Penn State's Gridiron Mentor Came to Minnesota at Invitation of Pres. Coffman

DECLINED TO STATE TERMS SUBMITTED

Visits and Details Kept Secret—Made Complete Inspection of 'U' Facilities

BEZDEK HAS MADE WONDERFUL RECORD

Coach is a Former Baseball Manager—Has Lost but One Game in 3 Years

Declines to State Terms

Coming at the invitation of President Coffman, Bezdek has been in Minneapolis and about the campus for the last two days, conferring with regents, University officials, alumni and students relative to the reorganization of the Minnesota athletic system. He left last night for Pennsylvania.

When Interviewed last night by a Daily reporter, Mr. Bezdek declined to state what terms, if any, had been submitted to University officials upon which he would consent to take up the coaching and directing duties here.

He appeared before the large committee in whose hands the reorganization of Minnesota athletics has been entrusted at a meeting of the Minneapolis club yesterday afternoon.

Visits Campus and Armory

The unheralded arrival of the Penn State coach as well as the proceedings of the Minneapolis club meeting were kept a "dark secret" and it was only yesterday that the news of his presence here leaked out. It is understood that at the secret confab, Bezdek made clear his position as to terms and his willingness to come to Minnesota if the proper inducement were made.

During his stay here Mr. Bezdek has spent much time touring the campus and the armory, in particular, and yesterday, expressed his "enjoyable surprise at the size, fine buildings, large enrollment and the splendid type of students I have observed at the University of Minnesota."

"There are extraordinary possibilities at Minnesota for athletics and the establishment of an athletic department," Mr. Bezdek said. "This is a 'big league' school, academically and scholastically and should be in the same class athletically."

That Mr. Bezdek "takes" with students was evidenced by the hearty welcome he extended to the Daily reporter, declaring enthusiastically that "it was a joy to talk to a student," when asked if he would be interviewed.

Despite the fact that he had but 20 minutes in which to catch his train, Mr. Bezdek granted half of them to the reporter and then rushed for a taxi to the depot.

Former Baseball Manager

Mr. Bezdek holds the position of athletic director at Penn State college, at the same time coaching the football and baseball teams. In the last three years the football squad has lost but one game, to Dartmouth, playing such schools as Harvard, Cornell, Pittsburgh, and Pennsylvania university. Penn State college has an enrollment of 5,000.

Bezdek managed the Pittsburg National league baseball club from 1917 to 1919 and since then has had flattering offers to return to baseball all of which have been turned down. The Penn State coach is 38 years old.

Developed Killingier, All-American

Mr. Bezdek is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, where he was coached by Walter Camp. He made the varsity in 1907.

SHALL WE HAVE RESPECT OR RECOGNITION?

The scathing arraignment of our national educational policy, or rather lack of policy, by ex-president Burton calls to mind a feature which we have noticed all during our grade school and high school days and which we cannot escape from even here. One of the main objects of this institution as we see it is to instill into the makeup of every student a respect for authority, be that authority what it may. Irrespective of the source from which it comes, irrespective of its value, we are expected to submit to it.

It strikes us that right here we miss the point entirely. Anybody can respect authority; it is another matter to recognize it. There are few of us indeed who do not treat the people and institutions which we recognize as worthwhile with consideration and obedience; but there are many, many of us who find ourselves unwilling to admit that some of the things we are expected to submit to are worthy. We can't tell a good man, a good university, a good professor, when we see one. We don't know what we ought to use as models for our conduct. And we are not being taught to tell.

It is needless to say that we ought to be. What we need is not to be taught to respect authority, but to recognize it.—L. A. G.

GO GET 'EM

There is on the campus an organization called the Shattuck Club, composed of Shattuck alumni, over thirty of them. At a meeting yesterday the club took the preliminary steps in an intensive Minnesota propaganda campaign, with the object of getting as many as possible of this year's senior class at Shattuck to come to Minnesota. The details thus far perfected include several visits to Shattuck by members of the club. If feasible, they will take with them a few of the more prominent campus leaders—men whom the present Shads have heard of and respect. A talk by one or two such men will have a good deal of weight in convincing the Shads that Minnesota is really interested in having them come here.

This club has the right idea. It is a scheme which does not take a prohibitive amount of time, but which is sure to get some good results. There are many schools throughout the state which have a good representation here. If a few more such organizations were formed, and a few more such campaigns launched, a large part of the problem of getting good men and women who now are going to other universities would be solved. Let's try it.—J. H. W.

THE COLLEGE LOAFER

To quote the dean of men of the University of Illinois the college loafer is a "passive, talkative being." He loves ease, leisure, sleep, cigars, chocolates, and girls. He is everywhere. He need not be pointed at because he is as obvious as the sidewalk, as such taken for granted, but by no means as useful. He is the man, or rather person, who drapes himself so gracefully about front porches, State street stores, and sometimes, if he gets up in time, about the entrance to Main hall. To use his own idiom, he "hangs out" at places where he may watch the co-eds pass and where he may be seen by those same co-eds, for he feeds on vanity—and cigars.

The college loafer has two purposes in life. One is to know the latest dance steps, the spiciest gossip, and to have seen the last show at the Orpheum. The other is to show as much disdain as possible for the undergraduate who does his work because he likes it, or who does it with energy because it is his duty. The loafer feels that he is in an exclusive society, and is proud of his characteristic of mental laziness and sloth. He has no qualms of conscience about borrowing your notes and then never returning them until you look him up. To him it is a coup d'etat if he can so question you about outside reading that he gets the gist of it and may spare the labor of doing it for himself.

The trouble is that, although he is harmless in himself, yet he infects the whole crowd, because he is allowed to run loose. In short, he is an unmitigated pest, a public nuisance and a creature that the university could well do without. It is a problem to deal with him, since he cannot be segregated or quarantined. There remains only the hope that various and well-known influences persuade him to remain at home next semester.—The Daily

CARVE, SENIORS, CARVE

In the old days, when Joe's and the Orient flourished and were the gathering places of the male members of the University, students went to decorate the tables of these places with their names. Every table was a mass of cognomens and sculptural activity. The carving of these names was more than a mere idle pastime. It was done so that when the author might return, perhaps years later, the sight of that table-top might bring back tender memories of his Alma Mater, might recall old friends, and revive old scenes. But time passed; and times changed, and Joe's and the Orient vanished. But so removed were the old table-tops that they were removed to the tap-room of the Union, where they now adorn the ceiling.

The old tables are filled, but the tap-room tables have replaced them and during the last few years have been covered with scores of names. The call has come for the seniors, who are the only ones so privileged, to make their mark. So, carve, seniors, carve.—The Michigan Daily.

Sixty fraternities and clubs at Cornell have informed the faculty that they will control any excessive use of intoxicating liquors among the students. Which brings up the question, "What do they mean by control?" Ditto "excessive use?"

Prohibition—where is thy sting?

The men's Pan-Hellenic at Ohio has favored the abolishment of flowers at the Junior Prom. There will be flowers.

A student at Ohio University crossed eight miles of floating ice floes to get back for classes after the holidays spent at his home on an island in Lake Erie. What a wonderful thing is co-education!

THE CAMPUS KNOWS
The campus knows came into being when the early Norse settlers, deciding that the stairs in the Mechanic Harts building were as safe as a dill pickle on a hangover, erected a noble pile of tomato cans, beer tops, luteñak and examination papers from which they could step directly into the upper floors. This worked like the button on the pantry door until the University's flock of goats, now perpetuated on University Avenue in the form of Daily subscribers and Spanish students, came rolling along and devoured everything but the luteñak, which the Minnesota Union carried away after the goats left. From thence comes the old saying: "In union there is strength. However, there still remained the hair shed by the goats and a couple of overshoes scheduled for John Farrell, from which developed the present blister. It is reported that, even in the old days, the population rendered thanks that the betraying snow melts in the early spring, permitting the little blades of grass to cover the hairpins and sweater ravelings.

SHADES OF AVERNUS
This is the time of year when the innocent ones who were led to pledge anything but Union last fall begin to carry eggs without the shaker, furnish free methyl to the upperclassmen and build walls to keep the cuckoos out of the yards of the respective lawages. As usual, the cisternhoods are worse than ever, exhibiting no form of co-operation, which is the only form not exhibited in their vodvils. One young hardware-snatcher, who aspires to be a cistern but is at present merely a tank, is reported to have fanned a snowball till it melted, and then dried it. We believe it would have been more to their advantage if all the cisternhoods had gathered and fanned the river bank. Some conscience-stricken Phi Delt suggested that the Alpha Gams delegate a long-armed freshman to pull down shades all over the house during hell week. Another form of punishment might be to make some of the cisternhoods neophytes dance together. Or perhaps talk to each other. Theological discussions among fraternity freshmen is another popular form of tribulation. It is reported that most of them have a noble command of biblical terms, but not theologically combined. Sigma Alpha Mu will revert to its former custom of a greased pig race among the freshmen, which will terminate in a barbecue. So will this.

OUR REASONS WHY THE J. B. SHOULD BE INFORMAL

1. Because hard shirts will not absorb soup with any rapidity, and wear callouses on the co-educational chin.
2. Because rented Tuxedos have only one hip pocket.
3. Because flowers cover up the seductive odor of the garlic in the hash.
4. Because our tux hasn't any belt loops, and we never trust any suspenders except on fast days.
5. We borrow our tux. Our girl lissps when she talks, talks when drinks, and drinks from the saucer. Twist your own knob on this combination.
6. Because we never can wear dress clothes without hanging the napkin on our arm.
7. Because we're not stockholders in the Yellow Crab Company.
8. Because the oysters snap at our shirt studs.
9. Because the last time we wore a wing collar we came home with sixteen dollars worth of hair nets.
10. Our girl likes orchids; we like dollars.
11. Stiff cuffs gather too many victuals from the table on a long reach.
12. Because the disguises won't do us any good; the waiters all know us anyway.
13. Because our patent leather shoes fell off the fire escape New Year's Eve, and somebody poured maple syrup through our trousers.
14. Olaf Sven Jkaebloomstegaardson, our worthy candidate, can't get into the biggest pair of tux trousers in town without jumping the price of shoe spoons and cables 20 or 30 per cent.

THE TAX BURDEN
Urban Ledoux, head of Boston's new Church of the unemployed, was condemning the confiscatory taxes under which the world groans. "I heard an illuminating anecdote the other day," he said. "In a small Middle Western town the citizens noticed for some weeks that their drinking water had an odd taste and odor. Farmer Hank Husk at last knew the secret of the mysterious disappearance of Sukeey, his favorite cow.

"You think the municipality would have been rather ashamed, wouldn't you? A contemptible like that! Surely some sort of apology, some amends, should have been made, eh? The only thing that municipality did was to add 5 per cent to the water rate on the ground that the people for some time had been getting a free service of beef tea."

"NOTHING IS SUFFICIENT"
"Did you meet many of the nobility while you were in Europe?"
"Not enough to hurt my reputation."

THE MARRIED TEACHER
The New York Board of Education was expected to discharge all married teachers in the public schools who had husbands able and willing to support them. But after considerable excitement and controversy, the board decided that the teachers should remain—at least for the present. The day may come when the cry shall be: "One to the family. But the time has not yet arrived and in view of the present situation, the board has decided to give the preference in new appointments to the unattached or those who really need the job—provided always that they are qualified. There are many cases in the country where both husband and wife are probably connected with the school system. This is bound to create objection and remonstrance, no matter how well fitted both may be for their places.—Los Angeles Times.

REPUBLICAN COME-BACK
Will Rogers, the rawhide rope epigrammatist, called on Will Hays the other day when the Postmaster General was in New York to attend a banquet.
"Suppose you noticed," said the comedian, "that we've had right smart 'mail robbers?' Looks like they're tryin' to git politics into it."

"Yesir! Th' Democrats 'r' claimin' that there wasn't no robberies when they were runnin' the mails."

"Yesir. But th' Republicans 'as got a 'git come-back."

"They have?"
"They sure have. They say that when th' Democrats was runnin' things th' robbers never knew when th' mails was goin' to arrive."—New York Telegraph.

He Wasn't Tongue-tied
The street hawker was selling neckties by the public library while his cappers watched for the sign of a bluecoat. He had to work fast. "This here scarf," he shouted, "makes a gent dressable and you'd pay three bucks for it at any man-dear's. I bring these over from Paris myself. The king of Paris wore one exactly like this at the grand ball given at the Basse de Balcony."

A capper stepped up and bought one. "Ah!" said the hawker, "Mr. Pierpont Morgan takes this one."

The burglars have organized a national league in which the Class A marauders rob banks and the bush leaguers confine their operations to small stores. Apartment thieves and loft robbers are looked upon as mere barnstormers.—New York Telegraph.

Indicative of the spread of altruism it is to be noted that the astrologers have postponed Armageddon till 1932, and ten years hence they may declare another moratorium.—Chicago News.

team twice. He coached the University of Oregon football team his first year out of college and won the championship of the Pacific Northwest. Since that time Bezdek has been coaching University football teams almost continuously, winning two championships for the University of Arkansas and a number at the University of Oregon, on top of his enviable record at Penn State since 1918.

Glenn Killinger, All American backfield man on Walter Camp's 1921 eleven and Eddie Way, honored with a position on the All American in 1920, are two of Bezdek's products.

Mr. Bezdek made it clear that if he were to come to Minnesota it would have to be in the dual capacity of athletic director and football coach.

Coffman Makes Announcement

Lawrence Teberg, captain of the 1921 football squad, played football under Bezdek at Mare Island with the U. S. Marines, where the Eastern coach was acting as athletic director, during the war, when Oregon discontinued athletics. "Tell Lawrence hello for me," was Bezdek's parting remark as he climbed into the taxi for the depot.

President Coffman announced last night that the athletic situation would not be taken up for consideration at the regular meeting of the Board of Regents when they gather today. It is known that a number of other candidates for the position of athletic director are also being considered.

The Washington baseball squad returned to the University of Washington after a trip to Japan.

Brown University claims to have the oldest living graduate in the country. John Hunt, 99 years old, was graduated from Brown in the class of 1842. The University of Vermont has a graduate who completed his course in 1845.

HABITS LIGHT OF WAVES

An interesting demonstration was given not long ago at an exhibition of physical instruments of the fact that an intimate connection exists between the magnitude of the details visible in a microscope and the color of the light used for illuminating the object. When the shorter light waves, those toward the blue end of the spectrum are employed, smaller details can be seen than when the light comes from the region of longer waves, toward the yellow and red end of the spectrum. Microscope manufacturers have taken advantage of this fact by producing an apparatus with which the stage can be illuminated at will by light emanating from any chosen portion of the spectrum. —Washington Star.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN SUCCEED

By Willis Dobbs

A leading figure in nearly every field of women's activities, a somewhat indefinite phrase nowadays, Gratia Alta Countryman, present city librarian and an active club woman, graduated from Minnesota in 1889 with degree of Bachelor of Science. At that time she was, well we are speaking of a lady, and will not tell how old Miss Countryman is. "Who's Who" says she was born in 1867.

Employment in the library, then still unopened to the public, followed close upon Miss Countryman's graduation. The library opened that winter with Mr. Harvey Putman as librarian. He later resigned and a new one was appointed with Miss Countryman as assistant. In 1903 the office of librarian was again open and she became a candidate for the position along with several others. At this psychological moment Miss Countryman was elected a member of the American Library Association, a distinct honor. She was appointed librarian, and still holds the office. She is still a member of the A. L. A.; serving as one of its vice presidents. During the war she served on its war service committee.

Miss Countryman's club activities include membership in the Women's club of Minneapolis, the Women's Welfare League, of which she was the first president, and the Business Woman's club, of which she was one of the organizers and first president. But Miss Countryman is not only a business and club woman. She is an active church member, owns her own home, and has adopted a small boy of whom she is immensely proud. When at Minnesota Miss Countryman was a member of Company Q, the original tribe of women cadets. She was a good soldier too, according to E. B. Peirce, alumni secretary. Her other activities were mostly literary. She became a member of Delta Gamma sorority while here. Miss Countryman is also a Phi Beta Kappa. Strong of health and mind, clear of vision, a great organizer, she is an example of what a woman with these qualities may make of herself in public life.

"Certainly I am in favor of the short-skirt, silk-stocking, galosh combination," Dr. D. M. Griswold, state epidemiologist, said to Iowa students recently.

Tuxedos will not be the proper dress at the Wisconsin Prom, according to the Prom chairman. Everyone has been urged to co-operate in the wearing of full-dress suits.

Lee Bartlett, Paul Swanson, and Laren Jacobsen seem to be chosen for the offense positions. They are all fast, well-trained stick welders, who can cause a lot of trouble in the best of company. Bartlett has been showing up especially well in practice, plowing through the entire squad time and again for spectacular goals. The other men are not far behind, however, and with more practice will form a powerful line.

Addy Wyatt and Captain Chet Bros are scheduled to take care of the defense job. Wyatt is well known in University hockey circles having belonged to the best teams on the campus. Both he and Bros were stars on city high school teams, and have been improving ever since that time. Bill Graham will probably guard the goal cage for the Gophers. He has a peculiar ability to ward off the pack when coming at any angle, thus making himself a valuable asset to the team.

Puck Chasers Clash With Hamline in Rink Starter

Dope Gives Hamline Even Chance with Minnesota Stick Welders—Gophers Rapidly Rounding Into Form.

Gopher hockey players will be seen in action for the first time on Jan. 17, when they will go up against Hamline in a pre-season practice game at Lexington Park. The midway gang showed some good stuff the other day when they walked on Macalaster to the tune of 6-1, and are doped to cause the Minnesota tribe some trouble.

The Maroon and Gold men have been out working every afternoon, and are rapidly coming into form. Captain Chet. Bros and Frank Pond, two of the most experienced of the men are acting as assistants to Coach MacDonald in the role of pointing out and correcting mistakes. A tentative line-up has been picked and at present it looks like they will start in the Hamline battle.

MAROON AND GOLD FLOORMEN SEE WIN OVER IOWA AS BIG TEN SEASON UPSETS REPEAT

Lineup Changed to Facilitate Action—Severinson and Doye to Start as Forwards With Hanson at Center and Hultkrantz and Kearney at Guard

After a week's strenuous practice the Gopher basketball five are raring to tackle Coach Ashmore's Iowa aggregation. "Fight" has been the password during all the practice sessions and when Captain Kearney leads his "fighting Gophers" on the floor tomorrow night, one of the best basketball games of the year is sure to take place.

Minnesota will be out to avenge the defeats handed to the football men the last few years and also to stop the great Devine, who has been mainly responsible for quite a few of these defeats. With this end in view the fans are sure to see a great game of basketball.

Lineup Changed.

Dr. Cooke has changed his lineup for the Iowa game, Severinson has usurped the forward berth formerly occupied by Swanson and with Doyle will lead the Hawkeye guards a merry chase. The rest of the lineup will remain the same, with Hanson at center and Hultkrantz and Kearney at guards.

Gross, Sullivan, Olson, Berglund, and Anderson are ready to step in the breach in case the regulars break. In the scrimmage last night these men alternated with the first stringers in giving the freshmen the worst beating of the year.

Fresh Unable to Stop Rush.

Ray Ecklund, Pesek, and Cox, of the freshman outfit, were the only men who were able to stop the varsity rushes to the basket. These men are showing great form on the basketball court and will make excellent timber for next year's team.

According to the Daily Iowan,

Chick Harley Gridiron Star Back at Ohio

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 7.—Chick Harley, one of the greatest of all Buckeye athletes, may enter school again at the beginning of the February semester. Harley made All-American halfback three times and was good in other athletics as well. He will enter the school of journalism and work for his degree which he never received.

Coach James Ashmore, of the Hawkeyes, has given his squad one of the most strenuous workouts of the season in preparation for the coming clash and is bent on breaking into the conference win column at the expense of the Cookemen. He is bringing down a veteran aggregation and the Maroon and Gold five will have to play as good if not better basketball than that shown in the Purple clash.

Iowa hopes rest on the work of its two stars Shimek and Devine, and according to the latest dope from the armory these two veterans will be amply taken care of by Hultkrantz and Kearney.

One more casualty has been reported on the Gopher squad. The latest man to fall into the clutches of old man fate is Donald Sinclair, first string center substitute. He suffered an injury to his side in practice last Wednesday and has been watching the play from the sidelines the last few days. Sinclair says he will be ready to take his turn on the court in a few days.

Fogelberg is still on the sick list, but is making good use of the time by putting in some hard studying.

Tickets for tomorrow's game will be on sale at the tower entrance Saturday at 7:30 p. m.

SIDELINES

The game at the armory tomorrow night will be a real test for the Gopher cagers. The Purple game, after a lot of talk and worry, proved to be a fiasco as far as Northwestern was concerned. The Hawkeyes, however, will not be so easy—in fact they entertain the most serious ideas about winning. Perhaps a 40-minute interview with Doyle, Hanson, Severinson, Hultkrantz, and Kearney will be disillusioning to title expectant Iowans.

Michigan, after a slump with Ohio State, turned around in her tracks and cleaned Chicago in merry style proving either that Chicago is rotten or that Michigan is good.

The great and hollered for Aubrey Devine, of Iowa, will look Minnesota over for the last time in his career tomorrow night. If he is as good a basketball player as a football player, the Gophers may have some trouble when they bump up against him. But reports say that he is not the man on the basketball floor that he is on the gridiron.

If Ruddy Hultkrantz "covers" Devine tomorrow night, it will be a great battle to see. Hultkrantz is faster than Devine, a better shot, and just as good a scrapper. Wouldn't be at all surprised to see Rudy at stationary guard outscore Devine at forward.

The athletic situation at Minnesota seems, outwardly, to be just where in charge is not conducive to enlightenment and as a consequence Twin City sport writers have had to resort to rumor and conjecture, often giving wrong impressions.

The Gopher pucksters open their season Tuesday afternoon meeting Hamline at the Lexington rink. The Hamline sextet has some fast and experienced men and the Gophers will meet a strong outfit in their initial start. Captain Chet Bros will pilot his men into battle for the Maroon and Gold the first time.

Student hopes rise in the announcement that football season tickets will be good for hockey games. Prospects for ice game crowds accordingly rise appreciably.

GREEK ALLEYMEN SIGN MEETS WITH BIG TEN CHAPTERS

Pin Topplers Will Vie for Conference Honors—Arrange Fraternity and Intercollegiate Meets—Ohio State Designated Headquarters.

Inter-fraternity bowling among the Big Ten Universities has been established, and teams have been entered from twelve of the academic fraternities. Acacia, Alpha Delta Phi, Chi Psi, Sigma Nu, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Kappa Sigma, Phi Delta Theta and Zeta Psi will compete with their respective brothers in the conference for supremacy.

Traveling between the various universities will be dispensed with, and each fraternity will topple their own pins at home. On certain nights, to be decided later, each chapter of a fraternity will bowl and the results will be sent in immediately afterward to Ohio State University. The chapters will receive by telegraph the scores rolled by the others as soon as they are obtained, and the standings of each chapter will be determined. Besides deciding the maple championship among the chapters each fraternity will compete for the inter-fraternity crown.

GOPHER TRACKMEN PREPARE FOR BIG INDOOR SCHEDULE

Squad Reduced to Actual Candidates for Team—Speed Try-outs Held Each Day—Promising Material on Frank's List of Prospects.

Out of 120 original applicants, the varsity indoor track squad has been culled down to 72 men. This number is available material for the coming indoor meets, and more will be able to come out by the time the outdoor work begins.

This is an especially large number for the winter quarter and Coach Leonard Frank has plenty of material to work with. The men are enthusiastic and working faithfully to make the track squad. As a whole the practice group is not especially brilliant, but many men are surprising themselves and the coach by their ability thus far.

Track Hopes Bright

Every day sees Len Frank's protégés in all parts of the armory working out at their pet diversions. Strenuous practices were held Wednesday night and yesterday afternoon. Tonight actual competition will take place and each man will be given an opportunity to put his best ticks in the races. The results of tonight's workout will classify the men into branches where they are best suited, and will give the coach a fair idea of their speed.

The Gophers meet Northwestern at Evanston, Feb. 11, in the first conference indoor event. The Purple have a fair team this year, but the Gophers are confident of at least breaking even with them. January 21, the All-U indoor meet will be held here, and the Freshman-Sophomore meet will take place Feb. 18.

AT THE HENNEPIN

Pearl Regay, assisted by Ward De Wolf and the Rialto Versatile Five, will headline the new program which starts Sunday at The Hennepin, junior Arpheum. Jimmy Lucas, popular song writer, will present a travesty on the movie, "Vampires and Fools," assisted by Francene, Princess Kallama, "the Pavlova of Hawaii," in "Miss Hawaii Up to Date," is another prominent member on the bill. Other acts include Lynne and Smythe in "A Racey Conversation," Anderson and Graves in a novelty skit called "Living on Air," Norris' Baboons and Colles, the Minstrel Monarchs, and Will Gilbert and company in "The Masked Frolic." The headline picture for the week is "Hush Money" in which Alice Brady is the star.
