Interest Control Hinders Housing

Top priority rating and loans are available to veterans unable to find adequate housing facilities, but no campus veteran has yet taken advantage of the opportunity.

Special interest control over property near the University is the primary reason for the lack of building, according to James Hiner, director of the Veterans Information and Referral office of Minneapolis.

The possibility of veterans lease holding on University-owned land could be the solution to the problem, Mr. Hiner said.

William T. Middlebrook, vice president in charge of business administration, termed Mr. Hiner's suggestion "interesting," stating that he would look into the matter further.

Mr. Hiner pointed out that many of the possibilities of the GI Bill of Rights for securing housing loans to facilitate veterans' building were not too well known.

Veterans can build their own homes in the University area with suitable loans from the Federal Housing administration covering up to 80 to 90 per cent of cost, if they are not able to find other housing facilities.

"Through federal aid, a veteran can move into his own home without a penny of down payment and start paying off any loan incurred on a monthly basis," Mr. Hiner said.

Top building priorities are available for veterans desiring to build single family dwellings if they

Fermaud Shows Gentle Technique

By Margery Krueger

Jacques Fermaud, assistant professor of romance languages, knows more about handkissing than do his students. He demonstrated his talents during rehearsals of the French club play this week, explaining the proper stance, grip and technique to members of the cast.

The play, "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," will be presented at 4 and 8:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Music auditorium.

"Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" is a comedy written in the seventeenth century by Moliere. The French club has shortened the play from five acts to three and has modernized the archaic language. But it's still in French, and dictionaries might be handy.

Norma Jean Wanvig, Arts senior and director of the play, spends her time at rehearsals patiently hunting for a stage, any stage. Usually the cast practices in the Green room in the Music building, but, due to the invasion of a class into this sanctuary, they have been forced to use the tiny Masquers' lounge. Occasionally, however, they come out for air and a chance at the Green room.

Orchestrator, University honorary dance group, will present a ballet during the play directed by Elizabeth Kratz. In the drama of Moliere's time, these ballets were the most important parts of the play. "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" originally contained seven ballets.

Cast of the play includes Mr. Fermaud as M. Jourdain; Joy Goldberg, Arts junior, as Mme. Jourdain; Cedric Scholberg, Graduate student, as Cleonte; David Johnson, Arts junior, as Dorante. Assisting are Shirley Johnson, Arts senior, as Nicole; Elinor Clarfield, Arts junior, as Lucile; Samuel Legg, Graduate student, as Covielle; Connie Dose, University College senior, as Rorimne.

Also in the cast are William Stanton, unclassified, as the maitre a danser; James Benton, Arts freshman, as the maitre de musique; Gordon Wintheiser, Graduate student, as the maitre d'armes. Lawrence Wilson, instructor in romance languages, is the maitre de philosophie; and Virginia Dwinell and Barbara Grandin, Arts sophomores, as the valets.

THE GENERAL COLLEGE

Notice Change of Time to 9 a.m. Thursday from Notice Appearing in Bulletin on Saturday, May 12

The General college is attempting to determine standards for the placement of returning veterans who have taken the General Education Development tests through the United States Armed Forces Institute. In order to have a basis—for comparison, it is necessary to have scores on comparable forms of the four tests for each student now registered in the General college. A serious attitude towards these tests will constitute an opportunity for students to perform a real service to the college and the returning veterans.

The GED tests will be administered Wednesday and Thursday, May 16 and 17. Each of the four tests takes two hours.

Tests will be administered at 9:30 on Wednesday and at 1:30 on Thursday, and at 1:30 each afternoon. Students whose last names begin with the letters A through L will report to room 201 Westbrook hall, and those with the letters M through Z to room 101 Westbrook hall.

All General college classes will be excused on May 16 and 17. Students who have classes in other colleges II, III, VI or VII hours (or I hour on Thursday) will be given an excuse from such classes. Adequate norms require complete returns; therefore all General college students will be required to take all four tests. The spring quarter grades will be withheld for students who do not complete the test battery.

Squabble Over Student Affairs' 1942 Ruling on Campus 'Queens' Re-opened

Will the Engineers' day queen, to be announced on Friday have a legitimate claim to her title?

Campus queenships were abolished by the senate committee on student affairs in March, 1942. The resolution prohibited organizations from selecting queens "by button sale or any other promotional or commercial methods."

Engineers' queen, selected by a committee of Technology students will lay claim to her title on the basis of beauty, not salesmanship, said Karl Doeringsfeld, chairman of Engineers' day, yesterday. No selling of buttons or tags or assorted knick-knacks was involved in the choice.

The senate motion banning queens was never enforced, according to Ruth

Cole Nash, administrative fellow in the bureau of student affairs.

Many organizations either are ignorant of the senate ruling or get around it by calling their queens by other titles.

Ski-U-Mah bestows the title of Miss Ski-U-Mah on the girl who sells the most subscriptions. "I never knew there was a law against using the word queen," Sue Sayle, editor of Ski-U-Mah said yesterday.

Homecoming queens are still chosen every year "according to beauty and personality" from the coeds who sell the most buttons.

Restrictions have been placed, however, on where coeds may sell buttons. Candidates can no longer stand on street corners and beg passers-by to buy tickets," Barbara Robertson, new Homecoming chairman, said. "They must confine their salesmanship to indoor selling."

Senate committee resolutions and recommendations are placed in a policy box, in the dean of student affairs office, which is often ignored by organizations, according to Mrs. Nash.

A faculty committee on policies regarding student organization has been designated to go through the box and find out which of these regulations are no longer enforced and which should be enforced, she said.

"Organizations usually break rules because they are unaware of them," Mrs. Nash said. If these organizations, however, become aware of the rules and persist in choosing queens by commercial methods, the charter and recognition of the organization could and probably would be revoked, she said.

11 Days Until SENIOR PROM

Students Help Democratize The Argentine

"Students in Argentine universities and colleges have always been quick to foresee totalitarian tendencies of their government," Asher N. Christensen, associate professor of political science, told the Cosmopolitan club Saturday.

Mr. Christensen spoke on "Universities and Student Life in Argentina."

Many revelations in national political affairs, though seemingly insignificant, have been due to student activities and their emersion from provincial politics, Mr. Christensen said.

Numerous demonstrations, such as that held at the time of the liberation of Paris, have proved that students in Argentina are profoundly interested in democratic government.

The Argentine university is different in many respects from the average university in the United States. Our so-called "campus life" does not exist below the border, Mr. Christensen explained. "The entire university is spread out over the city, thus making centralization and student-faculty contact impossible."

Professors are seldom full-time instructors. Many doctors and engineers, with full-time practices of their own, teach in the universities, according to Mr. Christensen. Lack of sufficient financial resources is the cause of this decided disadvantage, he pointed out.

"Deans of the six national Argentine universities are chosen by the professors," said Mr. Christensen. "There are no private universities in Argentina. Students are represented on faculty councils, which choose the university president for a definite term."

"A great emphasis," he concluded, "is placed on an objective, didactic approach to learning."

From Across Sports Scribblings The Desk

By Joe Eikenberry

ODT DIRECTOR JOHNSON threw some cold water on the intercollegiate sports program and sports in general last Saturday when he announced that the transportation facilities will still be taxed even though the European war is over.

How long the restrictions will last is questionable, but Johnson's statement that the college bowl games will not be played this year unless the Japs throw in the sponge in at least 90 days, means that the government still intends to keep travel at a minimum until 1946 is well initiated.

The only event that will likely be scheduled is the Kentucky Derby, and the ODT intends to keep this event from attracting the usual number of bobtail fans by making it a trolley car affair.

Johnson also ruled that such football games as the Army-Navy grid classic must be played on one of the teams home grounds, which would kick prospects of bowl games out the window whether they were mentioned specifically or not.

Although the Big Ten teams are still forbidden to participate in the grid classic, it will be interesting to see how the new blow will affect the Big Ten and other colleges in the nation.

THE IOWA STATE-GOPHER series looked like it might turn out to be a real rout following the 17 to 7 plastering the Maroon and Gold nine handed the Cyclones last Friday. On only 10 hits the Gophers scored 17 times but were ably assisted by the Iowa State men who miscued six times. The MacMillan men also had some trouble hanging onto the pill as they booted six times.

The Saturday game settled down somewhat and turned out to be a good ball game, the Gophers winning that one 4-1. Butz Lehrman was the star hitter of the series. The able short-stop collected three doubles and a triple in the pair of contests, which is enough to raise him up among the top in the batting average department.

Gene Kelly also cheered the local rooters when he not only went the route, but turned in a neat five-hit hurling job as well. All five of the bingles were garnered by two of the visitors, second baseman Scott and third baseman Johnson.

I-M Teams to Play Postponed Games

Many of the scheduled intramural softball games that have been slated in the past are still unplayed because of rain and various other reasons. The intramural schedule must be completed on time, and those games that have been scheduled but are still not played must be played in the near future.

Games that have not been postponed are listed below, and any of the teams that have to play such games should contact the intramural office for assignment of a diamond and should also make arrangements with their opponents for a convenient time to play the contests.

Housing . . .

can show distress in their housing situation. Priorities are yet not available for duplex or other multiple unit structures, according to Chester S. White, administrative assistant in the FHA.

"If the FHA assumes responsibility for 80 to 90 per cent of the total investment, which is not out of line with ordinary procedure, the veterans' administration could then guarantee the entire 10 to 20 per cent balance," Mr. Hiner said.

The FHA is not opposed to making customary FHA home loans on new construction on leased land where the lease runs for 50 years or more. Building on University-owned land would satisfy this requirement.

"Another fact about GI home loans which is not generally known is that the veteran can build up to a four-unit dwelling, availing himself of the GI guarantee, providing that he occupies one of the units.

"This might be a movement toward a cooperative plan or it might develop into the old familiar 'row house' development with each veteran owning his own home outright and taking advantage of the savings of joint walls," Mr. Hiner concluded.

Tharp Cops Honors At Northwestern Triangular Meet

The Maroon and Gold's Ray Tharp grabbed scoring honors with a first and two seconds Saturday as Northwestern, Wisconsin and Minnesota met in a triangular track and field meet at Camp Randall.

Tharp took the 220-yard low hurdles in 25.4 seconds. Sat Yamato and Jack Anderson also scored firsts for the Gophers. Yamato in the broad jump with 21 feet, 11 inches, and Anderson, the 440-yard dash in 51.1 seconds.

Wisconsin ran away with team honors by taking seven firsts out of 13 events. They scored 78½ points as against the Gophers 38 1/6. The Wildcats trailed with 26 1/3 points.

Bob Cranston took second place in both the 120 and 220-yard hurdles for Minnesota. Others in the Maroon and Gold scoring column were Gil Gaarder with a second in the discus throw; Walt Wilder with two fourth places in the mile and two-mile runs.

Fraternity Track Meet Is Slated For May 22, 24

MacMillan Nine To Test Strength Against Badgers

It might be another bad weekend for the Minnesota baseball club's strength since the Gophers come up against a booming Wisconsin nine at Madison on Friday and Saturday.

While the Maroon and Gold have amassed but a victory and a loss in the process of dodging spring rain-drops, three other Big Ten teams have definitely stamped themselves as potential champions. Michigan and Indiana are riding along tied for first place with no losses, and Wisconsin's Badgers have six wins and but two losses.

During the preseason hub-bub, sports prognosticators pointed to Minnesota as the only team outside of Michigan that had the stuff to take the loop crown, but the Big Ten set-up has proved quite differently in practical competition.

The Gophers have played but two of their scheduled conference tilts, first beating and then losing to Iowa's Hawkeyes. The series with Michigan was postponed because of bad weather and today the Maroon and Gold is still pretty much in the dark.

If Minnesota still retains hope of winning league honors, it will be up to Dave MacMillan's boys to ring up twin wins this week and maintain the same pace for the rest of the season.

The Gophers might do it, if last week's triumphs over Iowa State are an indication of true Minnesota strength. The invading Cyclones were turned back 17-4 in Friday's comedy of errors and again on Saturday, 4-1, on Gene Kelly's five-hit hurling.

While the pressure is on Minnesota this week, the biggest league shaking contest will be Indiana's clash with Michigan at Ann Arbor. The Wolverines have won two and lost none while the Hoosiers have three wins and a deadlock to their credit. This struggle should settle first place pretty well, and will indicate just how much chance Minnesota has for climbing to the top rung before the ball season is over.
