COUNTRY'S COLLEGE STUDENTS TO MEET IN IOWA JAN. FIRST

Quadrennial Student Volunteer Convention Selects Des Moines.

LOCAL DELEGATION NEARING COMPLETION

Hundreds of Colleges Guarantee Full Quotas—'Vital Christianity' is Watchword.

The quota of Minnesota women for the Student Volunteers' convention at Des Moines, December 31, to January 4, has been practically guaranteed, according to Helen Moses and Marian Andrews, women members of the local committee in charge of Minnesota's part in the convention. So far the desire evinced by women students of the university to be among the final number who will attend this monstrous gathering has been extremely active.

Men Hold Pre Convention Rally.

The men in picking out and eliminating their list of prospective delegates, held a meeting Wednesday afternoon of men interested in the coming gathering. There Dr. J. C. Litzberg, of the medical college, talked to the group and was instrumental in presenting some of the purposes and ideals which Des Moines delegates may expect to receive while in the Iowa city. Dr. Litzberg emphasized the rationalism and naturalness of the principles of the convention and stated that emotionalism and extreme spiritual stimulation will be scrupulously avoided.

Conventions Every Four Years.

The convention, which will be attended by representative male and female students from all over the world, is the eighth one, each held after an interval of four years, once in a student generation, and convened in the larger cities of the country. Attending the last convention at Kansas City in 1914 were 3,000 men and women, representing 300 colleges and universities of all parts of North America. At that time Minnesota sent 34 student delegates and two

Junior Girls Sell Tickets For Party

Tam O'Shanter Has Reserved 150 Places For Chow Mein Party.

Tickets for Ta-O-Sha Chow Mein party are going fast, says the committee that is arranging the "feed" to be given by Tam O'Shanter, junior girl's organization. As only 150 places have been reserved for this event, the committee believes that the total sale will be completed long before Monday noon, the date set for the closing of applications. However those persons desiring to be present at this occasion have still opportunity to make reservations by communicating with Bertha McRae, Box 267. Junior girls on the Agricultural campus may apply to Elizabeth Johnson.

The decoration committee, headed by Helen Green, have strived to attain "the different." An Oriental atmosphere will predominate. Cherry blossoms, Japanese parasols, lanterns and other decorations contributed by an overtown department store will be the vogue. Besides the dining room, the assembly hall will possess a festive appearance, preparatory to the dance to be held after the supper. Tea, rice and ice cream will serve to meet the needs of those who do not look with favor upon the Oriental dish.

A program of stunts, music and other features such as a chop stick contest, has been promised by Miss Gertrude Wilham who has charge of the entire party. The details of the program have not yet been settled, but will, in most probability, be completed in time to be announced in tomorrow's Daily.

The purpose of the party, as outlined by the committee, is the fostering of better relations between the girls of the junior class of all colleges. Fifteen freshman and sophomore girls will be present to aid in the serving and also to become acquainted with the methods adopted in securing cooperation of the girls of any one class.

The party will commence promptly at 5:30. To avoid the delay that usually accompanies an affair of this sort, the committee has requested that the girls make a special effort to be on time.

Dig Up The Old Family Album

How would you feel if you found in your postoffice box a nice, new, crisp five-dollar bill peeping out from underneath your Daily bulletin? Wouldn't your chest swell up, and wouldn't you feel pretty smart, especially if the winning of it had only taken five minutes of your time? The way to earn a dollar a minute for five minutes is to win in the Snapshot Contest of the Gopher feature section. The "rarest" picture submitted will deposit in your box that new, crisp five-dollar bill. Put the photos of your friends in box 989, or in the mailbox in front of the 1921 Gopher Hole.

Pillrollers Stage Ball This Evening

Raffle of Live Turkeys Will Feature Thanksgiving Hop at Armory.

All is now in readiness for the "Pillrollers Ball," given in the armory tonight by the students of the College of Pharmacy, at which they will be hosts to the entire university. The advance sale of tickets insures a large crowd, according to Charles Chambers, chairman of the committee on general arrangements, and interest in the affair evidenced among the student body leads him to believe that it will be one of the best attended dances of the season.

The decorating is now practically complete. The scheme is worked out in Thanksgiving colors, turkey red predominating. Thousands of rolls of paper streamers have been purchased, the exact disposition of them is being withheld as one of the surprises of the evening.

The big novelty stunt, however, will be the raffle of live turkeys. Several Thanksgiving birds are to be given away to the holders of lucky numbers. Numbers will be given out to everyone attending.

The committee in general charge of the affair is composed of Charles Chambers, chairman; Ray Amberg, Vivian Vogel, A. H. Taylor, Beulah Nesbit, Victor Hanson, W. A. Rask, G. B. Honland is in charge of the finances, and Demming L. Hannaford is in charge of the publicity and advertising.

The chaperones of the affair are, Dean and Mrs. F. J. Wulling; Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Rogers; Dr. and Mrs. R. I. Newcomb; Dr. and Mrs. G. Bachman; and Dr. and Mrs. F. C. Whitmore.

The Flanders-Gadbois orchestra which is to furnish the music, promises a peppy selection of the latest and snappiest dance hits.

Band To Practice For Concert Tour

Requests Received From Various Cities in State for Week-end Concerts.

Extensive concert plans for the first university band are being formulated by the music department, requests having been received from various cities in the state to have the Minnesota organization give week-end concerts during the winter season. The band is also to play in the Twin Cities on various occasions.

Mr. Karl Scheurer, director of the band, stated yesterday that now that the football season was over, the band would begin at once working on classical selections to be played at its out-of-town concerts. He also stated that he expected to give the band an early start in preparing for the ten days concert tour to be made in the spring.

"It is absolutely essential," continued Mr. Scheurer, that every member of the first band attend rehearsals regularly. The men must realize that only by steady and consistent practice can they make the band the organization that is expected of them. Those who fail to appear regularly will be dropped and second band men will be given their positions. If the men do not want to practice with the band they cannot expect to share the benefits which it offers.

The first band will hold a rehearsal in the armory today at 4:30. The music department is expecting to find every man who plans to remain with the organization, on hand for practice today.

GOPHER HOPES ARE HIGH ON EVE OF WOLVERINE TUSSELE

Several Men On The Injured List Do Not Down Spirits of Eleven.

TEAM SPENDS NIGHT IN CHICAGO HOTEL

Johnson and Enke Will Hold Down Tackle Positions in Final Game.

By ROBERT AHERN.

As the Gopher football squad treks on to little old Ann Arbor town the enthusiasm of Maroon and Gold followers at home is reaching a high pitch. The squad, 35 strong, stayed at the Edgewater beach hotel in dusty Chicago last night. Dr. Williams dispensed with anything resembling a tiring workout yesterday, letting his men off with a light signal drill in the morning and a short hike in the afternoon. The Gopher invaders spend today traveling, they reach Jackson, Mich., where they will stay over night, leaving for Ann Arbor early Saturday morning.

Preparations for accommodating a huge crowd that should pass the thirty thousand mark have been made by the Michigan Athletic association. Only one hundred Gopher enthusiasts will occupy seats in Ferry field for the great struggle. The small number of Minnesotans is due to the great distance between the two institutions.

Chemists Entertain

Faculty of Inorganic Division Give Party For The Staff of Other Branches.

Tonight the faculty members of the division of Inorganic Chemistry will entertain the faculty and staff of the other four divisions in the School of Chemistry at a "house warming" to be given in room 345 Chemistry building at 8:00 o'clock. Light refreshments will add to the success of the evening.

This gathering is the first of its kind to be given by the faculty of the college. Besides creating a closer bond of friendship between the five divisions of the college, it will serve as a dedication to the recently opened rooms, now occupied by Dr. M. C. Sneed. A delightful social evening is predicted.

Scribes Compete

Daily Reporters Contend For Prize Offered For Most Well Written Copy.

Reporters on the Daily are competing for three prizes offered to those who turn in the most and best copy in the period from November 20 to 30. Five dollars is first prize with three dollars as second and two dollars third. There is no booby prize except the prospect of being dropped from the staff.

As a result the typewriters in the Daily office are turning out adjectives and long words in a frantic endeavor to fill space and the campus is being scoured for stray bits of news that will help to win a prize.

But quality is just as essential as quantity and stories rewritten are not counted in the final summing up so great pains are taken with each story. The prizes are offered as an incentive for the better gathering of campus news and better quality of copy for the editors to work with.

Radicals Discussed

Building Program Starts Next Fall

Administration Building and Storehouse Erection Voted at Regents Meeting.

The decision to proceed at once with the $10,000,000 building program of the University of Minnesota by erecting the storehouse and the administration building costing $150,000 each, immediately after the new fiscal year in July, 1920, was reached by the board of regents at its last meeting. The buildings will be located on the left side near the head of the mall, south of the electrical engineering building.

Plans for a women's dormitory and an electrical engineering building will be submitted during the following year. The proposed mines experimental building to house the Lake Superior station and the United States bureau of mines will cost about $150,000.

Before any of the buildings will be erected, a landscape engineer will make a topographical survey of the campus and in consultation with the architect and officials of the university, will prepare a revised plan for its development.

Dancers To Follow Game At Sunlight

Bulletins On Progress of Minnesota-Michigan Game to Be Feature of Dance.

Bulletins every minute on the progress of the Minnesota-Michigan game will be the feature of this week's sunlight to be held in the armory, Saturday afternoon from 2:30 until 5:00 under the auspices of the W. S. G. A. and the Minnesota union board. Having procured Christianson's 7-piece orchestra, the committee on arrangements, headed by Ray Lockwood and Lucille McNally, have promised that this afternoon dance will be remembered because of its unusual features.

To create interest in the Gopher campaign to be staged during the first week of December, the management has decided to conduct a contest, the winner of which is to be given a 1921 Gopher. Guesses as to the score of the game will be recorded and the first person guessing the nearest to the real score will be awarded a copy of 1921 book. Those persons competing are requested to bring their scores to the sunlight on Saturday and give them to Robert Gile, who is in charge of publicity, or any other member of the Gopher staff. Contestants must have their guesses in by 3 o'clock in order to be considered.

Since the results of the game can be announced at the sunlight, the name of the winner of the contest will be made public at that time.

All Who Have Worked to Produce The Play are Masquers in Their Lines.

FEW SEATS REMAIN FOR SAT. MATINEE

Public Dance Follows the Final Performance on Saturday Evening.

The raising of the curtain on the Masquer's play at the Little Theatre, at 8:30 tonight, opens the amateur theatrical season for the year of 1919 and 1920, at the University of Minnesota.

Although played by amateurs the entire performance savors of professionalism. The coach is Ariel McNaughten, a product of the Harvard day afternoon from 4:00 to 5:00 o'clock work shop, a person who since graduation has had much experience in play production. The gowns are furnished by Madame Gould and Madame Cram, of J. W. Thomas & Co. The lighting is handled by Don Countryman, who attained professionalism in that art while in the army. The color schemes have been worked on for weeks by the play producing class. They have been tested under all conditions and lightings. Two new sets of scenery have been prepared by the Twin City scenic company specially for this performance. The music is furnished by Grace's orchestra who have rehearsed a complete program of Scottish music to harmonize with the atmosphere of the story.

Ticket Sale a Success.

The ticket sale is more than satisfactory. There are a few seats remaining for Saturday's matinee but Friday and Saturday night's houses are practically sold out. The curtain will rise at 2:15 Saturday afternoon so that the theatre goers may enjoy the sunlight dance after the performance. On Friday and Saturday night the play will begin at 8:30. Following the show Saturday night, Grace's orchestra will adjourn to the Minnesota ballroom where they will render music for a public dance. The price is 50 cents per couple.

Press Represented.

Representatives of the press from the Twin City papers will attend the Masquers offering. Carleton Miles will be present Friday evening and criticize the acting, through the medium of the Journal.

Those who desire to see "What Every Woman Knows" and who have not secured tickets should do so at once at the Co-op. Matinee seats are still obtainable. Chairs will be set in the back of the theatre and in the aisles for those who are not able to secure seats for the evening shows and are unable to attend the Saturday afternoon performance.

Turkey Dinner To Be Served In Shevlin

W. S. G. A. Will Give Thanksgiving Dinner for Out-of-Town Girls.

The W. S. G. A. is formulating extensive plans for the annual Thanksgiving spread which will be given this year for out-of-town girls. Dinner will be served at 1 o'clock in Shevlin hall and will be followed by an hours' entertainment. Then, all girls who desire to attend the movies will be invited to do so at the expense of the W. S. G. A. Agatha Kreuger and Reine Pino, who are in charge of the entertainment for the affair, announce that the program of stunts planned is more novel and in no way similar to those given in previous years. Each girl is asked to bring an article which will represent a word. A prize will be donated to the girl who guesses the largest number of words. For instance, a pair of dice might be brought: These would be a symbol for the word "paradise."

Tickets for the dinner may be obtained from any house president or by communicating with box 2093. The menu, which includes roast turkey (with all its trimmings), will cost the W. S. G. A. at least one dollar. Girls may have tickets for fifty cents.

MAGAZINES WANTED.

Any girls who have magazines which can be used in hospital visiting please leave them at Shevlin in the Y. W. C. A. office. The hospital social service committee is very anxious to obtain magazines for that purpose.

CONSIDERATION.

Today when Minnesota is so crowded, every student must exercise a little judicious thoughtfulness for others. Unthinkingly perhaps, small groups of animated femininity or masculinity, as the case may be, gather at inopportune places and effectively block the traffic. If the individuals composing these impromptu socials must converse with one another, why don't they choose some place where they won't hinder the progress of others who are trying desperately perhaps, to go from Folwell to Millard hall in the abbreviated ten minutes allowed. A little consideration in cases of this sort would eliminate much unnecessary and unpleasant congestion.

There is one other place where a little thoughtfulness could very well be employed. Have you ever tried to study in the library reading rooms? Seemingly, the reading rooms are taken to be havens of rest and relaxation, with the result that the relaxation usually precipitates itself into voluble verbosity, which is not only annoying, but actually preventative of any conscientious study. If the students of Minnesota would behave according to the dictates of the time-worn Golden Rule, how much more pleasant things would be. A little sportsmanship, a hint of mutual fair play, and the result will automatically be an atmosphere indicative of Minnesota spirit and compatible with and conducive to real and worthy work.

THE SALARY PROBLEM.

Minnesota students should take a part in a movement inaugurated in Cornell, Harvard, Yale and Princeton, to create a national sentiment for increased salaries for university instructors. Appalling tables show an increase in the wages of uneducated day laborers. For example, during the period from 1914-1919 wages of cotton manufacturer factory employees were increased more than 100 per cent as against an increase of 70 per cent for male workers in metal manufacturing industries.

But we see no mention of additional compensation in this day of the high cost of living for university teachers. Many instructors at Minnesota are receiving but $135 per month and this means for nine months only, not as much as many hotel waiters or plumbers receive. Few members of the faculty receive more than $5000 a year while many of the experts turned out from their laboratories are commanding incomes three and four times as high. Is it not startling to know that some members of the teaching staff receive but $35 a week while bricklayers get $70 per week?

It is time we throw aside our differences and take a vital interest in improving these conditions.

THE LAST GAME.

Saturday, our football team will play the last game on their schedule. The results of this season have not been altogether gratifying, yet there have been compensations. Our men went forth to meet Michigan in high spirits and with confidence. The defeat of two weeks ago has served to urge them on with unprecedented vigor. There is something exhilarating about a noble defeat. The spirit with which our men met their loss at the hands of Illinois, changed their defeat into victory. To this same spirit, we accredit the clean sportsmanship and loyalty which has dominated our players during this year's season. They will maintain this same spirit Saturday when they avenge the loss of the Gophers to the Wolverines in 1910. Minnesota is rooting for her team.

RADICAL SPEECH ON THE CAMPUS.

One of the topics of discussion at the last meeting of one of our literary societies, was, "Shall radical speech be tolerated on the campus?" Different opinions were expressed on the subject, some of which might have been termed "radical" speeches themselves.

The topic introduces a particularly grave and important problem, in the face of our present unsettled political and social life. The university, as the leading institution of higher learning in the state, is constantly more or less before the public eye. Radical views expressed on the campus are apt to attract considerable attention.

Should a ban be placed on all forms of radical speech here at Minnesota? Certain radical views are apt to be given undue attention, and are liable to be misunderstood by the people within as well as outside our walls. Again a radical opinion does not, as a rule, express the general sentiment of the student body. Do the students want opinions, which they do not generally endorse, to be given publicity. The university, which on the whole is conservative acquires the best standing, but did such an institution ever progress, where it never gave the radical a hearing;

The agitator has always been the forerunner of progress. Agitators have always been considered radicals. William Lloyd Garrison and Wendell Phillips, the "abolitionists," were the radicals of their time. Twenty-five or thirty years later anyone defending slavery was considered dangerously retrogressive. Not many years ago anyone who advocated eight-hour day laws, child labor laws, etc., were looked upon as radicals. Only a few years ago, he who advocated profit-sharing for employees, was the wild-eyed Utopian dreamer, yet we have instances today, where this plan is in successful operation. Without the radical, who dares take a step ahead of the conservative many, how would progress ever be brought about?

The university should be an institution in which truth should primarily be sought for. Are we likely to arrive at the truth in all cases by hearing only such arguments as are acceptable to the conservative class? Within proper bounds, even with the possibility of it having undue effect, let us hear radical opinion at Minnesota, in our common struggle for the truth.

Mrs. Eddy Speaks In Y.W.C.A. Drive

"New Women of The East" is Subject of Address in Little Theatre.

"China's greatest era will come during the next century," said Mrs. Katherine Willard Eddy in her address at the mass meeting of university women yesterday, in the Little Theatre. "China, the greatest of the Oriental countries, has had 5,000 years of civilization under her prophet Confucius; but it is a civilization, which has made for degeneration rather than the fine, strong, moral integrity, which is possible only to Christian nations."

"China's system of education based, as it is, on memory perfection has also contributed to this general stagnation, and today a kind of hopelessness has settled over the entire nation. America is one of the few peoples in whose hands lies the power to lift this depression and to elevate China to the rank she deserves in the eastern world."

"Someone has said," continued Mrs. Eddy, "that no nation rises higher than its womanhood. Therefore it is of the utmost importance that we do something to alleviate the deplorable condition of Chinese women. Chinese gentry women live in deadly monotony, while the lives of the lower class women are of unspeakable misery and poverty. They have no social or community interests as do the American women, and there are no laws to protect women and children in the factories. The Y. W. C. A. has been able to do a wonderful work for Chinese women, thus far."

"China has asked the United States to send her industrial experts to help work out a better economic system, but so far we have not complied. China is eager to be led on to a new life through peaceful means, and the question for us to answer is 'Shall we help her?'"

Gopher Contest Winners Withheld

Winning Posters Displayed on Campus Will Be Basis of New Contest.

The 1921 Gopher poster prize contest ended yesterday. Forty displays, of all colors, shapes, and sizes were submitted to the Gopher management before noon yesterday, and at 2:00 o'clock were judged by the three critics chosen for the occasion. However, the names of the winners have been withheld by the staff until Wednesday to allow the students at large an opportunity to participate in another contest based on the one completed yesterday.

The two-score posters judged were the result of much effort on the part of the art department, students enrolled in the architectural college, and other interested persons. The judges who met in the architectural studio on the fourth floor of the Main engineering building were: Professor S. C. Burton, Miss Ruth Raymond, of the art department, and Mr. Victor Pelz, instructor in advertising. More than two hours were taken in arriving at a decision. Certain mistakes, subject to correction, such as naming this year's book the 1920 instead of the 1921 Gopher, did not influence the judges in their choice.

Because the posters are of such unusual quality, it has been decided by the Gopher staff to reproduce several of them in the annual. Two overtown newspapers have also announced their desire to reprint the most successful. For this reason the staff has requested that when these posters are exhibited about the campus they be considered the property of the Gopher and be treated accordingly.

To continue the interest that this contest has created, the publicity department of the Gopher has decided to stage another "guessing bee." In each student's postoffice box Monday morning there will be deposited a ballot upon which persons so desiring may designate the posters they consider worthy of the ten, five, and three dollar prizes offered by the Gopher in the recent contest. The first student handing in to the Gopher Hole, the ballot nearest to the correct winners as picked by the official judges, will be given a 1921 Gopher free. This guessing contest will close Monday afternoon, allowing sufficient time for the exhibition of all displays.

CONCERT AT AG SCHOOL.

Although the Slavic program, which in the early part of the week was scheduled for the college assembly yesterday, was postponed until Thursday, November 27, Ag. students were not disappointed in the musical number selected by Abe Pepinsky, musical director at the farm.

Miss Agnes MacEachran, piano, J. Grant Dent, cello and Abe Pepinsky, violin, played the four movements of Beethoven's well known "Trio in C Minor."

CONVENTION MEETS IN DES MOINES.

faculty representatives. There, William J. Bryan, John R. Mott, William Howard Taft, and many other speakers of unquestionable eminence, addressed the gathering. At the coming convention a list of equally celebrated speakers has been prepared, and no expense has been considered too great to bring them to the convention city.

Colleges Registering Quotas. The latest reports from colleges in different parts of the country indicate full delegations. The University of Maine and two other colleges of the state, representatives of which will have the longest distance to cover in reaching Des Moines have pledged their full quotas and have sent petitions for extra delegates. The state University of Washington has notified convention headquarters in New York that they will send all the students they are allowed, as has also the University of California. Full quotas have been guaranteed by Cornell, Columbia, Yale, Harvard, Williams, Mount Holyoke, Smith, Bryn Mawr, Wellesley and by several hundred others scattered over the country.

Missionaries Not to Be Made. According to information given out by convention leaders, the underlying purpose of the gathering will be to present the great problems of the present Christian era in the best and most authoritative way. The world minds who will attend are to be those who are the most capable and informed in their lines. What the convention heads have been endeavoring to have thoroughly understood is that the high gathering will not devote its entire time and energies to swell the roll of Student Volunteers, foreign missionaries and full-time religious workers, but to encourage and enlighten the outstanding students of the country and of the world in the need of and the practicing of "Vital Christianity" and vital personal service to all with whom they come in contact.

Committee Meets Today.

The Minnesota convention committee meets late today and indications point to an announcement of a number of new developments and a probable incomplete list of delegates selected so far.

Professor Payne Speaks At Smoker

Work Today Is To Prevent Radicalism By Americanizing Our Foreigners.

"Good judgment and authentic facts are the basis upon which the people of the United States should base their actions today," are the words of advice given by Prof. A. F. Payne in his speech to the upperclassmen at their smoker last night. Mr. Payne was formerly special representative of the war department on labor investigation. He carried on investigations in the eastern mines and munition plants during and after the war.

"Newspapers are displaying the spectacular and are not bringing out the true facts of conditions of American laborers. To the majority of people in the United States the mode of living in the congested mining and manufacturing communities are unknown. Men are secured by employers labor scouts throughout the country, and brought to these places to be assimilated. Industrial company's own practically everything. Stores, policemen, houses, the money system, and churches are managed by them. Foremen use a "hire and fire" policy. These start the syndicalism, radicalism and I. W. W.'ism which so largely tends to be growing in our country today. Hours of work are bad. Often men are layed off for several weeks, then suddenly asked to work fourteen hours a day for long periods. Housing conditions are worse, six or eight persons living in small two-room houses. Infant mortality is double that in places where sanitary conditions prevail. About seventy per cent of these people are foreigners from southern Europe. Poles, Hungarians, and Czecho-Slovaks. These illiterate people form the most fertile soil for the propaganda of the Bolshevist. It is not higher wages that these people need, for they receive from four to eight dollars a day, but an alleviation from such dire conditions of ignorance and sloth. Our work today should be the Americanization and education of these people."

GOPHERS HAVE HIGH HOPES.

f this number only forty of the Minnesota student body made the trip. Minnesota's victory hopes have received a setback with the announcement that several of the cripples on the squad who have been expected to participate in the Wolverine game will not be seen in the lineup when the whistle blows tomorrow afternoon. Jack Phillips, who has proven himself one of the best backs on the Gold squad this year, is not expected to be seen in action, according to the latest reports from the Gopher H. Q. Great things were expected from the speedy halfback, if he could recover from his injury to take his place in the Gopher lineup. Another injured star ground gainer, "Walt" Haertel, has not recovered from his injuries as rapidly as his friends have hoped. However, "Walt" may get into the contest, for a time at least. Theron Gerow, injured after putting up a splendid game at Madison, will probably not be at a tackle, Saturday. His place will probably be taken care of by Enke, who was at the beginning of the season one of the likely candidates for end. Enke was one of the unluckiest members of the squad. The injury, which half the squad have had chasing them all season, getting him just before the first game of the year.

The Minnesota team that faces the Yostmen tomorrow should be the strongest eleven that has represented the Gopher institution on the gridiron this year. Most of the players came out of the last eventful contest with only slight bruises and at present are in the best of condition for the struggle. Also with the possible addition of several former cripples, the team should have substitutes of class in reserve.

At the outposts, Gruye and Hanke will take care of the outposts have been holding down most of the season. Both of the Gopher ends have been showing a steady improvement. This is especially true in the case of Hanke. The big fellow was slow as a moving van getting down under kicks at the beginning of the season. In the last three games, however, he has held his own with Gruye and Butler in smothering rival backs who have had little success running back Lamp's kicks. Cantienny, who has been the third choice for an end, may get into the game, in the event of one of the regulars tires or is injured.

One of the tackles will be ably filled by "Trig" Johnson, who has put up a whale of a game all season. "Trig" has solved every thing that our rivals have had in the line of plays directed toward his tackle. Johnson should make a berth on the mythical All-Western eleven if his work is up to the standard in tomorrow's battle. The other tackle berth will probably be taken care of by either Enke or Hawkinson. Enke is considerably the heavier of the two possible forwards and he may get the call to play against the Wolverines.

The center trio will doubtless be of the same makeup as the one that faced the Illini, with Vern Williams, stationed at the pivot and Butler and Tierney at the guards. These men backed up by Ruben, should be able to stop anything that the Wolverines have to offer in the way of attacks at the center of the line.

The backfield strength is something of a puzzle as the Gopher mentor has kept his backfield possibilities considerably shrouded in clouds of mystery. It is a safe prediction, however, to say that Captain Lamp, "Eddie" Ruben and "Arnie" Osa will compose three of the backfield quartet. The other selection likely will be made from Tomasek, Arntson, Phillips, Haertel or Kennedy, with Haertel being the most likely to start the tussle.

Certainly with any four of these men as the Gopher backs the Maroon and Gold eleven should possess a strong offensive combination. The weakest point in the Minnesota play this year has been ineffectiveness of the backs to break up forward passes. Every defeat of the year might be attributed to the weakness of the defense, in that respect.

The team that will represent us on Ferry field, tomorrow, should be the strongest that the coach has been able to place in the field this year and should not only defeat Michigan, but should also be able to compare very favorably with any of the conference championship contenders.
