This is UMD

There is a continuing air of excitement at the University of Minnesota-Duluth. A young and vigorous institution, UMD is much more than buildings and books. It is a total educational experience, dedicated to providing students with an opportunity to become truly educated... socially, intellectually, emotionally and physically.

Joining with the University of Minnesota in 1947, UMD is one of five campuses in the University system. Minnesota-Duluth's primary mission is to provide high quality instructional programs for undergraduate students. It also provides graduate, professional and continuing education programs along with significant research and service activities.

Situated near Lake Superior in the hills of Duluth, UMD has a physical plant of over 30 buildings valued at $50 million. As a result of an interconnected all-weather campus and distinctive barrier-free architectural design, physically handicapped students have greater access to facilities at UMD.

The student body at UMD numbers approximately 7,100 with a faculty of 400. Minnesota-Duluth is large enough to fit the needs of students seeking a university-level education, but small enough to assure friendly relationships with faculty, staff and fellow students.

UMD offers 73 majors, including a bachelor's program in inter-disciplinary studies. The University offers 16 pre-professional programs.

Minnesota-Duluth's undergraduate programs are organized within two colleges and three schools: College of Letters and Science, College of Education, School of Business and Economics, School of Social Development and School of Fine Arts. Graduate programs are offered through the University of Minnesota Graduate School and College of Education. UMD also offers the first two years of basic science for students in the School of Medicine.
