This directory is published by R. L. Polk & Company, Inc., with the cooperation of the General Alumni Association of the University of Minnesota. The Polk Company has assumed entire responsibility for the finances of the undertaking and the Association is under great obligations to the Company for its enterprise in undertaking the publication of such a complete and carefully prepared directory of the alumni, without financial backing by the University or the General Alumni Association.

We desire to take this opportunity of expressing our appreciation of the way in which R. L. Polk & Company, Inc., has handled the undertaking and its disposition, manifested at all times, to do the right thing and to avoid any possibility of misunderstanding.

In employing so many representatives, as it has been necessary to employ in an undertaking of this sort, there is bound to be misunderstanding and misrepresentations at times. The number of such complaints, however, when the total number of calls made is taken into account, has been remarkably small. And it is to be said further, that the Polk Company has been ready to handle every complaint in a way to give satisfaction to those who felt that they had not been properly treated by a representative of the company.

HISTORICAL SKETCH.

The University of Minnesota was originally organized by the Legislature of 1851, under date of February 13th. It was reorganized February 14th, 1860, and again in 1864, and dates its real beginning from the reorganization of February 18th, 1868, the date of its actual beginning as an institution of learning. The whole period, from 1851 to 1868, might well be ignored were it not for the fact that some things were done during that period which have had great influence upon the later history of the University.

The location of the University was fixed at or near the Falls of St. Anthony, and a gift of land, about four acres, from Franklin Steele was accepted. This land was located near the intersection of University and Central Avenues. A building was erected upon this land, at a cost of about $2,500.00, raised by voluntary subscription. The building was erected and for many years was known as the "Preparatory Department of the University of Minnesota." School was opened in this building by the Rev. Elijah W. Merrill, November 26th, 1851, with an enrollment of twenty. Mr. Merrill received his pay from tuition and likewise paid for all assistance and other expenses. The school was discontinued in 1853, and though the regents allowed several other persons the use of the building for private school purposes, little was accomplished.

On the 19th of February, 1851, Congress granted the University two townships of land, 45,257.39 acres, for an endowment. This land was located and some stumpage was sold.

In 1854 the regents purchased twenty-five and one-third acres of the present campus for $6,000, paying for the same with $1,000 borrowed money and notes for the balance. The Legislature of 1856 authorized the regents to borrow $15,000 on the site purchased for $6,000.00, this money to be used to take up notes and erect a building.

The regents did not follow instructions, but undertook the construction of one wing of the Old Main at an estimated cost of about $50,000.00, expecting to pay for the same by sale of stumpage. A combination of hard luck and hard times came upon the regents. Stumpage could not be sold and interest charges mounted at the rate of 2 per cent. a month. Before the debts were finally settled the new site and building had cost about $125,000.00. It is hard to appreciate the desperate state of affairs at that time. The Legislature of 1860 met and a reorganization was affected. But the powers of the new board were not sufficient to allow the tangled affairs of the University to be straightened out, and in 1864 the Legislature named three men—John S. Pillsbury, O. C. Merriman and John Nichols, a board of regents with special powers to sell lands and pay debts. After three years of strenuous service this board was able to report that practically all debts had been paid and a little less than 15,000 acres of land had been sold. 15,410.58 acres were finally sold for this purpose.
The Legislature of 1867 made an appropriation of $15,000 for repairs on the building and to begin instruction. A faculty of three was employed and instruction in preparatory subjects offered and about fifty students were enrolled.

The following year the Legislature reorganized the University and the real history of the University as an institution of learning was begun.

Three other matters settled during this period deserve mention. When the State was admitted to the Union in 1857 the enabling act gave the State 45,661.14 acres of land for the use of a State University. The regents attempted to secure these lands, but it was not until 1870 that the contention of the University was conceded and the lands secured.

The charter of the University adopted in 1868 gave the University the lands, 94,429.38 acres, which had been made over to the agricultural college located at Glencoe. This is one of the most important results attained during this period.

The few attempts to maintain a school in the west wing of the Old Main building were failures. For only one of these were the regents sponsors and then the school lasted less than six months. The other attempts were made by individuals who were allowed the free use of the building for the purpose.

The Administration of President Folwell.

Instruction in preparatory subjects was offered for two years, 1867-68 and 1868-69. In the summer of 1869 a University faculty of nine members, with Dr. William Watts Folwell as president, was elected. This faculty included the three who had previously been in charge of the preparatory school. The University began its actual work of instruction September 15th, 1869. The preparatory school had settled for all time the question of co-education. Young women presented themselves for admission and were taken in without question. The early years of the administration of President Folwell were largely taken up in working out a plan of organization for the University. In his opening address in the Old Main building, December 22nd, 1869, Dr. Folwell outlined his ideas of what a University should be, emphasizing his feeling that the University should be in the best sense of the word, practical—that is, prepare students for the relations in society in which they will find themselves after graduation. In this address Dr. Folwell said: “There is, as I have said, but one resource—the State must endow the University, and if the State will have the University in its full proportion, let her first count the cost and take the million for her unit.”

The early days of this administration were most discouraging and progress was made only through overcoming difficulties that seemed almost insuperable. It was not until 1881, three years before the close of President Folwell's administration, that the Legislature came to recognize the importance of the University and made an appropriation of $180,000, running through a period of six years, for the purpose of providing for the construction of additional and much needed buildings. June 19th, 1873, marked the graduation of the first class to complete the full four year's work in the University. On that day were graduated William Clark Eustis and Henry Martyn Williamson, who both received the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

The Legislature of that same year appropriated $50,000 for the completion of the Old Main building and the erection of an agricultural building. The Main building was completed so that the exercises of commencement of 1875 could be held in it. The agricultural building was completed for the opening of the following college year.

Among the important events of Dr. Folwell's administration was the organization of the geological and natural history survey, the organization of the state high school board to encourage the establishment of high schools, and the organization of the Medical department as an examining board. The far reaching effects of the organization of the high school board, particularly, mark its establishment as a matter of unusual importance.

In 1880 there came a crisis in the internal affairs of the University. Up to that time the regents had been accustomed to elect the faculty annually. When the election of that year was held only five of the eleven members were re-elected. It was at that time that Professors Sanford, Pike, Downy, Ormond, Dodge and Benton were brought to the University to fill the places of those who had failed of re-election. This date seems to mark a decided change of sentiment of the legislature toward the University and the following year the largest appropriation ever made up to that time, $180,000, for new buildings, was made.

It is also worthy of note that as early as 1874, Dr. Folwell submitted to the regents a plan for the establishment of courses in agriculture, substantially the same as those adopted by the regents when the agricultural school was established, fourteen years later.

Soon after Dr. Folwell became president, he began agitating the question of more land for the University campus, and appropriations were secured which practically doubled the size of the campus as it was when he came to the University. Later, toward the close of his administration, he earnestly urged the regents to sell the University campus and to move the University bodily to the north shore of Lake Minnetonka where a section of land could be secured. It was also during Dr. Folwell's administration that the Minnetonka fruit farm was established and successful extension work in agriculture instituted.

Despite the discouragements of the early days of his administration, Dr. Folwell was destined to see a change of sentiment on the part of the people of the state before its close. In 1883 President Folwell asked the regents to accept his resignation which had been in their hands for many years previous. The regents accepted his resignation and requested Dr. Folwell to continue in service until his successor was elected, which he did. When the election of Cyrus Northrop to the presidency took place, Dr. Folwell was chosen professor of political science and librarian, positions which he held until his final resignation from the University in 1907.

President Northrop's Administration.

The year 1884-85, the closing of Dr. Folwell's and the beginning of President Northrop's administration, furnishes a natural dividing line in the history of the University. The real dividing line should be 1881, for it was the legislature of that year that put itself on record as favoring a more liberal and far-sighted policy for the University. We take the date first mentioned, however, since it marks a convenient, though not absolutely accurate, dividing line between the old and the new.

The high reputation that President Northrop had won as a college professor was eclipsed by his conspicuous success as an executive. For twenty-six years he was at the head of the University. He began his administration by building upon the solid foundation laid by his predecessor, and, taking the high school board system as he found it, he made much of the possibilities of that system to promote the growth of the University. The marvelous growth of the University during the years of his administration was due in no small measure to the way in which he kept the University in close touch with the high school system of the state.

The first problem to engage the attention of President Northrop was the establishment of an agricultural course to meet the demands that were growing ever more and more insistent. Associated with this problem of the establishment of a proper system of agricultural education was the problem to retain the institution intact. A desperate effort was made by those who felt that agriculture was not receiving its proper recognition in the University, to have the University dismembered and an independent agricultural institution established. It was about this time, 1887, that President Northrop made his great speech on agricultural education which helped to turn the tide and prevent the dismemberment of the institution. The real crisis in the situation was reached when the legislature of 1887 met; it seemed that nothing could prevent the separation of the agricultural college from the rest of the institution. Governor Pillsbury stepped in and offered to build a science building, now known as Pillsbury Hall, and donate it to the state, provided the legislature would put itself on record as being forever and irrevocably opposed to such separation. The question was settled for all time and it has never been a really live question since that date.

Three years prior to the beginning of the school of agriculture, 1885, the University had discovered Mr. Gregg and had started him on his institute work through the state. This service, rendered the cause of agriculture, undoubtedly had its weight in securing the final settlement of the question of the dismemberment in favor of maintaining the integrity of the institution.
The next great step forward was at the opening of the year 1888-89 when the college of law and the department of medicine with its three colleges, were established. Up to that time the institution had been really nothing but a college of liberal arts in which courses in engineering and agriculture were fostered and had come to have a nominally independent existence.

The problem, for practically the balance of President Northrop’s administration, was to keep pace with the rapid growth of the institution and to provide for the ever increasing flood of students that clamored for admission. With an average annual increase of something like two hundred students, the problem was no light one, but President Northrop’s wonderful hold on the people of the state, and their faith in him, made it possible to secure from the legislature support, which, though not wholly adequate, served to maintain the University and to enable it to make some real progress.

Beginning with the year, 1901, there came the creation of the board of control of state institutions. The University was brought under its supervision. The conditions of dual control were unendurable. The two boards, with the best of intentions to get along harmoniously, could not manage one institution and determined effort was made to have the law repealed. Two years went by and no attempt was made to put the law into force, because it was known that here was a question as to the constitutionality of the law and also it was known that the legislature did not really intend to include the University under the provisions of the law. But when the legislature of 1903 had had the matter up and, through political machinations, had been brought to decide against the release of the University, there was nothing to do but to bow gracefully to the inevitable and go to work to secure relief at the next session. This was done. The alumni and other friends of the University rallied to the support of Alma Mater and made themselves so insistent that a notable and overwhelming victory was won.

The need of the University for the support of its alumni was clearly demonstrated in 1901. Nobly did the alumni respond. A General Alumni Association, representing all departments of the University, was organized in 1904, and the alumni came to know and realize their responsibility for the welfare of the University. This arousing of the alumni in the interests of the University is a milestone that marked the beginning of bigger and better things.

The rapid growth of the institution had made proper provision for its support practically impossible. Salaries were inadequate and the campus was fast being crowded to its limits. There had been rapidly growing a feeling that a change must be made if the institution was to continue to serve the state as it should. In the year 1907 a determined campaign was made to secure for the University a liberal increase in current expense fund, in order to allow of a material increase in University salaries. The campaign was successful and a general raise of about 30 per cent was made in faculty salaries. This general raise had been supplemented since that date and now salaries average about 50 per cent. more than they did prior to 1907. The same year an effort was made to secure from the legislature money to secure a much needed addition to the campus. This campaign was likewise successful and the University received an appropriation of $450,000 which was supplemented two years later by an additional appropriation of $350,000 and in addition received contributions from citizens of Minneapolis amounting to $10,000, with which to purchase land practically doubling the size of the campus.

In December, 1909, President Northrop placed his resignation with the board of regents, to take effect when his successor should be elected and qualify. A successor was not chosen until a year later, when George Edgar Vincent, of the University of Chicago, was selected to fill the position. President Northrop remained in charge of the institution until the 1st of April, 1911, when he turned over the institution to his successor.

For five years President Vincent has been in charge. The record of these years is a wonderful record. President Vincent enjoys the loyal support of the people of the State. He has been able to bring about many desirable changes and has made University extension such a reality that the phrase—"A statewide campus," seems not unlikely to be realized. It is as yet too early to do more than indicate, as we have in the foregoing statement, that Minnesota has been fortunate in choosing a successor to President Northrop.

DESCRIPTION OF DEPARTMENTS.

The College of Science, Literature, and the Arts offers a four-year course of study leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts. The work is elective within certain limitations intended to secure a proper balance between breadth of foundation and liberal culture on the one hand and specialized training on the other.

In this college are given also the first two or three years of the combined courses leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Science or Bachelor of Arts and Doctor of Medicine; the two years of college work required for entrance to the Law School, and various non-professional subjects required in other schools and colleges of the University.

The College of Engineering and the Mechanic Arts offers courses of study, of five years each, in Civil, Mechanical, Electrical and Architectural Engineering and Architecture, leading to the degrees of Civil, Mechanical, Electrical and Architectural Engineer and Architect. The degrees of Bachelor of Science in Engineering and Bachelor of Science in Architecture are conferred at the end of the fourth year. This college also offers work in the Graduate School leading to the degree of Master of Science.

In the course in Civil Engineering, a period of five weeks is spent in camp. This summer survey work is required of all students in this course in the vacation following the junior year.

Excellent facilities exist in the college for practicing engineers to carry on graduate work in engineering and architecture.

The College of Agriculture offers four-year courses in Agriculture and Home Economics leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science. The work in Agriculture includes general courses in Agricultural Education, Agronomy and Farm Management, Dairy and Animal Husbandry and Horticulture. Special Agricultural Science Courses are also offered in Agricultural Chemistry, Entomology, Plant Pathology and Soils. The courses in Home Economics include a general course, a teacher's course in the general field of Home Economics and a special teacher's course in Textiles and Clothing.

The College offers to all students in Agriculture and Home Economics the courses necessary for the University Teachers' Certificate in preparation for teaching in secondary schools.

Graduate work is offered in all special lines of Agriculture. The special problems are, for the most part, correlated with work in the Experiment Station.

The Summer Session of the College of Agriculture begins about the middle of June and continues for six weeks. Courses are offered in Agriculture and Home Economics adapted to the needs of teachers and others not in attendance during the regular college session and also to regular students. The State Teachers' Training School is held at the same time and place.

The College of Forestry offers a four-year course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science. In addition to the work given at the University Farm, six months' work, two freshman and four junior, is given at Itasca State Park where a well-equipped demonstration forest is available as a laboratory. The college also controls a Forest Experiment Station at Cloquet, which offers a good field for graduate students and original research. Provision is made for graduate work in all the various lines of sylviculture and utilization.

The Schools of Agriculture offer three-year courses of study adapted especially to the needs and opportunities of farm boys and girls. They offer courses of special training for practical farm life and for practical home economics. The Central School is located at Saint Anthony Park; the Northwest School at Crookston, and the West Central School at Morris.

The Dairy School offers a five weeks' course of practical instruction in dairying, especially designed for those who are actually engaged in the manufacture of butter and cheese. (November and December.)

The Farmers' and Home-Makers' Week is held early in January. Instruction in Agriculture and Home Economics is offered in regular classes, important conferences are held and many agricultural organizations of the State hold their sessions at this time.

A Short Course for Veterinarians, one week in length, is held in February. Lectures are given by members of the State Live Stock Sanitary Board and by members of the staffs of the Division of Veterinary Medicine and other divisions of the College and clinical work is conducted by veterinarians of national reputation.

The School of Traction Engineering is a five weeks' course of practical instruction in the operation and handling of traction engines and other farm machinery. Engineer's licenses of different grades are given according to previous experience. (May.)

agriculture which are of interest to farmers. It is closely correlated with the College of Agriculture. Its object is the solution of agricultural problems of importance in Minnesota. It offers secondarily educational and research advantages to undergraduate and graduate students of the College of Agriculture. The main station is located at St. Anthony Park; substations are located at Crookston, Grand Rapids and Morris. Demonstration experimental farms are also located at Waseca and Duluth.

The Extension Work of the Department of Agriculture is correlated with the Farmers' Institute work and aims to bring to the farmers of the State information leading to the improvement of the farm and home. It reaches farmers by institutes, lectures, demonstrations, and demonstration farms, industrial and agricultural contests, a press bureau and by correspondence and personal visits.

The Law School offers a course covering a period of three academic years, leading to the degree of Bachelor of Laws. Candidates for admission to the Law School must have completed at least two years of work in the College of Science, Literature and the Arts of the University of Minnesota, or some other college or university of equal grade. A special pre-legal course of two years, covering those subjects which are particularly desirable as a preliminary to the study of law, is offered by the College of Science, Literature and the Arts. Seniors in that college are permitted to take the work of the first-year class in law and count the same as the equivalent of one year's work towards their Academic degree. This provision enables students to obtain the degree of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Laws in six years. The so-called "case system" method of teaching law, approved by the leading law schools of the country, is employed.

The Medical School is the only collegiate institution giving medical instruction in the State of Minnesota. Two years of college work equivalent to that of the College of Science, Literature and the Arts of this University, including certain specified subjects, are required for admission. The course in medicine includes four years of thirty-six weeks of laboratory, didactic and clinical work and a fifth year spent in clinical work in an approved hospital or in advanced laboratory studies in this school. All students are required to secure the B.S. or B.A. degree before receiving the M.D. degree.

The school offers the following courses of study:

(1) Course leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Science and Doctor of Medicine. Two years of properly selected work in the College of Science, Literature and the Arts or its equivalent, five years in the Medical School, viz., four years of graded study and one year in a hospital internship or in advanced laboratory studies or research.

(2) Course leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Doctor of Medicine. Students presenting three years of work properly selected in the College of Science, Literature and the Arts, including the required subjects mentioned, may elect the first year in medicine in their senior academic year, receiving the B.A. degree at its close, and the M.D. degree upon the successful completion of the remaining four years in medicine.

(3) The University School for Nurses, organized in connection with the University Hospital service, is under the control of the Faculty of the Medical School.

(4) Course for Embalmers. This is a six-weeks' course, the successful completion of which is accepted by the State Board of Health in lieu of examination for embalmers' license.

(5) Graduate and research work is offered to qualified students.

The College of Dentistry offers a three-year course of study, of nine months each, leading to the degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery.

One year of Academic work, including the following subjects, is recommended as a prerequisite to the Dental Course: Animal Biology, Technical Drawing, Physics, Economics.

The University now offers an optional six-year course of study. The first three years of the course are given in the College of Science, Literature and the Arts. The last three years are given in the College of Dentistry. It leads to the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Doctor of Dental Surgery at the end of the six-year course.

The College of Pharmacy offers a regular course extending over two years, leading to the degree Graduate in Pharmacy, and two graduate courses, the first requiring at least one additional year of resident work leading to the degree Pharmaceutical Chemist, and the second requiring two additional years of work leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Pharmacy.

The School of Mines offers three regular courses, namely, Mining Engineering, Mining Engineering (specializing in Geology), and Metallurgy, leading to the degrees of Engineer of Mines (E.M.), Engineer of Mines (in Geology) [E.M. (Geology)], and Metallurgical Engineer (Met.E.), respectively.

Courses in the school are designed for the purpose of preparing men to enter their profession with a thorough grounding in mathematics, in the sciences, and in the fundamental principles of mining engineering and metallurgy. A system of apprenticeship during summer vacations has been inaugurated. This work has become part of the curriculum and is required of all students who are candidates for degrees.

The School of Analytical and Applied Chemistry offers three courses. Two of these, the Analytical and the five-year course in Arts and Chemistry, are designed for those who wish to become teachers of chemistry, analysts and investigators. The four-year Analytical Course leads to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Chemistry, while the Arts and Chemistry Course leads to the degree of Bachelor of Arts after four years and Bachelor of Science in Chemistry at the end of the fifth.

The third or Applied Course extends over five years, leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science at the end of four years and Chemical Engineer at the end of the fifth. These courses aim to give the student a broad foundation in chemistry and some of the allied sciences.

The College of Education offers a practical and a theoretical training for prospective high-school teachers and principals, for principals of elementary schools, for supervisors of special studies, and for superintendents of school systems.

Students are admitted to the college only after the completion of at least two full years of college work, during which time they should have pursued at least one course in general psychology, and prospective high-school teachers should have given especial attention to one or more of the subjects which they expect to teach. The two-years' course of study, beginning with the junior year, leads to the degree of Bachelor of Arts in Education. A third year leads to the degree of Master of Arts, including advanced studies in education and philosophy, and in one or more of the subjects of the secondary curriculum, at the option of the candidate.

The Graduate School gathers into a single organization and unites for the purpose of administration all the activities of the University in all its schools and colleges in so far as they relate to advanced instruction offered for the second or higher degrees, viz., Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy, Master of Science and Doctor of Science. The privileges of this school are in general open to all who have received Bachelor's degrees from reputable colleges and universities, based on courses substantially equivalent to those at this University.

The University Summer Session is organized for six weeks in June and July under the authority of the Board of Regents as a regular part of the University. Courses carrying university credit, including all the subjects of the State professional certificates, are offered for college students, experienced teachers, and others who desire the opportunity for advanced study. Students may secure not more than six credits at one session.

Courses in Agriculture and Home Economics, for which university credit is given, are offered by the College of Agriculture.

Summer courses are offered also by the College of Engineering, the Medical School and the College of Dentistry.

Special Courses.—In practically all of the colleges, students of mature age and adequate preparation are permitted to pursue, under the direction of the Faculty, one or two distinct lines of study.

University Extension.—All extension work of the University of Minnesota has been established as an organic unit of the University under the title of Extension Service. The Extension Service of the University functions in two main lines and these two branches have been called the General Extension Division and the Agricultural Extension Division.

Correspondence Courses.—The University offers correspondence course in a number of lines.
From the very beginning, the alumni of the University and its various colleges have been organized. For many years an association existed which embraced the alumni of all the colleges. Later, as new colleges were organized the alumni of these colleges organized independent alumni associations and the older colleges gradually broke away from the first association and organized college associations. Finally the original association included only the graduates of the college of science, literature and the arts, and there was no body of alumni authorized to act for the alumni as a whole in matters of University interest.

The associations were all on an equal footing, so far as any strictly University matter was concerned.

The need of somebody, authorized to act for the united alumni bodies, in all matters of common interest, was recognized.

THE GENERAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED.

The necessity became acute in 1901 to 1903. The General Alumni Association was organized in 1904 to meet a crisis which existed through the creation of the Board of Control.

Representatives of the various college associations took part in framing the constitution—as representatives of those associations.

The constitution, thus framed, was submitted to the various college associations, and directors were elected by their respective associations before the constitution was finally adopted at the meeting called for that purpose.

The constitution provided that each association should be entitled to equal representation with every other association on the governing board of the General Alumni Association.

It followed, as a matter of course, that if this central association was to act, in matters of common interest, the college associations would naturally cease to act in such matters.

That is, they would cease to exercise certain functions which they had previously exercised in common with the other associations.

OBJECTS OF THE ASSOCIATION.

The objects of this association are—A—General—

1. To promote the welfare of the University by uniting the alumni and former students in its service, and to make the knowledge and good will of the alumni effective for the good of the University and that State.

2. To cultivate a fraternal spirit among the alumni of all departments and to keep them in touch with the University.

B—Among the specific objects of this Association are—

1. To furnish information desired by anyone concerning the University or any of the organizations connected therewith.
(2) To administer the life membership fund and to receive and disburse gifts made for objects connected with the University, such as lectureships, fellowships and scholarships.

(3) To keep alumni records up to date and to publish, from time to time, an alumni directory.

(4) To publish the Minnesota Alumni Weekly.

A revision of the constitution is now under way. The purpose of the revision is to provide—(1), For the election of a portion of the directors by direct letter ballot; (2), For the proposal of amendments by any group of alumni interested in securing a change.

The Association has 2,369 full paid life members and about 500 who are paying on the installment plan. These memberships have brought in something over $28,000, which are invested in mortgages. The income alone is used for the support of the work of the Association.

The Association publishes a paper—The Minnesota Alumni Weekly—which is one of seven weekly alumni publications in this country.

WHAT THE ASSOCIATION HAS DONE.

(1) Has brought about effective, concerted action of the alumni in behalf of the University.

(2) Has won the confidence and support of the people of the State by standing for full and free publicity in all matters affecting the University.

(3) Was the dominant factor in the campaign that secured the release of the University from the board of control supervision.

(4) Initiated the movement for the "greater campus" and helped to secure the necessary appropriations.

(5) Initiated the movement and was the chief factor in securing appropriations for putting salaries of the faculty on an approximately fair basis.

(6) Successfully fought the proposition to raise the Northern Pacific tracks; the raising of which would have done incalculable harm to the University.

(7) Has won recognition among the leading educators of the country as one of the most effective alumni associations.

The name of the institution by which it has been conferred follows the academic degree. The omission of it indicates that the degree was given by the University of Minnesota.

Numerals (1), (2), (3), (4) after college honors and officers indicate frosh., soph., jun. and senior years, respectively.

A star (•) after a name denotes that the individual is deceased. In every case in which the year of the deceased is known it is indicated at the right.

When an address appears in parenthesis it denotes that it is the last known address.

In case of an alumnus who holds more than one degree from the University of Minnesota, the full record and address are given only under the school from which he was first graduated, the name only being given in the records of subsequent degrees.

In the case of married women graduates, the name under which the degree was received is given first, with the married name immediately following in parenthesis.
