New steps make fall registration easier

MAIL REGISTRATION

August 23-September 17: Registration forms will be accepted by mail at 101 Wesbrook Hall for both limited and non-limited enrollment classes.

Students must include a separate

Correction!

B. Dalton Bookseller is selling books for certain off-campus classes at its stores in Rosedale and Eden Prairie Center. The information on page 33 of the Extension Classes Bulletin is correct. B. Dalton is NOT selling texts at its Southdale store. The telephone number at Rosedale is 636-1341. The number at Eden Prairie Center is 941-8126. Please remove the Southdale listing from the inside front cover and from page 311 of your Bulletin.

Speakers are available

The Bicentennial Register Speakers is a pamphlet put out by the University of Minnesota specifically for organizations that need guest speakers for banquets, luncheons, or other meetings of this type.

The pamphlet includes an extensive listing of speakers and the topics each speaker has a specialized interest in. The speakers are all professors at the University of Minnesota and were chosen for this program because of their vast knowledge in each specific subject area.

A wide variety of topics is available to choose from, including Metrics in the Home, American Women and Work, Contemporary Developments in Art, Political Cartooning in America, American Foreign Policy in the Nuclear Age, and The Black Family, to name just a few.

The pamphlet includes directions on how to contact a speaker, making appointments, and speakers' fees. For a copy of The Bicentennial Register Speakers, call 376-1776, or write: Bicentennial Office, S-68 Morrill Hall, University of Minnesota.

check for each limited enrollment class registration; non-limited enrollment classes can be paid for with one check.

Registrations will be processed on a daily basis; spaces in limited-enrollment classes will be filled through a daily drawing (randomly); early registrations will be returned.

Students should use the blue or green request postcards in the back of the 1976-77 Extension Classes Bulletin to request registration materials.

TELEPHONE REQUESTS FOR LIMITED-ENROLLMENT CLASSES

August 30-September 10: Requests accepted for limited-enrollment class cards. Telephone 376-1371 from 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m. If space is available, registration forms and limited-enrollment class cards will be mailed to the student. When calling, you must be prepared to give course department name, course number, course title, and section number. Limited cards will not be mailed out after Sept. 10. August 30-September 17: Information on limited-enrollment class space will be available by calling 376-1371 from 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

IN-PERSON REGISTRATION

September 9-September 17: Registrations will be accepted at 101 Wesbrook Hall on the Minneapolis Campus; at the MacPhail Office, 1128 LaSalle, downtown Minneapolis; or at the American National Bank Building, Skyway level, Fifth and Minnesota, downtown St. Paul. Limited-enrollment class cards may be obtained at these locations for classes which have not been filled during the earlier mail or telephone registration period.

Off campus courses: Registrations accepted at Richfield District Office for classes held at Richfield High School; Carl Sandburg Junior High School for classes at Sandburg Junior High; Roseville District Office for classes held at Kellogg High School and Alexander-Ramsey High School; Brooklyn Center High School for classes held at Brooklyn Center High. Registration forms for classes at Minnetonka High School can be picked up at the Minnetonka District Office and mailed to 101 Wesbrook Hall. See Bulletin pages 12-15 and 22-26 for information on addresses and registration dates and hours.

Come to the Extension Open House

An informal coffee-talk session will be held Thursday, September 9, from 5 to 8 p.m. in the Nolte Center Lounge on the Minneapolis campus.

This session is designed to meet the needs of people who are interested in learning about University Extension Classes. If you have questions on how to prepare for University classes, how to plan a program of study, where to go, or whom to ask for what, then come and have your questions answered.

Professional counselors and program advisors will be on hand to help with almost anything you want to know about the University. Representatives from the Study Skills Center will be available to provide help through prescribed programs.

It's not necessary to be an Extension student to attend. There will be a multi-media presentation about University life, and tours of the campus will be provided. University bulletins and literature about health services, bookstores, campus organizations, and more will also be available.

A free babysitting service will be provided; free parking in University Lot No. 35, on the corner of 17th Ave. and 4th St. S.E. For a campus map and University parking map, telephone 376-7500. Drop by and let us get to know you.

Extension Board set for 1976-77

Randy Penrod was elected chairperson and Mary Ahrens vice chairperson of the 1976-1977 Extension Classes Student Board at the annual Student Board dinner-meeting June 17. The Board consists of students who were elected in the spring election to serve as Extension Classes senators and alternates to the University Senate. Ahrens is a senator and Penrod is an alternate.

The dinner meeting was attended by the newly elected senators and alternates, as well as some Continuing Education and Extension (CEE) faculty and administrative staff members. Also attending were six Extension Classes students who were appointed to serve on the 1975-76 Student Board. The new 23-member Board includes the following persons:

Senators - Mary Ahrens, Nancy Brovald, Elizabeth Curtis, David Jansen, John Miller, Cheryl Olson, Peggy Sletner, Ann Tonskemper. Alternates - Earl Elster, Dennis Hogan, Russell Holland, Clinton Kennedy, Randy Penrod, George Sherman, Robert Skoog, Richard Straumann. Appointees - Mary Bray, Roger Stern, John Cogan, Joe May, Carroll Chapin, Robert Zohlmann and Leona Humphrey.

The new Board was welcomed by Ted Campbell, director of Extension Classes. He expressed a high regard for the interests and needs of part-time students and said he appreciated meeting with students and hearing different views on various issues.

Donald Woods, associate dean of CEE, called Extension students a unique group - both students and taxpayers. "Students have inquiring minds," he said, "and the right to explore ideas and pursue an education is as much the Extension students' as the day students'."

(Excerpted and edited from U of M Financial Report; prepared jointly by University Relations and the University Business Office)

While energy use has been cut in existing University facilities, new buildings will achieve even greater energy savings because of new planning guidelines that emphasize the need for reduced heat loss, for efficient heat recovery from exhaust air, and for experimentation with solar energy.

The new East Bank Bookstore and Admissions and Records facility currently under construction across the street from Nicholson Hall is perhaps the best example of these efforts.

A large part of this building will be underground, with a submerged terraced court that will provide outside light in some areas. While the absence of reliable data on heat requirements for underground facilities makes it difficult to predict precise energy requirements, a grant from the Federal Energy Research and Development Agency (ERDA) has been awarded to the University; it will enable the University to determine the feasibility of designing solar energy collectors that would provide an estimated 100 per cent of the heating requirements during the winter and 60 per cent of the energy required to air-condition the facility in the cooling season. Another grant, from the National Science Foundation, will permit University researchers to collect data on heat savings and heat requirements of such semi-underground facilities.

The facility, which is scheduled to open late fall quarter, has already won awards from the American Society of Landscape Architecture and from Progressive Architecture magazine. If results of the current feasibility study are positive, and adequate solar energy collectors can be designed, the building will be one of the first public facilities in the country to incorporate energy conservation techniques with solar collectors with the potential for satisfying full heating and significant cooling requirements.

SIX TELEVISION COURSES OFFERED THIS YEAR

You can "attend" two television courses each quarter in your own home. The courses are broadcast on Monday evenings on KTCA-TV, Channel 2, the Twin Cities educational station.

WHAT IS TVIS ?

Television Independent Study is a program of college credit courses for people who want to study at home with maximum convenience and flexibility.

Courses consist of 10 or 11 weekly television programs, a study guide, required texts and, in some cases, audio cassettes. In each half-hour television program, your instructor will discuss the highlights of a topic, demonstrate concepts through examples and illustrations, or interview other experts on the subject. Through written comments on your assignments, as well as telephone office hours, you gain personal contact with your instructor.

Registration and written course materials are available by mail, and assignments and exams can be completed without coming to campus. If you miss a television program, or wish to view one a second time, you can come to the Learning Resources Center on the Minneapolis Campus.

You have three months beyond the final television program to complete a course. Television Independent Study is a joint effort of Extension Independent Study and University Media Resources in Continuing Education and Extension.

During Fall Quarter 1976 the following courses will be offered:

Heredity and Human Society (Biology 1101, 4 credits) discusses the principles of heredity and their social implications. Emphasis is placed on man. Topics covered include how genes can be altered, how this alteration can cause disease, and how genetic information is inherited. The genetic bases of sex, evolution, genetic engineering, and virus caused diseases are also discussed. The course instructor is Associate Professor David Fan, Department of Genetics and Cell Biology. Television broadcasts: Mondays, September 27 through December 6, 1976, 9 to 9:30 p.m.

From Enlightenment to Revolution: Our 18th Century Heritage (Humanities 1001, 5 credits) is an interdisciplinary humanities course. It explores the culture of 18th century Europe and the ways in which that culture helped to form colonial America. Looking for the major themes of the age, it investigates important works of philosophy, literature, music, art, and architecture and uncovers the traditions that produced early American artists and thinkers such as Paul Revere, Benjamin West, Benjamin Franklin, and Thomas Jefferson. Illustrative material is drawn largely from local resources, such as the Minneapolis Institute of Art and the Minnesota Opera Company. Assistant Professor Mark Lowry is the course instructor.

Television broadcasts: Mondays, September 27 through November 29, 1976, 9:30 to 10 p.m.

Plan ahead for Winter and Spring Quarters 1977!

The Constitution: What It Is Today (Political Science 5503, 4 credits).

Instructor: Professor Harold Chase, Department of Political Science. Broadcasts: January 3-March 7, 1977, 9-9:30 p.m.

Classical Mythology: Myths and the Modern World (Classics 5145, 4 credits). Instructor: Associate Professor Jackson Hershbell, Department of Classics. Broadcasts: January 3-March 7, 1977, 9:30-10 p.m.

Geography of the Twin Cities (Geography 1973, 4 credits). Instructor: Professor Fred Lukermann, Department of Geography. Broadcasts: March 28-May 30, 1977, 9-9:30 p.m.

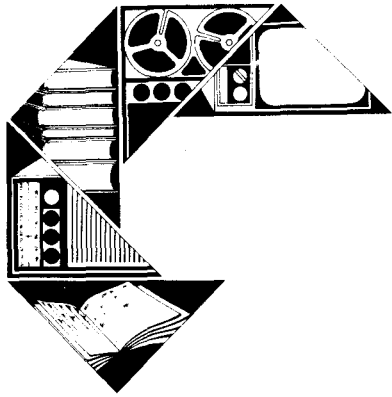

Principles of Advertising (Journalism 1201, 4 credits). Instructor: Professor Willard Thompson, School of Journalism and Mass Communication. Broadcasts: March 28-May 30, 1977, 9:30-10 p.m.

HOW TO ENROLL

Registration for television courses is easy. Either come to the Extension Independent Study office at 45 Westbrook Hall on the Minneapolis Campus, or register for the courses and obtain your books and study guide by mail.

To obtain registration materials, call 376-4925 or send in the Request for Information form on the next page, and we'll send you a registration application and a book order form.

Register early. It takes time to get your course materials by mail. Registration for Fall Quarter television courses opens September 1.

WHAT IS INDEPENDENT STUDY?

Extension Independent Study offers you the opportunity to become a part of the University without coming to campus. You can choose from over 250 courses, both introductory and advanced, listed in the Extension Independent Study bulletin.

The correspondence method is uncomplicated, and a comprehensive study guide for each course coordinates your reading and study. You prepare assignments for evaluation at your own pace and have a year to complete the course. With your self-motivation and the guidance of a University faculty member, you can earn resident credit in your home.

VIDEO CASSETTE COURSES

Selected television courses that have been broadcast recently are now available for independent study on video cassettes. Students may register at any time, study at their own pace, and take up to a year to complete the course assignments. The courses consist of programs on video cassettes, a study guide, required texts and, in some cases, audio cassettes. The video programs can be viewed at the Learning Resources Center, 204a Walter Library, Minneapolis Campus. The center is open evenings and weekends; call 373-2538 for exact hours.

You may choose from the following courses: American Popular Music (Mus 5711, 4 credits), Dynamics of Divorce (FSoS 5240, 3 credits), History of the American Theatre (Th 5186, 4 credits), Introduction to Women's Studies (WoSt 1005, 4 credits), Keyboard Sight Reading (Mus 5349, 4 credits), People Power: the World of Practical Politics (GC 1222, 3 credits), Psychology and Religion (Psy 1911, 4 credits), and Sociology of Death (Soc 5956, 4 credits).

Keyboard Sight Reading video cassettes are also available at the MacPhail Center for the Arts in downtown Minneapolis (call 612-373-1925 for viewing hours) and at the University of Minnesota Rochester Center (call 507-288-4584 for viewing hours).

You can register for the video cassette courses through Extension Independent Study either in person or by mail.

RADIO INDEPENDENT STUDY

Add a new dimension to your morning coffee break by tuning in to a Radio Independent Study course. Selected courses in a variety of fields, taught by outstanding instructors, are broadcast over the University of Minnesota radio station KUOM, 770 AM, each quarter. A study guide is prepared especially for each course, enabling you to do all of the course work at home.

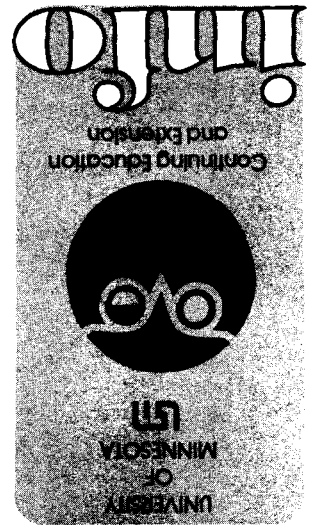

Fall Quarter's radio course offering is Power and the Individual (GC 3238, 4 credits) taught by Professors Dorothy Dodge and Patricia Kane. The course presents an interdisciplinary study of power using political science and literature, with emphasis on 20th century definitions and redefinitions. Topics to be considered include: presidential authority and its legitimacy, citizen power and pressure groups, power and violence, and the process of power. Broadcast times: Mondays and Wednesdays, 11:15 to 11:45 a.m., September 27 through November 24, 1976.

Keep tuned to KUOM during Winter and Spring Quarters for two additional radio courses: Madness and Deviant Behavior in Greece and Rome (Class 5005, 4 credits) and Popular Fiction: Detective and Thriller (Engl 3920, 4 credits).

If you should miss a program, audio cassettes of the lectures will be available at the Learning Resources Center on the Minneapolis Campus.

Radio courses broadcast in previous years are now available to groups or individuals on audio cassettes. The series of lectures for each course can be purchased or rented from Extension Independent Study when you enroll. You may select from courses such as Economic and Social Security, Food for Thought (nutrition), History of the American Theatre, Music Appreciation, Parent-Child Relationships, and more.

The increasing opportunity for graduate work through Extension was noted by CEE dean, Harold Miller. He said he especially appreciates the work the 1975-76 Student Board has done in this area, and he noted that the University president and vice presidents have been favorably impressed and appreciative of the Board's efforts.

Last year's faculty advisor to the Board, William Rudelius, professor of marketing and business law, said his experience with the Board had been enjoyable. He went on to emphasize adult education as "the mark of the future," and added that "the Student Board can and should serve as a student advocate group." He was presented a citation of appreciation.

Citations in appreciation of service on the 1975-76 Student Board were awarded to the following students:

Mary Bray
 Carroll Chapin
 James Cotton
 Leona Humphrey
 Jerry Iverson
 David Jansen
 Robert Jones
 Wendy Lewis
 Robin Lindquist
 Joe May
 John Miller
 Tim Niles
 Terry Nordenstrom
 Jose Padilla
 Randy Penrod
 John Schleck
 Roger Stern
 Richard Straumann
 Robert Zohlmann

THE COMPOSER'S PROCESS Dec. 8, 7:30-9:30 p.m., Paul Fetter (Mus 3584, Music: Its Meaning and Structure).

If you registered for Sampler lectures last year, you should have received registration forms in the mail. Others should telephone 373-3039 to request a complete list of the lectures and registration forms.

You must register in advance for Sampler lectures. Telephone 373-3039 for a registration form.

Avoid the rush: buy books before classes begin!

Buying books for University classes can be easy if you use a little foresight: Buy your books early!

Bookstores sometimes run out of required texts before all students have purchased copies, so be among the first to buy yours. And at the same time you'll be avoiding the last-minute crowds.

Bookstores are conveniently located on both the Minneapolis and St. Paul campuses, and texts for all Extension Classes may be purchased at these stores. Additionally, B. Dalton Bookseller at Rosedale and Eden Prairie Center stocks books for classes scheduled at many neighborhood centers.

Most required texts are in stock at the campus stores by mid-September, and may be purchased any time before the first evening of classes. During the first several days of classes the campus bookstores will have special evening hours. Following is a list of hours and phone numbers for the campus bookstores:

Nicholson Bookstore (373-3688; books for most departments in CLA, Education and General College - see Bulletin page 32):

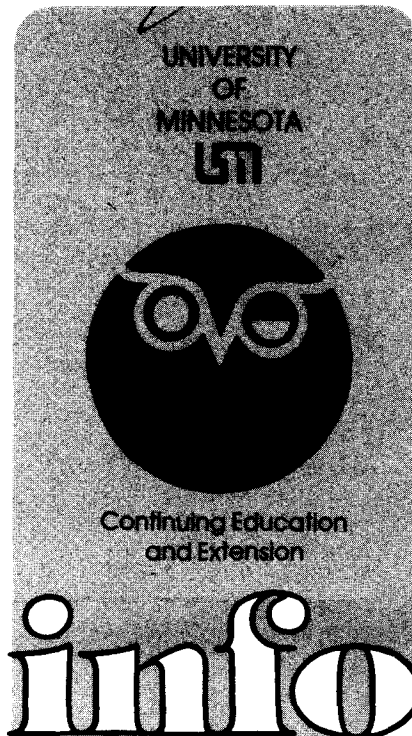

First week of fall classes - 8 a.m.-7:30 p.m. Monday-Thursday.

Second week - 8 a.m.-6:30 p.m. Monday-Thursday.

Regular hours - 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Monday-Friday; 10 a.m.-2 p.m. first three Saturdays of each quarter.

Lind Hall Bookstore (373-3244; books for Institute of Technology):

First week of fall classes - 8 a.m.-7:30 p.m. Monday-Thursday

Parking Alert

Extension students should note that the American Ballet Theater will be performing on the Minneapolis campus Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 4, 5, & 6, and may cause some parking problems for students. If you have a class one of those nights, plan to arrive early to find a parking space. Some garages may be reserved for theatergoers.

Students should also be aware that during the first week of fall classes there are usually traffic jams around the University as students arrive for Extension classes. The problem is most severe on the West Bank, and is compounded this year by the fact that one West Bank parking lot has been closed for construction of the new law building. On the East Bank, lot #60 (river flats) has been closed.

Try to get to campus as early as possible, and have an alternative parking lot in mind should you not be able to get into your first choice.

Attention

There will be no $75 loans available for Extension students fall quarter or fall semester.

Registration Office: 101 Wesbrook Hall
Telephone 373-3195

The University of Minnesota adheres to the principle that all persons shall have equal opportunity and access to facilities in any phase of University activity without regard to race, creed, color, sex, age, or national origin.

Info is a newsletter for University of Minnesota Extension Classes students. It is published 10 times a year - August, September, October, November, December, January, February, March, April and May by the Department of Extension Classes, 180 Wesbrook Hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55455. Info Volume 7, Issue Number 2, Second Class Postage Paid, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55455. Students are encouraged to submit editorial opinions to the Department. To be placed on the INFO mailing list call 376-7500.

Classic films free to Extension students

A series of eight films, selected as landmark classics of American film (because of their unusual or controversial content, innovations, cinematographic techniques, or popular appeal), will be offered free this fall to any student enrolled in Continuing Education and Extension (CEE). Up to four free tickets for each film may be obtained by any student with a receipted CEE registration form.

The films are offered as part of the extension evening class, Movies and the American Experience (American Studies 1920/3920). It is taught by Jim Davidson, an American Studies instructor and PhD candidate whose field of study is American film. Themes and techniques of filmmaking, as well as the historical context of each film, will be discussed in the Monday class session.

Films will be shown at 7:30 p.m.

Thursdays during fall quarter in the Museum of Natural History Auditorium.

BIRTH OF A NATION (October 7): D. W. Griffith's cinematic account of the rise of the Ku Klux Klan. Interesting as an example of early filmmaking technique, and historically as an example of an early 20th Century, pro-Southern interpretation of the Reconstruction Era.

MODERN TIMES (October 14): Charlie Chaplin's 1936 silent film about the advance of technology.

CITIZEN KANE (October 21): Orson Welles' fictionalized account of the life of William Randolph Hearst.

THE BIG SLEEP (October 28): The movie version of Raymond Chandler's novel, starring Humphrey Bogart and Lauren Bacall.

SHE WORE A YELLOW RIBBON (November 4): A John Ford cavalry western starring John Wayne.

BONNIE AND CLYDE (November 11): A significant American gangster film done in the European style starring Warren Beatty and Faye Dunaway.

BALLAD CABLE HOGUE (November 18): Sam Pekinpah's film about the end of the frontier.

THE LAST PICTURE SHOW (December 2): Peter Bogdanovich's interpretation of the end of another era. A story of small-town Texas in the early 1950s.

Tickets to these films must be picked up in person in room 101 Wesbrook Hall, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Telephone or mail requests will NOT be accepted.

Here is an excellent opportunity for CEE students to view, free of charge, some of the classics of American film. Don't hesitate to pick up your tickets the week of the film; they'll probably go fast, and seating capacity is limited.

in short...

A new University College program, "Assessment of Prior Learning - Credit by Examination," was previously titled "Degree by Examination" (see Other Options, page 370 in the Extension Classes Bulletin).

The program should be considered primarily developmental in the coming year, offering a variety of testing opportunities to interested students for credit but not a program in a position to offer a degree at this time.

Questions regarding testing opportunities should be directed to the Credit by Examination Program; telephone 373-4638.

Frustrated jazz musicians, here's your chance. Extension Classes offers you a chance to become involved in a jazz workshop/rehearsal group. If there are enough interested people to warrant the program, Extension would help organize the group and provide a place to rehearse.

It is necessary, however, to determine the number of people who are interested and would use the program. So if you're interested, please send information regarding your musical background, instruments you play, type of music you're interested in playing (dixieland, big band or modern) and suggestions.

Vera M. Schletzer, professor of psychology and director of Extension counseling, is shown at left above with Harold A. Miller, dean of Continuing Education and Extension, as she receives the 1976 Horace T. Morse-Amoco Foundation Award for Outstanding Contributions to Undergraduate Education. The award is one of a few made annually by the faculty and students of the University to individuals who have made distinguished contributions to the instructional programs of the University, and the only one made on an all-University basis. Dr. Schletzer teaches Extension classes.

The criteria on which the award is based include demonstrated excellence in the full range of activities associated with undergraduate teaching; in the activities of planning, design, and creation of alternative or improved educational practice; and in leadership within the University and nationally in the improvement of the undergraduate experience.

Been out of school for a long time? Have any questions about Extension classes?

Don't forget Extension Classes' fall orientation on Thursday, September 9, at the Nolte Center lounge on the Minneapolis campus from 5 to 8 p.m.

During the informal coffee-talk session, professional counselors will be on hand to talk to individual students about various program areas, and a variety of University bulletins and literature will be available. A multi-media presentation about University life and tours of the campus and Wilson Library are planned.

Park free in University lot #35, 18th Ave. at Fourth St. S.E. (enter on 18th). We'll babysit while you talk to an adviser. For a campus map and University parking map, telephone 376-7500.

In response to a growing interest within the Twin Cities technical community, the Department of Chemical Engineering and Materials Sciences together with Extension Classes will offer this fall a special three-credit course in Advanced Methods of Surface Characterization (MatS 5481).

The course is scheduled Mondays and Wednesdays from 3:15 to 4:30 p.m. in room 102 Mechanical Engineering. Discussion will include the principles and applications of modern techniques for analysis of solid surfaces.

For further information, contact Dr. Riggs, the instructor, at 941-5540; Professor L. O. Schmidt at 373-2703; or Professor W. W. Gerberich at 373-4829.

For registration materials, telephone 373-3195.

Library course is offered again

Efficient use of the library is helpful for students researching a term paper or searching for a particular book or periodical. But, too often, students spend a lot of time looking for materials that aren't so difficult to find if they know where to begin.

This fall Extension Classes, in cooperation with the Minnesota Interlibrary Telecommunications Exchange, is again offering a free, two-night course on how to use the library more efficiently. This two-part course offers a review in library organization and tips on how best to use the vast array of resources available in all libraries, especially University libraries.

Part I, "Everyman's Guide to the Whole Library," may be taken either October 6 or 7. Part II, "The Whole Library is More than the Sum of its Parts," may be taken either October 13 or 14. All sections meet from 6:30 to 9 p.m. The course is scheduled in room 310 Anderson Hall on the 6th and the 13th; and in room 370 Anderson on the 7th and 14th.

Marcia Pankake, an instructor in library acquisitions, will teach the course. For further information, telephone 376-4815.

Counselors can help you decide

Special meetings with counselors from various program areas will be offered during registration. All students should bring their records to meetings with counselors. Hours, dates, and locations are given below.

EXTENSION COUNSELING OFFICE: 314 Nolte Center, Minneapolis Campus (373-3905). Regular office hours: 8 a.m. to 12 noon and 1-4 p.m., M-F. (Call for an evening appointment.)

Office hours during registration:

Sept. 9, 13-17: 12 noon-8 p.m.
Sept. 10: 12 noon-4 p.m.

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION: Students with more than 45 credits who plan to obtain a B.S. degree in Business, should attend one of the following meetings in 10 Architecture:

Sept. 13 or Sept. 15, 7:30 p.m.

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION: Students who want an education degree and have more than 45 credits should make an appointment with an education adviser for an individual meeting on Sept. 13 or Sept. 16 in 107 Burton Hall.

GENERAL COLLEGE: Call the Extension Counseling Office to make an appointment with a General College adviser for a Sept. 13 individual meeting in 9 Nicholson Hall.

INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY: Students who want an Institute of Technology degree should call the Extension Counseling Office to make an appointment with an I of T adviser for Sept. 14 or Sept. 16. Individual meetings will be held in 105 Lind Hall.

OTHER COLLEGES: All College of Liberal Arts students and other students with fewer than 45 credits in business, education and other fields, including certificates, should see advisers in 314 Nolte Center. (See Bulletin page 353.)

Telephone registration is a success

For the first time in recent history, there were no long lines the first day of fall in-person registration.

"We're sure that telephone registration made this happy fact true," says Shirley Williams, head of the Extension Classes registration office. "While any new procedure is bound to have a few 'bugs' in it, on the whole we're very pleased with how registration by telephone is working out."

On the first day of the new telephone registration procedure for fall limited-enrollment classes, about 1000 calls were received, and 500 students were sent materials to register by mail.

Most of the other calls requested information. Telephone number 376-1371 (answered only during specified dates and times), can be used only to request limited-enrollment classes, so some callers had to be referred to other numbers.

Two staff members answered calls on two lines from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. According to Williams, the phones did not stop ringing once telephone registration began.

"Many people reported they had dialed several times before they were able to get through to us," she said. "Because some students who called did not have complete information, they used more time than they needed to, tying up the lines for other callers."

Future callers are urged to be ready to give (1) department name, (2) course number, (3) course title, and (4) section number when calling 376-1371 (see page 24 in the Extension Classes Bulletin for procedures before you register for winter quarter limited classes. Request calls will be accepted Nov. 22 through Dec. 17).

The service, when properly used, means students no longer have to come in person to Westbrook Hall to register in limited-enrollment classes.

Students are also reminded that they may register even earlier if they do so by mail. See the registration dates and steps outlined on page 23 of the Bulletin.

Remember that limited-enrollment classes and/or sections are printed in red ink in this year's Bulletin.

Chairman has high hopes for Student Board

Randy Penrod has a lot to say about the Extension Classes Student Board. He talks about a maturing process, of growth and expansion, greater flexibility and responsibility, and the power the Student Board can wield. He has high hopes for the board.

Penrod is the recently elected chairman of the Extension Student Board. A management consultant with The Executive Suite, his daily business is in the field of corporate mergers, acquisitions and upper level recruiting. The 27-year-old Minnetonka resident has been enrolled in Extension Classes for two years and is working towards a Bachelor of Elected Studies degree with emphasis on business and history.

As the new board chairman, Penrod says, "I see myself playing the role of an administrator; it's my job to see that the board's job gets done."

And the board's job, as Penrod sees it, is to become an even more influential organization than it has been in the past. "The board is maturing. Whereas it used to concern itself with parking, bookstore hours, lighting and so forth, I think in the future we'll be getting into more and more policy decisions.

"For example, I think a major watershed event was the decision to work for the inclusion of more graduate programs in Extension. That's an area that needs to be explored and further developed, and that's probably the biggest single issue we'll be dealing with.

"You know, parking and bookstore problems are certainly important; it's nice to have them resolved. But what about the actual coursework? What about the actual classes that students attend? This is an area in which the board can wield some power and be very influential."

Of course, Penrod admits, all that sounds nice, but it takes more than nice-sounding words to accomplish anything. "It takes plain old out-and-out doggedness. It's a matter of finding the people who are willing to devote the time and energy to make these things work."

And it takes cooperation with the folks in charge: the Continuing Education and Extension administration. Penrod expects to work closely with the "brass," to continue the tradition the board has of close cooperation with the administration.

With this cooperation, and with a lot of "hard work and dedication," Penrod believes, the board can be an important and influential body. And of course it will take some time, "sometimes a long time, to get even a small result, or a small change. But even a small change is a start."

Winter quarter offers students several options

Classes scheduled on weekends, noncredit courses, and classes located in both Minneapolis and St. Paul downtown areas are part of Extension Classes' offerings for winter quarter.

Several Saturday courses have been scheduled winter quarter to allow those with busy schedules during the week to take University courses on Saturdays. Weekend courses are offered in the departments listed on page 308 in your Extension Classes Bulletin.

...

Short, flexible, noncredit Informal Courses will also be offered winter quarter for those who are interested in University-level learning but who don't want grades or credit. Informal Courses offered this winter include the following:

She took evening classes

New athletic director airs views

Vivian Barfield, who assumed the post of director of women's intercollegiate athletics at the University of Minnesota, Twin Cities campus, in September is no stranger to continuing education.

As a divorced mother of two, she taught physical education days and received when she resumed her college education 10 years ago, having completed two years before her marriage.

"I had been very good in sports in college and for the sake of expediency and rather than take a lot of courses to satisfy new requirements, I went into physical education," she said. After earning her bachelor of science degree in 1966, Barfield continued on for her master's degree.

"My daughter couldn't understand why I was doing it, but she eventually did become supportive," she said. "I took my children with me to some of the classes and my daughter drilled me for my Spanish class with flash cards. My son also got involved and his poor body was punned for a kinesiology course."

After completing her master's, Barfield went on to the University of New Mexico for doctoral studies and a graduate assistantship in health, physical education and recreation.

She received her doctorate in 1972 and said her thesis was a family effort. "It was typed in the kitchen and the children read every word of it," she said.

Barfield said her interest in higher education comes from the fact that education has been "the most constant thing in my life," and higher education has "treated me so well."

A recently completed Title IX review of the men's and women's athletic program at the University includes plans for phased compliance with Title IX regulations.

Along with an increased budget next year, 20 athletic scholarships for women are being offered for the first time.

Barfield feels that a woman athlete should receive the same social rewards for athletic performance as a male athlete, but what those rewards should be at the collegiate level needs to be discussed.

She does not advocate co-educational athletic teams because of the strength differences between men and women. "It's like comparing poodles and bloodhounds," she said.

University President C. Peter Magrath speaking at a news conference said the University has made "significant progress" in women's athletic programs from what he called a "disgraceful budget of $7,000 in 1971 to a budget next year of $330,000 in providing women athletes with opportunities to benefit from participation and career training."

attended evening classes at the University of Houston, earning a master's degree in education in 1969.

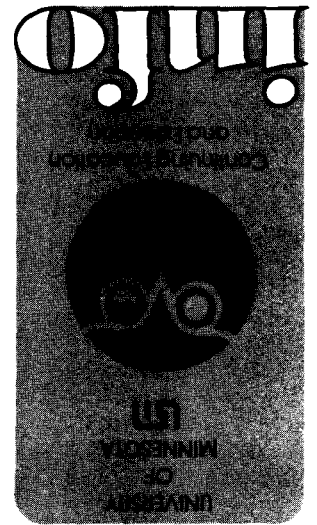

Barfield, recently assistant director of athletics at the University of Massachusetts, credits her children with the encouragement and help she

Honors Program may be for you

It may be time for you to take a step ahead. If you possess high academic skill and are motivated to use that skill, the College of Liberal Arts (CLA) Honors Program provides the opportunity for you.

Some Honors activities, courses, and colloquia are open to all students. Other offerings, such as College Honors Seminars for juniors and seniors, are restricted to students in the Honors Program.

Many activities are scheduled during the late afternoon or evening, making it possible for Extension students to take advantage of the program. A special honors curriculum, which might include independent research or tutorial projects, may be developed for each Extension student.

Interested students should call the Honors Division Office (373-5116) to talk with a staff member and to request a list of courses and special honors opportunities for winter quarter.

comments . . .

by Theodore Campbell
Director, Extension Classes

As many of you have discovered firsthand, graduate-study opportunities through Extension are limited. Only two graduate degrees may be earned entirely through Extension: the Master of Agriculture in Food Science and Nutrition, and the Master of Arts in English (the latter being the only degree offered through Extension by the Graduate School). The maximum number of credits earned through Extension which may be applied to any other Graduate School degree is 12.

We have been working for some time to increase graduate study opportunities for Extension students, but as yet the Graduate School has not approved the addition of programs. An ad hoc committee appointed by Dean Warren Ibele of the Graduate School is presently concluding its analysis of the problem, and its report should be forthcoming.

The need for some graduate programs is self-evident, and some departments in the University are in close touch with needs in their fields. However, we in Extension and others in the University examining the total problem have no clear picture of how broad the need is and in which fields it is most pressing.

A large-scale assessment of needs (say, a survey of all bachelor's degree holders in the metropolitan area) is too unwieldy and costly. We plan instead to assess the graduate-program needs of specific segments of the population, for example, public health employees. But before we set out to do that, we would like to have a better feel for where we ought to start. And that's where present Extension students and their friends who are potential Extension graduate students come in - helping us set priorities in our study of needs.

Whether you are presently employed and your progress is stymied by lack of a graduate degree, or you are an undergraduate who wishes to continue his or her education upon graduation but sees no real opportunities to do so, or you are a homemaker seeking an advanced degree in order to begin or resume employment outside the home, please take a few minutes right now to tell us about that need - your present level of education, the field in which you seek graduate education, your present position, and why the opportunity is important to you. Use the blank on page 3. It is self mailing and we'll pay the postage.

Pass the word on to others where you work or in your neighborhood. Have them write us, too. If you would like additional reply forms, call 373-3926.

A large response will help us determine for which groups the need is most pressing and needing earliest examination. If the response to this call is good, we'll describe the findings as soon as results can be analyzed.

Attention Students Working Toward the Junior and Senior Accounting Certificates!

Cost Accounting (Acct 3221) has additional prerequisites this year. Those students who have not yet taken the cost accounting courses and who are not also working toward a business degree, please call the Extension Counseling Office at 373-3905.

Student Ombudsman Service (SOS) might be able to help you.

The service offers referrals, maps, phone calls, and information to help students overcome a variety of difficulties. SOS is headquartered in 102 Johnston Hall and is open to anyone associated with the University: student, staff or faculty - day or Extension.

SOS is open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. Those running the service are not sure just how many Extension students have made use of the service. If you need assistance from SOS, give that office a call at 373-9788 during the day.

Ancient Israel: The Background of the Bible (ANEJ 1502, 3502) will be held winter quarter as listed in the Bulletin (pages 233-4) even though its cross-listed course History 3502 has been canceled. The course at either level may also be taken for no credit at one-half tuition.

Spring quarter ANEJ 1503, 3503 will also be held although Hist 3503 is canceled. These may also be taken for no credit at half tuition.

student editorial . . .

During an interview I had recently with the people who write Info, I was asked how I was going to make this year's Extension Classes Student Board better.

The Board becomes more effective when you students yourselves become involved with the Board. We on the Board are few, but we represent thousands of students. We are only effective when we are acting in your interests.

Many of you may feel that we don't effect change, that the Extension administration is just another arm of the University bureaucracy. I believe many of you would be surprised to find out how closely the Continuing Education and Extension administration has helped the Board in the past. We on the Board have found the CEE administration willing, and usually very able, to assist us in any matter we approach them with.

So, I ask you, the Extension student, to help yourselves by helping us, the members of the Board. When we introduce ourselves in classes during the year, please come tell us how Extension Classes can better serve you. If you haven't a Board member in your classes, write to me or the Board at 180 Wesbrook Hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 55455.

There are many important issues before the Board. Please let us know about your concerns. We serve on the Board to serve you.

Randy E. Penrod, Chairman
Extension Classes Student Board

Human relations course scheduled winter quarter

A workshop in human relations will be offered through Extension Classes this winter, examining such topics as the nature of prejudice, the origins of biases and the differences in lifestyles between various groups of people. The six-credit course is approved to meet State Department of Education requirements for recertification. A teaching certificate is required for enrollment.

Carol Ann Aneshensel, a social psychologist with research and teaching experience in the analysis of interpersonal and group dynamics, recently arrived from Cornell University to teach the course.

The course is divided into two equal sections.

Simulation activities will be used to demonstrate the dynamics of human relations, and active participation and discussion in the class are encouraged.

Four sections of this course (PsyF 5305) will be offered winter quarter. For further information, see the Extension Classes Bulletin.

Too late to learn? 'Nonsense' say Lindquists

by John D. Fisher
Extension Classes Staff Writer

At the age of 71, if one subscribes to the cynical dictates of modern society, there is little left in life but a rocking chair and some idealized memories of a mythical past. And there is nothing at all to look forward to. Sociologists call this the problem of aging.

Nonsense, all nonsense.

Take Alice and Raymond Lindquist: after a combined lifespan of 142 years, 36 years of marriage, and retirement in 1973, these people have gone back to school. And, of all things, they're learning to play "Old MacDonald" on the piano.

Go back a few years: in 1940 Alice and Raymond were married. It's a nice story; they had graduated together from Central High School in St. Paul. Raymond had been to college, earning his B.A. in sociology and a law degree from the University of Minnesota, and a master's degree in library science from Columbia University.

Alice had taken a few night classes at the University and had managed to acquire a rudimentary knowledge of piano playing. When they were married, Alice insisted on having a piano in the house.

Somewhere along the line Raymond landed himself a job as head of the Cleveland Public Library in Ohio. But the Lindquists always hoped to move back to Minnesota.

"There's just no other place that has Minnesota's beautiful skies," Alice explains.

In 1968, Raymond exercised his option for early retirement and left the Cleveland library. The Lindquists moved back to Minnesota and now live on Beechwood Avenue in St. Paul.

But in 1968, at a mere 63, the Lindquists were still youngsters. Raymond decided to establish the legislative library at the State Capitol, for which he later received a commendation from the governor.

But, according to law, people must retire when they reach a certain age. So in 1973 Raymond retired. Then he and his wife decided to have some fun. And when in 1975 the state legislature decreed that persons 62 and over could enroll free for no credit in public university and college classes, the Lindquists took advantage of it.

Last year they both studied beginning painting and Alice enrolled in a private piano course. Raymond came over to the University and took a full year of beginning Swedish through Extension Classes.

And this year they're back at it. Alice has enrolled for another year of painting and Raymond is registered for beginning Spanish. And figuring that "it's high time we both learned to play the piano," they registered as a husband-and-wife team for Piano Playing for Pleasure through Extension Classes at the University.

"Of course we don't expect to become virtuoso pianists," Raymond laughs, "Not at our age."

But that old piano that Alice insisted on having in the house is finally getting some use, and tunes such as "Gentle Winds," "French Folk Song," "Au Clair de la Lune" and "Troika Ride" waff through their household.

Raymond tells a story about the seemingly endless years of schooling he endured while earning his B.A., law, and master's degrees.

"Mother used to ask me if I was ever going to finish school. And you see? I haven't finished. I'm still going to school!"

Alice and Raymond Lindquist

Two noncredit Informal Courses in art are scheduled for the first time at neighborhood centers winter quarter. THE ARTIST'S HAT (IC 0024) will be held Thursdays at St. Stephens Church, West St. Paul, and is an introduction to art, divided between films, discussion, conversations with local artists, a field trip, and experimentation with individual creative projects. ART AND ARCHITECTURE OF THE JEWISH PEOPLE (IC 0031) will meet at the Jewish Community Center in St. Louis Park. Slide lectures will illustrate important artistic and cultural monuments left by Jews from Biblical times to the modern State of Israel. It meets on Thursdays. Telephone 373-3195 for registration information.

University of Minnesota Extension Independent Study is offering both television and radio credit courses winter quarter. The two courses to be broadcast over KTCA, channel 2, are THE CONSTITUTION: WHAT IT IS TODAY (Pol 5503, 4 credits, Harold Chase) and CLASSICAL MYTHOLOGY: MYTHS AND THE MODERN WORLD (Clas 5145, 4 credits, Jackson Hershbell). Each program is 30 minutes in length, broadcast Mondays at 9 and 9:30 p.m. respectively, January 3 - March 7. A radio course, MADNESS AND DEVIANT BEHAVIOR IN GREECE AND ROME (Clas 5005, 4 credits, Gerald Erickson), can be heard over KUOM 770 AM, 11:15-11:45 a.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday beginning January 3. Registration for these courses is now open; a late fee applies after January 14. For registration information, call 376-4925, or write Extension Independent Study, 27 Wesbrook Hall, 77 Pleasant St. S.E., Minneapolis 55455.

Beginning in January, the format for EMERGENCY CARE NURSING (Nurs 0312C) will be changed. The clinical portion of the course will be discontinued, and the 36-hour didactic component retained for new registrants. The course in its new format will last six weeks and carry 4.4 continuing education units. Registration is through Continuing Education and Extension's Department of Conferences. For information, contact Sharon Vegoe at 373-3987.

RELIGION IN ANTIQUITY: THE NEW TESTAMENT (Classics 3072/5072) is one of several courses in religion to be offered through Extension Classes winter quarter. Other departments offering courses related to religion include English, Philosophy, Near and Middle Eastern Studies, Sociology, Anthropology, American Studies, History, Psychology, Religious Studies, Arabic, Hebrew, Informal Courses, Ancient Near Eastern and Jewish Studies, and Music.

During its 1975 session, the Minnesota state legislature passed a law allowing persons 62 and older to register on a space-available basis in classes offered at the state's public colleges and universities. The law provides that senior citizens may register free for no credit or for $2 a credit. They must, however, pay any special fees, course fees, and text and materials costs.

Fall quarter and semester Extension Classes enrollment figures indicate that many people are taking advantage of the law. In all, 201 senior citizens registered for classes this fall: 165 enrolled free for no credit, and 36 registered for credit.

As you complete registration for winter quarter classes, remember that spring semester overlaps a large portion of winter quarter. Spring semester begins Feb. 7, slightly more than a month later than the Jan. 3 beginning of winter quarter.

Mail registration for spring semester begins Jan. 10 and continues through Feb. 2. Telephone requests for limited-enrollment class cards and registration forms will be accepted from Jan. 17 to 26, and information on available space will be given over the phone between Jan. 17 and Feb. 2. In-person registration begins Jan. 24 at all registration offices and continues until Feb. 2.

Meanwhile, there's still time to register for winter quarter classes. Mail and phone registration will continue through Dec. 28 and in-person registration ends Dec. 10. Late registrations will be accepted by mail or in person with no late fee through Dec. 28 at 101 Wesbrook or at the MacPhail office in downtown Minneapolis.

Check your Extension Classes Bulletin, pages 16-19, for detailed winter quarter and spring semester registration dates and office hours. If you have any questions about registration procedures, visit 101 Wesbrook Hall or call 373-3195.

Limited-enrollment classes are printed in red ink in the Bulletin.

GC students meetings set

Students who plan to apply for admission to a General College (GC) baccalaureate program must attend one of the meetings listed below to learn about newly initiated guidelines. All meetings are in Nicholson Hall (times are given below).

Resources Center is equipped to help Extension students

The Learning Resources Center (formerly Language Laboratory) is now part of the University Library system. It is equipped and staffed for the purpose of recording, copying, editing, storing, cataloging and distributing audio and video tapes, films, slides and other materials which are not printed matter designed for ordinary reading.

The Center has facilities on both the St. Paul Campus (Temporary South of Coffey) and on the Minneapolis Campus (Walter Library), and distributes materials for a wide range of University courses. The main office and the central instructional areas are on the second floor, south wing, room 204 of Walter Library.

All Extension students and instructors are invited to visit the Learning Resources Center to become acquainted with its materials, facilities, and policies. Questions or suggestions are welcome. Students registered in Extension Classes who pay a Learning Center laboratory fee can borrow audio cassettes for use at home. Information about lending procedures can be obtained by visiting or phoning the center. Special arrangements can be made to accommodate students with physical disabilities.

The Learning Resources Center now regularly receives and distributes video cassettes and audio cassettes of Continuing Education and Extension courses broadcast by Channel 2 television and by KUOM radio. These cassettes may be used for make-up work, for review, or, in some cases, for taking a course by independent study.

The hours of the Walter Library Center are:

Monday through Thursday	8 a.m. to 10 p.m.
Friday	8 a.m. to 6 p.m.
Saturday	9 a.m. to 6 p.m.
Sunday	1 p.m. to 10 p.m.

The hours of the Coffey Hall Center are:

Monday through Friday	8 a.m. to 8 p.m.
Closed Weekends

The phone number at Walter Library is 373-2538; at Coffey Hall, 373-1622.

Afraid of math? Now here's a program created just for you

"I'm no good at math, I just can't understand figures."

How many times have you heard those words, or uttered them yourself? Have hope - a new program offered jointly by Extension Classes and Continuing Education for Women is designed for people for whom math is a stumbling block in their academic careers.

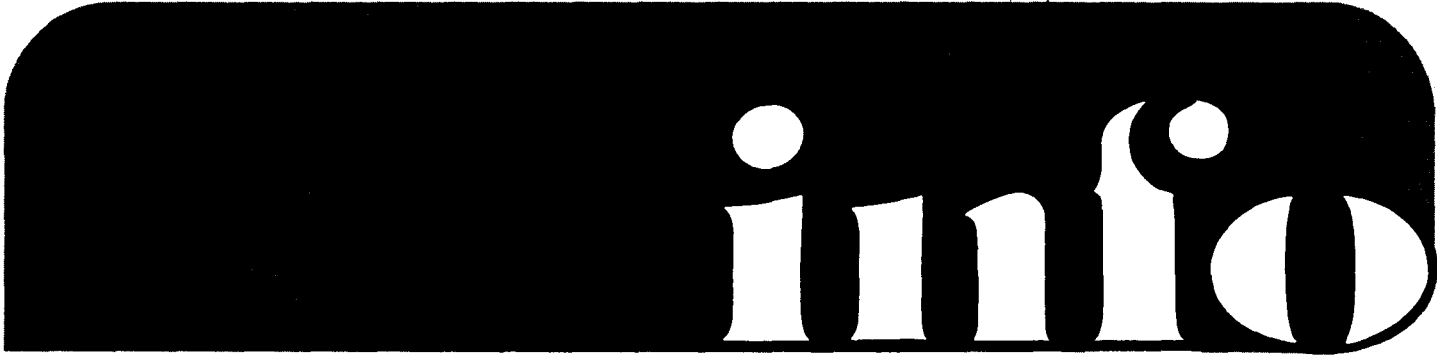

The Math Anxiety Program helps students overcome their fears and mental blocks in mathematics by providing support outside of the classroom. Participants are expected to enroll in math classes winter quarter or spring semester.

The first step in the program is a one-evening diagnostic clinic, which will meet on Thurs., Jan. 13, 6:30-9 p.m. The clinic will explore math anxiety, how it develops, and how it affects math performance. Tests and questionnaires are used to help students identify problem areas.

An ongoing Math Anxiety Support Group, led by a counseling psychologist, is the second part of the program. Participants will continue the examination of blocks in math, attitudinal change, test anxiety, and mechanisms to deal with math anxiety. The support group will meet for seven Thursdays beginning Jan. 27, 7-8 p.m.

Cost for the Math Anxiety Diagnostic Clinic is $5. Cost for the clinic plus the Support Group is $15. Advance registration is required. For registration information and questions phone 373-3039 or write Math Anxiety, 202 Westbrook Hall, 77 Pleasant St. S.E., University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Schedule a spring semester class now

To ensure smooth registration in spring semester classes, Extension students should be familiar with mail registration procedures and telephone request procedures. Mail registration for spring semester classes begins Jan. 10. Mail requests for limited-enrollment classes received in 101 Wesbrook Hall will be processed first. Checks must be enclosed with registration forms unless tuition and fees are to be charged to a firm or company. Telephone requests for limited-enrollment class cards and registration forms will be accepted from Jan. 17 to 26. After Jan. 26, class cards will not be mailed, but phone requests for information on available class space will be accepted through Feb. 2. Telephone 376-1371. In-person registration at 101

Wesbrook Hall, MacPhail Center in downtown Minneapolis, and at the Skyway registration booth in downtown St. Paul, runs from Jan. 24 to Feb. 2. Feb. 2 is the last day for registration and payment of tuition without a late fee. After the second class meeting, a student must have written permission of the instructor in order to register for a class. Many interesting classes in a wide variety of topics will be available spring semester. Among them are the following:

New G. I. bill affects veterans

Four changes affect student veterans as a result of a bill (S-969) enacted by Congress last fall.

First, benefits have been increased as follows:

MINIMUM CREDITS	DEPENDENTS
	None	One	Two	Each Dependent Over Two
Full Time:	12	$292	$347	$396	$24
3/4 Time:	9	219	260	297	18
1/2 Time:	6	146	174	198	12

Second, maximum period of training has been increased from 36 months to 45 months. In addition, student veterans may use educational benefits for graduate study up to 45 months rather than up to 36 months as before. There have been a few changes in the standards for satisfactory academic progress. To determine if you are maintaining satisfactory progress, call a counselor in Extension Counseling, 314 Nolte Center, 373-3905, for further information.

Third, tutorial assistance allowances have been increased from $60 a month to $65 a month. Tutorial assistance maximum has increased from $720 to $780. Procedures for tutorial assistance are outlined elsewhere in this newsletter.

Fourth, the VA more frequently than before may request the student veteran to obtain from the University a statement specifying the number of credits needed to complete a program of study and a list of the courses required. To plan a study program and/or to request such a statement, the student veteran should contact an Extension counselor at 373-3905. To evaluate credits and write such a statement, the adviser will need a student's up-to-date transcript(s). It is advisable for veterans to apply for admission to the University and a degree program or certificate program at the earliest possible time.

Three offices on campus deal with student veterans' affairs. FOR REGISTRATION IN EXTENSION: Linda Olson and Jan Johnson, 138 Wesbrook, 373-5777. FOR THE STATEMENTS MENTIONED ABOVE; FOR PROGRAM ADVISING; AND FOR EDUCATIONAL, VOCATIONAL, AND PERSONAL COUNSELING: Jackie Henning and Becky Johnson or other Extension staff, Extension Counseling Office, 314 Nolte Center, 373-3905. FOR ASSISTANCE WITH SPECIAL PROBLEMS ENCOUNTERED WITH THE VETERANS ADMINISTRATION: Tom Parisian and Norm Heino or other staff, Veterans' Affairs Office, 7 Morrill Hall, 373-9891.

Biology and the Future of Man (Biology 3051) is a nontechnical discussion of biological factors affecting the state of the environment and the quality of life.

Toward a Good Life (General College 3821) will examine and compare differing concepts of a good life and enable students to develop an understanding of the nature of people and their relationship to the natural and social environment.

Piano Playing for Pleasure (Music 0051C) is designed primarily for the person with no piano background and will deal with keyboard fundamentals.

How to Study (Personal Orientation 1001) offers practical assistance to the student in developing efficient study habits, organizing materials, preparing for examinations, and improving speed and comprehension of reading.

For a complete list, consult the Extension Bulletin.

The following courses will be held spring semester at neighborhood centers throughout the Twin Cities area. Take a class near your home or work. Brooklyn Center High School: Business Correspondence (Composition 0004C). Irondale High School in New Brighton: Introduction to Anthropology (Anthropology 1002); Principles of Economics (Economics 1002); Elementary Algebra (Math 0006). Kellogg High

Galleries feature University artists

ON THE EAST BANK: Art works by Alfred Martin, retiring staff artist of the University's James Ford Bell Museum of Natural History will be exhibited in the Jacques Gallery of the museum through January 18.

The museum is located at 17th and University Aves. S.E. It is open to the public free from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday; until 9 p.m. Wednesdays; and 2 to 5 p.m. Sundays.

ON THE WEST BANK: More than 25 former University Theatre students who have achieved recognition in theater, films, television, radio and academic theater are honored in the University of Minnesota Theatre Portrait Gallery in Rarig Center.

Explore the U Scholars Program

The University Scholars Program is a recent addition to the nontraditional degree alternatives offered by University College. An experimental project, the University Scholars Program is designed to allow a student and faculty adviser the freedom to construct a baccalaureate degree program based upon individually tailored educational goals and learning experiences.

This program is not one in which students nominate themselves; rather, the nomination is initiated by a faculty member who agrees to serve as the student's adviser in the program, supervising and assessing the student's work.

Students enrolled in the program may earn either a B.A. or B.S. degree. The program allows a student and adviser to plan a contract degree that has no requirements other than distribution and residency.

Together with the adviser, the student formulates a degree contract that might include independent study, travel, community work or internships, as well as traditional classroom instruction.

There are no credit requirements for the degree. The student fulfills the liberal education requirements for either the B.A. or the B.S. and would be required to spend at least one year in the University Scholars Program on a full-time basis.

To apply for this program, students and their faculty advisers must submit application materials and a proposed program of study for approval by the University Scholars Committee. Additional information is available at 105 Walter Library, Telephone 373-4638.

Minnesota Forum brings faculty, students together

The Minnesota Forum, an organization of the West Bank Union, creates and maintains an extracurricular setting for scholarly lectures, discussions, symposia and debates devoted to a broad range of topics significant to all members of the academic community.

At the same time, the Forum seeks to promote the kind of informal exchange of ideas important to the intellectual vitality of the University.

Through the program series listed below, the Forum brings faculty and students together for conversation in an atmosphere that contributes to the educational purposes of the University.

Afternoon Lecture Series: participants are invited from the faculties of the University

Evening and Guest Lectures: nationally recognized scholars from around the nation

Film-Discussion Series: exploration of the best contemporary drama as presented in film

Visiting Lecture Fund: assisting academic departments in sponsoring all-University lectures and seminars

The Explicator: examination of literary works

Other programs are also held throughout the year. For a Forum membership application and list of events for 1976-77, telephone 376-1183; or write The Minnesota Forum, West Bank Union, 303 Blegen Hall, Minneapolis 55455.

Free library course meets in January

Efficient use of the library is helpful for students researching a term paper or searching for a particular book or periodical. Too often, however, students spend a lot of time looking for materials that aren't so difficult to find if they know where to begin.

This winter Extension Classes, in cooperation with the Minnesota Interlibrary Telecommunications Exchange, is again offering a free, two-night course on how to use the library more efficiently. This two-part course offers a review of library organization and tips on how best to use the vast array of resources available in all libraries, especially University libraries.

Part I, "Everyone's Guide to the Whole Library," is scheduled for Thursday, January 13. Part II, "The Whole Library is More than the Sum of its Parts," will meet Thursday, January 20. Both sections meet from 6:30 to 9 p.m. in room 210 Anderson Hall on the West Bank Campus.

Marcia Pankake, an instructor in library acquisitions, will teach the course. Let us know if you plan to attend; telephone 376-4815. Campus maps are also available by calling this number.

An evening child care center located in the Amos Building (University Avenue at Church Street) will be open winter quarter to Extension students who need its services.

Children from six to twelve years of age are accepted. The center will operate Monday through Thursday from 5:15 to 10 p.m.

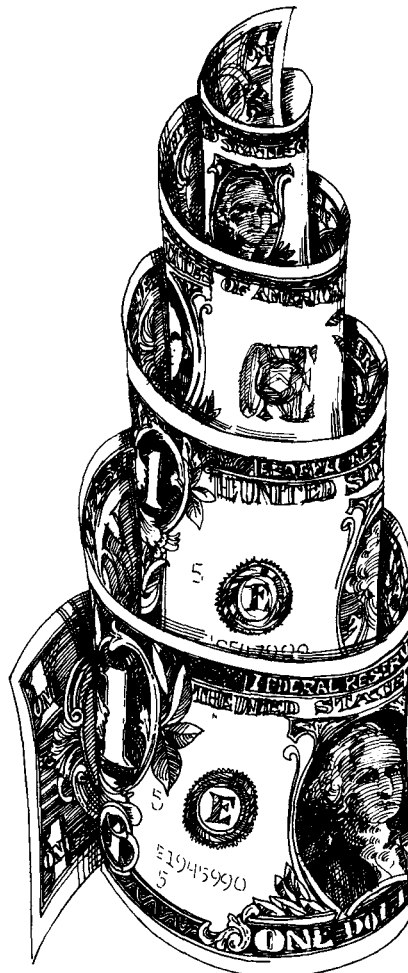

Children attending the center will be engaged in activities ranging from arts and crafts and scientific experiments to reading and playing games.

There are presently no provisions to care for physically or mentally handicapped children.

Extension students may interview to register their children January 7, 10 or 11 at 116 Amos from 7 to 9 p.m.

For further information, telephone Mary Svobodny, center director, at 824-2327.

Procedures for Veterans Tutorial Assistance

Tutorial Assistance for Veterans provides funds for special help to veterans who need to overcome a deficiency in a subject required for the satisfactory pursuit of an educational objective. This does not mean that a student must be failing a class in order to require tutoring.

1. Call 373-3905 or 373-5777 to obtain the necessary forms: VA form 22-1990t: "Application and enrollment Certification for Individualized Tutorial Assistance" and University of Minnesota form: "Certification of Individual Tutorial Assistance for Veterans Under Public Law 89-358, Chapter 34."

2. To find a tutor, students should first check with their instructors for suggestions. Other possible places to check are with the department for a list of graduate students (or more advanced students who have submitted their names for tutoring). Also check departmental bulletin boards and Minnesota Daily ads.

3. Students must make arrangements with the tutor for payment, times, and other details. A receipt must be kept listing dates, hours, and money, signed by the tutor and the student. The student will have to pay the tutor. VA reimbursement for tutoring does not come until the entire tutoring is completed for that course.

4. When tutoring is complete (usually at the end of the quarter) students must mail or bring in the VA form and the University form signed by the instructor, and the receipts for tutoring, to Extension Classes, 138 Westbrook Hall, 77 Pleasant Street S.E., University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 55455.

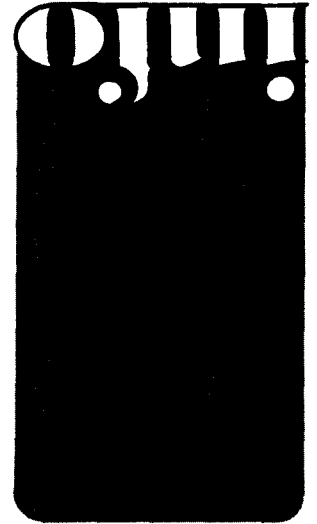

5. Contact a counselor in 314 Nolte Center, 373-3905, if you are having further difficulty with course work, or wish to discuss your program and future academic work.

Study in London spring quarter

If you want to study English theatre and literature, there's no better place to do it than in England. Here's your chance.

From March to June, Extension Classes will sponsor spring quarter in London. Students may earn 12 or more credits studying Shakespeare, modern drama, and English literature. Professor David Haley of the University's English department will teach the spring quarter classes which will be held in the Beaver Hotel in the Earts Court district of London. Students and instructor will reside in the hotel.

Approximate cost for tuition is $2 credits), overseas credit fees, and room and breakfast is $825. Students must arrange their own transportation.

For spring quarter, some seats are available on an Icelandic charter flight from Chicago to Luxembourg. Cost for this flight is $416 round trip, leaving March 24 with an open return date good for one year. Classes begin March 28.

Courses to be offered in London include English 3241, Shakespeare; English 1019, Introduction to Modern Drama; and English 3020, Styles of Life in English Literature. "X" registration (for extra credit projects) is also possible.

As part of the courses, students will attend current plays of the London season and visit Stratford-on-Avon. English taste in architecture and painting will be illustrated by London itself and the city's museums and attractions.

For an information and registration brochure, visit or write Extension Classes, University of Minnesota, 170 Westbrook Hall, 77 Pleasant Street S.E., Minneapolis 55455. Or telephone Call Fraser at 373-3926.

The deadline for spring quarter London registration is February 15, 1977.

Another London trip is planned for fall quarter 1977, with an emphasis on Family Social Science and led by Professor Richard Hey. Details will appear at a later date.

ISTC set to help Extension students plan foreign trips

The International Study and Travel Center (ISTC) at 40 Coffman Union maintains an extensive library on study, travel, and work abroad opportunities. Study-travel advisers are available by appointment to help you plan overseas trips.

ISTC office is open until 6:30 p.m. Monday and Thursday evenings to accommodate Extension students.

A one-week study and travel program on Northern Mayan Architecture is being planned from March 18 to 25. Instructor of the program is Dr. George Winterowd of the School of Architecture. Participants will study the Mayan sites of Chichen Itza, Uxmal, Tulum, and Coba. Estimated cost is $525.

For information and appointments with ISTC advisers, telephone 373-0180.

Masculinity myths topic of talk

Men hear a great deal these days about the impact of a male-dominated culture on the socialization of women. While little girls were being socialized in a culture which often denied them the opportunity to realize their potentialities, little boys were subjected to another set of cultural expectations which denied them the right to certain feelings and attitudes not part of the male myth.

A free lecture sponsored by Extension Classes, Masculinity: Myths and Realities, intended to help people understand the cultural origins of the male role, will be given Tuesday, January 25, at 7:30 p.m. in the Bell Museum of Natural History (telephone 373-3039 for a campus map).

Men's Lives, a 62-minute film, using interviews and real-life situations to explore role expectations from childhood to maturity, will be shown. Specific sequences examine childhood competition, sex-role stereotypes, problems of male adolescence, and the burden of being "the breadwinner."

The film will be preceded with brief introductory remarks by Dr. Darwin Hendel, who teaches psychology for Extension Classes, and Jim Moynihan, counselor in the Continuing Education and Extension Counseling Department.

Because men often find it difficult to confront the myths of their own masculinity, this film and lecture are designed to be an enlightening experience. An optional question-and-answer period will follow.

Women are welcome, of course. Couples are encouraged to attend together.

Here's a new twist

Learn to read by writing

An old educational axiom that seems to hold up over time is that one of the best ways to learn writing is to read. It makes sense: perceptive reading can help you be a better writer. This, of course, assumes perceptive reading.

Lee Veillon will reverse the process on you. She believes that writing can teach you to read perceptively. That's the theory she brings with her into the classroom when she teaches An Introduction to Creative Writing, offered evenings through Extension Classes.

Veillon is a writer, author of a novel about voodoo in the French quarter of New Orleans, and author of three published and produced plays. She has other books in the works, though not yet revised into publishable form. Currently she is serving as a visiting assistant professor of English teaching writing courses both during the day and in the evening.

As a writing instructor, one of Veillon's duties is to steer students away from bad writing habits. Probably the worst habit a novice writer can acquire, she says, is to write about his or her own experiences.

"Most people just aren't interested in reading about the writer's own personal experiences," she claims. "Write imaginatively: that's what I tell the students - to get away from their own personal lives. If I can get them to use their imaginations, they'll probably write much more interesting and exciting stories."

She also cautions against trying to write about large cosmic concepts; those have a tendency to muddy the issue. "I'm a storyteller," she says, "as I think most writers are. If you can write a good story, the deeper dimensions will take care of themselves." In other words, writers often write into their work more than they realize.

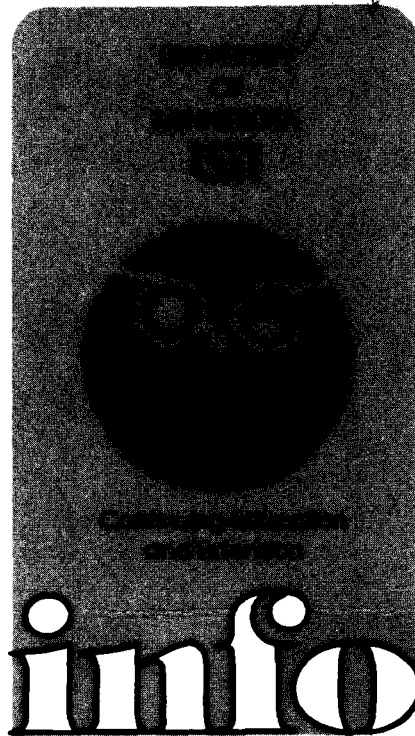

The other thing is to write for fun. Veillon's plays are written for enjoyment, as the titles seem to indicate: Sidelong Glances at a Pillow Kicking, There Were No Bunions in the Presence of a Lady, and Italians and Army Surplus Toilet Seats.

Originally from Louisiana, Veillon is a Creole. For a seven-year period she was a nun with the Sisters of Divine Providence. She decided, however, that a nun's life wasn't for her, and went back to school to earn a master of fine arts degree from the University of Oregon. Since then she has taught writing at all levels from grammar school to the university level.

Veillon teaches Comp 1113, 1114, and 1115, An Introduction to Creative Writing, through Extension Classes. Prose writing is the focus of the spring quarter class. For details check the Extension Classes Bulletin.

Metric system is coming! Are you ready?

A noncredit course during spring quarter will focus on learning and practicing the metric system.

Metrically Speaking (Informal Courses OO22, page 201 in the Bulletin) will meet Thursdays for five sessions March 31 to April 28, 7-9 p.m., in 217 Lind Hall on the East Bank campus.

Instructor for the course is Lawrence S. Wenberg, assistant director of the Minnesota Metric Center in the University's Institute of Technology.

Because the United States has begun the transition that will result in the metric system replacing our customary system as the predominant measurement language, we will soon be communicating in metres, kilograms, and litres instead of in yards, pounds, and quarts.

Being familiar with this system is now an asset and will before long be a necessity in the office, at home, in the factory, in stores and while traveling.

The history of measurement and the U.S. adoption of the metric system will also be examined.

Tuition is $18. Register during regular spring quarter dates given elsewhere in this issue.

General College replaces two spring quarter classes

Two spring quarter General College courses have been canceled (GC 3585, sec 2, Legal Studies; Income Taxation and GC 1535, sec 2, Introduction to Data Processing); they have been replaced by the following two courses:

★ GC 3588, sec 1, Legal Studies: Criminal Law will acquaint paralegals with the criminal justice system, provide them basic understanding of criminal law, and offer them an opportunity to handle live criminal cases under close supervision during the quarter. Prereq: GC 1540 or Acct 1050 or old Acct 1024, GC 1235 & 1534 or BLaw 3058-3078, 3088 or consent of instructor. Four credits. Mondays, 6:20-8:50, limited to 25 students. Nicholson Hall 209A, Professor Oliphant.

GC 3571, sec 1, A Computer Approach to Problem Solving gives students a background in computer programming using the computer language, BASIC. Students will write and run programs and will become familiar with routines which are available in the University Computer Center library. Shows students how the computer may be used to help solve problems in business, management and science. Students completing the course will have the background for learning other programming languages such as FORTRAN and COBOL. Prereq: GC 1445, 45 credits or consent of instructor. Four credits. Wednesdays, 6:20-8:50. Child Development building, room 218, Thomas Ressler, instructor.

Environment is basis for statewide design competition

A statewide competition for innovative and unusual designs that can be used to solve environmental problems will be co-sponsored this winter by Continuing Education in the Arts and the Minnesota Society of Architects.

Funded by a $10,000 grant from the Northwest Area Foundation, the contest is designed to make use of fresh and ingenious ideas for solving critical environmental problems. Cash prizes will be offered for drawings, photographs, diagrams, models or written descriptions of the designs. Winning entries will also tour the state with

Design plans a weaving workshop

A special weaving workshop for two University credits, along with a public lecture about weaving, are scheduled by Extension Classes spring quarter.

The course, Problems in Design (Design 5585) will meet Saturday and Sunday, February 21 and 22, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Monday, February 23, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Taught by Ken Weaver of Atlanta, Georgia, the class will be held on the St. Paul campus in 16 McNeal Hall. Weaver holds the M.F.A. degree from the Cranbrook Academy of Art, has taught at Auburn and at the University of Georgia, and is presently a designer/weaver executing commissioned hangings.

Weaver will also present a free, public lecture that Monday at 8 p.m. in the McNeal Hall Auditorium. In addition, his works will be on display in the Goldstein Gallery of McNeal.

For information and registration, telephone 373-5166, or come to 202 Wesbrook Hall.

There's still time to plan your spring quarter in London

February 21 is the new deadline date for students to apply for Extension Classes spring quarter in London.

The program, with emphasis on English literature and theatre, runs from March to June, and students may earn 12 or more University degree credits. Cost for the quarter, including 12 credits tuition, overseas credit fees, and room and breakfast, is approximately $825. Students must arrange transportation on their own.

Professor David Haley of the University's English Department will teach the spring quarter classes which will be held in the Beaver Hotel in the Earls Court district of London. Students and instructor will reside in the hotel.

Courses to be offered in London include English 3241, Shakespeare; English 1019, Introduction to Modern Drama; and English 3020, Styles of Life in English Literature. "X" registration (for extra credit projects) is also possible.

Students will attend current plays of the London season and visit Stratford-on-Avon as part of the courses. English taste in architecture and painting will be illustrated by London itself and the city's museums and attractions.

For an information and registration brochure, visit or write Extension Classes, University of Minnesota, 170 Wesbrook Hall, 77 Pleasant Street S.E., Minneapolis 55455. Or telephone Gail Fraser at 373-3926.

Another London trip is planned for fall quarter 1977, with an emphasis on Family Social Science and led by Professor Richard Hey. Details will appear in Info at a later date.

Some seats are available on an Icelandic charter flight from Chicago to Luxembourg for spring quarter. Cost for this flight is $416 round trip, leaving March 24, with an open return date good for one year. Classes begin March 28 in London.

File your papers. Be a candidate for University Senate

If you want to have a say in University government and help solve University problems, then think about running for the University Senate.

This spring you'll have 16 chances to land a spot on the University's academic governing body. From April 11 through 17, Extension students will vote in the classroom or by mail for eight senators and eight alternates from Continuing Education and Extension.

Candidates must file their papers between February 7 and March 7, 1977.

Elected senators (or alternates) will join faculty and day school student senators in the University Senate to consider both the University's internal affairs and its role in the community.

You'll also sit on the Extension Classes Student Board with other appointed student members and faculty representatives.

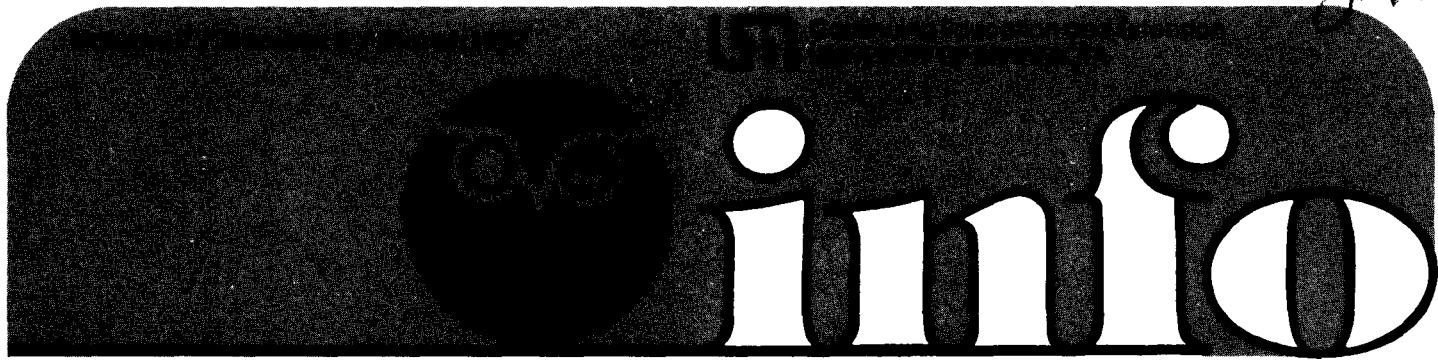

To file as an Extension candidate, you must meet these eligibility requirements: (You must be planning to register for fall Extension classes):

1. You must be carrying three Extension credits at time of election.
2. You must have earned a minimum of 12 University of Minnesota credits within the past five years.

Filing forms for the Senate election, other election information, and details on Student Board appointments may be obtained at 180 Westbrook Hall on the Minneapolis campus. Telephone 376-7500.

Ballots will be distributed in class and at 180 Westbrook during the election. Voters will need to show a paid fee statement.

Astronomy for the amateur is new spring course

A new General College class has been added for spring quarter, ASTRONOMY LAB FOR THE AMATEUR (GC 1167). Extension students who wish to register must first call the instructor, Ivan Policoff, for approval at 373-4028, and then complete registration in the regular manner described in the Bulletin.

Through the course students will gain a certain proficiency in doing amateur astronomy work by performing a series of experiments involving photography and by systematically observing the night sky. Depending on weather conditions, some of the labs will be scheduled at an observing site outside the Twin Cities, and some will be scheduled at the physics building on campus.

Students will provide their own transportation to the observing site (about 30 minutes driving time from the campus) and to the physics building. Students will have the opportunity to associate with amateur astronomers by their participation in the activities of the Twin Cities Astronomy Club.

Prerequisite for the 2-credit course is completion of one quarter of astronomy, current registration in astronomy, or the equivalent. The class

Baby-sitting service during the evening is now available

A licensed evening baby-sitting service is available on the Minneapolis campus for children six to 12 years old. Cost for one night a quarter is $30 for the first child and $18 for the second.

For more information call 376-3042, 8 to 4:30 p.m. Or stop in at room 12 Armory from 5:15 to 10 p.m.

meets Thursday evenings, including five observing sessions from 7 p.m. to midnight, and five non-observing sessions from 7 to 10 p.m.

Career workshop meetings are set at Nolte Center in April and May

Two Continuing Education and Extension counselors will conduct a six-session workshop for men and women who want to learn how to explore career options.

Vocational testing results, self-awareness exercises, support group participation, and projects researching career and educational opportunities will provide tools for confronting questions such as these:

What jobs or careers would be satisfying to me? What skills do I have that are marketable? Should I return to school to develop additional skills? How do I discover what job

Extension students who expect to receive a degree winter quarter should contact their advisers immediately to be sure that all requirements have been met.

New gallery hours

The University Gallery on the third and fourth floors of Northrop Auditorium has announced the extended museum hours listed below. All exhibits of the gallery are free and open to the public.

Mon., Wed., Fri.	- 11 a.m. - 4 p.m.
Tues., Thurs.	- 11 a.m. - 8 p.m.
Sunday	- 2 p.m. - 5 p.m.

The class is limited to 24 students. It is a joint Day/Extension class. Extension students must have the approval of the instructor to enroll.

opportunities are available now and in the future? In what way do I want a job to fit into my total life style? How do I begin actively planning and implementing my future?

The workshop will meet Monday evenings, April 11 to May 16, from 6 to 9 p.m. in Nolte Center. Cost is $30.

Registration is limited to 30 participants. Please call Bonnie Gray or Mari Forbush at 373-3905 to register. Participants are expected to attend all sessions and to spend about two hours doing weekly homework assignments.

Two TV courses offered spring quarter on KTCA

Two television Extension Independent Study courses for University of Minnesota credit will be offered spring quarter over KTCA-TV, channel 2 in the Twin Cities.

PRINCIPLES OF ADVERTISING (Jour 1201) 4 credits, is an introduction to the role of advertising in our society. Monday evenings, March 28 to May 30, 9:30 to 10 p.m. Tuition is $62.

GEOGRAPHY OF THE TWIN CITIES (Geo 1973) will examine the distinctive neighborhoods such as Kenwood in Minneapolis and Grand Avenue in St. Paul; discuss the future of the Twin Cities; and compare the similarities and differences between Minneapolis and St. Paul. Monday evenings, March 28 to May 30, 9 to 9:30 p.m. Tuition is $62 for 4 undergraduate credits. A Saturday morning bus tour of the cities will be available to registered students on a space-available basis.

Costs for texts and study guides are extra. Some study guides to supplement the television programs may be purchased separately by nonregistered viewers.

For further information, telephone Independent Study on the Minneapolis campus, 376-4925. Address is 27 Westbrook Hall, 77 Pleasant St. S.E., University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 55455.

April 15 is deadline date to apply for 1977-78 student financial aid

Students who intend to apply for financial aid for the 1977-78 academic year should plan to do so now. In addition to long processing times for aid applications, a number of programs stipulate that aid recipients must be admitted to a degree or a certificate program.

It is possible that some degree programs will hold to an April 15 application deadline for all of next year. Certificate programs will admit students throughout the year.

While a number of financial aid programs open to Extension students do not require that recipients be admitted, and have much shorter processing times, students who plan to apply for the BEOG (Basic Educational Opportunity Grant) and the FISL (Federally Insured Student Loan) should act now. Applications are available at the Office of Student Financial Aid, 105 Armory (373-4021). BEOG applications can also be picked up at most public libraries.

Students who need information and applications for admission to a degree or certificate program through Extension should talk with an adviser or counselor in Extension Counseling, 314 Nolte Center (373-3905). Simply registering for and attending classes does not necessarily mean that a student has been officially admitted. If in doubt, students should check with Extension Counseling.

Those who plan to attend day school in the fall should request a financial aid application from the Office of Student Financial Aid. Those who missed the March 1 priority deadline should apply as soon as possible. Applications will be accepted throughout the summer, but students who apply earlier have a much better chance of receiving grant and scholarship monies. Admission forms for day school degree programs can be picked up in Admissions and Records, 6 Morrill Hall (373-2154 for freshman admission and 373-2155 for advanced-standing admission).

Please note that sometime this spring, admissions and records offices will be moving from Morrill Hall to the new admissions/bookstore building. It is located between Nolte Center and Jones Hall. Telephone numbers may change. You will be directed to new offices and phones when the move occurs.

Extension students who have questions regarding financial aid programs for which they might be eligible can call Extension Counseling (376-4500).

CLA advising extends hours spring quarter

Extended adviser hours for CEE students seeking College of Liberal Arts degrees are available for the first time during spring quarter.

The CLA advising office in 206 Folwell Hall will remain open until 6 p.m. Wednesdays through June 1. Either walk-in or pre-arranged conferences are available (telephone 373-5245).

General CLA requirements and specific requirements for humanities and fine arts majors can be discussed. Students with interest in social science, natural science, or professional majors will be referred to appropriate offices, which will contact them later.

All students are asked to come with up-to-date copies of their CEE transcripts. Pick up your transcript at Window 17 Morrill Hall from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday; or call them to have one mailed to you (373-2149).

Community life is KUOM series

KUOM Radio (University Media Resources) has received a $4,200 grant from the Minnesota Humanities Commission to produce a series of programs on grass roots community concerns. Metropolitan Living: Communities by Choice consists of 13 half-hour programs being broadcast Mondays on KUOM in weekly segments April 4 through June at 1 p.m. and 6 p.m. Series producer is Vicki Lofquist.

summer program of Southampton College, will offer three studio arts courses this summer on the south shore of Long Island, New York.

University of Minnesota assistant professor of studio arts Victor Caglioti, who regularly serves on the summer staff of the Southampton College program, will teach the courses. Classes will be held July 11 to August 5.

The following courses will be offered at Southampton College at regular University tuition rates:

Painting (Studio Arts 1105/3120/5120), 4 credits, $25 studio fee

Drawing (Studio Arts 1101/1102/3110/5110), 4 credits, $25 studio fee

Twentieth Century Art Theories (Studio Arts Seminar 5400, prerequisite: consent of the instructor) 2 credits, taught in conjunction with professional artists.

Directed and Independent

Study registrations are also possible.

Southampton Bay is in the midst of the renowned Hamptons area art colony. Many eminent artists live and work nearby, and exhibit at the many local galleries and museums.

Throughout the summer program, lectures, concerts, films and theatrical productions are presented in the evenings at 8 p.m. All the attractions of a summer resort are available, from surfing and tennis to golf and a dip in the campus outdoor pool.

Registrants may live at the college for the four-week term. Weekly rates are $70 for a double room, and $75 for a single. All rates include 19 meals a week. The board plan is mandatory for persons residing in the college dormitory. Registrants must provide their own transportation to Southampton.

June 15 is the deadline for registration. If you have questions, telephone Anita Finch at 373-4815. Register in room 202 Westbrook Hall.

Sampler Lectures are part of regularly scheduled Extension Classes (given in parentheses after Sampler information listed above). See page 49 in the Bulletin for details.

The Office of Physical Planning at the University of Minnesota has available special maps designed to help disabled students get around the Minneapolis and St. Paul campuses.

Election is set April 11 to 17

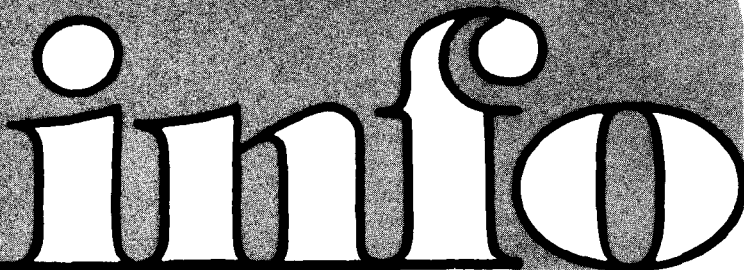

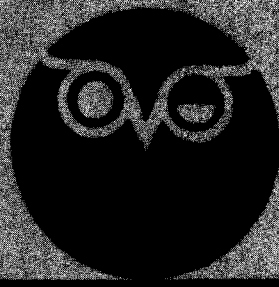

Extension students will be voting in their classes April 11 to 17 for representatives to the University Senate.

Those who do not have the opportunity to vote in class may do so in person at 180 Westbrook Hall. A paid fee statement must be presented to vote.

Voting may also be completed by mail. Call 376-7500 and request a ballot. Mail it back to 180 Westbrook Hall by April 17 with your paid fee statement. Your fee statement will be returned immediately by mail.

For complete information see page 352 in the Extension Classes Bulletin.

Parking Alert

Each year the Metropolitan Opera Company performs for a week at Northrop Auditorium on the Minneapolis campus. And each year the evening performances create a monumental parking problem. This year opera week will be May 16 to 20, and parking spaces will be at a premium. Students should plan to arrive early for classes that week and have an alternative parking lot in mind in case the lots fill early.

The parking problem will be most severe on the east bank campus near Northrop where some lots and garages may be reserved for people attending the opera.

Extension senators, alternates elected

Elections for Extension Classes representatives to the University Senate were held in April; 846 students voted for eight senators and eight alternates. There were sixteen candidates, all of whom are automatically appointed to serve on the Extension Classes Student Board, a board comprised of student senators and their alternates, appointed Extension students, two Extension Classes faculty members and a representative of the dean of Continuing Education and Extension. The Board works with students, faculty and the administration in dealing with problems of concern to Extension students.

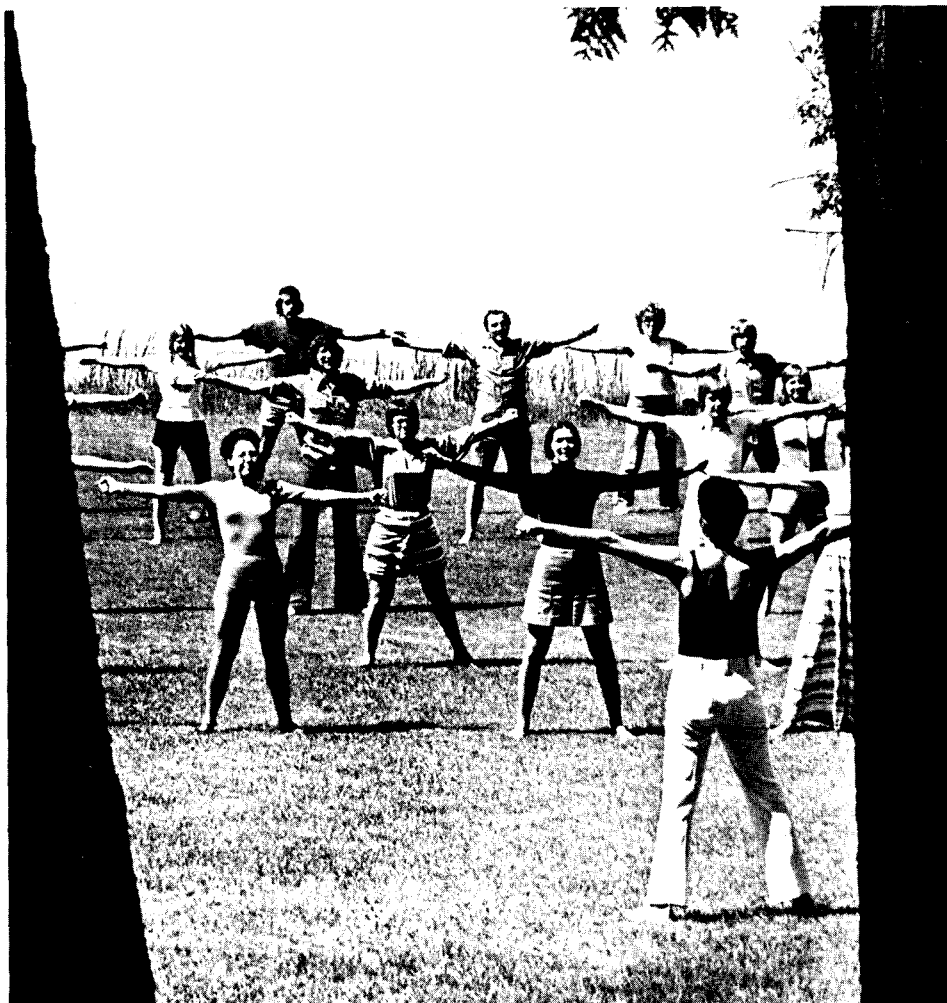

The 1977-78 senators and their alternates are listed below in alphabetical order.

Senators

Susan Boche, Nancy Brovold, Lynn Elmer, Thomas Kaphings, Harold Kiewel, Debbie Loots, Peggy Sletner, and Daniel Smith.

Alternates

Paul Carlson, John Cogan, Marie Johnson, Nancy Lewis, Gregory Nasby, Perry Platisha, George Schmidt, and Richard Sorenson.

Quadna Summer Arts Center offers workshops in retreat setting

Quadna Mountain Lodge, near Hill City in northern Minnesota, is a lovely place to be in the summer; and if you're interested in the arts, it's also a great place to study.

The Summer Arts Study Center at Quadna provides a retreat for intensive study and creative activity in the arts and humanities. This summer, nearly 30 workshops will be offered at Quadna, sponsored jointly by the University of Minnesota and the Grand Rapids Performing Arts Council. The one- and two-week workshops begin June 13.

Arts Center Workshops are planned for people with a general background in the arts, as well as those seeking advanced work with experts. Both undergraduate and graduate credits may be earned through the Arts Center Workshops.

For further information and a complete listing of the Summer Arts Center Workshops, telephone 373-1925 or 373-4947; or write to Summer Arts Study Center, University of Minnesota, 1128 LaSalle Ave., Minneapolis MN 55403.

Plan your summer program now

Summer term begins June 13, and many evening Extension classes will be offered. Some courses are open for no credit at half tuition. Persons 62 and older may register free for any nonlimited-enrollment class for no credit, or $2 a credit in any limited-or nonlimited-enrollment class. Registration is subject to availability of space.

For a free summer bulletin listing all course offerings, phone 376-3000. Important summer evening dates are listed below.

Registration Open for fall London classes

This fall quarter, students who are interested in Family Social Science will have the opportunity to do coursework in London. Two classes will be scheduled, and students may do additional fieldwork in any of seven other courses. Communication Skills and In- terviewing Techniques — An Introduction (FSoS 3001) and Family Relationships (FSoS 5200) are the two scheduled classes, which will be led by Richard Hey, professor of Family Social Science.

Fieldwork arrangements will be made for students who wish to do work with families, children at risk, youth, older persons, day-care centers, housing, and educational problems in the London area. Applicability of these credits to workshop programs should be determined with the student's adviser before registration is completed.

Graduate credit can be negotiated on an individual basis.

Registration for fall quarter in London is now open and will continue through August 15. Approximate cost for tuition (12 credits), overseas credit fee, and room and breakfast is $825. Students must arrange their own transportation.

For information and registration, telephone Gail Fraser at 373-3926, or write: Extension Classes, University of Minnesota, 170 Westbrook Hall, 77 Pleasant St. S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55455.

New award-winning bookstore opened in April

A new space-saving, energy-efficient, underground bookstore/admissions and records building was officially opened in April. The new building, which won national recognition and architectural awards for its design, is located near Jones, Folwell, and Nicholson Halls on the east bank campus.

The bookstore stocks books that previously were sold at the Nicholson Hall and Lind Hall bookstores (books 4 / Info / May 1977 for most College of Liberal Arts departments, Education, General College, and Institute of Technology). Admissions and Records, previously located in Morrill Hall, has also moved to the new building.

This month, the building will be dedicated in honor of Edmund Williamson, who served as Dean of Students at the University from 1941 until his retirement in 1969.

Added summer class

BUSINESS AND SOCIETY (BGS 3002), not usually offered summers, is now scheduled the first 5-week term. T-Th, from 6 to 8:30 p.m., in 150 Blegen Hall.

The 4-credit course, section 11, will be taught by Professor Rogene Bucholz June 14 through July 14. It is limited to 50 students. There are no prerequisites, and the class must be taken on the A-N grading system. Tuition is $62.

Strategic and dynamic relations of business and society in a goal-oriented and problem-solving context are examined in the course.

Telephone 376-3000 for registration materials.

Clinic proposed for single fathers

Plans for a proposed special clinic designed to help single fathers cope with their children's health needs are currently being developed at the University of Minnesota. The clinic would be primarily an educational forum for single fathers who may not have adequate knowledge of their children's health problems or experience in treating the problems.

The clinic would be open evenings, making it easy for working fathers and Extension students to use the facility. Ideally, the clinic would cater to the needs of single fathers. But developers of the clinic say they aren't certain exactly what those needs are. They are, however, soliciting comments and suggestions from people who would use the clinic. If you have questions, comments, or suggestions regarding the proposed clinic, telephone Dr. Amos Deinard, 373-8160.

Important Notice Counseling Department

The Counseling Department will be closed from June 27 to July 1 for staff training meetings. The department will reopen July 5. Please remember that counselors and advisors will not be available to answer questions during that week.

R and R Office

Because of the reorganization of the Records and Registration Office, students will no longer call the appropriate clerk in Morrill Hall to transfer grades from Extension to day-school transcripts. Instead, students should call the Student Relations staff in the Registration and Records Office, 376-1680 to effect the transfer.
