Snow Weekers Go a-Sleighing

By Sally Young

A sleigh ride will start off Minnesota's tenth annual salute to King Snow today.

The first sleigh will leave the Hippodrome entrance of the fair grounds at 7:30 p.m. Other sleighs will leave the Ag Union for hour rides at 8:30 and 9:30 p.m. All sleighs will return to the Ag Union where students can dance to juke box music in the second floor lounges or follow the square dance calls of Lloyd Meese in the game room.

The 30-cent tickets on sale in the Main and Ag campus Unions will cover the cost of the sleigh ride and dancing. Refreshments will be on sale in the Ag Union's cafeteria.

A winter sportsman's show starting at 10 a.m. in the Union main ballroom tops tomorrow's full slate of events.

Six Minneapolis sporting goods stores will exhibit skiing, skating and hockey equipment at the show, which will start at 10 a.m. in the Union main ballroom. Travel exhibits on winter sports areas including Aspen, Colo., and Sun Valley, Idaho, also will be set up at the show.

Les Gilbert, Arts senior, will comment on the winter sports outfits modelled by 10 men and 10 coeds at the style show from 3 to 4 p.m. tomorrow.

A surprise king and queen will be crowned winter sports rulers at the "Sno Sho" at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow night in the Union main ballroom. Ten student acts will appear in the show.

Right after the show coeds from campus organizations will show their prowess on snow shoes and members of campus men's organizations will pull their queen candidates in a dog sled race. Coeds and men also will stage a tug of war.

Shmoo buttons will admit students to all tomorrow's events. They are on sale at 25 cents each in the Postoffice, 214 Union and by salesmen on campus.

Friday, students will march through an igloo to the snow ball which begins at 9 p.m. in the Union main ballroom. Tickets at 90 cents are on sale in the Union main ticket office.

Ski-U-Mah To Get Sales Help Today

Ski-U-Mah's business staff will get some outside help in selling the January issue which is out today.

Members of six Main campus and two Ag campus organizations will take over the campus humor magazine's sales campaign.

Coeds from Kappa Kappa Gamma, Alpha Delta Pi and Phi Mu sororities, AWS and Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalism sorority, and members of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity will sell the magazine.

This month's issue covers a variety of campus activities and fiction.

Six campus leaders discuss "School Spirit: Past or Present?" in the magazine's lead article.

Snow week also gets a big play. Cartoonist Dick Stuck shows how to spend "Snow Week Indoors" in a four picture spread, and Dick Margolis tells about "Snow Week's Forgotten Hero" in his history of drute, hail and snow.

The profile of Bud Grant, the only Minnesota athlete to receive an "M Eleven Times," is done by James Wimbald.

Short stories include Gerald Kloss' "Popularity on Schedule" and Patrick Clepper's "Innocence, Abroad."

Scientists, Journalists Map Drive for Clarity

The University will play host to a conference on atomic energy for newspaper editors and science reporters tomorrow, Friday and Saturday.

Purpose of the conference is to encourage better reporting and interpretation of atomic energy information. The conference is open only to selected reporters and editors who write and edit science stories.

Tomorrow's sessions at the Center for Continuation Study will be devoted to discussions of basic atomic energy problems. Speakers include Dr. J. W. Buchta, chairman of the department of physics; Dr. John T. Tate, research professor of physics; Dr. Alfred O. C. Nier, professor of physics.

David Dietz, science editor of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, will discuss "Gathering and Writing the News on Atomic Energy" at tomorrow's session. Dr. Ralph D. Casey, director of the School of Journalism, will preside.

Dr. Quincy Wright, professor of international law at the University of Chicago will speak on "The International Control of Atomic Energy" at the Saturday morning session. Gideon Seymour, executive editor of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune will preside.

The conference is sponsored by the department of physics and the School of Journalism in cooperation with the Atomic Information Problems committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Oppose Bias But Need Time—Greeks

By Ed Magnuson

"We are opposed to discriminatory clauses. But we need more time to get rid of them by our own actions."

That, in effect, is what fraternity and sorority leaders told the Senate committee on student affairs last night on the subject of discriminatory clauses in fraternity and sorority constitutions.

The fraternity and sorority representatives said much progress had been made by their groups in creating sentiment against restrictive provisions. They outlined further educational steps they plan to take nationally and on campus.

If these steps are not effective within a reasonable time, perhaps compulsory action by the University may be necessary, they said.

Virginia Buffington, Panhellenic president, said only four of its 20 member sororities have restrictive clauses.

"Fifty-six per cent of the members of those four sororities favor getting rid of such clauses," she said. "Of these, 61 per cent favor doing so through the national organization."

Miss Buffington said a human relations council was set up by the Panhellenic association in 1947 to conduct an education campaign on discrimination.

James Morris, Interfraternity council president, presented a list of the council's future plans for progress on the problem. It included working with other college intrafraternity councils, alumni groups, a human relations council and informal discussion on campus.

"We intend to continue exploring until we have to give up or a satisfactory solution is reached," he said.

Only two professional sororities have restrictive clauses, according to Joan Coursolle, Interprofessional sorority council president.

Lief Erickson, president of Phi Phi Chi, expressed the belief that restrictive clauses are not very important.

"As long as only a few members can blackball a prospective member, what is the difference whether there are limitations in the council," he asked.

A resolution calling for a Senate committee stand against accepting new fraternal groups having discriminatory clauses was presented by Al France, committee member. The resolution would not affect organizations already recognized by the committee.

The resolution met with opposition from the fraternity and sorority officers.

Arts Dean Is Tomorrow's Convo Guest

T. Raymond McConnell, dean of the College of Science, Literature and the Arts, will speak at Convocation tomorrow on "The Struggle for Recovery in Western Europe."

Dean McConnell returned several weeks ago from a five-month tour of Europe where he made a study of English colleges for the Carnegie corporation. He also toured the Netherlands, Belgium, France and Italy.

Convocation will begin at 11 a.m. in Northrop auditorium, and will be broadcast over KUOM. Arthur B. Jennings, University organist, will give an organ recital at 10:30 a.m.

NSA to Hold Union Forum On Projects

An open forum on National Student association projects will be held at 7 p.m. tomorrow in 320 Union.

Dick Lindgren, campus NSA chairman, said yesterday he has invited members of the All-University congress, the NSA committee and interested students to attend.

The meeting will open with a 15 minute recording from national headquarters explaining the general purposes of NSA Projects relating to the University will then be discussed.

Such projects include special rates for student trips abroad, intercollegiate debates, exchanges of student art exhibits and a student purchase card system.

The purchase card system would provide for student discounts at cooperating business places. Students purchase a card for $1 from the NSA and the card entitles them to certain discounts.

"Clothing, department and jewelry stores, theaters and restaurants are included in the plan, which already is in operation at some colleges," Lindgren said. "Discounts have ranged from 10 to 20 per cent."

Bob Wiegant, NSA member at Augsburg college, will explain how the purchase card system operates at Augsburg.

Lindgren said he hopes the meeting will determine which of its programs it should work on.

"We want to find out just what NSA can do for the students on this campus," he added.

Plastic Presents

Engineers Mold Golf Tees, Trays

By Bob Krauss

Losing golf tees doesn't bother Mechanical Engineering students anymore. They make them in class.

They make golf tees, candle sticks, humidors, ash trays and coasters for glasses in ME 17. What's HEAT AND PRESSURE are about to be applied to the mold held by Waldemar Schumacher, Technology senior (foreground). When he opens the mold after taking it out of the compressor, he'll have a plastic ash tray. Dale Merrick, Technology junior, stands in the background examining an ash tray and a humidor made earlier in the laboratory.

more, the course is required for all Mechanical Engineers.

The idea isn't to give these students a chance to save on Christmas presents. ME 17 is the last in a sequence of courses in processes and materials. Students learn the methods of plastic fabrication and make-up and maintenance of fabrication equipment.

The course was initiated eight years ago by Fulton Holtby, associate professor of mechanical engineering, when he foresaw the industrial importance of plastics and the need for personnel trained in handling it.

Fabrication simply means taking plastic material—it comes in powder, sheet, rod and liquid form—and making a finished product out of it. Holtby designed most of the laboratory equipment used to teach the basic methods of fabrication.

"Humidors, ash trays, test cups and coasters," explains Robert Stenger, Mechanical Engineering instructor who supervises most of the laboratory sections, "are fabricated by compression molding. Plastic powder is poured into a mold, heated and compressed. The heat and compression cause a chemical reaction that forms the hard, brittle material."

Candle sticks are fabricated by what is called bending and forming. You just take a strip of plastic, heat it so that it becomes soft, bend it into the shape desired and let it cool.

Students in the class have an opportunity to practice fabricating plastics by each one of these and other methods.

Acheson Wins Senate Approval

Compiled from United Press Reports

By Tom Kelly

The Senate confirmed Dean G. Acheson as secretary of state yesterday with a vote of 83 to 6. The senate's approval came after Sen. Arthur N. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) warned that President Truman will be held strictly accountable for Acheson's future performance.

The six senators who voted against Acheson's appointment were all Republicans.

Vandenberg, GOP foreign policy spokesman in the senate, fully endorsed Acheson. But he was obviously irked that Mr. Truman didn't consult GOP leaders in advance on the appointment. Vandenberg made clear that the overwhelming vote for the suave, 55-year-old diplomat didn't mean the GOP is ready to "underwrite the results in terms of foreign policy."

Britain plans to release Jews . . .

. . . of military age held in Cyprus, Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin told the house of commons yesterday. He said also that Britain is considering the question of recognizing the provisional government of Israel.

On the plea that "delicate" armistice discussions are in progress between Israel and Egypt, Bevin was excused for the time being from making a full statement on Palestine.

There are about 11,000 Jews in Cyprus. They were detained there as illegal immigrants to Palestine before the British mandate ended. About 7,000 to 8,000 are of military age. Britain has held that to send men of military age to Israel would be a violation of the truce.

All public meetings of the Communist party . . .

. . . in the Ruhr were banned yesterday. The action came after 800 Communists singing the "Internationale" pushed and elbowed their way into the courthouse where Max Reimann, their chief, was being tried for threatening pro-western Germans.

The order was issued by the British military government which postponed Reimann's trial until Jan. 27. It was postponed, not because of the demonstrations, but, to allow his defense time to prepare its case.

Postponement of the trial put Reimann in a conquering hero's role with his followers. And after scattering leaflets protesting his innocence they put him on their shoulders and carried him two miles through the streets to party headquarters.

The Chinese Communists gathered troops . . .

. . . and artillery from captured Tientsin for an all-out assault on Peiping yesterday. It also appeared they have opened their long-expected drive on Hankow.

Nanking, seat of the Nationalist government, was plunged into gloom when it became known that Russia had joined the United States, Britain and France in refusing China's request for mediation of the civil war. The cabinet was reported to favor opening peace talks with the Communists despite harshness of the Communist terms.

A truckload of Peiping civic leaders, brandishing a white flag, drove out of the city's west gate yesterday to meet Communist Gen. Yeh chien-Ying in hopes of making a truce. Neutral quarters expected Yeh to demand the surrender of the defending Nationalist armies.

An ambulance and food convoy . . .

. . . will move through the Israeli army lines in southern Palestine tomorrow. The United Nations supervised convoy will take supplies and medical aid to the 2,000 Egyptian troops besieged in the Faluja pocket, it was announced in Tel Aviv yesterday.

The dispatch of the convoy will be the first fruit of the Israeli-Egyptian negotiations on the island of Rhodesia for an armistice in southern Palestine.

It was announced in Beirut, Lebanon, also that Israeli forces had evacuated five out of 12 Lebanese villages which they occupied in October. They took the villages in an offensive against the Arab forces of Fawzi el-Kawkji.

Clerk of the Senate.

COMMITTEE ON UNIVERSITY HONORS
On the recommendation and with the approval of the Administrative committee of the University Senate, President Morrill has discontinued the separate committees on honorary degrees, University medals, and the naming of University buildings, and has combined their functions under a new committee on University honors. The members of this committee are as follows:
Professor William Anderson, chairman;
Dean C. H. Bailey, Dean T. C. Blegen,
Professor Frank H. MacDougall, Dr. Irvine McQuarrie, Dr. E. W. McDiarmid,
Dr. M. M. Willey.

All members of the staff are invited to make recommendations for the committee's consideration. It would conduce to efficiency. If all recommendations were addressed to the chairman, fully documented, and with a sufficient number of copies for the committee. The next meeting will take place early in the winter quarter.
All recommendations of the committee are submitted to the Administrative Committee and by it to the Board of Regents for final action. The following standards approved by the Regents should be kept in mind:
"Honorary degrees may be conferred upon those who have achieved distinction in scholarship or public service. To receive an honorary degree from the University of Minnesota one must be: (a) an author of some original work of such character as to leave no doubt as to his learning, his attainment, and his literary ability as a writer, and he must hold an honorable position in some university or college either in this country or abroad; or (b) a man of acknowledged eminence in art, literature or science, or in the professions, or in public service, who has contributed by his services to the advancement of art, literature, science or public welfare."

University medals of two types have been authorized. These are Builders of the Name medals for "selected individuals." The committee feels that for reasons of policy it should follow the established practice of not recommending for University honors any person, however meritorious, who is currently a member of the University staff.
William Anderson,
214 Nicholson hall.

Cage Staff Cautious About Hoosier Tilt

By Hank Kehborn

Hal Olson
Gopher Guard

The consensus is that Minnesota's basketball team will handle Indiana in royal style.

That's not the case with the Gopher coaching staff. Ozzie Cowles and assistant Joe Vancisin view the Indiana game with more than a bit of caution.

Vancisin, who has scouted the Hoosiers, reports, "Indiana has a tough team—very tough. They have speed at every position and have improved 100 per cent defensively since last season."

The Gopher's chief scout was high in praise of the ability of Bill Garrett, Don Ritter, Bill Tosheff, Lou Watson, Tom Schwartz and Gene Ring.

That, to put it bluntly, is the Indiana squad that will face the Gophers in Saturday night's battle.

Garrett received special attention from Vancisin. "The boy can jump like a jackrabbit and is really fast," he said. The sophomore star in the Hoosier lineup specializes in a one-handed push shot that connects with amazing accuracy.

On behalf of the cellar-dwelling Hoosiers of last year, it can be recalled that they lost six basketball games by margins of five points or less. Two of these were one-point thrillers to Illinois. Minnesota fell before a 65 to 43 onslaught.

Yesterday Cowles gave the cagers a well-earned rest after the victorious road trip. The "Big Five" took things easy with a light workout before the hard grind for the visiting Hoosiers begins. Jerry Mitchell and Hal Olson, the two guards, held five opposing forwards to four field goals in 34 attempts in the Iowa game.

Rangers Tip Nymph Five

A 22 point spurt in the first half gave the Iron Rangers a 29 to 20 victory over the Nymphs in an intramural basketball game last night.

Bob Farrell and Will Viitala each hit the hoop for eight points for the winners. Ron Kostakos was high for the Nymphs with eight counters.

Sparked by George Merrick's 12 points the Beta Theta Pi dumped Lambda Chi Alpha, 33 to 23.

Merrick scored 10 of his points in the last half. His contribution enabled the victors to pull away after a 6 to 5 half time lead. Ron Nongeau meshed the nets for 10 points in pacing Lambda Chi.

Cage Tickets Sold Out

All tickets for Saturday's Minnesota-Indiana basketball game are sold out, athletic ticket manager Tom Swain announced yesterday. This includes public sale and student-faculty exchange tickets. The Fieldhouse gates will open at 6 p.m. for the game.

Matmen Ride Five Game Win Streak

The Gopher mat team will be after its sixth straight win Saturday night when it wrestles Iowa State immediately following the Minnesota-Indiana basketball game in the Fieldhouse.

Dave Bartelma's wrestlers returned home yesterday with four road victories under their belts. That, coupled with Minnesota's home win over Carleton, gives the Gophers their undefeated record.

Minnesota opened up the trip by whipping Colorado State, 15 to 11. They won over University of Colorado and Denver by identical 22 to 6 scores and finished off Nebraska, 19 to 8.

The big surprise of the trip was the Gophers' Vern Gagne being held to a draw by Mike DiBiase of Nebraska. Gagne led his opponent by two points going into the final period but DiBiase, a 220-pound football guard, rallied to gain the draw.

25 Freshman Pucksters Resume Outdoor Drill

The freshmen hockey squad finally started to roll this week.

The yearlings had resumed their conditioning workouts Monday night although Jim Magnus, frosh puckster coach, was with the varsity in Rochester. Yesterday Magnus returned and ran the squad through several workouts prior to choosing the forward lines.

At present the squad numbers about 25 men.

Ebb Leads 'Mural Keglars

Paul Ebb, rolling for House IV, led the intramural bowlers with a 542 series last night.

Ebb rolled the high game of the night when he turned a 222 effort and aided his team to a three-game sweep.

Sioux Next For U Six

By Stu Baird

Joe Silovich
NDU Defense

The Minnesota hockey team will be out for the scalps of the University of North Dakota's Fighting Sioux when the teams meet Friday and Saturday at Grand Forks.

The Dakotans are expected to provide Doc Romnes' crew with plenty of competition, since they twice defeated a strong Colorado college six by scores of 5 to 3 and 6 to 3.

Michigan Tech, which dropped two games to the Gophers over the weekend, handed the Sioux one of their two defeats this season. However, this game was played under extremely poor weather conditions, and does not constitute a satisfactory yardstick of measurement.

In an effort to improve Sioux scoring punch, Coach Don Norman has wing Jimmy Medved working on both lines. Medved is heralded as one of the best playmakers in college hockey.

Joe Silovich, former University athlete, is also expected to give the Gophers plenty of trouble. "Joltin' Joe" draws a lot of penalties for his work on the blue line, but he's a top-notch performer when he's out of the cooler.

SAE Wins, 54-3; No Goals for Foe

Intramural basketball produced a shutout from the field last night. Sigma Alpha Epsilon (Purple) held Delta Sigma without a field goal while winning, 54 to 3.

Three free throws in the first half were the extent of the Delta Sigma scoring. The SAE's outscored the Delta Sigs 34 to 0 in the last half.

Leading the SAE attack was Jack Leppla with 16 points. He received able assistance from Mick Hill with 12 and Dave LaVine with 11 counters.

In another game, Glenwood exhibited well-rounded scoring punch in rolling to a 59 to 39 win over the 405 Club.

Al Blom led the Glenwood scoring parade with 21 points. Bud Hausken and John Benson each contributed 12 points, and Rich Mundinger dropped in 10.

Frosh Drill Sub Cagers

Coach Joe Vancisin's freshman basketball team met the varsity reserves yesterday in a surprise scrimmage.

A total of eight frosh took part in their first scrimmage to date. They found tough competition in the reserves.

Bill Bliss was impressive at a forward spot. He hit the target on several shots while in the game. John Maxson looked rugged as a pivot man. His defensive play also stood out as he guarded big Jerry Ekberg and Ed Johanson.

Also starting were guards Virg Miller and Bill Holmes and forward Ken McGonagle.

Art Anderson relieved Maxson at center and also looked good at rebounding. Bill Tierney and Gene Schlee were the other frosh playing.

Faunce Talks With Packer Coach Today

Ev Faunce, Gopher halfback, will confer with Coach Curley Lambeau of the Green Bay Packers today in Chicago. Talk is expected to center around Faunce's draft status.

Both the Packers of the National league and the Baltimore Colts of the All American conference have draft rights to the Gopher star.

Frosh Boxers Loom As All-U Surprises

Freshmen fighters may provide the surprises in the all-University boxing tournament starting Tuesday.

Last year freshman Dave Mackey scored the biggest upset in the all-U with a TKO victory over letterman Bob Provost to show the freshmen how it's done.

Six of this season's promising frosh prospects, signed up for the all-U, will try to emulate Mackey's performance of last year—three of them in Mackay's own bantam-weight class.

Acacia Thumps Theta Xi, 20-2

Acacia turned in the defensive gem of the night in dumping Theta Xi 20 to 2 in an intramural basketball game.

The Acacia five held Theta Xi to a point in each half to win going away. Vern Gallagher and Kermit Holden solved the defensive bulwark for a free throw each.

In another low scoring game Sigma Alpha Epsilon (gold), although held scoreless in the second half, edged Alpha Delta Phi, 9 to 8.

The three bantams, Neil Ofsuthun, Bob O'Ryan and Sam Lia, are all dangerous punchers and capable of springing an upset.

In the senior welterweight division Larry Wilson can make the going rough for Captain Dick Newburg. The fast-punching freshman has the style to bother an aggressive fighter like Newburg, who keeps boring in on his opponent.

The brother combination of Dick and Ron Raveling will both be darkhorses in their respective divisions. Dick is a capable opponent for light-heavy Bob Kelson, and younger but bigger brother Ron can push heavyweights Russ Gangestad or Floyd Jaszewski.

SKUM May Face Decision

EVER SINCE Ski-U-Mah put on long pants and threw out its columns of smutty jokes, the magazine has been a white elephant on campus newsstands.

Today the courageous staff will try again; but the result will probably be the same.

And so, Ski-U-Mah—midway in its third year of financial losses—may be on the way out.

The reason? Well, that's a little hard to figure. The Associated Collegiate Press judges have consistently rated it in the top five college magazines; on occasion, they have even suggested that Ski-U-Mah's "mature" tone should be the goal of other such magazines.

But this kind of endorsement hasn't meant anything to students; and they haven't been buying.

One of the reasons they haven't—according to a survey made by the journalism school's research division—is that few people are given the chance. Only 16 per cent of the students were asked to buy the November issue.

But another reason is that students probably don't like the kind of stuff offered in the magazine. Otherwise many of them would buy it whether they were asked or not.

So if Ski-U-Mah's attempts to offer more people a chance to buy don't boost the sales into the money-making bracket, the magazine must face the decision it's been trying to avoid: either start printing dirty jokes again, or else die a quiet death.

Coincidence Of the Month

From New Yorker, Jan. 8, 1949

DARK ABYSS, by Clifford Knight (Dutton). One of those homicidally inclined young women featured so prominently in current mystery fiction finds herself in an embarrassing spot when her husband's body is mislaid after it has had a brief sojourn in a deep freeze. Things go from bad to worse for the lady, a resident of Palm Springs, particularly after the inevitable blackmailer bobs up to complicate her schemes. Standard stuff, sleekly presented.

From the Minneapolis Tribune, Jan. 16, 1949

In DARK ABYSS, by Clifford Knight (Dutton, $2.50), one of those homicidally inclined young women who show up so frequently in current mystery fiction finds herself in an embarrassing spot when somebody steals her husband's body. Things keep going from bad to worse for the woman until it appears that she has herself in such a fix that she can never get out of it. She never does, either.

Apathy Club Meets

By Arnie Sawislak

★ LAST NIGHT I went to an irregularly unscheduled meeting of the Apathy club. The club meets when and where ten or more members happen to be in the same place at the same time.

J. Noonan Utica, proclaimed president of the club last year when no one but himself showed up for the election, called the meeting to order. No one paid attention to him. He proceeded, content that everything was as it should be.

Utica asked for the reading of the minutes. Reinhold Harcourt, the secretary protested that it had only been six weeks since the last meeting, and who did they think he was to have to take minutes when the rest of the fellows didn't have to do anything.

Harcourt's statement started a small argument among the membership. Some of the fellows saw things Har's way, and by gosh they were ready to defend his right to do nothing. Some of the other members couldn't see it that way saying that since Har was nuts enough to take the job of secretary, well, by heck, let him suffer and learn not to be so eager. The whole thing was dropped when Utica asked for a vote. By that time no one was interested in the whole sordid mess.

Utica then announced that he would read communications received since the last meeting. The first was a letter from a brother in the Army, who complained about the poor state of apathy where he was.

Too tired by this time to carry on, Utica turned the meeting over to the vice president, E. V. Caldwell, who opened the question to discussion.

Most of the fellows, as far as could be told, seemed to be against the whole idea. One of the boys was very incensed about it and stood up to talk.

"Them Bitters is a bunch of Rah-Rah boys. Just because they think they're bitter about things going on around here, they think they can be apathetic too. Why, that bunch even has membership drives! My brother went Bitter last quarter and I ain't spoke to him since. I want to tell you guys if we have anything to do with them, they'll have us working on committees inside two weeks. Hear me? Committees!"

The last person to exert himself was Ed Rhodas, who has been a general college sophomore for six years and is generally accepted as the Most Apathetic Man on Campus. Rhodas recalled the time when the club had stretched a point and co-sponsored a speech with the Social Significance club, and the Apathy members had actually been expected to collect tickets at the door. And there had even been a request for them to sell the damn things.

That did it. The aroused membership mumbled a unanimous vote that the Bitter club's request be sent back with no regrets.

"Doc says I'm s'posed to clean your teeth."

Ski-U-Mah Tries For More Sales

By J. F. Henderson

★ SKI-U-MAH is on sale today. And "sale" is the word to use. That's because this month's issue is probably the most thorough—and most desperate—attempts at sales that a Ski-U-Mah staff has put out in quite some time.

It still doesn't have a joke column, understand, but there are at least two, and maybe three, contributions that should be good for laughs from almost anybody.

One of these is "We Took to the City," by Olga Hawke. This is a well done satire on the "Egg and I" type of thing.

Gene Jordan also gets some laughs with his "Women, Wax and War," a story of army maneuvers at the University around the turn of the century.

"Snow Week's Forgotten Hero" by Dick Margolis is reminiscent of the slapstick Shulman tradition. It will amuse some, disgust others.

The rest of the magazine, while not so funny, is, nevertheless, aimed at interesting large parts of the campus. There's an article on sports, one on agricultural science, a profile of a faculty member and panel discussion on school spirit.

The sports article is a personality piece on Bud Grant by Jim Wimbald. It seems vague in some places, but does a fairly good job.

Sid Levin, in the science article, gives a compact account of what the Ag campus has turned out in the way of miracles.

Dave Farkell's piece on E. W. Ziebarth is one of the better offerings. After a slow start, it does a good job on the fabulous man.

The magazine's fiction for this article comes from Jerry Kloss, as usual, and Pat Clepper. Neither story is outstanding, but both will be liked by some.

Music Fetler Skill Heard in USymphony

By R. H. Myers
 Daily Music Critic

★ THE CONCERT of the University Symphony orchestra under Dr. Paul Oberg's direction, programmed, among others, the first and last movements of Paul Fetler's Symphony No. 1.

Fetler, a new instructor in music, showed skill in using both form and orchestral color. The first movement, reflective in tone, seemed rather sectional but still impressive. A strongly rhythmed last movement used rondo form to recall themes of previous movements. A performance of the whole work is certainly called for.

The Couperin-Milhaud Overture and Allegro from "La Sultane" opened the program. Displaying the fine body of sound the orchestra can produce, the composition lacked any real climax.

The "Romeo and Juliet" Overture - Fantasy of Tchaikovsky completed the orchestral portion of the program. If tentative in spots, Oberg and the orchestra came through in fine style.

The orchestra, as constituted this year, has good brass and wood-wind sections, but the strings seem overbalanced most of the time. Both Oberg and the orchestra have shown amazing improvement over the years.

Artur Cavara, tenor soloist last night, sang "Cielo e Mar" by Ponchielli, "Celeste Aida" by Verdi, and two Wagner Arias.

Flails Trial of Communist Leaders

To the Editor:

The trial of the 12 leaders of the Communist party, scheduled for Jan. 17 in New York, is a clear manifestation of the well-engineered anti-democratic trend increasingly imposed on us.

Yet this trial and its meaning may be lost to us temporarily because too few people know about it and those people may not understand its implications.

What does the indictment say? The defendants are charged with violating the advocacy section of the Smith Act of 1940 by conspiring to advocate the teaching of Marxism-Leninism. This, the Blue Ribbon grand jury that brought the indictment says, teaches the necessity of overthrowing the government by force and violence. They conspired to do this by re-forming the Communist party in 1945 and acting as its leaders from that time until the date of the indictment, the jury added.

Contrary to the grand jury's allegation of teaching force and violence we have the statement of Attorney General Clark of last spring that the Communist party could not be prosecuted under any of the existent federal statutes. There is also the decision of the United States supreme court in Schneiderman vs United States (1942), holding that the use of force and violence is only predicted under a certain situation in future time, to thwart reactionaries opposing the democratic will of the majority.

Finally, there is the constitution of the CPUSA itself which provides for expulsion of any member advocating or plotting the use of violence to overthrow this government or any of its institutions.

Thus we can see at once that something new has been added to the methods of political persecution. Formerly, political dissenters were brought to trial, not as now for their thoughts, but for some criminal act they had not done, like Joe Hill for murder, Sacco and Vanzetti for armed robbery and murder, Mooney for bomb-throwing, and so on.

But now as we see, the supposedly impartial and Olympian majesty of the law is brought to bear on political thoughts as such. This is designed for the same political end, with the addition that it is less crude and obvious and will set the so-called anti-Communist "liberal" to cheering our democratic processes. Whichever way you butter it, it's still a frame-up if you examine the evidence available.

Some people feel no stake whatever in this trial. It's not their concern, they say. At this point, they mistake the situation.

Say that by this trial, "communist" thought is defined and made criminal. Our hypothetical man will say, "So what! I'm not a communist!" But he doesn't realize that for any dissenting (and therefore "communist") political, social, or economic thought that he may utter in the future, the very same treatment will be accorded him.

In one sense the damage has already been done—that a trial of this nature could be cooked up. But this damage is trivial compared to a conviction, if that is the result, and all but a very few will bear the future damage of that result.

So realize your stake in this trial, however remote it may at first appear to you. Realize its role in our disappearing democracy and make your protest heard.

Write Attorney General Clark, protesting this trial and demand that he quash the indictment. Urge the government to prosecute crimes, not the doctrines of a political party. Only history and our will in making it will determine the validity of political doctrine.
