

Mayor Boo speaks on housing problem

By b. d. nelson

"DULUTH HAS THE most critical housing problem of any city in Minnesota," Mayor Ben Boo said Tuesday to the UMD College Republicans.

The mayor said the problem concerned not only students but housing for elderly, minorities and the poor.

On the subject of student housing in particular, Boo said he was not in favor of a zoning change or an all encompassing "blanket variance" permit.

He said estimates of students to be evicted were exaggerated.

According to Boo, a more accurate guess would be that about 40 to 60 students may be affected by the rule restricting the number of renters to four in a house.

STUDENT ASSOCIATION president Greg Fox expressed his wish for the city to take a stand, one way or the other on the issue, either granting a variance permit or rigidly enforcing the ordinance.

Boo said the city council had taken a stand by denying the "blanket variance."

He said he was in favor of granting permits on an individual basis to persons showing need and complying with city standards.

He added that for now he is trying to ease the enforcement until the University housing problem is eased by dormitories and other sources to be built.

Boo mentioned the land on College St. behind children's home. The piece of land is owned by the city and was put up for bids.

THE MAYOR SAID that in considering the bids, he and the council would take into account the service the contractor would give to the city and the University.

The group also discussed summer jobs for students with the mayor. He said the city hires many in maintenance city planning, and in all the city departments.

As part of meditation

Johnson urges seniors to read

UMD LIBRARIAN RUDOLPH Johnson Wednesday urged graduating seniors to spend 15 minutes each day reading in order "... to put you in an elite section of our population."

Speaking to the class of 1969 at Cap and Gown Day ceremonies in Kirby Student Center ballroom, Johnson suggested they follow the formula "M 3 A" which means one part action for three parts meditation.

"I'm not interested in reading as an escape from intolerable situations," Johnson declared. "But I am interested in reading as part of meditation. Books put us in touch with the best thoughts of man, and thereby ready us for action."

JOHNSON PRAISED THE present generation not only for scholarship and achievement, but also for courage and patriotism. He said he was impressed by the courage and patriotism of Black Americans and by the books they have written.

"I feel that we should give an award to every black person in America, because it takes real courage even to exist in a racist society," Johnson said.

"I am impressed by courage and patriotism of those members of your generation who are serving in Vietnam. And by those members of your generation who oppose the war and have the courage to go to jail for their beliefs," he said.

UMD ACADEMIC Dean Thomas W. Chamberlin presented special awards to 29 seniors.

Gretchen Ann Bantle, St. Paul, and Lyle E. Koski, Esko, received the American Legion Auxiliary Award of the 125th Field Artillery for displaying worth to the University, interest in activities and the purposes of the University.

UPCOMING EVENTS

The Information and Grievance Board met for the first time last Friday. Grippers, where are you? After many agonizing days of hearing the problems of students, the chance to get them solved was passed up! SA will try again next Friday, May 23 in Kirby Fine Arts Lounge from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Coffee and doughnuts will be served.

SA PROJECTS

Remember all you world travelers, pick up your International Student I.D.'s if you're planning to tour Europe this summer. They may be purchased in the SA office, K182. These I.D.'s cost $2.00 for one year or $3.00 for a three year I.D. They entitle the holder to variable discounts throughout Europe. For you bargain hunters, there are free booklets on "Tips for European Travelers," also available in K182.

SA TEACHER EVALUATION

After a year of work, the 1st annual Student Association teacher evaluation was distributed Monday morning. The entire supply of 1000 was given out in less than 90 minutes. Except for the faculty evaluation and the administration, all copies were distributed free of charge to students. Responding to the overwhelming demand, the Student Association has approached Dr. Darland requesting additional funds to publish more evaluations and make them available to students.

Fred Friedman, past Student Association president, who with Carolyn Dack, past academic affairs vice-president, presented the evaluation to the Faculty Council last week and went to Minneapolis on Tuesday to present it to Vice-President Smith and the Council on Liberal Education. It is hoped that with the fiscal encouragement of the UMD and/or Minneapolis administration, the teacher evaluation can become a yearly production.

Student Association encourages both compliments and criticisms by students and faculty. It is realized that several errors were made, both in printing and assemblage. Miss Dack stated that the most difficult task is to produce an evaluation that is objective, complete and yet easy to read. Hopefully when students and faculty become more accustomed to the concept of a Teacher Evaluation both sampling techniques and readability will improve. It may be added that the booklets cost approximately $3.00 a copy.

In addition to the teacher evaluation, Student Association also publishes a Department Evaluation which was distributed on Wednesday of this week. The departments were evaluated by senior majors who rated their departments on various aspects and qualities. The booklet, which was also presented to the Faculty Council, does not rank the departments but rather offers compliments and criticisms of the 25 departments on campus. Sue Sommer, past academic affairs commissioner who edited the booklet commented that there were a few printing errors. Like the teacher evaluation it is hoped that with supporting funds it will become an annual project.

Your criticisms are greatly appreciated so that Student Association may make the improvements that are needed for next year's publications. Please contact Steve Sundre, academic affairs vice-president, if you wish to vocalize your criticisms.

SA TRAVEL BOARD

We'd like to thank Sigma Iota Epsilon, the honorary industrial education fraternity, for their efforts in making a new SA travel board. For those who don't know where the travel board is, let alone what it is, here's brief explanation. The travel board, outside K182, can be used by all drivers or riders going to all parts of the nation. By placing a message on a desired number, corresponding to a number on the U. S. map, the driver who wishes to enlist riders or riders desiring a driver (good, eh?), may be contacted. This board hasn't been used extensively in the past, but we hope that it will solve the recurring problem of getting rides or riders.

Chilian librarian gains ideas at UMD

A LIBRARIAN FROM the University of Concepcion, of Concepcion, Chile is studying and working at UMD this spring to gain ideas that she may put into practice upon her return home this summer.

She is Teresa Tapia, head of the acquisitions department at the University of Concepcion Library. She is working in all departments of the UMD library and is enrolled in a UMD sociology class. She is also studying cataloging and classification at the College of St. Scholastica.

"The students seem to be so at home in the library here," Miss Tapia said. She cited the interconnection of the buildings as a factor that makes the library more of a "home" at UMD. The library in Concepcion is currently about 7 blocks from the campus, she said.

MISS TAPIA ALSO noted that the UMD faculty members seem to use the library more than the professors in her home university.

God speed to grads

Another year is nearing its end and soon all of you seniors will be setting out on the Great Adventure of Life.

You will look back on your college years as a time of preparation and fulfillment of your own self worth. Now you can make a place for your self in our society.

Now you too will be of use to America.

After your years of work and effort to attain a higher goal you will be accepted . . . by the armed services.

Yes, graduation is a fine old time, after the last final we can all forget about learning, at least until next year.

And you seniors will never have to learn anything as long as you live. Kind of nice to know that you've reached the height of your intellectual capacity and brilliance. Now that books and grades are out of the way we can get down to the real purpose of education and a DEGREE . . . money, a new car and a better brand of beer.

After the monotony of learning we can relax in the freedom of everyday life. Working, taxes, bills and all those other neat things that college is for.

Then there are those that drop out because they don't fit in or those that go on to grad school because they like learning.

For them there is no hope. Their kind will keep on wandering aimlessly in search of some intangible ideals and miss out on all of the goods.

Luckily enough for the free enterprise system, such folks are just oddballs and don't constitute a major threat to Americanism and the American Dream.

Yes, the student of today is the leader of tomorrow. We will soon be launched on that great stormy sea of life protected only by the sturdy ship of education and guided by the light of knowledge.

How we fare on that sea depends on how ready we are to use our talents for personal gain and success.

Reflections from last week . . .

TO THE EDITOR:

I have just a few random thoughts about last week's Statesman.

First, I would suggest to Mr. Juntunen that the problem with SDS may not be lack of knowledge of its existence, but rather lack of interest in joining it. Although I can read and spend as little time in the Ven Den as possible, I'm still against SDS simply because anarchy turns me off.

THE ANATHEMATA. Some of it was good; which brings me to most of it.

I've often wondered how long such nothing thoughts have ricocheted around aimlessly in these people's minds before they found large enough words and vague enough ways to express them.

STEVE GERBER. His mind is a non-sequitur. The content of his work is matched only by the clarity with which it is written.

WALT STRASSER. After reading his news broadcast, I got the distinct impression that he had been locked up in a room for 10 years with nothing to read but back issues of an Alabama newspaper.

The average mayor throws around the word "nigger" as often as he uses hip talk like "twenty-three skidoo."

MR. RIKALA. Like most Finnish poets of any age, he doesn't make much sense. He doesn't use capital letters and with good reason; his work is definitely small case. He certainly is no

Jon Greenleaf Whittier.

What really disturbs me, is that these are the very same people that champion the cause of the little man and that of the depressed of the world, and yet they write only for themselves.

They are intellectual snobs.

THE GENERATION GAP must be considered as a failure of communication. As in the Credeence Clearwater Revival number just quoted, most of the young revolutionaries of today are fighting for some goal their parents could appreciate, if the communication was there.

Most college students, I imagine, are being encouraged to go to college by their parents so they can get better jobs.

This is certainly not immoral or wrong and might even be a worthwhile objective if the jobs were there. A UMD graduate can get a job easily enough, but the job is not as glamorous as it was pictured. The salary is not fantastic; sometimes it is lower than that of a trade school graduate.

Many graduates go into teaching, with little chance for promotion. If the work was interesting and enjoyable, it would be a good job, though, because very few students are overly concerned with security.

HOWEVER, HIGH SCHOOL, junior high and grade school teachers are confined by the curriculum to a large extent.

Some more adventurous teachers feel these confines more than others, but they exist, and most teachers feel their pinch sooner or later.

Most other occupations open to a man with a bachelor's degree have similar restrictions. The obvious solution is to go on for a Master's or a Ph.D.

The most obvious, but the most disheartening. We felt we were going to college for that occupational boost. When will the magic degree trail lead to the pot of gold? From the point of view of a college sophomore, it looks suspiciously like never.

THE SOLUTION FOR many seems to be outside the "educational system."

UMD's Summerhill, the Peace Corps and Vista all hold the promise, at least, of being places where education for the sheer sake of education, restrictions placed by the teacher and the student, can take place.

Another area drawing the interest of the disenfranchised masses is politics. The desire is to improve their lot, of course, but they realize it must be done through improving everyone's condition. The restrictions, e.g., the draft, in loco parentis, general education, curriculum, majors, minors, jobs, ad infinitum, ad nauseum, are to be done away with because they are irrelevant to life. They relate to nothing I wish to do.

Here again, the old restrictions fall. People have been doing their damndest to beat the system at its own game for years, but that just doesn't calculate with everything else.

THIS IS OUR school, here for our benefit. Why should we have to beat ourselves at our own game? Substitute government, job or life for school and you get the whole idea.

Most of the difference in reaction to "the system" between this generation and our parents can be traced to the same origins as the civil rights movement. People can only hear about how well off they are for so long, and then they want to see it.

Here, also, we can see a strong identification with the blacks.

Youth listens to blues, watches black entertainers, idolizes black athletes, and then wonders why the blacks live in slums, can't get a halfway decent job, and get shut down as "uppity niggers," or some more polished phrase if they try for these things.

The black should know his place. In the slum tenement, eating fried chicken and watermelon, dancing, working as little as possible, engaging in promiscuous sexual relations or out in them cotton fields pickin' cotton.

THE TEENAGER should know his place, also. In school or studying six nights a week. Saturday nights, if he has no demerits that week, he can get the car and go make out with some nice Lutheran girl. The history of Chinese civilizations should interest him. He should enjoy predicate adjectives. He should give a f.....

Both the black and the teenager should be silent about the diseases, mental more than physical, creeping across them, their friends and their country.

Since neither cares for the trip they are being taken on, neither should be expected to pull the oxcart willingly. This is what the National Guard, the police and the army are for, to get things done the right way.

So we can feel sympathy for the Viet Cong, for example, because they face the same oppression we do, the United States government.

THE WAR IN Vietnam, of course, has been a virtual Pandora's box of ideas. How can we straighten out Vietnam when we can't straighten out New York City: How can we bring freedom to South Vietnam by denying it to young Americans? How can we bring peace by fighting a war? If not now, when?

In keeping with the tradition of this column, I would like to state at this time that everything I like is groovy and everything I don't like is not so groovy.

At least that's the way I see it. I may be wrong.

By Andy Houkom

In the early 1500's Sir Thomas More made this timeless statement: "Everywhere do I perceive a certain conspiracy of rich men seeking their own advantage under the name and pretext of the commonwealth."

The Abe Fortas affair bears out the eternal wisdom of these words. But Fortas was unique, that is, he got caught. The hypocrisy of those calling for his dismissal is clearly evident when you consider the following:

Since Congress just voted itself a pay raise ostensibly to give its members more independence from free spending lobbyists it would be only logical to assume that now congressmen could give up many, if not all, of their outside financial interests.

BUT THIS HAS not happened. Last week under a 1968 law the members of the House of Representatives made a disclosure of their outside investments.

Although this was only a partial disclosure, the results are startling.

About two-thirds of the 435 members of the House have substantial financial interests other than their salaries; 92 are officers, directors, or stockholders in financial institutions; 87 are asso-

Tingling Mothers' Farnham and Crailey Circe

CANADA, LAND of the Frozen North. Twenty million people, mainly Eskimos, Mounties (red uniforms and Smokey the Bear hats and all, of course), and crazy French-Canadian hockey-player-lumberjacks. Quaint. "See Canada, relive the Charming Past."

Culture: none, or nearly none—"Rose Marie," Mountie singing to his Indian lover across a gorge in Saskatchewan. Canadians, except for the French, who do nothing but play hockey, jack lumber, and throw bombs, and the Eskimos, who spend their entire lives building igloos and spearing polar bears, are slow, slightly dull, faceless creatures with British mannerisms.

They are, of course, rather unintelligent—witness the fact that they have repeatedly refused to become another United State.

Well, perhaps that's a slight exaggeration of the popular American conception of the Canadian culture. But not by much. Canada, to Americans, is always "up there". Good for fishing, maybe, but little else. Canadian CULTURE ???

IT'S TIME AMERICANS started to realize that there is a Canadian culture—poetry, literature, music (even besides "Alouette"), drama, painting and sculpture, even cinema.

So why don't we notice it? Are Canadian cultural achievements really so insignificant that they aren't worth noticing?

Or is it perhaps because of the wild nationalism that's running rampant in the States today? And I mean the same insane nationalism that got us into (and has kept us in) the Vietnam War. The same kind of nationalism that is demonstrated on auto bumpers and rear windows by stickers saying "America—Love It or Leave It".

Nationalism is almost always (perhaps not almost—perhaps without exception) unjustified. And it always (at least historically) leads to myopia.

LOOK, EVEN IF you can muster up enough pride in your country and its culture to justify a bit of nationalistic feeling, you still have no reason for claiming national superiority until you've objectively examined 'competing' cultures according to some sort of sensible criteria.

And it may be that one culture is somehow superior to another. That's still no reason for ignoring other culturally rich countries, like Americans ignore Canada.

Except, of course, when it comes to the draft-dodging thing, at which point Americans tell Canadians what their politics should be.)

Not that I'm saying America is in any way culturally superior to Canada, except perhaps in sheer quantities of stuff produced. And, then, remember that there are ten times as many Americans as

SDS aims goals towards new social order

by KJELL RODNE

We are not bent on destroying America; only in changing it. We do not advocate anarchy; only social activism based on a resolute spirit to change the existing social injustice to man by man.

Our goals are not only directed towards the establishment of a new social order, but also the abolishment of injustice in the old one.

We believe that only by supporting those ideals for which human freedom stands can we ever hope to free ourselves from the tyranny of oppression and suppression that now chokes the life out of our very existence. "We are not trying to liberalize the existing order, but trying to win our liberation from it."

We are not interested in the past, only in the present and the future. Our experiences and observations in living in a racist-imperialistic-militaristic society have forced us into the position we are now in.

WE ALL REALIZE that America has been and is being raped of her ideals; ideals which, if she had measured up to them, would not only have made living in America tolerable, but perhaps even enjoyable.

We demand "that we recognize our racism, the shoddiness of mass culture and our urban life, the hollowness of political rhetoric and mediocrity of leadership."

We are distrustful of justice and liberty as it now exists — our confidence in established authority is diminishing. Our impatience has been charged by the irresponsibility, the selfishness, and negativistic attitudes of the "establishment."

We do not desire anarchy, but we do recognize that a principle exists which expresses violence as the ultimate in freedom. We support the idea that freedom can be had by engaging in constructive criticism and communication, but we will commit ourselves to the achievement of our objectives by other means if reciprocity cannot be achieved through "legitimate" channels.

OUR PRIMARY AIM is to see social injustice stopped by establishing a new social order, but if this cannot be achieved through cooperation, we will ultimately reach the conclusion that the only way to deal with an inherently destructive social system is by direct confrontation. Our objectives are to erase and destroy social evils wherever they occur: be they the battlefields of Vietnam; the ghettos of our cities; or on the UMD campus makes no difference. Evil cannot be equated in terms of degree.

It is there and must be dealt with appropriately. We therefore, henceforth commit ourselves to the destruction of existing social evils now, as well as in the future. The attorney general of the United States calls campus militants "tyrants."

Our question is, "what label, Mr. Attorney General, would you then pin upon those who, like yourself, support the tyranny of evasion, complacency, and self-deception?"

"Freaky album"

"Modal Rounders" set mood

By STEVE JUNTUNEN

T.A. GOT AN ALBUM the other day and insisted that we all had to hear it. It was called "The Morey Eels Eat The Holy Modal Rounders," and we were ready to expect anything.

We all listened to the first side and thought it was pretty good. One song in particular, "The Werewolf," had a real good effect, sort of drawing you into and then enveloping you with the song.

We thought the whole album was good, freaky music. Of course, with the pressure of schoolwork, etc., we didn't get around to listening to the other side for a few days.

SO HERE I AM an old blues freak, listening to the first song on the second side. They titled it "Mobile Line," and it sounded just like "France Blues," which those of you who know, know could go by that name.

They play it on a tone synthesizer or something, and it sounds like the old country blues modernized.

Then you get to the second verse.

"Did you ever see the engineer plucking on a mandolin?"

Hey, Lordy, mama, mama, hey, Lordy, papa, papa, plucking on a mandolin, Smoking on a reefer and drinking bathtub gin."

Something was going on, and the rest of that side didn't let it down. The STP Song. Some guy can't remember the words to the pledge of allegiance, so he's going to get an F. Some guy with half a mind.

IT'S JUST A FREAKY album. Don't buy it or you'll get into drugs and perverted sex practices.

he walks next to me and holds my hand
he guides me on the icy roads and walks he leads me to the house of laughter where we meet with those of our minds
he touches my mind with delicate fingers and toys with it gently and puts it back together—but a little different than before he enters my heart
he feels my soul—
i love him.

State track meet scheduled

By MARGIE MARA

The Minnesota State Women's College Track and Field Meet will be held this Saturday at UMD. Preliminaries will start at 1:00. Six teams including the University of Minnesota, Bemidji State College, the College of St. Scholastica, Hibbing Junior College, UMD and Mankato State College, the defending champions, will compete. A new event, the 200 meter hurdles, has been added this year.

The WREP track team managed a tie for sixth place in the University of Minnesota Invitational Track Meet. LaCrosse won the meet in which ten teams competed. The U. of M. coeds were second followed by Bemidji, Mankato, River Falls, UMD and Superior State.

Competing against teams of forty girls, the UMD team, which numbered ten, held their own. Three girls turned in excellent individual performances. Kay McMahon captured second place in the javelin with a throw of 108'4" and placed fifth in the discus throw. Laurie Hohmann grabbed second place in the 220 yard dash and Dianne Arseneau finished fifth in the 100 meter hurdles.

Four meets have been scheduled for the tennis team this week. This includes two with Hibbing J. C. on Monday and Saturday, a meet against Bemidji on Tuesday and one against St. Cloud today.

Coach May Mullen's team also competed in the Carleton Invitational Meet last Friday and Saturday. The University of Iowa won the team competition.

In the meet with Hibbing on Monday, UMD won five of the six matches, losing only one doubles match.

Graduating seniors and extramural team members were honored at the WREP banquet held last night at the Sweden House. "Communication Through Sports" was the theme. The dinner marked the end of another successful year of girls' athletics.

UMD can be proud of the Women's Recreational and Extramural Program. It has developed respectable teams in swimming, volleyball, basketball, tennis, field hockey and track. It has also provided recreational opportunities for UMD women by sponsoring rec swim and gym periods every Monday night. Many thanks go to the officers, Mrs. Edeburn and the many other people who helped the program grow so much this year.

Sailing races on weekend

THE FIRST ANNUAL Torrance Cup Races in sailing will be held Saturday, May 24 and Sunday, May 25 on the St. Louis River in the vicinity of Drill's Marina, Riverside.

The series will consist of four races, two each day, with the winner being determined by the best point total accumulated.

The race is restricted to a small one-design sailboat class, International 420. The 420's being raced will have two-man crews.

At the present time, at least three crews from the UMD sailing club and three or four other crews are planning to participate.

NORMAL RACING RULES and courses will be in effect although no spinnakers will be allowed.

The courses will be explained each day at a skippers' meeting held at 8:30 a.m. prior to the start of the races at 9:10 a.m.

The race committee consists of Neale Roth, director of Kirby Student Center, Bruce Rutherford, head of counseling and Robert Bridges, business manager. Projected plans of the sailing club for fall quarter include another such series, with six races and a larger racing course on Oct. 4 and 5.

For information on the sailing club and the fall quarter racing series, contact James Maguire, 724-9886 or Andy Turnbull, 724-9800.

Thanksgiving Invitational to be held

ASSISTANT ATHLETIC Director Ralph Romano announced the hockey schedule for the 1969-70 season. The 28-game slate includes 16 home appearances in the Duluth Arena against the tough Western Collegiate Hockey Association (WCHA) foes and a new non-conference rival, Ohio University.

Romano expressed his feelings about the upcoming season. "We're very pleased with our entire schedule but particularly delighted with the teams and attractions available to our fans in Duluth and Northern Minnesota."

"Arena visits by popular schools like Minnesota, Michigan Tech, Denver, and others have been spread over the entire season to allow our fans a chance to view the best of college hockey from November through March," he added.

AN ADDED ATTRACTION this year will be a Thanksgiving Invitational Tournament on November 27-28. A four-team field will be involved with the Bulldogs acting as host team.

"There are a number of Christmas holiday tournaments about the country," explained Selman, "but this is the first ever held around Thanksgiving. We think it will have particular appeal to the fans. We hope to announce the participants within the next few weeks."

Selman also commented on the return of the University of Wisconsin to the WCHA schedule after a year's absence. "Of course, Wisconsin is one of our natural rivals," he said, "Now that they have entered the Association, it makes their presence more exciting, meaningful, and attractive to our fans."

The Badgers will appear here Jan. 30 and 31. Their first and only previous Duluth appearance was in the 1966-67 season.

Series have been arranged with 1968 and 1969 National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) champion Denver University as well as Minnesota, Michigan Tech, North Dakota and Colorado College.

National Park location debated

THE MINNESOTA ARROW-HEAD ASSOCIATION recently announced that it will continue its fight against the proposed location for the Voyaguers National Park on the Kabetogama Peninsula.

Representing a twelve-county region the M.A.A., the states oldest regional organization representing over 15,000 associate members, restated its position in opposition to the site proposed in Representative John A. Blatnik's bill.

Speaking for the Association Fred E. Stout, Duluth, M.A.A. president, said the position of his organization represents the overwhelming view of the area tourism and commercial leaders. Directors and members reject the location on a ratio of about 4 to 1. At the same time the same membership favors the establishment of a park on about the same ratio.

"THE DIRECTORS AND MEMBERSHIP have clearly indicated their views on this issue. Over 94% favor a national park for the state but 78.6% opposed the Kabetogama site," Stout explained.

"We have never seen any other studies from the National Park Service on alternate sites for the park. With over 2.2 million acres of land in the area now under Federal ownership it appears illogical that they must take an additional 133,000 acres of state and privately owned lands. Our area is presently over-burdened with taxes. Further unnecessary reduction in the tax base does not appear in the best interests of the area."

"I think every thoughtful Minnesota citizen, regardless of where he works and lives, must listen to the people who will be most directly effected. Their opposition is based on many years of witnessing Federal take-over.

Canadians. Sure, I like a lot of things that are happening in the arts in the States. But there are areas in which Canada is far ahead of America.

MOST EVERYBODY reading this column is familiar to some extent with Leonard Cohen, even if that familiarity is limited to "Suzanne". But how many are missing out on Joni Mitchell? How often do you hear Gordon Lightfoot in the States? How many Americans read, or have even heard of, Irving Layton? Ian and Sylvia, of course, are Canadians. So is Marshall MacLuhan (with all his hang-ups). Tim Hardin has done most, if not all, of his important work in Canada.

The message, in short, is this: Canada does have a culture, and a very dynamic one at that. It's a living, growing country that has a lot to offer culturally. Why not take a week or a month or a lifetime off and look at it?

from the legislature and its profit is re-invested into the cafeteria (i.e., new equipment, Bull Pub and the new cafeteria complex now being planned).

DEAR ESSAY,

How come my grades suffer from not attending classes? Does the instructor have any right to lower my grade because I'm not listening to his every word?

(name withheld)

—The sad answer is yes. In the UMD bulletin it states that policy in regard to attendance is completely up to the instructor. We have sympathy for your situation and SA has contacted the administration about this problem. We're hoping for a change next year, but for this quarter you'll have to attend those classes!

DEAR SA ESSAY,

I was lax in paying my rent for my apartment. My landlady called Housing and told them of this situation. As a result, the University held my registration materials. Teachers were notified that I couldn't attend their classes and this was happening when I was in the process of receiving a loan (which my landlady was informed of). What gives?

(name withheld)

—We were quite surprised that anything like this happens at UMD. We asked Mr. Daley, the Housing Director about this. He agreed that this wasn't desirable but stated that this occurred only once. We then talked to Mr. Allen in the Records office and he confirmed that this had been done in the past. We're happy to state that your case will most likely be the last with these circumstances. From all those we talked to, it seemed that they too deplored the policy, but would continue as long as the policy wasn't changed. We're trying to change it.

Carthy spent three million dollars in an unsuccessful attempt for the Presidential nomination.

Nixon's campaign was estimated to have cost 7 to 8 million dollars. Obviously these sums are getting out of hand.

IT HAS NOW come down to the point where for a certain amount of money an agency will run your campaign. The going price for a governor's chair is about $100,000.

The price for a Senate seat is about $200,000. Money has now become more important than political qualifications. This certainly eliminates the old fable of log cabin to White House. I wonder if say, GM or U.S. Steel is interested in having their own man in Congress for the small, to a corporation, investment of a few hundred thousand dollars.

Clearly the best talent is being sacrificed to those people with a heavy pocketbook. Disclosure of all income should be mandatory.

The high and rising costs of campaigns should somehow be cut back. Members of Congress should vote with their brains not with their wallets in mind.

"One thing is the same," she said. "Students at both universities really use the library to study."

Miss Tapia is the last of a number of faculty and staff from Concepcion who have participated in a 4-year exchange of personnel between the University of Minnesota and the University of Concepcion. The project has been funded by the Ford Foundation and will be discontinued this summer.

She is the third trainee to be at UMD during the current academic year. Two other librarians from the University of Concepcion were at UMD last fall. UMD Librarian Rudolph Johnson also served as acting director of the Concepcion library for three months during the summer of 1967.

She said a new library is being planned for the campus in Concepcion and her experience at UMD will enable her to make several suggestions for the new building. She has found the centralized reference area, open stack system and spaciousness of the UMD library to be most impressive.

"YOU NEED FEWER personnel to run the UMD library with this kind of system," she noted.

Miss Tapia thinks UMD students are more "studious" than those in her home country. "Chilean students are very well organized politically and always ready to protest. They will even leave their classes to join labor unions and others in disputes."

Students at Concepcion pay only a small registration fee, but no tuition or incidental fees, Miss Tapia commented. She believes the fact that they have a smaller investment in their studies may make them more willing to miss classes for several days to demonstrate.

PHOTOCOPIES CAN NOW be made from microfilm, microfiche, microprint, etc., with the new Dennison microphotocopier located in the library's periodical room.

The machine is coin-operated and ten cents will give you a copy of an article from the New York Times on microfilm, or from any of the other microforms.

The Duluth Campus library receives on microfilm four newspapers and 82 periodicals and also several periodicals on microfiche.

All U. S. government depository documents, over 40,000 items per year, are received on microprint.

WITH THE NEW reader/printer, hard copy can be obtained from any of the microforms by merely pressing a button.

The microphotocopier makes enlarged copy from any of the various microforms, including opaques.

This makes it possible for students to take enlarged pictures of various objects such as the ten-dollar bill.

For example, the tiny antique auto on the face of the ten-dollar bill has two passengers in it.

There is also an SCM copier in the library for making copies from originals. Both the SCM and the Dennison are maintained by the UMD vending service.

The library also has a Xerox copier for departmental use and for special jobs such as copying theses where the copy must be on special paper.

Complete photo-duplication service is now available in the UMD library.

Contrasts old, new campus

Music professor retires

C. LINDSAY EDSON, associate professor of music, will retire in June after 23 years service on the UMD faculty.

Edson began as a part-time teaching assistant at Duluth State Teachers College from 1943 until 1945, returning in a part-time capacity in 1948. He became a full-time instructor in 1952, an assistant professor in 1953 and associate professor in 1964.

During a recent interview, Edson contrasted the present-day UMD with the early days of the campus and its predecessor, DSTC.

Noting that construction on the present campus began in 1948, Edson recalled that he had once hunted the area when it was still known as the Nortondale Tract.

HE SAID THERE were few male students on the DSTC campus when he began teaching. "But about 1947, the World War II veterans began flocking back to the campus to study under the GI Bill," he added.

"The Old Main campus lacked space—especially lounge space for students," he continued. "There were students in the halls all the time sitting here reading, studying or relaxing. There was no place else to go."

He said some music theory and history courses had to be taught in the garage of Tweed Hall. "Don't misunderstand me," Edson warned, "the garage was a good place to teach. It was very nicely remodeled and converted to a classroom, but it does indicate the need for classrooms at that time."

There were only two full-time faculty members in the music department when Edson began teaching. He was one of seven part-time teaching assistants. Currently, the music faculty numbers 13 full-time and three part-time teachers.

RETIREMENT WILL not mean a rocking chair on the front porch for Edson. More likely, it will be more time spent at the keyboard of his harpsichord. He had the instrument made in Oxford, England in 1966 by Robert Goble & Son, Limited, and now houses it in a special soundproof, temperature-controlled room of his home.

EDSON WILL BE missed by the UMD music faculty, according to James R. Murphy, professor and head of the Department of Music. Murphy said, "He is scholarly and has added great dignity not only to the Music Department but to the entire campus."

"I will personally miss him a great deal in that his advice and counsel has been most helpful," Murphy added.

Edson will be presented with a gift from the music faculty at a reception in his home following the UMD Band concert this evening.

ROTC cadets given grants

UMD AIR FORCE ROTC Cadets David A. Ahonen, Chisholm, John C. Linn, Duluth, and Patrick J. Madden, Duluth, have been awarded AFROTC financial assistance grants totaling $5,000.

The announcement was made jointly by Brig. Gen. Donald F. Blake, commandant of AFROTC headquarters, and Maj. Richard E. Snyder, professor of aerospace studies.

The grants become effective in September, 1969 when Madden enters his senior year and Ahonen and Linn begin their junior years at UMD.

MAJ. SNYDER STATED that the three additional grants bring the UMD total to eight beginning fall quarter. The total value is approximately $13,000. Announcement of other selectees is expected shortly.

The grants cover costs of full tuition, laboratory expenses, incidental fees and textbook allowances. In addition, recipients receive $50.00 each month during the tenure of the grant.

Criteria for selection of the recipients included a cumulative grade average of at least 2.5 on a 4.0 scale, high scores on the Air Force officer Qualification Test, satisfactory medical qualifications and high personal and moral standards.
