

DULUTH--UMD and Wisconsin State College, Superior, will be co-hosts May 5 and 6 for a weekend workshop-conference, "New Frontiers in Business Education." About 30 area high school and college business teachers are expected to attend each day.

Friday's activities will center at the Wisconsin State College Union. The noon registration and all Wisconsin sessions are charted on Central Daylight Savings Time.

At 2 p.m. Howard L. Newhouse, editor of Business Teacher magazine, will speak on "Musts in Teaching Shorthand, Transcription and Notehand," followed by afternoon discussions on the topic. Dr. Wyatt Belcher, chairman of the history and social studies department at WSC will greet delegates.

John Knight, director of public relations at Wisconsin State, is dinner speaker for the concluding Wisconsin session at 6:30 p.m.
(Central Standard Time)

Saturday's program begins with an 8 a.m. registration in the UMD Social Sciences building. Talks by Dr. Carl Nelson, head of accounting at the Minneapolis campus and Dr. John A. Dettmann, professor of business and economics at UMD, will be heard between 9 and 10:30 a.m. Morning discussions will center around their subjects, college accounting and high school bookkeeping.

The pair will describe business education in foreign countries when they appear as luncheon speakers in Kirby Cafeteria, Room 250.

Miss Evelyn Grovom, UMD lecturer in business and economics, is assisting with arrangements for the conference.
