

Office of the Provost
Vol. XXXII, No. 9
Newsletter Hotline: 726-7110

University of Minnesota, Duluth
UMD News Service
November 6, 1980

UMDEA WINS BARGAINING ELECTION The Duluth chapter of the Minnesota Education Association (UMDEA) won a run-off election held last week at UMD becoming the first union bargaining agent ever for faculty members. UMDEA received 155 votes (57 %) and the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) received 118 votes (43 %). The Bureau of Mediation Services in St. Paul has 10 days to certify the election and to name UMDEA as bargaining agent for faculty members. Contract negotiations with the University administration may start following the certification, according to Tom Bacig, UMDEA representative and English professor.

MIDDLE EAST The physical and cultural geography of the Middle East will be the subject of a special topics course in geography during winter quarter. This timely course, which is open to the general public, will look at historical and cultural dimensions of the Middle East as well as examine current events. The course will be taught by Ahmed Shamekh, a visiting professor from Riyadh University in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, who also is a UMD graduate, along with Fred Witzig, geography professor. The class will meet at 9 a.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays in Room 316 Social Science Building. Three credits are available. For more information, contact the geography department, 7294.

SUBLIMINAL SEDUCTION That will be the subject of a lecture by national author Wilson Bryan Key, at 8 p.m. Monday (Nov. 10) in Bohannon Hall 90. Key is the author of two books on subliminal advertising and persuasion: "Subliminal Seduction" and "Media Sexploitation." The lecture, sponsored by the Kirby Program Board, is free and open to the public.

MONEY MANAGEMENT A series of informal informational breakfast seminars are being planned to help faculty members become wiser personal money managers. Each session will focus on a particular topic of money management and will feature resource experts. The first seminar will be on "Where and How to Store Your Money" which will look at banks, savings and loans, credit unions and money markets. It will be held from 7 to 7:50 a.m. Tuesday (Nov. 11) in K250. The speaker will be Ray Young, vice president of administration, First Bank-Duluth. The sessions are free and open to all UMD faculty.

AMISH SUBJECT OF FILM LECTURE The Geography Club and Gamma Theta Upsilon, the geography honor society, will present a film and special lecture by Sue Jessico, Two Harbors High School instructor and UMD geography graduate, on "The Amish: A People of Preservation." The presentation will be at 7:30 p.m. Wed. (Nov. 12) in Social Science 316. The lecture and film are free and open to the public. Don't miss this presentation on a fascinating subculture.

ARISTOTLE Professor Norman Dahl of the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, will present a philosophy colloquium at 4 p.m. Wed., Nov. 12, in 445 A.B. Anderson Hall on "Aristotle on Weakness of the Will." The lecture is free and open to the public.

RECREATIONAL SPORTS NEWS Run for Thanksgiving Dinner. Sign up for and run in the Turkey Trot Races, Mon. (Nov. 10). Three and ten mile events will be held with turkeys for the winners in men's, women's over 30 and under 30 categories.

Aerobic Dance will be offered again winter quarter. Monday/Wednesday and Tuesday/Thursday sessions will be held. Cost is $5 with a participation pass and $10 without a pass.. To register, sign up in Rec. Sports, beginning Friday, Nov. 7. REC. SPORTS HOTLINE: 7128.

MENTAL HEALTH WORKSHOP "Developing Mental Health Services for Indian Reservations" will be the subject of a Rural Indian Mental Health Training Program Workshop from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Friday, (Nov. 14) in the Rafters. The speaker will be John Redhorse, associate professor in the School of Social Work at Arizona State University and director of "Ah-be-no-gee," a Minneapolis-based program which trains individuals as American Indian Family Advocates. He also currently is working on a research colloquium on American Indian families' strengths and stresses. The lecture, which is sponsored by the School of Social Development, is free and open to the public.

WDTH RAISES $18,500 About $18,500 was raised by WDTH-FM, UMD's public radio station, at its 10-day fall marathon held in mid-October. The money raised will go into the station's general operating budget. A shorter weekend marathon is planned for this spring, according to Tom Livingston, station manager.

UMD NEWSLETTER EVENTS CALENDAR (NOVEMBER 9 - 15)

SUNDAY -- "A Star is Born," free public program, Marshall W. Alworth Planetarium, 3 p.m.

MONDAY -- Women's Studies Seminar: "Weight Control from a Feminist Perspective," Barbara Cardinal-Busse, Nurse Practitioner, UMD Health Center, Kirby Student Center 250, noon; Kirby Program Board Lecture: "Subliminal Seduction," Wilson Bryan Key, national author, Bohannon Hall 90, 8 p.m.

TUESDAY -- Concert: UMD Symphony Orchestra, Marshall Performing Arts Center, 8 p.m.

WEDNESDAY -- UMD Physics Seminar: "Some Different Views of Bicycle Stability," Dane Youngblom, Senior Physics Major, Marshall W. Alworth Hall 191, 3:15 p.m.; UMD Mathematics Colloquium: "Impact on Information Systems' Development of Mini and Micro-Computer Systems," Robert Aiken, national lecturer, Association for Computing Machinery, Marshall W. Alworth Hall 195, 3:15 p.m.; UMD School of Medicine seminar: "Dependence and Tolerance to Opiates," Richard Eisenberg, Department of Pharmacology, UMD School of Medicine, Room 130, Medical School Building, 4 p.m.; Concert: Jazz Ensembles II and III, Marshall Performing Arts Center, 8 p.m.

FRIDAY -- Rural Indian Mental Health Training Workshop: "Developing Mental Health Services for Indian Reservations," John Redhorse, associate professor of social work, Arizona State University, The Rafters, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; UMD Alumni Association Hockey Dinner, Normandy Inn, 5 p.m.; Men's Hockey: UMD vs, Minnesota, Duluth Arena, 8 p.m.; Duluth Ballet, Marshall Performing Arts Center, 8 p.m.

SATURDAY -- Men's Hockey: UMD vs. Minnesota, Duluth Arena, 7:30 p.m.; Duluth Ballet, Marshall Performing Arts Center, 8 p.m.

BULLDOG-GOPHER HOCKEY BASH UMD faculty/staff are invited to UMD/University alumni-sponsored 5:45 p.m. social hour/dinner at Normandy Inn on Friday, Nov. 14, followed by UMD-Gopher hockey game. Dinner only, $9; dinner and hockey ticket, $14. Call 726-8197 for reservations by 4 p.m., Wed.