Union Set to Decide on Notice of Strike Action

By Steve Alnes

A decision on whether to file a strike notice against the University may come from a meeting of the Public Building Service Employees union at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Labor temple.

The union got a pay raise from the last session of the state legislature; now it wants that raise to be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1947.

Meanwhile, Hedwin C. Anderson, director of University civil service personnel, yesterday brought out a copy of the Jan. 10 agreement between the University and the union in answer to statements made Wednesday by Norman Carle, business agent for the union.

Carle said, "We expect the University to do what it agrees to do, just like any other employer."

According to the copy produced by Anderson, the University has done what it agreed to do.

Here's what the copy says:

The minimum wage will be raised from $110 a month to $125 a month.

This increase will be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1947.

These two steps will be taken if the legislature puts up enough money to provide for them.

The legislature did not okay the retroactive provision. According to this copy then, the University does not have to make retroactive payments.

However, the legislature did raise the minimum wage; in fact, it raised it $5 more than the Regents had asked.

Now, according to William T. Middlebrook, business vice president of the University, this extra $5 will, during the next two years of the University's fiscal period, make up for the money the union lost when the legislature refused to pay for retroactive pay.

He says that extra money will in all cases equal the retroactive pay loss and in most cases will exceed it.

Turning to another point of the battle—that of University autonomy—Carle still maintains that the University doesn't have to depend on the legislature in a case like this; that it is its own boss.

According to the state attorney general's office, he is right. The original Regents' mandate issued by the state in 1851 gives the University autonomy, and two state supreme court decisions—the Chase and the Fanning cases say the same thing.

Regents to Meet In Duluth Today

The Board of Regents will get a look at the University of Minnesota, Duluth branch, formerly Duluth State Teachers college, today when they travel to the hillside school for their regular meeting.

Meeting in Tweed hall at 10:30 a.m., the Regents will be the guests of Regent Richard L. Griggs of Duluth.

The Duluth school became part of the University July 1 when recent action of the state legislature, the state teachers college board and the Regents went into effect.

Oklahoma U Prof to Give 3 Talks Here

E. E. Dale, a former cowboy who's now teaching at the University of Oklahoma, will ride herd on the American Studies program on campus next week with a series of three lectures on Western culture.

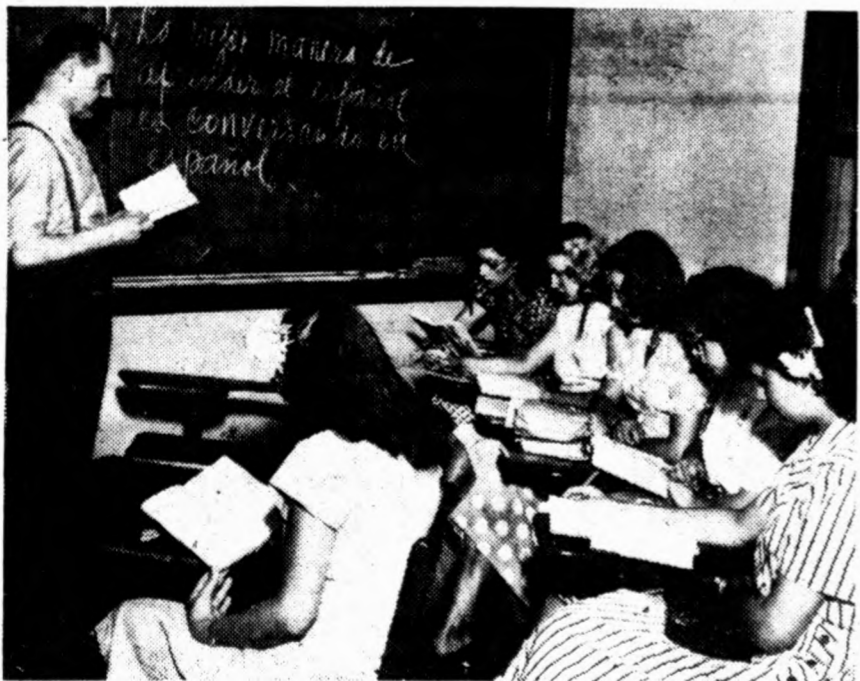

These are scheduled for 3 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in Murphy hall auditorium. The first will be on "Pioneer Speech;" Tuesday, "Culture on the Frontier;" Wednesday, "Frontier Humor."

Professor Dale won his spurs—and degree—at Harvard. According to Tremaine McDowell, professor of English, Dale is the darling of the country's historians; and at conventions, they crowd his hotel room to hear him spin yarns.

On the more serious side, Professor Dale has made a study of the West in social and historical terms. But he hasn't forgotten the western folk songs and tales, with which he regales his class and lecture audiences.

Pan-American House Sought Institute Head Asks Spanish Center

OR, "THE BEST WAY to learn Spanish is to speak it." That's the translation of the message on the blackboard which James A. Cuneo, assistant professor of Romance languages, is trying to impress on his class. Professor Cuneo is the man behind the University's Spanish institute which will be in session until July 25.

Drama Review

'Squaring the Circle' Called Feeble Fare

By Charles Dell Miller

Pretty feeble fare for an American audience is the University Theater's presentation of the Russian play, "Squaring the Circle," now playing in the Music auditorium.

Dealing with an embarrassing situation when two comrades marry and are forced to share the same room, the play appears to be Russian author Kataev's impression of an American's impression of socialized marriage in Russia.

KUOM to Mark Invasion of China

A special KUOM radio show will mark the tenth anniversary of the invasion of China by Japan when the University Radio guild will present "Dragon Seed" at 7 p.m. today over KUOM.

This heroic story of the joys and troubles of a Chinese family, and a young man and his intelligent wife in particular, is one of a series of intercultural plays being presented by the guild during the Summer Drama festival.

James A. Cuneo, director of the Institute of Spanish-American culture, which is now swinging along in its fourth week, is seeking support for a Pan-American house at the University.

"I am sure such a center would not only pay its own way but show a profit," the founder of the institute said yesterday.

"There is now no Spanish-speaking center where the students live. I would arrange it so that our American students would have foreign students as roommates."

Founded in 1942 and interrupted for the last two years, the institute will close July 25. Day students attend five times a week from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The Institute program, in which 50 are enrolled this year, seeks to give Americans an idea of the history, geography, literature, customs and traditions both of Spain and of their Latin-American neighbors. Spanish-American songs, games and dances are also taught.

Every Wednesday from 7 to 10 p.m. a midweek fiesta is held in the Union which is open to everybody on campus. Next week, the tango and samba will be taught. Also, a movie and three plays, all in Spanish, will be given.

The Sun Was Hot But Warner Had Rhythm He Sang His Songs The Crowd Sang With'm

By Edith Seidel

Oh, I went to Convocation with no banjo on my knee;

It was just a staff assignment—pretty dull for me.

No, Frank Warner! Don't you sing to me.

For the day is hot and sultry; you don't mean a thing to me.

There's not much fun connected with hard labor in the summertime, particularly a Minnesota summertime. But before Convocation was out yesterday, balladeer Frank Warner had his audience pretending they were cotton pickers, lumberjacks, gandy dancers and canal boatmen.

Looking more like a well-tailored utilities man than someone who had combed the Southern hills for American folk songs, Warner cocked his foot on a chair, rested a homemade guitar on his knee and spun yarns and sang songs.

Warner spurns hillbilly music. He brushes it off as "cultivated corn," and sticks to his genuine love of old American folk tunes. In these songs, which still survive in the South and in parts of

New England, Warner finds American socio-economic history reflected.

"These songs built our railroads, planted our crops and dug our canals," he asserts.

He sang several work songs, beckoning the audience to come in on the chorus. It did so with vim on the tragic lament of the Erie canal boatman who sang, "The Erie is rising, and the gin is gettin' low."

But for a lumberman's song, Warner had to take one from New England, not from the Paul Bunyan country.

Not all the folk songs of the Upper Midwest have been collected; Warner sternly reported, "Of the 30,000 folk songs in the library of congress, only one is from Minnesota."

Oh, I went to Convocation with no banjo on my knee,

But I stayed and liked it plenty—sounded awful good to me!

Oh, Frank Warner, you can sing for me;

Even on a sultry day, your swing's the swing for me!

AVC Acts on Crime Problem

Resolution Passed To Form Committee

Communism reared its head at the AVC membership meeting yesterday—both from the floor and the guest speaker—but so did juvenile delinquency.

And the positive action came on the crime problem. A resolution was passed, almost unanimously, to form a committee to work with Minneapolis city police on the issue.

Some members opposed the move because they said they believed that additional committees would divert AVC from more pressing things like the housing shortage.

An amendment to the bylaws was read which stated, in effect: "Because communists, fascists and all other groups favoring the overthrow of the government by force are unfavorable to AVC policy, the campus chapter will do all in its power to prevent those groups from using AVC as a sounding board for their beliefs."

Action will be taken on the amendment at the next meeting.

Guest speaker Averell Berman, University graduate in political science and now a California radio commentator, reported on last fall's Hollywood studio strike.

He also said that one of the major problems confronting American liberals is the "great American fixation—that typically American complex whereby anything which is even faintly tinged with communistic philosophies is immediately considered wrong.

"Instead of the liberal movement expending so much energy in anti-communistic talk, it should work, if necessary with communists in promoting its ideals."

Another resolution was passed opposing the loyalty clause in the Meade subsistence bill in congress.

The clause would prevent veterans from getting subsistence because of anti-democratic beliefs.

Bill Aberman, chapter vice chairman, said, "We believe that subsistence restrictions should not be placed on any veteran who fought for his country."

The chapter also scheduled an outing for 50 underprivileged children within the next three weeks.

It's OK, Fellers, Come on Over!

Ever had an urge to wander around the forbidden floors of Comstock hall, fellas? Wanna see how the girls kill an afternoon? Drop on next Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. and take a gander.

It's another of the Comstock "open, open" houses. Guests will be allowed to roam about with only slight restrictions. And as if that weren't enough fun, refreshments will be served in the west ground lounge.

Veterans' Notices

Amended Letters of Eligibility
A veterans administration ruling calls for amended certificates of eligibility for all students enrolled under Public Law 346 (GI bill) who may be receiving a baccalaureate degree at the close of any quarter, and who may expect to continue advanced training either in the Graduate school or in any other college. Students receiving a baccalaureate degree who are now in dentistry, medicine and law, and whose objective is actually an advanced degree in their respective colleges, are excepted from this ruling. All other veterans must fill out form 1908 signifying interruption of training and apply immediately for a new letter of eligibility entitling them to subsistence, tuition and supplies in the advanced training for which they desire to enroll.

Veterans enrolled on main campus should clear this matter through the bureau of veterans affairs, Shevlin hall. Students enrolled in the College of Agriculture, Forestry and Home Economics should clear through the Ag campus office of the bureau of veterans affairs, 207 Administration building, Ag campus.

Subsistence Questions
Two veterans administration representatives will be available to answer questions on subsistence Thursday and Friday, July 10 and 11. Hours will be from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in room 4 Shevlin hall.

Main campus undergraduate veterans who will complete course work this session, but who will be unable to graduate this session, should see Mr. Coughlin at the bureau of veterans affairs, room 12 Shevlin hall.

Ag campus veterans should see Mr. Kulstad, room 207, Administration building, Ag campus.

Stanley J. Wenberg, Director, Bureau of Veterans Affairs.

Russia Can't Fight
Now, Visitor Says

Fears of immediate war with Russia are unfounded. That's the opinion of a former Russian prince and authority on European politics who's a guest lecturer here this summer.

Andrei Lobanov-Rostovsky, professor of history at the University of Michigan, says that Russia's big problem of the moment is reconstruction.

"It isn't possible for her to fight until reconstruction is completed."

He shrugged and said, "It might be seven; it might be 15 years; I don't know."

And about Russian Communism: "In theory it is still Marxism, but in practice it combines Marxism and state socialism."

Also he says that the Soviet regime has changed from the days of the revolution by adding certain factors.

"Popular demand has brought about the return of the church, and titles once more appear in textbooks."

Lobanov-Rostovsky was in Petrograd at the time of the revolution. The fact that he survived without injury proves, he contends, that the violence of the attacking proletariat was directed at the moneyed class and not at the nobility.

He left Russia in 1917 for Macedonia before purges were directed at the nobility.

He says he doesn't consider returning to Russia.

"Russia and Asia" and "The Grinding Mill" are two of his books that record his experiences and impressions of the Russian scene.

Only one of the three teams of University students in the Aquatennial canoe derby was still in the race yesterday.

Injuries to both canoes and contestants forced the other two teams to drop out.

Willard S. Robbins and Vernon Knutson make up the student team that's still in the thick of the paddling which will take them down the 450-mile race on the Mississippi river in quest of the $500 first prize.

The team of Jack and Scott Prescott withdrew when Jack suffered a sore shoulder. Lawrence Moran and Wayne Carlson also retired from the derby when their canoe took in too much water.

Moran and Carlson placed fifth in the pre-derby sprint Tuesday at Bemidji.

No-hitter, One-hitter In Same Ball Game

Two softball pitchers, one pitching a no-hitter and the other allowing only one hit, battled each other for eight scoreless innings Tuesday night to steal the opening week spotlight of the softball tournament.

The game, between Alpha Kappa Psi and Pioneer Pipers, had to be called at the end of eight innings because of darkness.

Pitching no-hit ball for the Pipers was Howard Salstrom. Pitching for Alpha Kappa Psi and allowing one hit was Lowell Barton.

Let Us Spray

If You're Itchin' For a Solution...

A friend in deed is a friend who is immune to poison ivy, according to A. H. Larson, assistant professor of agricultural botany.

For the best method of getting rid of the common poison ivy plants is to get someone who is immune to pull it up for you by the roots.

Those guys are too rare, though, Larson says, so the next best thing is to spray the ivy.

'Go Northwest Young Farmer'

AMES, IOWA. — (ACP) — Go northwest, young farmer, Dr. C. E. Kellogg, of the United States department of agriculture, recently said here. "The possibilities are unlimited there."

"Prices are high and hardships are great," he said, "but a farmer's income is even greater. "Alaska needs a large agricultural university to take advantage of the opportunities," he added.
