GREEK CLUB.

Will hold second meeting of year tonight.

On Tuesday evening, instead of Monday evening as heretofore, Nov. 21, the Greek Club will hold the second meeting of the year at the home of Dr. Brooks, 1708 Laurel Avenue. The subject, which has been chosen for the year, is "The Family Life of the Greeks," and Dr. Brooks at this meeting will give a general introductory lecture. All present and former students of Greek are very cordially invited to be present.

GOPHER MAKERS STRUGGLE ALONG

WORK ON 1907 ANNUAL PROGRESSING FAVORABLY.

One of the books will be comical as opposed to critical.—Gopher Hole in Pillsbury Hall.

In the face of all the difficulties with which the 1904 Gopher Board has had to contend, a remarkable amount of progress has been made, while more definite plans for the future are now in good running order.

A great deal of the art and literary work has already been handed in and is of exceptionally good quality.

Regular meetings of the entire board are being held once a week in the new Gopher Hole at the top of the Pillsbury building.

Arrangements have been made to furnish the hole in such a sumptuous manner that, in comfort and beauty both, it will far exceed the workshop of any former Gopher Board.

A special meeting of the '07 Board was held a short time ago with the faculty members of the committee on student publications. At this meeting it was unanimously decided to accentuate the comical point of view in this year's book in preference to the critical and more cutting tone which it has become customary to use.

The faculty offered their services when ever they could be used and announced that they did not intend to act as censors of the material handed in in any way.

Other meetings will be held with this committee from time to time to try to solve any difficulties that may arise before the Board.

It has been decided to have an Art and a Literary Committee appointed who will be responsible for the material which goes into the book. The members of the former are Nathan Blackburn, Vera Cole and Ralph Dyer. Those on the latter committee are Nathan Blackburn, Richard Griggs and Amy Oliver.

ATTENDANCE SMALL.

Only six thousand people saw the Nebraska game.

The attendance at the football game Saturday was distinctly disappointing. There were between five and six thousand people at Northrop Field and almost twice that number were expected.

There was little or no scalping, as many seats could be secured at the regular price, thus making no demand for high price seats.

TO TUNE OF "HAIL MINNESOTA" VARSITY OVERWHELMS NEBRASKA

Individually and in Team Play the Gophers Completely Outclass the Visitors--Bandelin at Center Keeps the Cornhusker Captain Busy

Playing with a speed and spirit that seemed absolutely invincible, the Varsity succeeded in scoring six touchdowns against Nebraska on Saturday the score of 35 being four points more than Michigan's record against the same team.

The Cornhuskers, contrary to the expectations of the Minnesota adherents, were completely outclassed from start to finish and save in a few instances were powerless to withstand the terrific attack of Capt. Current's men.

The game was in some respects the antithesis of the Nebraska-Michigan contest. The Wolverines were unable to score in the first half at all, and succeeded in piling up points only after their opponents were exhausted. Minnesota, however, made four of her touchdowns in the first period, overwhelming the visitors from the very outset; whereas in the second half only two scores were made, and the play was more even throughout.

The first touchdown came after a few minutes of play. The Varsity got the ball on the kick-off on their own ten yard line and carried it from there to Nebraska's goal without once losing it. Schucknecht, Borgan and Cutting were called upon to carry the ball most frequently and rarely failed to gain less than five yards.

Benedict fizzled his second kick-off and Bandelin fell on the ball for Minnesota. The second touchdown was made in much the same manner as the first, the Gophers carrying the ball by short rushes from the middle of the field over the goal line. The play at this stage of the game was very fast.

The Nebraska players barely getting an opportunity to get into place. The pace began to tell on the lighter visitors and after nearly every rush Booth's men were forced to take out time.

Shortly after the second touchdown same sort of play. No long runs were his place. Two more touchdowns were made in the first half by much the same sort of play. No long runs were made, most of the gains averaging about five yards. Minnesota was never held for downs and not once was Larkin forced to punt in this half.

CAPS AND GOWNS FOR THE SENIORS

WILL BE PURCHASED FROM EASTERN FIRM.

Cotrell & Leonard Receive the Contract—Gowns Will Be on Exhibition Today.

The senior class held a meeting yesterday to hear the report of the Cap and Gown Committee and to decide upon the style of gown to be adopted. No decision could be reached, so the matter was left to the discretion of the committee, Earl Constantine chairman. Mr. Constantine's report is as follows:

The gowns are going to be ordered from Cotrell and Leonard of Albany New York. Both the men's and ladies' gowns are going to have an open front.

There will be three different grades, whose prices are to be for the girls $4.70, $5.25, and $6.50, and for the men $5.00, $5.75 and $6.90.

The samples and types will be exhibited to the members of the class during the second hour and chapel hour to-day, as well as from 12:30 to 1:00. This is in order that everyone may know what material he or she prefers, before going before the committee for measurement.

The committee also requests that all members of the class get their correct height and weight, which will insure them a good fit.

The company offered the committee five extra gowns and upon motion these gowns were allowed to the committee members.

AUTHORS OF CLASS PLAY ARE CHANGED

FRANCES CHAMBERLAIN RESIGNS FROM COMMITTEE.

James Watts will take the chairmanship of committee and Lucile Way is appointed third member.

Frances Chamberlain has tendered her resignation from the class play committee.

President Sinclair has decided to accept Miss Chamberlain's resignation, and has appointed Lucile Way to fill the vacancy, while James Watts is advanced to the position of chairman of the committee. Miss Way is a graduate of the Johnson School of Dramatic Art and is well versed in work of this sort.

FOOTBALL MEN AT THEATRE.

Randolph McRae will go to Madison, Wis., Thursday night.

He will go as Minnesota's agent to look up the Western Basketball League. McRae is to investigate it in every particular and report to the Board of Control.

If everything is satisfactory the chances are that Minnesota will enter the League. It will be definitely decided at the first meeting after the football season is closed.

MICHIGAN METHODS SEVERELY SCORED

ALUMNI ADMIT THAT THEY "KEPT" ATHLETES.

Michigan foremost in proselyting methods. Overtures made to Leahy of Wisconsin, Lightbody of Chicago and Brush and Fryckman of Minnesota.

The spot light has been switched from Madison to Ann Arbor. For a full week Michigan's so-called amateur athletics will receive their full share of publicity. Ned Jordan, in this week's Collier's gives a few inside facts regarding Michigan. Next week he promises Minnesota a place in the lime-light.

After quoting from the President of Leland Stanford's tirade against the Michigan methods, Jordan says: "Yost found Michigan craving for success. Her coaches had failed and the alumni were willing to pledge themselves to aid all efforts to get material."

Henry J. Killelea, the Milwaukee lawyer, says: "The success of Michigan is largely due to the unusual loyalty of the alumni." He also frankly stated that he had sent Archie Hahn, the Michigan sprinter, to college at his own expense after seeing Hahn run a fast dash at the state fair in Milwaukee four years ago.

"Willie" Heston, one of the greatest half-backs known in football annals, a member of the All-American team and the hero of the western preparatory schoolboy, was "found," sent to college, furnished with remunerative but easy employment, and given a coaching position at the conclusion of his college course through the instrumentality of the Michigan "system."

Murfin is the so-called "bell-cow rooster" of the Michigan football fans, and he believes in victory as an advertisement for the college. He is a man of conservatism, is counsel for the McMillan Corporation interests of Detroit and admits that he "took care of Heston while in college." He smiled when I mentioned Heston. Then he wrinkled his brow and said: "I'll tell you about this man Heston. He is not a cultured boy. He fixes his napkin when he starts to eat as if he were going to shave. He would not associate with educated people much, and I don't suppose he knows much about law, but you ought to see that boy hit the line." The business of Heston at Michigan was hitting the line. It was not the study of law.

Two years ago Ralph Rose was the pampered hero of the Michigan arena; a product of the far-reaching alumni recruiting system; a poor student, and (Continued on page 8.)

If the rooters are to be scored for failure to support the team, they are certainly to be praised when they do their duty, and especially do they deserve commendation for their work on Saturday.

The cheering was in quantity and quality of a very high order and both the new and old yells were given with effect.

The band in particular should receive credit for its support and its music at critical times was the very thing that was needed to put new force into the men.

The most pleasing feature of the rooting was that the cheering and music were, if anything, even more in evidence when Nebraska had the ball than when Minnesota was sweeping everything before her.

On the whole the rooters showed a fine spirit and proved not only that they can appreciate a great team, but also that they can stick by it through thick and thin.

On Saturday for the first time at a football contest the Minnesota Song was played frequently. As the men themselves say, the music is more inspiring than any of the other tunes which the band plays and should be used regularly at critical times.

It seems also that it would be more becoming to the dignity and impressiveness of the song if the spectators would rise and the men take off their hats while it is being given by the band. "Minnesota, Hall to Thee!" has become so well known now that its very mention cannot fail to inspire a feeling of reverence in a Minnesota man and when one bears in mind the lofty thoughts for which the music stands one must rise almost unconsciously at the opening strains.

It is just a little thing, but it is one of those little things which mean so much.

When next the Minnesota Song is given let every Minnesota man rise and stand uncovered until the song is completed.

PLEASE REMEMBER.

There is a little matter to which the Daily begs to call the attention of some of its subscribers. We really hate to speak of it but some have seemingly allowed it to slip their minds. To us this is necessary in our business. We won't speak further on the subject. Perhaps you have already questioned the drift of our remarks.

MICHIGAN METHODS SEVERELY SCORED

a wonderful athlete, Rose was brought to Michigan from Healdsburg, California. He came expecting that Michigan cared more for his brawn than for his brain. He was right. Unsavory notoriety was brought upon Michigan by his alleged declaration that he could whip Jim Jeffries.

Western education lay at the door of Michigan, the most flagrant case of proselyting that has come to their attention, and Michigan is either guilty or the standards of her once famous law school are deplorably low. "Tom" Hammond is the present star of her football squad. Hammond was barred from high-school athletics in his junior year because he was not qualified to keep up in his work at the Hyde Park High School at Chicago.

Brush of Minnesota tells of having been pledged to Michigan for three years. Lealy, the Wisconsin baseball catcher, declared that he had been offered a good position, which meant little work, on condition that he go to Michigan. Lightbody of Chicago has been approached by Baird. Fryckman, a Minneapolis high-school boy, has entered Minnesota, declaring that he was offered advantages at Michigan. A Michigan alumnus told me that no better system of keeping in touch with the alumni and men could be devised than that handled by Baird.

TO TUNE OF
"HAIL MINNESOTA"
In the second half the Gophers played the same aggressive game but showed an unfortunate tendency towards fumbling, which resulted in the loss of at least two touchdowns. Dan Smith, who replaced Vita at guard, was called on frequently to carry the ball and played a better game than at any other time this year. Nebraska, showed a marked improvement in the second half and twice when in possession of the ball was able to gain consistently, once covering sixty yards by short, hard rushes. Her offense was more spirited and aggressive than her defense and for a time gave the Minnesota rooters a considerable scare. The Varsity, however, succeeded in throwing back her runners at critical times.

Minnesota's play on the whole was immensely superior to her work against Wisconsin. The men played together better and Larkin got his plays off with much more speed and precision. Individually also the play was of a very high order. Joe Cutting, before his injury, was the star of the day, dodging and twisting his way through the Nebraska players for Minnesota's longest gains. Next to Cutting Schucknecht was our best ground gainer. The surprise of the day was the work of Bandelin at center. Although it was his first experience in a big contest he played a heady, aggressive game that kept the much touted Borg on the jump at all times. Capt. Current played his usual splendid game both in offense and defense.

Bobby Marshall played a perfect game at end and in spite of the fact that Nebraska steered clear of him for the most part, managed to get into the plays with telling effect. Burgan, too, put up a very strong game and proved a consistent ground gainer. Larkin ran the team with good generalship and except in handling punts in a very creditable exhibition. For Nebraska, Benedict ran his team with skill, was a sure tackler, and punted well. Eager and Mason also made a good showing. The game was not marred by wrangling and was an exhibition of the clean, gentlemanly play which has characterized the 1905 team throughout the season. The line-up was as follows—
Minnesota— Nebraska—
Marshall, l. e. r. e. McDonald
Ittner, l. t. r. t. Burns
