DULUTH. .. Duluth's United Northern Sportsmen's Club has awarded its annual wildlife scholarship to UMD freshman Dennis L. Hagnann, Wabasha, it was announced on the campus today.

In its fifth year, the grant is given each fall quarter to a student entering the fish and wildlife management curriculum. Hagnann will receive $250.

Club official James C. Johnson said the scholarship fund is maintained through public support of the club's major money-making projects, the annual Island Lake ice-fishing contest and Park Point smelt fry.

Hagnann was recommended by the UMD's biology staff on the basis of scholarship and promise in the field, according to Blanchard O. Krogstad, associate professor of biology and wildlife advisor.
