STATE SCHOOLMEN
TO COMPARE NOTES
AT 'U' NEXT WEEK

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---Minnesota school administrators will gather at the University of Minnesota Monday through Wednesday (April 7-9) to talk over plans for better schools and to hear reports on recent developments in instruction.

The conference, the University's 38th annual Schoolmen's Week, is being staged by the college of education for more than 750 principals, superintendents and supervisors.

Two visiting lecturers will be among the main speakers -- Paul B. Jacobson, dean of the school of education, University of Oregon, Eugene, and Wilbur A. Yauch, head of the education department, Northern State Teachers college, DeKalb, Ill.

"Educational Leadership at the Mid-Century" will be Jacobson's topic for the annual Phi Delta Kappa lecture at 8 p.m. Monday (April 7) in Murphy hall auditorium. At the general session Tuesday morning (April 8), he will discuss "The Teacher in the Community" and Yauch will speak on "Improving Human Relations in School Administration".

The administrators will split up Tuesday afternoon (April 8) into workshop groups on such topics as school finance problems, building programs, the current teacher shortage and guidance and counseling.

New features of Schoolmen's Week this year will be visits to the University's nursery, elementary and high schools, the speech and hearing clinic and the psycho-educational clinic Wednesday morning (April 9) and a series of panel discussions on recent developments in instruction Wednesday afternoon.

The Minnesota Association of School Administrators, the Minnesota Association of Secondary School Principals, the Minnesota Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, Minnesota Association of Elementary School Principals, Minnesota Society for the Study of Education, Minnesota Institutional Teacher Placement association and Phi Delta Kappa will hold luncheon and dinner meetings as part of the conference.

DOCUMENT FILMS
SCHEDULED AT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Recent American documentaries will be presented in a special film series on the University of Minnesota campus starting Monday (April 7). The series, staged by the University's American studies program and the general extension division, will run Mondays through May 12.

Rated as outstanding examples of factual and interpretive movies, the films will be grouped into six programs: physical health, April 7; the arts, April 14; mental health, April 21; capital and labor, April 28; crises of industrialism, May 5; and the regions, May 12.

The physical health program will include four films -- "Muscle Beach", "The Pale Horseman", "The School That Learned to Eat" and "Feeling All Right".

Many of these documentaries were produced under sponsorship of public service or business organizations. Several were prize-winners at national and international film festivals.

Each program in the series will be shown three times -- 3:30, 5:15 and 8 p.m. -- with the afternoon showings in the Minnesota Museum of Natural History auditorium and the evening showing in Nicholson hall auditorium. Registration for the series may be made through the University's general extension division, 54 Nicholson hall.

FOREIGN POLICY
DEBATE SLATED
THURSDAY AT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., Harvard university history professor, and O. John Rogge, former United States assistant attorney general, will stage a debate on the University of Minnesota campus Thursday (April 3).

The two will discuss the question, "Who Profits From Our Foreign Policy -- the United States or Russia?", at 11:30 a.m. in Northrop Memorial auditorium. Schlesinger will take the stand that the United States profits -- Rogge will contend that our foreign policy is a boon to Russia.

The program, the University's opening convocation for spring quarter, is open to the public without charge. Radio station KUOM will broadcast the debate at 11:15 a.m. Friday (April 4).

Schlesinger, a Pulitzer prize-winner at 27 for his book, "The Age of Jackson", is rated as one of this country's leading historians. He was educated at Harvard and Cambridge. During World War II, he served in London and Paris with the OSS.

"The Vital Center", a statement of contemporary political and social problems and Schlesinger's most recent book, was published in 1949. He is now working on a new one, "The Age of Roosevelt". Currently a history professor at Harvard, he also writes a weekly newspaper column -- "History of the Week" -- and contributes articles to Fortune, Life, Atlantic Monthly and The Nation.

Following graduation from Harvard university law school, Rogge went into law practice in Illinois. During the early 30's, he was retained by the Reconstruction Finance corporation as general counsel. In 1939 he entered the Justice department and undertook the investigation of the Huey Long machine, obtaining the indictments which broke up its operations.

Rogge, as assistant attorney general, conducted the government's mass sedition case of 1943-46 against 30 pro-Nazi Americans. Author of a book, "Our Vanishing Civil Liberties", he is now in private practice specializing in civil liberties work.

WAGE AND SALARY
EXPERTS TO ATTEND
U. OF M. CONFERENCE

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---National wage and salary experts will gather at the University of Minnesota on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 15 and 16, for the Tenth Annual Industrial Relations Conference. Theme of this year's conference is "Compensation Principles and Practices".

The annual two-day event, sponsored by the University of Minnesota Industrial Relations Center and the Twin City Chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Management, is expected to attract some 250 leaders in industrial relations.

Featured speaker of the conference is Leon H. Keyserling, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. Keyserling will address the group at a banquet Tuesday evening, April 15, at Coffman Memorial Union on the University campus. Keyserling's topic will be "The Wage-Price Spiral".

The importance of sound methods of wage and salary administration and the problems surrounding compensation principles and practices will be stressed throughout the remainder of the conference. Dean H. Rosensteel, director of the executive compensation service of American Management association, and Richard C. Smyth, industrial relations consultant with Ebasco Services of New York, will lay the ground work by discussing the background and development of wage and salary programs.

The relationships between wage and salary programs, and wage and salary structures and differentials will be presented by R. E. Kirkpatrick, director of the wage and salary section of Socony-Vacuum Oil company, and Adolph O. Berger, regional director, Bureau of Labor Statistics, Chicago. The Bureau of Labor Statistics under Berger's direction has recently completed and announced results of a wage survey of the Twin Cities.

U. OF M. TO OFFER
SPECIAL SUMMER
SESSION PROGRAMS

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---Special programs ranging from business history to a workshop in high school dramatics will be offered at the University of Minnesota's first summer session on the Minneapolis campus June 16-July 26.

In addition to its regular summer curriculum, the University will present a Scandinavian area studies program, a Renaissance seminar, special courses in servomechanisms, business history, efficient reading, Russian and New Testament Greek, an American studies program, a modern language institute, a workshop in high school dramatics, a language arts program, two specially-designed mass communications courses and a workshop series for school administrators.

From July 7-18, the University will stage several public lectures, an art exhibit, a concert and a symposium to supplement the Renaissance seminar. The seminar itself, a combination of classes in 16th and early 17th century history, art, literature and music, will run throughout the first summer session.

Among the new offerings is an intensive course in Russian, on both beginning and advanced levels. There will be no Russian house on campus, but students will have a chance to practice conversation at daily luncheon meetings. The Greek course, designed to prepare pretheological students for reading the New Testament in that language, will begin June 16 and will run through the second summer session, July 28-August 30.

The modern language institute again will sponsor residence houses on the campus for students of French, Spanish and German. All activities will be conducted in the elected foreign language.

Ralph W. Hidy, New York university professor and author of a forthcoming history of the Standard Oil company, New Jersey, will conduct the business history course. Hidy is also current secretary of the Economic History association.

The Scandinavian area studies program, now in its fourth year as a joint project with the University of Wisconsin, will feature lecturers from both universities. During the second summer session, John I. Kolehmainen, Finnish specialist from Heidelberg college, Tiffin, O., will teach a course in Scandinavian foreign policy.

Two groups -- regular summer session students interested in teaching dramatics and 25 outstanding high school students -- will make up the high school dramatics workshop. The two will work together in presenting scenes from great plays, staging skits, rehearsing one-act plays and attending classes on technical aspects of the theater.

Reading, speaking, writing, listening, children's theater and children's literature will be topics covered in the language arts program. Two noted education professors, Lou LaBrant of New York university and Helen Sullivan of Boston university, will headline a supplementary short course -- a language arts institute to be held at the University's Center for Continuation Study, June 30-July 3.

The college of education will also present four brief courses for school administrators: problems in planning school buildings and improvement of instruction in elementary schools, both scheduled June 16-July 3; administration of reorganized school districts and problems in state school administration, July 7-25. State commissioner of education Dean Schweickhard, Columbia university professor Harold J. McNally and St. Paul school architect Richard Hammel will be among the instructors.

The institute of technology will offer a special course in industrial instrumentation and servomechanisms for graduate engineers interested in automatic controls. A leading authority in the field, N. B. Nichols, director of research for the Raytheon corporation, Waltham, Mass., and a former University of Minnesota professor, heads the list of industrial engineers who will lecture for the course.

Two programs -- education and the mass media and advanced research in printed media -- will be presented by the University's journalism school in addition to its usual summer classes. The general extension division has planned a 10-day short course, June 18-27, for high school newspaper and yearbook advisors and for high school journalism teachers.

HOPKINS INTERIOR
DESIGN SCHOLARSHIPS
OFFERED BY U. OF M.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---Scholarships in interior design, established in memory of the late Johns Hopkins, are now being offered for the first time by the University of Minnesota. The deadline for applications is May 1.

Hopkins served for many years as the University's consultant designer, in charge of re-decorating campus buildings. He achieved national fame for his work on the St. Paul courthouse and city hall, the Chicago Daily News building and the North Dakota state capitol.

The new scholarships are open to anyone who has completed two years of study at the University in drawing and painting and two years in architectural design. Applicants need not be currently enrolled at the University.

Johns Hopkins scholarships, amounting to grants up to $500, will cover at least three months of intensive study in interior design. Winners may use their scholarships in one of three ways: travel to observe outstanding examples of interior design, study or do research at selected schools of interior design or gain experience in the studios of selected interior, industrial, decorative or furniture designers.

Applications should be submitted to George B. Risty, director of the University's bureau of student loans and scholarships, 201 Eddy hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 14.

SPRING QUARTER
'U' ATTENDANCE
TOTALS 16,482

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---Spring quarter attendance at the University of Minnesota totals 16,482, a decrease of 1,059 from the winter quarter enrollment of 17,541, True E. Pettengill, University recorder, reported Monday (April 14).

Pettengill explained that the enrollment decline represents the normal drop expected from winter to spring quarter. The decrease is accounted for in part by the 491 students who earned degrees and were graduated at the close of the winter quarter.

Included in the University student body for spring quarter are 11,757 men and 4,725 women, according to the recorder. Of the 16,482 students enrolled, 2,663 are World War II veterans receiving educational benefits under the GI bill.

Enrollment by colleges and divisions of the University was reported by Pettengill as follows: science, literature and the arts, 4,452; graduate school including Mayo Foundation fellows, 2,830; institute of technology, 1,689; college of education, 1,590; agriculture, forestry and home economics, 1,068; general college, 855.

Medical school, 590; business administration, 554; law school, 340; dentistry, 334; pharmacy, 271; public health, 216; nursing, 213; veterinary medicine, 192; physical and occupational therapy, 75; dental hygiene, 69; medical technology, 64; University college, 48; Duluth Branch, 1,032.

Of the 1,032 students at the Duluth Branch, 707 are men and 325 are women. Veterans enrolled at Duluth number 150.

'U' COMPTROLLER
NAMED TO RESEARCH
POLICY COMMITTEE

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---Laurence R. Lunden, University of Minnesota
comptroller, has been named to the American Council on Education committee on institutional research policy by Arthur S. Adams, president of the council.

In his letter to Lunden inviting him to become a member of the committee,
Adams pointed out that the amount of research sponsored annually by the federal government in colleges and universities is increasing rapidly and may exceed $150,000,000 this year. Industries are also offering a much greater volume of research than in the past, he noted.

"Your special experience with the problems involved from the points of view both of universities and of various government agencies," Adams wrote to Lunden, "will constitute a very important source of strength to this committee."

Appointed chairman of the committee on which Lunden will serve is President Virgil M. Hancher of the State University of Iowa.

Delivered - Morning of April 15, 1952
For release - to the Evening Paper

New York ---Polio virus has been recovered from cockroaches trapped on the premises of patients suffering from the paralytic form of the disease, it was reported today by a team of scientists from the University of Minnesota in co-operation with the Communicable Disease Center of the United States Public Health Service.

The investigators, whose studies were supported by March of Dimes funds from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, emphasized, however, that their findings should not be interpreted as meaning that cockroaches are responsible for the spread of the disease.

The report was made at the annual meeting here of the American Association of Immunologists by Dr. Jerome T. Syverton of the University of Minnesota. Co-operating in the study were Drs. R. G. Fischer, S. A. Smith, R. F. Dow, and H. F. Schoof.

The investigators revealed that several strains of polio virus were recovered from four lots of cockroaches captured on the premises of paralytic polio patients. The homes were representative of both good and poor sanitary conditions. Varied types of cockroaches were involved, including the large winged American Cockroach, a tropical variety, and the small German roach sometimes called the "croton bug".

In commenting on the findings, Doctor Syverton revealed that previous experiments conducted in his laboratory showed that under certain controlled conditions cockroaches could acquire, maintain and excrete polio virus. The field studies, he said, were an extension of these investigations to determine whether under natural conditions these insects might be harboring the virus. The results of the field studies indicated that such is the case. But the evidence does not prove that roaches can transmit the disease, the Minnesota scientists cautioned.

Warning that the field study does not prove that cockroaches are a factor in the transmission of the human disease, Doctor Syverton revealed that further studies are going on to define more exactly the role, if any, of roaches in the spread of polio.

Press Release
Federation of American Societies

Delivered - Morning of April 15, 1952
For release - P.M. papers

New York ---Experimental evidence that a combination of x-ray and cortisone markedly increases susceptibility to certain infectious agents was presented today to the American Association of Immunologists by a team of scientists from the University of Minnesota.

Drs. A. B. Graham, A. A. Werder, J. T. Syverton and J. Friedman of the University of Minnesota's Medical School and Mt. Sinai Hospital in Minneapolis reported on a series of experiments to test the effects of x-ray and cortisone on the susceptibility of adult mice to Coxsackie virus infection. The research was supported by a grant from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Their paper revealed that adult mice, normally resistant to Coxsackie virus infection, succumbed to the disease agent after being exposed to x-radiation and cortisone. Coxsackie virus is a recently discovered disease agent which causes clinical symptoms in humans identical with many diseases, including mild, non-paralytic polio.

In the laboratory, it was explained, newly-born mice regularly become paralyzed and die when infected with Coxsackie virus, but adult mice are usually unaffected. However, the Minnesota scientists reported that when the bodies of adult mice were exposed to x-ray and injected with cortisone 24 hours before they were challenged with Coxsackie virus, they then became highly susceptible to the infection, developed paralysis and died.

While their paper did not explain how the combined action of x-ray and cortisone heightened the susceptibility of adult mice, the scientists pointed out that the lethal effect was not duplicated within the same dosage range on the application of x-ray alone or cortisone alone.

PUBLIC INVITED TO CONFERENCE ON AMERICAN CIVILIZATION AT 'U'

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---The University of Minnesota program in American Studies will conduct a one-day conference on American civilization Saturday (April 19) for teachers, librarians, journalists and the general public. The meeting will be held in the Center for Continuation Study on the Minneapolis campus.

American people, according to Professor Tremaine McDowell, chairman of the University's American Studies program, are assessing their civilization in a variety of ways. They're asking questions such as: What is American music and where does it come from? Why do American sociological, economic and political institutions differ from those in foreign countries?

This conference is the first in a series of regional meetings to correlate the American peoples' knowledge about themselves.

The morning session, starting at 10 a.m., will center around organization of courses and curricula in American studies. Establishment of a regional American Studies group -- Minnesota and the Dakotas -- will also be discussed.

Theodore C. Blegen, dean of the graduate school and author of "Norwegian Migration to America" and "Grass Roots History", will speak on "Newer Trends in Advanced Study" at the luncheon meeting.

In the afternoon, a literary critic, a psychologist and a sociologist will show how their field of study contributes to the general understanding of our national culture. William Van O'Connor, associate English professor and author of "Sense and Sensibility in Modern Poetry", will discuss patterns in contemporary literature.

John G. Darley, professor of psychology and assistant graduate school dean, will talk on the relationship between values and social class structure. The conference will end with a speech by Mark Benney, British novelist and penologist, reviewer for the London Times and now visiting lecturer at the University of Chicago, on "The Concept of Glamour in the United States".

U. OF M. JOURNALISM
PROFESSOR JOINS
STAFF OF CBS

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---Gene F. Seehafer, assistant professor of journalism, resigned from the University of Minnesota Tuesday (April 15) to accept the position of market research counsel for the Columbia Broadcasting System, Chicago, Ill.

Seehafer's resignation comes after teaching advertising courses in the school of journalism since September 1948. Professor Harold Wilson of the journalism faculty, Charles Smith of WCCO, and Don Short, Minneapolis public relations man, will teach Seehafer's classes.

Seehafer has served as an advertising consultant to several Minnesota retailers recently. In the last year he has also served as a consultant to 20 radio stations in the United States and Canada.

Dean E. W. McDiarmid of the University's college of science, literature and the arts, said of Seehafer's resignation, "It is a great tribute to him to be offered the research counsel position. Of course, we are very sorry to lose him in the journalism school."

After graduating from the University of Wisconsin, Seehafer served as an infantry captain in the European theater of operations during World War II.

In 1947 he received a master's degree in business administration from Northwestern university school of commerce.

Before coming to Minnesota, Seehafer served as a lecturer in advertising at Northwestern university.

In collaboration with Jack W. Laemmar of the J. Walter Thompson company, Chicago, Seehafer has co-authored "Successful Radio and TV Advertising".

Seehafer is a member of the Minneapolis Advertising club and the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce speakers panel.

During the summer of 1950, Seehafer was a member of the market analysis department of General Mills, and during the fall of the same year acted as executive secretary of the Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., Chamber of Commerce.

He assumes his CBS duties in Chicago on April 21.

OVER WEEK-END

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --Thirty-five foreign students from the University of Minnesota will go on another "International Embassy" trip this week-end. They will spend Friday, Saturday and Sunday (April 18-20) in Brooten visiting the school, local business and industrial places, municipal offices and nearby farms.

The trip is planned by the University branches of the YWCA and YMCA and sponsored by the Brooten chamber of commerce. During the last two years, foreign student groups have made similar visits to Bertha, Stillwater and Winona.

Students from 23 countries will arrive in Brooten Friday noon. They will visit school classes in the afternoon. At supper-time they will meet families with whom they'll stay over the week-end. After a community dinner, the students will present a talent program of foreign songs and dances at the high school.

Saturday's schedule will take the visitors on a tour of the local bakery, creamery, business places, the community hospital and outlying farms. The day will end with a town open forum -- a discussion of Brooten's industry, government and history.

Before returning to Minneapolis Sunday, the University group will attend church services with their individual hosts and will be guests of local families for Sunday dinner.

According to "International Embassy" co-chairman Marian Soule of Minneapolis and Bob Swenson, Brooten, this trip will give foreign students a first-hand glance at American community life, while at the same time, Brooten residents will have a chance to become more familiar with the way of life in such countries as Brazil, Thailand, Egypt, Holland, Formosa, Turkey, Italy and Scotland.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---The University of Minnesota will be host to representatives of some 30 Northwest colleges and universities at a regional conference on "Universities and World Affairs" Friday through Sunday (April 18-20).

Approximately 100 college administrators and faculty members from Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Wisconsin, northern Iowa, northern Illinois and the provinces of Manitoba and Saskatchewan, Canada, are expected to attend the sessions in Coffman Memorial Union.

The conference has been convened under the sponsorship of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, New York City, which has arranged a series of similar conferences at various points throughout the United States during the last year.

Purpose of the conference is to permit an intensive discussion of the responsibilities of universities in international relations training, particularly as these are affected by the critical conditions prevailing in the world. Consideration will be given to the regular pre-professional and professional training for work in the field of international relations, but also to the kind of training appropriate for general students, and to the functions of universities in adult education and community training.

The program will include an initial presentation by Howard E. Wilson, executive associate of the Carnegie Endowment, of the results of a nation-wide survey of international relations training undertaken by him. Also speaking at the first session will be Walter Kotschnig, director of the Office of United Nations Economic and Social Affairs of the United States Department

TUNNETTUJA SUOMALAISIA TAIDETEOKSIA
NAYTTEILLE MINNEAPOLIKSESSA

Harvinainen kokoelma suomalaisia taidemaalauksia tullaan asettamaan näytteille SCANDINAVIAN ART FESTIVAL yhteydessä, joka pidetään Minneapoliksessa toukokuun 5-10 päivinä UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA'S PROGRAM IN SCANDINAVIAN AREA STUDIES toimesta.

Maalaukset, jotka edustavat eräitten Suomen etevimpien taiteilijoiden, kuten esimerkiksi Gallen-Kallelan, Halosen, Sallisen, Enckellin ja Scherfbeckin, töitä, tulevat olemaan yleisön nähtävänä WALKER ART GALLERY näyttelysalissa Minneapoliksessa.

Perjantai, toukokuun 9 päivä, on nimetty nk. FINNISH DAY. Illan ohjelma WALKER ART GALLERY suojissa omistetaan suomalaista taidetta koskeville artikkeleille ja keskusteluille, ja osallistuvien asiantuntijoiden joukossa tulee olemaan kaksi juhliin osallistuvaa taiteilijaa Suomesta.

Myös toiset skandinaviset maat osallistuvat harvinaisin ja arvokkain näytteillepanoin. Ruotsi esittelee nykyaikaisia käsi-, lasi-, ja saviteollisuuden tuotteita yllämainitussa WALKER ART GALLERY salissa; Norja puolestaan asettaa näytteille viimeaikaisen graafisen taiteen luomuksia MINNEAPOLIS INSTITUTE OF ARTS huoneistossa; ja merkittävä taidefilmi tulee olemaan Tanskan panoksena näyttelyssä.

Juhlaviikon ohjelman muista kohdista mainittakoon skandinavisen musiikin ja eräitten puheitten radiointi asemien KUOM ja WCAL kautta, sekä yliopiston teatterin Per Lagerkvistin erään näytelmän esitys.

Tämä juhla tulee olemaan erikoinen tapaus kaikille niille, jotka ovat kiinnostuneita skandinaviseen taiteeseen, ja koska se antaa harvinaisen tilaisuuden tutustua kokoelmaan Suomen parhainta kuvataidetta, tulee herättämään mielenkiintoa eritoten Amerikan suomalaisten keskuudessa.

'U' STUDENTS RAISE
$11,152 FOR CHARITY
SINCE OCTOBER

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---University of Minnesota students have raised $11,152 since October in five campus-wide charity campaigns. Quotas were exceeded in all five of the drives.

The funds were collected for the Campus Chest, Christmas Seals, the March of Dimes, the Heart Fund and the Red Cross.

With their Variety show -- a new program held in conjunction with Greek Week -- members of the Interfraternity and Panhellenic councils more than tripled their Heart Fund quota of $750. The show earned $2,325.

Students contributed $4,626 to the Campus Chest campaign, $1,825 to the Christmas Seal drive, $1,273 to the March of Dimes and $1,103 to the Red Cross.

The annual Campus Carnival, set for May 3, is the only other charitable-giving program scheduled this year. Proceeds from this event, usually amounting to more than $4,000, go into scholarships for new University students.

All of the University's fund-raising projects are conducted under sponsorship of the Social Service council, a campus student organization.

HEART RESEARCH FUND AT U. OF M.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---Professional auctioneers from all parts of the United States will go into action here in July in an effort to raise $50,000 for the newly created Odd Fellows Heart Research Fund at the University of Minnesota.

During their annual convention, to be held this year in Minneapolis July 15-19, members of the National Auctioneers' association will stage a two-day public auction of household and automotive equipment and other merchandise items under the sponsorship of the Twin City lodges of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

During the week of June 22 more than 3,000 national and local business concerns will be canvassed for donations of automobiles, automatic washers, electric mixers and scores of other items to be put up for auction. E. E. Hanson, chairman of the Heart Research Fund committee, says it is hoped that $50,000 can be raised by putting this merchandise on the block July 18 and 19.

The committee has not yet announced where the auction will be held.

Proceeds from the auction will go to create a fund for the purchase of equipment used in the heart research laboratories of the University of Minnesota Variety Club Heart Hospital.

Dr. Harold S. Diehl, dean of the University's medical school, said yesterday: "This fund will greatly implement the University's expanded program of heart research and treatment made possible by the contributions of such donors as the Variety Clubs of the Northwest, the American Legion, the Heart Association, the Society for the Preservation of Barbershop Quartette singing in America and many other benefactors."

Heart research fund buttons are now being sold by Odd Fellows lodge members throughout the Twin Cities.

'U' PRESS TO PUBLISH AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF
ELIZABETH WALLACE

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---A lifetime of travels, teaching and friendships with many notables is recalled by Elizabeth Wallace in her autobiography, "The Unending Journey", to be published by the University of Minnesota Press Wednesday (April 30). Miss Wallace has been a resident of Minneapolis since her retirement from the University of Chicago faculty, where she was a professor of French literature for nearly 40 years.

The book is crammed with personal anecdotes and sidelights about such diverse celebrities as H. G. Wells, Edmond Rostand, Eve Curie, Dwight L. Moody, Ida Tarbell, and Rabindranath Tagore. An entire chapter is devoted to reminiscences of her friendship with Mark Twain.

Throughout her long teaching career and since her retirement, Miss Wallace has traveled abroad extensively. The cosmopolitan life she recounts in her autobiography began with her childhood in Bogota, Colombia, where her father was a Presbyterian missionary. There are delightful vignettes of life on the Wellesley college campus in the 'eighties, when Miss Wallace was an undergraduate, and an account of her youthful teaching experiences in Minneapolis at the Judson institute.

At the University of Chicago Miss Wallace served as academic dean as well as professor of French literature. For a brief period she was dean of women at Knox college also. After retirement at 62 she continued to travel - to Europe, to the Far East, and to South and Central America - and to lecture in cities throughout the United States.

Many honors have been bestowed upon Miss Wallace in recognition of her cultural and educational activities. She received the honorary degree of doctor of humanities from Carleton college in 1949. An international fellowship of the American Association of University Women is named for Miss Wallace, who is a charter member of the Minneapolis branch of the AAUW.

During World War II Miss Wallace served as Minnesota chairman of American Aid to France. For her services on behalf of French relief and the promotion of French-American cultural relations she was awarded the French Legion of Honor in 1946. She was the first Minneapolis woman to receive this honor.

The French government presented Miss Wallace with the Palmes Academiques in recognition of her educational and cultural work. The French Red Cross bestowed the Medaille d'Honneur at Lyons, France, in 1949.

Miss Wallace is the author of two books in Spanish, "La Perfecta Casada" and "Sor Juana Ines de la Cruz". Her other previous books include "Mark Twain and the Happy Island", "A Study of Latin American Constitutions" and "A Garden of Paris".

FUTURE TEACHERS
AT 'U' TO STAGE
EDUCATION DAY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis --Future teachers at the University of Minnesota will celebrate their annual campus Education Day Thursday (April 24) with a special convocation speaker, panel discussion, a student-faculty softball game and a traditional banquet.

Harold Benjamin, education professor at George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tenn., will speak for the University's weekly convocation program at 11:30 a. in Northrop Memorial auditorium. Discussing in part some of the current attacks on public schools, he will talk on the topic, "Our Golden Age Is Now".

Benjamin is former dean of the colleges of education at the Universities of Colorado and Maryland. From 1931-36, he was professor of education and assistant dean of the University of Minnesota's college of education and during the following year, 1936-37, served as first director of the Center for Continuation Study.

The convocation will be broadcast over University radio station KUOM at 11:15 a.m. Friday (April 25).

After the convocation, college of education students will gather at the Lutheran student house, 11th and University, for a panel discussion with Benjamin on current educational problems. Charles M. Hagen, teaching assistant in history of education, will act as moderator. A man and woman student -- chosen as this year's Ideal Teachers -- will be presented at the luncheon.

Faculty and students will meet in their annual softball game at 3:30 p.m. on the University high school athletic field.

Education Day will end with a banquet at 5:30 p.m. in the main ballroom of Coffman Memorial Union. Marcia Edwards, acting college of education dean, will confer a leadership and service award on the outstanding senior student and new members of two honorary education societies, Eta Sigma Upsilon and Alpha Sigma Pi, will be announced.

LEADERS IN FINANCE, ECONOMICS
TO TAKE PART IN SAVINGS, INFLATION
CONFERENCE AT UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA

(FOR RELEASE P.Ms, FRIDAY, APRIL 25)

Minneapolis ---Some of the world's outstanding figures in finance and economics will participate in a conference on savings, inflation and economic progress May 15-17 at the University of Minnesota.

The Hon. Douglas Abbott, Canadian minister of finance, the Rt. Hon. Hugh Gaitskell, member of Parliament and recent British chancellor of the exchequer, and Eugene R. Black, president of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, will appear at the opening session the evening of May 15 to speak on savings and inflation in an expanding United States and world economy.

The three-day event is being conducted by the University's school of business administration in cooperation with nearly 40 Minnesota business firms.

Economics experts from universities, government and business will exchange information on such problems as inflation, why individuals save, effects of retirement and pension funds on savings, the relationship of savings and economic progress. Anyone interested in savings may attend the sessions.

Alvin Hansen, Harvard university economist, and E. A. Goldenweiser, former director of the division of research and statistics for the Federal Reserve System and member of the Institute for Advanced Study, Princeton, N. J., will discuss the savings and economic progress question at a noon meeting May 16.

Roy Blough, member of the Council of Economic Advisors, will act as chairman for the discussion.

Another Harvard university economist, John Galbraith, will speak on "Savings in a Defense Economy" at the morning conference session May 17.

Sumner Slichter, professor in the graduate school of business administration, Harvard university, and H. Christian Sonne, chairman of the National Planning association, will review "Savings and Inflation: Long Run Prospects and Policy" following a luncheon meeting at the Minneapolis club May 17. Presiding at the session will be J. Cameron Thomson, president of the Northwest Bancorporation.

Pointing out the reasons for the conference, Richard L. Kozelka, dean of the University's business school said, "The steady accumulation and wise allocation of savings is a fundamental 'must' in maintaining our national defense and economic health. We have major (and often unsuspected) problems and changes in the savings pattern of the American people. We need an examination of the private and public policy changes which seem called for.

"Some of the policy problems were pointed out last year in a study of decisions affecting capital formation undertaken by the University of Minnesota under a grant-in-aid from Investors Diversified Services, Inc. The present conference may in a sense be regarded as an outgrowth of the previous study, though additional leading Minnesota corporations have joined with Investors Diversified Services in its support."

University of Minnesota President J. L. Morrill will preside over the opening of the conference at 8 p.m. May 15 in the Minnesota Museum of Natural History auditorium.

Following the keynote talks by Abbott, Gaitskell and Black, the meetings will get underway the next morning, May 16, with discussions of savings trends and patterns in the 20th century -- how much has been saved, who saves, the shift from direct investment by the saver to investment through institutions.

In the afternoon, savings concepts will be the major topic with Irwin Friend, chief of the business structure division of the United States department of commerce, explaining savings statistics and their relationship to the department's national income estimates.

A panel discussion on "Savings, Inflation and Expansion in Non-Industrialized Economies", led by E. M. Bernstein, director of research for the International Monetary Fund, will be conducted after a dinner meeting in the University's Campus club, May 16.

The morning session, May 17, will cover special aspects of savings behavior, while the afternoon meeting will be devoted to individual savings behavior -- why people save, in what forms and for what purposes.

The Survey Research center, which conducts annual surveys of consumer saving and spending for the Federal Reserve system, will be represented by George Katona, Lawrence Klein and James Morgan, all of the University of Michigan. Woodlief Thomas, economic advisor to the Federal Reserve system's board of governors, will also speak at the conference.

Among business and financial leaders taking part will be Sherwin C. Badger, financial vice president, New England Mutual Life Insurance company; Morton Bodfish, president, First Federal Savings and Loan association, Chicago; Wilson Wright, economist, Proctor and Gamble company; Roger Murray, vice president, Bankers Trust company;

Stephen duBrul, General Motors corporation; Imrie de Vegh, Pell, de Vegh and company; Aubrey Lanston, Aubrey G. Lanston and associates; Donald Woodward, Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York; and Theodore Yntema, vice president of finance, Ford Motor company.

All conference periods, except for the luncheons and the May 16 dinner, will be held in the Minnesota Museum of Natural History auditorium. The noon meeting May 16 will be in the junior ballroom of Coffman Memorial Union.

Minnesota business firms sponsoring the conference are the Archer-Daniels-Midland company, Blyth and Co., Inc., Cargill, Inc., J. M. Dain and company, the Dayton company, Deere-Webber company, Farmers and Mechanics Savings bank; First Federal Savings and Loan association, First National bank, General Mills, Inc., Green Giant company, Harris, Upham and company, George A. Hormel and company, International Milling company, Investors Diversified Services, Inc., Kalman and Co., Inc.

Marquette National bank, Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Beane, Midland National bank, Minneapolis Gas company, Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator company, Minneapolis-Moline company, Minneapolis Star and Tribune, Minnesota Mutual Life Insurance company, Minnesota Paints, Inc., Munsingwear, Inc.

B. F. Nelson Manufacturing company, Northrup King and company, Northwestern National bank, Northwestern National Life Insurance company, D. W. Onan and Sons, Inc., Pillsbury Mills, Inc., Piper, Jaffray and Hopwood, Red Owl Stores, Inc., St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance company, Harold E. Wood and company and Zinsmaster Bread company.

The conference was arranged by a four-man planning committee from the University's school of business administration -- Professors Francis M. Boddy, Walter W. Heller, Carl L. Nelson and Arthur R. Upgren.

There is no registration fee for the conference. However, anyone planning to attend should write to the Savings Conference Planning committee, School of Business Administration, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 14.

(FOR RELEASE SUNDAY, APRIL 27)

University of Minnesota's Collegium Musicum will present its spring concert at 8:30 p.m. Monday, May 5, in Scott hall auditorium.

Under the direction of Gerard Samuel, assistant conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, the group will open its performance with Bach's Brandenburg Concerto No. 4. Soloists for the number will be violinist Robert Andersen and flutists Anton Winkler and John Solum.

The chorus will sing four of Orlando de Lasso's spiritual madrigals entitled "The Tears of St. Peter", followed by three secular madrigals of Claudio Monteverdi for solo voices and instruments, with harpsichord accompaniment. Tenors Wallace Harmer and Douglas Harding will do the first, the famous chaconne-madrigal, "Ziffiro torna". Shirley Klosterman will sing "The Lament of the Shepherd". The last madrigal, "Hor ch'el chiel e la terra", is for six voices and two violins.

Second half of the program will be devoted to sacred German music of the 17th century: the Redemption section of Heinrich Schütz's "German Requiem" and one of his motets, Franz Tunder's chorale-fantasy on Martin Luther's Reformation hymn, "Ein feste Burg", and a funeral cantata by Johann Phillip Krieger.

The concert will close with the first performance in this country of Nicolaus Bruhns' Easter cantata, "Hemmt eure Tränenflut". Soloists will be Lois Clark, Ferrol Miller, Wallace Harmer and Bruce Lunkley.

The program, sponsored by the University's music department, is open to the public without charge.

STUDENTS TO STAGE
CAMPUS CARNIVAL
AT U. OF M. MAY 3

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---A carnival spirit will hit the University of Minnesota campus May 3.

Hundreds of students from all parts of the University will be working together to stage a big show, the fifth annual Campus Carnival. Last year the event grossed more than $10,000. Proceeds went into freshmen scholarships and other welfare funds.

The University's Indoor Sports Arena will be converted into a midway. Some 60 different attractions -- ranging from side shows to the "try your luck" concessions -- are being worked up by campus organizations.

Groups sponsoring the various booths include University fraternities, sororities, religious groups, dormitories and special interest clubs. The carnival is a project of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity.

Everyone who comes to the carnival will be entitled to a guess in the "Character Contest". All correct entries will be placed in a hat. Winner of the drawing will receive an all-expense paid trip to Bermuda for two people.

Another traditional carnival event is the crowning of an Ugly Man for 1952. The student elected to the honor will win a trophy and a date with Miss Minnesota.

Doors of the Indoor Sports Arena will be open from 2-5:30 p.m. and from 7-12 p.m. for the carnival.

U. OF M. TO HONOR
STUDENTS' PARENTS

(FOR RELEASE THURSDAY, MAY 1)

Minneapolis ---Parents of University of Minnesota students will visit their sons and daughters on the campus May 8 for the University's annual Parents Day.

An informal program has been set up -- a concert, group luncheons, open houses, coffee hours and visits to classrooms -- so that parents can get a close-up view of life on campus.

The day will open with the traditional Parents Day convocation at 11:30 a.m. in Northrop Memorial auditorium. This year, the University chorus and concert band will present the Prelude Chorale and the Finale from Wagner's "Die Meistersinger".

University radio station KUOM will broadcast the program for parents who cannot attend.

After the concert, mothers and fathers will be guests at luncheon get-togethers in Coffman Memorial Union, campus dormitories and co-op houses, fraternities and sororities. Malcolm M. Willey, vice president for academic administration, James R. Riley, president of the All-University Congress, and his mother, Mrs. J. Ray Riley, will be among speakers at the general luncheon in the Union main ballroom.

Students living in Comstock, Sanford, Centennial and Pioneer halls have invited their parents to eat lunch with them in the dormitory dining rooms. Girls living in Winchell village co-op cottages will also entertain their parents at noon-time.

Nursing students have planned an early afternoon coffee hour and open house for their parents at Powell hall, nurses' dormitory. All campus dormitories will be open to visitors during the day.

MARSDEN HARTLEY,
AMERICAN ARTIST,
'U' BOOK SUBJECT

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

A study of a contemporary American artist, "Marsden Hartley" by Elizabeth McCausland, will be published by the University of Minnesota Press May 5. The book contains a biographical and critical essay on the artist and is illustrated with reproductions of 43 of his works, ranging from some of his earliest paintings to the one on his easel at the time of his death in 1943.

Also in the volume are a checklist of the Hartley works in the collection of Mr. and Mrs. Hudson D. Walker, which is now on long-term loan to the University of Minnesota art gallery, a bibliography of books and articles by and about the artist, and a chronology of Hartley's life.

All of the paintings reproduced in the volume, which includes both oils and water colors, are from the Walker collection. A self-portrait charcoal drawing is used as the frontispiece, and a crayon drawing is reproduced on the cover.

The University gallery will open its show of these works simultaneously with publication of the book, May 5. More than 150 examples of Hartley's paintings, pastels, prints, watercolors and drawings will be displayed on the third and fourth floors of Northrop Memorial auditorium through June 13.

Miss McCausland, who will appear on campus to give a special lecture at 3:30 p.m. May 6 in the Minnesota Museum of Natural History auditorium, is the author of numerous other books and articles on art subjects. Among her recently published books are "American Processional", "A. H. Maurer", "Charles W. Hawthorne: An American Figure Painter" and "George Inness: An American Landscape Painter". She is at work on a long-range study, "The Artist in America", a social history which will cover the period from 1641 to 1941.

In addition to her critical writing, Miss McCausland has arranged a number of art exhibitions in various cities of the United States. She served as special consultant for the American Processional exhibit held at the Corcoran Gallery of Art, Washington, D. PASTORS ROLE IN MENTAL HEALTH
'U' COURSE THEME

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---The University of Minnesota will present an institute on pastoral counseling -- emphasizing the pastor's role in mental hygiene -- at its Center for Continuation Study Monday and Tuesday (April 28-29).

Carroll Wise, instructor of pastoral psychology and counseling at Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston, Ill., will report on the case study of a personality and elementary concepts and procedures in mental hygiene. He will also speak at a third session on hospital calling.

Roy E. Burt, chaplain of the Anoka state hospital, will outline the care of mentally ill in Minnesota when the pastors visit the Anoka hospital Monday afternoon. The group will tour the hospital, learning about modern treatment of the mentally ill.

Ministers from several Twin City churches will also appear as lecturers on the program. Among University faculty members taking part will be Gilbert Wrenn, professor of educational psychology.

This course, open to clergymen of all denominations, has been arranged by the Continuation Study Center and Henry E. Allen, coordinator of students' religious activities on the University campus.

'U' LAW ALUMNI TO HEAR FINNEY
AT BANQUET MONDAY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---Alumni of University of Minnesota's law school, members of the state bench and bar, law professors and students will get together Monday (April 28) for the law school's annual banquet.

Nat S. Finney, editorial editor of the Minneapolis Star, former Washington newspaperman and Pulitzer prizewinner, will be the main speaker. He will talk on "Reporters and Lawyers at Congressional Investigations".

The banquet, a yearly event put on by the Law Alumni association, will begin at 7 p.m. in the main ballroom of Coffman Memorial Union.

John M. Palmer, chairman of the Cherry Memorial fund campaign, will report on its progress. Established in honor of the late Wilbur H. Cherry, law school professor, the fund will be used to set up several law scholarships at the University.

Among other speakers on the program will be Maynard E. Pirsig, law school dean.

The Law Alumni association will conduct its annual business meeting on the ballroom balcony before the banquet. Members will elect three new directors to fill positions which expire this year.

UNIVERSITY TO PARE
STAFF, UP SALARIES

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---Reduction of the University of Minnesota staff by more than $400,000 worth of positions for the next fiscal year beginning July 1, was announced Friday (April 25) by President J. L. Morrill. Details of the retrenchment are now being worked out by University officials.

Part of the budget savings resulting from the cutback will be used to provide cost of living and merit salary increases for many academic staff members and all civil service employees who remain on the University payroll, President Morrill reported.

Minimum monthly salaries or "floors" for academic staff members up through the rank of assistant professor will be raised $15. New minimum monthly base pay for teaching and research assistants and administrative fellows (who work on a part time basis) will be $285; for instructors, $385; and for assistant professors, $475. No floors are prescribed for associate professors and professors, the two highest ranks.

Deans and department heads, after adjusting for the new salary floors, will use the balance of funds made available by the campus-wide cutback in numbers of academic staff members to distribute salary increases on a merit basis regardless of academic rank. These increases are limited to a maximum of $500 for the year for any individual.

All University civil service employees will receive a one-step salary boost July 1 in conformance with State Legislature policy which ties the University and State of Minnesota civil service pay scales to the Bureau of Labor Statistics cost of living index. The State government has already announced a one-step pay increase for State civil service employees July 1.

The one-step raise for University civil service employees means an increase of from $5 to $16 per month depending on the employee's salary range.

The Legislature's cost of living formula for State and University civil service salaries calls for an increase of one pay step or increment for each rise of 6.5 points on the Bureau of Labor Statistics consumer's index for moderate income families in this area.

The official index reading for this purpose is that for December 15 of each year. Any indicated salary increase then becomes effective the following July 1. The December 15, 1951 reading was 187.7 or 3.2 points above the level required to justify the one-step raise.

After July 1, the new minimum University civil service salary range will be from $170 to $195 per month instead of $165 to $190. Employees are usually hired at the minimum rate for the range and advanced one pay step annually for five years on a "merit" basis until they reach the range maximum. Employees who have not yet reached the top step will receive the annual merit increase in addition to the cost of living raise.

Funds necessary to cover the cost of living increase for civil service workers will be made up principally through savings within the various University departments by retrenchment in the number of positions and by filling normal vacancies at lower salary steps.

'U' PROFESSORS TO STAGE SCIENCE
SHOWS FOR HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

University of Minnesota physics and chemistry professors, as in previous years, again will present special science lectures and demonstrations for Twin City high school students. This year's series will run next Tuesday and Wednesday (April 29-30), May 6-7, May 13-14 and May 20-21.

The first program, next Tuesday and Wednesday, will be a group of experiments called "Kitchen Chemistry" by Hervey H. Barber, professor of inorganic chemistry. He will try to answer questions on the composition and properties of pure water, chemicals in Mississippi river water, the make-up of an egg, how dough is inflated and the removal of tarnish from silver by use of chemicals.

On May 6-7, Professor J. W. Buchta, chairman of the physics department, will stage a perpetual motion show. He will outline some of the more feasible attempts at constructing a machine which will operate continuously and yield energy.

Haym Kruglak, assistant physics professor, will use bottles, eggs, water, hot dogs, ice and other similar materials for his "Kitchen Physics" lecture May 13-14. His demonstration will show instructive physics experiments which can be performed with home equipment.

The series will end with a "bang" when Professor Barber talks on "Explosive Chemistry" May 20-21. Through experiments, he will point out the chemistry of such ordinary explosives as black gunpowder, nitroglycerine and guncotton.

Each of the programs will be given two nights. All start at 7:30 p.m. -- the first and last in the auditorium of the University's Chemistry building, the Buchta and Kruglak lectures in the Physics building auditorium.

High school students may obtain tickets from their science teachers.

A newly formed string quartet will make its debut at 8 p.m. Sunday, May 11, in the Minnesota Museum of Natural History auditorium at the University of Minnesota.

Composed of members of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, The New Chamber Players will have as guest artist the noted pianist, Eva Knardahl. The quartet includes Robert Anderson, violin, Gerard Samuel, violin, Earl Hedberg, viola and Cynthia Eddy-Britt, cello.

The chamber music concert will open with "Three Fantasias" by the great English 17th century music dramatist Henry Purcell. By way of contrast, it will be followed by Dimitri Shostakovich's "String Quartet", Op. 49.

Miss Knardahl will play a late Beethoven Sonata, Op. 110 in A flat major. This is among his last five sonatas for piano, written while Beethoven was in the throes of composing the "Ninth Symphony".

Closing the program, The New Chamber Players will present the String Quartet, Op. 18, No. 4 in C minor, also by Beethoven.

This concert is the final program in the general extension division - humanities department spring lecture series, "Man and the Arts". Admission to this single program is $1. For further information, please call Midway 3965 or Lincoln 8791.

SCANDINAVIAN ART
FESTIVAL, INSTITUTE WILL OPEN TUESDAY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---A five-day Scandinavian art festival -- featuring special shows at the Walker Art Center and the Art Institute in addition to an institute on modern Scandinavian art and society at the University of Minnesota -- will open in Minneapolis Tuesday (May 6).

Otte Skold, Swedish painter, professor and director of the National Museum, Stockholm, Finnish artist Tapio Wirkkala and H. A. Reenpää, secretary of the Art Academy of Finland, both from Helsinki, will be among distinguished visitors at the event.

The Walker Art Center will stage a show of 20th century Finnish painting as part of the festival and also exhibit a collection of contemporary Swedish arts and crafts. Swedish color lithography will be displayed at the Minneapolis Institute of Arts, Norwegian prints in the fine arts room of the University's Coffman Memorial Union and Swedish books at the University library.

All the art shows are designed to coordinate with the University's institute on art and society in modern Scandinavia. It is the third in an annual series of "short courses" on Scandinavian culture presented by the University's program in Scandinavian studies under direction of Professor Alrik Gustafson.

A feature of the institute will be the presentation of Par Lagerkvist's drama, "The Hangman", by University theater players at 8:30 p.m. Thursday (May 8) in Scott hall auditorium. Lagerkvist is a 1951 Nobel prizewinner. The play will also be given a public performance Saturday evening (May 10).

"Public Art in Scandinavia", a paper by Marten Liljegren, docent in art history at the University of Lund, Sweden, and now visiting lecturer in Scandinavian studies at the University of Minnesota, will open the institute Tuesday afternoon (May 6).

In the evening, the institute group will visit the Walker Art Center to view the Swedish arts and crafts exhibit.

H. Harvard Arnason, chairman of the University's art department and also director of the Walker Art Center, will discuss "Art and Patronage in Iceland" Wednesday morning (May 7). In the afternoon, a tour of the Norwegian print show at the Art Institute is scheduled and in the evening, Skold will review "Trends in Swedish Art Life".

Bjarne Berulfsen, visiting lecturer in Scandinavian studies at the University of Wisconsin, will speak on "Society and Politics in Contemporary Scandinavian Fiction and Drama" at the Thursday (May 8) session. Two Danish films -- one on painter Oluf Høst and the other, Carl Dreyer's "The Day of Wrath" -- will be shown in the afternoon.

Harlan E. McClure, associate professor of architecture at the University of Minnesota, will open a discussion on "Two Decades of Contemporary Swedish Architecture" at the Friday (May 9) institute meeting. A look at the Swedish color lithography display at the Minneapolis Institute of Arts is planned for the afternoon, while in the evening, the group will return to Walker Art Center for the 20th century Finnish painting exhibit.

The institute will close Saturday (May 10) with a talk by Tore Tallroth, cultural attache of the Swedish embassy, Washington, D.C., on "The Arts and Society in Sweden" and a summary discussion in the afternoon.

All institute sessions -- except those at the art galleries and in the theater -- will be held in the University's Center for Continuation Study.

'U' STUDENTS TO CONDUCT
MOCK REPUBLICAN
CONVENTION MAY 9-10

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---University of Minnesota students will stage a mock Republican national convention on the Minneapolis campus Friday and Saturday (May 9-10). More than 1,200 students will participate in the two-day event, sponsored by the University YMCA.

Rep. Hugh D. Scott, Jr., Pennsylvania congressman and former chairman of the Republican national committee, will deliver the keynote address in Williams arena at 8 p.m. Friday (May 9). Presentation of the proposed platform will follow.

Permanent chairman of the convention will be Roger Moore, Harvard junior and president of the National College Republican clubs of the United States. The more than 1,200 students taking part will act as delegates, representing the 48 states, Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and the District of Columbia.

A cross-section poll of the University student body last fall indicated that students were in favor of conducting a Republican convention.

Twelve pressure groups -- representing the National Association of Manufacturers, Minnesota Association of Co-ops, Minnesota Farm Bureau, Minnesota labor unions, Farmers Union Grain Terminal association, American medical association, American Legion, anti-UMT, United Nations association, American Civil Liberties Union, WORLD and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People -- will be active at the convention.

The convention will be called to order at 4 p.m. Friday (May 9) in Williams arena for seating of delegations and acceptance of procedure rules. It will reconvene at 8 p.m. for the keynote speech. Saturday (May 10) delegates will present their nominations for the presidency and vice presidency and balloting will take place.

High school and college students throughout Minnesota have been invited to sit in on the mock convention. Housing is being arranged for out-of-town visitors.

PLANS PROPOSED FOR NEW STUDENT CENTER
ON 'U' ST. PAUL CAMPUS

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---Preliminary plans for a new student recreation center on the University of Minnesota's St. Paul campus have been approved by the University's building committee.

The proposed three-story structure, a rectangular building 88 by 180 feet, is to be erected north of Coffey hall, facing south on Buford Ave. It will be built in three stages.

First phase plans call for construction of a book store on the ground floor and completion of the first floor. The first floor will consist of combination cafeteria and recreation space, a central kitchen area, combination lounge-ballroom leading to a terrace, administrative offices and conference rooms. Estimated cost of the first stage is approximately $500,000.

In the second phase, the ground floor will be finished and all game areas will be moved downstairs, expanding dining facilities on the first floor. The game area will include a hobby shop, room for billiards and table tennis and space for bowling.

An 80 foot square ballroom, with stage at one end and balcony around three sides, will be added with construction of another floor in the third phase. The top floor will also have a serving kitchen, combination entrance foyer-reception room and additional conference rooms.

Plans for the new student Union were drawn up by Magney, Tusler and Setter, Minneapolis architects and engineers, under supervision of Winston A. Close, associate professor of architecture and University advisory architect. Working plans for the building have not yet been authorized.

(FOR RELEASE THURSDAY, MAY 15)

Minneapolis ---Approximately 3,000 University of Minnesota seniors will don academic costume Thursday (May 22) for Cap and Gown Day, the first in a series of formal graduation ceremonies preceding commencement June 14.

Highlight of the day is the honors convocation at 11:30 a.m. in Northrop Memorial auditorium at which University President J. L. Morrill recognizes the University's honor students.

A few minutes before the program starts, seniors will march the length of the mall, from Coffman Memorial Union to the auditorium, while the University band plays from the auditorium steps. University professors and officials will lead the academic procession.

About 60 members of the class of 1902 will be on hand to "review" the senior class as it moves into the auditorium.

Main speaker at the convocation will be Herbert K. Hayes, professor and chief of the division of agronomy and plant genetics, retiring in June after 37 years on the faculty. His talk is titled "A Member of the Team".

Afterwards, assisted by Professor E. W. Ziebarth, chairman of the speech department, President Morrill will recognize the University's top-ranking students. Members of the senior class will be presented by George C. Hanson of Redwood Falls, class president.

Edmund G. Williamson, dean of students, will preside at the Cap and Gown Day ceremonies, which will be broadcast over University radio station KUOM at 11:30 a.m.

University Senior Week will get underway Monday afternoon, May 19, with a picnic and informal dance. Tuesday, May 20, the All-University Congress, student governing body, will hold its annual recognition dinner.

Students on the University's St. Paul campus will stage a recognition assembly in Coffey hall Wednesday morning, May 21, followed by an open house afterwards in their Union. They will meet again for a special dinner at 5:30 p.m.

On the main campus, Mrs. J. L. Morrill, wife of the University president, has invited junior and senior honor students to a tea Wednesday afternoon, May 21.

Thursday, May 22, will be an important date on the seniors' calendar. In the morning, they will participate in traditional Cap and Gown Day ceremonies -- a parade followed by a convocation in Northrop Memorial auditorium. Seniors on the St. Paul campus will gather for breakfast, then take part in a tree planting before attending the convocation.

University alumni, seniors and faculty members will gather for an informal coffee hour in Coffman Memorial Union Friday afternoon, May 23. Senior Week will come to a climax with the junior-senior prom at the Radisson hotel Saturday evening, May 24.

PROFESSOR CHARNLEY TO TEACH IN ITALY
ON FULBRIGHT GRANT

(FOR RELEASE SUNDAY, MAY 18)

A University of Minnesota journalism professor next year will be Italy's first visiting lecturer on journalism and mass communications.

He is Professor Mitchell V. Charnley of the school of journalism. Charnley has been awarded a Fulbright lectureship by the Department of State to teach from November to June at the University of Florence.

Italian universities, like those in many European countries, have done little to develop instruction in journalism and mass communications. Work in these fields to be offered by Charnley will deal with the history and influence of mass communications and the social impact of newspapers, broadcasting, movies and other mass media as well as with some of their techniques and methods.

Charnley has been a member of the Minnesota journalism staff since 1934. Before coming to the university he was a newspaper and magazine writer and editor, and he has had experience in radio news and in public relations. He was for 10 years managing editor of the Journalism Quarterly, leading journalism research magazine.

Professor and Mrs. Charnley and their two children, Deborah, 9, and Blair, 8, will spend a year in Italy and other parts of Europe. They will leave in September.

AWARD FOR MERIT

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---The University of Minnesota radio station KUOM is the winner of a commendation award for outstanding and meritorius service to the American people presented by the Alfred I. duPont Awards Foundation in radio, television and allied sciences.

Winners were announced Saturday (May 17) in Washington, D.C. at the foundation's annual awards dinner by Dr. Francis P. Gaines, chairman of the awards committee and president of Washington and Lee university.

The duPont award is "for outstanding the meritorius service in encouraging, fostering, promoting and developing American ideals of freedom, and for loyal and devoted service to the nation and to the community.

KUOM's entry was a "parent education" project of six radio program series broadcast in 1951 by the station's adult education department under the supervision of Mrs. J. Ward Greenwood.

Emphasizing that democracy begins in family life, the project was an attempt to point the way to sustain democracy through better family relations.

Programs in the project dealt with mental health, family living, child development and human relations.

The committee of awards, in addition to Dr. Gaines, included Mrs. Jessie duPont, widow of the distinguished American scientist, and founder of the annual awards; Ben McKelway, editor of the Washington Star; Dr. Hadley Cantril, professor of psychology and director of the Office of Public Opinion research, Princeton university; and Mrs. Hiram Cole Houghton, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

GREATER 'U' FUND
CAMPAIGN FOR '52
GETS UNDERWAY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---The 1952 campaign for gifts from alumni and friends of the University of Minnesota for the Greater University Fund got underway this week with the mailing of 55,000 copies of the fund's spring quarter report. Goal for 1952 is $125,000.

In launching the campaign, Arthur B. Poole of San Francisco, national chairman of the drive, pointed out that gifts to the University multiply the usefulness of what is provided from public funds to maintain and operate the institution.

"Through a graduate fellowship," Poole said, "a promising scholar may come to the University and make a marked contribution to the advancement of knowledge. Or a comparatively small piece of research equipment may bring to magnificent fruition the labors of years which have not quite matured."

The spring quarter report being distributed lists the names of more than 3,600 donors to the fund's 1951 campaign who gave a total of $165,857 for 62 different University projects.

Poole reported that the 1952 campaign again stresses freshman scholarships, graduate fellowships and research equipment. Twelve special projects are included, among them the Wilbur H. Cherry Memorial fund, the E. T. Bell Pathology Museum fund, the University Theater Building fund and the Henry L. Williams Scholarship fund.

The Greater University Fund is sponsored by the Minnesota Alumni association. Director of the fund is Stanley J. Wenberg.

'U' OBSERVES ANNUAL
CAP AND GOWN DAY THURSDAY

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Graduating seniors, nearly 3,000, will participate in Cap and Gown Day at the University of Minnesota Thursday (May 22).

Following a tree planting ceremony on the St. Paul campus at 9 a.m., the senior class will assemble in front of Coffman Memorial Union before marching to the traditional Cap and Gown Day convocation at 11:30 a.m. in Northrop Memorial auditorium. Shortly before the convocation begins, the students will join an academic procession -- led by professors and University officials -- as it moves the length of the mall into the auditorium.

Herbert K. Hayes, professor and chief of the division of agronomy and plant genetics, retiring in June after 37 years on the faculty, will be the main speaker at the program. After Professor Hayes' talk, titled "A Member of the Team", University President J. L. Morrill will recognize the University's honor students.

Members of the University's June graduating class are now in the midst of Senior Week. Wednesday afternoon (May 21) junior and senior honor students will attend a reception given by Mrs. Morrill. Senior students on the St. Paul campus will meet for dinner at 5:30 p.m. in their Union, then attend a recognition assembly at 8 p.m. in Coffey hall.

In addition to the tree planting and Cap and Gown Day convocation, Thursday's schedule also includes a breakfast for St. Paul campus seniors, the annual AWS (Association of Women Students) luncheon at 12:30 p.m. in the main ballroom of Coffman Memorial Union for all senior women and a civic-sponsored Court of Honor dinner in the evening at the Radisson hotel for 250 top-ranking honor students.

An alumni-senior student-faculty coffee hour is planned for Friday afternoon (May 23). Senior Week activities will come to a climax with the annual junior-senior prom Saturday evening (May 24) at the Radisson hotel.

Professor Castell, who frequently appeared on the KUCM broadcast schedule while at the University, is now head of the department of philosophy at the University of Oregon.

On his new program, titled "Invitation to Read", he will discuss some of the literature which has greatly influenced man's thought and action in society.

Tom Paine's "Common Sense" will be the subject of Professor Castell's first talk. Later programs will inspect such widely-discussed works as "Darkness at Noon", "The Doll's House", "Passage to India", "Brave New World", "Carminal" and "Kingsblood Royal".

Originally produced at the University of Oregon, "Invitation to Read" will be broadcast over KUCM via the tape network of the National Association of Educational Broadcasters.

Minneapolis ---Approximately 3,000 senior students participated in traditional Cap and Gown Day ceremonies at the University of Minnesota Thursday morning (May 22).

Dressed in academic costume, the graduating students paraded down the University mall at 11 a.m. from Coffman Memorial Union to Northrop Memorial auditorium for the University's annual honors convocation.

Main speaker at the event was Herbert K. Hayes, professor and chief of the division of agronomy and plant genetics, retiring in June after 37 years on the faculty. His talk was titled "A Member of the Team".

Following Professor Hayes' address, University President J. L. Morrill recognized the University's honor students for the last year -- scholarship winners, winners of special awards, members of honorary societies and students with scholastic averages of "B" or higher.

Members of the senior class were presented to Dr. Morrill by George C. Hanson of Redwood Falls, class president. Edmund G. Williamson, dean of students, presided at the Cap and Gown Day ceremonies.

REHABILITATION
WORKERS OF 4 STATES
TO MEET AT U. OF M.

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE)

Minneapolis ---Rehabilitation workers from four states -- Minnesota, Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin -- will gather at the University of Minnesota Monday (May 26) for a three-day training institute.

Conference speakers, lecturing at sessions at the University's Center for Continuation Study, Minneapolis Society for the Blind and Glen Lake sanatorium, will concentrate on medical and psycho-social factors important in vocational rehabilitation of severely handicapped persons.

The keynote speech, "Emotional Reactions to Disability", will be delivered Monday morning by Donald H. Dabelstein, assistant program director in the office of vocational rehabilitation, Federal Security agency, Washington, D.C.

In other lectures during the day, rehabilitation workers will hear a report on results of using cortisone for arthritis treatment and a panel discussion on techniques of placing handicapped persons.

National rehabilitation legislation will be discussed by E. B. Whitten, executive director, National Rehabilitation association, Washington, D.C., at a luncheon meeting Tuesday (May 27). Other Tuesday sessions will cover physical rehabilitation, speech therapy, social service and vocational rehabilitation of hemiplegic patients -- people who are partially paralyzed.

In the evening, Elmer L. Andersen, Minnesota state senator, will talk on "Conserving Human Resources" at a supper meeting in the junior ballroom of Coffman Memorial Union. Six successfully rehabilitated persons will receive special recognition at the banquet.

Wednesday (May 28) the institute will divide into two sections. Participants interested in rehabilitation of the blind will visit the Minneapolis Society for the Blind headquarters and the Minneapolis Home for the Blind. Another group will tour Glen Lake sanatorium.

The institute is being presented by the University in cooperation with the National Rehabilitation association (Region V), the Minnesota Rehabilitation association and the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation.

U. OF M. TO AWARD
DEGREES TO 2,800

(FOR RELEASE THURSDAY, JUNE 5)

Minneapolis ---The University of Minnesota will award degrees to approximately 2,800 students at its spring quarter commencement Saturday, June 14. Ceremonies will begin at 8 p.m. in Memorial stadium.

University President J. L. Morrill will deliver his traditional "Charge to the Class". Malcolm M. Willey, vice president in charge of academic administration, will preside during the exercises.

Following President Morrill's address, Vice President Willey will introduce the chief officers of the University's Army, Navy and Air Force ROTC units. They will present their candidates for commissions in the Armed Services. Colonel Kermit D. Stevens, professor of air science and tactics, will administer the oath of office.

Willey will also introduce the deans of the University's various colleges who will present their graduating students to President Morrill. Immediately afterwards, the June 1952 class will march across the Memorial stadium stage to receive their diplomas.

Candidates for doctor of philosophy degrees will be announced individually by Theodore C. Blegen, dean of the University's graduate school.

The program will start with an invocation by the Rev. Wilbur Korfhage, director of Wesley foundation and adviser to Methodist students on campus. Members of the University's concert band will play as the seniors march across the stage.

Commencement ceremonies this year are open to the public; no tickets will be required for admittance to the stadium.
