "old" DECC, with the lower bowl of seats hugging the ice, while the upper level seems to almost hang out over the action for a stellar viewing angle. Tons of care went into producing this generation's home of Bulldog Hockey, but the developers stopped short of giving off the feel of a five-star hotel throughout the building. State-of-the-art in every way? Definitely. But you'll never lose sight of the fact that you're at a sporting event while enjoying a UMD game inside

AMSOIL Arena, and there honestly is no such thing as a bad seat in the house.

While the DECC was known as a great place to watch a game, the level of fan comfort has reached new heights inside AMSOIL Arena. For starters, top-notch building materials and a more modern architectural design give the facility an updated feel that can be felt within minutes of walking through the front gate. Bulldog fans from years past who recall the old concrete slabs of the DECC will be blown away by the dedication to the maroon and gold color scheme of the Bulldogs throughout Amsoil Arena. Concession stands line the walls surrounding the lower bowl and top-rate restroom facilities are available throughout the arena concourse, enabling spectators to make a pit stop or grab a favorite snack without the inconvenience of a

In addition, the Champions Lodge, located on the main level adjacent to the press box (which includes radio booths and filming rooms as well as the arena's audio and video production center) serves as a gathering space for UMD athletic donors, alumni and supporters. At the other end of the hallway sits the Hall of Fame Suite, which holds 36 people during games and contains plaques of the 30-plus Bulldog men and women hockey alums and coaches who are members of the UMD Athletic Hall of Fame.

On the lower level, out of sight for most visitors, but fully on display for current Bulldogs and any potential recruits, is where you'll find some of Amsoil's real "goodies". These include top-notch offices for both coaching staffs, a weight room and athletic training center, two large hydrotherapy pools (one of which contains a treadmill in its base) and player's lounges. While walking through the corridors on ice level, one can't help but to be consumed by the murals, photos and other artwork that fully saturate the building in Bulldog Hockey. The combination of premium amenities and aesthetics centered around celebrating the history of two storied programs rivals that of any other hockey facility in the nation.

Just in its third full year of operation, AMSOIL Arena has been a huge benefit to UMD and the Twin Ports. While 6,000-plus can pack the joint for a hockey game on any given Friday or Saturday, the facility has also helped draw some bigger names in the entertainment industry to the shores of Lake Superior. Allowing for seating of upwards of 9,000 when the ice is taken out, AMSOIL Arena continues to bring in musical acts that were previously uninterested in making tour stops in the Twin Ports. The facility's main function will always be to host Bulldog hockey games, but it has already been proven to have year-round utility for the community as a whole.

UMD's commitment to winning and enrolling the best possible student-athletes will always be on display in the Duluth area. And, without a doubt, AMSOIL Arena will sit at the forefront of that display for decades to come.

lengthy wait. From all angles, fan comfort and convenience are the hallmarks of the Bulldogs' new digs.

Designers took cues from other successful and popular sports facilities to incorporate fan-friendly touches, including an open concourse around much of the lower seating bowl -- which allows fans continue watching the action even if they must leave their seat. In the event one's view of the ice does become restricted, a $1 million, 8' x 14' matrix scoreboard dangles over center ice and provides live video during the game, as well as replays and promotional clips and graphics, all through a stunning 10-millimeter, LED display. High definition televisions are installed sporadically around the concourse to guarantee that no fan is ever more than a few feet away from what is going on between the whistles.

AMSOIL Arena is also equipped with a luxury that had never previously been afforded to UMD Hockey -- private suites, some 15 in all. These spacious viewing areas are located along the north side of the building (on the penalty box side of the arena) and can accommodate groups of up to 16. Viewing parties in private luxury boxes are catered and offer an excellent view of the rink in addition to comfortable, spacious seating.

MAURA CROWELL

Head Coach

2017 USCHO.com Coach of the Year

2017 CCM/AHCA Coach of the Year

2016-17 WCHA Coach of the Year

After leading the Bulldogs back into the NCAA tournament last March, head coach Maura Crowell will return to the UMD bench for a third season in 2017-18.

In two seasons at UMD, Crowell has an overall record of 40-28-6, including a WCHA postseason record of 5-2. Crowell has overseen a Patty Kazmaier Top-3 Finalist (Lara Stalder), as well as 15 WCHA Scholar Athletes and a total of 28 WCHA All-Academic Team members.

For her efforts during the 2016-17 season, Crowell was named the USCHO Division I Women's Coach of the Year, as well as the CCM/AHCA Division I Women's Ice Hockey Coach of the Year Award for 2017. Crowell was also crowned the 2016-17 WCHA Coach of the Year after she guided UMD to its biggest turnaround in program history with 25-7-5 overall record and the Bulldogs first NCAA Quarterfinal game at home since 2010.

The Bulldogs earned 19 WCHA wins in 2016-17, the program's highest since the 2010-11 season, and finished third in the ultra-competitive WCHA (and just three points out of second place). Crowell also helped UMD back into the national rankings, and the Bulldogs reached as high as second in both the USCHO.com and USA TODAY/ USA Hockey Magazine national polls for six weeks before resting in fifth in both final season polls. The Bulldogs were also runners-up in the 2017 WCHA Final Face-Off tournament to the University of Wisconsin, UMD's first trip back to the tournament's final game since the 2012 season.22917

On Crowell's watch, UMD had two All-Americans in the 2016-17 season (Stalder and Sidney Morin), as well as run on league awards, including 2016-17 WCHA Player of the Year (Stalder), Defensive Player of the Year (Morin) and WCHA Student Athlete of the Year. UMD also had five players placed on All-WCHA Teams, and tacked on a program-record 10 WCHA Scholar Athletes in 2016-17, as well as a program-high 16 WCHA All-Academic Team members.

After taking over as UMD's bench boss on May 1, 2015, Crowell guided UMD back to the WCHA Final Face-Off semifinals after the Bulldogs stunned then No. 7 Bemidji State on the road with a sweep in the opening round of the league playoffs.

Prior to her arrival in Duluth, Crowell spent five seasons at Harvard, including as Harvard's associate head coach in 2014-15 after filling an interim head coaching role in 2013-14. She was a Crimson assistant coach from 2010-13.

In Crowell's final season at Harvard, the Crimson went 27-6-3 overall, captured the ECAC and Ivy League regular season championship and the ECAC playoff crown, and advanced all the way to the NCAA Frozen Four title game. Crowell was an instrumental component of a Harvard program that had qualified for the NCAA Tournament three consecutive winters.

One year earlier, Crowell stepped in for head coach Katey Stone (who spent the 2013-14 season with the USA Women's Olympic Team) and was named a finalist for the 2014 ECAC Coach of the Year award after guiding Harvard to a 23-7-4 record, an Ivy League regular season title, a berth in the ECAC semifinals and the NCAA quarterfinals and a No. 7 ranking in both the USCHO.com and USA Hockey/USA Today polls.

Prior to signing on with the Crimson, Crowell built an impressive resume over five years (2005-10) at the University of Massachusetts-Boston helm. During her time behind the Beacon bench, she rolled up an overall record of 73-53-4 -- making her UMass-Boston's all-time winningest coach -- and helped produce 11 All-Conference selections. In 2009-10, Crowell was chosen the ECAC's Coach of the Year after the Beacons went 17-9-0 in all games and 13-6-0 against ECAC competition.

Crowell's collegiate coaching resume also includes a two-season stint (2003-05) as an assistant coach at Connecticut College, where she helped the Camels to their first first-ever playoff appearance. Crowell came to Connecticut College from St. Mark's School in Southborough, Mass., where she doubled as an assistant women's hockey coach and junior varsity lacrosse coach.

Crowell was an assistant coach for the 2016 United States Women's National Under-18 World Championship gold medal winning squad that earned gold in St. Catherines, Ontario. In addition to serving as an assistant at the 2010 Women's National Festival in Lake Placid, N.Y., since 2007, Crowell has served as a coach at U-14, U-16 and U-17 USA Hockey National Development Camps in Rochester, N.Y. and St. Cloud, Minn. Crowell has participated in USA Hockey development events, including serving as an evaluator for Massachusetts Hockey and the Texas Amateur Hockey Association. Crowell holds a USA Hockey Level Four coaching certification.

A Mansfield, Mass. native, Crowell enjoyed a rewarding four-year playing career at Colgate University and helped the Raiders to three straight ECAC playoff appearances and a spot in the 2000 ECAC championship game. Crowell — who was part of Colgate's transition from Division III to Division I — earned ECAC All-Academic accolades as a senior assistant team captain in 2001-02, and was awarded an academic prize for excellence in German. She graduated from Colgate in 2002 with a bachelor's degree in German and earned her Master's of the Art of Teaching from Connecticut degree in German and earned her Master's of the Art of Teaching from Connecticut College in 2005.

Laura Bellamy

Assistant Coach

Native Duluthian Laura Bellamy will begin her third season as an assistant coach to UMD bench boss Maura Crowell in 2017-2018.

Bellamy played a crucial role in helping UMD to its biggest turnaround in program history in 2016-17, a 25-7-5 overall record and the Bulldogs first NCAA Quarterfinal game at home since 2010.

The Bulldogs earned 19 WCHA wins in 2016-17, the program's highest since the 2010-11 season, and finished third in the ultra-competitive WCHA (and just three points out of second place). Bellamy also helped UMD back into the national rankings, and the Bulldogs reached as high as second in both the USCHO.com and USA TODAY/ USA Hockey Magazine national polls for six weeks before resting in fifth in both final season polls. The Bulldogs were also runners-up in the 2017 WCHA Final Face-Off tournament to the University of Wisconsin, UMD's first trip back to the tournament's final game since the 2012 season.

In her first season as Bulldog assistant coach, Bellamy was pivotal in helping UMD back to the WCHA Final Face-Off semifinals after the Bulldogs stunned then No. 7 Bemidji State on the road with a sweep in the opening round of the league playoffs. Overall, UMD went 15-21-1 in 2015-16, and owned the nation's fourth strongest strength of schedule.

Under Bellamy's eye, UMD has posted an overall record of 40-28-6, including a WCHA postseason record of 5-2, overseen a Patty Kazmaier Top-3 Finalist (Lara Stalder), as well as 15

A 2009 graduate of Duluth Denfeld High School and two-sport star with the Hunters, Bellamy spent two seasons working in that same capacity at her alma mater, Harvard University. In 2014-15, Bellamy was an assistant for a Harvard club that reached the NCAA national title game and finished 27-6-3 overall after going 23-7-4 and securing an NCAA playoff berth the previous winter while Crowell was Harvard's interim head coach. Bellamy enjoyed a rewarding four-year goaltending career (2009-13) with the Crimson, posting a 60-25-7 record, a 1.82 goals against average, a .915 saves percentage and 19 shutouts (the second most in program history) in 95 lifetime appearances. As a senior, she paced the nation in goals against with an average (0.92) and ranked second in saves percentage (.949) en route to landing All-Ivy League first team accolades.

Bellamy, who earned a History and Science degree from Harvard in 2013, started between the pipes for six years while a prep for the Duluth Northern Stars and in 2008-09 was chosen the Let's Play Hockey Senior Goalie of the Year. She also was a five-year starter and ace of the Hunter softball pitching staff.

A WELCOME FROM THE CHANCELLOR

Dear Friends,

Thank you for supporting UMD Athletics.

Each year, our student-athletes excel in the three C's: Classroom, Competition, Community. In 2016-17, UMD produced 16 All-Americans. Our 402 student-athletes posted an average GPA of 3.21 -- an all-time high. A record 123 individuals achieved GPAs of 3.50 or above and 12 turned in perfect 4.00 marks. In addition to studying and competing last year, UMD student-athletes and staff logged a record setting 3,050 volunteer hours.

Last season, UMD athletic ticket revenue and sponsorship topped the $3 million mark for a second year in a row. You helped to make that possible by giving generously and by attending UMD athletic events.

Like you, I love cheering on our student-athletes. I look forward to seeing you throughout the 2017-18 athletic season.

Go Bulldogs!

LIKE NOWHERE ELSE

Hiking amid the dense white pines that grow down to the rocky coast, one can hear the cry of seagulls and the distant wail of a foghorn as the mighty waves crash against the shore, covering the lush green vegetation with a fine mist. A scene out of a remote spot in the Pacific Northwest, right? No, it's Duluth.

Straining against the incessant tug of gravity, you make your way up the steep cobblestone sidewalks of the bustling downtown. The air is filled with the honking horns of cars, cabs and buses. Mingling with the sea air is the wafting scent of freshly baked bread coming from one of the ethnic grocery stores, restaurants, and bakeries in the tightly packed neighborhood. You're walking the streets of San Francisco, right? No, it's Duluth.

The boardwalk is simply alive today. Down the street from a casino, and in front of hundreds of waterfront hotel rooms, there is every mixture of people enjoying the gentle breeze off the water. Tourists mingle with businessmen on their lunch break, and in-line skaters zoom past a mime entertaining the kids as couples check out the galleries and coffeehouses that line the sun-splashed strip. Is it Atlantic City, Miami Beach, or Santa Monica? No, it's Duluth.

A MEETING PLACE

Centuries before the Ojibwe established their homes near the massive lake they called gitchi-gami, there were countless meetings in the place that would come to be known as Duluth.

The crashing waves of Lake Superior met and mingled with the churning waters of the St. Louis River. Those meetings of natural forces formed a 10-mile long strand of sand where, on warm summer days, you will find thousands of visitors enjoying the sun and the water. That stretch of beach, now known as Park Point, provided a large natural harbor where everything from little kayaks to immense ocean-going ships find shelter from the wind and waves of the great lake. It's around this harbor that cities grew.

Today, Duluth and its Twin Ports partner, Superior, Wisconsin, are still meeting places. Here truckers deliver loads of grain to giant elevators next to the docks. More than 1,000 miles from the salt water of the nearest ocean, ships from around the world haul that grain, as well as corn, and barley east through the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence Seaway, then across the Atlantic Ocean to foreign ports.

Mile-long trains loaded with ore and taconite pellets from the Minnesota's Iron Range come to Duluth to fill ships (commonly called lakers) that transport these goods to the steel mills of Indiana, Ohio, and Pennsylvania.

Visitors come from around the country and the world to discover the endless variety of things to see and do. Works by local artists are for sale in numerous galleries around the Twin Ports. Diners enjoy a wide variety of options, and Duluth's brew pubs and breweries are famous for wonderful hand-crafted selections.

For active visitors, Duluth and the surrounding area offer every outdoor recreation imaginable, from hiking, kayaking, sailing, and biking along the rugged shore of the lake. In the winter, first-class downhill and cross-country skiing, snowmobiling, fat tire biking, and dog-sledding take advantage of the area's common lake-effect snows to provide the finest winter recreation conditions between the Adirondacks and the Rockies.

Dozens of open spaces in and around the city are complemented by Duluth's Lakewalk that stretches for miles from Canal Park, passing parks, monuments, and places to sit and ponder the inland ocean, and provide ample outdoor opportunities for walkers, bikers, and rollerbladers. No wonder Outdoor Magazine listed Duluth as the Best Town in America in 2014.

And, for those who like to take their entertainment sitting down, Duluth offers theatre and musical events. National recording artists perform concerts by the lake, including the region's annual Bayfront Blues Festival, Bayfront Reggae and World Music Festival, Glensheen's Concerts on the Pier, and City on the Hill Music Festival.

For sports fan, Duluth is home to the Northwoods League's Huskies baseball team, world famous Grandma's Marathon each summer, the John Beargrease Sled Dog Marathon each winter, and top-level inter-collegiate athletic competition in the form of the 16 teams who wear the maroon and gold of the University of Minnesota Duluth Bulldogs.

When it comes to staying up to date on what's happening around town, around the region, and around the globe, Duluthians enjoy four local television stations, several print media outlets and more radio stations per capita (in every available format) than nearly any community

Because sometimes, it's about conserving energy.

We know UMD athletes use a lot of energy—whether it's competing on the field or pulling an all-nighter to study for finals. At Minnesota Power, we understand how energy is used and how people can use it more efficiently.

We've helped UMD implement dozens of energy-conservation measures across campus, including at Ianni Hall and the Swenson Science Building, and provided access to energy-efficient lighting through Brighter UMD programs. Efforts like these are part of Minnesota Power's EnergyForward plan to build a cleaner, more balanced energy future while keeping electricity reliable and affordable.

in the nation. Duluth's television and radio stations—which, in terms of geographic reach, are located in one of the country's largest markets—cover news, sports, and weather in the Twin Ports, northern Minnesota and northwestern Wisconsin.

SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE

For more than 100 years, what began as a modest teacher's college has grown and evolved into the University of Minnesota Duluth (UMD), offering a wide range of students opportunities to learn and launch careers.

The University of Minnesota system (with campuses in Minneapolis, St. Paul, Crookston, Morris, and Rochester, as well as Duluth) was started by an act of the Territorial Legislature in 1851, seven years before Minnesota achieved statehood. It took another 44 years before public higher education came north with the opening of the Duluth Normal School in 1895. Renamed Duluth State Teacher's College in 1921, the school became a coordinate campus of the University of Minnesota in 1947. Today, UMD has a campus community of over 11,000 students pursuing 14 bachelor's degrees in 84 majors and 72 minors, graduate programs in 25 different fields, and two Ph.D. programs. In addition, UMD offers a College of Pharmacy program and a two-year program at the Medicine School Duluth through the Minnesota-Twin Cities campus. A university with a unique combination of quality and value, UMD consistently ranks among the top Midwestern, regional universities in U.S. News & World Report's "America's Best Colleges" issue.

Complemented by a staff of just under 2,000 employees, including 526 full-time and another 95 part-time faculty, UMD draws students who come to Duluth and call it their home during their college years and beyond. Unlike the sprawling commuter schools of the Midwest's metropolitan areas, where parking spaces outnumber library periodicals, UMD is a community where close to a third of undergraduates reside in the many on-campus housing options or in the historic neighborhoods surrounding the campus.

UMD is comprised of some 50 buildings (all constructed since 1948) and set on 244 acres of residential land with scenic views of Lake Superior. The UMD campus is a city unto itself, with housing, dining facilities, a theater, a planetarium, research laboratories, athletic venues, parks, wilderness areas, radio and television studios, a newspaper, the latest computer technology, medical facilities, shopping, entertainment, and a state-of-the-art library which merges the print and digital worlds, providing students with the region's most advanced gateway to information.

Dedicated in August 2000, the UMD Kathryn A. Martin Library was a $26-million project that provides the campus with nearly 168,000 square feet of new space and room for more than 200 laptop and desktop computers. Since the turn of the 21st century, UMD has completed well over $300 million worth of new projects (including the Library), some of the latest being the Chemistry and Advanced Materials Science Building ($42 million, completion date set for 2019), Sports and Health Center Addition ($13 million, opened 2006), the Life Science Renovation ($15 million, opened 2006), the Labovitz School of Business and Economics ($23 million, opened 2008), the Bagley Environmental Classroom ($1 million, opened 2009), the Swenson Civil Engineering Building ($15 million, opened 2010) and Lawrence A. Ianni Hall ($14 million, opened 2011.). In addition, major renovations have taken place at Cina Hall, the Residence Dining Center, Kirby Student Center, the Marshall Performing Arts Center, and Tweed Museum of Art.

In communities like Duluth and Superior, with a combined metro population of over 125,000 and amazingly diverse economies, opportunities for internships abound for UMD students. Increasingly UMD graduates stay in the area, establishing careers and lives in one of the most beautiful parts of the country.

Here, where the ability to transport goods over water created an economy and several communities, transportation is in abundant supply.

A major hub for the region, the Twin Ports is connected by numerous four-lane interstate freeways and major U.S. highways. Minneapolis-St. Paul is less than a three-hour drive away, and destinations like Madison, Milwaukee, and Chicago can be reached by car in less than half a day. And, the Duluth International Airport is served by several national/regional airlines, with daily nonstop flights to Minneapolis-St. Paul and Chicago.

MEET THE FUTURE

Centuries have passed since that place where the river meets the lake was first settled, and it's been generations since the first foreign sea captain sailed his ship as far inland as it would go, but modern-day Duluth is still a buzzing meeting place.

More than ever, young families are finding good jobs, safe streets, and a great place to raise children. Each year, thousands of students come to UMD to gain the skills they need to compete in a global marketplace, learning the latest in technology and life skills at the world-class university on top of the hill.

Duluth has changed dramatically over the past 150-plus years, growing from a small town, to an industrial shipping hub, to a crossroads of commerce, information, and education. But one constant theme remains — meeting. Just as ships meet their cargo and big city opportunity meets small town charm, young adults by the thousands come to study and meet their future where the woods meet the water.

LIKE A CHAMP

Hard work, dedication, and the love of the game. It's teams like the Bulldogs that show us what it means to be a champ. At the games, in our work, we're proud to be on your team.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR JOSH BERLO

The 2017-18 season marks Josh Berlo's fifth as the University of Minnesota Duluth's athletic director, after beginning his tenure in the position on April 3, 2013. He joined the Bulldog staff after spending the previous 13 years at the University of Notre Dame. In addition to overseeing all UMD head coaches, staff and administrative personnel, Berlo is responsible for the student-athlete experience, developing and implementing a strategic plan, managing the departmental budget, directing the use of the University's athletic facilities, and leading fundraising and marketing efforts for the 16-sport program. These objectives are all geared to the Bulldog mission of excellence in the classroom, in competition and in the community while supporting UMD's overall strategic plan.

"UMD is a special place with an impressive tradition of multi-disciplinary excellence," says Berlo. "I am honored to lead Bulldog Athletics in support of our student-athletes, staff and coaches as they chase championships, excel academically and actively engage in the community."

Since his arrival at UMD, Berlo also has made fan experience and engagement a top priority while helping expand the national profile of Bulldog athletics.

"Our athletic programs enjoy a tremendous level of support in Minnesota and beyond," he adds. "As such, it is our duty to provide the ultimate fan experience, serve as role models and help instill a source of community pride."

Berlo's tenure has seen sustained and elevated levels of success in the classroom, on the field and in the community.

Among the litany of projects and achievements Berlo helped spearhead with his talented staff and coaches during his time at UMD include: setting the all-time attendance record for men's hockey (7,569 on Oct. 17, 2015 vs. Minnesota) and football (6,357 on Sept. 10, 2016 vs. Winona State), expanding television coverage and enhanced broadcast quality locally with My9 Sports Network, digitally through the start of Bulldog Productions and regionally on Fox Sports North; signing Under Armour as the official apparel and uniform partner of the Bulldogs more than doubling the value provided to UMD athletics annually; launching the department's redesigned web site (umdbulldogs.com); enhancing marketing and social media presence highlighted by the receipt of a 15 National Association of Collegiate Marketing (NACMA) gold, silver and bronze awards over the past four years; undergoing a complete Intercollegiate Athletics Departmental Reorganization resulting in a more efficient, effective and fiscally-responsible effort; and the addition of $700,000 in LED video and score boards at James S. Malosky Stadium (football and soccer), Junction Avenue Field (softball), Bulldog Park (baseball) and Romano Gymnasium (men's and women's basketball and volleyball). In addition, Berlo and UMD Athletic Development Director Gary Holquist, have partnered for record fundraising growth, cracking the $1 million mark in annual gifts, endowment contributions, estate planning and capital project donations for four consecutive years. Academically, UMD athletics reached unprecedented heights in 2016-17 when 402 student-athletes collectively achieved an average GPA of 3.21 (which topped the school record set one year earlier). Over the past four years, UMD has produced 17 NSIC Myles Brand All-Academic Award recipients (with GPAs over 3.75), 369 All-Academic Team citations in the NSIC, NCHC and WCHA and four different CoSIDA Academic All-Americans.

In competition, one dozen programs -- baseball, football, women's cross country, men's hockey, women's hockey, soccer, softball, men's indoor track, men's outdoor track, women's indoor track, women's outdoor track and volleyball -- have all qualified for NCAA regional or national tournament play since the 2013-14 season. Over that same span, 59 Bulldogs attained

All-American status and two coaches (hockey's Maura Crowell and football's Curt Wiese) have been recipients of a national Coach of the Year honor.

Under Berlo's watch -- and with his encouragement -- Bulldog student-athletes and staff have annually provided the Twin Ports area with 2,500 to 3,000-plus hours of community service to scores of organizations. Those include the Boys and Girls Club, Churches United in Ministry (CHUM), Damiano Center Kid's Cafe, Arrowhead Juvenile Center, Second Harvest Food Bank, the Salvation Army Basketball League, the ALS Association, Laura MacArthur Elementary School's Keyzone program and Mentor Duluth. Berlo has walked the walk himself, staying highly-engaged in the community through volunteerism with the American Cancer Society (through its Real Men Wear Pink campaign and personally raising more than $12,000 in the 2016 effort), the North Country Trail Association and the Superior Hiking Trail Association. In 2015, he was recognized by the National Park Service for reaching the 100-hour mark through their "Volunteers In Parks" program. Berlo served a three-year term on the Duluth Chamber of Commerce Board, is a member of the American Cancer Society Leadership Board of Minnesota and is a board member of the North Country Trail Association. Berlo was also selected as one of the 2014 Duluth News Tribune's "20 under 40".

Prior to joining the Bulldog staff, Berlo was employed as Notre Dame's senior assistant athletics director for guest relations and event marketing. In this role, he oversaw all aspects of athletic ticketing, event marketing and promotional efforts, football game-day parking operations and revenue generation, the Drive with the Irish sponsorship program, was the sport administrator for Notre Dame baseball and he represented Notre Dame on the Executive Committee of the Sports Management Institute (SMI), a program which he has been involved with since his undergraduate days and completed in 2008. Berlo currently is an athletic director representative on the SMI Executive Committee.

A native of Warren, R.I., Berlo earned his Bachelor's degree in sport management from the University of Massachusetts in 1999 and his MBA (with a concentration in finance and communication) from Notre Dame five years later. He and his wife, Meg, and their Alaskan Husky (and 2006 Iditarod finisher), Skip, reside in Duluth near the UMD campus.

GETTING IT DONE

Now in its 86th year of operation, the University of Minnesota Duluth Department of Intercollegiate Athletics continues to maintain one of the most competitive and well-balanced sports programs of its size in the country.

Fourteen of UMD's 16 teams—baseball, men's and women's basketball, men's and women's cross country, football, women's soccer, softball, women's tennis, men's and women's indoor and outdoor track and field, and volleyball—are members of the 16-member NCAA Division II Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference. The NCAA Division I men's and women's hockey programs, meanwhile, are aligned with the eight-team National Collegiate Hockey Conference and seven-school Western Collegiate Hockey Association, respectively.

UMD's 2016-17 athletic season wrapped up with Emi Trost's conquest of a national outdoor track title Memorial Day weekend and over the course of the previous nine months, the Bulldogs experienced a multitude of highlights -- including a few program firsts -- in each of the three C's (classroom, competition and community). Those notable achievements included:

- UMD produced 16 All-Americans, including Trost, a junior who became UMD's seventh individual champion in any sport (and the fourth in women's track) when she placed first in the 1,500-meter run at the NCAA Division II Outdoor Track and Field Championship. Voted the United States Track & Field and Cross Country Coaches Association Central Region Track Athlete of the Year for both the indoor and outdoor seasons, Trost accomplished the All-American trifecta -- cross country, indoor and outdoor track -- as did her senior teammate, senior Breanna Colbenson (for the second straight year).
- Seven of 16 Bulldog teams qualified for NCAA II Tournament/National Championship play including women's cross country, football, men's hockey, women's hockey, women's indoor track and field, women's outdoor track and field, and volleyball.
- After dropping its football season opener, UMD proceeded to reel off 10 straight wins en route to claiming its ninth consecutive NSIC North Division title and earn a NCAA II playoff berth for the eighth time in the last nine seasons. With record-breaking senior quarterback Drew Bauer at the controls, the high-octane UMD offensive averaged 45.1

points per game -- their second highest single-season output ever -- and rolled up more yards per game (536.7) than all but one club in the entire country. On the other side of the football, the Bulldogs sported the NSIC Defensive Player of the Year in senior Beau Bates, who had more quarterback sacks (14.0) than any NCAA II linebacker last fall. UMD occupied the No. 14 spot in the final American Football Coaches Association Poll.

• The volleyball Bulldogs raced out to their best start in program history, going 21-0 before suffering their first defeat nearly two months into the season. UMD, which was ranked first in the AVCA II poll for four straight weeks in 2016 (and held down the No. 7 spot in the last rankings of the season), also advanced to the NCAA II Tournament after a rare, one-year absence the previous fall. Six Bulldogs attained All-NSIC honors including senior Sydney Mauch, UMD's all-time blocks leader, and setter Emily Torve, who was voted the NSIC Freshman of the Year.

• Emi Trost and Breanna Colbenson each turned in All-American performances for the third time in as many years at the NCAA II Cross Country Championships. UMD, which was making its fourth straight NCAA II meet appearance, was the lone team to place two runners among the top seven finishers as Trost took fourth -- the best individual showing ever by a Bulldog -- while Colbenson came in seventh in her collegiate cross country farewell. The Bulldog wound up 10th in the team competition for their fourth consecutive Top 10 finish.

• Although they came up just short of capturing their second-ever NCAA men's hockey crown, the Bulldogs still enjoyed what is arguably one of the most productive winters in its 73-year history. For openers, UMD spent a school-record 11 weeks occupying the No. 1 slot in the uscho.com poll during the course of the year and skated off with three tournament titles -- the NCHC Frozen Faceoff (a program first), the North Star College Cup, and the NCAA West Regional. The Bulldogs went unbeaten in 19 of their final 21 games (with one of those losses coming in the NCAA Frozen Four championship -- a 3-2 setback to Denver) to finish with a 28-7-7 overall record. That .750 winning percentage was the second best mark ever posted by a UMD club. This year's NCAA Tournament berth was the 11th ever for the Bulldogs and marked the first time they made five national appearances in a seven-year stretch. Left winger Alex Iafallo, one of UMD's seven seniors, became the first Bulldog to reign as the NCHC scoring champion en route to landing All-American first team honors.

• Following a six-year absence, UMD returned to the NCAA Women's Hockey Tournament and also racked up their most Western Collegiate Hockey Association wins (they were 19-5-4) since 2010-11, moved on to the WCHA Final Faceoff title game for the first time in five seasons, and climbed as high as No. 2 in both the USCHO.com and USA TODAY/ USA Hockey Magazine national polls for six weeks before resting in fifth in each final poll. Lara Stalder put an exclamation point on a remarkable senior season by being chosen as a Top 3 finalist for the Patty Kazmaier Memorial Award (most outstanding player in women's college hockey). The Swiss Olympian's 2016-17 resume also included landing the WCHA Player of the Year award and being chosen a first team All-American.

- UMD advanced to the quarterfinals of the NSIC Women's Basketball Tournament -- something it hadn't done in seven years.
- Milestone career victories were registered by three UMD head coaches -- softball's Jen Walter (No. 500), volleyball's Jim Boos (400) and men's hockey's Scott Sandelin (300). Both Boos and Sandelin have spent their entire collegiate tenures at UMD while Walter joined the Bulldogs in 2015-16 from nearby St. Scholastica.

BULLDOG NOTES

LAST TIME OUT: Isanti County Arena in Cambridge, Minn. provided the perfect authentic hockey backdrop for the U.S Hockey Hall of Fame Game, where a capacity crowd watched the Bemidji State University sneak by the Bulldogs 3-2 in a non-conference game. Though the game didn't garner the Beavers any extra WCHA points, it was a big test for a UMD squad that hit the ice just 48 hours after completing a home series sweep of St. Cloud State University.

BSU struck first, but the Bulldogs equalized off a BSU turnover at the 17:17 mark of the first period, courtesy of Catherine Daoust.

After the Beavers took another lead in the second period, rookie forward Monique Aanenson's scored first career goal through traffic at 7:52. The Bulldogs outshot the Beavers 11-8 in the stanza, but BSU doused UMD's second period spark when the Beavers scored at 17:57.

BSU outshot UMD 34-25 in the game and remains the only team that has outshot the Bulldogs this season. The Beavers have now outshot the Bulldogs in their three showdowns this season — by contrast, the Bulldogs have outsho their other opponents in all 10 of their games. UMD's Jessica Convery had 31 saves for the Bulldogs, who are now 1-2 against the Beavers so far this season.

THE SERIES: The Bulldogs are 62-7-4 against Minnesota State, and went 3-1 against the Mavericks last season.

Then No. 5 UMD spilt with Minnesota State back on Dec. 9-10, 2016 in Mankato, beating the Mavericks 3-0 on Dec. 9, before suffering a 2-1 upset on Dec. 10.

UMD scored two second period goals in the 3-0 win, and then added an insurance goal in the third to pick up its fourth shutout of the season. Ashleigh Brykaliuk, Sidney Morin and Brooklynn Schugel all netted tallies for the Bulldogs. UMD didn't surrender a single penalty in the win.

The following day (Dec. 10), Lara Stalder scored the game's first goal with 1:22 remaining in the opening period. But despite outshooting MSU 24-8 in the first 40 minutes, the Bulldogs surrendered two power play goals in the third period. The Mavericks went 2-of-4 on their power play Saturday, compared to UMD's 0-of-5. UMD outshot MSU 40-19 on the day and 76-33 in the series.

BULLDOG NOTES: Naomi Rogge has now notched a point in her last five games ... the freshman has posted three goals and three assists for six points over that span ... Rogge leads UMD with 12 points on six goals and six assists in 13 games, and ranks fourth in the WCHA among all rookie scorers with a 0.92 PPG average ... Ashton Bell ranks fifth among league rookies (and second on UMD) with six goals and three assists for nine points.

WHERE THEY PLAY THE GAME

AMSOIL Arena became the new home of Bulldog hockey at the midway point of the 2010-11 season.

The University of Minnesota Duluth is fortunate to offer some of the top—and at least one of the newest—facilities in the Upper Midwest for use by its student-athletes.

Headlining that list is the dazzling $80-million, 6,756-seat AMSOIL Arena, which the Bulldog men's and women's hockey teams christened in December 2010. It's located on the St. Louis Bay waterfront near Duluth's famous Aerial lift bridge and Canal Park—and a stone's throw from the Bulldogs' previous hockey home, the Duluth Entertainment and Convention Center (DECC).

At first glance, AMSOIL Arena brings to mind a striking contrast with other top-end Division I rinks and some familiar similarities to the old DECC. Set foot inside rinks like Ralph Engelstad Arena (the University of North Dakota) or the Kohl Center (the University of Wisconsin) and one is immediately struck by their sheer vast size. By contrast, a step onto the ice surface at AMSOIL Arena causes many to notice that despite having more than 1,600 additional seats, it's as intimate as the "old" DECC, with the lower bowl of seats hugging the ice surface and the upper level seats hanging seemingly right over the ice. Truly, there's not a bad seat in the house.

While the DECC was known as a great place to watch a game, the level of fan comfort is taken to new heights inside AMSOIL Arena. From simple things like seat width and leg room to necessities like additional restroom facilities, fan comfort and convenience are the hallmarks of the Bulldogs' new digs. Designers took cues from other successful and popular sports facilities and incorporated fan-friendly touches like an open concourse around much of the lower seating bowl, meaning that a trip to one of the numerous concession stands will not mean missing any of the on-ice action. And, if they do, there is a $1 million, 8' x 14' matrix scoreboard hung above center ice, which provides in-game replays, videos, and graphics in 10-millimeter LED display.

AMSOIL Arena is also equipped with something the DECC never had—private suites, some 15 in all. In addition, the Champions Lodge, located on the main level adjacent to one of the college hockey's finest and most spacious press boxes, serves as a gathering space for UMD athletic donors, alumni and supporters. At the other end of the hallway is the Hall of Fame Suite, which holds up to 34 people and contains plaques of the 38 distinguished Bulldog

WHERE THEY PLAY THE GAME

James S. Malosky Stadium underwent a $6.5 million renovation nine years ago, installing a new pressbox/ lounge facility which ranks among the finest in NCAA II football.

hockey alums and coaches who are members of the UMD Athletic Hall of Fame.

On the lower level, out of sight for most visitors, but on full display for current and potential future Bulldogs, are some of the real "goodies." Those include a state-of-the-art weight room and athletic training center, player's lounges, two large hydrotherapy pools (one of which features a treadmill in its base) and other amenities that rival any other school in the nation.

James S. Malosky Stadium, northern Minnesota's premier outdoor athletic venue, has been the home of Bulldog football for the last 52 seasons. During the summer of 2008, the on-campus facility, named after the legendary Bulldog football coach Jim Malosky, a four-level, $6.5-million structure, which included concession and washroom areas, a spacious club room, and a press box, was erected behind the main grandstand. One year later, a $325,000 scoreboard, 48' x 33' in size (eventually containing a 22' x 22' LED videoseen), became part of the north end Stadium and in 2016, the field at Malosky Stadium was upgraded with new artificial turf, goal posts and drainage systems. This past summer, the eight-lane running track received a complete overhaul to the tune of $1.2 million. In addition to housing the football, women's soccer, track and field and (at times) the softball Bulldogs, Malosky Stadium, with a seating capacity of 4,500, also hosts a variety of university intramural activities.

Romano Gymnasium, renamed in honor of the late UMD athletic director Ralph Romano in 1987, has hosted Bulldog men's basketball for well over a half-century (it opened in 1953) and women's basketball and volleyball since the early 1970s. The 2,759-seat facility has undergone a number of substantial renovations over the past two-plus decades, the most recent being the installing of a 12' x 20' videoboard this summer.

The UMD baseball team plays its home games at Bulldog Park. Completed in 1988, Bulldog Park's natural grass playing surface is generally considered to be the finest in the area, while the same can be said for Junction Avenue Field, UMD softball team's home diamond. Lighted for night play and situated on the western edge of campus, Junction Avenue Field debuted in 1987. Both of these facilities added $30,000 scoreboards prior to the start of the 2016 season.

UMD also utilizes the Arrowhead Tennis Center for its varsity matches as well as the Ward Wells Field House for its indoor track and field, baseball and softball practices.

MAKING THE GRADE

As much as UMD athletics has accomplished on the field of play since the inception of intercollegiate athletics on campus over eight decades ago, it has also maintained an equally strong and proud tradition of academically preparing its student-athletes. And, it has the numbers to prove it.

Case in point: Since 1987-88, nearly 94 percent of those student-athletes who participated in a varsity sport for at least four years have graduated. In 2016-17, UMD's 402 student-athletes, which includes redshirted freshmen, posted an all-time high average GPA 3.21 (the previous mark of 3.181 was set last year) and of that group, 123 achieved GPAs of 3.50 or above and 10 turned in perfect 4.00 marks. For the second year in a row, the volleyball Bulldogs registered the best collective GPA (3.68) of any UMD team during the academic year while cross country posted the highest GPA of all men's sports at 3.29. UMD student-athletes have now surpassed the 3.10 GPA marker in each of the last nine semesters.

On the individual front, 95 different UMD student-athletes qualified for a spot on the NSIC All-Academic Team at some point in 2016-17. In addition, 15 Bulldog men earned All-Academic Team status from the NCHC and 15 women did likewise from the WCHA. That included senior Lara Stalder, who collared the league's Scholar-Athlete of the Year honor.

Lara Stalder

Senior track and cross country standout Breanna Colbenson, who possesses a 3.88 cumulative grade point average as a public health/physical education major, was a College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA) Academic All-American first team selection (after attaining second team status in 2015-16) while junior Emi Trost made the second team. In addition, Colbenson and two other Bulldogs -- Sam Hartmann (softball), and Matt Vogt (baseball) -- were NSIC Myles Brand All-Academic With Distinction Award recipients for maintaining a 3.75 GPA as a collegian.

AT THE HEAD OF THEIR CLASS

A group of 17 Bulldog student-athletes have been named to the UMD Athletic Scholar List for compiling the highest grade point average during the 2016-17 school year in their respective sports (*denotes number of previous selections):

PLAYING IT FORWARD

Being a UMD student-athlete means more than just academics and sports. It's about learning some of life's simple lessons, such as it is always better to give than to receive.

Community service work has, for the most part, been a focal point of Bulldog athletics since its inception. UMD student-athletes, as well as coaches and staff, continuously seek opportunities to volunteer their time and reciprocate the support that Duluth and the surrounding communities has generously given Bulldog athletics for the past eight-plus decades.

During the 2016-17 school year, for example, UMD student-athletes and staff logged an all-time high 3,050 volunteer hours.

The Bulldogs have been involved in countless charitable projects in recent years, including Adopt-A-Highway, Bulldogs Not Bullies, Udac's Walk a Mile in Our Shoes Walkathon, Adopt-A-Family (Salvation Army), Pucks Against Poverty, Make-A-Wish, City of Duluth Clean-Up Project, American Heart Association's Heart Walk, Toys for Tots, Buddy Walk, Dig for a Cure, Habitat for Humanity, Jump for Heart, Lion's Club Pancake Day, Adopt-A-School, Kid's Fest, Mentor Duluth Appreciation Night, Essentia Health's Breast Cancer Awareness, UMD's Stop Domestic Violence Campaign, the American Cancer Society's Real Men Wear Pink, YMCA Kid's Day, Special Olympics, the ALS Blizzard Tour, Kicks for Causes, and Locks of Love. UMD student-athletes have also volunteered at the Boys and Girls Club of Duluth with the "Champions Building Champions" program, Churches United in Ministry, the Damiano Center, Second Harvest Food Bank, Animal Allies, and various elementary schools and youth sports clinics in addition to making numerous visits to local hospitals.

UMD Athletics is committed to providing the Duluth, Northeastern Minnesota and Northwestern Wisconsin communities with the time, effort and enthusiasm of some 400-plus student-athletes, coaches, staff, and even Champ the Bulldog. If the Bulldogs can help your organization or school in any way, please call (218) 726-8168. ■

PLAY LIKE A CHAMPION

The 2008-09 season was a noteworthy juncture in the annals of UMD athletics as it signaled the school's return to the Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference for its NCAA Division II sports. When it last parted ways with the NSIC after 2003-04 (to join the now-defunct North Central Conference), UMD was enjoying a league run that was nothing short of dominating. Just how overpowering were the Bulldogs in their NSIC surroundings? For starters, since 1990 all 14 of UMD's NCAA Division II teams (men's and women's track and field have both indoor and outdoor seasons) had won at least three conference titles and, in UMD's final six years of league membership, took home at least one crown. No other NSIC school came close to matching that accomplishment. What's more, UMD staked a claim as the NSIC All-Sports champion for a whopping 13 consecutive years before packing its bags for the NCC.

During its brief, four-year stay in their new digs, the Bulldogs captured four NCC titles in volleyball and shared another crown in football (2005), while taking runner-up honors in men's cross country (2006 and 2004) and softball (2007).

Since re-enlisting with the NSIC, UMD has certainly been the lead dog in football, going a sizzling 87-8 en route to winning six overall titles and nine consecutive North Division crowns. In addition, UMD has taken part in the NCAA II playoffs in eight of the past nine seasons, including in 2008 and 2010 when it compiled perfect 15-0 records and captured a pair of NCAA II championships. The Bulldogs were also NSIC kingpins in volleyball in 2014, 2012 and 2011, women's cross country in 2015 and 2013, baseball in 2016 women's indoor track in 2014, softball in 2013 and women's outdoor track in 2009.

Since the 2008 season opener, only one NCAA II football program in the entire nation has won more games (105) or compiled a better winning percentage (.875) than UMD.

But the recent successes have not been limited to just the NCAA Division II sports at UMD. Women's hockey, for instance, was added to the Bulldog athletic offerings in 1999 and has appeared prominently on the national radar screen ever since, winning five NCAA I Frozen Four titles (the first school to do so), including and unprecedented three straight crowns Division I from 2000-2003, and earning 11 of a possible 16 NCAA playoff berths. On the men's side, the Bulldogs, who skated off with their first national championship before a sellout crowd at St. Paul's Xcel Energy Center in 2011, have now qualified for NCAA tournament play six of the last nine winters. ■

UMD ATHLETIC HALL OF FAME

The University of Minnesota Duluth Athletic Hall of Fame was established in 1991 and enshrined its first class exactly 61 years—to the day—after the inaugural Bulldog varsity athletic event took place (a football game at Northland College on September 20, 1930). The UMD Athletic Hall of Fame now consists of 132 distinguished members representing some 21 sports.

These individuals, who have each played an integral part in the development and maintenance of the rich Bulldog athletic tradition, are honored with individual plaques in the UMD Sports and Health Center. UMD Athletic Hall of Fame inductees include:

Brett Hull, the National Hockey League's fourth all-time leading goal scorer, was a 1997 UMD Athletic Hall of Fame inductee.

WHY THE BULLDOG?

1960s

1980s

Present

When the University of Minnesota Duluth, which was then known as Duluth State Teacher's College, launched its intercollegiate athletics program back in September 1930, the institution's four sports teams (men's basketball, football, men's hockey, and men's track and field) used the nickname "Peds", short for "Pedagogues". Uniforms at the time were adorned in green and gold -- the original school colors. In the spring of 1933, the DSTC student-athletes themselves voted on a new school mascot and chose the Bulldog. Official team colors were subsequently switched to the current maroon and gold. Legend has it that a member of the football squad, a short and squat lineman by the name of Jack O'Hehir, was the inspiration behind the new mascot. O'Hehir, who would go on to serve as the Bulldog team captain the following year, not only looked like a bulldog, but "talked" and acted like one as well. In fact, the first drawings of the school's Bulldog logo are allegedly sketches of O'Hehir done by fellow DSTC football player Neil Scott.

BULLDOGS IN THE OLYMPICS

WSJ

According to the Wall Street Journal, no other college in the world has rostered more women's hockey Olympians than the University of Minnesota Duluth as of the 2010 Olympics in Vancouver. UMD, which has had no fewer than 28 Bulldogs (from seven different countries) represent their respective countries on the grandest international stage. The Bulldogs top all American Universities by a wide margin in terms of Olympian alumnae, followed by WCHA rival University of Wisconsin. UMD was once again well represented February of 2014 three former Bulldogs won gold medals with Canada while Lara Stalder earned bronze with Switzerland. 12 players from six different countries had UMD ties.

This year, UMD has another current and former player vying for their first Olympic roster -- current junior goaltender Maddie Rooney (United States) and former defenseman Brigette Lacquette (Canada).

Caroline Ouellette has won four gold medals with Canada over the past four Winter Olympics.

Lara Stalder celebrated a bronze medal in Sochi in 2014 with Switzerland.

Saara Tuominen -- one of nine former Bulldogs to suit up for Team Finland at the Olympics -- helped the Finns to a Bronze medal at the 2010 games in Vancouver.

Former Bulldog goaltender Kim Martin has protected the pipes in the last four Olympics Games for Team Sweden.

FOREVERMARK

Athletic leader. Role model.
Security Jewelers customer.

Like Forevermark® diamond jewelry, Karen Stromme has many facets. The Forevermark® diamond was unearthed at a responsibly operated mine, faceted by a master diamantaire and certified in Belgium. Like Karen, it is exquisite and full of fire. Less than one percent of the world's diamonds can carry the Forevermark® inscription – a promise that each diamond is beautiful, rare and responsibly sourced.

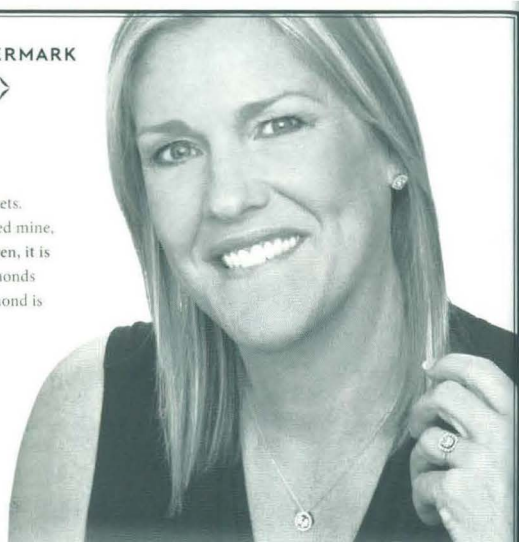

Security Jewelers - the Northland's exclusive authorized Forevermark® jeweler.

UMD ROUSER

U-M-D, Oh let us praise UMD
Ever strong, ever true we will be
And to the Bulldog name
Maroon and gold our fame
We hail University, Rah, Rah, Rah
UMD, always with our loyalty
Sing and cheer to be victorious, U-M-D
B-U-L-L-D-O-G-S
Hey, Bulldogs!

UMD FIGHT SONG

Here come the Bulldogs, UMD
Fighting their way to another victory
Here come the Bulldogs, give a cheer
The maroon and gold are here
U Rah Rah
Here come the Bulldogs strong and proud
So shout your name out loud-GO DOGS!
And so we'll never yield, we own the field
We are the Bulldogs of UMD!
