W. J. BRYAN SPEAKS BEFORE HUGE CROWD AT CONVOCATION

Distinguished Visitor Talks on the Fundamentals of Life and Conduct.

SECRETARY'S SPEECH IS NOT OF POLITICAL NATURE

Address Deals with Man in Relation to Government, to Society, and to God.

At 11:40 yesterday in the University Armory, the Honorable William Jennings Bryan, secretary of state, addressed an audience which was, perhaps, the largest ever assembled at Minnesota. After the singing of "America," President Vincent introduced the speaker, referring particularly to the place which Mr. Bryan has won in the esteem of the American people. As the secretary of state rose to speak, he was received with a tremendous ovation which lasted for several minutes.

In opening his address Mr. Bryan spoke of the desire which has always been his to come into close contact with the student life of the nation. He said, too, that he was, on this occasion, in a difficult position, for he had been told that he could talk on anything but politics. To emphasize the difficulty which he faced, he stated that whenever he preached a sermon, he was accused of talking politics, and whenever he made a political speech, he was sure to be denounced for preaching a sermon. This, he suggested, might be due to

Dr. Jenks Will Deliver Fifth War Lecture Today

Professor of Anthropology to Explain the Ethnic Aspects of the Present Crisis.

Speech on the Rivalry of Nationalities
Will Be Given in Chapel
at 4 P. M.

Dr. Albert Jenks, professor of anthropology, will deliver the fifth of the series of lectures on the European war this afternoon at 4 p. m. in the University Chapel. His theme is "The Ethnic Aspect of the War." Dr. Jenks has made an intensive study of tribal, natural and racial characteristics; and, at the outbreak of hostilities, was in Europe searching among the simple peasants for the national characteristics.

The racial aspect of the present war is vastly more important than Americans would assume. The age-long pressure of Slav and Teuton has suddenly seized all Europe, and fixed the eyes of the world. Dr. Jenks will explain this pressure and show the various traits of the countries, as viewed from a nationalistic standpoint.

Varsity May Lose Stellar Left-Guard

Death of Father of Merton Dunnigan
May Result in Latter
Leaving School.

Loss of Big Linesman Will be a Severe Blow to Entire Squad.

Mr. John B. Dunnigan, 1932 James street, father of Merton Dunnigan, the varsity left guard, died at his home suddenly Monday evening at 7:30. While the blow to his family is a heavy one, it is especially felt by the University, through the loss of one of the teams best men. Merton will probably not play football again this year, and he may be compelled to stop school altogether.

With the clash of the conference but three days away, the varsity is left riddled by a gap in its line which will be hard to fill. Dunnigan is one of the few who played all last year, and his loss will be keenly felt. There is a bare possibility of his returning in time for the Wisconsin game.

The varsity guard seemed stunned when he entered his home Monday evening after football practice and found that his father had died about ten minutes before. He is the oldest son in the family, having a younger brother and two older sisters. Mr. Dunnigan had been in fairly good health until recently when he caught a cold. He died in a fit of coughing, which seemed to have effected his heart.

Purdue students are collecting supplies to be sent to the Belgian refugees in England. It is expected that the goods will be started to Boston in the same week, from which place delivery in England and actual distribution to the Belgians is guaranteed in three weeks. Arrangements have been made for the free transportation of the goods to agents in England.—Exchange.

INITIAL MEETING OF COSMOPOLITAN CLUB IS VERY SUCCESSFUL

PROF. LORENZEN GIVES TALK TRACING MOVEMENT

Exhibition Dancing of Russian Folk Dances and Other Russian Customs Conclude Program.

The installation of an international union at Minnesota came last night when the Cosmopolitan Club held its initial meeting in Shevlin Hall. Professor Lorenzen of the law school spoke on the history of the movement. The Cosmopolitan Clubs were first organized at the Universities of Cornell, Wisconsin, Michigan and Illinois in 1893-6. A national association was formed at Madison in 1907, and the proceedings of the convention published with the motto, "Above all nations is humanity."

To date more than thirty clubs have been organized, in colleges from Harvard to Leland Stanford. The primary object is to promote that home feeling among men on the theory that "Brotherhood of man dispels national prejudices." The national association has since been affiliated with Corda Fratres, or Brothers in Heart. This international federation of students was started in 1898 by Dr. D'Isco Giglio Tos of Italy, which in 1911 affiliated with the South American League of Students. One league now embraces the students of all nations,

Faculty Men Again Show Superiority in Tennis

Professor Dana Victorious in a Hard
Match with Registrar
E. B. Pierce.

Two Students Are Able to Reach the Semi-Finals but Are Defeated.

Pierce, the former champion of the University, went down in defeat in the tennis finals, day before yesterday, to Dana, a fellow faculty man. This is the second consecutive year that faculty men have demonstrated their superiority in tennis over the students. Last year Pierce defeated Roger Kennedy in the finals. This year both the men in the finals belonged to the faculty. Kennedy and Davis were eliminated in the semi-finals.

The championship match this year was one of the most spirited and heated contests that has ever been witnessed on the campus. Pierce started off with a jump and nalled the first set easily, 6-2. Dana immediately took a brace and brought the score to deuce and then finally pulled

PROF. J. M. THOMAS SENDS MESSAGE FROM WAR ZONE

The following is an extract from a letter (October 10th) just received from Professor J. M. Thomas of the department of rhetoric, who is abroad on a years leave of absence.

"London seems to be perfectly safe at present. I do not see how it can be disturbed until the English navy has been defeated. But we shall not make any engagements which will keep us here if matters become in any way unpleasant. I am very certain that London is much less disturbed by the war than is Minneapolis at this time. The stolidity of Englishmen surpasseth all understanding."

Gow Determines to Arouse Spirit for Illinois Game

Deep Plans Are Being Laid to Arouse
Campus "Pep" for Coming Event.

"The University to a Man Should Be on Hand to Help," Says
Rooter King.

Returning from the distant pumpkin fields of Iowa, flushed with the victory of Saturday, Art Gow explains it, "We won any way, but if the fellows had been playing their usual brand of ball, the score keeper's pencil would have been worked considerably harder than it was.

"The four victories that we have won are things of the past, and we must look to the immediate future, which is Illinois. Over-confidence should not be gained from these first four games, which have really only been practice games, for this, the crucial and most important game of the year. That this will be the hardest game of the year, no one doubts who has followed conference football at all closely. If we win Saturday—and we are going to win—there is no reason why we should not walk into the championship."

So proclaimed Art, and he immediately began to cook up plans to make this week the biggest and liveliest week of the year. "It will be a fine and fitting beginning of the great 'homecoming week.' Enthusiasm is absolutely necessary to win Saturday's game. Everybody must come out and pull for the team with every pound of concentrated yell in their bodies. The team could have won their first four games alone; but Saturday they will meet a team that is their greatest barrier to the championship. Then they will have to fall back on the support of the student body. And the whole University, to a man, should be on hand and help push that ball down the field."

Gow has a number of plans which are guaranteed to arouse and instill pep and enthusiasm. These will be announced in a short time. In the meantime, don't forget! Saturday—Illinois—Championship.

Republicans Will Hold Rally

Speakers for Both Parties to Be Present at the College Inn.

Thursday evening some of the most prominent speakers in the present political arena will speak at the College Inn at a big political rally. Most of the students know comparatively nothing about the political issues or the men who are running for the various offices, so the meeting was planned to give everybody a chance to hear some of the most prominent men in the field. Both parties will be represented and also men running on the non-partisan ticket.

Among the speakers for the evening are Hon. Geo. Smith, the present congressman at Washington from this district, who is running for re-election; P. J. Youngdahl, who will speak for Wm. E. Lee; Wm. B. Henderson, Melmon and Otto Davies, two old M. men, and Mr. Benson, who is out for school commissioner.

Several other prominent men will speak that evening. Every student is especially urged to come out and hear these men. The University Republicans and they are trying to present the and the yare trying to present the different candidates to the student public.

Class in Basket Ball for Girls

Classes to Terminate in Spring When Inter-Class Games Will Be Played.

Arrangements have just been completed to give all girls who are interested in basketball, competent instruction in regular classes which will meet three times a week. This plan will enable a large number of girls to learn the game and to learn it correctly, under the supervision of an instructor. The first class will meet beginning Monday, November 2nd, at 3:45 o'clock on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Another class will be held on the same days at 4:45.

Every girl in the University is eligible for these classes and it is expected that a large number will desire to join. It certainly is an exceptional opportunity and no girl who is interested at all in the game can afford to miss it. The four class teams will be organized from the material which is developed in these instruction classes. The instruction course will terminate in a class tournament which will be held some time in the spring. The class championship match will be played some time in March and will be a large affair, at which the public will be permitted to see the teams in action. This tournament has been an annual affair and it is hoped that this year's will excell all previous years.

Registration for the classes will begin to-day after 1 o'clock in the girls' gym. Further details of the course will be given here. Registration will continue until 5 o'clock Saturday. All girls who are coming out are advised to come early and signify their intention.

In spite of the fact that Greek is no longer required as a subject for the degree of B. A. in Pennsylvania University, there is no decrease in the election of Greek by the students, as compared with former years. It is obvious that the expected slump in Greek studies has not taken place, but that on the whole, more students are now studying Greek, as an elective, than last year, as a required study.—Daily Illini.

Organize Committee On Teacher-Training

Committee Is to Assure Co-operation Among Departments of Education.

Information in Regard to Teacher-Training Will Appear in Pamphlet Form.

The University is extending its activities in the training of teachers for the high schools of Minnesota. The College of Education trains primarily those who are preparing to teach the more traditional subjects of the curriculum. The division of agricultural education in the department of agriculture is giving special attention to those who are preparing to teach agriculture, while the division of household economics is providing thorough training for young women who are planning to teach in that field.

It is important that all these University agencies would work in closest accord to avoid, on the one hand, duplication, and on the other hand, lack of co-operation and sympathy with each others tasks. In order to provide organization for insuring co-operation a conference committee on teacher training has been organized. It will include, ex-officio, the president of the University and the dean of the department of agriculture. Other members will be Professors A. W. Rankin, A. V. Storm, W. H. Bender, Samuel Quigley, Josephine T. Berry. The conference committee will meet regularly once a month and oftener when special reasons demand.

One function of the committee will be to issue a pamphlet which shall contain information with respect to all the work of the University.

the remarkable similarity between religion and the tenets of the democratic party.

Speaks on "Fundamentals."

Mr. Bryan announced his subject as "Fundamentals," that is, the fundamentals of human life and conduct essential aspects of government, he and to religion. In dealing with the essential aspects of government, he took up Thomas Jefferson's masterly analysis of party division. Jefferson declared that there are but two parties, not distinguished by the varying manner under which they may appear, but by the spirit which animates them. On the one hand is the aristocrat's element, distrusting the people, and on the other hand, the democratic party, believing in, and trusting, the people. There is only one permanent line which divides humanity—the line which separates the man at heart an aristocrat from the man at heart a democrat. The democrat believes that society is built up from the bottom; the aristocrat, that it is suspended from the top. The democrat says: legislate for the people; the aristocrat cries: legislate for the well-to-do, and then wait until our prosperity seeps down to the masses. Causes and conditions, declared Mr. Bryan, may differ with times and nations, but the fundamental struggle that goes on continuously is the struggle between the few who want privilege and the many who desire only their rights. The man at heart a democrat is ever trying to bring government closer to the people, to make it more responsive to the people's will, because the people will make government just to every man. The aristocrat fights against the movement for popular government because he knows that it means the loss of special privilege.

"Here on the soil of America, our forefathers planted the seed that is now growing everywhere. America is leading the way, is setting the pattern for other nations. Of all the nations of the earth, America has the best opportunity to make government responsive to the people's will.

"The strength of nations," declared Mr. Bryan, "does not lie in armies or ironclads. All the nations formerly great have at the zenith of their power, based their strength on physical forces. Yet time is strewn with the wrecks of the nations. Nothing can resist the force of an onward-moving idea, and back of thought is love. Stable government must be based on the heart. I fear the plutocracy of wealth, I respect the aristocracy the democracy of the human heart."

Dwells on Social Duty.

In passing from the discussion of man's relation to government to an analysis of social relationship, Mr. Bryan stated that the social duty may

To University Voters:

The Minnesota Alumni Weekly, in its latest issue says:

"It is vastly important that the men who are in charge of the University bills, in both houses of the legislature, be men whose affiliations will commend them to all those who stand for the best things in government."

The record of FRANK L. PALMER shows him to be such a man.

Moreover, Mr. Palmer originally became a candidate at the urgent solicitation of alumni and other friends of the University.

He consented to stand for re-election at the same solicitation; and Became a candidate for the Senate upon the same urgent request, when it was known that Mr. Elwell would not be a candidate.

PRESIDENT NORTHROP was urged, last spring, to become a candidate for the Senate, and seriously considered the proposition. He decided, however, that there was no need for him to become a candidate since MR. PALMER had already announced his candidacy.

Mr. Palmer is not in the race because he wants to be but because he was urged by University people to get into the race. Naturally, being in the race, he feels that his record, as an active and able friend of the University and a man who consistently stood for the best things, entitles him to the votes of those who want to see the best things win.

be of even greater importance than the political. There is but one principal, he declared, which can bring perfect harmony into society,—to make God's law of reward the law of society, that is, that in proportion to one's intelligence and industry, so shall be one's reward. This is a law which has always operated except where man has suspended it or evaded it; yet it cannot be fully effective until humanity places the ban of disgrace upon the idler instead of upon the toiler.

In considering the question of how much money a man may rightfully take from society, Mr. Bryan said that no man could justly take more than he earns, and that he earns no more than he fairly pays for with services rendered. No man can be fairly condemned as unjust to society, unless it can be proved that he takes from society more than he gives. Nor can any limit, says Mr. Bryan, be placed on the amount which a man may earn. There are some men who may be said to have been worth to society at least $500,000,000. Such men were Jefferson and Lincoln. Yet still another thing is true of all men who have been of such worth to the world: they have never collected what they earned. "They have been so busy earning it, that they have not had time to collect; while those who have collected, have been too busy doing so, to earn what they collected. In concluding his treatment of man's relation to society, Mr. Bryan particularly emphasized the fact that not only material reward, but greatness and happiness as well, are measured by service.

Relation to God Paramount.

More important than his relation to government and society, is man's relation to God, Mr. Bryan declared in taking up the third fundamental problem of humanity. Quoting from the writings of Tolstoi, he administered a stinging rebuke to those who believe that religion is a thing convenient to keep the masses in check, but which is outgrown as men acquire culture and learning. For, says Tolstoi, "Anyone who has experienced religious feeling knows that it is not superstition, but one's consciousness of finite existence in the midst of the infinite. And this consciousness of the finite cannot be outgrown." Why, asked Mr. Bryan, should one believe only what one understands? Does anyone doubt the existence of the sun because he cannot explain it? Whether he believes or not, he lives because there is a sun.

Furthermore, "religion is not strange; it is most practical. Tolstoi says that religion is the relation which man fixes between himself and God. Morality is the outward manifestation of this religion. The first thing that man must know is God, and the last thing, God. Character is the power of endurance; character rests on morals, and morals on religion. No failure but began by moral decay."

In closing, Mr. Bryan emphasized once more the fact that there are three fundamental relationships in human life, and three fundamental ideals to which a man must remain true: duty to government, honesty to society and faith in God.

Initial Meeting of Cosmopolitan Club Is Very Successful

and at the congress held at Ithaca, N. Y., in 1913, a new constitution was adopted, making a more adequate world-wide federation. An International Bureau has been established in Boston.

Dr. Lorenzen in his talk quoted the striking statement of President Van Hise of Wisconsin, made in 1907: "No other student organization is likely to accomplish more for the universities of the nation and for education in general than the Association of Cosmopolitan Clubs."

After Professor Lorenzen's talk there was a short business session. The company then adjourned to the reception hall, where a Siberian program had been arranged for. Helen Hardy and T. Arenson danced a couple of the genuine Russian folk dances. There was also Russian music on Russian instruments by several of the foreign students of the University, and also scenes in costumes depicting Russian peasantry life. After the program the party was served with various Russian national foods.

Dean Vance of the law school extended an invitation through Professor Lorenzen for the Cosmopolitan Club to meet at his home at its next session. The proposal was unanimously accepted. The date of the next meeting will be announced later.

Societies Outline Work

Thaljan, Minerva and Theta Epsilon Are to Take Up Various Activities.

The girls' literary societies at Minnesota have taken up enthusiastically their work for the present year. The Thaljan society is planning to take up the study of the drama. The members may dramatize books or write original plays. The Minerva Society is to study ancient art and current events. At each meeting two papers on the former and one on the latter will be read. Theta Epsilon plans to continue its work in creative writing.

Miss Caroline Crawford of Columbia University faculty, in Minneapolis Monday, criticized the big educational institutions of the country for not giving greater opportunities to women. She says the big colleges have opened their doors to women, but that they have not made courses to meet their needs except in classes for prospective teachers.

Women must study courses originally planned for men, Miss Crawford says. Domestic science is taught as a training for girls who are going to teach it, but colleges are not teaching it for women who are going into homes to use what they learn.

"Dramatic Games, Their Place in Education," was the theme of a talk Miss Crawford gave at Central High School to Minneapolis teachers.

James Robertson
County Attorney

Candidate for Re-election

Requests the support of the thinking students of the University at the Election.

The office of county attorney for a great county like that of Hennepin with a great metropolitan city as its center has become a great business proposition. The matters coming before this official are in number and importance sufficient to test the business and executive ability of a man of the highest ability. The organization of a force to meet the varied duties of this office is a task of rare tact and discretion. The growth of the business of this office in five years last past has been stupendous. The new probation law, one of the best ever passed, has multiplied the duties two-fold. Yet it can be truthfully said of James Robertson, the present incumbent, that he has met all these duties in a manner which has and does receive commendation of those familiar with the service rendered by those best fitted to judge. His percentage of convictions is higher than the percentage of any man who ever occupied the office, reaching in 1913 the unprecedented figure of 68 per cent. His devotion to his official duties have been severe and arduous. Yet with all his obedience to duty and faithful enforcement of the law his administration of the great office he occupies has not hardened his heart or made of him a mere machine. The probation law receives its fullest enforcement under his views of the wisdom of the same. It would be the worst of business methods for the voters of this great county to change a man of this character and caliber for an untried candidate.

We will beat Illinois! Let's start something now, and keep it going until after Saturday. Everybody on!

MINNESOTA ABROAD.

A question that should concern those who hold the welfare of Minnesota at heart is the standing of the University in places outside the State. A university as large and as wealthy as ours ought to be well known abroad. The extension work and the State-wide Campus idea have done a great deal to make Minnesota known at home. Without the State, however, Minnesota's "publicity stock" is not selling much above par. There are other universities, and their names are not few, whose stock is leading our own by considerable margins. There is no reason why Minnesota should consent to be any less well known in the East, for example, than the University of Wisconsin or the University of California. Nor is there any reason why the University of Michigan or the University of Illinois should be allowed to "scoop" us in lands outside our own country. Yet an impartial observer would probably tell us that both of these conditions now exist.

There may be some question as just what is the advantage of the outside student to any university. The answer may be found by looking at some of the larger eastern universities where the student bodies are recruited from both far and near, and the number of foreign students is large. There is an air of cosmopolitanism, and a lack of provincialism that is often missing in the mid-western university that has a more limited clientele. It is an air that is beneficial to any university, and adds to the breadth of vision that the student may get therefrom.

How are we to be better known? President Vincent has done some of the necessary advertising personally. The Library is doing some, also, in sending Minnesota publications to various libraries and institutions here and abroad. Any extension of this service might prove an advantage. The committee of public spirited citizens that has undertaken to raise money to permit the University to have an exhibit at the Panama Exposition, due to the failure of the legislature to make a proper appropriation, is doing some more of the work. All of these agencies are at work. May the day soon come when it will be possible to extend this system to a regular advertising policy, maintained by the University authorities for the advantage of Minnesota.

Confident Illinois Team
Coming Next Saturday

Men Are Working Hard Under "Doc" to Come Out Victorious in this Game.

Illinois with Noted Backfield and Line to Be Here Next Saturday.

Three more days for practice and preparation for the biggest game of the year. Three days of work, a scant nine hours, and the demons from Illinois are upon us, for the climax of the season. Long before the opening of the official practice season on September 21st, Dr. Williams had his eye on the strong Illini squad. He remembered the game of a year ago, the last of the season, which though won, was only finally obtained by putting forth the last ounce of effort, into that startling style of forward pass game.

Illini Eleven Strong.

The Illinois prospects this year were the talk of the season. Material was in abundance and their early progress has been excellent. They have overcome their early rivals without effort and are coming to Minneapolis this week with their manner of attack unknown. A great backfield and a great line, and both in perfect trim!

"Doc" Getting Ready.

All this Dr. Williams has taken into account and he laid his plans far back in the year for just such a contingency. The scouts have been busy, and Minnesota's defense has been strengthened and trained to be ready. The Iowa team was stronger than was anticipated, and they delayed progress for the time being.

On Monday, back from the Hawk-eye game, the boys went to work with a will and toiled late, in learning new signals and new plays. Sig Harris witnessed the Illi-Northwestern game and was on hand to vouch for the strength of Zuppke's team, and as he is drilling the freshman squad to meet the varsity in scrimmage, he will attempt to use an Illi attack with which to improve the first team.

Last night one of the stiffest drills was in order and it was long after 6 o'clock before the session ended and Joe Roth's assistants spread the hay back over the turf and turned off the big search-light.

GIRLS' SWIMMING MEET TO-DAY WILL FEATURE THE "PLUNGE"

At the girls' swimming meet this afternoon the principle feature will be the plunge. Every Thursday, when the girls have possession of the tank, a series of different strokes is taken up. This week, however, a number of dives will be practiced instead, so as to prepare the swimmers for the large meet which will be held in the spring. Regulation swimming suits can be procured at the Library for $1.25 and $2.60.

IN THE CROW'S NEST

Saturday's Game with Illinois to Be the Crucial Contest of the Season—Illinois the Strongest Team in the West—The Indians' Backfield—Two Contestants for the "Big Nine" Championship Will Be Eliminated this Week.

By "Val."

Illinois has the strongest team in the West, if we are to judge from her first three games. Like Minnesota, though, she has not yet bucked up against an opponent anywhere near equal to herself in strength. What will happen when she does will be answered Saturday when Zuppke's "Indians" meet the Gophers in the crucial game of the season. Minnesota's hope of winning this contest is certainly not the brightest. Granting that we are as strong as Chicago, as was shown by the Iowa games, Illinois is still far stronger than the Maroons, having defeated Northwestern by a much better margin than did Chicago. It certainly seems that the Illinois men are stronger than the Gophers; they are at least our match.

Our one hope of winning, then, lies in the ability of our men to rush the "Indians" off their feet. Illinois' first string men are almost

For City Treasurer

GEO. C. MERRILL

Mr. Merrill has resided in Minneapolis for thirty-two years. He is president of Merrill Abstract Company. Was one of the organizers and first president of the Metropolitan Bank. Was Register of Deeds 1901-1906. Was graduated from the Law Department of the U. of M., and admitted to the Bar of Minnesota in 1895.

He promises, if elected—
Not to seek re-election for more than one term—four years in all.
Not to ask for nor accept any increase in salary during term of service.

To administer the office faithfully, efficiently, and economically.

"The term of the Treasurer should be limited."

It is believed by most writers and thinkers on the subject that the office of treasurer is a class by itself and that the term of eligibility of treasurers should be limited, and the public funds turned over to successors at the end of reasonable periods. Indeed, rotation in office and limitation of term is deemed so essential in regard to treasurerships that provision is made therefor in a number of the state constitutions and statutes. For example:

In Buffalo, Philadelphia, Indianapolis, Los Angeles, and other cities, the treasurers are ineligible to succeed themselves after serving one term of four years.

The city treasurer of Chicago is ineligible to succeed himself after one term of two years.

Hurd's Statutes, Chap. 24, Art. 4, Sec. 49.

"49. At the general election held in 1877, and biennially thereafter, a mayor, a city clerk, a city attorney, and a city treasurer shall be elected in each city. Provided, that no person shall be elected to the office of city treasurer for two terms in succession."

Many states also limit the term of county and state treasurers.

The present city treasurer of Minneapolis was appointed to that office by the City Council, April 30, 1909, to fill the unexpired term of Mr. C. S. Hulbert, who was elected to serve the term of 1909-1910. He is now completing his third consecutive term and seeking election to a fourth term.

There is a Great Difference in Tobaccos

Tuxedo is the Mildest, Sweetest, Most Pleasant Smoke in the World, Because—

First—No one but the makers of Tuxedo is willing to spend the money necessary to buy the mildest, choicest, most thoroughly aged, selected Burley tobacco.

Second—No one but the makers of Tuxedo knows how to treat this Burley tobacco so that every bit of pleasantness and goodness remains in the tobacco and every bit of unpleasantness and harshness is taken out.

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

Tuxedo was born in 1904. Its first imitator appeared two years later. Since then a host of imitations have been born and are clamoring for your patronage.

No imitation is ever as good as the original. No amount of advertising, no amount of bluster and bluff, can ever make an imitation tobacco as good as Tuxedo.

If you are not a pipe smoker, you are denying yourself the greatest smoking pleasure known to man. Try Tuxedo in your pipe this week.

all in the "star" class. Zupke has never yet used all his first squad in a game at one time. Saturday, therefor, will mark the first appearance of his famous all-star backfield, consisting of Clark, Macomber, Schobinger and Pogue. Clark is said to be a wonderful runner, an expert at passing the ball and a fine all around defensive player. Schobinger, the giant fullback, is a living battering ram for line plunges. Macomber is the kicker of the team and scarcely ever fails on kicking goals; his place kicks are perfect. Pogue is the swiftest of them all and holds the record of having made at least one touchdown in every game he has played. The line is of the stone-wall variety; the whole team is a perfect fighting unit. Minnesota is going to have the battle of its life this week.

Two of the four contestants for the "Big Nine" championship will be practically eliminated by Saturday's contests. Chicago will battle with Wisconsin for superiority, while the Gopher-Indian game here will eliminate either Illinois or us—at least for awhile.

LAWS DEFEAT MEDICS IN INTRA-MURAL FOOTBALL

Yesterday afternoon the Laws demonstrated their football ability by successfully defeating the Medics by a score of 13 to 6. At the end of the second quarter the Medics made a touchdown, but failed to kick goal. However, the Laws were by no means disheartened at this score, and they immediately started a march up the field, in the second half. Then with forty yards to go, a law man hurled a forward pass to a fellow lawyer who was sitting behind the line. They then kicked goal, making the score 7 to 6 in favor of the Laws.

In the final quarter the Medics, with a determined effort brought the ball up to the Laws' two-yard line, where it was fumbled, only to be picked up by a lawyer, who ran the entire length of the field for a touchdown. The Laws failed to boot the ball over the bar, so the score stood 13 to 6 in favor of the "spielers."

the set, 8-6. Dana was now playing at the very height of his game, and the next set went to him easily.

Pierce's chances for victory were now greatly diminished. In the last and decisive set he made one last desperate stand to ward off defeat. Again and again the game went to deuce until it looked as though it were going to be an all-night affair. Dana finally wore out Pierce and won the set and the championship. The scores by sets were as follows: Dana-Pierce, 2-6, 8-6, 6-1, 15-13.

Aggie Frosh Hold Huge Mass Meeting Yesterday

Class Votes to Introduce a Traditional Freshman Class Cap Soon.

Plan to Hold Hallowe'en Party Receives Enthusiastic Approval of Assembly.

The freshman college class on the Agricultural campus met in a body at a rousing meeting at 7:30 yesterday morning in the Administration Building, and decided to wear a class cap of green and white.

Possibly the most enthusiastic group of students ever assembled in one mass meeting braved the cold, gray dawn to demand as a privilege and right the wearing of a class cap to establish the "class cap tradition."

Dunn, their yell-master, and candidate for the presidency, called the meeting to order and introduced Comlossy, a senior transfer from Michigan, who spoke on "Freshmen Caps in Michigan," telling them why and how the tradition was established in that college.

Robert Hodgson, a junior, followed up Comlossy with a whirlwind talk on the "College Spirit," showing how the cap would act as a binding tie to bring the freshman class closer together here and identify them so that the upper classmen could get acquainted with them.

Then Dunn called for remarks and one lone man thought the decision should be delayed and made general throughout the University, but opinion caused him to retire.

A rising vote was taken and practically a unanimous vote resulted, which brought forth a lusty yell.

The class then voted favorably on having a Hallowe'en party, and a committee was appointed to take charge of the arrangements.

The following men have been nominated for the vacancy on the Agri-

The election will be held in the Main Building Thursday and the polls will be open from 8:45 in the morning till noon. All men in the Agricultural College only will be eligible to vote.
