Filing for four $50 scholarships, to be awarded by the Panhellenic council opens today and will continue until 4:30 p.m. January 17, Arline Steiner, Panhellenic scholarship chairman, announced yesterday.

Scholarships will be awarded to both sorority and non-sorority coeds. Requirements for eligibility are a 1.5 honor point ratio or higher, a worthwhile contribution to University life and a definite need.

Application blanks may be obtained in the office of the dean of students. They must be filled out in duplicate and should be placed in Postoffice box 4266. A letter of recommendation from a faculty member must accompany the application.

The committee, which will select the winners, will be composed of Dorothy McNeill, Panhellenic president; George B. Risty, director of the Bureau of Student Loans and Scholarships; Barbara Clark, assistant director of student activities, Miss Steiner and one other member of Panhellenic.

The awards will be announced at an all-sorority dinner to be held January 22.

Center Conducting 9-Day Med Course For Librarians

The Center for Continuation Study is now conducting a nine-day training course for medical record librarians.

The course includes discussions of the management of medical libraries and the nomenclature of various diseases and operations.

Anatomy and pathology, according to standard nomenclature, of the various types of diseases covered will be given by W. A. O'Brien, director of post graduate medical education.

Those enrolled in the course will see a medical library in action when they visit the Fairview hospital tomorrow afternoon.

The course was started last Saturday, and will continue through next Sunday.

Vet Bureau Aids 300

The new University Bureau of Veterans' Affairs, under the leadership of Leigh H. Harden, has already gone into action at its offices in 201-203 Eddy hall.

The total number of students under this plan has risen to nearly 300, with even more planning to enter at the start of spring quarter.

Books and supplies, required by professors of the veterans' various classes, can be purchased through the use of a voucher, comprised of six colored forms. These are issued to each veteran in carbon copies, to be presented to bookstore managers in exchange for the materials.

"Rehabilitation students are assigned an employment objective by the office of the Veterans' Administration," Mr. Harden said yesterday, "while students under the G I bill are free to choose any course, continuing as long as their service record entitles them." Thus the students under Veterans' Rehabilitation have their course of study already planned, while G I students proceed much as do civilians.

The long line of students awaiting assistance bears witness to the popularity of the new bureau.

Already a few ex-WAVES and at least one ex-WAC are enrolled under the veteran benefit plan.

War Cost Equally Shared by All, Dr. Yoder Asks

"The real question in the Little Steel formula dispute is not whether it should be maintained, but rather whether the cost of the war is being equally shared by all types of American citizens," Dr. Dale Yoder, professor of economics and industrial relations and public member of the regional war labor board, declared last night at the Minneapolis Town Meeting at Benton hall of the YWCA.

Subject of the meeting was "Should the Little Steel Formula be Maintained?"

Other special guests at the meeting were Sander Genis, president of the state CIO council; Ralph Ahlstrom, social science teacher, Edison high school; and Leslie Hill, director of wage, hour and public contracts division, U. S. Department of labor.

Dr. Yoder asked if labor was being called upon to sacrifice more in the war against inflation than its proper share. Mr. Genis contended that it was, while Mr. Ahlstrom pointed out the hardships of the white collar class.

Dr. Yoder went on to say that most of the attackers of the Formula assume that it limits wages and earnings to a 15 per cent increase, which, the principal speaker contended, it does not.

"Neither wages nor earnings have been so limited," Dr. Yoder stated. "Actual increases in both have far exceeded the Little Steel allowance."

"I feel that the way to remove inequalities of sacrifice is to put curbs on excessive increases in other types of income," he concluded.

The meeting was then thrown open to the public for a half-hour discussion.

4 Latin-Americans Begin U Journalism

Three Latin-American newspapermen began work yesterday in the School of Journalism under the auspices of the Co-ordinator of Inter-American affairs, Washington, D. C.

They will be joined in a week or 10 days by a fourth journalist. Their study programs include senior college and graduate work in journalism, with supporting work in social studies. Following work in winter and spring terms, individuals in the group will make tours of sections of this country as guests of the CIAA.

The newspapermen now enrolled are Jorge Marti, assistant editor of "El Mundo," Havana, Cuba; Mario Bauche Garciadiego, former weekly newspaper publisher and now a reporter on "El Informador," Guadalajara, Mexico; and Gerardo Halley Mora, a writer for "El Paraguayo," Asuncion, Paraguay, and also a radio news commentator in his native city.

Mr. Marti, who is a graduate of the University of Havana, writes editorials as well as a daily column on international affairs for his newspaper.

Mrs. Marti, who accompanied her husband to Minneapolis, is enrolled in University classes in history, American literature, and Latin American culture.

The fourth journalist due to arrive shortly is Fernando Zenha Machado, editor of "A Gazeta," Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Mr. Bauche, who holds a law degree from the Autonomous University of Guadalajara, holds membership in a number of newspaper associations in Mexico. He taught journalism one year in the Institute of Sciences in his native city.

Among his writing assignments in Asuncion, Mr. Halley includes dramatic reviews and sports events.

Mr. Zenha has completed three years of work in the Sao Paulo university.

This is the first group of visiting Latin-American journalists to remain for study at the University, although last May and in October, the School of Journalism and other departments entertained delegations of newspapermen and women who were here for short visits.

Tunnel Closed; Students Froze

At 17:07 CWT yesterday, the mercury stood at -7 degrees Fahrenheit. The wind velocity was 13 m.p.h. NNW.

Several old veterans of campus life smiled to themselves as they descended the chilled iron steps of the street cars. They knew it was cold. They knew there was a tunnel joining the Continuation center garage with Folwell.

Hah. There were even some freshmen who heard about the tunnel from older brothers and sisters.

Hah. But by 18:00 CWT you couldn't tell their bodies apart. There they all were. A pitiful heap of blue, frost-coated corpses. One thin hand was still grasping the door knob to the tunnel.

News item: The tunnel between the Continuation center garage and the east end of the Folwell basement is closed.

Christmas Dip or Shoveling Coal

Andrus Too Busy for School

By Cynthia Brooks

T. O. (Rip) Andrus had to travel 20,000 miles, face dozens of disappointments and wander from vocation to vocation before he was able to become one of the best set designers in the Northwest. He is now technical director of the University Theater.

From a "spittin' distance" from Mexico where he was born in Gorman, Tex., he branched out to Louisiana State university, to Cuba shoveling coal on a tramp steamer, to California and back three times in a freight car, to Chicago where he was, he said, "jailed for the first time that far north" for swimming in Lake Michigan and then finally to Minnesota.

He found little time to attend school between trips—so little, in fact, that he was expelled from quite a few schools.

While he was at Louisiana State university he was for three years student assistant to the theater technician, and worked up to the position of full theater technician. He then came to the University of Minnesota, and although he graduated in 1940, he is still too busy to get his master of arts degree. "For instance," he drawled wryly, "take this playwrighting course I took last quarter. When the quarter was three-fourths over, I still had only one week's work done."

But Rip has a better excuse than most students for not doing his work. He is now, in addition to his job as technical director of the Theater, also teaching a three-quarter course in stagecraft, lighting and scene design and working as a teaching asstant in the department of speech and serving as adviser to Masquers, honorary dramatic organization.

To fill up his spare time he acts, having had parts in five plays recently and being scheduled to play Charles in "Junior Miss," which opens tomorrow.

To prove that the epithets "talented and versatile," especially the latter, are not always idle praise, here are some of the books in Rip's working library, the ones he keeps at school and uses constantly: "Elements of Physics," "Rugs and Carpets from the Orient," "A Handbook of Ornaments," "Logarithmic Tables" and "A History of Architecture."

Rip's description of his work illustrates his use of his library and his statement that "What a theater technician needs to know is unlimited."

"First," he began, "you must make a floor plan from the stage directions. Nearly every play will call for things in particular places, such as staircases, bookcases and doors; the rest of the set is built around these units. The next step," he went on, "is elevation, a model

Homemakers to Study Nutritional Practices

Up-to-date nutritional practices will receive special emphasis in the sessions arranged for homemakers during the University's Farm and Home week, January 16, 17, 18 and 19. A four-day program packed with information on all phases of homemaking has been planned for the women who attend.

Homemaking in Africa, as a special event on the program, will be discussed by Mrs. Esther Warner, who recently returned from Africa and is now instructor in home economics on the Ag campus. She will also exhibit articles brought from Africa.

Refresher classes will offer, in addition to nutritional information, material on home beautification, postwar improvement of farm homes and ways of simplifying home tasks. Wartime clothing problems will be discussed by University clothing specialists. For gardening enthusiasts there will be special sessions on ornamental horticulture, fruit growing and vegetable gardening.

The program on nutrition will include demonstrations of meat cooking, talks on enriched flour, vegetable cookery, nutrition research as it affects the homemaker

U Chorus Needs 2 Guitarists for February Concert

Earle G. Killeen, professor of music, is looking for two guitar players to accompany the University in its concert on February 9 in Northrop auditorium.

"We are doing five groups of songs, and one of them, the Latin-American one, needs some atmosphere," Mr. Killeen said yesterday. Any interested guitarist should see Mr. Killeen, 211 Music building.

The Chorus will present a group of songs which Bob Shaw, noted conductor of the Collegiate Chorale, directed when he was here last quarter, and also some that he didn't have time to do. Besides those two groups the Chorus will sing some Negro spirituals, a group of modern songs in the style of sixteenth century madrigals and a few of the tunes from "Babes in Toyland."

The first rehearsals of the University Chorus will be at 3:30 p.m. today for the women's chorus and 7 p.m. today for the mixed chorus. Both groups will meet in Northrop auditorium.

Gophers Upset Purdue, 49-44

Rucke Drops in 18; First Big Ten Win

By Jim Noyes

Gopher cagers broke the win precedent set by the Boiler-makers for the last two years by topping a hard-fought hardwood battle with Purdue last night in the Field house by 49-44.

Walt Rucke, who started for the first time against the Hawkeyes Saturday night, treated the fans to a phenomenal show of long range bucket plunking as he slipped seven field goals through the nets and sank all but one of five free throw chances for 18 total points.

Rucke, coming to the University in the middle of last quarter after receiving a medical discharge from military service, was ineligible for court service until last Friday when he passed an examination enabling him to enter sports activities.

He was noted at the Hawkeye game for his distance shots and that honorable mention was proved last night when he started the Gopher scoring with two arching scores from the sideline markers and followed through with another tally from under the basket.

Butz Lehrman tailed Rucke with a looping long one from just short of the jump spot to make the score 8-1, the Boiler-makers having netted on a free throw.

Kleggie Hermesen moved in right after Lehrman to make an over-hand swing which added two more points for the Gopher five. Purdue filtered through the Gopher defense to chalk up a field goal, Billy Gosewehr tallying. Paul Hoffman, Boiler-maker's high scorer, flipped the ball from the sidelines near the Gopher basket all the way down the floor to catch the Gophers flat-footed, while Anderson received it and plunked in another one for the Boiler-makers.

Hoffman delivered several distance passes to his cohorts during the first period. He leapt high over the sidelines, passed while still in the air, and came down outside while the Gophers tried to defend the goal from his intended receiver.

The half ended with the score 27-23 for the Minnesota five, after tallies had been added by Rucke, Lehrman, Haag, Gosewehr, Elliott and Hermesen.

The second period was a hard fought battle for both teams with the Gophers fighting to keep the lead and the Purdue quint trying desperately to top them.

With 56 seconds until the final gun, the score stood at 46 for the Gophers and 40 counts for the opposition. Butz Lehrman's cool hand took over to sink a basket, with the aid of Holmberg and Rucke on offense and Joe Knoblauch on defense, held Purdue in tow until the final gun.

Second Untried vs. Grapplers—Indiana

For the second time in two weeks, the Gopher wrestling team will be pitted against an entirely unknown quantity when it meets the Indiana grappling squad at 2:15 p.m. Saturday in the Field house.

Last Saturday the unknown quantity of the Wisconsin Badger team didn't prove too much of a stumbling block in the path of Coach C. R. Osell's wrestlers as Minnesota ran over the Wisconsinites, 25-11.

But the Hoosiers may prove to be a "mystery" team of another variety, for last year they took second place in the Big Ten conference and, although it is not certain that they will be at the same strength they were last season, it is possible much of the club is intact.

On the other hand, Osell doesn't exactly plan on the Gophers being pushovers, for he termed the exhibition of the grapplers against Wisconsin as "very satisfactory."

He admitted that there were still a few inexperienced spots on the squad, but the Maroon and Gold will have the advantage over the Hoosiers of having one contest under their belts while it will be the first meet for Indiana.

Chief among Osell's men to lead the attack Saturday will be Rod Lister, who won his heavyweight bout last Saturday on a fall in only 51 seconds. He will head other victorious Gophers Dick Nelson in the 155-pound class, George Eastman at 135, John Jensen at 145 and Mel Baken at 115. Only Gophers Saturday to be defeated were Curt Fritz in the 128-pound division and Ivan Doseff at 175.

Carley Back for Michigan Game

With an impressive record in their first two games of the season, Coach Larry Armstrong's pucksters will begin their preparation for the Michigan tilt in earnest today.

And the Armstrongs will have Bob Carley back in service for this all-important game after the Saturday night scare that he wouldn't be able to continue for the season.

He was feared lost after Saturday's tussle, but latest reports from Armstrong tend to indicate that Carley will definitely play. He has a slight charley-horse, "but this," said Armstrong, "will not keep him out of this weekend's game."

After their overwhelming victory over the St. James Canadians on Friday evening, the Gophers came back Saturday night to show the fans that they were the masters over their northern rivals by shutting them out, 3-0.

The contest was fast from start to finish, with both goalies playing flawlessly in the first session to keep the stanza scoreless.

Carley, who scored twice in the contest, broke the deadlock in the second period on an assist by Jack Adams, sneaking one past goalie Gordie McMorland after skirting the Canadian net.

Al Van came back Saturday, although injured, and played all but a few minutes of the contest. His defensive play was again one of the mainstays of the Gopher back wall.

Jim Wild garnered Minnesota's second tally after taking a pass from Adams. Carley netted the final Gopher score by beating Mc-

Morland on a close-in knee high shot in the final session.

A game is being arranged for January 19 between either the Bermans or Honeywell of the City league, said Armstrong yesterday. The opponent has not yet been selected. However, the more likely team will be the Bermans sextet, who defeated the Honeywell outfit in last Sunday's opener, 3-1.

Turn in I-M Entries Today, Warning

All entries by fraternities for intramural basketball and bowling must be turned in to the intramural office, 203 Cooke hall, by 5 p.m. today, W. R. Smith, intramural director said.

This will facilitate scheduling of events for the winter quarter in both these activities.

Last quarter, several teams registered for the intramural contests too late really to get in the running for the championship playoff. At least one team was made ineligible, because of late entry, to play for the title contest.

Smith plans to have the fraternity basketball league schedule set so that some of the teams will be able to start competition tomorrow night.
