THE TROUBLE WITH OUR ATHLETICS.

A dozen alumni and students meeting unofficially yesterday in the Minnesota Union to consider the interests of Minnesota in the midst of the charges and countercharges made in connection with the athletic situation, made no recommendations. They did, however, after more than an hour of discussion reach an understanding.

First, the body decided against the issuance of a formal statement of their understanding of the case. It passed to the Minnesota Daily, as the official student publication, the duty of expressing their sentiments as probably representing student sentiment. The Minnesota Daily makes the following survey of the matter.

The petition which was circulated on the campus and around which the agitation rallied does not represent student opinion. In the first place it proceeds over the heads of the administration without reason or justification. The matter is one that can be settled on the campus and should be settled on the campus in fairness to the student body, the faculty, the administration and the people of the state.

Secondly, the charges of mismanagement, discrimination and opposition to the interests of athletics made against faculty members of the athletic board of control are without sound foundation. Further, the charges confuse the faculty members with the board of control and the management in several of the five assertions made. Therefore the petition in its entirety, including the avenue of approach which it suggested, is repudiated.

The friction in the athletic situation is held to be based upon misunderstanding, a lack of cooperation between athletic authorities and athletes and a failure of the athletic administration to seek such cooperation. The limited gymnasium and training facilities are held to irritate the situation and call for special understanding between the student body, particularly the athletes, and the administration of athletics.

The remedy suggested is joint consideration of the problem by student representatives from every extensive student organization meeting with the President of the University or such a committee as he shall name, the student delegates where possible, to be the same as at the student-alumni meeting yesterday. Recognizing that the question is vital to student life and the name of the University of Minnesota, an early meeting of the group is suggested.

MAKING BOLSHIEVIKS.

Overcharging for the necessities of life has made more Bolshieviks than Americanization work can overcome with the expenditure of much energy. High prices in restaurants around the campus have done their share to create dissatisfaction in the student body and antagonism against business.

The Minnesota Daily through one of its representatives, started out to find out why pie sold for fifteen cents, coffee for ten cents, sandwiches for twenty and twenty-five cents around the campus while lunch rooms of the same calibre down town set prices at five to ten cents lower per article enumerated and paid from two to three times as much rent.

The first proprietor approached made a revelation. His prices were high to offset the loss from student dishonesty.

On an average of 20 students a day left his place of business with their checks in their pockets. They thought it was "smart" but it was plain dishonesty. For the first 16 days in January his losses from that "smart" trick amounted to an average of $10 a day.

That proprietor had to set his prices at a point to make up from the honest students for the clever dishonesty of the average 20.

There are several groups of students on the campus who stand ready to demand a reckoning of campus restaurants who take advantage of the lack of organization in the student body. They will investigate, display comparative menus and prices of downtown lunch rooms and the campus shops. They will lower the cost of living for the student body.

But those groups will not act until common honesty is demanded from the student by student opinion at the University of Minnesota.

Condemn the man who is making a collection of checks. Make him pay for his lunch. Then will prices come down.

CAUSE OF HONOR SYSTEM DISSATISFACTION

To the Editor of the Daily:

Doesn't the cause of the dissatisfaction with the honor system lie deeper than the particular instances where the system fails? Isn't the real trouble in a misunderstanding of the examination itself.

There are two possible purposes for giving an examination—either (1) so that the instructor may guarantee through the Registrar and Board of Regents to the world in general that the student has a certain knowledge of a subject, or (2) so that the instructor and student may know whether or not the latter is comprehending the work. In the first case the instructor has no right to base his decision on an honor system if that system has failed in a single instance. What are our degrees worth if they rest on the standard of veracity of our least honorable fellow student. In the second instance no system of honor or anything else is necessary. The examination is a privilege of direct contact with the instructor. If a student wishes to deceive himself as well as his instructor—for a short time—that is his affair. No amount of honor or police can prevent the self-deception of such an unscrupulous fool. There are, of course, many subjects in which at the end of the course the instructor can gauge his pupil only by examination. Such an examination should be policed. But in the great majority of cases, the instructor knows before the examination what grade the student deserves for the course. In such cases, final examinations are not only worthless, but they are harmful in that they emphasize a false ideal. Quizzes do help the student to organize his work (generally) and are an incentive to study; but their purpose should be distinctly understood. And if it is necessary to police an exam, there is no reason why the instructor should be humiliated and embarrassed by such work. The guard duty should be performed by deputies from the registrar's office or some other body working under unified regulations.

Many of the faculty have voiced their disgust with the present final examination system. Why not have some action?

The cause of cheating in examinations lies not only in the pitiable weakness and unbalanced ideals of the dishonest student, but also in the archaic system of finals.

Pleasant Play Given By 'U' High Seniors

Through the efforts of Miss Inglis and Miss Deneen of the University High school, and Miss MacNaughton, an enjoyable program was presented Friday night at the Little theater by members of the senior class.

At times, showing traces of embarrassment, not the less enjoyable, or on the other hand, in the one-act play "Spreading the News," a tendency towards overdraw of character, the players and presentations were well chosen and highly acceptable.

In black-face, "Chuck" Burns "foiled" the efforts of Henry Williams in a Rastus-and-Sambo skit that drew applause. The second number, "The Seven Ages of Man," offered in tab-leau an enjoyable naturalness and sense of repose. In the musical numbers, "Charming Weather," and "Sympathy," Miss Frances McLean and Reginald Forster scored. The fourth offering of the program brought a surprise in the per of piquant Myrtice Matchitt. Leading in a Dutch folk-dance, she won the hearts of an appreciative audience. An Irish country, "goss" play in one act was the main 2:10 o. the evening. For a few moments, an Irish "wake" lay in the path of possibilities, but the story solved itself well, with damage to no one.

Attention is directed to the commendable work of Oliver Skalbeck and Reginald Forster. In a simple and rather engaging manner, Arndis Lundberg read pleasingly "The Day of Judgment," a child story. The last number, "Hawaiian Melodies," sung in costume by a mixed group, including a "Hula," danced by Ruth Eckles, was well received, the song of the male quartet being three times called back.

American countries receive Americans who come there to direct various enterprises with the most cordial welcome," said Mr. Ewald. "They are especially cordial in their reception of the training that organization has been able to give the young men of those countries."

He pointed out the differences between the University life of Buenos Aires and the student life of American colleges. When Mr. Ewald first took charge of the direction of Y. M. C. A. work at the National University of the Argentine, the students there had no special mental and physical activity. The university itself even today trains only the intellect and adheres strictly to a college curriculum only. The Y. M. C. A. has introduced athletics and social activities among the students. It is now training them so that they will be able to take over the full direction of this new work as soon as possible.

Rev. E. C. Moore, Bethany Presbyterian Church, Points Out Seven-Fold Superiority of Christ. Speak Again This A. M.

ALL CREATED FOR HIS POWER—MOORE

Pastor Says "He Is Before All Things—All Things Were by Him Created and He Is Therefore Eternal."

Rev. E. H. Moore of the Bethany Presbyterian church, at chapel yesterday morning pointed out the seven-fold superiority of Christ to other beings and gods saying that none can have a better idea of the eternal being than to know the living Christ.

Seven Points Enumerated

Rev. Moore enumerated the following characteristics in which the superiority of preeminence of Christ is shown: first, Jesus is the image of the invisible God; second, He is the first born of all creation; third, He is the head of the body, the Church; fourth, Jesus is Divine; fifth, He is the first fruit of the resurrection; sixth, Christ is the express purpose of the image of God; seventh, Christ dwells all the fullness of God.

Put Christ First

"It was for His glory 'as well as by His person that all these things were created,' Rev. Moore stated. "He is before all things; He is the only begotten Son of God; all things were by Him created, and He is therefore eternal. If you cut the deity of Christ out of the Bible there is not enough left to maintain it. It has been the effort of Satan all these centuries to rob Jesus of His duty."

Rev. Moore will speak again this morning at chapel in the Little Theater.

University Club to Entertain at Dinner

Members of the Women's University Club will be entertained at a cafeteria dinner tonight at 6:00 o'clock in Shevlin hall.

A short business meeting will be held in the women's gymnasium following the dinner. This is the last opportunity for faculty women who are not fully paid up members to attend the meetings. Reduction of membership dues will be discussed with a possibility of amending the by-laws to that effect. All faculty women, whether members or not are urged to attend the meeting.

After the meeting an athletic party will be given in the women's gymnasium. Basketball, volley ball and other games will be played. Members who wish to take part in the games are requested to wear gymnasium or rubber soled shoes.

City Newspapers Give U Students Reporting Work

Practical work by journalism students in the city rooms of Minneapolis newspapers is a feature of the reporting course at the University of Minnesota under the direction of R. R. Barlow, instructor. Actual contact with the city desk of large dailies is a distinction which students in few universities can obtain.

After 12 weeks' class room practice in writing the students are sent down town once a week. Each student goes to the city editor, receives an assignment, covers it and returns to the office and writes it. A carbon copy is made for the instructor.

The courtesy of the Minneapolis city editors has made possible this method in training students at the University of Minnesota. Each city editor gives one or two assignments a day to students. Occasionally the student is sent out "on his own" to find a story. The assignments deal with worthwhile news and affords practical training, which work on the college daily does not. The competition to get good stories into print has been increased by the recent use of several stories with the students' names over them.

UNUSED UNIFORMS TO BE TURNED IN

Students having uniforms or other military property in their possession, who are not at present taking military drill, must turn this property in to the military department by Saturday, February 5, or their names will be turned over to the proper authorities for action. Uniforms will be received in room 103 Armory from 9:00 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Fraternity Bowling Enters Final Round

Closely Contested Matches Mark Semi-Finals of Bowling Tourney

Smashing the maples in big league style, showing a remarkable consistency, the Alpha Sigma Phi bowling team succeeded in defeating their rivals, the Acacias, in two straight bowling matches, thereby winning the right to roll the Kappa Sigs in the finals. The Kappa Sigs, on the other hand, won their way into the finals by taking a hard fought match from the Sigma Nu's two games to three.

In the Alpha Sig-Acacia match, the honors of the day go to N. P. Kiene of the Acacia team. Rolling as lead-off man for his team against Swanson, the star of the Alpha Sigs, he cracked the pins for a 236 in his first game and rolled an average of 216 for the afternoon. It is rumored that the Straightaway league will be trying to sign him up. Swanson, his opponent, also hit the pins for over a 200 average. The scores of the two games were 907-834 and 784-717. The Alpha Sigs in taking both matches clearly showed themselves the better team. They displayed a remarkable consistency.

Headed by Mack Jensen with a high game of 204, the Kappa Sigs took the Sigma Nu's into camp in an exceedingly close afternoon's work. For the losers, Lamitzen showed to a very good advantage. He had a high game of 204.

The Inter-fraternity bowling teams this year are rolling better than ever before. If the improvement keeps up, in a year or so it will take a mighty good team to defeat the Inter-fraternity champions. At the present time, it looks as if the Alpha Sigs will cop the cup for the second year in succession. This team is made up largely of veterans, who have been going great guns all year, and on the surface look to repeat. The Kappa Sigs, however, are far from discouraged by the impressive showing of the Alpha Sigs so far, and think that this is the time for the champions to slip. They declare themselves ready to take advantage of every opportunity offered. The Kappa Sigs defeated the Sigma Nu's 730-792, 770-750, 770-660.

A close battle is expected with the Hell Cats who have made a very favorable showing so far.

Newswriting is New Extension Division Course

Professor Barlow Is Director of Journalism Study for Second Semester of Evening Classes. Work Is Practical

Newspaper writing will make up the second semester course of the extension division of the university which started yesterday. Professor R. R. Barlow will conduct the course during the next six weeks of the extension semester.

Practical work, at downtown publications, will be one of the most interesting features of the course. The program will include essential phases of newspaper reporting, being devoted to the study of simple news stories, special writing, and features.

The lectures will pay attention to the practical side of reporting first, creating the theory of the profession as a side issue, thus making the course of more interest and value to those desiring practical instruction.

Classes are held every Tuesday evening from 7:30 to 9:30 in room 2 Folwell, not in 321 as previously announced. There is room for more students in the course, it is announced.

CHAPERONES STRIKE

Refusal of chaperones to act at university parties, because they cannot countenance the mode of dancing and because they do not like to reprimand couples on the floor, is making it almost impossible to obtain chaperones at university affairs at the University of Iowa.
