DULUTH--Forty-three persons have registered for a five day Workshop on Basic Tailoring which begins Monday (July 11) in Old Main on the lower UMD campus.

It is sponsored by the UMD Home Economics department headed by Dr. Ruth Palmer and by the University's Center for Continuation Study, Minneapolis.

Marjorie S. Arch of Jeannette, Pennsylvania will lecture each day on the Bishop Method which involves clothing construction in a minimum amount of time. Each student will end the five days by completing a woman's suit.

Registrants are from Minnesota, Wisconsin and North Dakota, most of whom will live in Torrance Hall during the workshop.
