

Art Amundson works on a piece of jewelry under the supervision of Rudy Schauer, associate professor of art and instructor of the 2 UMD Summer Session Crafts Workshop. The workshop's 22 students will exhibit 100 examples of their work at in Tweed Gallery beginning with an opening night reception from 8-10 p.m. Thursday, July 14. The show will run two weeks in conjunction with the exhibitions of lithography and 20th century paintings now on display. Much of the student's work (jewelry, wall-hangings, mosaics and rugs) will be for sale.
