

1994 ANNUAL REPORT • MINNESOTA LANDSCAPE ARBORETUM

*The mission of the Minnesota Landscape
Arboretum, as part of the University of Minnesota, is to provide education in horticulture and landscape design; to develop and evaluate plants for Minnesota and the Upper Midwest; and to inspire and delight visitors with quality plants in well-designed,

From the President

Like prior years, 1993-94 was marked by significant accomplishments at the Arboretum, and it presented new challenges as well. The excellent weather showed off the gardens and exhibits to great advantage and resulted in a substantial increase in the number of visitors. We are always pleased when more people enjoy the pleasure of the Arboretum.

Last June, Orchid Lights was a smash hit! Joan Hutton, Sally Matthieu and their dedicated committee put on the most successful event in its seven-year history. Despite threatening skies, over 400 people attended and socialized in the gardens, bid at a wonderful silent auction, and enjoyed a marvelous dinner. University of Minnesota President Nils Hasselmo attended the event and recognized Arboretum supporter Olivia Dodge for her generous support of the Sensory Garden and Horticultural Therapy Program Center.

We are extremely grateful for the gift of the Dayton Family to the Arboretum to upgrade the Grace B. Dayton Wildflower Garden, named in honor of the donors' mother. This generous gift will allow a substantial upgrade in the wildflower garden and provide for its maintenance through the years.

This year we completed the renovation of Three-Mile Drive as a result of a partnership between members of the construction industry, led by Leonard Hoeft and Ziegler, Inc., and Arboretum members who supported the Pot-Hole Campaign last year.

Much remains to be done. We are still concerned with the protection of the boundaries of the Arboretum. In that regard, the Legislative Commission on Minnesota Resources recommended that the Legislature award a matching grant to the Arboretum Foundation to acquire 30 acres along Highway 41. This grant needs to be matched by $500,000 of Arboretum funds. Currently we are negotiating to acquire this property, and efforts are being undertaken to raise the necessary matching funds.

The importance of boundary issues continues to be a focus of the Board of Trustees. In addition to this issue, the Board is working on developing a five-year plan to set our agenda for the future and establish priorities for the years ahead.

Finally, I need to thank many people for their contributions; the Board of Trustees for their time and effort; and our members and donors for their continued interest and support. Also, I wish to offer a special word of thanks to the many volunteers who are so important to maintaining the quality of our Arboretum, to the Friends of Andersen Library, and to the members of the Arboretum Auxiliary for their financial and programmatic support throughout the year.

As we emerge from one of the Arboretum's best years ever, it is important to look at how we position ourselves for the future. A summer leave in England, spent taking an eight-week course in botanic garden management, has brought my thinking together in several areas. Our direction, which will lead us to world-class status as an institution, evolves out of six issues.

PROTECTING OUR INVESTMENT. In order to move forward we must protect our land and botanical resources, our buildings and gardens, and our capital investments. We will protect the Arboretum's land holdings by purchasing properties that directly affect our research projects, gardens and natural areas. We will work with surrounding communities to lessen the aesthetic and environmental impact of development. We will protect our buildings, structures and gardens with a well-defined and funded repair and restoration schedule. We will protect our capital investments through an Arboretum-wide plan for maintenance and replacement.

EDUCATION AS EMPOWERMENT OF THE INDIVIDUAL. We will work to develop a K-12 science education program with the Chaska School District (#112), creating a model of an integrative, hands-on learning experience for children. The program will empower students through the use of a creative problem-solving process as well as basic knowledge. Our adult programs will apply a holistic, systematic and integrative approach to helping people create their own futures. The adult programs will also use creative problem-solving as a basic tool, and we will demonstrate multiple models for the realization of personal goals. Further, the Arboretum will empower its own staff through education and training, keeping in mind the goal of service to the public.

FOCUS ON THE URBAN ECOSYSTEM. The Arboretum's research and outreach efforts will focus on understanding the urban/suburban ecosystem in which most of us live. We will develop plants that will withstand the many stresses of our environment, both from a cultural perspective (what people want to plant) and from a systems perspective (maintaining a functional balance of flora and fauna in the ecosystem).

CONSERVATION: LOCAL TO INTERNATIONAL. We will join our sister institutions around the world in conserving the vast array of plants on earth. In particular we will join forces with botanic gardens in cold climates, especially those in developing nations. We will also work to conserve the natural systems within and around our property and to protect the threatened species of northern climates.

OPENING OPPORTUNITIES FOR EVERYONE. Most people in Minnesota, in the Twin Cities and even in the towns surrounding the Arboretum do not know why we are here. We will develop a marketing and public relations plan to bring people to the Arboretum to learn and be inspired. Moreover we will take the Arboretum to the people through off-site programs, publications and expanded media contact.

FUNDING THE FUTURE. No future is possible without substantial, reliable funding sources. The Arboretum's funding sources will include the University (our funding base), earned income through expanded cottage industries, charitable giving through legacies, deferred giving and endowment, and collaboration in educational programs, research efforts, membership campaigns and events.

This is a tall order, but as our plans become more focused and comprehensive, they also become more realistic and therefore fundable. Our future beams brighter, the opportunities wider and the challenges clearer.

Peter J. Olin

Director, Minnesota Landscape Arboretum

In December 1992, the Department of Horticultural Science underwent an external review. Out of this process came a mandate for the Arboretum to strengthen its research program. In 1993-94 a committee of researchers at the Arboretum and Horticultural Research Center established four major goals for research at the Arboretum. Many initiatives are underway to meet these goals.

I. Examine the ways people perceive and are affected by the plants in their environment.

Dr. Anne Hanchek, director of education, is collaborating with Dr. Ken Doyle, School of Journalism and Mass Communications, to learn more about the psychology of human response to flowers. She conducted a survey of members' use and perception of the prairie and learned that occasional visitors placed a greater value on the historical context of the prairie than did frequent visitors.

Jean Larson, coordinator of the Horticultural Therapy Program, is looking at how caring for plants affects mental and physical health. Preliminary results indicate that gardening activity has benefited several aspects of health in the test population.

II. Maintain coordinated research programs dealing with acquisition, evaluation, breeding, culture, physiology, and use of plants.

Dr. David Davis, a plant breeder, evaluates different lines of sweet corn for resistance to or tolerance of insects, pests, diseases and weeds. Dr. Emily Hoover, a partner in a multi-state research project on apple rootstocks, is attempting to extend the range of marginally hardy apple cultivars. She also assesses the use of cover crops in strawberry production systems and the effectiveness of non-toxic pest-control methods in apple orchards.

Dr. James Luby continues breeding projects on apples, grapes, strawberries, raspberries and blueberries. He works to develop varieties with improved yield, quality and winter hardiness; in 1993 six new cultivars were approved for release.

His research helps understand how new species develop and how genes move out of cultivated plants into their wild relatives.

Dr. Harold Pellett directs the breeding and evaluation of woody landscape plants for disease resistance, over-wintering capacity, drought tolerance, and flowering and growth characteristics. New plants recently released for propagation at nurseries and scheduled to be commercially available over the next few years include 'Northern Hi-lights' and 'Mandarin Lights' (azaleas), 'Emerald Triumph' (viburnum), 'Honey Rose' (honeysuckle), and two as-yet unnamed selections, a Kentucky coffee tree and a cork tree.

Dr. Pellett also coordinates the Landscape Plant Development Center, a multinational, University-affiliated non-profit. The Center coordinates breeding and evaluation efforts all over the world.

III. Evaluate plant performance in response to environments unique to urban and suburban areas, and breed and select plants that flourish in these environments. Explore and develop sustainable cultural methods that can be applied in the urban and suburban landscape.

Dr. Mary Meyer, coordinator of Minnesota's Master Gardener Program and a well-known authority on grasses, began a program to develop hardy perennial grasses for use in landscapes. She is looking for superior ornamental qualities, over-wintering capacity, and low water requirement.

IV. Make use of the Arboretum as a facility to carry on ecological research.

In both greenhouse and modified rice paddies, Dr. Susan Galatowitsch is learning how wetland plants flourish in disturbed environments. She studies the effects of such factors as water quality, temperature and nutrients on the germination, establishment and competitive ability of wetland plants.

Education

After a year or two without an education department head, the Arboretum named Dr. Anne Hanchek the new director of Arboretum educational programs. Dr. Mary Meyer, a graduate of the Department of Horticultural Science, succeeded Dr. Hanchek as State Master Gardener Program coordinator. Shirley Mah Kooyman, former volunteer coordinator, assumed the new position of adult education coordinator, managing classes and conferences. The volunteer coordinator position was moved into the visitor services department.

Education staff and volunteers produced new interpretive brochures for the herb gardens, the hosta glade, and the prairie, with financial support from plant societies. Visitors picked up over 7000 brochures during 1993-94.

ADULT EDUCATION. The Arboretum collaborated with three other organizations to present horticultural symposia: "1994 Art of Specialty Gardens" with the Minnesota State Horticultural society; "Your Emerging Garden," geared for beginning gardeners, with the metro-area Master Gardener Program; and a conference on designing, planting and maintaining plants in extreme or artificial environments, with the Minnesota Chapter of the American Society of Landscape Architects.

The number of classes and weekend and evening offerings increased by 16%, workshops by 21%. We continue to offer non-credit college-level classes through the University of Minnesota's Compleat/Practical Scholar Program.

YOUTH EDUCATION. A collaborative of five midwestern public gardens, including the Arboretum, received a three-year grant from the National Science Foundation to develop 12 "discovery units" for elementary school use. These science curricula will integrate classroom learning with a field trip to the garden. Each two-week unit includes hands-on activities and student investigations. Five units were developed and tested this year.

Youth Education attendance rose to more than 28,000 from 24,000 last year. The Learning Center added a new summer day camp series, and school field trips increased. The Plant-mobile reached more than 10,000 school-children, a 50% increase over 1992-93.

The Children's Garden-in-Residence program received a "First Place Exceptional" Blooming Boulevards Award from the City of Minneapolis Committee on Urban Environment.

MASTER GARDENER PROGRAM. Since 1989 the Arboretum has given a home to the Minnesota Extension Service State Master Gardener Program (MGP). Administered through the education department, the MGP recruits, trains and supervises almost 1,200 Master Gardeners who provide service to citizens throughout the state.

In 1993-94, 186 interns were trained at four locations. Using 35 hours as a conservative average, Master Gardeners contributed nearly 42,000 volunteer hours to the Minnesota Extension Service. Minnesota requires 48 hours of initial training plus 50 volunteer hours in the first year. This is the highest training standard in the United States.

HORTICULTURAL THERAPY. Now in its third year, the Horticultural Therapy Program served over 1,600 individuals in 1993-94. We continued to provide service at specific social service facilities, e.g. Sojourn Adult Day Program and Dakota Children's, Inc. We gained further publicity and community awareness through television spots on KARE-11 and WCCO. The program received special recognition as the beneficiary of this year's Orchid Lights, which featured the Clotilde Irvine Sensory Garden and Horticultural Therapy Program Center.

Grounds and Gardens

After several years of relatively mild winters the temperature dropped to -34° F on January 19, 1994. Fortunately, the weather during the preceding fall and early winter was favorable for plants to become fully hardened and we didn't experience much winter injury. Bloom on redbuds and magnolias was reduced, but the Northern Sun Forsythia, Northern Lights series of hybrid azaleas and other Arboretum plant introductions produced a beautiful display of flowers in the spring.

The long, cool spring greatly prolonged the bloom of the many thousand narcissus bulbs planted during the past few years. The displays along the entry drive and outside the Japanese Garden were spectacular and lasted for weeks.

Each year the fruit and vegetable area in the Home Demonstration Garden features new varieties of food crops for home gardeners and shows innovative ways to grow these crops. A technique that worked well in 1993-94 was fall planting of vegetables. Spinach seeds and garlic bulbs were planted in late fall and mulched with six inches of clean straw. The mulch was removed in early spring and the plants grew and produced crops to harvest much earlier than normal.

Visitors may have noticed that signs, trellises, arbors and other structures around the grounds are being stained grey. This is part of a long-term process to replace signage and implement a uniform color and design for various display and didactic elements on the Arboretum grounds.

The Arboretum grounds staff completed grading and seeding both sides of the newly rebuilt Three-Mile Drive. This job involved spreading topsoil and compost, grading, raking, seeding and mulching on an area six miles long and varying from four to fifty feet wide. The regular rainfall during the summer was ideal for germination and growth of turf grasses, and the newly green roadsides complemented the new paving to provide a great improvement for Arboretum visitors.

Arboretum Auxiliary

The Auxiliary boasts another year of successful events at the Arboretum, including the following highlights.

- The members' preview to the Dayton's-Bachman's Flower Show netted $3,000.

- The Plant Sale earned a whopping $28,155.

- The ever-popular Garden Tour is one of our best P.R. tools and an effective fundraiser as well. 1993 net was $6,500.

- The Auxiliary cookbook, Arboretum Aromas, brought in $1,536 and continues to sell at a constant rate.

- To help commemorate the Auxiliary's 25th anniversary, volunteers made a quilt to be raffled off from Mother's Day to Fall Festival. At the end of FY1993-94, raffle sales had raised $5,158.

- Fall Festival, a favorite event that brings us all back to our home at Frog Hollow, raised $8,734 in 1993.

- And we closed the calendar year with the Christmas Open House, ending with a bang: $10,524.

In all the Auxiliary raised $63,607, which we dedicated to the following items in FY1993-94: $3,000 to the Learning Center; $10,340 for a Toro mowing machine; and $15,000 to the Sensory Garden Fund (toward a total commitment of $75,000).

Hearty thanks to all those staff and volunteers who continue to support the Auxiliary and its various activities!

About the Arboretum

The Minnesota Landscape Arboretum was established in 1958 as a unit of the University of Minnesota's Department of Horticultural Science. A nationally renowned gardening resource, the Arboretum presents more than 5,000 species and cultivars of plants in natural and landscaped settings throughout its 905 acres. The Arboretum offers many research and educational opportunities and operates a lunch room and a gift shop. These opportunities are available to the general public as well as members. Proceeds from these programs directly support the Arboretum. The gardens and facilities are open daily.

Arboretum Staff

Peter J. Olin, Director
John C. Carter, Director of Research
Anne M. Hanchek, Director of Education
Peter Moe, Director of Operations
Philip Roe, Director of Development

The University of Minnesota is committed to the policy that all persons shall have equal access to its programs, facilities and employment without regard to race, color, creed, religion, national origin, sex, age, marital status, disability, public assistance status, veteran status, or sexual orientation.
