DULUTH -- Ten UMD student-directed one-act plays -- five each night -- will be presented at 8 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday (March 8-9) in Old Main Auditorium (23rd Ave. E. & 5th St.).

The first night's program and the directors include:

"If Men Played Cards as Women Do" by George S. Kaufman, directed by Susan C. Klosowsky of Duluth.

"Talk to Me Like the Rain and Let Me Listen" by Tennessee Williams, directed by Nancy A. Otos of Duluth.

"The Happy Journey to Trenton and Camden" by Thornton Wilder, directed by Karen L. Johnson of Carlton.

"The Baby" by Wolf Mankowitz, directed by Bonnie Dolin of Biwabik.

"Where the Cross Is Made" by Eugene O'Neill, directed by Russell Goad of Wrenshall.

The Saturday schedule:

"This Property Is Condemned" by Tennessee Williams, directed by Vicky Hugdahl of Cromwell.

"The Children's Story" by James Clavell and George Selden, directed by Diane Bean of Duluth.

"The Lady of Larkspur Lotion" by Tennessee Williams, directed by John Servaty of Hoyt Lakes.

"Illuminati in Drama Libre" by Alice Gerstenberg, directed by Georgia Mechon of Ely.

"Duetto" directed by Ronald Pogue of St. Paul.

The plays are a product of Speech 74, a class in Fundamentals of Stage Direction taught by Robert Rence, assistant professor of speech and associate director of the UMD Theater.

The plays are free to the public.
