The Industrial Relations Training and Research center now is conducting an extensive research into industrial positions, Dale Yoder, professor of economics and director of the center, said yesterday.

Mexicans at U Meet Far From Home

By Reefa Merry

Benjamin Ortega, Graduate student, who arrived Monday from Mexico City on a Rockefeller foundation fellowship, was greeted by an old friend and former co-worker, Leonel Robles, Graduate student in the division of plant pathology.

Classmates in the Escuela Nacional de Agricultura at Chapingo, Mexico, Robles and Ortega were commissioned by their government to work in the Rockefeller foundation at Mexico City.

There they met Dr. Norman Bourlaug, University of Minnesota graduate in pathology. Up to the time of his departure, Ortega was conducting experiments in collaboration with Dr. Bourlaug.

Outstanding work in the Rockefeller foundation led to duplicate fellowship to the University for the two students. Robles came here in June.

The wives of both students have accompanied them. The Ortegas, still without living quarters, are making a temporary home with Dr. C. J. Eide of the division of plant pathology.

Upon completion of a year's study in corn and vegetable diseases, Ortega and Robles will return to Mexico as government employees.

Time Foreign Edition Shown in Murphy

An exhibition of the process by which Time magazine publishes its international editions is on display in the Murphy hall reading room until Oct. 10.

The exhibit, which will be circulated throughout the country, was sent to the University for a first showing. The display follows production from the time plates are shipped to foreign countries until Time appears on foreign newsstands.

Hayride, Wiener Roast Set by LSA Tonight

Lutheran students are invited to the LSA hayride and wiener roast to be held tonight. Students will meet at the Lutheran student house, 1813 University avenue S.E., at 7 p.m., or at the Oak Grove riding stables, Forty-fifth avenue N.E. and Sixth street, at 8:30 p.m.

Mildred Wicklund, Medical Technology junior, is in charge of the arrangements.

Bud Strawn to Play For 'Cabaret' Dance

A cabaret floor show will be the highlight of the Saturday night dance from 9 p.m. to midnight today in the Union main ballroom. Cokes will be served.

Bud Strawn and his 11 piece orchestra will play. Admission is 50 cents for men and 35 cents for women. All University students may attend. Chairman is Bill McNulty, Technology junior.

"There has been a tremendous increase in the demand for training at graduate level recently," Dr. Yoder stated. "More and more students are not stopping after getting bachelor's degrees, but are taking graduate work."

Focusing training on the effective management of manpower, the center also has answered students' and employers' questions on labor organization, old age pensions and other related matters.

An unusual factor about the center is that it has a faculty advisory committee, Yoder said. There is only one other like it in the country. It also has an advisory council of 18 members patterned after the war labor board, Yoder stated.

What If It Rains?

New Roof on Burton Near Completion

The University hasn't struck oil. Those barrels parked in front of Burton hall are filled with pitch to be used for the new roof now under construction.

Work started on the roof Aug. 1, and the job should be completed in another month, Roy V. Lund, assistant supervising engineer, said yesterday.

Since Burton hall was built 50 years ago for use as the main Library building, it has had its same pitch and gravel roof. This roof now is being removed by University workmen, and a new one of the same type put on.

Eight new roof drains also are being installed. Installation of these drains, which must be put between walls, causes the hammering and torn-off plaster and ladders cluttering up the side halls of Burton.

"Unfortunately," said Lund, "it is impossible to do all repair work when the students are on vacation, especially with the help shortage."

Before the Administration building was built, Burton hall housed the main business offices of the University in addition to the Library. The President's offices were in the west wing of the first floor, and business offices were in the east wing.

What is now Burton auditorium was then the main reading room of the Library with the reference room above. Present departments in Burton moved in when the main Library was completed in 1924.

About 400 bankers and professional persons are expected to attend the three-day conference which ends Wednesday.

Swan Cites Aim To Solve Problems

Membership drive of the Veterans club has been launched by the executive committee, Gordon Swan, Medical freshman, said yesterday.

"Having every veteran on campus a member is the club's aim," Swan said. "It is necessary to unite in order to solve problems of veteran's housing, non-resident tuition for resident veterans," Swan said.

"In this way," he declared, "veterans' views and objectives will be considered in campus affairs, along with those of younger students who have not seen service."

Tentative club social affairs are dances and weekend trips to Camp Iduhapi during winter quarter.

Beginning with 12 members in the fall of 1943, the club now has a membership of close to 130, Swan said. Five or six women veterans are members.

He is Lyle Larson, aeronautical engineering junior, who recently returned to the University after two and a half years in the army air force.
While in the service, Larson went under the stage name of Lyle Rogers and sang in a concert series at Cornell university. He also appeared on a bond tour with Betty Grable and Victor Mature.

Bierman Leery Of Cornhuskers

By Don Grawert

If we are to believe the opinions of the experts as expressed in the sports pages around the nation, Bernie Bierman and 36 Gophers have made their trip to Nebraska for nothing, the game having already been decided to everyone's satisfaction.

A unanimous choice—Minnesota is picked to win by from six to eight touchdowns over the rebounding Cornhuskers. The trend of the recent Gopher practices, however, indicates that Bierman is expecting an honest-to-goodness football game, immaterial of what the sportswriters say.

Although the team hasn't scrimmaged since last Saturday, the squad has been subjected to a vigorous polishing session night after night and has had a thorough briefing in Nebraskan offensive tactics.

The Gophers won't be at full strength for their go at Lincoln because of the day-long tiresome train ride but the pre-game morning warmup drill in the Cornhusker's stadium should help to work out the travel-induced kinks.

Another reason for believing that the Gophers won't be "up" for today's game is that Minnesota has seldom, if ever, played a top-notch game the week after an open date. Injuries shouldn't hamper the team's effectiveness, however, as trainer Lloyd Boyce expects every player making the trip able to play up to his limit.

This week a training room admonition warned the Gophers that "football games are never decided on the sports pages" and that "the team that is favored usually loses." Strengthening this solemn word of warning, news was received that Nebraska's ace halfbacks, Bill Sloan and Eddie Gradoville, have recovered from early season injuries and are ready to go against the invading Minnesotans.

Sloan is expected to substantially bolster the punting department that was so woefully weak against Oklahoma last Saturday. Because of several short kicks Nebraska was backed up against their goal-line most of the afternoon in the Sooner game but Coach Patsy Clark hopes that the return of Sloan to the lineup will remedy that deficiency.

Gradoville is one of the Husker's few returning lettermen and an expert passer. Teamed with Mack Robinson at half positions, he is expected to give the Nebraska attack another big gun. With both Robinson and Gradoville in the backfield the pass defense the Gophers have dwelled upon at length during the week will undoubtedly receive a thorough workout.

In anticipation of the murderous Conference schedule ahead, Gopher scouts are on the road this weekend, getting a line on future opponents. Jim Kelly and Sheldon Beise are in Evanston where they hope to see both Michigan and Northwestern tip their respective hands. Dallas Word is back in his scouting suit again after being released from the navy and he'll watch Ohio State and Iowa battle at Columbus.

Cubs Win Second; Passeau Stars

Chicago went over the hump yesterday in the World Series by winning the third game, 3-0, behind Claude Passeau, ex-Phillie, who pitched a one-hitter.

Only hit to mar Passeau's bid for a perfect game was the ever-dangerous Rudy York's bingle into left field after two were out in the last of the second.

Navy Picked to Top Blue Devils; Engineers to Trip Notre Dame

By Bob Schabert

Probably the biggest game of this week will be the Navy-Duke contest at Durham, N. C. So far this year Duke has scored a total of 126 points, while keeping the opposition away from the double strip mark in two games.

Navy has been strengthened in the backfield this season by the addition of "Hunchy" Hoernshemeyer, bullet passer from Indiana, and Notre Dame's brilliant left half of last year, Bob Kelly. They also have a great All-American candidate in left end Leon Bramlett.

Clyde "Smackover" Scott, the plunging Middie fullback who is quite a bulwark on defense, cannot be overlooked. With all his power staring us in the face, we must pick Navy to sink the Blue Devils and continue on its quest for the national championship won last year by a great Army team from West Point.

Next in national importance is the Notre Dame-Georgia Tech game at Atlanta. The Irish have a new coach this year in Hugh Devore, but his material is not up to the par of former years, while the Engineers are reputed to have one of the best teams in the South. With this in mind we'll pick Georgia Tech after a hard struggle.

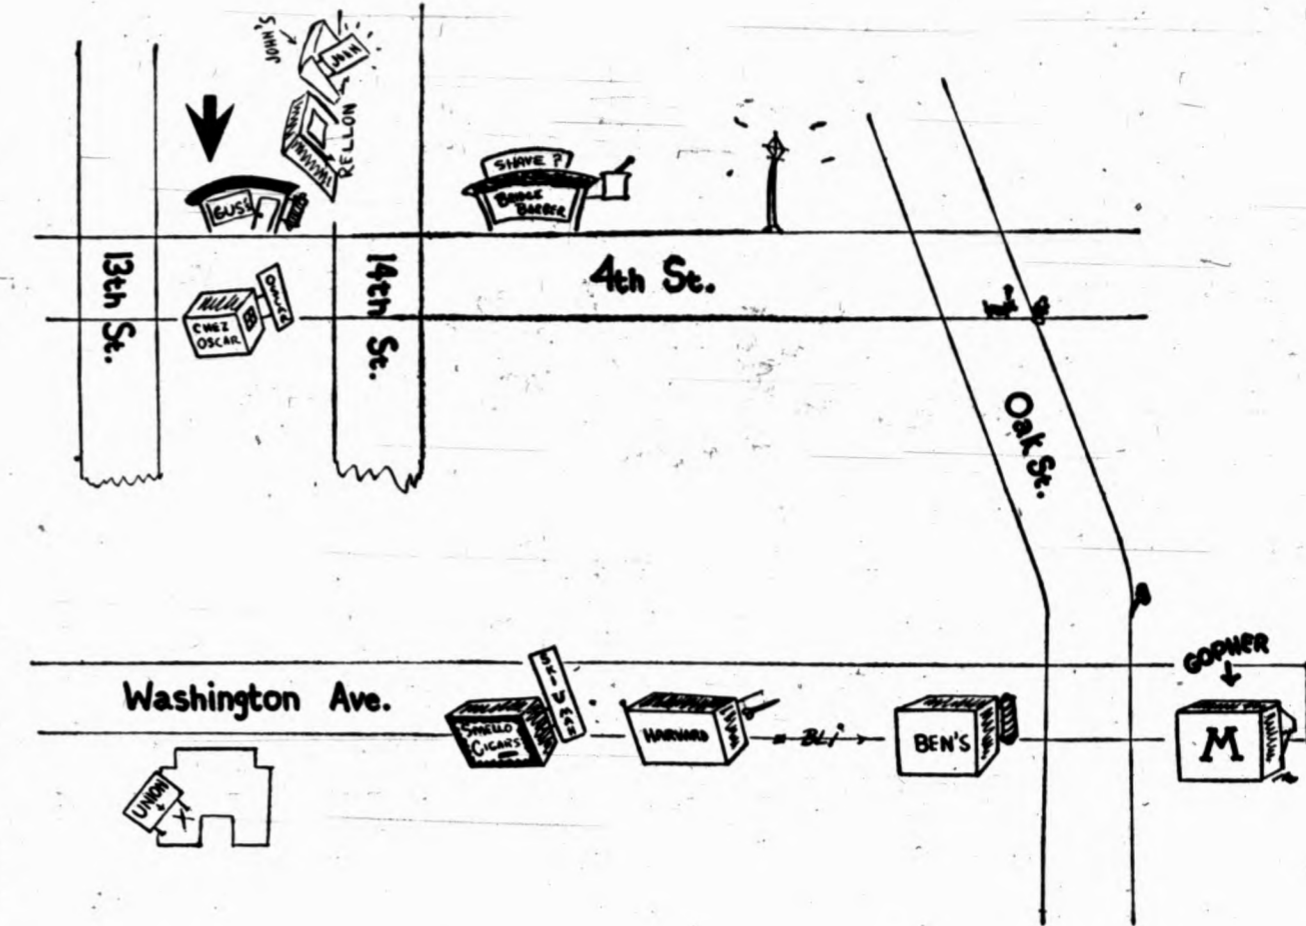

I-M Bowling Schedule Opens Thursday Night

Following a meeting of the athletic managers of 12 professional fraternities Thursday night it was announced that the fall quarter bowling schedule will get underway Tuesday night at 7 p.m. on the Union alleys.

Among the 12 fraternities represented were three medical groups—Alpha Kappa Kappa, Phi Rho Sigma and Phi Chi; four dental fraternities, Alpha Omega, Delta Sigma Delta, Xi Omega and Xi Phi; two business fraternities, Alpha Kappa Xi and Delta Xi Pi; one chemistry fraternity, Alpha Chi Sigma; one engineering fraternity, Kappa Eta Kappa and one pharmacy fraternity, Phi Delta Chi.

Due to the fact that there are only 11 weeks left in the fall quarter a full round-robin cannot be played. Each team will play 11 matches and the winner will be decided on the basis of total number of wins and losses.

To date only two independent organizations have expressed intentions of entering the intramural competitions. These are Students

Barbers Unanimously Pick Gophers Over Cornhuskers

By Stan Langland

Way back in dim, dark days of Daily yore—in 1939—there began the very interesting tale of The Minnesota Daily barbers' poll and its attendant barbers' mug.

It began by having someone go around and get predictions on the coming game.

The barber who guessed closest to the correct score garnered the barbers' mug for his shop and kept it until a barber from another shop guessed a closer score on some succeeding Saturday's game.

This assignment was given to the rawest, rankest and most gullible recruit of the fall staff.

The Daily would then print the names of the barbers with their shops and the score they predicted. The rest of the staff, hardened cookies that they were, would capitalize on the free advertising afforded the barber shops. Every six months during the year, they would visit one of the six to 10 tonsorial parlors and mooch a haircut—for free.

This subterfuge was carried on quite successfully for a couple of years. After the barber poll reporter spent one quarter pestering the clippers for their predictions, he would be admitted into the realm of honest-to-gosh sports writers.

Then—catastrophe!

In 1941, a barber named Frank at the Union, discovered that, holy gee, he'd given not two, but three, haircuts, to one of the sportswriters the previous year. Some moocher had overdrawn his account.

In righteous indignation, Frank copped the mug and stowed it away. When the sportswriters invaded the Union next day to get their haircuts, Frank turned a scornful eye on them and busied himself with a razor strop.

Frank affixed a cold look on an inoffensive intramural writer named Al and icily said in effect, "You bum—three haircuts you got last year. Fooey!"

The sportswriters' credit was kaput.

They realized instantly that this could become a permanent condition, and they soon would be writing for the House of David if something weren't done fast.

It happened that Al wasn't the one who got the third haircut at all. It was his twin brother, Harry, who wrote sports for the Militant and was always sorely in need of a haircut.

Abe wasn't the quarrelsome type, and didn't ask any questions when Frank didn't take his money for the haircut.

This explanation mellowed Frank, and he voluntarily repainted the barbers' mug from its original peaked white to a lustrous Maroon and Gold and inscribed the words "Barber Poll" on it—for free.

The sportswriters celebrated by paying for a haircut.

And since that day all Daily sports have paid for their haircuts.
